3514. The Closing Order charges the Accused with the crime of genocide by systematically killing members of the Vietnamese group, qualified as “an ethnic and national group, who may also have been considered as a racial group by the CPK”, with the intent to destroy, in whole or in part, the Vietnamese group as such.<sup>11821</sup> The Chamber is satisfied that the Vietnamese constituted a racial, national and ethnic group at the relevant time, and thus a protected group.<sup>11822</sup>

3515. The Chamber has found that a number of Vietnamese were among the victims of the crimes against humanity of murder and extermination at Au Kanseng Security Centre<sup>11823</sup> and S-21 Security Centre.<sup>11824</sup> The Chamber has also found that the crimes against humanity of murder and extermination of Vietnamese are established in Svay Rieng in 1978, in Kampong Chhnang in 1977, Wat Khsach in late 1978 and Kratie in September 1978, as well as on DK waters after April or May 1977 at Ou Chheu Teal port and on 19 March 1978.<sup>11825</sup>

3516. The Chamber finds that these killings were systematically organised and directed against the Vietnamese. The Chamber is satisfied that, in each case, Vietnamese were targeted not as individuals but on the basis of their membership in the group. Vietnamese were arrested and detained before disappearing in Svay Rieng because of their perceived ethnicity, boats were targeted on DK waters because they were identified as being Vietnamese, and as a result Vietnamese civilians were killed, and Vietnamese in Kampong Chhnang, Wat Khsach and Kratie, were specifically screened out and separated from non-Vietnamese individuals before being killed, thus showing that members of the group were deliberately killed on the basis of their group membership. The Chamber is therefore satisfied that the actus reus of the crime of genocide by killing is established.

<sup>11821</sup> Closing Order, paras 1343, 1345.

<sup>11822</sup> See above, para. 3419.

<sup>11823</sup> Section 12.4: Au Kanseng Security Centre, paras 2959, 2994-2999.

<sup>11824</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2560-2571.

<sup>11825</sup> See above, paras 3497, 3501.

3517. Turning to the mens rea, the Chamber has found that the CPK specifically targeted Vietnamese as a group, including civilians, throughout the DK period.<sup>11826</sup> In particular, it has found that POL Pot's "One against 30 policy" specifically targeted Vietnamese armed forces as well as civilians.<sup>11827</sup> The Accused were found to have lectured at or attended political training sessions at which the Vietnamese or Vietnamese "agents" were labelled as enemies.<sup>11828</sup> KHIEU Samphan repeatedly and publicly referred to Vietnam in inflammatory terms,<sup>11829</sup> and NUON Chea publicly stated that the Cambodian people and RAK had "crushed the Vietnamese strategy of 'Indochina Federation' aiming at swallowing the Kampuchea's territory and exterminating the [sic] Kampuchea's race".<sup>11830</sup> The Chamber was further satisfied that the Vietnamese were identified by the CPK through the creation of lists,<sup>11831</sup> and that mixed families were targeted on the basis of matrilineal ethnicity.<sup>11832</sup>

3518. The Chamber finds that CPK internally and publicly targeted the Vietnamese as a group through contemporaneous documents and speeches identifying them as "poisonous foreigners" from the early stages of the DK regime and calling for their expulsion from Cambodia until late 1976, as well as, from April 1977, their destruction;<sup>11833</sup> through the creation of lists and following a matrilineal policy designed to "dig up the roots" of the Vietnamese,<sup>11834</sup> and that these instructions were disseminated widely. The Chamber is satisfied that the actions of the physical perpetrators in the above instances of killings demonstrate the specific intent to destroy the Vietnamese group, as such. The Chamber is therefore satisfied that the mens rea of the crime of genocide by killing is established.

3519. In light of the above, the Chamber finds that the crime of genocide by killing members of the Vietnamese group is established.

<sup>11826</sup> See above, para. 3416. See also, Section 12.1: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2167-2168, 2174-2175.

<sup>11827</sup> See above, paras 3377-3381.

<sup>11828</sup> See above, fn. 11436.

<sup>11829</sup> See above, paras 3385, 3390, 3391, 3396.

<sup>11830</sup> IENG Sary Speech, E3/199, 3 September 1978, p. 4, ERN (En) 00065915.

<sup>11831</sup> See above, para. 3497.

<sup>11832</sup> See above, para. 3501.

<sup>11833</sup> See above, para. 3416.

<sup>11834</sup> See above, paras 3425, 3428.

13.4. Treatment of Former Khmer Republic Officials*13.4.1. Closing Order

3520. The Closing Order charges the Accused with the crimes against humanity of humanity of persecution on political grounds and other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced transfer with respect to former officials of the Khmer Republic (including both civil servants and military personnel) and their families.<sup>11835</sup> The Closing Order finds that one of the five CPK policies used to implement and defend the CPK socialist revolution was to target this group, and that former officials were identified as “enemies” based on their real or perceived political beliefs.<sup>11836</sup> It charges that this policy came into existence before 1975 and continued until at least 6 January 1979.<sup>11837</sup> The Closing Order further specifies that the policy began with public declarations of intent to execute senior Khmer Republic figures in February 1975, followed by a secret decision to kill members of the Khmer Republic elite after 17 April 1975 in order to “make it impossible for them to stage a counter-revolutionary comeback”.<sup>11838</sup>

13.4.2. Findings

3521. Pursuant to the Case 002 Additional Severance Decision, the Chamber is limited to considering the implementation of this policy through the crime against humanity of persecution on political grounds<sup>11839</sup> at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, 1st January Dam Worksite, S-21 Security Centre and Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre.<sup>11840</sup> As such, the Chamber’s factual and legal findings regarding the treatment of former Khmer Republic officials (including both civil servants and military personnel) and their families are discussed in the sections of each respective crime site.<sup>11841</sup>

---

<sup>11835</sup> Closing Order, paras 1417, 1424, 1468.

<sup>11836</sup> Closing Order, paras 156-158, 205-206, 208-209, 1417.

<sup>11837</sup> Closing Order, paras 158, 208.

<sup>11838</sup> Closing Order, para. 208.

<sup>11839</sup> The Chamber limited the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced transfer to Phase Two of the Movement of Population, which itself was further limited to the treatment of the Cham. See Case 002 Additional Severance Decision Annex, para. 5(ii)(b)(13).

<sup>11840</sup> Annex I: Procedural History, paras 15-16.

<sup>11841</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives; Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite; Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre; Section 12.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre. See also, Section 16.4.3.4: Common Purpose: Targeting of Specific Groups: Former Khmer Republic Officials.

14. REGULATION OF MARRIAGE

14.1. Closing Order

3522. According to the Closing Order, the Regulation of Marriage was one of five CPK policies designed and implemented to achieve a socialist revolution in Cambodia and defend the CPK against internal and external enemies by whatever means necessary. The Closing Order charges that the CPK started forcing people to marry as early as 1974 and continued with this practice until at least 6 January 1979. It further charges that people were forced to marry throughout the territory of Cambodia.<sup>11842</sup>

3523. The Closing Order states that the objectives of this policy included: controlling interaction between individuals, in that they were permitted to marry and have sexual relations only in accordance with CPK policy; reconstructing the concept of marriage, in order for “the CPK to replace the role of parents and to enable the mothers to go to work”; “increasing population growth” and “building up a family”. The objective of this policy “was achieved by matching people with similar political status and marrying soldiers.” The Closing Order further states that marriage was a key means by which the CPK did “whatever can be done that is a gain for the revolution”.<sup>11843</sup>

3524. In relation to Case 002/02, the Accused are charged with the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced marriage, nationwide, as well as at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam and 1st January Dam Worksites. The Accused are also charged with the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as rape within the context of forced marriage.<sup>11844</sup>

3525. The Chamber has noted above that the term “forced marriage” has been used in international jurisprudence to cover a range of different factual circumstances and that

---

<sup>11842</sup> Closing Order, paras 156-157, 216, 218.

<sup>11843</sup> Closing Order, para. 217.

<sup>11844</sup> Closing Order, paras 1426-1433, 1442-1447; Decision on NUON Chea and IENG Thirith Appeal Against the Closing Order (PTC), D427/3/12, 13 January 2011, para. 11(2); Decision on Nuon Chea and Ieng Thirith Appeal Against the Closing Order (PTC), D427/3/15, 15 February 2011, paras 149-166.]. See also, Section 2.5.6.7.2: Facts Allegedly Outside of the Scope of the Indictment: Rape Outside the Context of Forced Marriage.

there is no common understanding of this label.<sup>11845</sup> Accordingly, the Chamber will not make any findings with respect to the existence of “forced marriage”, as such. It will instead determine whether the conduct underlying the Closing Order’s findings of “forced marriage” has been established and whether this conduct rises to the level of other inhumane acts.

14.2. Preliminary Issues and General Considerations

14.2.1. Evidence of Witnesses, Civil Parties and Experts

3526. During the Regulation of Marriage trial segment, the Chamber heard two witnesses and nine Civil Parties on the facts, three Civil Parties on harm suffered and two experts in relation to their knowledge or expertise relevant to this trial topic.<sup>11846</sup> The Chamber notes that during the course of the whole trial, some witnesses and Civil Parties who were called for and heard during other trial topics also gave evidence on the Regulation of Marriage.

14.2.1.1. Challenges to the Evidence of Civil Parties

3527. Both the NUON Chea Defence and the KHIEU Samphan Defence raise a number of challenges with respect to the evidence given by the Civil Parties. The KHIEU Samphan Defence submits that the consolidated representation of Civil Parties may have affected the substance of their answers, consciously or not, because of the gathering of Civil Parties in group meetings where accounts of individual experiences were shared.<sup>11847</sup> The KHIEU Samphan Defence further raises challenges to the evidence of the Civil Parties on the basis that their answers varied over time and incriminating evidence was often only included later in the proceedings.<sup>11848</sup> Similarly, the NUON Chea Defence submits that certain in-court testimonies were “drastically different or exaggerated” compared to information appearing in Civil Party

<sup>11845</sup> Section 9.1.8.3: Applicable Law: Crimes Against Humanity: Other Inhumane Acts: Forced Marriage, paras 743-747.

<sup>11846</sup> Final List of Witnesses Civil Parties and Experts, E454.1, 27 December 2016, ERN (En) 01369547-01369548. See also, Decision on Designation of 2-TCE-82, E431, 23 August 2016; Decision on Designation of 2-TCE-81, E433, 30 August 2016.

<sup>11847</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, para. 2324.

<sup>11848</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, paras 2325-2328.

Applications.<sup>11849</sup> It further submits that the Civil Parties’ exposure to “Tuol Sleng exhibits, documentaries or civil society” impacts the reliability of their evidence.<sup>11850</sup> 3528. The Chamber recalls that due to their special status, Civil Parties are not required to take an oath.<sup>11851</sup> This does not give rise to any presumption that their evidence is unreliable. As noted in the Introductory and Preliminary Issues section, the Chamber will assess the credibility and reliability of Civil Parties on a case-by-case basis in light of the credibility of the evidence and in consideration of factors such as the demeanour of the person giving evidence, consistencies and inconsistencies in relation to material facts, possible ulterior motivations, corroboration and all the circumstances of the case.<sup>11852</sup> With respect to Civil Party Applications, the Chamber recalls that these are not created by a judicial entity and are accordingly not accorded a presumption of reliability. They are accorded little, if any, probative value. The Chamber accordingly will place greater weight on Civil Parties’ in-court statements than on their Civil Party Applications.<sup>11853</sup> As to specific challenges to the evidence of particular Civil Parties, the Chamber will address these in the relevant section of its factual finding.

14.2.1.2. Evidence of Experts Peg LEVINE and Kasumi NAKAGAWA

3529. The NUON Chea Defence submits that Expert Peg LEVINE is mostly credible and reliable, though her evidence should be considered in context due to the small population sample of her study. The NUON Chea Defence further submits that her study on “Weddings, Births, and Ritual Harm under the Khmer Rouge” followed strict methodology, with impartial sample selection and transparent sources.<sup>11854</sup> Additionally, the NUON Chea Defence submits that during her testimony, Peg LEVINE was very cautious regarding the scope of her study, the evidence provided and in relation to the existence and pressure of “the dominant western perspective”, which perceives marriage as taking place in a certain way and under certain circumstances.<sup>11855</sup> The KHIEU Samphan Defence submits that Peg LEVINE’s

<sup>11849</sup> NUON Chea Closing Brief, para. 1145.

<sup>11850</sup> NUON Chea Closing Brief, para. 1146.

<sup>11851</sup> Section 2: Preliminary Issues, para. 49.

<sup>11852</sup> Section 2: Preliminary Issues, para. 49.

<sup>11853</sup> Section 2: Preliminary Issues, para. 73.

<sup>11854</sup> NUON Chea Closing Brief, para. 1149.

<sup>11855</sup> T. 19 Jun 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/524.1, p. 103. See also, NUON Chea Closing Brief, para. 1149.

testimony contained important information, including with respect to the prevailing cultural context in Cambodia before, during and after the DK period.<sup>11856</sup> The Co-Prosecutors do not challenge the credibility of this expert, but contest her conclusion that there was no forced marriage under the Democratic Kampuchea regime.<sup>11857</sup> The Co-Prosecutors submit that Peg LEVINE's view on the question of whether couples felt their marriages were forced was not complete because, by her own admission, she did not ask her interviewees this question.<sup>11858</sup> The Co-Prosecutors further submit that in spite of the rather inexplicable logic behind this expert's approach, information provided by the respondents in Peg LEVINE's study confirmed that people were coerced into marrying against their wills.<sup>11859</sup> The Lead Co-Lawyers do not make any submission in relation to this expert.

3530. The Chamber recalls that Peg LEVINE was summonsed to testify as an expert during the trial topic on the Regulation of Marriage because of her specialised knowledge on and extensive research experience with "Weddings, Births and Ritual Harm Under the Khmer Rouge".<sup>11860</sup> As an expert, her role was limited to assisting the Chamber in understanding, assessing or corroborating the first-hand evidence heard during the trial.<sup>11861</sup> Peg LEVINE testified that her formal academic research in relation to marriages under the Democratic Kampuchea regime was conducted in the context of her second doctorate, which was later published as a book. The research involved 192 respondents, including 11 couples and a random selection of 170 persons, from 18 different regions in Cambodia.<sup>11862</sup> The expert attempted to discover the "emic" rather than the "etic" views of her respondents. In order to maintain objectivity, she was required to disassociate from her views of love and partnership.<sup>11863</sup> The expert attempted to then ask questions and focus on the "bond" between people rather than relying necessarily on the question of force or on western notions of love, which are a

<sup>11856</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, para. 2329.

<sup>11857</sup> Co-Prosecutors' Closing Brief, para. 610.

<sup>11858</sup> T. 14 June 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/521.1, p. 94. See also, Co-Prosecutors' Closing Brief, para. 610.

<sup>11859</sup> Co-Prosecutors' Closing Brief, para. 610.

<sup>11860</sup> Decision on Designation of 2-TCE-81, E433, 30 August 2016, paras 11-12.

<sup>11861</sup> Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, para. 329.

<sup>11862</sup> NUON Chea Closing Brief, para. 1149; Thesis by P. Le Vine: A Contextual Study into Weddings and Births under the Khmer Rouge: The Ritual Revolution, E3/1794, 2007, p. 72, ERN (En) 00482504. See also, T. 10 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/480.1, pp. 25, 32, 47, 63-64.

<sup>11863</sup> T. 10 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/480.1, p. 67 (According to the expert, from an anthropological perspective, "emic" is the point of view from within the culture itself and "etic" is the point of view of looking at a culture as an outsider.).

part of her conception of partnership.<sup>11864</sup> She characterised the marriages under the Democratic Kampuchea regime as “conscription”,<sup>11865</sup> rather than being “forced”. In the context of marriage, conscription entailed being called up by Angkar to be married as part of one’s national duty or service.<sup>11866</sup> Peg LEVINE noted that many of her respondents described their weddings as though they were providing a service to the future of the country.<sup>11867</sup> She tied in the idea of “conscription” with the idea of “Angkar” and established a relationship between weddings and expressions of loyalty to Angkar.<sup>11868</sup> According to her, people attributed transformative powers to Angkar and, in that regard, Angkar was very unpredictable.<sup>11869</sup> The expert stated that men usually considered “Angkar to be a person who was associated with the Khmer Rouge”, whereas women considered Angkar as being “transformational forces”.<sup>11870</sup> She further stated that most people believed that Angkar was an “animist force”.<sup>11871</sup> The more one perceived Angkar to be a “transforming and destructive force that could come anytime, unpredictably, the more they were mute, the more they complied and the more they said yes”.<sup>11872</sup> Peg LEVINE concluded that people were not forced to marry during the DK regime.<sup>11873</sup> She further concluded that there was no policy on weddings at the beginning of the regime, although the structure of a policy in relation to wedding ceremonies and proceedings had developed by 1978.<sup>11874</sup>

3531. The Chamber is not bound by any opinion provided by Peg LEVINE or any other expert including with regard to the legal analysis of the facts in question. The Chamber notes that the material available to the expert was far more limited than the totality of evidence before it. Where the opinion of the expert is based on reasoning which contradicts the preponderance of the evidence before the Chamber – especially the contemporaneous documents concerning the CPK regulations of marriages and the

---

<sup>11864</sup> T. 10 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/480.1, p. 67.

<sup>11865</sup> T. 11 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/481.1, pp. 26, 36-38, 92.

<sup>11866</sup> T. 11 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/481.1, pp. 28, 38, 92.

<sup>11867</sup> T. 11 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/481.1, p. 35.

<sup>11868</sup> T. 11 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/481.1, p. 38.

<sup>11869</sup> T. 11 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/481.1, p. 53.

<sup>11870</sup> T. 11 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/481.1, pp. 53-54.

<sup>11871</sup> T. 11 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/481.1, p. 56.

<sup>11872</sup> T. 11 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/481.1, pp. 56-57.

<sup>11873</sup> T. 11 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/481.1, pp. 41-42.

<sup>11874</sup> T. 11 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/481.1, p. 45.

statements made in court by those who experienced marriage during the DK era – the Chamber will discard it as erroneous.

3532. In relation to expert Kasumi NAKAGAWA, the NUON Chea Defence submits that her evidence is mostly reliable but must be assessed with caution.<sup>11875</sup> Neither Defence team objects to the conclusions of this expert. The Co-Prosecutors and the Lead Co-Lawyers do not make any submission in relation to this expert.

3533. The Chamber recalls that Kasumi NAKAGAWA was appointed as an expert to testify in court in relation to the Regulation of Marriage trial topic because of her extensive work and research experience related to this topic.<sup>11876</sup> The Chamber notes that Kasumi NAKAGAWA followed a strict methodology in her research and demonstrated her specialised knowledge throughout her testimony in court. She conducted three research projects: “I want to tell you – Stories of Sexual Violence during Democratic Kampuchea”;<sup>11877</sup> “Gender-Based Violence during the Khmer Rouge Regime – Stories of Survivors from the Democratic Kampuchea”;<sup>11878</sup> and “Motherhood at War”.<sup>11879</sup> She confirmed in court that the first two of her research projects were “biased” as they were shaped to document the stories of men and women who experienced sexual violence during the DK regime.<sup>11880</sup> However, her third research project was larger in size and was conducted randomly. While the initial focus of this research was to document women who had experienced pregnancy during the DK period, it evolved to encompass the story of marriages. The expert stated that this research was not biased.<sup>11881</sup> She concluded that she did not have enough evidence to say whether there was a policy from the top level to organise forced marriage as it was not part of her study.<sup>11882</sup> The expert distinguished between two types of marriage during the DK regime: authorised marriage, when “women who were willing to have husbands chosen by either their parents or the Khmer Rouge and they would have

<sup>11875</sup> NUON Chea Closing Brief, paras 1147-1148.

<sup>11876</sup> Decision on Designation of 2-TCE-82, E431, 23 August 2016.

<sup>11877</sup> Book by K. Nakagawa: “I want to tell you” – Stories of Sexual Violence during Democratic Kampuchea (1975-1979), E3/3416, 2007; T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 81.

<sup>11878</sup> Book by K. Nakagawa: Gender-Based Violence during the Khmer Rouge Regime – Stories of Survivors from the Democratic Kampuchea (1975-1979), E3/2959, December 2008; T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 81.

<sup>11879</sup> Book by K. Nakagawa: Motherhood at War, E3/10655, 2015; E1/472.1, p. 81.

<sup>11880</sup> T. 14 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/473.1, pp. 93-94, 96-97.

<sup>11881</sup> T. 14 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/473.1, pp. 97-98.

<sup>11882</sup> T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 93.

accepted those marriages”; and forced marriage, when “regardless of age or social status; if a person did not want to marry, but [was] forced or instructed by the Khmer Rouge”.<sup>11883</sup> In relation to the pattern of weddings, the expert concluded that by late 1977 to 1978, many mass weddings were organised among couples whose marriages fit the definition of being “forced”.<sup>11884</sup>

3534. Kasumi NAKAGAWA’s opinion was generally well reasoned and consistent. She demonstrated caution in reaching conclusions, limiting these to what she found in her research. The Chamber will evaluate her research findings accordingly, in the context of the evidence before it.

14.2.2. The Charge of Rape outside the Context of “Forced Marriage”

3535. The KHIEU Samphan Defence submits that the Chamber is seised of the crime of rape only in the context of forced marriage and accordingly contends that the Chamber should discard the evidence of the four Civil Parties who, in the view of the Defence, testified about rape outside the context of forced marriage.<sup>11885</sup> The Chamber recalls its earlier decision that rape outside the context of forced marriage will not be considered in support of the elements of any criminal charge in this case, but that such facts may be relevant to understanding the general context (in the cited case) of the living conditions in security centres and to assessing the credibility of the authors of statements implicating perpetrators of such crimes or implicated by other declarants.<sup>11886</sup> Accordingly, evidence identified by the Chamber as concerning rape outside of the context of forced marriage will not be considered in support of any criminal charge in this case. However, such facts may be relevant to understanding the general context in which marriages were brought about, including regarding the CPK policy vis à vis rape in general, and in assessing the credibility of the Civil Parties.<sup>11887</sup>

<sup>11883</sup> T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 73.

<sup>11884</sup> T. 14 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 74.

<sup>11885</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, paras 2333-2334 (referring to Civil Parties HENG Lai Heang, NGET Chat, OM Yoeurn and MOM Vun).

<sup>11886</sup> Section 2: Preliminary Issues, para. 188.

<sup>11887</sup> Section 2: Preliminary Issues, para. 188.

14.3. Factual Findings

14.3.1. Introduction

3536. The Chamber has set out an overview of marriage traditions in Cambodian culture prior to 1975 in the Historical Background section of this Judgement.<sup>11888</sup> As discussed in that section, limitations were placed on wedding festivities in areas “liberated” by the Khmer Rouge between 1970 and 1975.<sup>11889</sup> The organisation of weddings and wedding practices varied over time and according to locations, as shown below.<sup>11890</sup> The evidence shows that at the beginning of the DK period, the situation was diverse and in some areas of the country, such limitations continued at least until 1976.<sup>11891</sup> A large amount of evidence shows that weddings started to be celebrated again from April 1975.<sup>11892</sup>

<sup>11888</sup> Section 3.5: Marriage in Cambodia before 1975.

<sup>11889</sup> Section 3: Marriage in Cambodia before 1975, para. 273.

<sup>11890</sup> T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 82; T. 10 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/480.1 p. 75.

<sup>11891</sup> T. 14 September 2015 (SEN Srun), E1/346.1, p. 57 (“I married my wife under the Khmer Rouge and that happened in 1976 [...] that was the first marriage ceremony that took place in Peam Chi Kang commune and there were 28 couples”); SENG OI Interview Record, E3/5833, p. 7, ERN (En) 00413909 (“A44: In 1973 a man proposed to me [...] Angkar did not agree to the marriage, saying, ‘There was a war on.’ Q45: When did Angkar permit marriage? A45: Around 1976 or 1977.”); PREAP Sokhoeurn Interview Record, E3/9820, 08 October 2014, ERN (En) 01050568 (“I did not see weddings before 1976 [...] The weddings happened frequently [...] in 1976, 1977 and 1978.”); RUOS Suy Interview Record, E3/10620, 7 July 2015, p. 16, ERN (En) 01147809 (“The marriages began in 1976, but strict measures were implemented from 1977.”). See also, UN ECOSOC Report, E3/2060, 30 January 1979, ERN (En) 00078662 (“It is alleged that the right to marry has been seriously infringed, and several refugees have claimed that prior to 1976 marriages were entirely prohibited in the communities where they lived.”); T. 19 May 2015 (OR Ho), E1/301.1, p. 53 confirming OR Ho Interview Record, E3/5255, 18 November 2008, p. 6, ERN (En) 00250047 (stating that weddings were not allowed in his commune (Ballang) in Kampong Thom province until September 1977 as the war was still raging and Angkar needed to engage men and women at the front). The Chamber notes however that the evidence of OR Ho is isolated from majority of other consistent evidence on the Case File. See also, T. 11 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/481.1, p. 19 (stating that it was chaotic at the beginning of the regime, particularly in 1975 and 1976 when people had so much access to traditional weddings and it was not until 1977 when weddings seemed to have appeared to be more consistent).

<sup>11892</sup> PHAT Duongchan Interview Record, E3/9355, 26 August 2009, p. 2. ERN (En) 00375682 (stating she was prepared by Angkar to get married in December 1975 in Sambour district, Kratie province); SIN Sisophal Interview Record, E3/10626, 25 May 2015, p. 3, ERN (En) 01111743 (stating he was married in June 1975 in Kratie district, Kratie province.); CHHOEUN Sem Interview Record, E3/5286, 21 April 2009, p. 3, ERN (En) 00338374 (stating that she got married in 1975 (after 17 April 1975) in Phnom Srok district, Battambang province); SUM Chanthol Interview Record, E3/10744, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 01178451-01178452 (stating she got married in June 1975 in Kampong Siem district, Kampong Cham province); MAK Met Interview Record, E3/9796, 1 May 2015, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 01111866-01111867 (stating she got married in late 1975 or early 1976 in Sangkae district, Battambang province); VAT Phat Interview Record, E3/9822, 23 February 2015, pp. 51, 54, ERN (En) 01079920, 01079923 (stating that there was a military meeting held in Pursat province in 1975 attended by people from regiments, battalions, companies and platoons. During that meeting, an announcement was made that those who turned 25 had to marry and he was married in 1975 in Pursat provincial town); CHEAM Kim Interview

3537. The Chamber has before it evidence of wedding ceremonies taking place in various locations throughout Cambodia during the DK regime, including in Phnom Penh;<sup>11893</sup> the Southwest (Takeo,<sup>11894</sup> Kandal<sup>11895</sup> and Kampot provinces<sup>11896</sup>), Northwest (Banteay Meanchey (Sector 5),<sup>11897</sup> Battambang<sup>11898</sup> and Pursat provinces<sup>11899</sup>), West (Kampong Chhnang province (Sector 31)),<sup>11900</sup> Central (old North) (Kampong Thom (Sector 42))<sup>11901</sup> and East Zones (Kampong Cham,<sup>11902</sup> Svay Rieng<sup>11903</sup> and Prey Veng provinces<sup>11904</sup>); Sectors 105 (Mondolkiri)<sup>11905</sup> and 505

---

Record, E3/9524, 13 March 2014, p. 5, ERN (En) 00985175 (stating she was married to Ta Val who was a chairman of Sector 5 mobile unit in 1975 in Svay Sisophon, Sector 5); NOEM Sem Interview Record, E3/43, 18 July 2009, ERN (En) 00365658-00365659 (stating she got married in August 1975 in Phnom Penh while she was working for the Ministry of Propaganda).

<sup>11893</sup> T. 4 May 2016 (HIM Huy), E1/427.1; T. 11 August 2016 (PHOUNG Yat), E1/455.1; T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1; T. 31 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/467.1; T. 31 August 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/467.1; T. 1 September 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/468.1; T. 21 November 2016 (THUCH Sithan), E1/500.1; T. 20 August 2009 (CHUM Neou), E3/7473.

<sup>11894</sup> T. 26 January 2015 (CHOU Koemlan), E1/252.1; T. 29 January 2015 (CHEANG Sreimom), E1/254.1; T. 16 February 2015 (EM Phoeung), E1/263.1; T. 17 February 2015 (PHNEOU Yav), E1/264.1; T. 4 May 2015 (KHOEM Boeun), E1/296.1; T. 5 May 2015 (KHOEM Boeun), E1/297.1; T. 7 May 2015 (EK Hoeun), E1/298.1; T. 8 May 2015 (EK Hoeun), E1/299.1; T. 10 March 2015 (NEANG Ouch), E1/274.1; T. 11 March 2015 (NEANG Ouch), E1/275.1; T. 22 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/290.1; T. 23 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/291.1; T. 23 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/462.1; T. 24 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/463.1; T. 25 August 2016 (YOS Phal), E1/464.1; T. 27 July 2016 (MOENG Vet), E1/449.1; T. 28 July 2016 (MOENG Vet), E1/450.1; T. 19 May 2015 (OR Ho), E1/301.1; T. 18 March 2015 (RIEL Son), E1/279.1; T. 12 February 2015 (RY Pov), E1/262.1.

<sup>11895</sup> T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1; T. 30 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/466.1.

<sup>11896</sup> T. 24 June 2015 (CHUM Samoeurn), E1/321.1; T. 15 August 2016 (YUN Bin), E1/457.1.

<sup>11897</sup> T. 27 July 2015 (SEN Sophon), E1/323.1; T. 28 July 2015 (MAM Soeurn), E1/324.1; T. 29 July 2015 (MAM Soeurn), E1/325.1; T. 2 September 2015 (MEAN Loeuy), E1/340.1; T. 18 August 2015 (CHHUM Seng), E1/332.1; T. 24 August 2015 (CHHUY Huy), E1/335.1; T. 20 August 2015 (LING Lrysov), E1/334.1; T. 10 August 2015 (KAN Thorl), E1/327.1; T. 1 December 2015 (PAN Chhoung), E1/360.1.

<sup>11898</sup> T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1.

<sup>11899</sup> T. 12 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/482.1; T. 13 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/483.1; T. 24 October 2015 (NGET Chat), E1/488.1; T. 25 October 2015 (NGET Chat), E1/489.1.

<sup>11900</sup> T. 24 June 2015 (CHUM Samoeurn), E1/321.1; T. 29 July 2015 (KHIN Vat), E1/325.1; T. 30 July 2015 (KHIN Vat), E1/326.1 (testifying that she was sent to Kampong Chhnang Airport to marry her husband); T. 2 December 2015 (PRAK Doeun), E1/361.1; T. 3 December 2015 (PRAK Doeun), E1/362.1.

<sup>11901</sup> T. 25 June 2015 (KONG Uth), E1/322.1; T. 1 September 2015 (CHAO Lang), E1/339.1; T. 26 May 2015 (MEAS Laihour), E1/305.1; T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroeun), E1/489.1; T. 30 July 2015 (OM Chy), E1/326.1.

<sup>11902</sup> T. 20 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/487.1; T. 24 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/488.1; T. 22 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/461.1; T. 23 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/462.1; T. 14 January 2016 (YOU Vann), E1/376.1; T. 18 January 2016 (YOU Vann), E1/377.1; T. 14 September 2015 (SEN Srun), E1/346.1; T. 20 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/487.1; T. 24 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/488.1; T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroeun), E1/489.1; T. 22 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/461.1; T. 23 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/462.1; T. 21 September 2016 (SEM Om), E1/478.1.

<sup>11903</sup> T. 1 March 2016 (SIENG Chanthy), E1/394.1; T. 3 February 2016 (IN Yoeung), E1/387.1.

<sup>11904</sup> T. 23 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/113.1; T. 17 August 2016 (MY Savoeun), E1/459.1.

<sup>11905</sup> T. 24 October 2016 (KUL Nem), E1/488.1; T. 3 August 2016 (CHIN Saroeun), E1/454.1; T. 7 April 2016 (PHAN Van), E1/416.1.

(Kratie).<sup>11906</sup>

3538. The Chamber finds that weddings were organised throughout the entire period of the DK regime, from 1975 until 1979, with some limitations in certain locations as set out above.<sup>11907</sup>

14.3.2. Policy regarding the Regulation of Marriage and Discipline

3539. The CPK considered family and marriage as crucial to building a new society which would accord with the ideological standards of its socialist revolution. In this regard, marriage and family had to be seen from the perspective of a collectivist approach aimed at eliminating private ownership and advancing the class struggle, including through the dictatorship of the proletariat.<sup>11908</sup> This implied a radical departure from Khmer traditions based on respect owed by children to their parents and on religious beliefs, as the new society intended to oppose all “reactionary religions”.<sup>11909</sup> Further, the interest of the collective, as represented by Angkar, was to

<sup>11906</sup> T. 19 September 2016 (HENG Lai Heang), E1/476.1; T. 1 March 2016 (UCH Sunlay), E1/394.1; T. 2 March 2016 (UCH Sunlay), E1/395.1.

<sup>11907</sup> T. 24 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/463.1, p. 16 (stating that his wedding was organised in August 1977); T. 25 August 2016 (YOS Phal), E1/464.1, p. 12 (stating that his wedding was organised in around mid-1978); T. 31 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/467.1, pp. 40-43 (stating that her wedding was organised in 1975); T. 19 September 2016 (HENG Lai Heang), E1/476.1, p. 11 (stating that she was arranged to get married in 1976); T. 25 October 2016 (NGET Chat), E1/489.1, pp. 5-6 (stating that she was arranged to get married in August 1978); T. 24 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/488.1, p. 49 (stating that her wedding occurred in either late 1976 or early 1977); T. 23 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/462.1, pp. 30, 36 (stating that her wedding took place in 1978); T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroen), E1/489.1, pp. 35, 50-51, 54 (stating that her wedding took place in 1975 during the windy season and her sister was arranged to get married in late 1978); T. 24 October 2016 (KUL Nem), E1/488.1, p. 99 (stating that he got married in 1977.); T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, pp. 41, 110 (stating that she got married in 1978 when the rice plant was growing); T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, pp. 53, 68 (stating that she got married in late 1975); T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, p. 15 (stating that she got married in 1977); T. 18 August 2015 (CHHUM Seng), E1/332.1, p. 22 (recalling that his wedding perhaps took place in late 1978 or early 1979); T. 2 September 2015 (MEAN Loeuy), E1/340.1, p. 67 (“I got married during the Khmer Rouge period”); T. 24 June 2015 (CHUM Samoeurn), E1/321.1, p. 64 (stating that she was forced to get married in late 1978); T. 20 August 2015 (LING Lrysov), E1/334.1, p. 55 (stating that her wedding was organised almost at the end of the regime).

<sup>11908</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/4, July 1976, p. 3, ERN (En) 00268915 (a Party slogan for 1976 declared: “Continue storming attacks to conduct class struggle inside the Party, inside the Army, inside all revolutionary ranks, inside the people, and inside the entire national society! Absolutely!”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/10, September-October 1976, p. 37, ERN (En) 00450537 (“As for the private ownership of the capitalist class, the landowners, the wealthy peasants, it was thick and demanded mighty, absolute struggle; it demands class dictatorship”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/10, September-October 1976, p. 14, ERN (En) 00450514 (stating that the Party must continue to strengthen and expand the collective position). See below, Section 14.3.2.1: The CPK Policy on the Regulation of Marriage and Discipline.

<sup>11909</sup> DK Constitution, E3/259, undated, p. 6, ERN (En) 00184838 (Article 20: “Reactionary religions which are detrimental to Democratic Kampuchea and the Kampuchean people are absolutely prevail over the interests of the individuals or of their biological families.<sup>11910</sup> In this new social scheme, in which children were considered the best source for the revolution and more trustworthy than their parents, Angkar was placed above the parents or was even intended to replace them.<sup>11911</sup> The ideological values promoted by the CPK had a strong impact not only on the significance of family and on the purpose of marriage, but also on the organisation and monitoring of marriages,<sup>11912</sup> on spouse selection,<sup>11913</sup> on the consummation of marriage and on the prohibition of sexual intercourse outside marriage.<sup>11914</sup> All these various aspects are considered in turn below.

14.3.2.1. The CPK policy on the regulation of marriage and discipline

3540. The policy on family building was set out notably in the Revolutionary Youth issue of 2 February 1974, reprinted in June 1975. The document underlines the importance of the family as the basis for human society to prosper and advance. It instructs the revolutionary youth to “grasp, understand, and have proper views, stances, forbidden”). See below, Section 14.3.7.2: Absence of Khmer Tradition; Section 13.1: Treatment of Buddhists.

---

<sup>11910</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/4, July 1976, p. 5, ERN (En) 00268917 (“Our Party understands that building socialism building anything at all is for the collective for everyone for proletarian equality for all. Building socialism is not for the private interests of any one class”). As noted by a cadre of S-21 in a notebook on CPK policy, the implementation of a collectivist approach affected the entire society and led also to a control by Angkar of children and families (“Notre socialisme a cours dans tout le pays. Ex La coopérative est collectiviste. Les syndicats et les armées sont également collectivistes. Les bureaux et les ministères sont collectivistes. Vivre travailler apprendre sont des activités collectivistes. Les enfants et les familles sont sous la direction collectiviste de leur organisation.” [emphasis added]). See S 21 Notebook by MAM Nai alias Chan, E3/833, p. 65, ERN (Fr) 00282532.

<sup>11911</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/725, December 1977-January 1978, ERN (En) 00184320 (“[T]he masses are the original source for making revolution. [...] Children are also the best. The strong points of child combatants in the ministries reside precisely in that they know how to behave in accordance with the ministerial and office order and have learned more politically ideologically and organizationally than those in the cooperatives. Whereas child combatants in the cooperatives don’t understand orderly behavior and don’t have much learning, but they fight more seethingly [sic] despite natural causes, rain and wind, shortages of medication and food supplies, and destruction caused by enemies. [They have] stronger and profounder class struggle [spirit] seething in their fight against nature and are more persevering than those in the ministries and offices. This source is thus a good one. And it would be good if in the days to come we took this source for the building up of district, sector, zone and even centre cadres. What we are clarifying here is the importance of building up the progressive masses. We mean progressive masses according of the Party’s class line and line of clear cut biographies.”); T. 20 March 2012 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/51.1, p. 37 (Concerning the policy of family and marriage: “I was doubtful or curious because I noted that some sons and daughters of the senior officials -- officers were asked to call or address their fathers as uncle or aunt. And later on, after 1975, the people were not educated on how to be thankful to their parents. And I think this ideology was already written in a song, and perhaps we can refer to the song. They say that parents could only create you, but Angkar would be the one who controlled you and who owned you.”). See below, Section 14.3.5.4: Parents’ involvement; Section 14.3.7.3: Participation of parents and other family members.

<sup>11912</sup> See below, Section 14.3.5: Authorisation to Marry; Section 14.3.7: Wedding Ceremonies.

<sup>11913</sup> See below, Section 14.3.6: Notice and Consent.

<sup>11914</sup> See below, paras 3617-3625.

and world views toward family building so that [their] revolutionary lives [would] keep developing on into the future along a good path, a path of constant progress”.<sup>11915</sup> It then sets out what were considered to be revolutionary (to be adopted) and non-revolutionary (to be avoided) “world views regarding the matter of family building”.<sup>11916</sup>

As for us, revolutionary youth, we consider matters of family as being inseparable from matters of the entire nation and people. [...] So, building our revolutionary families is not just for our personal interests or happiness or to have children and grandchildren to continue the family line. Importantly, it is so that the revolution may achieve its highest mission, to liberate the nation, the people, and the poor class and then advance toward socialism and communism, which are societies in which people no longer exploit other people.<sup>11917</sup>

3541. In terms of choosing a spouse, individuals were to respect the organisational discipline absolutely. In the matter of family building, Angkar's assessment or decision was to be respected by each individual, as only Angkar could make a thorough assessment.<sup>11918</sup>

[T]he revolutionary youth, must completely eradicate and purify all incorrect views and stances toward these matters of family building, such as free morality and being in a hot panic wanting to build a family while we are too young, or being free and not respecting organisational discipline and not respecting the collective in building a family, for example.<sup>11919</sup>

3542. In line with a subsequent Revolutionary Youth issue, marriage was based on two principles of the Party:

First, both parties agree.

Second, the collective agrees, and then it's done. Why should this impact male-female morality?<sup>11920</sup>

<sup>11915</sup> Revolutionary and Non-Revolutionary World Views Regarding the Matter of Family Building, E3/775, 2 June 1975, p. 2, ERN (En) 00417941.

<sup>11916</sup> Revolutionary and Non-Revolutionary World Views Regarding the Matter of Family Building, E3/775, 2 June 1975, pp. 2-7, ERN (En) 00417941-00417946.

<sup>11917</sup> Revolutionary and Non-Revolutionary World Views Regarding the Matter of Family Building, E3/775, 2 June 1975, pp. 3-4, ERN (En) 00417942-00417943.

<sup>11918</sup> Revolutionary and Non-Revolutionary World Views Regarding the Matter of Family Building, E3/775, 2 June 1975, p. 8, ERN (En) 00417947.

<sup>11919</sup> Revolutionary and Non-Revolutionary World Views Regarding the Matter of Family Building, E3/775, 2 June 1975, p. 8, ERN (En) 00417947.

<sup>11920</sup> Revolutionary Youth, E3/765, October 1978, p. 19, ERN (En) 00539994.

3543. The individuals had the possibility to submit to their superiors a request to marry somebody who would accord with their own feelings. Such request would be granted if it was found consistent with the collective interest, especially with regard to the respective biographies of the future spouses.<sup>11921</sup> As reflected in its official publication, the CPK instructed people to choose a spouse carefully in accordance with the following guidance:

1. It is imperative to be vigilant in regard to sexual morals. Don't choose recklessly all over the place. Should a situation arise, it is imperative to honestly make proposals to the Organization, to the collective, to have them help sort things out.
2. Organization discipline must be absolutely respected. In the matter of building a family, no matter the outcome of the Organization's and the collective's assessments and decisions, they must be absolutely respected. Do not have hard feeling. Do not be disappointed. This is because only the Organization and the collective are able to make a thorough assessment from every aspect. Therefore, do not be subjective, relying on your personal emotions.
3. Do not helter-skelter in a rush; do not be hot to follow whatever your heart sees. It is imperative to look at their background very clearly first. That is to say, they must be clean in living morals and clean politically, without involvement with any enemy strings or bad elements.
4. If both are inside the ranks, it is imperative to choose someone who has a solid revolutionary stance; no matter what their position may be, they must have a stance of absolute combat to constantly fulfill revolutionary missions for the Party, the revolution, and the people. Therefore, we do not just choose someone who is good-looking and who knows how to dress and make themselves up playfully in the modern imperialist style, or who is the child of a wealthy person, or who has high old society cultural abilities, or who is capable of oratory, or who is a pistol- or rifle-toting comrade, or who has some high position.<sup>11922</sup>

3544. It follows that, from an ideological point of view and for the sake of the Revolution, Angkar's decisions based on collective interest were to prevail ahead of personal choices or personal sentiment. In this regard, the Revolutionary Youth also called for the abolition of individual and private possessions, including that of "sentiment", and clarified what this meant:

To eliminate the individual and private possession decisively and strengthen and expand the collective possession forcefully

---

<sup>11921</sup> See below, Section 14.3.4.1: Screening of Biographies; Section 14.3.5.2: Marriage Proposed by Individuals.

<sup>11922</sup> Revolutionary and Non-Revolutionary World Views Regarding the Matter of Family Building, E3/775, 2 June 1975, p. 4, ERN (En) 00417943.

[...] Our human being or any classes always have many kinds of possessions such as: [...] sentiment possession which include love, anger, compassion, worry, and happiness etc [...]. This private possession is the view and the ideological stance of the imperialist feudalist and capitalist classes which our revolutionary male female youths must fight to eliminate them from Kampuchean society from our revolution rank, and from our selves [...]. [While the] collective possession [...] is the controlling or the collective property of the mass people laborer, who are the producers, inventor, society reformer, human history maker. Therefore the collective possession is good and just. This collective possession ideology is wanted by our revolution [...]. In our revolutionary rank, our revolutionary male-female combatants and cadres sacrificed private possessions such as housing, paddy-farm, garden, family, parents, relatives, children and other properties in order to serve the Party, revolution, and the people.<sup>11923</sup>

3545. The Revolutionary Youth also required people to consider “knowledge possession” and “sentiment possession” as contrary to the correct ideological stance:

Knowledge possession: This view and stance is [that of the persons] who considers that they are the only [ones who] know and understand more, so they reject the opinion or knowledge of the mass. Those with the knowledge possession mostly consider their idea as better and do not listen to the Party instruction.

Sentiment possession: Only care about sympathize with and love their own family friends relatives and parents.<sup>11924</sup>

3546. Finally, revolutionary male-female youths were warned that:

[They] must understand and have a clear view that the struggle between the private possession ideology and the collective possession ideology within the revolution rank and inside our selves is part of the class struggle. So, it is a life and death, tense and tough struggle which our revolutionary male female youths should not compromise with it or tolerate it or ignore it. If we compromise with it or tolerate or ignore it, the collective possession stance will definitely be defeated by the private and individual possession stance. So it means that the revolution is defeated by the feudalist capitalist regime. [...] So if any revolutionary male female youths are still attached to this individual possession and regretting it, they can stay behind and embrace this

<sup>11923</sup> Revolutionary Youth, E3/750, November 1975, pp. 9-10, ERN (En) 00522459-00522460. See also, Revolutionary Flag, E3/139, November 1976, pp. 11, ERN (En) 00455288 (“Party documents say to cast off private ownership. It is not difficult. [...] We are not entangled in family problems or with relatives”), 39, ERN (En) 00455316 (“In order to gain mastery, there must be a high spirit of responsibility to fulfill and grasp the mission. We strive to do whatever can be done that is a gain for the revolution.”).

<sup>11924</sup> Revolutionary Youth, E3/750, November 1975, p. 11, ERN (En) 00522461. An extreme illustration of this ideological stance may be found in notes taken by a cadre at S-21 on CPK policy. See S 21 Notebook by MAM Nai alias Chan, E3/833, p. 30, ERN (En) 00184608 (referring to the arrest of MEN Tol alias Sat, who was the husband of LACH Dara, a niece of NUON Chea: “The feeling of the peasants: Entanglements with wives, children, husbands, this hinders the work of serving the nation. Love must abandon and cast off this feeling. Our party always makes the example of socialist revolution. Brother Number Two arrested his nephew named Sat.”).

individual possession further, but the people and the mass can not wait for them and will leave them behind. So it means that you comrades are dropped off from the movement.<sup>11925</sup>

3547. This call to strictly adhere to the Party's ideological line and to respect the party discipline was formulated to closely mirror the CPK statute, and Party members were warned that a breach of the discipline would lead to punishment.<sup>11926</sup>

3548. While the individual's consent was part of the marriage principles of the Party, in practice, the agreement of both parties was less important than the adherence by future spouses to Angkar's directives because, as a principle, the latter was considered to be the expression of the collective interests of the nation, the worker-peasant class, the people and the revolution, to which personal and family interest were to be subordinated.<sup>11927</sup> This is illustrated by the commitment that spouses were instructed to make during wedding ceremonies.<sup>11928</sup> The CPK required individuals to be fully committed to building the nation and to abolish private possession including sentiment.<sup>11929</sup>

---

<sup>11925</sup> Revolutionary Youth, E3/750, November 1975, p. 12, ERN (En) 00522462.

<sup>11926</sup> Statute of the Communist Party of Kampuchea, E3/130, pp. 12-13, ERN (En) 00184033-00184034 (Article 4: Party discipline. 1. In order to maintain and to consolidate internal Party solidarity and unity to be always good, the Party has designated and raised the principle of respect for Party discipline and organization. Party discipline is very firm, but stands on the principle of awareness of each individual Party member. Each Party member, regardless of position, must absolutely respect and follow Party discipline. Respecting Party discipline and organization is respecting the Party's political line, Party ideological principles and stances, Party organizational stances, and Party statutes. 2. Any Party member or any Party echelon opposing the Party political line, Party ideological stances, Party organizational stances, and Party Statute, causes fractures in internal Party solidarity and unity, creates groups to carry out activities to destroy the Party, the revolution, and the people abandons the duty of the Party member, causes a break in secrecy endangers the Party the revolution and the people and Party property, acts immorally, or does not participate in Branch lifestyle meetings for three consecutive months, commits Party discipline violations which are punishable, lightly or severely as follows: A. Criticism – warning; B. Change of duties – removal from duty; C. Rejection from the Party – Various punishments according to whether the violations were activities opposing the party, part of a continuous chain of such violations or was treason against the Party.”).

<sup>11927</sup> Phnom Penh Rally Marks 17th April Anniversary (in SWB/FE/5791/B collection), E3/562, 16 April 1978, ERN (En) S00010563 (concerning a resolution adopted during a mass meeting on occasion of the third anniversary of 17 April 1975 in which KHIEU Samphan delivered a speech, which inter alia included the following solemn general pledge: “(12) To subordinate resolutely all personal and family interests to the collective interests of the nation, class, people and revolution”).

<sup>11928</sup> See below, paras 3633-3634.

<sup>11929</sup> Revolutionary Youth, E3/772, January 1977, p. 13, ERN (En) 00541712 (“[W]e the youth of this generation must pay a great deal of attention to building ourselves well following the Party's revolutionary stances in every field and not be bothered with or become entangled with miscellaneous issues surrounding our individual persons that might cause us to build ourselves slowly or attract us into falling backwards again.”); Revolutionary Youth, E3/733, August 1975, p. 3, ERN (En) 00357870 (“Our Kampuchean youth have the task of defending the country and constructing the country to be firm, mighty, skilled and esteemed and glorious extremely rapidly following the Party's new direction of socialist revolution absolutely.”); Revolutionary Youth, E3/729, October 1975, p. 12, ERN (En)

14.3.2.2. Objectives of policy to regulate marriage14.3.2.2.1. Population increase

3549. The CPK claimed that its objective was to improve the wellbeing of the population, and that this would permit it to increase population growth in order to develop Cambodia into a strong and economically independent country.

3550. The objective of population growth is evident from the speeches of various CPK leaders. On 27 September 1977, in a speech in Phnom Penh commemorating the founding anniversary of the CPK, POL Pot stated that:

We continue to strive to improve the conditions of the life and health of our people, because we hope to increase our population to 15 to 20 million in the course of the next 10 years or more [...] Thus, we must double our efforts, we must further improve the standard of living of people in all fields so that each person continues to be strong, healthy and to have a resolute sense of patriotism and so that the Cambodian people in general can increase in number quickly enough to effectively defend and build our Cambodia into a prosperous and developed country by leaps and bounds. We have no reason to reduce or cause our population to level off, for the current size of our population -- nearly 8 million people -- is still far too small to cope with our country's potentials which call for more than 20 million Cambodian people. Therefore, our aim is to increase the population as quickly as we can.<sup>11930</sup>

3551. In an April 1978 speech on the occasion of the Party's 17th April anniversary, KHIEU Samphan stated that in order to improve the livelihood of the people, Party members should aim, among other things:

(5) to strive to improve the living conditions and rapidly increase the size of the population while at the same time giving the people basic political, ideological and organizational education;

---

00357911 ("Our revolutionary youth must constantly keep building, strengthening, expanding and arming themselves the four essential proletarian qualities of the Party: the highest sacrifice, the sharpest combat, unconditional respect for organizational discipline, and unceasing innovation and building. [...] Along with this, it is imperative to constantly have a high spirit of revolutionary vigilance, vigilance in outlook and stance, vigilance in organization, vigilance in routine daily life, absolutely respecting the organizational discipline of the Party, absolutely respecting and implementing the Party's line and organizational provisions."); Revolutionary Youth, E3/730, December 1975, p. 12, ERN (En) 00363433 ("In terms of organization, it is imperative to concentrate on educating and refashioning our youth to have correct and solid organization, to have unconditional and awakened respect for organizational discipline."). See above, para. 3544.

<sup>11930</sup> Text of POL Pot Speech at 27 Sep KCP Anniversary Meeting (in FBIS collection), E3/290, 4 October 1977, p. 35, ERN (En) 00168651.

(6) to grasp firmly and implement well the plan to increase the size of the population to its maximum, so as to have 15-20,000,000 people in the next 10-15 years;

(7) to grasp firmly and implement well the plans to maximize the size of the population within one year, three years, five years, 10 years and 15 years.<sup>11931</sup>

3552. IENG Sary, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, informed the United Nations Secretary General in a note dated 22 April 1978 that “the goal of the Government of the Democratic Kampuchea is to increase our population as quickly as possible”.<sup>11932</sup>

3553. When asked about the DK government policy regarding population and development during an interview at the Asian parliamentarians’ conference in Beijing in October 1981, NUON Chea responded:

Concerning the problem of population and development in Kampuchea, Democratic Kampuchea has pursued a policy of increasing its population. Kampuchea covers an area of over 181,000 sq.km. and its population was estimated in February 1971 at 7,760,000 people. [...] Since 1975 Democratic Kampuchea has always required a rapid increase in its population. Thus, the four-year plan of 1977-1980 aimed at increasing our population to at least 15,000,000 within five to 10 years. As a result of this plan, our population has increased as follows: From March to December 1976, it increased by 160,000 or 2%; in 1977 it increased by 220,000 or 2.8%; and in 1978 it increased to 260,000 or 3.2%. This increase was the result of the policy of <sup>11931</sup> Internal Affairs (in SWB/5791/B collection), E3/562, ERN (En) S00010565 (including KHIEU Samphan’s speech on occasion of the 17th April anniversary); KHIEU Samphan’s Speech at Anniversary Meeting (in SWB/FE/5908/A3 collection), E3/201, 15 April 1977, ERN (En) 00419514 (“Our country has a small population, making it necessary for us rapidly to strengthen and expand our population [...]. This is the political line dictated by our revolutionary organisation”). See also, Book by Khieu S.: Considerations on the History of Cambodia from Early Stage to the Period of Democratic Kampuchea, E3/16, 2007, p. 65, ERN (En) 00498284 (confirming that POL Pot’s aim was “to increase the population by a factor of two or three. Specifically, he wanted the population of Kampuchea to rise to ‘15 to 20 million within ten years’”).

<sup>11932</sup> UN Doc. E/CN.4/1295 (“Note to the Secretary-General on the Question of the Violation of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms in any Part of the World, with Particular Reference to Colonial and Other Dependent Countries and Territories”, 13 June 1978) E3/1385, p. 7, ERN (En) 00235727 (“Moreover, the Government of Democratic Kampuchea is making every effort to improve the level of living of the people in all respects as quickly as possible in order to ensure that every citizen is in possession of his full physical, intellectual and moral powers and acts on the basis of ardent patriotism and to ensure that the population of Kampuchea increases rapidly in order to defend and develop the country and to achieve prosperity by leaps and bounds. There is no reason for the Government of Kampuchea to reduce the population or to maintain it at its currently level, since today’s population of 8 million is well below the potential of the country, which needs more than 20 million. Accordingly, the goal of the Government of the Democratic Kampuchea is to increase our population as quickly as possible.” [emphasis added]). See also, UN Doc. A/32/PV.28 (“UNGA Thirty-Second Session Official Records”), E3/1586, 11 October 1977, ERN (En) 00079815 (IENG Sary states that the DK needs a population of 15-20 million inhabitants within 10 years, further adding that: “We are endeavouring as rapidly as possible to improve still further the living conditions of our people, so that everyone may have sufficient strength and health and ardent patriotism, so that our entire people may rapidly and constantly progress and that we continue in the defence and speedy construction of a prosperous Kampuchea.”).

Democratic Kampuchea to protect the people's lives primarily by solving and improving the people's living conditions.<sup>11933</sup>

3554. The policy of increasing the population was also described in the Revolutionary Flag. The December 1976-January 1977 issue stated that:

[T]he essence of socialist revolution and building socialism is the goal of building the country well, defending the country well, and sorting out the livelihood of the people quickly. We need from 15-20 million people to meet the needs of our land. For our population to constantly increase, the livelihood of the people must rise and they must be in good health. So then, this means quickly increasing production.<sup>11934</sup>

3555. The September 1978 issue similarly referred to the Party's aim to increase the population to 15-20 million within 10-15 years. In order to do that, the Party announced that it would raise and maintain the livelihood of the people.<sup>11935</sup>

3556. The CPK's objective of increasing the population was disseminated across the country, through meetings and training sessions. Witness SAO Sarun, the Secretary of Sector 105, confirmed without specifying when, that he heard that Angkar wanted to increase the population because their numbers were small, and therefore "male and female combatants were encouraged to get married".<sup>11936</sup> According to Witness MEAS Voeun, the Deputy Commander of Division 1, marriages were encouraged in order to increase Cambodia's population because Vietnam had a larger population.<sup>11937</sup> Witness CHIN Saroeun, a combatant in the Northeast Zone, understood that the purpose of having people married was to increase the population in the provinces.<sup>11938</sup> Civil Party PEN Sochan stated that they were instructed to marry and produce more children for Angkar.<sup>11939</sup> During their wedding ceremonies, numerous witnesses and Civil Parties had to commit to producing children for Angkar in order to increase the population.<sup>11940</sup>

<sup>11933</sup> Interviews with DK Leader on Population Policy and Struggle against Vietnam (in SWB/FE/6869/A3 collection), E3/686, 2 November-10 December 1981, ERN (En) S00030349.

<sup>11934</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/25, December 1976-January 1977, p. 42, ERN (En) 00491436.

<sup>11935</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/215, September 1978, ERN (En) 004488637.

<sup>11936</sup> T. 29 March 2016 (SAO Sarun), E1/410.1, p. 69.

<sup>11937</sup> T. 3 February 2016 (MEAS Voeun), E1/387.1, pp. 37-39.

<sup>11938</sup> T. 3 August 2016 (CHIN Saroeun), E1/454.1, pp. 74-78.

<sup>11939</sup> T. 12 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/482.1, pp. 89-90.

<sup>11940</sup> T. 20 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeun), E1/487.1, pp. 104-106; T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroen), E1/489.1, pp. 40-41 (stating that during the wedding ceremony, the couples had to make a commitment by repeating the instruction from Angkar. They had to commit "to produce babies, as many as possible, in order to meet the targets of Angkar."); T. 24 October 2016 (KUL Nem), E1/488.1, pp. 102-103 (KUL Nem was told that it would be against the law if they do not produce children for Angkar); T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, pp. 55-57 (stating that the couples had to commit "to reproduce more children in order to serve in the revolutionary army for Angkar").

Civil Party NGET Chat described being told at the ceremony itself to consummate her marriage to produce as many children as possible for Angkar.<sup>11941</sup> Civil Party SOU Sotheavy, who worked in a mobile unit in the Southwest Zone, stated that during her wedding, the chief announced that “[t]he population of Cambodia is not that great and for us, male and female youths we strive to work best. And for that reason Angkar required us to get married to increase the population.”<sup>11942</sup>

3557. Although this might not always have explicitly been stated, the evidence shows that a further objective of the augmentation of the Cambodian population was to increase the number of available soldiers, particularly from 1977 when the situation along the border intensified.<sup>11943</sup>

3558. Based on the above, the Chamber is satisfied that one of the purposes of the regulation of marriage was to facilitate the increase of population.

14.3.2.2.2. Control over sexual interactions outside of marriage

3559. The CPK policy regulating marriage was further aimed at controlling sentimental or sexual interactions between men and women outside marriage, as such relationships were considered as potentially endangering the revolution. First, in order to ensure the success of the class struggle, it was necessary to keep those constituting the proletarian forces as pure as possible, as they were the main support of the revolution. This not only required the screening of biographies of future spouses to ensure that unions would not create class contradictions,<sup>11944</sup> but it was also necessary to prevent love affairs outside marriage with persons of undesirable backgrounds.

<sup>11941</sup> T. 25 October 2016 (NGET Chat), E1/489.1, pp. 11-12.

<sup>11942</sup> T. 23 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/462.1, p. 79.

<sup>11943</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 67 (in which she explained that KHIEU Samphan gave an instruction that older male and female youths should be arranged to get married so that “when they produce children, we will have more forces to defend our territory”); UN Doc. E/CN.4/1295, Note to the Secretary-General on the Question of the Violation of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms in any Part of the World, with Particular Reference to Colonial and Other Dependent Countries and Territories, E3/1385, 13 June 1978, ERN (En) 00235727 (“Moreover, the Government of Democratic Kampuchea is making every effort [...] to ensure that the population of Kampuchea increases rapidly in order to defend and develop the country and to achieve prosperity by leaps and bounds”).

<sup>11944</sup> See below, Section 14.3.4: The Matching.

Further, the CPK wanted to be seen as taking a strict ethical stance in order to distance itself from the alleged depravity of the previous regimes.<sup>11945</sup>

3560. The 12 precepts of the revolution, described in the Revolutionary Youth as the laws and rules of the Party,<sup>11946</sup> prohibited (at precept 6) any behaviour “that violates females”, as this would impact male-female morality, the clean and pure tradition of the people and ultimately could impact the revolution and put the movement at risk.<sup>11947</sup>

3561. Witness KHOEM Boeun, the Secretary of the Cheang Tong commune in the Tram Kak district in the Southwest Zone from 1973 and later in 1978, joined the District Committee, stated that the “upper echelon” instructed them to separate boys and girls to avoid “thoughts of moral misconduct”. Male-female relationships without the approval of Angkar were prohibited under the regime.<sup>11948</sup>

3562. CPK cadres as well as the general population were educated to avoid committing moral offences.<sup>11949</sup> The term “moral offence” was understood to have different forms and meanings.<sup>11950</sup> As described by Witness PECH Chim, it could be used to refer to the affairs between a man and a woman, disrespect toward elders, the mistreatment of women by men or “moral offences” committed by women against their

<sup>11945</sup> Notebook No 71, E3/8381, p. 8, ERN (En) 01369248 (“the Kampuchean society was half-colonial and half-feudal. Such a society was beset beyond our thought, by [in]justice of the human beings, oppression, debauchery, corruption and private ownership. [...] Achieving our struggle to abolish this and to build up and purify the revolution’s internal lines required each cadre, candidate, and soldier to take strong courage, respect and carry out the guidelines and policies of the Marx-Leninist doctrine”).

<sup>11946</sup> Revolutionary Youth, E3/765, October 1978, pp. 13-14, ERN (En) 00539988-00539989.

<sup>11947</sup> Revolutionary Youth, E3/765, October 1978, p. 19, ERN (En) 00539994 (“6th Precept: Do not behave in any way that violates females. Generally speaking, do not do anything that impacts male-female morality, because this issue impacts our honor and our influence as revolutionaries and impacts the clean and pure and dignified traditions of our people. Therefore, this impacts our people. This is one thing. But even more importantly, when we impact male-female morality, that is the true corrupt and rotten nature of the enemies of all types and this enables the enemy to attract us. Therefore, this is dangerous for us and is dangerous for the revolutionary movement.”).

<sup>11948</sup> T. 4 May 2015 (KHOEM Boeun), E1/296.1, p. 86 (stating that there was instruction from upper echelon to separate boys and girls to avoid thoughts of moral misconduct committed by them).

<sup>11949</sup> T. 26 April 2016 (LACH Mean), E1/422.1, pp. 35-36 (stating that the instruction to avoid moral offence spread throughout the regime and moral discipline was the strictest discipline applied to everyone. “Cadres in all places were educated about morality and avoiding committing moral offences. [...] Every cadre in the entire hierarchical order must avoid committing moral offences.”); T. 12 August 2015 (LAT Suoy), E1/329.1, p. 25 (“Nobody was pregnant. We were forbidden from loving each other. If anybody was found loving each other, they would be accused of committing moral offences then they would be taken away for execution.”).

<sup>11950</sup> T. 13 June 2012 (OEUN Tan), E1/86.1, p. 25 (“Moral misconduct referred to the actions that damaged the properties of the people, the livestock of the villages”); T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, pp. 91-92 (stating that her understanding of morality is that people have to respect others by their title).

husbands.<sup>11951</sup> According to Civil Party CHEA Deap, a moral offence was considered a serious offence and the rules regulating morality were applied strictly especially in case of “rape”.<sup>11952</sup> However, according to NEANG Ouch alias Ta San, some moral offences were considered to be light offences. This latter view was corroborated by other witnesses.<sup>11953</sup> Regardless of these different views, there was a consensus that any moral offence was punishable.<sup>11954</sup> Moral offences and subsequent measures were then reported to the Party Centre.<sup>11955</sup>

3563. Male-female relationships outside the context of marriage were considered a form of moral offence or moral misconduct, according to numerous witnesses and Civil

<sup>11951</sup> T. 24 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/292.1, p. 39.

<sup>11952</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 90 (“During the Khmer Rouge Regime, the discipline was very strict and we were not allowed to engage in any moral affairs.”).

<sup>11953</sup> T. 10 March 2015 (NEANG Ouch), E1/274.1, p. 58. See also, Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 1057.

<sup>11954</sup> T. 5 December 2012 (PECH Srey Phal), E1/148.1, pp. 70-71 (stating that she witnessed militiamen saying to someone named Som that he committed a moral offence. The militiamen cut his stomach opened to remove his gallbladder while he was still alive); T. 9 January 2013 (UNG Ren), E1/157.1, pp. 78-79 (stating that during that time, everyone knew that if people could not refrain from committing a moral offence or if they were found to have committed a moral offence, they could not avoid being arrested); T. 21 January 2015 (MEAS Sokha), E1/249.1, p. 50 (stating that, to his knowledge, those who committed moral offences would have their hair shaved and they would be asked to bang coconut shells and say “please do not follow what I did”); T. 3 March 2015 (VAN Soeun), E1/270.1, p. 30 (“This person had a moral offence with a lady outside of the compound and he was detained in the prison.”); T. 24 March 2015 (SAUTR Saing), E1/281.1, p. 67 (“[F]or the male and female units who were outside or who worked at the villages or in various other communes and who were accused of moral misconduct, were arrested and brought to be detained at Kra[i]ng Ta Chan centre”; when asked about what would happen to the prison staff who committed moral misconduct, he answered: “for moral misconduct, the person would be disappeared [sic]. It means the person was not absolute with Angkar regardless whether they were a soldier or a youth in a mobile unit or female youth in a mobile unit.”); T. 24 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/292.1, pp. 40-41 (“People who were involved in moral offences would be sent to work in the field, engaging in the rice farming activity or in raising pigs. And as to the period of refashioning, [...] it varied depending on the behavior of that individual.”); T. 26 April 2016 (LACH Mean), E1/422.1, pp. 34-35 (confirming that there was an instruction from Duch that any person committing a moral offence would be punished and that “cadres in all places were educated about morality and avoiding committing moral offences.”); T. 4 May 2016 (HIM Huy), E1/427.1, p. 84 (“There was a young guard who raped a female prisoner. That young guard had moral offence with the female prisoner and later on he was arrested, detained and killed.”); T. 13 June 2016 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/443.1, pp. 22-23 (stating that those who were caught in committing moral offence would be smashed but some cases, were tolerated).

<sup>11955</sup> DK Report, E3/1092, 16 July 1978, p. 3, ERN (En) 00289923 (“In Samraong Tong cooperative, when Angkar assigned some people to go to the northwest zone, a man named Sokh instigated [sic] that ‘What a damned socialist revolution! It separates children from their parents’. This man committed such an act twice and also committed moral offenses. He got educated for two to three times. At the moment we have taken organizational measures.”); DK Report, E3/1094, 4 August 1978, p. 6, ERN (En) 00315373 (reporting on the moral code activities: “In some bases within each district these activities occurred continuously between some male and female youths as well as men and women or even between married men and youths. In Tasal cooperative of District 27 on 21-7-78, Soeung, a militia of Tasal cooperative, violated a moral code by raping a girl from Sector Koh Kong. As a measure for this, Soeung has been already sent to the district re[-]education camp.”). See also, DK Telegram, E3/156, 23 April 1978, ERN (En) 00296220 (SAO Sarun, Sector 105 Secretary, states that Comrade Sot was previously implicated in confessions had committed immoral acts with a woman, clarifying that both the man and the woman had been arrested, and seeking the views of the Party Centre).

Parties.<sup>11956</sup> In some instances, even general interactions, such as speaking to someone from the opposite sex, were considered moral offences.<sup>11957</sup> If a person was caught by the authorities having an inappropriate male-female relationship, they would be subjected to re-education or punishment.<sup>11958</sup> In some instances, people who loved one another or who committed moral misconduct were arranged to be married to prevent moral misconduct or avoid further misconduct.<sup>11959</sup> In this regard, the Chamber notes

<sup>11956</sup> Case 001 Transcript (KAING Guek Eav), E3/2978, 8 April 2009, p. 18, ERN (En) 00315937 (explaining that in the revolutionary rank, an immoral offence is when people have sexual affairs without being married by Angkar); T. 4 September 2012 (NORNG Sophang), E1/121.1, p. 58 (“At that time, when someone was reported as having committed moral offence, it means that person could have been committing the sexual offence or misconduct.”); T. 8 October 2012 (MEAS Voeun), E1/131.1, pp. 63-64 (“The word ‘moral misconduct’, in the eyes of the leadership, is about the moral offence between a man and a woman, [...] but the most important point was for those men to – not to play around with women or to violate any discipline, military disciplines regarding women, and that’s important for them to adhere to such guidelines.”); T. 6 February 2015 (SORY Sen), E1/258.1, p. 73 (“To commit a moral offence means to play around with a woman or to molest a woman.”); T. 24 August 2015 (CHHUY Huy), E1/335.1, p. 49 (stating that when a man and woman who loved each other decided to marry by themselves, this was considered as moral offence); T. 13 June 2016 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/436.1, p. 22 (agreeing that sexual relations between a man and a woman outside of marriage approved by Angkar was considered as a form of moral offence or immoral act); T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, p. 67 (confirming that when man and woman had sex with one another, they were considered to have engaged in moral misconduct); T. 16 September 2016 (NOEM Oem), E1/475.1, p. 22 (“At that time, if there was a rape incident took place, it was considered as a moral offence”); T. 20 June 2012 (YUN Kim), E1/89.1, p. 13 (the witness, the chief of a cooperative, gave as an example of moral misconduct when a man had an affair with a woman); T. 12 November 2012 (PECHUY Chip Se), E1/143.1, p. 109 (describing the term misconduct as having affairs or prenuptial affairs and stating that both persons would be taken to re-education sessions or, in other times, only one side were taken to re-education session); T. 11 June 2015 (KEO Kin), E1/314.1, p. 41 (“Moral misconduct meant people having sexual intercourse. If such a case was found out, the offenders would be taken away and smashed.”); T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, pp. 66-68 (stating that when individuals loved one another and had sexual intercourse before marriage, they were considered to have engaged in moral misconduct); CHHUOM Savoeun Interview Record, E3/9578, 15 October 2014, p. 8, ERN (En) 01053603 (stating that Angkar’s resolute stances was that only husband and wife could have intimacy, and intimacy outside of wedlock was a crime of immorality).

<sup>11957</sup> T. 24 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/463.1, p. 21 (“Men and women did not dare to discuss with one another, even in the same unit. If we were found to have discussion with one another, we would be considered [...] committing moral offences.”); KIM Huon Civil Party Application, E3/6015, p. 7, ERN (En) 00893527 (stating that before her marriage, she did not dare to talk about love because it would be considered a form of moral misconduct).

<sup>11958</sup> T. 13 June 2016 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/436.1, pp. 22-23 (stating that if individuals were caught engaging in moral misconduct, they would be smashed but for some cases, they were tolerated); T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, p. 66 (stating that those who committed moral misconduct were subject to education or study session).

<sup>11959</sup> T. 25 February 2015 (PHAN Chhen), E1/269.1, pp. 68-69 (“For those who committed moral misconduct, [...] I asked them whether they truly loved each other for life. If that was the case then they should invite their parents and then we would arrange the marriage [...] otherwise in other places they would be punished.”); T. 30 November 2015 (PAN Chhoung), E1/359.1, pp. 72-73 (stating that workers who committed misconduct would be refashioned for a maximum of three times and, if they could not be re-educated, their marriage would be arranged); T. 13 June 2016 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/436.1, pp. 20-21 (describing an event which Ta Mok solved the issue of a young man and a young woman who loved one another by allowing them to get married so that they do not commit moral misconduct); T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 92 (“If a man or a woman fell in love with one another without permission then the persons would be separated. However, later on if they observed that they behaved well then the marriage would be organised for them.”).

that KAING Guek Eav alias Duch joined a study session with POL Pot in which the latter stated that couples who loved one another should be allowed to get married in order to avoid moral misconduct.<sup>11960</sup> Witness PAN Chhoung, the commander of the battlefield responsible for supervising workers at Trapeang Thma Dam worksite in the Northwest Zone, also testified that marriage would be arranged for those who committed moral misconduct and failed to address their conduct after being warned, to avoid further moral misconduct. However, if the female didn't agree to the marriage, the couple would be sent back to their respective cooperatives.<sup>11961</sup>

14.3.3. Oversight and Reporting Structure regarding Marriage Policy

14.3.3.1. Instructions from the Upper Echelon

3564. The Chamber finds that instructions allowing the lower authority to organise marriages were given from the upper echelon.

3565. PECH Chim, District Secretary in Tram Kak from mid 1976 until early 1977, and KHOEM Boeun, Chief of Cheang Tong commune in Tram Kak district and later served in the Tram Kak District Committee, both agreed that instructions relating to marriage were communicated from the “upper echelon”.<sup>11962</sup> In his statement to OCIJ investigators, Witness SAO Sarun, the Secretary of Sector 105 stated, without specifying a date, that in a meeting in Phnom Penh attended by representatives from all regions, POL Pot gave instructions in relation to weddings.<sup>11963</sup>

3566. Instructions regarding marriage were then disseminated to zones, sectors, districts, communes and villages through meetings or study sessions.<sup>11964</sup> SAO Sarun stated that instructions concerning marriage given by POL Pot in the meeting were passed down to the sector and then to the district levels.<sup>11965</sup> MEAS Voeun, Deputy Commander of Division 1 in the West Zone and then a Secretary of Sector 103, attended

<sup>11960</sup> T. 13 June 2016 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/436.1, p. 23 (“It was better to prevent the moral misconduct from happening than to arrest the people for moral misconduct.”).

<sup>11961</sup> T. 30 November 2015 (PAN Chhoung), E1/359.1, p. 76. See also, Section 11.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, para. 1214 (fn. 4145).

<sup>11962</sup> T. 23 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/291.1, p. 3; T 22 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/290.1, pp. 48-49; T. 5 May 2015 (KHOEM Boeun), E1/297.1, p. 72.

<sup>11963</sup> SAO Sarun Interview Record, E3/384, 30 June 2009, p. 3, ERN (En) 00348373.

<sup>11964</sup> T. 11 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/481.1, p. 19 (stating that the policy of weddings was organic).

<sup>11965</sup> T. 6 June 2012 (SAO Sarun), E1/82.1, pp. 68-69. See also, SAO Sarun Interview Record, E3/384, 30 June 2009, p. 3, ERN (En) 00348373.

a meeting at the zone level where instructions regarding marriage were relayed.<sup>11966</sup> Witness KHOEM Boeun, received the instruction in relation to marriage from her immediate upper level – the district – and she disseminated this instruction to the village chiefs.<sup>11967</sup> Civil Party SENG Soeun, who served as the Deputy Chief of the Handicapped Youth Office of Sector 13 and was then promoted to Chief of the District Office and then to Secretary of Sector 505, stated that he received instruction on weddings from the District Committee. While he was the Chief of the District Office in 1978, the District Committee relayed instructions to implement the CPK’s plan relating to marriage to all the commune chiefs during the meetings.<sup>11968</sup> He was told that the CPK plan in relation to marriage was disseminated throughout the country.<sup>11969</sup> KE Pauk’s wife, Witness SOU Soeurn, who was the District Secretary of the Chamkar Leu district in the Central or old North Zone from late 1975 and was later in charge of female workers in that district until the end of the regime, stated that instructions in relation to marriages were first relayed to the sector, then to the district and subsequently from the district to the commune.<sup>11970</sup> According to a lower level cadre in Kratie, Civil Party HENG Lai Heang, the Sector Committee relayed instructions on marriage to the lower level such as the subordinate office chiefs, the district level or the ministry office.<sup>11971</sup>

3567. Instructions in relation to marriage given at the higher level (i.e. zones, sectors and districts) were more general, with the details of the organisation of marriage discussed at the lower levels. At the meeting that SAO Sarun attended, POL Pot stated that they should marry two or three couples at the same time, that the family if nearby could attend, and that the couple would have to “rise to make a resolution announcing their biographies and their loyalty to one another”.<sup>11972</sup> In Chamkar Leu district in the Central (old North) Zone, general issues of marriage were discussed at the district level but the details concerning the organisation of the wedding ceremony were to be

<sup>11966</sup> T. 8 October 2012 (MEAS Voeun), E1/131.1, p. 64.

<sup>11967</sup> T. 5 May 2015 (KHOEM Boeun), E1/296.1, pp. 18-19.

<sup>11968</sup> T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, p. 42 (“I can recall that based on the meetings and the information relayed by the district committee to all the commune chiefs in S’ang district. He said that we had to implement such plan; that is, to marry those people in their respective communes.”).

<sup>11969</sup> T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, p. 41 (stating that the plan was that after the end of the war, general population who reached the age of marriage had to get married in their respective communes).

<sup>11970</sup> T. 4 June 2015 (SOU Soeurn), E1/310.1, p. 80. See also, Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, para. 1450 (fn. 4970).

<sup>11971</sup> T. 19 September 2016 (HENG Lai Heang), E1/476.1, pp. 13, 35-36.

<sup>11972</sup> SAO Sarun Interview Record, E3/384, 30 June 2009, p. 3, ERN (En) 00348373.

implemented by each commune.<sup>11973</sup> Similarly, in Tram Kak district, the cadres at the sector and district levels discussed the details among themselves under the guidelines from the Southwest Zone.<sup>11974</sup>

14.3.3.2. Reports on marriages to the upper echelon

3568. The Chamber finds that reports relating to marriages were communicated to the upper echelon through reports. A report dated 16 July 1978 from Office 401 to Angkar in relation to family building states that “10 new families have been created in District 26, Sector 32, while there is no confirmation on this issue in Sectors 31 and 37”.<sup>11975</sup> In another report to Angkar dated 4 August 1978, 42 couples were reported married. The report also mentioned the case of a man who had committed suicide by hanging himself, an incident that happened 15 days after his marriage was arranged by Angkar. The report further mentions that a recent investigation to search for a motive behind the suicide found nothing noticeable.<sup>11976</sup>

14.3.3.3. Personal involvement of KHIEU Samphan

3569. KHIEU Samphan was personally involved in relaying instructions regarding marriage. Civil Party CHEA Deap, who joined the revolution as a combatant and worked at the Ministry of Commerce in Phnom Penh, gave evidence in court that she attended a meeting at Wat Ounalom in Phnom Penh chaired by KHIEU Samphan. The Civil Party could not recall the exact date of the meeting but based on her testimony, the Chamber concludes that the meeting took place about six to seven months after the liberation of Phnom Penh in April 1975.<sup>11977</sup> According to the Civil Party, KHIEU Samphan lectured cadres on the necessity of remaining detached from one’s parents and instructed that all ministries had to arrange marriages for all male and female youths

<sup>11973</sup> T. 4 June 2015 (SOU Soeurn), E1/310.1, p. 83.

<sup>11974</sup> T. 23 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/291.1, p. 4.

<sup>11975</sup> DK Report, E3/1092, 16 July 1978, p. 4, ERN (En) 00289924. See also, CHOUN Thy Interview Record, E3/10713, 18 September 2015, p. 8, ERN (En) 01168345 (stating that, as regiment commander in Division 1, he “had to report the number of couples to the upper echelons. Other units did the same. Because the situation during that time was in turmoil during 1978-1979, they forced multi-couple weddings.”).

<sup>11976</sup> DK Report, E3/1094, 4 August 1978, p. 6, ERN (En) 00315373.

<sup>11977</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, pp. 88-89 (“I met him for the first time at Borei Keila stadium and that happened in 1975 [...] And the second time that I met him was at the Ounalom Pagoda when he chaired a conference for male and female youths that day and the conference lasted for the whole day.”); T. 31 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/467.1, pp. 40-43 (stating that she entered Phnom Penh in April 1975, that she got married about 6 or 7 months after arriving in Phnom Penh and confirming that she met KHIEU Samphan before her marriage).

so that the couples could produce children and there would be more forces to defend the country. She further confirmed that the latter point was raised in all study sessions and meetings she attended.<sup>11978</sup> Both the NUON Chea Defence and KHIEU Samphan Defence challenged the Civil Party's evidence on this point, submitting that this information was added later to the supplementary form of her Civil Party Application and that her evidence was unsworn.<sup>11979</sup> As noted above, the Chamber ascribes greater weight to information from in-court statements than from Civil Party Applications. The Chamber finds that the fact that the Civil Party did not raise this information in her Civil Party Application does not render her evidence on the issue unreliable. Further, the Parties had the opportunity to confront the Civil Party on this particular issue in court and the Chamber finds her evidence in court was reliable and consistent throughout.

3570. The Chamber also notes that the allegation that all ministries had to arrange marriages is corroborated by RUOS Suy, who worked as a Ministry of Commerce cadre, and who explained to OCIJ investigators that his ministry unit was assigned monthly minimum quotas for marriages in 1977 and 1978.<sup>11980</sup> Further, in a speech made on the occasion of the third anniversary of the founding of Democratic Kampuchea, KHIEU Samphan called the people to be:

[D]etermined to draw inspiration from the noble and lofty revolutionary heroism of our Revolutionary Army by [...] resolutely putting the interests of the nation the class the people and the revolution over the personal and family interests and by mobilizing all [their] efforts to fulfil all the tasks entrusted by the Party to each of [them].<sup>11981</sup>

3571. While KHIEU Samphan did not directly address the question of marriage in this speech, the Chamber finds that these statements consistently echo his call at Wat Ounalom to state workers to marry in order to produce children and therefore provide more forces to defend the country. It is further consistent with the recollection of

<sup>11978</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, pp. 66-67.

<sup>11979</sup> NUON Chea Closing Brief, para. 1163; KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, para. 2325.

<sup>11980</sup> RUOS Suy Interview Record, E3/10620, 7 July 2015, pp. 15-18, ERN (En) 01147808-01147811 (“there was a plan which required the unit (the State Warehouse unit) to have 100 couples married per month. [...] The marriages began in 1976, but strict measures were implemented from 1977. [...] 100 couples per month had to get married [...] I think that [the order] was issued by the ministry chairman [...] they wanted population growth [...] I just know that Rith alias Roeung ordered my chief, and my chief ordered me to prepare vehicles. Marrying 100 couples a month did not mean those 100 couples had to get married at once. The wedding ceremonies could be held three times a month.”).

<sup>11981</sup> Text of KHIEU Samphan Speech at the occasion of the Third Anniversary of the Glorious April 17 and the Founding of the Democratic Kampuchea, E3/202, undated, p. 5, ERN (En) 00002960.

NORODOM Sihanouk, who recalled hearing KHIEU Samphan praising fervent patriotic young girls for their sacrifices to the nation by marrying disabled veterans of the RAK.<sup>11982</sup>

14.3.4. The Matching

14.3.4.1. Screening of biographies

3572. In the view of the CPK, the selection of a spouse could affect the revolution and it was imperative to select someone with a firm revolutionary stance. Therefore, in pairing couples, certain factors were considered by screening the biographies of individuals,<sup>11983</sup> including their age, status or class (New People or 17 April People, Old People or Base People, peasants), location and ethnicity. Couples who matched were paired up.<sup>11984</sup> Witness NOP Ngim was matched with her husband as both of them had good biographies; they were both from poor backgrounds and lived close to each other.<sup>11985</sup>

3573. Witness MOENG Vet, Deputy Chief of Office in Division 117 in Sector 505 (Kratie), testified that everything was based on individuals' backgrounds. He was told that people with different backgrounds should not be matched for marriage and should not propose to one another. According to him, people with different backgrounds, such as 17 April People, might be affiliated with the KGB or CIA and therefore, if cadres and Base People were married to them, they could be implicated as enemies.<sup>11986</sup>

<sup>11982</sup> See below, Section 14.3.4.4.1: Disabled soldiers.

<sup>11983</sup> T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, p. 19 (stating that the commune chief decided who she would marry by matching her with her husband on the basis of their biographies, as they were both ethnic Chinese and candidate people); T. 17 August 2016 (MY Savoeun), E1/459.1, p. 62 (describing that individuals were matched by their biographies).

<sup>11984</sup> T. 30 July 2015 (OM Chy), E1/326.1, pp. 81-82 (stating that the village chief reviewed the biographies and then matched the couples. For example, if they belonged to the same peasant class then they would be matched and likewise it applied to other classes. It also applied to the new evacuees, so the village chief would look at their biography and if they were both evacuees from Phnom Penh then they could be matched. So the Cham people would be matched with the Cham people.); T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, p. 39; T. 18 August 2015 (CHHUM Seng), E1/332.1, p. 23 (testifying that the instruction that people could only marry a partner of the same class was relayed at the meeting convened by senior authorities and this instruction was relayed to the chiefs of battalions and companies). See also, T. 12 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/482.1, pp. 19-20 ("Ofentimes, people were put on a list. The boys' leader and the girls' leader would get together and they would make a list of the people that they thought would be most suited to marry.").

<sup>11985</sup> T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, pp. 42, 63.

<sup>11986</sup> T. 27 July 2016 (MOENG Vet), E1/449.1, p. 27. See also, Section 16.3.2.1.3.5: Real or Perceived Enemies: CIA, KGB, and "Yuong" (Vietnamese) Agents.

3574. Civil Party SENG Soeun, who was involved in matching individuals, received an order from the S'Ang District Committee to collect biographies of individuals who reached the age of marriage from the male and female mobile units. After receiving the biographies, he screened them and matched individuals according to their ages, statuses and the communes in which they lived, without any discussion with the male and female unit chiefs. The Civil Party stated that while he did the matching, the actual decision that people of marrying age had to marry was made by the District Committee.<sup>11987</sup>

3575. In cases where the couples themselves requested permission to marry, their biographies would still need to be verified.<sup>11988</sup>

3576. The Chamber is satisfied that biographies of individuals were screened before matching them to get married.

14.3.4.2. Matching couples with different backgrounds

3577. A number of witnesses and Civil Parties stated that New People were to be married with New People, Old People were to be married with Old People and New People were not allowed to marry Old People.<sup>11989</sup> According to Civil Party SENG Soeun, there was an instruction from the S'ang District Committee that New People should only be matched with New People and Base People should be matched with Base People.<sup>11990</sup> Similarly, Witness MOENG Vet testified that people with different backgrounds should not be matched together.<sup>11991</sup> In court, Duch explained that:

<sup>11987</sup> T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, pp. 21-22, 38-39.

<sup>11988</sup> T. 30 July 2015 (OM Chy), E1/326.1, pp. 114-115 (stating that couples sometimes requested to be married. This request would be forwarded upward and they could only get married after the commune chief verified their biographies). See below, Section 14.3.5.2: Marriage Proposed by Individuals.

<sup>11989</sup> T. 24 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/463.1, p. 22 (“New [P]eople were to get married with new people and old people were marry the old people”); T. 2 September 2015 (MEAN Loeuy), E1/340.1, p. 68 (stating that mixed couples were not formed and New People were not allowed to marry Base People); T. 26 May 2015 (MEAS Laihour), E1/305.1, p. 11; T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, p. 23 (stating that the instruction from the District Committee allowed New People to be matched only with New People and Base People only with Base People); T. 25 August 2016 (YOS Phal), E1/464.1, p. 28 (describing that he did not dare to propose marriage to his fiancée because he was considered to be a 17 April Person. Among the 50 couples that were married alongside him, some of them had good biographies and they were matched with their desired partners); KHOEM Boeun Interview Record, E3/9480, 21 May 2014, p. 23, ERN (En) 01057697 (“It was my understanding that the new people were no-good. They were the enemy and were not as valuable as the old people. Thus they were not allowed to married the old people”); OR Ho Interview Record, E3/5255, 18 November 2008, p. 6, ERN (En) 00250047 (“Both new and old people could marry, but the new people married new people and old people married old people. [...] The Cham married other Cham; the Chinese married other Chinese.”).

<sup>11990</sup> T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, p. 23.

<sup>11991</sup> T. 27 July 2016 (MOENG Vet), E1/449.1, pp. 26-27.

In marriage affair[s], we [...] were not prohibited from getting married with any person. However, we were asked to be very careful to make sure that, when we get married, we can have our children and to make sure that one plus one equals two. This ideology, it means that we should refrain from getting married with girls or women who were evacuees. And I was myself bound by this ideology and principle to get married to [...] a woman who was trusted.<sup>11992</sup>

3578. However, one Civil Party gave evidence that in some rare instances, New People and Base People were allowed to marry if the district considered that they were “good people” and approved the marriage.<sup>11993</sup>

3579. There is also evidence before the Chamber that people with different ethnicities were not allowed to intermarry. Specifically, there is evidence that Cham people were matched with other Cham and that mixed marriages were not allowed.<sup>11994</sup> According to YOU Vann, the Deputy Chief of Ro’ang commune in Kampong Siem district, PRAK Yut, District Secretary of Kampong Siem district, announced by microphone that marriage should take place between people of the same ethnicity and that marriage between different ethnicities was forbidden.<sup>11995</sup> However, during her testimony in court, PRAK Yut stated that she received instructions from Ta An, the Sector Secretary, regarding mixed marriages between Cham and Khmer; namely, that they should be allowed if the mixed couple loved each other.<sup>11996</sup> The Chamber recalls its assessment that PRAK Yut minimised her own conduct, in particular the role she played in relation to the orders she received about targeting the Cham,<sup>11997</sup> and finds that YOU Vann’s testimony was sufficiently corroborated by other evidence and is therefore credible in this regard. The Chamber finds that in general, mixed marriages between Cham and Khmer were not allowed during the regime. There is insufficient evidence for the Chamber to make a finding on mixed marriages between other ethnicities.

3580. The Chamber finds that generally people with similar backgrounds were matched to marry; Base People were matched to marry Base People and not New

<sup>11992</sup> T. 20 March 2012 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/51.1, p. 35.

<sup>11993</sup> T. 4 June 2015 (SOU Soeurn), E1/310.1, pp. 80-84.

<sup>11994</sup> T. 26 May 2015 (MEAS Layhuor), E1/305.1, pp. 13-14 (“In my place, Cham married their own people.”); T. 8 January 2016 (SOS Romly), E1/372.1, p. 47 (stating that there were two weddings organised in Trea village where Cham were married to the Cham and Khmer were married to the Khmer).

<sup>11995</sup> T. 18 January 2016 (YOU Vann), E1/377.1, p. 36.

<sup>11996</sup> T. 19 January 2016 (PRAK Yut), E1/378.1, p. 49.

<sup>11997</sup> Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham, para. 3191.

People. However, people with different backgrounds were also allowed to marry if the authorities considered that they were “good people”.

14.3.4.3. Marrying age

3581. The Chamber heard varying evidence in relation to the age at which individuals were considered to be ready to marry. Witness MEAS Voeun, Deputy Commander of Division 1 in the West Zone and then a Secretary of Sector 103, attended a meeting at the zone level during which the instruction was relayed that males must be at least 20 years old and females at least 18 years old in order to marry.<sup>11998</sup> This evidence was confirmed by CHEA Deap, who attended a conference for male and female youths and heard KHIEU Samphan state that women between the ages of 19 and 35 should marry. At that meeting, KHIEU Samphan also confirmed that younger women should not get married.<sup>11999</sup>

3582. In practice, however, the age of individuals who were arranged to marry varied. SENG Soeun gave evidence that while he was serving as the Chief of the S’ang District Office, men had to be at least 25 and females between two to five years younger. He confirmed receiving this instruction from Phon, the member of the District Committee.<sup>12000</sup> Although some individuals could not recall their exact dates of birth or ages, they were able to give an estimate in court of how old they were when they married. Numerous female witnesses and Civil Parties were married between the ages of 20 and 28.<sup>12001</sup> Civil Party OM Yoeurn, a unionist at a rubber plantation in Kampong Cham province, was married when she was around 23 or 24 years old, while her husband was around 47 or 48 years old.<sup>12002</sup> CHEA Deap stated that she was married at around 19 or 20 years of age, while her husband was 26 years old.<sup>12003</sup> Civil Party

<sup>11998</sup> T. 8 October 2012 (MEAS Voeun), E1/131.1, p. 64.

<sup>11999</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, pp. 86-89.

<sup>12000</sup> T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, p. 21; T. 30 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/466.1, p. 49 (testifying that, at first, the age of the wives had to be two to three years less than the husband and that, later on, the age of the men have to be three to five older than the women).

<sup>12001</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 68 (stating that she did not want to get married because she was still young, 19 or 20 years old at that time); T. 19 September 2016 (HENG Lai Heang), E1/476.1, pp. 53-54 (stating that she got married when she was 25 years old); T. 22 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/461.1, p. 99 (stating she got married when she was around 23-24 years old); T. 5 September 2016 (NGOP Ngim), E1/469.1, p. 61 (“I got married when I was 28 at the time.”); T. 25 August 2016 (YOS Phal), E1/464.1, p. 27 (stating that the age of the 50 couples that were to be married during his wedding, was around 23-25 years old); T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, p. 57 (stating that among the 60 couples that were married together with her, their ages were around 20-27 years old).

<sup>12002</sup> T. 22 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/461.1, p. 99.

<sup>12003</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 72 (stating that other couples were similar ages).

NGET Chat, a mobile unit worker, was married when she was 20 years old, while her husband was almost twice her age.<sup>12004</sup>

3583. Women were married as young as 16,<sup>12005</sup> or as old as 60. PEN Sochan was married when she was 15 or 16 years old, while her husband was 25 years old.<sup>12006</sup> Witness LING Lrysov was married when she was 17 years old.<sup>12007</sup>

3584. Within the military, the age at which combatants were married fell within a similar range to that of the general population. Civil Party SUN Vuth stated that marriages were usually arranged for male combatants who were 30 years old and above and for female combatants who were 29 or 30 years old.<sup>12008</sup> NOP Ngim stated that the minimum age for male combatants to marry was 18 years old.<sup>12009</sup> Civil Party MY Savoeun, an East Zone soldier, gave evidence that he was married at around 25 years of age, while his wife was around five years younger.<sup>12010</sup>

3585. Although the ages of individuals who were married varied, the Chamber finds the evidence to be consistent in showing that women were generally in their twenties and men were generally 25 or older when they married.

14.3.4.4. Favoured individuals

14.3.4.4.1. Disabled soldiers

3586. Arrangements were made for soldiers who were disabled as a consequence of wounds suffered in the battlefield to be married. In his book, NORODOM Sihanouk described hearing KHIEU Samphan talking about young women who were brought to marry disabled soldiers:

Young girls chased from Phnom Penh and other towns in April 1975 forced into unions with the “Khmer Rouge heroes”, the disabled – yes, indeed! – the severely injured, the disabled veterans, the one eyed, the

<sup>12004</sup> T. 24 October 2016 (NGET Chat), E1/488.1, p. 124.

<sup>12005</sup> T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1 pp. 44-45 (testifying that there were two 16 years old girl who were to be married at her wedding but they ran away and they were not pursued because Ta Mok said they were too young. She confirmed knowing about their ages from the two individuals after the wedding); T. 2 June 2015 (SEANG Sovida), E1/308.1, p. 8 (stating that her sister got married when she was around 15 or 16 years old).

<sup>12006</sup> T. 12 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/482.1, p. 98.

<sup>12007</sup> T. 20 August 2016 (LING Lrysov), E1/334.1, p. 60.

<sup>12008</sup> T. 30 March 2016 (SUN Vuth), E1/411.1, p. 79; 31 March 2016 (SUN Vuth), E1/412.1, p. 6.

<sup>12009</sup> T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, pp. 61-62.

<sup>12010</sup> T. 17 August 2016 (MY Savoeun), E1/459.1, pp. 82-83.

blind, the armless, the one-legged and even individuals without legs. [...] Khieu Samphan asserted that the young ladies were “fervently patriotic” (sic) and “accepted, by way of their marriage, to care for the well-being of the heroes who had sacrificed themselves for the nation”.<sup>12011</sup>

3587. SENG Soeun heard from his former superior that there was an instruction from Ta Mok to marry off disabled soldiers. According to his superior – who was the head of the “Youth Handicap Unit” in Takhmau – Ta Mok established a policy requiring the Youth Handicap Unit to bring in women to marry the disabled soldiers because they were getting older.<sup>12012</sup> This instruction was relayed from Ta Mok to the sector level, from sector level to the district level, and then to subordinates below the district level. The ages of those disabled soldiers ranged from 25 to over 30 years of age.<sup>12013</sup> The women to be married to the disabled soldiers were normal civilians brought in from pepper plantations in Kampot.<sup>12014</sup>

3588. NOP Ngim, who was a combatant herself, was among a group of 40 women who were arranged to marry 40 disabled soldiers, under the instruction of Ta Mok. She was sent from Kampot province to Battambang province along with other female combatants. She stated that the disabled soldiers married at her wedding ceremony were sent by Ta Mok to Samlaut district from the Southwest Zone in order to be married.<sup>12015</sup>

<sup>12011</sup> Book by Norodom S.: Prisoner of the Khmer Rouge, E3/2813, p. 1, ERN (En) 00632939 (original emphasis).

<sup>12012</sup> T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, pp. 15-18, 22, 36 (SENG Soeun was a former deputy chief of the Youth Handicap Office of Sector 13. After he left the office, he went to visit his former office and his former superior told him about order of the arrangement of marriage for disabled soldiers).

<sup>12013</sup> T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, p. 18. See also, SENG OI Interview Record, E3/5833, 2 December 2009, pp. 6-7, ERN (En) 00413906-00413907 (SENG OI, the chairperson of the women unit in Nheang Nhorng commune, told the OCIJ that “[i]n 1977 or 1978, the army came to request women from my unit to be married in Kampong Saom. Proposal letters were sent from the army to my commune, and the Commune Comm[itee] told me to select women to go to Kampong Saom, saying that the army had requested them. At that time, neither I nor the women selected to go knew that they were being taken away to marry handicapped soldiers. According to my understanding, those soldiers were not severely handicapped; they were only slightly handicapped. I selected about three to five women from my unit. The selections were not made only in my unit; various other communes did the same. [...] I don’t know if those women volunteered or not; but not one of those women refused.”).

<sup>12014</sup> T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, pp. 17, 19.

<sup>12015</sup> T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, pp. 43-44 (while 40 women were arranged, only 38 were married because two women escaped); PREAP Kap Interview Record, E3/9818, 3 November 2014, pp. 8-13, ERN (En) 01053908-01053911 (PREAP Kap, a disabled soldier (who had lost his eyesight) and the husband of NOP Ngim, provided that Ta Mok took 100 disabled soldiers from the unit for disabled persons located in Takhmau to the Northwest Zone. When they arrived Battambang, he was among the 40 disabled soldiers who were selected by Ta Mok to get married in Samlaut. He also confirmed that at the end, only 38 disabled soldiers were married because two women escaped).

3589. At CHEA Deap's group wedding involving 12 couples; female combatants were married to disabled soldiers (some of whom had lost one or both legs or an arm, or were blind in one eye, and many of whom could not walk properly). She explained that the disabled soldiers were brought in from the North Zone to marry because they could no longer fight the enemy. A female combatant herself, her husband had a problem with his leg and could not walk properly.<sup>12016</sup> Civil Party PREAP Sokhoeurn was married to a disabled man without being notified in advance. Her husband was disabled in one leg and, after the marriage, PREAP Sokhoeurn noticed that he had very poor eyesight as a result of the war.<sup>12017</sup> SOU Sotheavy witnessed a wedding of disabled soldiers when she was in Takeo province. According to her, the disabled soldiers were sent back from the battlefield and married to Base People, who were considered to be loyal to the Party.<sup>12018</sup>

3590. These testimonies are further consistent with CPK ideological discourse, including the speeches made by KHIEU Samphan, on the duty to serve the revolution and respect the Party discipline unconditionally.<sup>12019</sup> They show that marriages between

<sup>12016</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, pp. 70-71.

<sup>12017</sup> T. 24 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/488.1, pp. 31-32.

<sup>12018</sup> T. 23 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/462.1, pp. 94-95.

<sup>12019</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/166, February-March 1976, p. 24, ERN (En) 00517836 ("Our people have a high level of sacrifice, have the stance of respect for organizational discipline, respect Party leadership unconditionally, and have a laboring nature along with the highest spirit and stance of the collective."); Revolutionary Flag, E3/4, July 1976, pp. 23, ERN (En) 00268935 ("There is only one single firm organizational discipline. There is not a separate discipline for upper echelon, a separate one for Party members. It is imperative that we all respect it."), 30, ERN (En) 00268942 ("If we respect this organization, we will not be wrong. If we are wrong, we will be able to rectify it."); Revolutionary Youth, E3/733, May 1976, p. 3, ERN (En) 00357870 ("Our Kampuchean youth have the task of defending the country and constructing the country to be firm, mighty, skilled and esteemed and glorious extremely rapidly following the Party's new direction of socialist revolution absolutely."); Revolutionary Youth, E3/753, June 1976, p. 10, ERN (En) 00583795 ("By doing so, we revolutionary youth build ourselves well, firmly, and properly following the lines of the Party and so by guarantee our future tum at successfully and permanently waging and achieving socialist revolution and building socialism on into the future."); Revolutionary Youth, E3/772, September 1977, p. 13, ERN (En) 00541712 ("We the youth of this generation must pay a great deal of attention to building ourselves well following the Party's revolutionary stances in every field and not be bothered with or become entangled with miscellaneous issues surrounding our individual persons that might cause us to build ourselves slowly or attract us into falling backwards again."); Revolutionary Youth, E3/729, October 1975, p. 12, ERN (En) 00357911 ("Our revolutionary youth must constantly keep on building, strengthening, [...] the four essential proletarian qualities of the Party: the highest sacrifice, the sharpest combat, unconditional respect for organizational discipline [...] Along with this, it is imperative to constantly have a high spirit of revolutionary vigilance, vigilance in outlook and stance, vigilance in organization, vigilance in routine daily life, absolutely respecting the organizational discipline of the Party, absolutely respecting and implementing the Party's line and organizational provisions."); Revolutionary Youth, E3/730, December 1975, p. 12, ERN (En) 00363433 ("In terms of organization, it is imperative to concentrate on educating and refashioning our youth to have correct and solid organization, to have unconditional and awakened respect for organizational discipline"); Revolutionary Youth, E3/754, August 1976, pp. 10-11, ERN (En) 00539858-00539859 ("They respect [Party discipline] unconditionally, consciously, voluntarily and disabled soldiers, considered as war heroes and trusted revolutionaries, and young women selected from among Base People, were implemented according to a policy promoted by the highest levels of the CPK. Based on such ideological values, females were expected to sacrifice themselves for “patriotic” reasons and for the benefit of the revolution.

14.3.4.4.2. Combatants and cadres

3591. The evidence shows that male combatants were usually asked or encouraged to choose a wife or were consulted when paired with someone.<sup>12020</sup> Expert Kasumi NAKAGAWA confirmed in court that combatants had more privilege in relation to marriage. They were usually allowed to choose a wife and, once that choice was made, the woman had to accept the decision without any question. To the best of the expert’s knowledge, this was the practice nationwide.<sup>12021</sup> Similarly, male cadres also received special treatment in relation to marriage but not everyone voluntarily consented to such arrangements.<sup>12022</sup> Additionally, there is no evidence that the consent of the other wholeheartedly”), 14, ERN (En) 00539862 (This point means that we respect comrade who is the representative of Angkar or the leading committee whenever that comrade or committee instructs, educates, and leads us to follow the correct line of the Party, various organizational conditions of the Party, and the correct policy of the Party.”), 15, ERN (En) 00539863 (“To respect the Angkar-disciplines unconditionally.”), 16, ERN (En) 00539864 (“As long as our revolutionary male female youths strive to learn and grasp the Party political and ideological lines firmly and know well about various organizational conditions of the Party it means that we respect the Party Angkar disciplines well and consciously.”); Revolutionary Youth, E3/726, January-February 1978, p. 11, ERN (En) 00278718 (“It is imperative to consciously and unconditionally respect the organizational discipline of the Party at all times.”); Revolutionary Youth, E3/765, October 1978, p. 8, ERN (En) 00539983 (“Speaking in terms of the stance of unconditional respect for organizational discipline, we can see that our comrades who are good clearly respect the leadership of the Party: no matter what the Party has them do, they do it, and they have no complicated ideologies.”). See above, para. 3569.

---

<sup>12020</sup> T. 3 August 2016 (CHIN Saroeun), E1/454.1, pp. 65, 74-77; T. 24 October 2016 (KUL Nem), E1/488.1, pp. 88-90 (As a Division 920 soldier, KUL Nem was forced to choose a wife, although he already had a fiancée. Eventually, he asked Angkar to choose one for him); T. 27 July 2016 (MOENG Vet), E1/449.1, pp. 21, 25-26 (MOENG Vet gave an example that women did not have the right to freely choose men but soldiers; the men conversely had the right to choose which women they wanted to marry); CHHUOM Savoeng Interview Record, E3/9578, 15 October 2014, p. 11, ERN (En) 01053606 (“Angkar told me that it was time for me to get married. So I proposed the name of a woman I liked for Angkar to arrange the marriage. After 1979 that woman requested a divorce”); EM Sarin Interview Record, E3/10639, 23 April 2005, p. 19, ERN (En) 01098421 (regarding the Handicap Unit in Division 2: “The grooms chose their spouses freely. [...] Q: [...] [D]id you ask the brides if they agreed to marry these men? A229: I did not ask the women”). KOEM Men Interview Record, E3/10768, 3 September 2015, p. 25, ERN (En) 01170548 (As a Battalion 623 commander, he explained that men and women were free to marry. He further stated that “[t]hey brought and showed women to the soldiers, and they asked whether they loved the women or not. I lived on the island, and they brought women to the island”).

<sup>12021</sup> T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, pp. 64-67.

<sup>12022</sup> T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, p. 26 (as a chief of the district office, SENG Soeun was informed of his marriage in advance. He testified that he was in a difficult situation as he did not want to get married). See also, T. 4 May 2016 (HIM Huy), E1/427.1, pp. 94-95 (On one occasion, six spouse was sought in such circumstances; on the contrary, several women stated that the decision to marry cadres was imposed on them.<sup>12023</sup> The Chamber therefore finds that even though some male cadres were allowed to choose their wives, their spouses were forced to marry without being asked.

14.3.5. Authorisation to Marry

3592. A number of witnesses and Civil Parties stated that marriages had to be authorised by Angkar,<sup>12024</sup> or that weddings had to comply with Angkar's policy.<sup>12025</sup> Expert Kasumi NAKAGAWA stated that while the process of marriages varied in many ways, the "Khmer Rouge" had the absolute right to authorise marriages – if anyone wanted to marry, they had to seek permission from the "Khmer Rouge".<sup>12026</sup>

3593. The Chamber heard evidence of weddings proposed by the matching authorities as well as weddings proposed by individuals seeking to marry. The Chamber addresses these in turn.

---

women were brought in from the garment section to marry S-21 staff to be married in a group ceremony, which was arranged by Duch. The couples did not know each other before the marriages.)

<sup>12023</sup> T. 19 January 2016 (PRAK Yut), E1/378.1, pp. 39, 43-44 ("Angkar organized my marriage and we were living together. I did not think of having a husband; however, Ta Chap said that I should get married and I, actually, was hesitating to get married because I was rather young. However, because I was told by Ta Chap, then I decided to marry my husband but, personally, I did not want to marry him. However, because upper Angkar organized it, then I followed the instruction. [...] I had to make that decision because sooner or later, as a woman, I had to marry a man. For that reason, I had to follow that instruction... [Ta Chap] was overall in charge, and if I did not follow his instructions, it meant that I disrespected him. Loving [my future spouse] or not, I had to follow his instruction."); CHEAM Kim Interview Record, E3/9524, 13 March 2014, p. 5, ERN (En) 00985175 (explaining that in May 1975, while she was in Svay Sisophon, she had to marry Ta Val who was the Chairman of the Sector 5 Mobile Unit and who was twice her age). See also, Revolutionary Flag, E3/4, July 1976, p. 23, ERN (En) 00268935 ("There is only one single firm organizational discipline. There is not a separate discipline for upper echelon, a separate one for Party members. It is imperative that we all respect it.").

<sup>12024</sup> T. 26 May 2015 (MEAS Laihour), E1/305.1 p. 3 (stating that people could not get married without the authorisation of Angkar); T. 30 March 2016 (SAO Sarun), E1/411.1, p. 79 (marriages had to be authorised by Angkar); T. 24 August 2015 (CHHUY Huy), E1/335.1, pp. 48-49 (men and women who loved each other could not propose and decided to marry by themselves. They had to propose it through their respective chief and if they married by themselves without recognition from others, that was considered to be a moral offence.); T. 22 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/290.1, p. 45 ("It was impossible for any marriage to be celebrated without the authorisation"); T. 4 May 2015 (KHOEM Boeun), E1/296.1, p. 18 (explaining that the weddings could take place only after marriage proposals were approved by the upper level).

<sup>12025</sup> T. 19 May 2015 (OR Ho), E1/301.1, pp. 54-55; T. 19 September 2016 (HENG Lai Heang), E1/476.1, pp. 12-14, 34-36. See above, Section 14.3.2: Policy regarding the Regulation of Marriage and Discipline.

<sup>12026</sup> T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 58; T. 12 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/482.1, p. 19 ("The fact that they were selected to marry is clear, and that the marriage had to be approved. Oftentimes, people were put on a list.").

14.3.5.1. Marriage proposed by authorities

3594. Once lower authorities matched individuals to marry, the proposed selection required approval by the upper authorities. If the selection and matching was made by a unit chief, the request would have to be approved by a higher-level authority.

3595. Civil Party MOM Vun, a mobile unit worker in Siem Reap province in the North Zone, stated that Than alias Rom, who was in charge of the worksite, selected those who would marry following instructions from the district level.<sup>12027</sup>

3596. As discussed above, SENG Soeun stated that he received an order and instruction to organise marriages from Brother SAO Phon of the District Committee.<sup>12028</sup> SENG Soeun prepared a list of couples he had matched and submitted them to the District Committee. The decision to approve the weddings was made at the district level.<sup>12029</sup> The district level was responsible and made decisions regarding the marriage of male and female youths who were part of the district mobile unit. The commune level was responsible for the marriage of male and female youths in their respective communes.<sup>12030</sup>

3597. NOP Ngim, a female combatant from Kampot, stated that the district secretary forced people to marry following an instruction from Ta Mok who, at the time, was the Southwest Zone Secretary. According to her understanding, Ta Mok was the one who matched the couples.<sup>12031</sup> However, based on evidence from other witnesses and Civil Parties, the Chamber finds that while the authorisation to proceed with weddings emanated from the higher level, the matching was done by lower-level cadres.<sup>12032</sup>

3598. The Chamber finds that the evidence consistently demonstrates that, following general instruction from the upper level, the lower level cadres matched the individuals to be wedded and then proposed such lists to the higher authority cadres for approval.

<sup>12027</sup> T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, pp. 76-78.

<sup>12028</sup> T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, pp. 20-21.

<sup>12029</sup> T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, pp. 39, 82.

<sup>12030</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/466.1, pp. 47-48.

<sup>12031</sup> T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, pp. 47, 64.

<sup>12032</sup> See above, paras 3594-3596.

14.3.5.2. Marriage proposed by individuals

3599. According to some witnesses and Civil Parties, in certain circumstances individuals were effectively allowed to name whom they wanted to marry to their superior or supervisor for approval. This practice was confirmed by Witness CHHUM Seng, chief of a company within one of the mobile units operating at the Trapeang Thma Dam, who stated that if an individual wanted to marry a particular person, he or she had to make a request. Similarly, Witness OM Chy, Unit Chief in Kampong Thom province of the Central Zone, confirmed that such requests had to be made to the supervisor.<sup>12033</sup> OM Yoeurn knew a man who requested to marry the woman he loved to the chief of the women's group. The wedding was approved by Angkar after the woman agreed.<sup>12034</sup> The Chamber notes that while both males and females could in theory make such requests, women do not generally propose marriage in Cambodian culture.<sup>12035</sup>

3600. While SENG Soeun was at S'ang district, he witnessed a couple who fell in love and requested approval to marry from Brother SAO Phon, the member of the District Committee. The District Committee approved the marriage.<sup>12036</sup> Witness MEAS Voeun also stated that when individuals liked each other, they would inform him and he would consent to their marriage.<sup>12037</sup>

3601. However, not all weddings proposed by individuals were approved by the authorities. OM Yoeurn received a marriage proposal from OM Phon. The next day,

---

<sup>12033</sup> T. 18 August 2015 (CHHUM Seng), E1/332.1, p. 24 (if people want to marry a particular individual, they had to make a request); T. 30 July 2015 (OM Chy), E1/326.1, pp. 114-115 (couples sometimes requested to be married; this request was forwarded upward and they could only get married after the commune chief verified their biographies). See also, T. 19 May 2015 (OR Ho), E1/301.1, pp. 54-55 ("In my village the man would tell that he loved certain woman and likewise the woman would do the same and after that we would like a report to the upper echelon about this. [...] For the upper echelon, they received the biography that we send to them and after that they would arrange the place for the marriage to take place."); CHHUOM Savoeun Interview Record, E3/9578, 15 October 2014, p. 11, ERN (En) 01053606 ("Angkar told me it was time to get married. So I proposed the name of a woman I liked for Angkar to arrange the marriage. After 1979, that woman requested a divorce"); CHUON Pheap Interview Record, E3/9527, 18 February 2014, p. 4, ERN (En) 00982315 ("At that time the Khmer Rouge allowed me to select a girl from among the base women. After I had found one I liked, I made a request to my unit chief who in turn made a request to the woman's unit chairperson.").

<sup>12034</sup> T. 23 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/462.1, p. 28.

<sup>12035</sup> T. 18 January 2016 (YOU Vann), E1/377.1, p. 51.

<sup>12036</sup> T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, p. 77.

<sup>12037</sup> T. 8 October 2012 (MEAS Voeun), E1/131.1, p. 64.

the authority arranged for OM Yoeurn to be married. However, on the day of her wedding, she discovered that she was arranged to be married to a different man.<sup>12038</sup> 3602. The Chamber finds that all marriages, whether proposed by individuals or matched by authorities, required approval by a higher authority. As set out below, the level authorising the marriage depended on the level and/or position of the individuals who were to marry.

14.3.5.3. The authorising authority

3603. The authority which approved the marriage varied depending on the level and/or position of the persons to be married.

3604. According to NEANG Ouch alias Ta San, Tram Kak District Secretary from October 1977, once a draft for matching people was ready, a nominal list of the concerned individuals was sent to the commune or sector level for approval. In general, the names were reported from the village to commune and from commune to the district level. Certain couples required approval from the sector level due to their connection with that level.<sup>12039</sup> SENG Soeun from the Southwest Zone gave similar evidence that authorisation was required from the district level.<sup>12040</sup>

3605. Witness YOU Vann, the Deputy Chief of Ro'ang commune in Kampong Siem district in the Central (old North) Zone, understood that the decision to approve a marriage lay at the district level. When a proposal was made to a group chief, from there it would be forwarded to the village chief, then to the commune level and eventually to the district level.<sup>12041</sup> PRAK Yut, District Secretary of the Kampong Siem district in Sector 41 of the Central (old North) Zone, testified to the involvement of the sector. According to her, after a couple had "consented" to marry, a request for approval would be made to the sector. She further stated that as a District Secretary, she did not have the authority to approve marriages without discussion with the Sector

<sup>12038</sup> T. 23 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/462.1, pp. 3-4, 30-31.

<sup>12039</sup> T. 10 March 2015 (NEANG Ouch), E1/274.1, p. 38 (men or women who were part of the sector forces needed authorisation from the sector to be married. However, if they had no involvement with the sector level, marriage was proposed by the cooperative chief or commune chief for, with approval from the district level).

<sup>12040</sup> T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, p. 39.

<sup>12041</sup> T. 14 January 2016 (YOU Vann), E1/376.1, p. 77; T. 14 September 2015 (SEN Srun), E1/346.1, pp. 57-58 (individuals are prohibited to marry on their own); T. 4 June 2015 (SOU Soeurn), E1/310.1, pp. 80, 83.

Secretary.<sup>12042</sup> Others also testified that their marriages were decided by the district level. MOM Vun stated that Rom alias Than, a person attached to the Chikraeng district, was responsible for the selection of individuals to get married. She further stated that Rom implemented the instruction she received from the district.<sup>12043</sup> PEN Sochan was told by her unit chief that the instructions with respect to the arrangement of marriage were received from the district level.<sup>12044</sup>

3606. Where individuals worked at the district level, the District Committee was the authority to approve and arrange those marriages.<sup>12045</sup> For mobile units belonging to the district, all steps related to the organisation of marriages were taken at the District Office by the district level.<sup>12046</sup> Similarly, the ministries were responsible for arranging and approving marriages for staff in their ministries.<sup>12047</sup> This was also confirmed by CHEA Deap who worked at the Ministry of Commerce in Phnom Penh. Her marriage was arranged by her supervisor.<sup>12048</sup> Marriages of those in the military were arranged by their commanders or supervisors.<sup>12049</sup>

3607. According to HENG Lai Heang, who served on the Commune Committee in Sector 505 (Kratie), those who worked at the commune and district levels would have their weddings organised by cadres working in the respective zone. For the general population, weddings would be authorised by the commune. She explained that her wedding was attended only by cadres of the village and commune levels because the zone level cadres were busy in the battlefield.<sup>12050</sup>

<sup>12042</sup> T. 19 January 2016 (PRAK Yut), E1/378.1, pp. 47-48.

<sup>12043</sup> T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, p. 76.

<sup>12044</sup> T. 12 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/482.1, p. 77.

<sup>12045</sup> T. 18 March 2015 (RIEL Son), E1/279.1, p. 39.

<sup>12046</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/466.1, pp. 46-49.

<sup>12047</sup> T. 19 September 2016 (HENG Lai Heang), E1/476.1, pp. 13, 35-36.

<sup>12048</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 69.

<sup>12049</sup> EM Sarin Interview Record, E3/10639, 23 April 2005, pp. 14, 17, ERN (En) 01098416, 01098419 (explaining that Division Commander arranged marriages for soldiers in all companies, platoons and battalions); MUOL Eng Interview Record, E3/9833, 4 May 2015, pp. 21-22, ERN (En) 01111846-01111847 (MUOL Eng, a military in the Southwest Zone, explained that his regiment commander arranged and presided over his wedding).

<sup>12050</sup> T. 19 September 2016 (HENG Lai Heang), E1/476.1, pp. 13, 35-36, 40 (zone level cadres sent a letter saying that they could not attend her wedding because they were busy at the border, therefore, only the village and commune level cadres attended her wedding).

3608. While some evidence suggests that decisions to approve weddings might have been made at a lower level,<sup>12051</sup> the Chamber finds that this can be explained by the fact that individuals understood the level which informed them that the wedding was approved to be the approving authority. This evidence does not contradict consistent evidence that authorisation generally came from higher levels. The Chamber is therefore satisfied that in general, the decision to authorise a marriage rested at the district level for the general population and those who worked below the district level. Where individuals worked for or had certain connections with the zone or sector levels, these levels were involved in the authorisation and organisation of their marriages. For individuals working in a ministry or a specific office, that ministry or office would arrange the marriage. In the military, marriages were authorised by the commanders or supervisors.

3609. The Chamber finds PRAK Yut's account on the level at which marriage was approved to not be credible, and finds that she sought to minimise her responsibility and involvement in the approval of marriages in her position as District Secretary.

14.3.5.4. Parents' involvement

3610. One of the objectives of the revolution was for youths to abandon private ownership, which according to the CPK ideology, included the relationship with their parents. During the regime, Angkar supplanted the role of parents in DK, as is evidenced by the language commonly used in speeches and official CPK documents referring to citizens as its children.<sup>12052</sup>

<sup>12051</sup> T. 30 July 2015 (OM Chy), E1/326.1, pp. 81, 114-115 (OM Chy, a Unit Chief at the 1st January Dam worksite, stated that marriages were authorised by the village chief. According to him, when individuals requested to get married, the unit chief would advise them to request the village chief to prepare the biographies to be forwarded to the commune chief. The decision of whether or not to authorise and hold the wedding ceremony rested with the commune.); T. 24 August 2015 (CHHUY Huy), E1/335.1, pp. 39-43 (CHHUY Huy, Chief of a squad at Trapeang Thma Dam in the Northwest Zone, testified that during the DK regime, marriages had to be authorised by the unit chief.); T. 24 June 2015 (CHUM Samoeurn), E1/321.1 pp. 64, 67 (Civil Party CHUM Samoeurn, who worked at the Kampong Chhnang Airport in the West Zone, stated that her unit chief paired her with her husband and arranged the marriage for them.).

<sup>12052</sup> Revolutionary Youth, E3/750, November 1975, ERN (En) 00522460 (the male and female combatants in the revolutionary ranks "sacrificed private possession such as [...] parents, relatives, children and other properties in order to serve the Party, revolution and the people."); Revolutionary Youth, E3/767, January-February 1977, ERN (En) 00590200 ("in terms of vision and stance, our youths do not seem to have complication with private ownership issues such as family, parents, grandchildren"); Revolutionary Youth, E3/753, June 1976, ERN (En) 00583805 ("Our children in the Revolutionary Army are very industrious and never have idle hands. Back during the revolutionary war our children,

3611. Numerous witnesses and Civil Parties were told that they were under the supervision of Angkar and that Angkar was now their parent.<sup>12053</sup> During the wedding of Civil Party YOS Phal, a mobile unit worker in Takeo in the Southwest Zone, the chief of a youth group told the 50 couples getting married that “you are all the children of Angkar so you have to obey Angkar [...] Because you are the children of Angkar, you are not allow to reject”.<sup>12054</sup>

3612. According to a number of cadres, marriage had to be approved by parents of the individuals.<sup>12055</sup> However, witnesses and Civil Parties gave evidence in court that their parents were neither consulted nor informed of their weddings.<sup>12056</sup> Couples were told to follow the instruction of Angkar, and not their parents.<sup>12057</sup> OR Ho, a chief of a unit of 100 workers at the 1st January Dam Worksite, testified that the people at the commune level would act as parents of individuals in the matter of marriage.<sup>12058</sup> A mobile unit worker in the Southwest Zone, CHANG Srey Mom, testified that before she got married, she attended a meeting at which she and others were told to sacrifice themselves for Angkar and when the unit chief asked for her decision on her marriage, the troops, made every sacrifice and endured every hardship [...] when the war ended, our children the troops did not get to rest); Revolutionary Youth, E3/766, November 1978, ERN (En) 00524189 (“Stances and views making it clear that they are the children of the people, of the Communist Party of Kampuchea”). See also, Section 5.1.8: Angkar.

---

<sup>12053</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, pp. 93-94 (confirming that KHIEU Samphan discussed the necessity of remaining detached from one’s parents, adding: “Usually people who chaired the meetings spoke about that as well, that we should not have any feelings toward our parents and that we should detach ourselves from our parents and we should focus on our work. [...] As for the parents and siblings, we were completely detached from one another.”); T. 24 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/463.1, pp. 23-24 (during his wedding ceremony, the district chief announced that “Angkar was happy to marry a wife or a husband to you, and in order to return gratitude, as children, you had to get married.”).

<sup>12054</sup> T. 25 August 2016 (YOS Phal), E1/464.1, p. 20.

<sup>12055</sup> T. 5 May 2015 (KHOEM Boeun), E1/297.1, pp. 70-71 (confirming [KHOEM Boeun Interview Record, E3/9480, p. 29, ERN (En) 01057703]; T. 22 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/290.1, p. 49 (“We consulted the communes and the district in order to celebrate such marriages [...] but we also had to consult the parents of those involved, in particular, the couples themselves.”).

<sup>12056</sup> T. 23 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/462.1, p. 35 (“My parents were not aware of my marriage because [they] lived at a different place from time. I did not have time to go and invite my parents and sibling to join my wedding.”); T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 69 (“I never consulted with my parents or siblings because they were living far away from me, although I wanted to ask for permission to visit them but they did not allow me to do so. So I simply followed the order from Angkar.”); T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, p. 58 (“My parents did not know that I got married.”); T. 31 August 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/467.1, p. 95 (“My family members were not there and my parents were not aware of my marriage.”); T. 19 September 2016 (HENG Lai Heang), E1/476.1, pp. 11, 15 (“At that time, my parents did not participate in the decision-making, but it was the supervisors who did that.” She further explained that it was because she was far from her parents).

<sup>12057</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 68 (after her second refusal to get married, she was told by senior cadres that she “was [one of] the children of Angkar. If you were with your parents, you had to respect them. If you were the children of Angkar, you had to respect Angkar. Therefore, you had to follow Angkar[’s] advice.”).

<sup>12058</sup> T. 19 May 2015 (OR Ho), E1/301.1, pp. 53-54.

she felt that she had no choice and answered that “[i]t was up to my parents”. She was then asked “Are you a daughter of your parents or a daughter of Angkar?”, to which she answered that she was a daughter of Angkar.<sup>12059</sup>

3613. In light of the consistent evidence that in general the parents were not involved, the Chamber finds that the cadres who gave evidence to the contrary in relation to the arrangement of weddings sought to minimise their responsibility surrounding the arrangement of weddings.

14.3.6. Notice and Consent

14.3.6.1. Notice

3614. Once approval for the wedding was obtained from the upper level, individuals were not consulted about their weddings in most cases and were only informed shortly before the wedding took place. Some were informed on the same day.<sup>12060</sup> Others were informed in advance by a few hours,<sup>12061</sup> one day<sup>12062</sup> or a few days.<sup>12063</sup> As a District Office Chief, SENG Soeun was informed of his own wedding by his superior.<sup>12064</sup>

<sup>12059</sup> T. 2 February 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/255.1, pp. 7-8; T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, pp. 55-56, 78-79, 91 (further explaining that “I was in fear because I was considered as the daughter of Angkar. I had no right to rely on my parents, so I dare not to opposed [sic] Angkar’s instruction, if I do – if I did, I would be accused of opposing Angkar.” Although her parents were not aware of her wedding in advance, her mother and grandmother were called to attend the wedding).

<sup>12060</sup> T. 31 August 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/467.1, pp. 89-91 (PHAN Him was told about her wedding in the evening and in the next morning, she was instructed to attend the assembly for the wedding); T. 24 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/488.1, pp. 33, 82 (PREAP Sokhoeurn said that she was called from the plantation site and was told to go the wedding venue on that day. She further stated that two or three women next to her wept because they had no idea where they are going and they had not been informed about the ceremony); T. 24 October 2016 (NGET Chat), E1/488.1, pp. 123-125 (NGET Chat stated that one day, the organiser came to tell that she did not have to go to work and sent her to get married at Boeng Khnar); T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 74 (explaining that there are many patterns but that most commonly, both men and women were informed within 24 hours that they were going to marry early in the morning, in the afternoon, or one day before and the wedding ceremony would be conducted by the evening of that day.).

<sup>12061</sup> T. 23 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/462.1, pp. 77-78 (SOU Sotheavy was never informed of the wedding day; he was called from the worksite by the unit chief at 3 p.m. while he was breaking rocks and the wedding ceremony began at 6 p.m. on that same day).

<sup>12062</sup> T. 25 June 2015 (KONG Uth), E1/322.1, pp. 32-33 (KONG Uth was told that she would get married one day before the wedding took place); T. 17 August 2016 (MY Savoeun), E1/459.1, p. 26 (he learned about his wedding one day before the ceremony took place).

<sup>12063</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 69 (stating that she did not know whom she would marry but that she was informed three days in advance of the wedding ceremony); T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, pp. 46-47 (MOM Vun stated that she was told that she had to get married two days before the ceremony took place).

<sup>12064</sup> T. 23 August 2015 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, p. 26.

3615. Many others were told to go to a meeting only to discover that the meeting was in fact their wedding ceremony. They only found out that they were to be married when they arrived at the wedding venues.<sup>12065</sup> SENG Soeun confirmed that couples were not aware in advance of the marriage and that after he matched them by their biographies, he never consulted with them in advance to obtain their consent. It was the respective (unit) chiefs of individuals who were aware and, on the day of the wedding, they would call the individuals to the wedding venue on the pretext that they would be attending a study session or meeting.<sup>12066</sup> His cousin only found out about the wedding when he arrived at the wedding venue.<sup>12067</sup> NOP Ngim, a female combatant, was called to attend a meeting and discovered that she was to be married when she arrived at the location.<sup>12068</sup> In many instances, individuals had never met those whom they were to marry before the day of the wedding. They only found out who they were and what they looked like at the wedding venue.<sup>12069</sup>

<sup>12065</sup> T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, p. 17 (CHANG Srey Mom was invited to go to the commune office at 6.30 p.m. where her unit chief told her to make a resolution and to marry that evening); T. 12 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/482.1, pp. 69, 71-72; 68-69; 103 (PEN Sochan stated that while she was walking from work at 5 p.m., she was told to go to the worksite and when she arrived, she was instructed to get married. She further stated that none of the couples who were married with her were informed beforehand and that they did not have opportunity to consult each other); T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, pp. 22-25 (SENG Soeun stated that couples were not aware in advance of the marriage and were not consulted in order to obtain their consent. The unit chief would request them to attend the wedding ceremony location); T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroeun), E1/489.1, pp. 35-36, 55 (SAY Naroeun stated that one day she was called to join the assembly meeting. She followed the unit chief and when she arrived, the unit chief told her to wear skirt to the assembly and then she was told to get married, which she protested); T. 23 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/462.1, pp. 3-4 (OM Yoeurn only learned about her wedding when she arrived at the wedding venue); CHHUOM Savoern Interview Record, E3/9578, 15 October 2014, p. 10, ERN (En) 01053605 (describing an event where all single women at the worksite were called to attend a meeting to declare their determination to obey Angkar and were ordered to get married. Among 80 of them, 40 agreed to the proposal by Angkar).

<sup>12066</sup> T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, p. 22; T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, pp. 55-56.

<sup>12067</sup> T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, p. 37.

<sup>12068</sup> T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, p. 55.

<sup>12069</sup> T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroeun), E1/489.1, p. 38 (SAY Naroeun did not know her future husband before the wedding. She described the pairing process as “pairing the cattle.”); T. 22 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/461.1, p. 95 (“They did not tell me about the names of the person whom I would get married to.” She only learned about the identify of her husband after the announcement at the wedding ceremony); T. 25 August 2016 (YOS Phal), E1/464.1, p. 28 (“I never saw her before. [...] When I was committing to the marriage, I did not know her.”); T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, pp. 70-71 (“We never knew each other. We knew each other only on the day that we were matched up.”); T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, p. 48 (“I was not told as to which man I had to marry.”); T. 12 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/482.1, p. 98, 103 (“I never saw him and I did not know where he worked. [...] We did not know each other, nor did we like each other and we were not informed about whom we were to marry to.”); T. 24 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/488.1, p. 30 (“When I attended the meeting, I was not sure as to which man I was matched to.”); T. 24 October 2016 (NGET Chat), E1/488.1, p. 123 (“I was told that I would be required to get married. I had no idea which man I would be matched up with.”); T. 2 September 2015 (MEAN Loeuy), E1/340.1, p. 68 (“In the marriage, some couples did not know each other in advance, and after the marriage they could not even find their spouses.”); T. 24 June 3616. The Chamber finds that, with the exception of some favoured individuals discussed above, the individuals who were matched to be married were usually not consulted about the marriage and received little to no notice that they were to be married.

14.3.6.2. Consent

3617. A number of former CPK cadres gave evidence that, in accordance with the official policy which required that “both parties agree”,<sup>12070</sup> marriages were arranged based on the “consent” of individuals.<sup>12071</sup> Witness RIEL Son stated that those who were to be married agreed to the marriages and that no one was forced to marry somebody they did not wish to marry.<sup>12072</sup> Witness OR Ho testified that there were people who did not agree to be married and that nothing happened to them as a consequence.<sup>12073</sup> Witness PECH Chim testified that for a wedding to be organised, both individuals had to consent. According to him, before a marriage was organised, people at the district level consulted with those at the commune level and with the couples themselves.<sup>12074</sup> The Chamber notes that PECH Chim himself admitted that there was a gap in this practice because according to him, people at the district initially planned to orally inquire of all couples whether they were satisfied, but when it was too busy at the district level, the tasks were transferred to commune and the commune transferred this to the unit chief. He was not sure if the commune chief had thoroughly reviewed the intentions and enquired with all proposed couples. He confirmed that it was obvious that those who were reluctant to respond at the wedding ceremony did not

---

2015 (CHUM Samoeun), E1/321.1, p. 61 (“I did not know the prospective husband at all.”); T. 17 August 2016 (MY Savoeun), E1/459.1, pp. 64-65 (although the mobile unit chief told him about the proposed marriage and the name of his future wife one day before the wedding, he however never knew her before the wedding); T. 2 December 2015 (PRAK Doeun), E1/361.1, p. 98 (stating that couples did not know their prospective spouse and were typically matched by the cadres).

<sup>12070</sup> See above, para. 3542.

<sup>12071</sup> T. 7 May 2015 (EK Hoeun), E1/298.1, p. 107 (EK Hoeun testified that there were arranged marriages between men and women in Tram Kak district but if a girl disagreed with the marriage, she would not be forced and there were no threats nor coercion); T. 1 December 2015 (PAN Chhuong), E1/360.1, p. 38 (when men and women consented to the marriage, the chief of that unit would organise the event); T. 19 May 2015 (OR Ho), E1/301.1, p. 72 (OR Ho testified that marriage ceremonies were arranged for those who consent to them); T. 12 June 2012 (SAO Sarun), E1/85.1, pp. 16, 67-73 (before a wedding was organised, it was required that the parents, the groom and the bride agree. They never force couples to marry).

<sup>12072</sup> T. 18 March 2015 (RIEL Son), E1/279.1, p. 39.

<sup>12073</sup> T. 19 May 2015 (OR Ho), E1/301.1, p. 71.

<sup>12074</sup> T. 22 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/290.1, p. 49.

consent to the marriage.<sup>12075</sup> According to Witness MEAS Voeun, the marriages in his section were organised based on the consent of the individuals and were not forced.<sup>12076</sup> Witness TEP Poch, member of the Baray District Committee, confirmed in court that the marriage criteria were: firstly, the issue of age, the girls would have to be at least 18 years old; secondly, love (which the Chamber interprets as “consent”); and thirdly, the couple’s parents approved the marriage.<sup>12077</sup> YOU Vann, a deputy commune chief, stated that marriages would be arranged only if the females agreed.<sup>12078</sup>

3618. However as noted above, the CPK required individuals – including Party members, cadres, combatants and the general population – to unconditionally follow the Party discipline, Party line or whatever Angkar ordered.<sup>12079</sup> This included orders from Angkar regarding marriages, which had to be respected.<sup>12080</sup>

3619. In contradiction to the statements made by CPK cadres concerning the consent given by spouses, numerous witnesses and Civil Parties described weddings as “forced”<sup>12081</sup> or involuntary.<sup>12082</sup> While some individuals may genuinely have agreed to

<sup>12075</sup> T. 22 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/290.1, pp. 40-41; T. 23 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/291.1, pp. 4, 7-9.

<sup>12076</sup> T. 8 October 2012 (MEAS Voeun), E1/131.1, p. 64.

<sup>12077</sup> T. 22 August 2016 (TEP Poch), E1/461.1, p. 84.

<sup>12078</sup> T. 14 January 2016 (YOU Vann), E1/376.1, p. 69; T. 18 January 2016 (YOU Vann), E1/377.1, p. 50.

<sup>12079</sup> See above, para. 3540.

<sup>12080</sup> T. 1 September 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/468.1, p. 11 (PHAN Him was told that she lived in this society, she had to respect the Angkar and Party’s discipline. If the Party decided for her to get married, she had to agree); T. 27 July 2016 (MOENG Vet), E1/449.1, pp. 28-29 (“According to the Party’s policies, if we were to disobey the Party’s line, it meant we opposed the Party. And usually in the self-criticism meetings, such people would be subject to being criticized. If I was arranged to marry someone and I refused, then I would be considered as opposing the Party, and people were afraid of doing that.”).

<sup>12081</sup> T. 24 June 2015 (CHUM Samoeurn), E1/321.1, pp. 64-68 (testifying that she was forced to marry a man in a wedding ceremony arranged for five couples.); T. 29 July 2015 (KHIN Vat), E1/325.1, p. 90; T. 30 July 2015 (KHIN Vat), E1/326.1, p. 11 (testifying that she was forced to get married a man called Laoth whom she did not know before and was told that if she refused the marriage, Angkar would not be responsible.); T. 1 March 2016 (SIENG Chanthly), E1/394.1, p. 20 (mentioning that her sister was “forced” to get married); T. 23 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/462.1, p. 35 (“They forced us to marry”); T. 25 August 2016 (YOS Phal), E1/464.1, p. 11 (“During the Democratic Kampuchea regime, I was not properly married. And I was forced to marry.”); T. 31 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/467.1, p. 71 (“It was so painful, particularly when I was forced to get married.”); T. 19 September 2016 (HENG Lai Heang), E1/476.1, p. 101 (“I was forced to marry the man that was not my choice and we had to agree.”); T. 12 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/482.1, p. 73 (“We were forced to get married.”); T. 24 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/488.1, p. 80 (“I was arranged to get married and I was forced to have intercourse with a person that I did not like.”); T. 14 September 2015 (SEN Srun), E1/346.1, p. 53 (many were forced to get married); T. 22 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/461.1, p. 97 (“I refused that I would not get married, but because I was forced to do so, so I had to agree.”).

<sup>12082</sup> T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, p. 18 (CHANG Srey Mom and her husband were asked if they got married voluntarily, to which they said they did, although she felt that she did not get married voluntarily but had to agree to do so. She further explained her father was killed because he marry a person whom they had selected or who had been proposed to them, a large number of witnesses and Civil Parties testified that they had no choice or right to refuse and believed that they had to respect the orders of Angkar.<sup>12083</sup>

3620. Individuals therefore “consented” to marriage out of fear, including the fear or threat of being placed in danger,<sup>12084</sup> subjected to various accusations<sup>12085</sup> including opposing Angkar,<sup>12086</sup> sent for re-education<sup>12087</sup> or refashioning;<sup>12088</sup> being moved to another location;<sup>12089</sup> or killed.<sup>12090</sup> When OM Yoeurn refused to get married at her wedding ceremony, a military cadre told her that she had to do so because that was the order from Angkar. She did not dare to refuse any longer because she had observed that there had been cases where people disappeared after they had protested or refused to marry.<sup>12091</sup>

---

was accused of opposing Angkar and therefore, she was fear that she may be killed if she opposed Angkar’s order to marry.); T. 30 March 2016 (SUN Vuth), E1/411.1, p. 80 (“They [did] not volunteer or they did not fall in love with one another.”).

<sup>12083</sup> T. 19 September 2016 (HENG Lai Heang), E1/476.1, p. 12 (“I had no rights to refuse.”); T. 23 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/462.1, p. 81 (“I could not refuse. That was the time that we had to follow them.”); T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, p. 52 (“I did not want to get married and I wanted to run away. But there was no choice so I had to bear with the arrangement [...] I had no option but to go along with Angkar’s plan.”); T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, pp. 47-48, 52 (MOM Vun was told by her Unit Chief that she had no choice and that she had to remarry. She further stated that there were other couples who refused to get married but they had to because, just like her, they had no choice); T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, pp. 68, 97 (she was told that because they were the children of Angkar, she had to respect Angkar’s instructions. She further stated that she had no choice because she already refused for a few times); T. 30 July 2015 (KHIN Vat), E1/326.1, p. 10 (she felt as though she had no other choice than to follow Angkar’s orders).

<sup>12084</sup> T. 19 September 2016 (HENG Lai Heang), E1/476.1, p. 12 (“I felt frightened. I felt concerned about my own safety, and that’s why I agreed to accept whatever they arranged.”); T. 25 October 2016 (NGET Chat), E1/489.1, pp. 23-24 (she agreed to get married because her friend convince her to think about her safety as if she refused, she would be in trouble).

<sup>12085</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 97 (when she tried to refuse for the first time, she was accused of having a fiancé and the second time she refused, she was accused of having a boyfriend).

<sup>12086</sup> T. 25 June 2015 (KONG Uth), E1/322.1, pp. 33-34.

<sup>12087</sup> T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, p. 75 (she and the others at the wedding ceremony did not dare to refuse because they were afraid to being arrested and sent for re-education).

<sup>12088</sup> T. 12 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/482.1, pp. 72-73 (she agreed to get married because her unit chief told her that if she objected, she would be re-fashioned).

<sup>12089</sup> T. 3 February 2016 (IN Yoeung), E1/387.1, pp. 91-92 (stating that she felt that if she had refused, she would have been taken to another location).

<sup>12090</sup> T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, p. 22 (she did not dare to refuse because she would be dead); T. 1 March 2016 (SIENG Chanthy), E1/394.1, p. 21 (her sister did not dare to protest the marriage because she feared being taken away and killed); T. 22 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/461.1, p. 96 (OM Yoeurn did not dare to refuse the marriage because she saw that many people who refused to marry disappeared. She added that her cousin refused to get married one or two times and was taken away. She later found out that her cousin was killed); T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, pp. 46-47 (stating that she felt that if she did not obey the instruction, she would be killed).

<sup>12091</sup> T. 22 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/461.1, pp. 96-97; T. 23 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/462.1, p. 35.

3621. Some witnesses and Civil Parties eventually consented to marriage because, after having initially refused a number of times, they were threatened by the authorities.<sup>12092</sup> CHUM Samoeurn was threatened, being told that if she refused to marry, she would never date a man in her life and that if she was caught smiling at a man, she would risk being killed.<sup>12093</sup> After MOM Vun's husband was taken away to a "study session", she was told to remarry. She was then "raped" by five militiamen two days before the date of the marriage arranged for her. She believes that she was "raped" because of her refusal to get married and therefore agreed to marry for the survival of her children.<sup>12094</sup>

3622. Others were threatened with death by the authorities. Civil Party PREAP Sokhoeurn stated that if anyone failed to obey Angkar's orders, they would be killed like animals. She was threatened that she would either be put into prison or be killed.<sup>12095</sup> When Witness LING Lrysov told her unit chief that she did not want to get married, the unit chief told her "[p]lease be careful, you will be killed", and that if she refused her whole family would be killed.<sup>12096</sup> Threats were also made if the person chose a person with a dubious background. YOS Phal was told that he was going to die if he married his fiancée, as her brother had been smashed by Angkar.<sup>12097</sup> Kasumi NAKAGAWA, identified two patterns of threat. The first pattern concerns the instances where the Khmer Rouge explicitly said that an individual or family member would be killed if that individual refused to marry. The second pattern relates to individuals who were already terrified and were living under extreme fear that if they went against the Khmer Rouge, they would be killed. There was a silent pressure in the society which meant that they could not reject marriage.<sup>12098</sup> Kasumi NAKAGAWA further explained in court that although there were "a lot of opportunities" for both men and women to <sup>12092</sup> T. 31 August 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/467.1, p. 91 (explaining that after she refused to marry, she was told by her supervisor that Angkar had assigned her to a husband and if she violated the discipline, she would have to be careful); T. 22 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/461.1, p. 95 (stating that when she tried to reject the wedding arranged for her, she was told to get married anyway, otherwise actions would be taken against her); T. 1 September 2015 (CHAO Lang), E1/339.1, pp. 70, 75 (testifying that she was warned by her unit chief not to refuse the marriage). See also, T. 23 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/113.1, p. 104 (indicating that he was working at the hospital when he refused to marry someone he did not love, and that he was transferred to work at the worksite as a punishment instead of working at the hospital).

<sup>12093</sup> T. 24 June 2015 (CHUM Samoeurn), E1/321.1, p. 64.

<sup>12094</sup> T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, p. 80.

<sup>12095</sup> T. 20 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/487.1, pp. 93, 101-102.

<sup>12096</sup> T. 20 August 2015 (LING Lrysov), E1/334.1, pp. 57-59.

<sup>12097</sup> T. 25 August 2016 (YOS Phal), E1/464.1, pp. 16-18.

<sup>12098</sup> T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 80.

refuse to marry, people were aware, “particularly in 1977-1978 when people were already terrorised by the Khmer Rouge”, that refusal may have resulted in their deaths. Therefore, many people did not dare to refuse.<sup>12099</sup> According to Peg LEVINE, “the level of trauma that was exacerbated by lack of access to ritual was excruciating” and people were afraid on a daily basis.<sup>12100</sup> With regard to marriage, she stated that “people attributed transforming powers to Angkar”, and that if individuals were asked to marry by Angkar, “it was essential that they comply”.<sup>12101</sup> 3623. The Chamber finds that while certain individuals, such as combatants, cadres and disabled soldiers, may have been consulted on their marriage, the general practice was that individuals (including the spouses of those privileged with prior consultation) had no choice as to whether they would marry. The general climate of fear created by the authorities and/or threats against the individuals led them to obey Angkar and did not allow them to object to an order to marry. Therefore, despite the evidence provided by cadre that, in accordance with the CPK policy, future spouses had to consent to be married, the Chamber finds that the consent given was not genuine. The Chamber further rejects the evidence of former cadre on this particular issue, noting that consent given to them may not have been genuine and their tendency to minimise their own responsibility.<sup>12102</sup> The Chamber finds that PECH Chim is an exception in this regard, having admitted that those who were reluctant to respond at the wedding ceremony did not consent to the marriage.

3624. Some witnesses and Civil Parties explained that they refused to get married. They stated that in their cases, the consequences of refusal included being moved to a different location<sup>12103</sup> and/or resulted in direct threats to be sent for re-education.<sup>12104</sup>

<sup>12099</sup> T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 78.

<sup>12100</sup> T. 11 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/481.1, pp. 87-88.

<sup>12101</sup> T. 11 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/481.1, p. 53.

<sup>12102</sup> See above, para. 3617 (EK Hoeun, PAN Chhuong, OR Ho, SAO Sarun, RIEL Son, MEAS Vooun, TEP Poch, YOU Vann).

<sup>12103</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 98 (stating that after a few refusals, she was sent to work at another location and then realised that she could no longer refuse to get married); T. 25 October 2016 (NGET Chat), E1/489.1, pp. 22-24 (explaining that she was sent to work at Preaek Chik when she refused to get married); T. 1 March 2016 (KHOUY Muoy), E1/394.1, pp. 84-85 (stating that after her refusal to marry, she was reassigned to work at a different location).

<sup>12104</sup> T. 3 February 2016 (IN Yoeung), E1/387.1, pp. 92-93 (testifying that those who refused to get married would be sent for re-education at the commune office).

3625. The Chamber heard the evidence of two individuals who refused a marriage without detrimental consequences.<sup>12105</sup> Witness EM Phoeung, a former monk, refused to marry with no consequence. The witness himself explained that it was strange that he would suffer no consequence for his refusal and concluded that the local people intervened as they had known him from childhood.<sup>12106</sup> Civil Party SUN Vuth, stated that when he was ordered to marry, he decided to refuse and was not forced to obey, in contrast to the situation experienced by other men in his group who could not refuse. He clarified that his refusal did not lead to detrimental consequences and understood that this was due to the fact that he was young enough at the time to not be forced to marry.<sup>12107</sup> Noting that these situations were exceptional and may be explained by specific circumstances, the Chamber finds that the overwhelming majority of the evidence shows that people could not refuse to marry without suffering consequences.<sup>12108</sup> The Chamber is further satisfied that the coercive environment throughout the country during the DK regime was such that genuine consent was impossible and, therefore, people had no choice other than to obey and marry in accordance with a coercive practice stemming from CPK directives on marriage.

14.3.7. Wedding Ceremonies

14.3.7.1. Organisation

3626. Once weddings were authorised or approved by Angkar, ceremonies were organised by cadre at the district level, commune level or unit level,<sup>12109</sup> depending on the position of the individuals who were to be married.<sup>12110</sup>

3627. Ceremonies were conducted at various places including commune offices,<sup>12111</sup>

<sup>12105</sup> T. 16 February 2015 (EM Phoeung), E1/263.1, pp. 54-57; T. 31 March 2016 (SUN Vuth), E1/412.1, p. 3; T. 30 March 2016 (SUN Vuth), E1/411.1, p. 79.

<sup>12106</sup> T. 16 February 2015 (EM Phoeung), E1/263.1, pp. 54-57.

<sup>12107</sup> T. 30 March 2016 (SUN Vuth), E1/411.1, p. 79.

<sup>12108</sup> See above, paras 3619-3624.

<sup>12109</sup> T. 4 June 2015 (SOU Soeurn), E1/310.1, p. 80 (explaining that the commune itself, in addition to the district, had the authority to organise wedding ceremonies within its own commune); T. 2 December 2015 (PRAK Doeun), E1/361.1, pp. 97-98 (testifying that spouses were chosen by the unit cadre and that district cadre organised the ceremony); KONG Vach Interview Record, E3/5590, 17 December 2009, p. 8, ERN (En) 00426480 (“The ceremony organizers were the Khmer Rouge cadres such as heads of villages, heads of cooperatives, heads of units and district committees.”).

<sup>12110</sup> See above, Section 14.3.5.3: The Authorising Authority.

<sup>12111</sup> T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, p. 23 (testifying that her wedding was held at the office of Nheang Nhang commune, where the unit chief resided); T. 3 June 2015 (UTH Seng), E1/309.1, p. 28 (explaining that the marriages were held at the commune office).

district offices,<sup>12112</sup> construction sites,<sup>12113</sup> worksites,<sup>12114</sup> kitchens,<sup>12115</sup> pagodas,<sup>12116</sup> at the house of a cooperative chief,<sup>12117</sup> in classrooms,<sup>12118</sup> on a hill,<sup>12119</sup> in meeting places,<sup>12120</sup> assembly halls<sup>12121</sup> or near the forest.<sup>12122</sup>

3628. Weddings were mostly held in the evening or at night time, after people had finished their work at the field or the construction site.<sup>12123</sup> Some wedding ceremonies were organised during the daytime.<sup>12124</sup> The duration of wedding ceremonies ranged from 30 minutes to a few hours.<sup>12125</sup> Witness NEANG Ouch alias Ta San, the Tram Kak District Secretary, stated that marriage ceremonies would only last for 2 hours.<sup>12126</sup>

3629. The Chamber finds that wedding ceremonies were conducted in various ways

---

<sup>12112</sup> T. 18 March 2015 (RIEL Son), E1/279.1, p. 39 (specifying that they were called to the district office to get married); T. 14 January 2016 (YOU Vann), E1/376.1, p. 77 (describing that the wedding ceremony was held at the district office); T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, p. 40 (explaining that the wedding ceremony took place at the district office); T. 30 July 2015 (OM Chy), E1/326.1, p. 75 (testifying that “they organised such ceremonies at the commune office or at the pagoda or sometimes at the security centre.”).

<sup>12113</sup> T. 10 August 2015 (KAN Thorl), E1/327.1, p. 81; T. 28 July 2015 (MAM Soeurm), E1/324.1, pp. 92-93; T. 1 December 2015 (PAN Chhuong), E1/360.1, p. 36.

<sup>12114</sup> T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, p. 51; T. 12 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/482.1, pp. 68-69.

<sup>12115</sup> T. 17 August 2016 (MY Savoeun), E1/459.1, p. 26.

<sup>12116</sup> T. 28 September 2015 (HIM Man), E1/350.1, p. 18; T. 30 July 2015 (OM Chy), E1/326.1, p. 75.

<sup>12117</sup> T. 20 August 2015 (LING Lrysov), E1/334.1, p. 59.

<sup>12118</sup> T. 31 August 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/467.1, p. 94.

<sup>12119</sup> T. 25 August 2016 (YOS Phal), E1/464.1, pp. 21-22.

<sup>12120</sup> T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroen), E1/489.1, p. 55.

<sup>12121</sup> T. 31 August 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/467.1 p. 92.

<sup>12122</sup> T. 23 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/291.1, pp. 7-8.

<sup>12123</sup> T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, pp. 22-23 (stating that her wedding ceremony was held at 8:30 p.m. and continued until 10:30 p.m.); T. 17 February 2015 (PHNEOU Yav), E1/264.1, p. 31; T. 28 July 2015 (MAM Soeurm), E1/324.1, pp. 94-95 (explaining that his wedding ceremony was held at night); T. 23 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/462.1, pp. 77-78 (testifying that the ceremony started at 6:00 p.m. when everybody arrived); T. 25 October 2016 (NGET Chat), E1/489.1, p. 4 (stating that the wedding started in the evening); T. 27 January 2015 (CHOU Koemlan), E1/253.1, p. 22 (indicating that she joined a wedding ceremony that took place at night after the working time); T. 20 August 2015 (LING Lrysov), E1/334.1, p. 60 (specifying that the ceremony took place after the children had gone to bed); T. 22 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/461.1, p. 99 (stating that the marriage took place between 5:30-6:30 p.m.); T. 2 September 2015 (MEAN Loeuy), E1/340.1, p. 68 (explaining that his wedding was celebrated at night around 8:00 or 9:00 p.m.).

<sup>12124</sup> T. 23 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/291.1, p. 9; T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 67 (testifying that her wedding ceremony took place in the morning and that it was completed by noon); T. 31 August 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/467.1, p. 92 (explaining that she was called for the ceremony at 2:00 p.m.); T. 25 June 2015 (KONG Uth), E1/322.1, p. 35 (stating that her wedding started at 4:00 p.m. or 5:00 p.m.).

<sup>12125</sup> T. 10 March 2015 (NEANG Ouch), E1/274.1, p. 34 (testifying that the ceremony lasted two hours); T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 77 (indicating that the ceremony lasted less than one hour); T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, p. 22 (explaining that her wedding started at 8:30 p.m. and ended at 10:30 p.m.); T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, p. 40 (her wedding ceremony took place for about three hours); T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 69 (“The wedding was very short, most probably to save time”, and would last “maximum one hour”).

<sup>12126</sup> T. 10 March 2015 (NEANG Ouch), E1/274.1, p. 34.

throughout different zones. However, there were some common practices. Before the ceremony, individuals were usually given instructions on what to do during the ceremony. In numerous ceremonies, males and females were instructed to stand in separate lines or sit in separate rows and each couple would be called out.<sup>12127</sup> During PREAP Sokhoeurn's wedding ceremony, men and women stood on different side of the room, with a long wooden table between them, not knowing their future spouses at that moment. The names of a man and a woman were called, couple by couple, and they stood up to go to sit at a table.<sup>12128</sup> In other instances, couples were required to stand and salute the Party flag,<sup>12129</sup> hold hands,<sup>12130</sup> or march in front of the crowd.<sup>12131</sup>

3630. During SOU Sotheavy's wedding, the men and women to be married were arranged into two groups, the Base People and the 17 April People. Men and women in each group were organised in separate lines. After the sun set, they switched off the lights and the individuals were instructed to touch each other to find their future spouses. SOU Sotheavy describes this event as similar to "playing hide-and-seek".<sup>12132</sup>

3631. When weddings started to be celebrated again in 1975, the ceremonies initially involved one couple or a small number of individuals. Later, collective marriages of an increasingly larger number of people were organised by local authorities.<sup>12133</sup> As

<sup>12127</sup> T. 25 August 2016 (YOS Phal), E1/464.1, pp. 20-22 ("They called 50 males to stand in lines according to numbers from 1 to 50."); T. 12 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/482.1, p. 69 ("When I arrived at the venue, I saw people sitting in rows; female on one side and male on another side."); T. 17 August 2016 (MY Savoeun), E1/459.1, p. 62 (indicating that "there were two lines of men and two lines of women sitting in the dining hall"); T. 31 August 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/467.1, p. 91 (explaining that when she arrived at the wedding venue, she was instructed to sit separately from the men); T. 24 June 2015 (CHUM Samoeurn), E1/321.1, p. 64 (describing that the men had to sit on one side of the room and the women on the other); T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 74 (explaining that even though women did not know who their future husband was, when they were brought to the wedding venue, they were ordered to sit in one line and males were ordered to sit in another in front of them and normally, the person that you were marrying was in front of you, as Angkar had already selected the couples).

<sup>12128</sup> T. 20 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/487.1, p. 83.

<sup>12129</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 77; T. 31 August 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/467.1, p. 92; T. 29 July 2015 (KHIN Vat), E1/325.1, p. 91.

<sup>12130</sup> T. 8 October 2012 (MEAS Voeun), E1/131.1, p. 64; T. 24 June 2015 (CHUM Samoeurn), E1/321.1, p. 64; T. 1 September 2015 (CHAO Lang), E1/339.1, p. 70; T. 2 September 2015 (MEAN Loeuy), E1/340.1, p. 63; T. 8 December 2015 (PRUM Sarun), E1/364.1, p. 78; T. 13 January 2016 (MATH Sor), E1/375.1, p. 104; T. 1 March 2016 (SIENG Chanthy), E1/394.1, p. 21; T. 31 August 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/467.1, p. 92; T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, p. 42; T. 10 August 2015 (KAN Thorl), E1/327.1, p. 82.

<sup>12131</sup> T. 19 September 2016 (HENG Lai Heang), E1/476.1, pp. 14-15.

<sup>12132</sup> T. 23 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/462.1, pp. 80-81, 92; T. 24 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/463.1, p. 25.

<sup>12133</sup> T. 8 January 2016 (SOS Romly), E1/372.1, p. 47 (stating that as a clerk at the commune office in Kroch Chhmar district, he noticed that during the first years of the regime, wedding ceremonies were explained by Witness PECH Chim, the number of marriages increased as the country was liberated and male and female youths aged. Group weddings were organised in order to expedite marriages of numerous people on a large scale. The evidence shows that, during the DK regime, collective weddings were a widespread practice across Cambodia.<sup>12134</sup>

3632. The Chamber finds that the number of couples married in a single wedding ceremony ranged from one couple to 70-80 couples.<sup>12135</sup> In rare instances, wedding conducted for small groups of up to four couples, but from 1978 onwards, the ceremonies were conducted for more than 20 couples at a time).

---

<sup>12134</sup> See below, para. 3632; T. 19 May 2015 (OR Ho), E1/301.1, pp. 53-54 (explaining that in Baray district, Kampong Thom province, marriages were arranged collectively by Angkar after 1977, sometimes in order to allow 30 to 40 couples to marry at the same time “for fear that there would be single women remaining in the village”). See also, T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 74 (indicating that by at least late 1977-1978, many “mass weddings were organised among only forced marriage couples.”).

<sup>12135</sup> T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, pp. 23-24 (indicating that the unit chief and commune chief presided over her marriage ceremony which counted 10 participants including her family members, inferring that they were the only ones to get married); T. 6 June 2012 (SAO Sarun), E1/82.1, p. 67 (stating that the wedding ceremonies for combatants were sometimes organised for multiple couples at a time whereas in some other cases, it was held for only one couple); T. 17 February 2015 (PHNEOU Yav), E1/264.1, p. 32 (explaining that the wedding ceremonies were organised for groups of 10 to 20 couples); T. 26 January 2015 (CHOU Koemlan), E1/252.1, p. 71 (indicating that he attended a wedding which was held for three couples); T. 20 August 2015 (LING Lrysov), E1/334.1, p. 61 (stating that her marriage was organised for three couples); T. 10 March 2015 (NEANG Ouch), E1/274.1, p. 33 (specifying that four or five couples would be married in one ceremony); T. 24 June 2015 (CHUM Samoeurn), E1/321.1, p. 64 (“I was forced to marry a man in a five couple wedding ceremony.”); T. 27 July 2015 (SEN Sophon), E1/323.1, pp. 79-80 (explaining that he attended a marriage ceremony of five couples); T. 23 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/291.1, p. 7 (“[W]edding ceremonies were held on a large scale”); T. 30 July 2015 (OM Chy), E1/326.1, p. 80 (“[E]ach marriage ceremony involved between 10 and 15 couples”); T. 18 August 2015 (CHHUM Seng), E1/332.1, p. 22 (testifying that he was married along with 20 other couples); T. 25 June 2015 (KONG Uth), E1/322.1, p. 33 (explaining that she got married in a wedding ceremony arranged for 25 couples); T. 10 August 2015 (KAN Thorl), E1/327.1, pp. 75-76 (specifying that 30 to 40 couples were married at a time at Trapeang Thma Dam worksite); T. 19 May 2015 (OR Ho), E1/301.1, p. 53 (stating that he “arranged marriages”, sometimes 30-40 couples married at the same time.”); T. 1 December 2015 (PAN Chhuong), E1/360.1, pp. 36-37 (explaining that many couples were married at once but that he cannot recall the number, although he reckoned it was around 50 or 60); T. 2 September 2015 (MEAN Loey), E1/340.1, p. 63 (stating that he was married in a wedding group of 63 couples); T. 28 July 2015 (MAM Soeurn), E1/324.1, p. 93 (indicating that weddings were held for many couples at the time, without recalling the exact number); T. 26 May 2015 (MEAS Laihour), E1/305.1, p. 3 (saying that she was arranged to marry her husband amongst the 25 couples to be married at the ceremony); T. 3 June 2015 (UTH Seng), E1/309.1, p. 26 (explaining that in the youth unit, Angkar arranged marriage ceremonies for five, 10 or more couples); T. 28 September 2015 (HIM Man), E1/350.1, p. 16 (specifying that 50 other couples were married during his wedding ceremony); T. 14 September 2015 (SEN Srun), E1/346.1, p. 57 (testifying that he was married in a wedding ceremony that counted 28 other couples); T. 13 January 2016 (MATH Sor), E1/375.1, p. 76 (stating that there were 70 couples married at the same time as him); T. 2 December 2015 (PRAK Doeun), E1/361.1, p. 98 (specifying that he was married during a ceremony where 25 couples were married); T. 1 March 2016 (UCH Sunlay), E1/394.1, p. 98 (explaining that a wedding ceremony was arranged for 11 couples, including his father-in-law); T. 3 August 2016 (CHIN Saroeun), E1/454.1, p. 65 (testifying that he “was one amongst the 16 couples who were arranged to marry on that particular day”); T. 25 August 2016 (YOS Phal), E1/464.1, p. 20 (saying that there were 50 couples to get married during her wedding.); T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 70 (stating: “There were 12 couples”); T. 31 August 2016

ceremonies could reach hundreds of couples. Witness EK Hoeun, a Tram Kak District Office cadre, attended a wedding of 400 couples in September 1978 when he arrived in the Central Zone.<sup>12136</sup> SOU Sotheavy stated that she was married in a ceremony of 117 couples, the number having been announced during the ceremony.<sup>12137</sup>

3633. During wedding ceremonies, couples were instructed to make a commitment or resolution.<sup>12138</sup> The commitment or resolution included gratitude toward Angkar,<sup>12139</sup> the obligation to produce children for Angkar,<sup>12140</sup> to take each other as husband and wife,<sup>12141</sup> to love each other and to live together,<sup>12142</sup> to respect the disciplines of Angkar,<sup>12143</sup> to strive and work hard to build the country,<sup>12144</sup> to work hard to increase

---

(PHAN Him), E1/467.1, p. 91 (specifying that he was arranged to marry in a ceremony organised for 21 couples); T. 12 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/482.1, p. 68 (indicating that she got married in a ceremony held for 12 couples); T. 24 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeun), E1/488.1, pp. 46-47 (stating that she was married along with 15 other couples and that she also attended a wedding which was organised for 12 couples); T. 22 August 2016 (OM Yoeun), E1/461.1, p. 97 (explaining that during her wedding ceremony, 12 couples were to be married); T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, p. 40 (“I got married in Samlout among other [sic] 40 couples.”); T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, p. 54 (specifying that “on that particular day, 60 couples got married”); T. 3 August 2016 (CHIN Saroeun), E1/454.1, p. 65 (“I was one amongst the 16 couples who were arranged to marry on that particular day.”); T. 17 August 2016 (MY Savoeun), E1/459.1, pp. 25-26 (explaining that he “was amongst the 60 couples who were organised for that marriage”).

<sup>12136</sup> T. 8 May 2015 (EK Hoeun), E1/299.1, p. 91 (“I came to live in Chup; I saw a marriage celebration of 400 couples and that happened in September 1978.”).

<sup>12137</sup> T. 23 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/462.1, p. 79; T. 24 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/463.1, p. 43 (stating first that there were 107 couples but recalling on the next day that there were 117 couples).

<sup>12138</sup> T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, p. 17; T. 26 January 2015 (CHOU Koemlan), E1/252.1, p. 36 (the couples were instructed to make commitment or resolution); T. 4 May 2015 (KHOEM Boeun), E1/296.1, pp. 22-23; T. 10 August 2015 (KAN Thorl), E1/327.1, p. 82; T. 19 May 2015 (OR Ho), E1/301.1, pp. 72-73; T. 17 February 2015 (PHNEOU Yav), E1/264.1, p. 32 (explaining that he attended two wedding events and described that “people were instructed to make the resolution saying that ‘I commit to love my wife or my husband for the rest of my life’”).

<sup>12139</sup> T. 23 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/462.1, p. 81; T. 2 December 2015 (PRAK Doeun), E1/361.1, p. 99; T. 29 July 2015 (KHIN Vat), E1/325.1, p. 91.

<sup>12140</sup> T. 23 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/462.1, p. 81; T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 98; T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroeun), E1/489.1, pp. 40-41; T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, pp. 56-57.

<sup>12141</sup> T. 20 August 2015 (LING Lrysov), E1/334.1, p. 62; T. 1 September 2015 (CHAO Lang), E1/339.1, p. 76; T. 29 July 2015 (KHIN Vat), E1/325.1, p. 91.

<sup>12142</sup> T. 25 August 2016 (YOS Phal), E1/464.1, p. 32; T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 72; T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroeun), E1/489.1, pp. 40-41; T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, p. 56; T. 31 March 2016 (SUN Vuth), E1/412.1, p. 4 (stating that before people got married, they had to make a commitment that they had to be honest to one another, be faithful to one another); T. 6 June 2012 (SAO Sarun), E1/82.1, p. 70; T. 19 September 2016 (HENG Lai Heang), E1/476.1, p. 15.

<sup>12143</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, pp. 71-72; T. 2 September 2015 (MEAN Loeuy), E1/340.1, p. 68; T. 1 September 2015 (CHAO Lang), E1/339.1, p. 75.

<sup>12144</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, pp. 71-72; T. 2 December 2015 (PRAK Doeun), E1/361.1, p. 99.

rice production,<sup>12145</sup> and to adhere to DK policies.<sup>12146</sup>

3634. In limited cases, no commitment was made. During PREAP Sokhoeurn's wedding, the male and female representatives made a speech about the Party's direction and the couples listened to them.<sup>12147</sup>

3635. The authorities attended the wedding ceremonies.<sup>12148</sup> Individuals who chaired or presided over the wedding ceremonies included the union chief,<sup>12149</sup> the unit chief,<sup>12150</sup> the village chief,<sup>12151</sup> the commune chief,<sup>12152</sup> the district secretary<sup>12153</sup> and various cadre.<sup>12154</sup> During wedding ceremonies, representatives of the authorities made announcements on the policy of Angkar and/or instructed the individuals on certain issues. These included the need for couples to commit to and love each other,<sup>12155</sup> the

<sup>12145</sup> T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroeun), E1/489.1, pp. 40-41; T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, p. 56; T. 2 September 2015 (MEAN Loeuy), E1/340.1, p. 68.

<sup>12146</sup> T. 1 March 2016 (UCH Sunlay), E1/394.1, p. 98.

<sup>12147</sup> T. 24 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/488.1, pp. 47-48. See also, T. 24 October 2016 (KUL Nem), E1/488.1, pp. 102-103.

<sup>12148</sup> T. 29 August 2016 (SENG Soeun), E1/465.1, p. 39 (stating that at a wedding ceremony organised by the district level, the participants included all the commune chiefs); T. 17 August 2016 (MY Savoeun), E1/459.1, pp. 61-62 (explaining that the chief of the company (namely the commune chief), the chiefs of the male and the female mobile unit participated in the ceremony); T. 23 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/462.1, pp. 83-84 (testifying that his commune chief and the unit chiefs attended his wedding); T. 25 August 2016 (YOS Phal), E1/464.1, p. 22 (specifying that the unit chief instructed the leader of the female unit to bring the females to make their commitment); T. 31 August 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/467.1, pp. 88, 93 (indicating that during her wedding, the minister of commerce, Ta Rith, and his deputy, her direct supervisor Ta Hong, and a few female unit chiefs attended the weddings); T. 19 September 2016 (HENG Lai Heang), E1/476.1, p. 52 (stating that people who attended her wedding included individuals from the district and commune level); T. 12 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/482.1, pp. 74-75 (testifying that people present at her wedding included comrade Om (the chief of her mobile unit) and comrade Oeun (someone in a higher rank)); T. 20 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/487.1, pp. 83-85 (explaining that unit chief attended her wedding); T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroeun), E1/489.1, pp. 55-56 (the cadres who attended her wedding included the sector committee and district chiefs, the chief of the big unit and the commune chief and many unit chiefs).

<sup>12149</sup> T. 20 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/487.1, p. 83.

<sup>12150</sup> T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, p. 18; T. 27 July 2015 (SEN Sophon), E1/323.1, p. 80.

<sup>12151</sup> T. 16 February 2015 (EM Phoeung), E1/263.1, p. 58.

<sup>12152</sup> T. 19 May 2015 (OR Ho), E1/301.1, p. 72; T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, p. 18; T. 17 February 2015 (PHNEOU Yav), E1/264.1, p. 33; PHNEOU Yav Interview Record, E3/5515, 12 November 2009, ERN (En) 00410250 (testifying that the wedding was held with the participation of the commune committee, the cooperative and unit chiefs and that Ta Khem, the commune chief, presided over the ceremony).

<sup>12153</sup> T. 14 January 2016 (YOU Vann), E1/376.1, p. 69 (stating that PRAK Yut and other village chiefs presided over the wedding ceremony).

<sup>12154</sup> T. 20 August 2015 (LING Lrysov), E1/334.1, p. 61.

<sup>12155</sup> T. 25 August 2016 (YOS Phal), E1/464.1, p. 22 (describing that the unit chief educated the couples to commit to each other and to love each other); T. 31 August 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/467.1, p. 92 (specifying that the cadre gave them "instructions to live together as husband and wife and to love one another"); T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, p. 42; T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, pp. 72, 98-99.

need to increase the population,<sup>12156</sup> to work hard for the Party and the people,<sup>12157</sup> to be loyal to the Party and Angkar,<sup>12158</sup> to achieve work plans set by Angkar<sup>12159</sup> and to produce children for Angkar.<sup>12160</sup>

14.3.7.2. Absence of Khmer tradition

3636. Wedding ceremonies were not conducted in accordance with Khmer tradition.<sup>12161</sup> During OM Yoeurn's wedding ceremony, there was no traditional Khmer music, no monks' blessings and no Bach Pka Sla.<sup>12162</sup> Similarly, SOU Sotheavy's wedding ceremony was not held according to Khmer tradition.<sup>12163</sup> CPK cadre including Witnesses PECH Chim and KHOEM Boeun also confirmed that wedding ceremonies were not held according to Khmer tradition.<sup>12164</sup> Expert Kasumi

<sup>12156</sup> T. 23 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/462.1, p. 79 (an announcement was made that "The population of Cambodia is not that great and for us, male and female youths we strive to work best. And for that reason Angkar required us to get married to increase the population.").

<sup>12157</sup> T. 31 August 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/467.1, p. 92; T. 12 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/482.1, pp. 74-75.

<sup>12158</sup> T. 31 August 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/467.1, p. 95; T. 12 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/482.1, pp. 74-75.

<sup>12159</sup> T. 1 September 2015 (CHAO Lang), E1/339.1, pp. 68-69.

<sup>12160</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, pp. 67, 89-90, 98-99 (stating that she heard KHIEU Samphan saying this at a meeting in Wat Ounalom); T. 12 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/482.1, pp. 74-75).

<sup>12161</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, pp. 69-70, 77-78; T. 19 September 2016 (HENG Lai Heang), E1/476.1, pp. 14-15; T. 25 October 2016 (NGET Chat), E1/489.1, p. 5; T. 24 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/488.1, pp. 18, 33-34; T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, pp. 57-58; T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, pp. 51, 72-73; T. 26 October 2016 (CHUON Thy), E1/490.1, p. 78 ("Regarding family building, to my knowledge, it was not organized according to the tradition."); UK Him Interview Record, E3/9584, 14 July 2014, p. 9, ERN (En) 01031764 ("When they forced me to get married to my second husband, I said that how I could get married [sic] and live with him because we did not follow traditional ceremony; I was afraid that ancestors would harm us."); KHET Sokhan Interview Record, E3/9830, 27 November 2014, p. 14, ERN (En) 01077083 (when asked about her feelings about her wedding, she answered "I felt regret because I was not able to have a proper ceremony in accordance with our tradition."); SREY Soeum Interview Record, E3/9826, 16 December 2014, ERN (En) 01067748 ("In the past, I was disappointed because I was not able to marry like we do now. No Achar and no relatives were present."); CHUOM Savoeun Interview Record, E3/9578, 15 October 2014, p. 11, ERN (En) 01053606 ("The weddings were not conducted following Khmer traditions. They just declared their determination and then held hands as husband and wife."); SEK Sam At Interview Record, E3/10783, 10 November 2016, p. 10, ERN (En) 01365565 ("I saw that weddings were not the same as before. In the old days a proper process for marriage proposals would be followed."); YIM Sovann Interview Record, E3/9785, 3 November 2014, p. 17, ERN (En) 01053858 (when asked whether the wedding was similar to the Khmer traditional weddings, she answered no); EM Sarin Interview Record, E3/10639, 23 April 2005, p. 18, ERN (En) 01098420 ("There are differences between Khmer Rouge weddings and our traditional weddings.").

<sup>12162</sup> T. 22 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/461.1, pp. 97-99. The Chamber notes that Bach Pka Sla is a process in which the respective families and their relatives bless the couple.

<sup>12163</sup> T. 23 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/462.1, p. 83.

<sup>12164</sup> T. 23 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/291.1, p. 8 (stating that when he was asked whether the wedding ceremony was organised according to the Cambodian tradition, he answered: "No. At that time there was no band, no music"); T. 4 May 2015 (KHOEM Boeun), E1/296.1, p. 23 (explaining that "wedding ceremonies during the regime were not held the way they were traditionally held prior to the regime. The

NAKAGAWA explained that there was no religious ceremony and no monks present at the weddings during the regime.<sup>12165</sup> According to Expert Peg LEVINE, traditional rituals at the wedding ceremonies were lost, resulting in a “grave violation” which she claimed was a “crime against culture”.<sup>12166</sup>

3637. There is limited evidence that there were Buddhist blessings at weddings. Witness EM Phoeung, a monk who resided in the Tram Kak district during the regime, stated that the village chief invited him to give a Buddhist blessing during a group wedding of 20-30 couples in 1977 or 1978. While EM Phoeung did give blessing at the wedding, he did not do so as a Buddhist monk because he had already been defrocked in 1976.<sup>12167</sup> In June 1975, OUM Suphany’s marriage to her fiancé was organised by her mother-in-law. Her wedding was a small ceremony held in the presence of a monk and the unit chief. She further stated that during the beginning of the Democratic Kampuchea regime, the rules were not so strict.<sup>12168</sup>

3638. The Chamber notes that there is only limited evidence of Buddhist blessings at wedding ceremonies. These instances do not have an impact on the consistent evidence that weddings were not conducted in accordance with Cambodian tradition. The Chamber is satisfied that, in general, wedding ceremonies during the DK period were not conducted according to Cambodian tradition.

14.3.7.3. Participation of parents and other family members

3639. According to Witness TEP Poch, who served on the District Committee in the Baray district in the Kampong Thom province of the Central Zone, in rare instances couples’ parents were present during the wedding ceremony.<sup>12169</sup> However, the couples were asked to declare their commitment to live with each other as a man and wife forever. Those wedding ceremonies were not held the traditional way.”)

---

<sup>12165</sup> T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 70.

<sup>12166</sup> Book by P. Levine: Love and Dread in Cambodia, E3/10677, p. 31, ERN (En) 01334905; T. 12 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/482.1, p. 10.

<sup>12167</sup> T. 16 February 2015 (EM Phoeung), E1/263.1, pp. 57-59, 60, 75 (explaining that he was invited to give his blessing because the cadres knew that he was a monk before).

<sup>12168</sup> T. 23 January 2015 (OUM Suphany), E1/251.1, p. 104. See also, T. 11 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/481.1, p. 19 (explaining that at the beginning of the regime, “people had so much access to traditional weddings” in the early stages of the group weddings, “particularly in 1975 and 1976”).

<sup>12169</sup> T. 22 August 2016 (TEP Poch), E1/461.1, p. 82; T. 17 August 2016 (MY Savoieun), E1/459.1, p. 90 (“During the time when I got married, family members were not invited to the ceremony or the wedding. If we had a parent, mother or father, the mother or the father would be allowed to be present in the wedding. As for the family members of the couples, they were present at the kitchen hall in the village majority of the evidence indicates that family members did not attend wedding ceremonies.<sup>12170</sup> CHEA Deap's parents and siblings did not attend her wedding ceremony.<sup>12171</sup> Similarly, Civil Party PREAP Sokhoeurn stated that “[d]uring the wedding, none of my parents or relatives attended the meeting; there were only representatives of big units, that is, our representatives and the representatives from the men's unit were there”.<sup>12172</sup>

3640. In light of the consistent evidence detailing how wedding ceremonies unfolded, the Chamber finds that parents and family members of the couples were usually not present at the wedding.

14.3.8. Consummation of Marriage

14.3.8.1. Monitoring

3641. After the wedding ceremony, newlywed couples spent their first night or nights together, usually at their respective places or at a room, house or hut organised for the

---

where the wedding was organised.”); T. 19 September 2016 (HENG Lai Heang), E1/476.1, p. 15 (her parents attended her wedding).

<sup>12170</sup> T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroeun), E1/489.1, pp. 37-38 (“When I was called to make the commitment on that day, none of my relatives and parent attended it because they called me from the worksite [...] They did not know that I got married”); T. 25 October 2016 (CHUON Thy), E1/489.1, p. 109 (“My marriage was not attended by my parents.”); T. 22 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/461.1, pp. 97-98 (stating that during her wedding ceremony, none of the parents of the 12 couples attended the wedding); T. 20 August 2015 (LING Lrysov), E1/334.1, p. 62 (“I was really disappointed because my parents were not allowed to attend the occasion at the time.”); T. 24 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/488.1, pp. 17-18, 49 (explaining that the marriage during the regime did not give her happiness as it was not attended by her parents and relatives. At her wedding, there were no parents attended); T. 29 July 2015 (KHIN Vat), E1/325.1, p. 91 (stating that it was unfortunate for her that her parents were not aware of her marriage); T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, p. 56 (stating that among the 60 couples married at the ceremony, none of their parents attended the wedding); T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 50 (explaining that in traditional wedding ceremony, there was participation of parents and family members to celebrate, which was missing during the DK regime).

<sup>12171</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 69.

<sup>12172</sup> T. 20 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/487.1, pp. 84-85 (“We were weeping, we wanted to have the present [sic] of our parents.”).

couples.<sup>12173</sup> The newly-wed couples were expected to have sexual intercourse.<sup>12174</sup> While other phrases were used by witnesses and Civil Parties to describe what was expected, such as to “get along” or to “sleep together”, the Chamber understands that they all refer to having sexual intercourse.<sup>12175</sup> The couples were monitored on the night or nights after their respective wedding ceremonies took place.<sup>12176</sup> Militiamen were <sup>12173</sup> T. 25 August 2016 (YOS Phal), E1/464.1, pp. 23-24 (stating that after the ceremony, the couples were sent to work all day and at night, the husband and wife were brought together to find a place to sleep); T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, pp. 72-73 (explaining that after her wedding, each couple was sent to stay in a room); T. 31 August 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/467.1, p. 114 (explaining that after the wedding ceremony, she was transferred to a small room where her husband was staying); T. 12 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/482.1, pp. 82-83 (explaining that all couples that got married had to sleep in the divided rooms that were built); T. 24 October 2016 (NGET Chat), E1/488.1, p. 125 (explaining that after the marriage ceremony, she and her husband were given a small shelter to spend the night); T. 24 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/488.1, pp. 10, 55 (recalling that married couples were instructed to live in a long building for three nights); T. 23 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/462.1, p. 4 (explaining that the couples were instructed to stay in different rooms); T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroeun), E1/489.1, pp. 38-39 (stating that after she made the commitment, the militiamen brought her and her husband to one of the shelters that were built for the newlywed couples to sleep); T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, pp. 58 (stating that after her wedding ceremony, she and her husband were allowed to return to their sleeping quarters and were instructed to sleep there and not to go anywhere); T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, pp. 27-28 (explaining that the commune chief asked her to live in the house arranged by Angkar); T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 71 (“Khmer Rouge provided a small hut for the newlywed couple to stay for [...] three days to one week. The newlyweds were allowed to stay in that hut for the evening, but during the day time, they had to work”).

<sup>12174</sup> See below, para. 3645.

<sup>12175</sup> The Chamber notes that the issue of sex is still taboo in Cambodian society and while few witnesses and Civil Parties who testified in court on this topic in public session were not reluctant in describing sexual intercourse, others were reluctant in using the word “sex”. The Chamber therefore understands witness and Civil Party references to “getting along” or “sleeping together” as describing their wedding nights. See also, T. 17 February 2015 (PHNEOU Yav), E1/264.1, p. 35 (“What do you mean by getting along or not? [...] They wanted to know whether the couple consummate[d] their marriage”); T. 31 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/467.1, p. 31 (“Q: [...] what did your husband say or do right before the first time you had sex with each other? A. He said that if we still did not get well together or get along together, then we would be mistreated.”); T. 26 May 2015 (MEAS Laihour), E1/305.1, p. 19 (“They came to watch over whether we got along with each other and whether we consummated our marriage”); T. 28 July 2015 (MAM Soeurn), E1/324.1, p. 95 (“Actually [...] surveillance was conducted at that time and they really wanted to know whether the newlywed got along with each other.”); T. 24 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/488.1, p. 35 (“after my marriage, I begged my husband not to touch me [...] I kept crying. I told him that so that we could hide the fact that we did not get along from Angkar.”); T. 19 September 2016 (HENG Lai Heang), E1/476.1, p. 16 (“Q: After your marriage, were you required to consummate your marriage and, if so, were you monitored by the militiamen? A. For those who agreed with each other, they were not monitored. But for those who did not get along with each other, they were monitored and investigated.”); T. 23 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/462.1, pp. 8, 47 (“And if we did not consummate our marriage, then measures would be taken. And for that reason, I agreed to sleep with my husband [...] Madam, can you tell the Chamber at which point that you have sex with your husband? A. It was a month later [...] I was so afraid so I agreed to sleep with him.”); NHIM Kol Interview Record, E3/9667, 11 February 2015, p. 16, ERN (En) 01076952 (“At the end of my wedding, they told us what to do as a husband and wife. If any couple did not get along with each other, they would be accused of being against Angkar or betraying Angkar. They did not say directly we had to have sex, but we all understood that they meant by that [...]. We all knew in advance that after marriage, we had to sleep with our partners.”).

<sup>12176</sup> T. 23 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/462.1, pp. 85-86; T. 24 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/463.1, pp. 44-46, 53-55 (referring to the fact that on the wedding night, SOU Sotheavy saw movements of shadows under his house through the floor made of bamboo. The next morning, he saw

sent to check whether they had consummated the marriage – that is, whether they had had sexual intercourse.<sup>12177</sup> NOP Ngim, a member of the Samlaut District Committee, believed that she and her husband were monitored by the militiamen.<sup>12178</sup> When PREAP mass of people crawling under the house and he thought that they came to spy whether they had consummated the marriage. He described them as militiamen who were young adults at the age between 12 and 13 years old. He further stated that they were village or commune militiamen); T. 25 August 2016 (YOS Phal), E1/464.1, p. 31 (explaining that after the wedding, the militiamen monitored them once or twice every night); T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, pp. 73-75 (explaining that after the wedding, she was told to be careful because they would be monitored at night. On the first night together, she heard footsteps outside the door); T. 19 September 2016 (HENG Lai Heang), E1/476.1, pp. 16-18 (stating that they monitored the couples who did not get along well. Those who agreed to consummate the marriage were not monitored); T. 13 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/483.1, pp. 63-65 (stating that the militiamen were standing in front of the entrance of the hut monitoring them. She could see them because the walls were made of thatch that were not completely closed); T. 24 October 2016 (NGET Chat), E1/488.1, pp. 125-126 (explaining that she and her husband kept quiet because the militiamen were walking nearby); T. 24 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/488.1, pp. 7-8 (stating that couples were under surveillance throughout the night); T. 24 October 2016 (KUL Nem), E1/488.1, pp. 100-101 (explaining that he and his wife were monitored to see whether they had consummated the marriage); T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, pp. 28-29 (stating that on the first night that she spent with her husband, militiamen eavesdropped from below her house); T. 24 June 2015 (CHUM Samoeurn), E1/321.1, pp. 65-66 (explaining that the militiamen would eavesdrop the married couples to check if they had consummated the marriage); T. 29 July 2015 (KHIN Vat), E1/325.1, pp. 90-91 (there were people conducting surveillance after the marriage); T. 1 September 2015 (CHAO Lang), E1/339.1, pp. 70-71 (explaining that on the first night of her wedding, militiamen eavesdropped so she and her husband did not talk nor moved); T. 26 May 2015 (MEAS Laihour), E1/305.1, pp. 17-18 (stating that after her marriage, militiamen conducted surveillance to see whether she and her husband had celebrated traditional religious and to see whether they had consummated the marriage); T. 14 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/473.1, pp. 3-4 (“most of those forced couples were spied their night lives by c[h]hlop, the spies, and they had to complete it. And it was impossible to avoid it. In case a spy knew that they were not consummating the marriage [...] the consequences would be a punishment. It could be ranged from punishment in a form of detention in the re-education center for education in many ways, or it could be a punishment in the forms of sexual violence against either the wife or husband or to both, or it could be a punishment to death.”).

---

<sup>12177</sup> T. 2 December 2015 (PRAK Doeun), E1/361.1, pp. 99, 100 (explaining that on their wedding night, cadres would spy on the newlywed to verify whether they had consummated the marriage); T. 31 March 2016 (SUN Vuth), E1/412.1, p. 4 (explaining that after the marriage, the couples would be monitored to see whether they had consummated the marriage); T. 23 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/462.1, pp. 8, 40, 55 (explaining that when her husband was allowed to come to visit her, she saw military men when she came downstairs and that was why she decided to sleep with her husband); T. 17 February 2015 (PHNEOU Yav), E1/264.1, pp. 34-35 (stating that the commune chief sent the militiamen who were about 20 or 30 years old to listen to the couples’ room at night to see whether they had got along with each other); T. 26 January 2015 (CHOU Koemlan), E1/252.1, p. 88 (explaining that at night, they would silently approach the house of the new married couples in order to spy their conversations). See also, KAING Guek Eav Interview Record, E3/5789, 2 December 2009, p. 4, ERN (En) 00414335 (explaining that to his knowledge, there were no measures to organise surveillance. The ones who spied on married couples to find out whether they were sleeping together were immoral cadres. Comrade Pang, regimental secretary and later secretary of the Military Hospital 98 Committee was punished because he had asked his subordinate to spy on married couple. The Chamber notes that contrary to Duch’s statement, the evidence before the Chamber indicates that newlywed couples were monitored to check whether they had consummated the marriage. The Chamber further notes that Pang, the secretary of Hospital P-98, was not arrested due to the above acts but a large purge of people from Hospital P-78 did take place). See also, S-21 Entry Log 6 January 1977, E3/9843, 7 January 1977, p. 5, ERN (En) 01207675-01507678 (35 entries); S-21 Entry Log 1976, E3/9842, 26 May 1977, ERN (En) 01367291, 01367292, 01367297 (3 entries); S-21 Entry Log March 1977, E3/9845, undated, ERN (En) 01332043 (2 entries); S-21 Entry Log 23 June 1977, E3/9646, 24 June 1977, ERN (Kh) 01017050 (1 entry); S-21 Entry Log May 1977, E3/2590, undated, ERN (En) 01191306 (1 Entry).

<sup>12178</sup> T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, pp. 51-52, 60-61, 76, 78, 108-109.

Sokhoeurn left the building arranged for her and her husband on the night of her wedding, she was asked by the militiamen where she was going.<sup>12179</sup> Similarly, when Civil Party SAY Naroen was brought to the shelter with her husband on the night of her wedding, she saw about six militia men walking back and forth and taking couples away.<sup>12180</sup>

3642. During the first night after MOM Vun's wedding, the militiamen came into their room and forced her and her husband to have sexual intercourse with each other in front of them. She recalled that after she had sex with her husband, the militiamen said "[l]et's move to another couple because this couple already had sex". The militiamen came again on the second and third nights after the wedding and when they saw that MOM Vun and her husband were sleeping and hugging one another, they said that this couple "went along well" and left.<sup>12181</sup> According to her, the militiamen received instructions to monitor the newly wedded couples from Rom, the chief of the worksite, and Sea, the unit chief.<sup>12182</sup>

3643. There is evidence that militiamen who monitored couples reported to the authorities.<sup>12183</sup> A mobile unit worker in the Southwest Zone, Civil Party RY Pov, was instructed to monitor the activities of the newlywed couples and to report to the units nearby.<sup>12184</sup> HENG Lai Heang, who served in the Commune Committee in one of the communes in Sector 505, confirmed that people were assigned to monitor couples in order to obtain information on their reactions after marriage. If the couple did not "get along", this information would be reported to senior chiefs who would take action in the form of re-education and then, if necessary, reprimand. According to this Civil

<sup>12179</sup> T. 24 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/488.1, pp. 7-8.

<sup>12180</sup> T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroen), E1/489.1, pp. 39, 56-58.

<sup>12181</sup> T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, pp. 58-59, 78.

<sup>12182</sup> T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, pp. 58-59, 78.

<sup>12183</sup> T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, pp. 61-62 (explaining that the militiamen would report if the couple did not get along. If a woman refused to have sexual intercourse with her husband, that woman would be criticised in the criticism meeting and sanctioned to hard labour); KOL Set Interview Record, E3/9821, 16 May 2014, p. 19, ERN (En) 01040482 (explaining that as a militiaman, KOL Set was ordered to go listen and investigate the new-married couples, and then he had to report. According to him, "they wanted to know who talked about Angkar and who refused to sleep together after their marriage."); T. 31 March 2016 (SUN Vuth), E1/412.1, p. 4 (testifying that he heard that after the monitoring, a report would be made to the upper echelon).

<sup>12184</sup> T. 12 February 2015 (RY Pov), E1/262.1, pp. 31, 61-63.

Party, she was not monitored on her wedding night due to her position.<sup>12185</sup>

3644. In light of this consistent evidence, the Chamber is satisfied that after wedding ceremonies, couples were commonly monitored to ensure that they had consummated their marriages.

14.3.8.2. Coercive environment

3645. Witness PRAK Yut, District Secretary of the Kampong Siem district, stated that “after the marriage, it is common sense that they had to consummate their marriage. Then, if not, what was the purpose of marriage?”<sup>12186</sup> A number of witnesses and Civil Parties stated that cadres advised couples to consummate, usually in a meeting.<sup>12187</sup> Witness IN Yoeung was told by the cadre to consummate the marriage and that if they refused, she and her husband would be taken to the commune office to make sure that they would consummate there.<sup>12188</sup>

3646. Some individuals engaged in sexual intercourse with their spouses for fear of the consequences if they did not.<sup>12189</sup> On the night of her wedding, SAY Narooun saw two militiamen taking two couples away and concluded that the couples did not get along with each other. After seeing that, she was so scared that her body was trembling, <sup>12185</sup> T. 19 September 2016 (HENG Lai Heang), E1/476.1, pp. 16-18, 40, 55-57. See also, T. 14 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/473.1, pp. 3-4 (“the consequences would be a punishment. It could be ranged from punishment in a form of detention in the re-education center for education in many ways, or it could be a punishment in the forms of sexual violence against either the wife or husband or to both, or it could be a punishment to death.”).

<sup>12186</sup> T. 19 January 2016 (PRAK Yut), E1/378.1, p. 53; T. 14 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/473.1, p. 5; T. 10 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/480.1, pp. 86-87 (explaining that among the weddings that took place in Kandal province, 0.8% of the people went to what she described as the “honeymoon huts or wedding huts”, and 35% went home. If the couples had parents living nearby, they would return home and people who went to the huts were the ones who did not have families they could return to).

<sup>12187</sup> T. 2 December 2015 (PRAK Doeun), E1/361.1, pp. 99, 100 (stating that Angkar advised the couple to consummate the marriage); T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, pp. 61-63 (explaining that in the criticism meeting in a group which she attended, the woman who refused to make love or to have sex with her husband was called to be criticised for refusing to consummate the marriage and that woman was sanctioned to hard labour. She further stated that couples who did not consummate their marriage would be called to first criticism, second criticism and third criticism, and if they continued to refuse, they would be punished through hard labour).

<sup>12188</sup> T. 3 February 2016 (IN Yoeung), E1/387.1, pp. 92-93.

<sup>12189</sup> T. 24 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/463.1, p. 28 (stating that after being warned a couple of times, he engaged in sexual intercourse with his wife out of fear); T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Narooun), E1/489.1, pp. 39-40 (explaining that she agreed to give her body to her husband because she had seen militiamen patrolling and taking away other couples); T. 24 October 2016 (KUL Nem), E1/488.1, pp. 100-101 (stating that after three nights, he and his wife were both afraid of being killed so he decided to consummate the marriage).

and she had to give herself to her husband in order to fulfil Angkar's requirements.<sup>12190</sup> She stated that if she did not consummate the marriage with her husband, she would risk being taken away and killed.<sup>12191</sup> OM Yoeurn did not dare to protest because she was very frightened. She agreed to consummate the marriage, explaining that her husband would report it to his superior if she did not.<sup>12192</sup> When describing the consummation of her marriage, CHEA Deap stated in court that she was afraid of her husband and the militiamen.<sup>12193</sup> She explained that if the militiamen found out that a couple did not agree to stay with one another, they would be called for re-education or refashioning. When she consummated the marriage, it was her husband's choice.<sup>12194</sup> Similarly, Civil Party KUL Nem explained that "[w]e were afraid, so we had to consummate the marriage and that happened three days after the marriage".<sup>12195</sup> Witness CHANG Srey Mom mentioned that she felt as though she had no choice but to have sexual relations with her husband and she had a fear of being killed.<sup>12196</sup> Witness MAM Soeurn, a member of the Sector 5 mobile unit, testified that couples who refused to consummate would risk their lives by going against Angkar.<sup>12197</sup> PEN Sochan stated that the first two nights after her wedding she refused to consummate the marriage. As a consequence, her husband beat her and her Unit Chief, Comrade Om, refashioned her, saying that if she refused to consummate on the third night, she would be dead.<sup>12198</sup> On the night of her wedding, OM Yoeurn resisted when her husband tried to force her to have sex "violently", so her husband went to complain to his military commander, Comrade Phan. On that same night, Comrade Phan called OM Yoeurn to a quiet room alone and asked her for the reason she refused to have sex with her husband and then "raped" her and threatened to kill her if she shouted or told anyone. OM Yoeurn felt

---

<sup>12190</sup> T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroen), E1/489.1, pp. 39-40.

<sup>12191</sup> T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroen), E1/489.1, p. 49.

<sup>12192</sup> T. 23 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/462.1, pp. 8, 57.

<sup>12193</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, pp. 73-74.

<sup>12194</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, pp. 74-75.

<sup>12195</sup> T. 24 October 2016 (KUL Nem), E1/488.1, p. 100.

<sup>12196</sup> T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, pp. 29, 33-34, 63 (explaining that if she did not consummate the marriage, she would be "in trouble because my father had been executed for just two days ago. So I fear for my life. So I try to calm down myself because I was fear that I will be executed [...] If I oppose the party, I may be in trouble.").

<sup>12197</sup> T. 28 July 2015 (MAM Soeurn), E1/324.1, p. 94.

<sup>12198</sup> T. 12 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/482.1, pp. 85-86.

that she had been “raped” as a warning for refusing to consummate her marriage, so she agreed to have sex with her husband later on.<sup>12199</sup>

3647. Those who did not consummate their marriage had to hide the fact and pretend that they loved each other in order to avoid any negative consequences. CHUM Samoeurn explained in court that she did not consummate her marriage and while trembling begged her husband to keep this secret. Although she did not know what would happen if it was discovered that she and her husband had not consummated their marriage, she was scared.<sup>12200</sup> YOS Phal considered his wife as a sibling. He agreed with her to keep the nature of their relationship to themselves and, if asked, to tell others that they loved each other and to act like husband and wife.<sup>12201</sup>

14.3.8.3. Forced sexual intercourse between spouses

3648. Four Civil Parties testified in court in relation to rape in the context of marriage: OM Yoeurn, MOM Vun, PREAP Sokhoeurn and PEN Sochan. As a preliminary matter, the Chamber notes that the KHIEU Samphan Defence raises credibility issues in relation to OM Yoeurn, MOM Vun and PREAP Sokhoeurn.<sup>12202</sup>

3649. The KHIEU Samphan Defence submits that OM Yoeurn did not mention rape in her Civil Party Application and that her evidence is inconsistent in relation to the dates and the duration of gaps in which she had sexual intercourse with her husband.<sup>12203</sup> It objects to the credibility of both MOM Vun and PREAP Sokhoeurn due to the inconsistencies between information in their Civil Party Applications and their in-court testimonies.<sup>12204</sup> The Chamber notes that the Defence had the opportunity to confront each of these Civil Parties on these issues in court. The Chamber recalls that it places greater weight on in-court testimonies rather than upon Civil Party Applications. It notes that minor inconsistencies are common with respect to the details of events which occurred more than 30 years ago, such as the dates or duration of gaps

<sup>12199</sup> T. 23 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/462.1, pp. 4-6, 38-40 (“I had to bite my mouth, bite my lip and shed tear[s], but I did not dare to make any noise because I was afraid that I would be killed if I made any noise.”).

<sup>12200</sup> T. 24 June 2015 (CHUM Samoeurn), E1/321.1, p. 64.

<sup>12201</sup> T. 25 August 2016 (YOS Phal), E1/464.1, p. 37.

<sup>12202</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, para. 2369; NUON Chea Closing Brief, fn. 4010. The Chamber notes that while the NUON Chea Defence reserved its right to discuss the evidence or credibility of these Civil Parties in the oral arguments, they did not do so.

<sup>12203</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, para. 2397.

<sup>12204</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, para. 2398.

between sexual intercourse, specifically when they are related to traumatic event.<sup>12205</sup> The Chamber also notes that in the context of Cambodian culture, where sexual issues are still a taboo subject, Civil Parties may have been reluctant to talk about such issues in their respective Civil Party Applications, only addressing the issues when questioned in court. Further it is common for individuals who have been threatened or who fear social pressure to be reluctant to divulge that they have been the victim of rape, as they may be afraid of retraumatisation or detrimental backlash following such disclosure.<sup>12206</sup> In this regard, the Chamber considers that the KHIEU Samphan Defence's assertion that PREAP Sokhoeurn was provoked to mention that she was raped, because of the compelling needs of the case, has no basis and misinterprets her in-court statements. Having reviewed the evidence they provided in their Civil Party Applications in light of their in-court statements, the Chamber is satisfied that the inconsistencies raised by the KHIEU Samphan Defence, especially with regard to dates, do not affect the overall credibility of these three Civil Parties. However, it remains to be considered whether the evidence provided is plausible and consistent.

3650. MOM Vun gave evidence that she was “raped” by five men after she initially refused to remarry.<sup>12207</sup> Subsequently, on the night of her wedding, she and her husband discussed and agreed to pretend to “go along” with each other and to separate once there was peace in the country. She stated that the militiamen heard their discussion and came into the house. At that point, they ordered the couple at gunpoint to take off their clothes and have sexual intercourse. They then forced her husband's penis into her vagina.<sup>12208</sup> She did not dare to protest because she was afraid that she would be killed.<sup>12209</sup> She further stated that “[w]henver I had sex with him, it was like I forced myself to do it because if I disagreed and then we would be in trouble”.<sup>12210</sup>

3651. OM Yoeurn gave evidence that she was “raped” by her husband's unit chief, which she believed was a consequence of her refusal to consummate her marriage with

<sup>12205</sup> Nyiramasuhuko et al. (Butare) Appeal Judgement, paras 1852, 1859; Kvočka et al. Trial Judgement, para. 552; Muhimana, Appeal Judgement, para. 152; Kunarac et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 309.

<sup>12206</sup> T. 24 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/488.1, pp. 57-58, 61 (explaining that she did not speak about rape in her previous statements because she was shy about what happened and she did not want to talk about her personal issues to the interviewer).

<sup>12207</sup> See above, para. 3621.

<sup>12208</sup> T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, p. 58.

<sup>12209</sup> T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, pp. 57, 78, 82.

<sup>12210</sup> T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, p. 84.

her newly wedded husband.<sup>12211</sup> After this incident, OM Yoeurn agreed to live with her husband only because she was afraid that she would be killed or would be “raped” again.<sup>12212</sup>

3652. PEN Sochan gave evidence that, after refusing to consummate her marriage during the first two nights after her wedding, she was “raped” by her husband on the third night. Five militiamen came to the room and tied her hands to a pole. Her husband tore her pants off and “raped” her, while the militiamen watched and gave instructions to her husband. At the end, the militiamen left, congratulating the couple that they had done well and were producing children for the Party. The Civil Party stated that she bled for a long time after that incident.<sup>12213</sup>

3653. After not consummating her marriage with her husband, PREAP Sokhoeurn was threatened by the elderly cadres, Ta Hom and Yeay Kim, that if she did not have sexual intercourse, she would be killed. Subsequently, the elderly cadres instructed her husband to take her by oxcart to a location where they were confined in a house. That night, her husband tore off her clothes, took off her bra and “raped” her.<sup>12214</sup> He told her that he had to follow the Party’s instructions and that if he did not, they would both die.<sup>12215</sup>

3654. Kasumi NAKAGAWA explained in court that individuals did not consent to marriage of their own free will and that consequently the decision to have sexual intercourse was also not their own. Individuals were terrified and therefore neither men nor women genuinely consented.<sup>12216</sup> She further explained that in “the eyes of the Khmer Rouge, it was a duty and responsibility as a part of the revolution that once a man and a woman became a couple, they had to consummate a marriage”.<sup>12217</sup>

---

<sup>12211</sup> See above, para. 3646.

<sup>12212</sup> T. 23 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/462.1, pp. 40, 42, 50.

<sup>12213</sup> T. 12 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/482.1, pp. 84, 87, 90, 107.

<sup>12214</sup> T. 20 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/487.1, pp. 86-87, 88-90, 94; PREAP Sokhoeurn Interview Record, E3/9820, 8 October 2011, pp. 15-17, ERN (En) 01050572-01050574 (“He chased me into the house and he tore my blouse and bra apart. He hugged me. When I refused, he removed my trousers and his trousers. He pushed me onto a board and started raping me. I tried to put my legs close to each other, but he used his legs to separate them. When he inserted his penis in my vagina, I immediately felt pain. I cried and cursed him. At that time I did not want to have sexual intercourse with him. After that miserable event, I kept crying and I lost my appetite. Later, he tried to console me and he even sewed up my clothes and bra.”).

<sup>12215</sup> T. 20 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/487.1, pp. 102-104.

<sup>12216</sup> T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 90.

<sup>12217</sup> T. 14 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/473.1, p. 5.

According to Peg LEVINE's study, 76 out of 192 respondents (38 percent), who married during the regime, reported that sexual intercourse was prescribed.<sup>12218</sup> However, only 19 respondents (9 percent) reported compliance with the prescription.<sup>12219</sup>

3655. In the immediate aftermath of her wedding, CHEA Deap did not consummate her marriage with her husband. However, when they next met, they consummated the marriage. The Civil Party stated that "it was his choice" to do so.<sup>12220</sup> Civil Party PHAN Him stated that after she was threatened with being married by Angkar, she started to feel pity for her husband and eventually, after one-and-a-half months, did not object to consummating the marriage.<sup>12221</sup>

3656. In general, when the authorities discovered that couples had not consummated their marriages, there was a follow-up process in which the authorities called in the individuals and talked to them, either separately or together. YOU Vann stated that if a husband complained that his wife did not agree to sleep with him, she would tell the village chief to meet the husband and wife in order to re-educate them. After they received the advice, once or twice, they generally agreed to consummate the marriage and to remain husband and wife.<sup>12222</sup> PRAK Yut stated that when couples did not agree to consummate the marriage, they would be brought to the district to be educated in order to understand each other.<sup>12223</sup> SUN Vuth gave evidence in court that if the woman did not love her husband, she would be re-educated to love him in accordance with Angkar's instructions. The couple had to obey Angkar's order.<sup>12224</sup>

3657. The evidence shows that couples were summoned by superiors and threatened with consequences if they did not consummate their marriages. SOU Sotheavy did not have sexual intercourse with his wife for several weeks after their weddings. He and his wife were then called separately by the village chief and warned that if it was

<sup>12218</sup> T. 12 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/482.1, p. 18.

<sup>12219</sup> T. 11 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/481.1, p. 49; T. 12 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/482.1, p. 18. The Chamber notes that in her testimony on 11 October 2016, the expert provided that 79 out of 192 respondents (39 percent) reported that sexual intercourse was prescribed. Later, she revisited her data and found that 3 among that 79 respondents got married in 1979, but after the collapse of the regime.

<sup>12220</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, pp. 73-74.

<sup>12221</sup> T. 31 August 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/467.1, p. 115. See also, fn. 12092 (PHAN Him).

<sup>12222</sup> T. 14 January 2016 (YOU Vann), E1/376.1, pp. 77-80.

<sup>12223</sup> T. 19 January 2016 (PRAK Yut), E1/378.1, pp. 54-55.

<sup>12224</sup> T. 31 March 2016 (SUN Vuth), E1/412.1, pp. 5-6.

discovered that they had not consummated their marriage, they would be smashed. He was given some wine and after drinking the wine and being warned repeatedly, he and his wife decided to consummate the marriage.<sup>12225</sup> After NOP Ngim's wedding, Ta Tith (on behalf of the authority) asked couples whether any of them had not consented to living together. He also advised them to live together happily.<sup>12226</sup>

3658. The Chamber is satisfied that at least two other incidents of forced sexual intercourse occurred. There is evidence that rape was used as punishment for non-compliance regarding the consummation of marriages. Following OM Yoeurn's refusal to consummate her marriage on her wedding night, Comrade Phan forced her to have sexual intercourse with him.<sup>12227</sup> In another case, rape was used as a threat for refusal to marry. After MOM Vun refused to remarry, she was forced to have sexual intercourse with five comrades, one by one.<sup>12228</sup> While these events are beyond the scope of rape within the context of marriage as they were not committed by a husband on his wife, but by a cadre or militiamen, they are nonetheless relevant to the context in which crimes within the scope of the trial occurred, because they explain a context of fear and of violence in which they took place.

3659. The Chamber is satisfied that these women, with the exception of PHAN Him, were forced to consummate their marriages, either because they acted out of fear for their lives or physical security and therefore did not genuinely consent, or because they were physically forced to engage in sexual intercourse with their husbands.

3660. The Chamber is satisfied that after the wedding ceremonies, cadres checked with the newlyweds to ensure that they had consummated their marriages. The only way to avoid consummating a marriage was to hide the fact that consummation had not taken place.

3661. The Chamber finds that genuine consent to consummation of a marriage was not possible in an environment where couples had not consented to enter into same

<sup>12225</sup> T. 23 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/462.1, pp. 86-87; T. 24 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/463.1, p. 29 (stating that he was threatened that if he did not consummate the wedding, he would be "killed").

<sup>12226</sup> T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, p. 50.

<sup>12227</sup> See above, para. 3651.

<sup>12228</sup> See above, para. 3650.

marriage in the first place, knew that consummation was required, compliance was monitored, and in case of noncompliance, forced.

14.3.8.4. Separation

3662. After a wedding ceremony, arrangements were made for couples to spend some time together, as set out above.<sup>12229</sup> Subsequently, couples were separated and instructed to return to their respective units or worksites.<sup>12230</sup>

3663. After being separated, most couples were allowed to meet once every seven to 15 days.<sup>12231</sup> Witness CHANG Srey Mom stated that Angkar decided when couples were allowed to see each other.<sup>12232</sup> Civil Party MEAN Leouy and his wife were allowed to rest for 7 days after the marriage and were sent to work at a place where men and women had to sleep separately. While couples were allowed to meet after the work was completed, he was not able to meet his wife because she had been killed by that time.<sup>12233</sup>

<sup>12229</sup> See above, para. 3641.

<sup>12230</sup> T. 24 June 2015 (CHUM Samoeurn), E1/321.1, pp. 79-80 (explaining that three days after the marriage, she was assigned to work at a different locations and was separated from her husband); T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 74 (stating that after the marriage, the couples were allowed stay together for three days and then the husbands and wives were sent to their respective workplace); T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 71 (explaining that perhaps one week after the wedding, most often, the husbands were forced to move very far to engage in the hard labour and after two or three months or if he was lucky, one month, he could come back to see his wife).

<sup>12231</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, pp. 74-75, 100-101 (stating that after the wedding took place, she and her husband were allowed to meet every 10-15 days. After that, her husband was employed to work at Kirirum mountain and then they only met once every one or two months); T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroeun), E1/489.1, pp. 41, 49 (explaining that she stayed with her husband for three days after the marriage and they were required to go back to their respective units. Once every week, they were allowed to meet each other again to spend the night together); T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, pp. 58-61 (stating that after she got pregnant, her husband was sent to a different worksite and he was allowed to visit her a few days every two months); T. 10 August 2015 (KAN Thorl), E1/327.1, pp. 79-81 (stating that after the wedding ceremony, couples were allowed to stay together for three days. After that, they were allowed to meet once every 10 days); T. 25 June 2015 (KONG Uth), E1/322.1, pp. 36-37 (testifying that she did not spend the night of the wedding with her husband but she was instructed to stay with her husband three nights after that. Subsequently, they went to work in different locations and are allowed to meet every tenth day); T. 31 August 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/467.1, p. 94 (stating that following the marriage, her husband came to visit her once per week); T. 23 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/462.1, p. 7 (explaining that after the wedding, she and her husband were allowed to meet after 10-15 days); T. 23 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/462.1, p. 88; T. 24 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/463.1, p. 48 (stating that he and his wife were allowed to meet every 10 days); T. 17 February 2015 (PHNEOU Yav), E1/264.1, p. 33 (explaining that after the marriage, the couples were told to go back to their respective units and they saw each other again after 10 days).

<sup>12232</sup> T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, p. 68.

<sup>12233</sup> T. 2 September 2015 (MEAN Loey), E1/340.1, pp. 68-71.

3664. After couples were sent back to their respective units, some were required to ask for permission to see their spouse. For instance, Witness KAN Thorl, the Deputy Chief of a platoon within a mobile unit in the Phnom Srok district, stated that those who lived far from each other would have to ask the battalion chief for a letter of permission to meet their spouse.<sup>12234</sup>

3665. The Chamber finds that even after marriage, couples' relationships were still commonly controlled by the CPK.

14.3.9. Divorce

3666. During an interview with the visiting delegation of the Belgium-Kampuchea Association, POL Pot answered a number of questions including on the subject of building up families. In relation to divorce, POL Pot stated that:

After marriage, should problems arise within the family, the masses give advice to the partners in order to sort out their problems. Should the parties concerned find it impossible to cohabit any longer, they have the choice of divorce. Neither of the parties concerned need to go to court.<sup>12235</sup>

3667. In the same interview, POL Pot stated that:

[T]he question of separation is very rare as both the husband and wife have a high political consciousness and each family enjoys a well guaranteed existence in a national society which is sound and uncorrupted. Therefore, no contradiction is permanent and unable to be settled within the family.<sup>12236</sup>

3668. Given that no court system was established in DK,<sup>12237</sup> POL Pot's statement is obviously misleading. The context in which it was given exposes it as propaganda. The Chamber further notes that evidence from numerous witnesses and Civil Parties contradicts this claim. In fact, couples did not have the right to divorce.<sup>12238</sup> Rather than being able to divorce, people had to hide the fact that they did not get along with or

<sup>12234</sup> T. 10 August 2015 (KAN Thorl), E1/327.1, pp. 81-83.

<sup>12235</sup> Pol Pot 5 August Interview with Belgian Visitors Reported (in FBIS collection), E3/76, 26 September 1978, ERN (En) 00170426.

<sup>12236</sup> Pol Pot 5 August Interview with Belgian Visitors Reported (in FBIS collection), E3/76, 26 September 1978, ERN (En) 00170426.

<sup>12237</sup> Section 5: Administrative Structures, paras 417-418.

<sup>12238</sup> T. 23 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/462.1, p. 90.

love each other.<sup>12239</sup> People who did not get along did not dare to seek divorce for fear<sup>12240</sup> of being reprimanded,<sup>12241</sup> being sent for re-education,<sup>12242</sup> or killed.<sup>12243</sup> MEAS Lai Hour stated that she has never seen couple who had been married by Angkar get a divorce during the regime.<sup>12244</sup>

3669. The Chamber finds that, contrary to POL Pot's statements, once Angkar married couples it was not possible for them to divorce during the regime.

14.3.10. Findings on Nationwide Implementation

3670. Based on the evidence above, the Chamber is satisfied that in those areas of the nation other than the specifically-charged crime sites addressed below, due to environment of fear as described above, people had no choice other than to obey and marry in accordance with a coercive practice stemming from CPK directives on marriage.

14.3.11. Findings on Specifically Charged Crime Sites

3671. In Case 002/02, the Closing Order charges the Accused with the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced marriage nationwide, as well as at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite and 1st January Dam Worksite.<sup>12245</sup> The Chamber addresses the relevant conduct at

<sup>12239</sup> T. 29 July 2015 (KHIN Vat), E1/325.1, pp. 90-91 (stating that her life would be at risk if she told anyone that she did not love her husband).

<sup>12240</sup> T. 20 August 2015 (LING Lrysov), E1/334.1, p. 64 (explaining that she wanted to divorce her husband but she was afraid of what would happen if she did).

<sup>12241</sup> T. 24 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/463.1, pp. 59-60 (explaining that people who attempted to split up were taken away for re-education); T. 17 February 2015 (PHNEOU Yav), E1/264.1, p. 33.

<sup>12242</sup> T. 17 February 2015 (PHNEOU Yav), E1/264.1, p. 35; T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, pp. 74-75 (explaining that if couples did not agree to live together, they would be called for re-education or refashioned).

<sup>12243</sup> T. 25 August 2016 (YOS Phal), E1/464.1, pp. 29, 31-32, 37 (he told his wife to tell the commune chief that they loved each other and if they said that they wanted to separated, they would be killed).

<sup>12244</sup> T. 26 May 2015 (MEAS Laihour), E1/305.1, pp. 17-18 (explaining that she never saw a divorce during the regime because people were afraid of being killed by Angkar).

<sup>12245</sup> Closing Order, paras 1442-1447; Annex: List of Paragraphs and portions of the Closing Order relevant to Case 002/02, E301/9/1.1, 4 April 2014, p. 4. The Chamber notes that the Closing Order also charges the Accused with other inhumane acts as crime against humanity through acts of forced marriage in relation to the treatment of the Buddhists. Having regard to the scope of Case 002/02, the Chamber further notes that while the CPK Policy concerning the treatment of Buddhists may be considered nationwide, facts concerning the implementation of such policy are limited by the Severance Decision to the Tram Kak Cooperatives. The Chamber therefore addresses this charge under that section of the Judgement.

these crime sites below.<sup>12246</sup>

14.3.11.1. Tram Kak Cooperatives

3672. In the Tram Kak Cooperatives, the commune chief or cooperative chief made a list of individuals matched to be married and sent that list to the district level for approval. NEANG Ouch alias Ta San, who became the secretary of Tram Kak district in late 1977 or early 1978, testified that in the arrangement, some people were able to choose their spouse while some were matched by the commune and cooperative chiefs.<sup>12247</sup> In her position as Secretary of Cheang Tong commune, KHOEM Boeun testified that she prepared a list of individuals matched to be married and submitted the proposal to the upper level (i.e. the district level) for approval.<sup>12248</sup> The wedding ceremonies were organised by the commune level, but only when the list was approved by the district level.<sup>12249</sup> This was confirmed by PECH Chim, who testified that while he was a member of the Tram Kak District Committee, the district level usually approved any marriage proposal.<sup>12250</sup> Weddings were organised in groups,<sup>12251</sup> and the

---

<sup>12246</sup> In relation to the charge of rape within the context of forced marriage, the Chamber notes that it did not find any evidence of forced marriages committed at Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre. Accordingly, the Chamber is not able to establish whether rape within the context of forced marriage occurred at this security centre. Similarly, while the Chamber heard evidence of at least a group marriage being arranged by Duch at S-21 Security Centre, the evidence is not sufficient to establish whether rape occurred within the context of this marriage. See above, fn. 12022.

<sup>12247</sup> T. 10 March 2015 (NEANG Ouch), E1/274.1, p. 34 (explaining that in some places, the head of communes or the head of cooperatives would decide the partner for those people, while at other places people could choose). See also, paras 3572-3576; 3594-3602.

<sup>12248</sup> T. 4 May 2015 (KHOEM Boeun), E1/296.1, pp. 18-19, 21; KHOEM Boeun Interview Record, E3/9480, 21 May 2014, pp. 21-22, ERN (En) 01057695-01057696 (explaining that if the proposal was approved, the marriage would take place; if it was rejected, marriage would not take place.). See above, para. 3577. See also, paras 3603-3608.

<sup>12249</sup> T. 10 March 2015 (NEANG Ouch), E1/274.1, p. 34 (explaining that the request would be made by the commune or cooperative chief to the district level for consideration and after that the wedding would be held); T. 11 March 2015 (NEANG Ouch), E1/275.1, p. 8 (stating that the communes decided which female was to be married with other males); T. 23 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/291.1, pp. 6-7 (explaining that the wedding ceremony was the responsibility of the commune level); T. 4 May 2015 (KHOEM Boeun), E1/296.1, pp. 18, 21; KHOEM Boeun Interview Record, E3/9480, 21 May 2014, pp. 21-22, ERN (En) 01057695-01057696.

<sup>12250</sup> T. 23 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/291.1, p. 6.

<sup>12251</sup> T. 17 February 2015 (PHNEOU Yav), E1/264.1, p. 31; PHNEOU Yav Interview Record, E3/5515, 12 November 2009, ERN (En) 00410250 (explaining that he was a Base Person who lived in Samrong commune. He attended two wedding ceremonies at Angk Ponnareay village in Samrong commune. The first one was for 20 couples and the second one was for 10 couples.); NUT Nov Interview Record, E3/5521, 1 December 2009, p. 14, ERN (En) 00422328 (stating that he worked at various communes in Tram Kak district. "Q: How was the marriage arranged in Sre Ronoung commune? A102: The commune arranged the couples to make commitments for marriage and 5 to 20 couples were married each time. A103: Very few couples were not satisfied [...] but some couples just said they agreed for marriage as they were afraid."); T. 26 January 2015 (CHOU Koemlan), E1/252.1, pp. 71-72 (explaining that in a wedding ceremony she witnessed, there were a few couples making resolution in Leay Bour commune. She also heard about group weddings of about 30-32 couples were also organised at K-1 Cooperative authority which organised and presided over the wedding ceremonies included unit chief, village chief and commune chief.<sup>12252</sup>

3673. While some cadre claimed that marriages were not forced,<sup>12253</sup> other cadre in leadership roles such as KHOEM Boeun and PECH Chim admitted that weddings were forced for some individuals.<sup>12254</sup> There is evidence that individuals did not refuse marriage organised for them by the cadre, because they felt they had to, even though they did not actually consent.<sup>12255</sup> CHANG Srey Mom, a candidate person in Nheang Nhang commune, stated that she involuntarily married a man whom she did not love. When she was asked by Ol (SENG Ol), the chairman of the women's unit, whether she consented to the wedding arranged for her, she agreed. She clarified, however, that she did not dare to refuse at that time, because she was afraid of being accused of opposing an order from Angkar. For the same reason, she also did not dare to refuse to consummate the marriage.<sup>12256</sup> SENNG Ol, who presided over her wedding, told the OCII that there was no forced marriage in her unit and that marriage only occurred when the where couples were instructed to make resolution and Ta Mok presided over the marriage). See above, paras 3631-3632.

---

<sup>12252</sup> T. 27 January 2015 (CHOU Koemlan), E1/253.1, p. 23 (CHOU Koemlan, a New Person worked in K-3 Cooperative, explained that she attended a wedding ceremony which the unit chief and the village chief also attended); T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/252.1, pp. 23-24; CHANG Srey Mom Interview Record, E3/5832, 11 November 2009, p. 4, ERN (En) 00410264 (explaining that she was arranged to get married at the Nheang Nhang Commune Office. The persons presided over her wedding include Boeun, the commune chief and Ol, the women unit chief.); T. 17 February 2015 (PHNEOU Yav), E1/264.1, p. 30; T. 17 February 2015 (PHNEOU Yav), E1/264.1, p. 33; PHNEOU Yav Interview Record, E3/5515, 12 November 2009, ERN (En) 00410249-00410250 (stating that the wedding was attended by the Commune Committee, cooperative chief and unit chief. Ta Khem, the commune chief presided over the ceremony); T. 22 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/290.1, pp. 45-48 (explaining that the unit chiefs and commune authorities organised the marriages); SENNG Ol Interview Record, E3/5833, 2 December 2009, p. 4, ERN (En) 00413906 (the commune level and the unit chief organised the marriages); UK Him Interview Record, E3/9584, 14 July 2014, p. 10, ERN (En) 01031765 (“Q: Who made the arrangement for your forced marriage? A38: The village chief and the commune chairman.”).

<sup>12253</sup> T. 7 May 2015 (EK Hoeun), E1/298.1, p. 108 (testifying that there were arranged marriages between men and women in Tram Kak district but if a girl disagreed with the marriage, she would not be forced and there were no threats nor coercion); SENNG Ol Interview Record, E3/5833, 2 December 2009, p. 4, ERN (En) 00413906 (explaining that commune level selected their partners for them, and if both parties agreed, they were married. The witness stated: “there was never any coercion in my unit”).

<sup>12254</sup> T. 4 May 2015 (KHOEM Boeun), E1/296.1, pp. 23-24; KHOEM Boeun Interview Record, E3/9480, 21 May 2014, p. 21, ERN (En) 01057695 (the witness first testified that in her opinion, there were no forced marriages because individuals consented to the marriage; she later confirmed in court that marriages were forced because the Party decided for them). Regarding PECH Chim, see above, para. 3617 (fn. 12075).

<sup>12255</sup> T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, p. 18 (stating that she and her husband were asked if they got married voluntarily, which they said they did, although she felt that she did not get married voluntarily but had to agree to do so); UK Him Interview Record, E3/9584, 14 July 2014, p. 9. ERN (En), 01031764 (UK Him was a depositee person in Kus commune, Tram Kak district. She explained how she was forced to get married in a group weddings of 40 couples after her first husband was taken away to attend a study session).

<sup>12256</sup> T. 29 January 2015 (CHANG Srey Mom), E1/254.1, pp. 18, 22, 34.

individuals consented.<sup>12257</sup> This inconsistency can be explained by the fact that the individuals who dared not refuse to marry “consented” out of fear.<sup>12258</sup>

3674. The Chamber finds that due to the environment of fear described above,<sup>12259</sup> people had no choice other than to obey and marry at Tram Kak district in accordance with a coercive practice stemming from CPK directives on marriage. The evidence before the Chamber also demonstrates at least one instance of rape in the context of forced marriage at the Tram Kak Cooperatives.<sup>12260</sup>

14.3.11.2. Trapeang Thma Dam

3675. Instructions related to the marriage of people of the same class at Trapeang Thma Dam were given by commanders down the chain of command.<sup>12261</sup> Pursuant to these instructions, marriages of people of the same class were organised for workers at Trapeang Thma Dam.<sup>12262</sup> In some cases, the marriage of workers at Trapeang Thma Dam took place at the Dam worksite<sup>12263</sup> and in other cases, it took place in other villages located around the dam.<sup>12264</sup> Witness TAK Buy, a platoon chief, stated that

<sup>12257</sup> SENG OI Interview Record, E3/5833, 2 December 2009, pp. 6-7, ERN (En) 00413907.

<sup>12258</sup> See above, paras 3619-3623.

<sup>12259</sup> See above, para. 3625. See also, Section 10.1.8.3: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Arrests and Disappearances.

<sup>12260</sup> See above, para. 3673 (fn. 12256).

<sup>12261</sup> T. 18 August 2015 (CHHUM Seng), E1/332.1, pp. 22-23 (explaining that the order came through his commanders, Ta Khoeng and Ta Vorn, in a meeting and was relayed to the witness and other company chiefs).

<sup>12262</sup> T. 18 August 2015 (CHHUM Seng), E1/332.1, pp. 22-23 (CHHUM Seng, a company chief of a mobile unit at Trapeang Thma Dam, explained that only Ta Val or battalion chiefs upwards had the right to attend wedding ceremonies and give instructions to the newlywed couples.).

<sup>12263</sup> T. 10 August 2015 (KAN Thorl), E1/327.1, pp. 75-76, 81-83 (KAN Thorl, deputy chief of platoon in a mobile unit, attended one ceremony as a guest, testified that marriages were held at the worksite for 30 to 40 couples at a time. According to the witness, the people knew each other in advance of the marriage; if a male worker wanted to marry a specific woman, he would tell his chiefs, who in turn would talk to and make the request of the chief of the women’s unit. The witness also testified that the battalion chief allowed the newlyweds to stay together for three days in the villagers’ houses after getting married, after which they would meet each other once every ten days. The spouses’ parents were neither informed of nor were present at the wedding ceremony.); T. 1 December 2015 (PAN Chhuong), E1/360.1, pp. 36-38 (PAN Chhuong testified that he once participated in a marriage ceremony held at Trapeang Thma Dam, where about 50 or 60 couples got married. The witness testified that among these, 50 couples only two people had committed a moral offence and were thus married as a consequence; all of the other people married because they consented and there was agreement from their parents and relatives. The upper echelon would announce that on a certain date people would get married and those who were to be involved in organising the event, namely unit chiefs, battalion and hospital chiefs, would be informed about that and asked to attend the event.).

<sup>12264</sup> T. 20 August 2015 (YI Laisov), E1/334.1, pp. 57-63 (stating that she was told by her unit chief that she had to be married to someone she did not know. The witness did not want to get married but she declared that she was too afraid to refuse as she was told that she and her family would be killed if she did not. The witness stated that she was told by her mobile unit chief that she had to go to her home village. Once she arrived there, the chief of the children’s unit told her that she had to marry a man named people were free to select their future spouse and the proposal needed to be made to the unit chief for the wedding to be held.<sup>12265</sup> Similarly, PAN Chhoung, who was a cadre who monitored the performance of workers at Trapeang Thma Dam, stated that people consented to the marriages.<sup>12266</sup> The Chamber reiterates that the evidence of former cadre on this particular issue must be assessed with caution because the consent given to them may not have been genuine and some former cadre may have exhibited a tendency to minimise their own responsibility.<sup>12267</sup> The Chamber notes that some people assigned to work at Trapeang Thma Dam were married during ceremonies held in their respective villages and did not return to the Dam worksite afterwards. While these facts occurred outside the specifically charged crime site, they nonetheless fall within the charges of “forced marriage” nationwide and must be considered in that regard.

3676. Concerning both the people who were married in their respective villages and at the Trapeang Thma Dam worksite, the Chamber finds that, while some of them may have consented to be married, many others, due to the particular environment of Rom at Paoy Char. She stated that the marriage was held at Paoy Char in the evening, at the house of the chief of the cooperative, and that it was held for three couples. The couples were told to make a resolution to be husband and wife forever. The witness stated that relatives and family members did not attend the wedding ceremony, and that no Buddhist or traditional rituals were performed. A month after the marriage, the Vietnamese arrived and the couple separated.); T. 2 September 2015 (MEAN Loeuy), E1/340.1, pp. 68-70 (MEAN Loeuy, a Base Person and a member of a 100-person unit, stated that while he was working at Trapeang Thma Dam, he was told by his unit chief that he would be married. The marriage was arranged at Thnal Dach village and 63 couples took part in the ceremony. The couples included both Base People and New People, but the Base People could not marry the New People. The future spouses were told to sit in the middle and there was a table and a bottle with flowers in it and a representative would chair the marriage. The marriage was held at night, at around 8 or 9 p.m. The witness testified that some couples did not know each other in advance. After it was announced that the couples had to respect the line of Angkar, they were told to hold each other’s hands and to make a resolution to follow the guideline of Angkar and to achieve three or four tonnes of rice per hectare. The Civil Party explained that they consummated their marriage. After they left for the cooperative to work, he stated that 13 relatives (including his wife) were taken away and killed.)

---

<sup>12265</sup> T. 19 August 2015 (TAK Buy), E1/333.1, pp. 65-66 (testifying that marriages were not forced and that people would normally select their future spouse. If for example a man fell in love with a woman, he would approach his unit chief to make a proposal to the woman’s unit chief. After an agreement was reached, the ceremony was held for them. Usually many couples participated in a ceremony, up to 50 or 60 couples at a time. The parents of the couples did not attend the ceremony.). See also, T. 18 August 2015 (CHHUM Seng), E1/332.1, pp. 23-24 (stating that commanders had the freedom to choose their spouses and that if the other person did not agree to the proposal the marriage was not possible.).

<sup>12266</sup> T. 1 December 2015 (PAN Chhoung), E1/360.1, pp. 36-38 (testifying that among these 50 couples, only two people had committed a moral offence and were thus married as a consequence; all of the other people married because they consented).

<sup>12267</sup> See above, para. 3623.

fear,<sup>12268</sup> had no other choice than to obey and marry in accordance with a coercive practice stemming from CPK directives on marriage.

14.3.11.3. 1st January Dam

3677. As a general rule, only unmarried persons worked at the 1st January Dam.<sup>12269</sup> The Chamber finds that there is no evidence which shows that wedding ceremonies ever took place at the 1st January Dam.<sup>12270</sup> However there is evidence that collective marriages were organised in the surrounding villages, including workers from these villages assigned to work at the 1st January Dam construction site.<sup>12271</sup> While these facts occurred outside the specifically charged crime site, they nonetheless fall within the charge of “forced marriage” nationwide and must be considered in that regard. KONG Uth, a mobile unit worker, stated that she was arranged to marry while she was working at 1st January Dam worksite. She was married to her husband with 24 other couples in Doung village organised by the unit chief. She was only informed one day before her wedding and she did not dare to refuse for fear that she would be accused of opposing Angkar.<sup>12272</sup> CHAO Lang, a mobile unit worker, testified that while she was working at the Dam, she was forced to marry her husband whom she did not love and was warned

<sup>12268</sup> See above, paras 3619-3625. See also, Section 11.1.11: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: Deaths, Killings and Disappearances.

<sup>12269</sup> T. 2 June 2015 (SEANG Sovida), E1/308.1, p. 55 (as a worker at 1st January Dam, she testified that both men and women in her unit were all unmarried.); T. 19 May 2015 (OR Ho), E1/301.1, p. 36 (as the chief of Prey Srangae village in Ballangk commune, Baray district, and later the chief of a work unit of 100 workers he testified that workers of the mobile units were the main force at the dam construction site and that they were unmarried. He explained that there were other workers who worked on the construction of feeder canals and that these workers were usually married.); T. 1 September 2015 (NUON Narom), E1/339.1, p. 15 (as a worker at 1st January Dam stated that unmarried youth were brought from throughout the zone to work long hours, with insufficient food, rudimentary housing, and insanitary conditions to complete the work under constant fear of reprisals.).

<sup>12270</sup> T. 20 May 2015 (OR Ho), E1/302.1, p. 37 (stating that marriages were conducted in villages but not at the dam site. He further stated that while they were building the dam, they were focusing on building it and there were no marriages.); T. 20 May 2015 (PECH Sokha), E1/302.1, p. 37.

<sup>12271</sup> T. 2 June 2015 (SEANG Sovida), E1/308.1, p. 46 (testifying that her sister, Ly Sivyen, was forced to marry when she was 16 year old in Ruessei Keo Leu village); T. 26 May 2015 (MEAS Layhuor), E1/305.1, pp. 11-13, 19, 85; T. 4 June 2015 (SOU Soeurn), E1/310.1, pp. 80, 83, 84; T. 30 July 2015 (OM Chy), E1/326.1, p. 80 (as commune level unit chief, he testified that marriages were organised at the commune office or at the pagoda or, sometimes, at the security centre, involving 10 to 15 couples, but not at the worksite.). Cf. T. 1 September 2015 (CHAO Lang), E1/339.1, pp. 70, 75 (stating that the Sector 42 secretary presided over the wedding and made a speech and that after the wedding, they were allowed three nights to stay together before returning to work); T. 19 May 2015 (OR Ho), E1/301.1, pp. 8, 53 (as chief of Prey Srangae village he stated that he arranged marriages for people from his village and that sometimes 30 to 40 couples were married at the same time.).

<sup>12272</sup> T. 25 June 2015 (KONG Uth), E1/322.1, p. 10 (stating that after her marriage, she was assigned to work elsewhere).

not to refuse the marriage otherwise she would face trouble. She further testified that there were militiamen monitoring them on their wedding night.<sup>12273</sup> 3678. The Chamber finds that, due to the environment of fear as described above, these people had no other choice than to obey and marry in villages surrounding the 1st January Dam worksite in accordance with a coercive practice stemming from CPK directives on marriage.

14.3.12. Impact on Victims

14.3.12.1. Impact of “forced marriage”

3679. A number of witnesses and Civil Parties testified in court about their shocking experiences and negative emotions when they found out that they had to marry someone they did not know. Many of them recalled that they wept and that they were upset, disappointed and fearful during their wedding ceremonies.<sup>12274</sup> CHEA Deap described that she was not happy and stated that: “actually I wept almost every day. I felt the pain but I could not do anything.”<sup>12275</sup> SAY Naroen stated that when she realised she was about to get married, her body was trembling and cold because she was so fearful.<sup>12276</sup> SOU Sotheavy, a transgender woman, explained that she and her wife “did not dare to

<sup>12273</sup> T. 1 September 2015 (CHAO Lang), E1/339.1, pp. 70-71 (after her marriage, she and her husband were assigned to work at other place to grow cotton).

<sup>12274</sup> T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, pp. 40-43 (stating that she was forced to marry a blind military. She explained that: “I also cried. I was disappointed, very disappointed since I had never seen my would-be husband before the marriage day [...] If I had refused, I would have been killed so I had to bear the situation”); T. 12 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/482.1, p. 68 (stating that at that time, she was very young and was scared); T. 24 October 2016 (KUL Nem), E1/488.1, p. 90 (“I, myself, felt the sorrow and the pain inside me”); T. 23 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/113.1, pp. 104-105 (“[A]s a youth, I believe that we wanted our freedom to choose our own wife, and if you were forced to get married to someone whom you do not love, that was very painful [...] My wife did not love me either, so, whenever we stayed together at night, we cry to each other.”); PREAP Sokhoeun Interview Record, E3/9820, 8 October 2014, p. 18, ERN (En) 01050575 (“I dare not even to look at my husband’s face. I was very upset, and I looked down at the ground. When I saw his leg was curved, I was even more disappointed.”); SUM Pet Interview Record, E3/9824, 4 August 2014, p. 10, ERN (En) 01044589 (“It felt troubled because we did not understand each other’s feelings [...] My wife also felt frightened”); SUON Yim Interview Record, E3/9829, 24 November 2014, p. 11, ERN (En) 01054037 (“[A]t the time, I felt angry and sad.”); KHET Sokhan Interview Record, E3/9830, 27 November 2014, p. 14, ERN (En) 01077083 (“I felt very upset in my heard, and I also secretly cried, but I did not let anyone know that I was crying.”); T. 25 October 2016 (NGET Chat), E1/489.1, p. 26 (stating that when she saw the person she was supposed to marry who was about 18 years older than her, she felt intimidated and frightened but she did not dare to protest).

<sup>12275</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 77.

<sup>12276</sup> T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroen), E1/489.1, p. 37. See also, CHANG Srey Mom Interview Record, E3/5832, 11 November 2009, p. 4, ERN (En) 00410264 (“I was very shocked when I was told that they arranged the wedding for me that night [...] I did not have other choices. I cried in my mind, and I was very sad.”).

cough, we did not dare to talk because if we talked, we would be disappeared [sic], so we had to accept it. But with the expression of weeping, tears coming down.”<sup>12277</sup> OM Yoeurn stated that “I was terribly worried. I did not want to get married to my husband. I did not like him. I was forced to get married so I was so angry and I could not eat.”<sup>12278</sup>

3680. Victims who were forced to remarry described their difficult emotions at having to remarry without their consent while still grieving the loss of their partners.<sup>12279</sup> NGET Chat was forced to remarry after her husband was taken away. She described that she was still weeping for the loss of her husband at the time she was sent to remarry.<sup>12280</sup> MOM Vun was in a similar state when she was forced to remarry: “I was not happy at all. I was afraid and I was very worried that my husband would return and I did not like the man I was supposed to marry to, but I was forced anyway.”<sup>12281</sup> Despite having a fiancée, YOS Phal was forced to marry another person. He felt remorse for his fiancée as he could not marry her. He explained that:

I felt a heavy pain in my chest, and even now when I think about it, it’s beyond belief. And I scold myself, how come I was born during such a terrible period of time [...] I concede that my life is a pitiful life. It’s a life without freedom. And now I am old, although now I have freedom but it’s too late. Throughout the entire life, I have only carried with me the pains, the sorrows and the sufferings.<sup>12282</sup>

3681. Victims regretted the fact that their marriages were not done in accordance with tradition.<sup>12283</sup> The absence of parents and family members made many victims feel

<sup>12277</sup> T. 23 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/462.1, p. 93.

<sup>12278</sup> T. 22 August 2016 (OM Yoeurn), E1/461.1, pp. 98-99.

<sup>12279</sup> T. 30 May 2013 (PO Dina), E1/199.1, p. 105 (“I lost my beloved husband, son and parents. I was then forced to marry another husband, but I refused. That was the time I was seriously beaten and imprisoned”).

<sup>12280</sup> T. 25 October 2016 (NGET Chat), E1/489.1, p. 26.

<sup>12281</sup> T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, pp. 47, 101 (“I knew they were all forced because the 60 couples all wept [...] None of them volunteered to get married [...] Anyone would weep, regardless whether you were single virgin or whether you are a widow. And there was no permission at all from our parents, they just mixed and matched us, and that’s how we all wept. All 60 of us stood together and wept.”).

<sup>12282</sup> T. 25 August 2016 (YOS Phal), E1/464.1, pp. 61-62 (“I felt so sorrowful that I could not marry my fiancée whom I loved and I wanted to live with her for life. It was like the fruit was about to ripen and then it was picked and taken away from me and I had no right to protest against that.”).

<sup>12283</sup> T. 5 September 2016 (NOP Ngim), E1/469.1, p. 58 (“In my heart, I wanted my marriage to be held according to the tradition, but how could I do? I had no choice.”); KHET Sokhan Interview Record, E3/9830, 27 November 2014, p. 14, ERN (En) 01077083 (“I felt regret because I was not able to have a proper ceremony in accordance with our tradition [...] I felt very upset inside my heart, and I also secretly cried.”); T. 12 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/482.1, p. 5 (stating that people experienced anxiety by not having a particular kind of protection that is embedded for centuries of culture in Cambodia”). See also, Thesis by Peg LEVINE: A Contextual Study into Weddings and Births under the Khmer Rouge: The Ritual Revolution, E3/1794, 2007, p. 8, ERN (En) 00482440.

remorse, disappointment and emotional pain.<sup>12284</sup> Witness LING Lrysov stated “I was really disappointed because my parents were not allowed to attend the occasion at the time”.<sup>12285</sup> Witness KHIN Vat felt that it was unfortunate that her parents were not aware of her marriage.<sup>12286</sup>

3682. These experiences have had a long-lasting impact on the victims and many of them are still haunted by this to this day.<sup>12287</sup>

14.3.12.2. Impact of forced sexual intercourse on victims

3683. Victims of forced sexual intercourse were additionally deeply traumatised. PREAP Sokhoeurn explained that when her husband tried to have sexual intercourse <sup>12284</sup> T. 24 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/488.1, pp. 42, 76 (stating that she still felt regret to this day as she should not have lost her virginity without the presence of her parents on her wedding day); T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, p. 101 (“[T]here was no permission at all from our parents, they just mixed and matched us, and that’s how we all wept.”); T. 12 October 2016 (PEN Sochan), E1/482.1, p. 73 (“[T]hat’s the point that made me suffered. That wedding took place without the participation of my siblings and relatives. None of my relatives were aware of the marriage.”). See also, T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 112 (“[A] loss of parental consent to the husband was a big traumatic experience and now that she was forced to actually have the relationship, sexual relationship, with a man by breaking her virginity without her parents’ consent is another step to [...] put her into another traumatic experience.”); MEAS Saran Interview Record, E3/9736, 29 December 2014, p. 18, ERN (En) 01057632 (“I feel hurt because they sent me to faraway places, they arranged my wedding without telling my parents or siblings”); VA Limhun Interview Record, E3/9756, 15 September 2014, p. 10, ERN (En) 01046941 (“I wanted to be married legally following Khmer tradition. I would leave this matter to be arranged by my parents. I would have been happier if my parents had arranged the marriage for me no matter if the groom were rich or poor”); T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 105 (“[B]efore the DK period, in the process of marriage, the parents of both parties engaged actively more than their son or daughter because it’s very important duty of the parents to proceed to arrange and to proceed and to manage, materialize the marriage.” The absence of family during the wedding ceremony “impacted absolutely a lot over the people who were married in the DK regime, whatever ways they were married [...] They were very sad. They regretted that their parents were not there to stay with them and they still carry on this legacy or remorse until now.”). Book by T. De Langis, J. Strasser, Kim T., Taing S.: Like Ghost Changes Body: A Study on the Impact of Forced Marriage under the Khmer Rouge Regime, E3/9614, pp. 16-17, 49, ERN (En) 01037042-01037043, 01037075 (“Forced marriages were considered by many victims as disobedient acts against parents and ancestors. [...] Disappointment is the prevailing response [...] at having lost the opportunity to exert control over a major life decision such as marriage and to not have that life decision validated and legitimized by family and ancestors”).

<sup>12285</sup> T. 20 August 2015 (LING Lrysov), E1/334.1, p. 62.

<sup>12286</sup> T. 29 July 2015 (KHIN Vat), E1/325.1, p. 91 (“It was unfortunate enough that my parents were not aware of my marriage; moreover, I had to remain committed, and ready to endure all sorts of hardship ahead.”).

<sup>12287</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deap), E1/466.1, p. 78 (“[E]very time I think of what happened, that I did not like my husband, that I was organised to marry him by Angkar, I feel the pain in my chest.”); T. 23 August 2012, E1/113.1, p. 105 (“I could not hold my tears because, if I recall my past, I sometime cannot hold my tears. And I was a man; I suffer from it, but I could also imagine the feeling of the lady; she was suffering from it as well.”); T. 25 October 2016 (NGET Chat), E1/489.1, p. 8 (“I endure the pain the most. I told my children that it was a great misery, and it stays inside me”); T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, p. 58 (“[T]o me, I can never forget what happened that night”).

with her, she was hurt physically and morally:

I hurt physically and morally. First, it was the pain that he inflicted upon me physically, and second, morally I was hurt. I did not intend to have a husband and wife relationship at all and there was nothing I could do besides weeping and I regretted for what happened and that I betrayed my father's words. So all these things added together caused me a worried and I could not sleep and I could not eat and I became pale.<sup>12288</sup>

3684. Forced sexual intercourse has serious and long-lasting traumatising effects on the victims. According to Kasumi NAKAGAWA, men also suffered greatly when they had to force themselves to rape their wives.<sup>12289</sup> The loss of virginity featured prominently in the minds of many victims.<sup>12290</sup>

3685. In the Cambodian context, “daughters” are regarded as important property of the parents and women should be pure and keep their virginity until marriage.<sup>12291</sup> Considered in this cultural and social context, the loss of virginity of Cambodian women resulted in additional suffering to the victims, in some cases exacerbated by unwanted pregnancies.<sup>12292</sup>

<sup>12288</sup> T. 24 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/487.1, pp. 96-97.

<sup>12289</sup> T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, pp. 110-111 (“[F]orcing a man to rape somebody is [an] inhuman act. Not all men could do it, first of all, but they were forced to do that. And the fear is unmeasurable how he was scared if he failed to do it. And many women apparently were very scared or they were showing the emotion that they don't want to accept the husband. And under such terrible circumstances, men had to complete it. It's an inhuman act and I cannot imagine how some men could have done that, and maybe that's why many men were sent to re-education for failing to rape the wife. And I'm sure that it impacted over the marriage life, that the husband might have been feel[ing] guilty to the wife or he [was] worried or scared that his wife would never love him and that might have remained as a scar or a trauma for a long period of time until he could recover his masculinity and to ensure that -- he could ensure that his wife actually accepted him. So the impact was huge and it's really [an] inhuman act against the man.”).

<sup>12290</sup> T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, pp. 111-112 (stating that for women “the impact was already huge when she was forced to marry against her will [...] without her parents' consent. So she was already after the stage that she was deprived of almost all hopes. And those forced married couples, mostly they knew that they have to consummate the marriage because of the instruction at the marriage ceremony or from the village chief [...] this is a huge terror imposed woman who may not have been most probably exposed to any sexuality issues and, of course, after the rape it happens, I think, in many ways. Some rape happened in a very violent way [...] some rapes were not violent [...] but the man [sic] were forced to rape their wife and the wife had to be raped by the husband.”); T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Nareoun), E1/489.1, p. 40 (“I felt difficult in to breathe in my heart because in my whole life, I never encountered such an incident. And as a Khmer woman, nothing is more important than our body. Although I was fearful and trembling, I thought to myself that I had to give my body to my husband in order to fulfil the requirement of Angkar. It was so painful for me.”).

<sup>12291</sup> T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, pp. 108-109.

<sup>12292</sup> T. 13 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/472.1, p. 114 (“A lot of women get angry because they could not escape from pregnancy. They didn't love the husband [...] If she is carrying a child of a man that raped her or the husband whom she didn't want [...] if a child is born, can she love

14.4. Legal Findings*14.4.1. *Other Inhumane Acts through Conduct Characterised as Forced Marriage

3686. The Closing Order charges the following acts as the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced marriage: victims were forced to enter into conjugal relationships in coercive circumstances;<sup>12293</sup> in “the majority of cases of forced marriage death threats were made, violence was used and people were even executed if they refused to marry”;<sup>12294</sup> weddings “took place devoid of traditional involvement of the parents” with no respect of traditional rituals. Marriages were performed at the same time involving between 20 and 60 couples;<sup>12295</sup> and sexual relations aimed at enforced procreation were imposed.<sup>12296</sup>

3687. The KHIEU Samphan Defence submits that traditional Cambodian marriage does not correspond to the Western concept of marriage.<sup>12297</sup> It contends that the traditional Cambodian arranged marriage was an agreement between two families and that neither the sentiment of love nor the consensus of the future husband and wife played a central role.<sup>12298</sup> It submits that the final decision on marriage rested with the parents, with the future husband and wife mostly removed from negotiations and arrangements related to a wedding and unable to refuse to marry due to social pressure.<sup>12299</sup> The NUON Chea Defence similarly submits that pre-DK marriages were always arranged by parents, with the opinion of the future spouses seldom being sought, and that opposing the parents’ decision would often be unthinkable. It contends that by charging the Accused with forced marriage and rape in the context of forced marriage, the Closing Order and the Co-Prosecutors are effectively putting the entire practice of arranged marriage on trial.<sup>12300</sup> The Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers submit that there is a distinction between arranged marriage and forced marriage. In a traditional arranged a child as a child that was born from parental consent marriage from the husband. So there is a huge traumatic experience for women.”).

---

<sup>12293</sup> Closing Order, para. 1443.

<sup>12294</sup> Closing Order, para. 1447.

<sup>12295</sup> Closing Order, paras 1446-1447.

<sup>12296</sup> Closing Order, para. 1445.

<sup>12297</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, para. 2338.

<sup>12298</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, paras 2337-2345.

<sup>12299</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, paras 2343, 2347-2348.

<sup>12300</sup> NUON Chea Closing Brief, para. 1136.

marriage, future spouses express their consent by delegating decision-making to their parents. However, if the marriage takes place even after one of the spouses refuses the arrangement, it is a forced marriage.<sup>12301</sup> The Co-Prosecutors make no submission in relation to the distinctions or similarities of arranged and forced marriage.

3688. The Chamber finds that, contrary to the Defence teams' submissions, arranged marriage in Cambodian culture is very different from forced marriage in the DK regime as charged in the Closing Order. Arranged marriage in Cambodian culture pre-DK regime was based on a mutual trust between parents and children. As Expert Kasumi NAKAGAWA described, parents were obliged to find the best option for the future of their children so that they would have a happy married life.<sup>12302</sup> In return, children trusted that their parents would make the best possible decision for them, and their agreement demonstrated respect and gratitude to their parents.<sup>12303</sup> The Chamber accepts the position of both Defence teams that weddings in the Cambodian culture do not correspond to the Western concept of marriage. In western culture, consent is given on the basis of an assessment and consequent choice of a partner made by the individual. In traditional Khmer culture, the making of this assessment and choice is delegated by the children to their parents on the basis of trust. Generally, arranged marriages do not include an element of force. There is no evidence that this delegation based on trust and the existence of a functional, caring family system was voluntarily transferred to the Party (Angkar) in DK. Finally, to what extent and how often social pressure in traditional marriages impacted the ability to freely consent is not of relevance for the facts charged in these proceedings. The evidence set out in this section clearly demonstrates a practice during the DK regime that was far from reflective of traditional Khmer wedding tradition: families of future spouses were not involved at all in the negotiation, communities were not involved, tradition was absent from wedding ceremonies and individuals agreed to get married for fear of being punished by the Party.

3689. Further, CPK policy deemed that Angkar could replace parents or should be put above them, however the CPK implemented measures notably aimed at discriminating

---

<sup>12301</sup> T. 13 June 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/520.1, p. 92.

<sup>12302</sup> T. 14 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/473.1, pp. 12, 36.

<sup>12303</sup> T. 14 September 2016 (Kasumi NAKAGAWA), E1/473.1, pp. 10, 33. See also, T. 11 October 2016 (Peg LEVINE), E1/481.1, p. 108.

against real or perceived political enemies, at forcibly moving city dwellers from their hometowns, at imposing upon a large number of people work in extremely harsh conditions on various construction sites and in cooperatives.<sup>12304</sup> It is hardly conceivable that all these revolutionary measures could, somehow, be compared with parents' behaviour toward their children in traditional Khmer society. It is even harder to merely imagine that children of families the victims of severe discrimination and mistreatment could trust or agree in any manner to decisions concerning the core of their privacy and dignity, as these decisions were made by those seen as being responsible for deciding such policy and for implementing such measures. The arguments of the Defence teams in this regard are therefore rejected.

3690. The Chamber has found that DK authorities arranged marriages throughout the DK period and in numerous geographical locations throughout the territory of Cambodia.<sup>12305</sup> Individuals were married in a widespread climate of fear and the consent purportedly given either before or during wedding ceremonies did not amount in most cases to genuine consent.<sup>12306</sup> Individuals were instructed to follow Angkar's instructions to get married and produce children, and there were instances where individuals were threatened with being killed if they refused to marry.<sup>12307</sup> Both men and women were forced to marry during the DK regime throughout the territory.<sup>12308</sup>

3691. In the majority of cases, during the wedding ceremony parents of individuals were not involved,<sup>12309</sup> traditional rituals were abandoned,<sup>12310</sup> and many couples were married at the same time.<sup>12311</sup> The Chamber has found that with the exception of favoured individuals, individuals were neither consulted nor informed in advance of their marriage – in many instances, they did not even know their spouse until the moment they arrived at the wedding venue.<sup>12312</sup> After marriage ceremonies, individuals were subjected to monitoring particularly aimed at establishing whether they had consummated the marriage.<sup>12313</sup> This pressure caused fear and led victims to feel that

---

<sup>12304</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, paras 489-493.

<sup>12305</sup> See above, para. 3538.

<sup>12306</sup> See above, paras 3619-3623.

<sup>12307</sup> See above, paras 3620-3633.

<sup>12308</sup> See above, para. 3625.

<sup>12309</sup> See above, Section 14.3.7.3: Participation of Parents and Other Family Members.

<sup>12310</sup> See above, Section 14.3.7.2: Absence of Khmer Tradition.

<sup>12311</sup> See above, paras 3631-3632.

<sup>12312</sup> See above, Section 14.3.6.1: Notice.

<sup>12313</sup> See above, Section 14.3.8.1: Monitoring.

they were obliged to have sexual intercourse.<sup>12314</sup> The Chamber finds that the foregoing conduct, characterised in the Closing Order as forced marriage, cumulatively caused serious mental or physical suffering or injury or constituted a serious attack on the human dignity of the victims.

3692. In assessing the gravity of these acts, the Chamber considers the mental and physical suffering inflicted upon individuals through the threats of forcing them to marry, the fact that they had to marry someone that they did not know, the fear instilled to pressure them to consummate the marriage and that the conduct was performed intentionally. The severity of the mental suffering caused by being forced to marry in a coercive environment caused serious mental harm with lasting effects on the victims.<sup>12315</sup> Considered holistically, the Chamber finds that this conduct is of similar gravity as other enumerated crimes against humanity. The actus reus of the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced marriage is therefore established.

3693. In assessing the intent of the authorities to engage in the above conduct, the Chamber has found that instructions on the regulation of marriage originated from the upper level. The lower level was involved in the matching of couples, for which authorisation was required from the upper level (district, sector or ministry level, depending on the spouse's rank). Authorities used threats to force individuals to marry and were involved in wedding ceremonies and in implementing the monitoring process. The Chamber finds on this basis that this conduct was performed intentionally by the authorities. The mens rea of the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced marriage is therefore established.

3694. Accordingly, the Chamber finds that the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts was committed nationwide through conduct characterised as forced marriage.

---

<sup>12314</sup> See above, Section 14.3.8.2: Coercive Environment; Section 14.3.8.3: Forced Sexual Intercourse between Spouses.

<sup>12315</sup> See above, para. 3689.

14.4.2. Other Inhumane Acts through Conduct Characterised as Rape in the Context of Forced Marriage

3695. As relevant to Case 002/02, the Closing Order charges the Accused with the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as rape in the context of forced marriage.<sup>12316</sup> Specifically, it alleges that “by imposing the consummation of forced marriages, the perpetrators committed a physical invasion of a sexual nature against a victim in coercive circumstances in which the consent of the victim was absent” and that “perpetrators intended the physical invasion of a sexual nature, with the knowledge that it occurred in coercive circumstances or otherwise without the consent of the victim”.<sup>12317</sup>

3696. The Chamber has found that after wedding ceremonies, arrangements were usually made by the local authorities for newly wedded couples to sleep in an assigned location specifically in order to have sexual intercourse.<sup>12318</sup> Militiamen were commonly ordered to monitor the couples at night to make sure that they had sexual intercourse.<sup>12319</sup> Both men and women felt compelled to have sexual intercourse with their new spouse.<sup>12320</sup> Couples who were found to have not had sexual intercourse were re-educated or threatened with being killed or receiving punishment.<sup>12321</sup>

3697. The Chamber finds that in the described circumstances a woman’s lack of physical resistance does not indicate consent but a mere appearance of acquiescence due to coercion or coercive circumstances.<sup>12322</sup> The Chamber further notes that while the in-court statements were not always necessarily explicit in describing the penetration of the vagina by the penis of the husband, the circumstances such as the pain, the bleeding for a long time thereafter, or the explicit reference to forced penetration allow the Chamber to conclude that such penetration occurred. The Chamber further finds that in view of the establishment of conditions specifically to force the consummation of marriages, the conduct was performed intentionally. The

---

<sup>12316</sup> See above, para. 3524.

<sup>12317</sup> Closing Order, para. 1431.

<sup>12318</sup> See above, para. 3641.

<sup>12319</sup> See above, Section 14.3.8.1: Monitoring.

<sup>12320</sup> See above, Section 14.3.8.2: Coercive Environment; Section 14.3.8.3: Forced Sexual Intercourse between Spouses.

<sup>12321</sup> See above, paras 3656-3658.

<sup>12322</sup> See above, para. 3661.

Chamber accordingly finds that this conduct constitutes rape. The Chamber further finds that this conduct cumulatively caused serious mental and physical suffering or injury and constituted a serious attack on the human dignity of the victims.<sup>12323</sup>

3698. In assessing the gravity of these acts, the Chamber considers in particular the mental and physical suffering inflicted upon those individuals who were raped as part of the requirement that marriage would be consummated, and that such acts were performed intentionally. Considered holistically, the Chamber finds that this conduct is of similar gravity to other enumerated crimes against humanity. The actus reus of the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as rape in the context of forced marriage is therefore established.<sup>12324</sup>

3699. Noting that these acts were conducted in a framework established to force the consummation of marriages, the Chamber finds that such conduct was performed intentionally. The mens rea of the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as rape in the context of forced marriage is therefore established.

3700. Accordingly, the Chamber finds that the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts was committed through conduct characterised as rape in the context of forced marriage.

3701. The Chamber recalls its finding that, having regard to the definition of rape adopted by the Chamber, men could not be the victims of rape in the context of forced marriage. The Chamber will nonetheless consider whether men were subjected to sexual violence of such gravity that it amounts to other inhumane acts. The Chamber understands sexual violence to entail “any act of a sexual nature which is committed on a person under circumstances that are coercive”.<sup>12325</sup> The Chamber understands sexual violence to not be limited to physical invasion of the human body and may include acts that do not involve penetration or even physical contact.<sup>12326</sup> The Chamber has found that men also could not refuse to consummate marriage. On one occasion, a husband

<sup>12323</sup> Section 9.1.8.3: Applicable Law: Crimes Against Humanity: Other Inhumane Acts: Forced Marriage, para. 749.

<sup>12324</sup> See above, Section 14.3.12.2: Impact of Forced Sexual Intercourse on Victims.

<sup>12325</sup> Akayesu Trial Judgement, para. 688; Kvočka et al. Trial Judgement, para. 180.

<sup>12326</sup> Akayesu Trial Judgement, para. 688.

had sexual intercourse with his wife following Angkar's instructions and out of fear for the lives of him and his wife.<sup>12327</sup> One Civil Party suffered greatly because he was not able to marry his fiancée.<sup>12328</sup> However, in the absence of clear evidence concerning the level of seriousness of this kind of conduct and of its impact on males, the Chamber, while acknowledging that men were subjected to sexual violence that was contrary to human dignity, is unable to reach a finding on the seriousness of the mental and physical suffering suffered by these men. Accordingly, the Chamber is unable to reach a conclusion to the requisite standard in relation to these incidents and does not consider that they constitute the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through sexual violence.

---

<sup>12327</sup> See above, para. 3657 (SOU Sotheavy).

<sup>12328</sup> See above, para. 3680 (YOS Phal).

15. APPLICABLE LAW: INDIVIDUAL CRIMINAL RESPONSIBILITY

15.1. Introduction

3702. Article 29 (new) of the ECCC Law outlines the applicable forms of individual criminal responsibility: commission, planning, instigating,<sup>12329</sup> ordering, aiding and abetting,<sup>12330</sup> and superior responsibility. The Closing Order as relevant to Case 002/02 charges that the Accused committed, through their acts and omissions (and through a joint criminal enterprise, which is charged in its basic form),<sup>12331</sup> planned, instigated, ordered, aided and abetted the charged crimes.<sup>12332</sup> Alternatively, the Closing Order charges the Accused with superior responsibility for the charged crimes.<sup>12333</sup> The Chamber may choose the form or forms charged in the Closing Order that describe the responsibility of the Accused most accurately. It is not obliged to make exhaustive factual findings on every charge.<sup>12334</sup> Where an accused is found to be both directly responsible and responsible as a superior in relation to the same conduct, the Chamber will convict on the basis of the former and consider an accused's superior position as an aggravating factor in sentencing.<sup>12335</sup>

3703. The Chamber recalls that it has previously accepted the general principle applied consistently by the ad hoc tribunals that "a crime may be committed by culpable omission where there is a duty to act".<sup>12336</sup> This principle applies to all modes of individual criminal responsibility, except for planning and ordering as these modes of liability require a positive act to materialise. The Chamber finds that the general

<sup>12329</sup> On the discrepancy between the Khmer, English and French versions of the ECCC Law concerning the notions of instigation and incitement, see below, para. 3718 (fn. 12397).

<sup>12330</sup> On the discrepancy between the Khmer, English and French versions of the ECCC Law concerning the notions of aiding and abetting and "complicité" see below, para. 3721 (fn. 12414).

<sup>12331</sup> Closing Order, para. 1541.

<sup>12332</sup> Closing Order, paras 1521, 1532-1533, 1536-1537, 1545, 1548, 1551, 1554.

<sup>12333</sup> Closing Order, paras 1559-1560.

<sup>12334</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 688; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 472; Milutinović et al. Trial Judgement, para. 76 (Volume I).

<sup>12335</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 688; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 539; Blaškić Appeal Judgement, para. 91.

<sup>12336</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 693, fn. 2159. See also, Section 9.1: Applicable Law: Crimes: Crimes Against Humanity, paras 690, 701.

principle, that there needs to be a duty to act, applies to all culpable omissions. Accordingly, an omission will be culpable only where there is a duty to act.

3704. The Chamber finds that it was both foreseeable and accessible in general that commission through a joint criminal enterprise (“JCE”) in its basic and systemic forms (also known as JCE I and JCE II, respectively),<sup>12337</sup> planning,<sup>12338</sup> instigating,<sup>12339</sup> ordering,<sup>12340</sup> aiding and abetting,<sup>12341</sup> and superior responsibility<sup>12342</sup> were modes of liability that existed in customary international or Cambodian law between 1975 and 1979. Submissions pertaining to the precise definition of the various elements of these forms of individual criminal responsibility are addressed in the relevant subsections below.

3705. As a preliminary matter, the Chamber notes that the KHIEU Samphan Defence’s Closing Brief incorporates by reference submissions regarding planning, instigating and aiding and abetting that were raised in its appeal brief in Case 002/01, but that were not addressed by the Supreme Court Chamber. It further incorporates by

---

<sup>12337</sup> See below, para. 3707.

<sup>12338</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 697; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 474. Planning was criminalised by Articles 223, 239 and 290 of the Cambodian Criminal Code 1956.

<sup>12339</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 699; Case 001 Trial Judgement, paras 474-475. Instigation and incitement were codified in various international instruments prior to 1975 (Nuremberg Charter, Article 6; Genocide Convention, Article 3; Supplementary Slavery Convention, Article 6; ICCPR, Article 20; Racial Discrimination Convention, Article 4; Statutory Limitations Convention, Article II; Apartheid Convention, Article III(a); Hostage Convention, Article 4(a)). Nuremberg-era courts entered convictions against accused who incited and instigated crimes against humanity (Nuremberg Judgement, pp. 302-304; Ministries Judgement, pp. 565-576). Instigating was criminalised by Articles 83 and 84 of the Cambodian Criminal Code 1956.

<sup>12340</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 701; Case 001 Trial Judgement, paras 474-475. Prior to 1975, ordering was codified in international instruments (Geneva Convention (I), Article 49; Control Council Law No. 10, Article II(2)(b)). Nuremberg-era courts entered convictions against accused for ordering war crimes and crimes against humanity (Nuremberg Judgement, pp. 289-291, 311-315; High Command Judgement, pp. 560-561, 665, 693; RuSHA Judgement, p. 106; Justice Judgement, p. 1119). Ordering was criminalised by Articles 83 and 85 of the Cambodian Criminal Code 1956.

<sup>12341</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 703; Case 001 Trial Judgement, paras 474-475. Accomplice liability, including aiding and abetting, was recognised as a principle of international law and codified in various international instruments prior 1975 (Nuremberg Charter, Article 6; Control Council Law No. 10, Article II(2)(b); Nuremberg Principles, Principle VII; Supplementary Slavery Convention, Articles 3, 5-6; Statutory Limitations Convention, Article II; Apartheid Convention, Article III(b); Hostage Convention, Article (2)(b); Protected Persons Convention, Article 2(1)(e)). Nuremberg-era courts entered convictions for aiding and abetting war crimes and crimes against humanity (see e.g., Justice Judgement, p. 1118; Pohl Judgement, pp. 1031, 1039; Ministries Judgement, pp. 645-646). Aiding and abetting was criminalised by Articles 83 and 87 of the Cambodian Criminal Code 1956.

<sup>12342</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 714; Case 001 Trial Judgement, paras 476-477; Decision on Appeals by NUON Chea and IENG Thirith against the Closing Order (PTC), D427/2/15, 15 February 2011, paras 190-232; Decision on IENG Sary’s Appeal against the Closing Order (PTC), D427/1/30, 11 April 2011, paras 413-460. See also, Hadžihasanović and Kubura, Decision on Interlocutory Appeal Challenging Jurisdiction in Relation to Command Responsibility (AC), para. 29.

reference submissions regarding ordering that were raised in the NUON Chea Defence's appeal brief in Case 002/01.<sup>12343</sup> The Chamber notes that it is not properly seised of arguments that are incorporated by reference rather than set out in closing briefs.<sup>12344</sup> This approach constitutes an impermissible attempt to circumvent the page limits imposed by the Chamber on the parties' respective briefs. The Chamber will accordingly not consider any of the submissions referred to in this way by the KHIEU Samphan Defence.

15.2. Commission through a Joint Criminal Enterprise

3706. Participation in a JCE amounts to commission within the scope of Article 29 (new) of the ECCC law.<sup>12345</sup> The ICTY Appeals Chamber has held that JCE comprises three categories:

- The basic category ("JCE I"), where all participants act pursuant to a common purpose and share the same criminal intent;<sup>12346</sup>
- The systemic category ("JCE II"), referring to instances of ill-treatment in organised institutions, such as concentration camps;<sup>12347</sup> and
- The extended category ("JCE III"), where participants have agreed on a common purpose involving the perpetration of crime(s) and are liable for criminal acts which, while outside the common purpose, are nevertheless a natural and foreseeable consequence of effecting that common purpose, and the participants willingly took the risk that those crimes would occur (dolus eventualis).<sup>12348</sup>

3707. The Pre-Trial, Trial and Supreme Court Chambers have all held that JCE III did not exist in customary international or Cambodian law by 1975,<sup>12349</sup> and it will

<sup>12343</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, paras 2469-2470, referring to NUON Chea Appeal Brief, paras 674-679.

<sup>12344</sup> Šainović et al. Appeals Decision on Pavković's Second Motion, para. 18 ("a party may not dispose of its burden on appeal by merely referring to another party's submissions."); Hadžihasanović & Kubura Appeal Judgement, para. 46 ("The Appeals Chamber recalls that appellants have to substantiate their arguments in support of each ground of appeal in their appeal briefs and not by reference to submissions made elsewhere.").

<sup>12345</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 690; Case 002 Pre-Trial Chamber Decision on JCE, para. 49; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 511.

<sup>12346</sup> Tadić Appeal Judgement, paras 196-201.

<sup>12347</sup> Tadić Appeal Judgement, paras 202-203.

<sup>12348</sup> Tadić Appeal Judgement, paras 204, 220 ("What is required is a state of mind in which a person, although he did not intend to bring about a certain result, was aware that the actions of the group were most likely to lead to that result but nevertheless willingly took that risk. In other words, the so-called dolus eventualis is required (also called 'advertent recklessness' in some national legal systems)."), para. 228.

<sup>12349</sup> Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, paras 791-807; Case 002 Trial Chamber Decision on JCE, paras 31, 35, 38; Case 002 Pre-Trial Chamber Decision on JCE, paras 77, 83, 87-88.

accordingly not be considered further. The Pre-Trial, Trial and Supreme Court Chambers have all affirmed that JCE I and JCE II were forms of criminal liability recognised in customary international law between 1975 and 1979.<sup>12350</sup> In this respect, the Chamber takes into account the customary status and the positions held by the Accused as members of Cambodia's governing authority. Having weighed these factors objectively, the Chamber concludes that it was both foreseeable and accessible in general that JCE I and JCE II were forms of individual criminal responsibility by 1975.<sup>12351</sup> Since only JCE I, i.e. joint criminal enterprise in its basic form, is charged in the Closing Order and considered relevant to Case 002/02,<sup>12352</sup> JCE II will not be discussed separately.

3708. All categories of JCE have three objective elements. First, there must be a plurality of persons. While it is necessary to identify the plurality of persons participating in the JCE, it is not necessary to identify by name each person involved.<sup>12353</sup> Second, there must be a common purpose of a criminal character which amounts to or involves the commission of a crime.<sup>12354</sup> Third, an accused must participate in the common purpose, making a significant, but not necessarily indispensable, contribution to the commission of the crime.<sup>12355</sup>

3709. The common purpose must either have as (one of) its primary objective(s) the commission of (a) crime(s) (i.e. "amounts to") or must contemplate the commission of (a) crime(s) as a means to achieve an objective that is not necessarily criminal (i.e. "involves").<sup>12356</sup> While the common purpose is a JCE's most distinctive feature, it need

<sup>12350</sup> Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, para. 807 ("Thus, the Supreme Court Chamber finds that criminal liability based on making a contribution to the implementation of a common criminal purpose was, at the time relevant to the charges in the case at hand, limited to crimes that were actually encompassed by the common purpose."); Case 002 Trial Chamber Decision on JCE, para. 22; Case 002 Pre-Trial Chamber Decision on JCE, paras 57-69, 72. See also, Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 691; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 512.

<sup>12351</sup> Case 002 Pre-Trial Chamber Decision on JCE, paras 69, 72; Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, para. 1093. See also, Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea; Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan (on the senior positions of the Accused).

<sup>12352</sup> Closing Order, para. 1541.

<sup>12353</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 692; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 508; Krajišnik Appeal Judgement, para. 156.

<sup>12354</sup> Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, para. 789, 807, 814; Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 692; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 508; Tadić Appeal Judgement, para. 227.

<sup>12355</sup> Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, para. 983; Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 692; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 508; Brđanin Appeal Judgement, para. 430.

<sup>12356</sup> Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, paras 807-808; Case 002 Trial Chamber Decision on JCE, para. 17.

not be previously arranged or formulated.<sup>12357</sup> It may materialise extemporaneously “and be inferred from the fact that a plurality of persons act in unison to put into effect a joint criminal enterprise”.<sup>12358</sup> Thus, the common purpose, plan or design of a JCE can be fluid and change over time to include additional crimes.<sup>12359</sup> However, this potential fluidity must not erode the requirement of a shared intent for JCE I. An explicit agreement amongst JCE members regarding the expansion of the common purpose is not required – this too may materialise extemporaneously, and can be inferred from circumstantial evidence.<sup>12360</sup> In such case, liability arises when JCE members, while knowing that new types of crime are included in the common plan, have taken no effective measures to prevent the recurrence of such new types of crime and have subsequently persisted in the implementation of the common purpose.<sup>12361</sup>

3710. Participation in a common purpose may be by positive act or culpable omission.<sup>12362</sup> The significance of a contribution to the commission of crimes within the common purpose is to be determined on a case-by-case basis, taking into account a variety of factors including the position of the Accused, the level and efficiency of the participation, and any efforts to prevent crimes.<sup>12363</sup> An accused’s participation in a common purpose need not involve commission of a specific crime provided for in the Agreement or ECCC Law (for example murder, extermination or torture), but may take the form of assistance in, or contribution to, the execution of the common purpose.<sup>12364</sup> Such a contribution need not be an indispensable condition, without which the crimes could or would not have been committed.<sup>12365</sup> However, a JCE member’s involvement in the crime must form a link in the chain of causation.<sup>12366</sup> The significance of the

<sup>12357</sup> Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 508; Tadić Appeal Judgement, para. 227.

<sup>12358</sup> Tadić Appeal Judgement, para. 227. See also, Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 508.

<sup>12359</sup> Krajišnik Appeal Judgement, para. 163; Krajišnik Trial Judgement, para. 1098.

<sup>12360</sup> Krajišnik Appeal Judgement, para. 163; Karadžić Trial Judgement, para. 563.

<sup>12361</sup> Krajišnik Trial Judgement, para. 1098 (“With acceptance of the actual commission of new types of crime and continued contribution to the objective, comes intent, meaning that subsequent commission of such crimes by the JCE will give rise to liability under JCE form 1.”). See also, para. 890 (“knowledge combined with continuing participation can be conclusive as to a person’s intent.”).

<sup>12362</sup> Kvočka et al. Appeal Judgement, paras 187, 421, 556. See above, para. 3703. See also, Section 9.1: Applicable Law: Crimes Against Humanity: Murder, para. 627.

<sup>12363</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 693; Kvočka et al. Trial Judgement, para. 311.

<sup>12364</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 693; Vasiljević Appeal Judgement, para. 100; Brđanin Appeal Judgement, para. 424. See also, Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, para. 981, citing Blagojević and Jokić Trial Judgement, para. 702.

<sup>12365</sup> Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, para. 980; Popović et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 1653; Krajišnik Appeal Judgement, para. 215; Brđanin Appeal Judgement, para. 151.

<sup>12366</sup> Blagojević and Jokić Trial Judgement, para. 702; Brđanin Trial Judgement, para. 263.

Accused's contribution is relevant for determining whether such a link existed.<sup>12367</sup> Mere membership of a JCE is not sufficient in this regard; it must at least be shown that the Accused's acts or omissions were directed at furthering the common purpose.<sup>12368</sup>

3711. Participants in a JCE can incur liability for crimes committed by direct perpetrators who were not JCE members, provided that it has been established that the crimes can be imputed to at least one JCE participant and that this participant, when using a direct perpetrator, acted to further the common purpose.<sup>12369</sup> Establishing the link between a JCE member and a direct perpetrator is a matter to be assessed on a case-by-case basis.<sup>12370</sup> It is not determinative whether the direct perpetrator shared the mens rea of the JCE member or knew of the existence of the JCE; what matters under JCE I is whether the JCE member used the direct perpetrator to commit the actus reus of the crime forming part of the common purpose.<sup>12371</sup> While the existence of an express agreement between a JCE participant and a direct perpetrator may be used to establish that a certain crime formed part of the common purpose, the existence of such an express agreement is not a requirement.<sup>12372</sup> Nor is it a requirement that the JCE member exercised effective control over the direct perpetrator.<sup>12373</sup>

3712. With respect to the mens rea for JCE I, an accused must intend to participate in the common purpose and this intent must be shared with the other JCE participants.<sup>12374</sup> JCE participants must also be shown to share with the other JCE participants the required intent regarding the underlying crime, which includes the specific intent if

<sup>12367</sup> Prlić et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 2052; Milutinović et al. Trial Judgement, para. 105 (Volume I); Blagojević and Jokić Trial Judgement, para. 702; Brđanin Trial Judgement, para. 263.

<sup>12368</sup> Prlić et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 2052; Brđanin Trial Judgement, para. 263.

<sup>12369</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 693; Krajišnik Appeal Judgement, para. 225; Brđanin Appeal Judgement, para. 413.

<sup>12370</sup> Krajišnik Appeal Judgement, para. 226; Brđanin Appeal Judgement, para. 413; Martić Appeal Judgement, para. 169.

<sup>12371</sup> Krajišnik Appeal Judgement, para. 226; Mladić Trial Judgement, para. 3561.

<sup>12372</sup> Brđanin Appeal Judgement, paras 415-419.

<sup>12373</sup> Šainović et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 1368; Kvočka et al. Appeal Judgement, paras 144, 383.

<sup>12374</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 694; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 509; Kvočka et al. Appeal Judgement, paras 82, 110.

such is required by the offence, as with persecution and genocide.<sup>12375</sup> Thus, JCE intent must cover both the common purpose and the crimes it encompassed.<sup>12376</sup>

3713. The KHIEU Samphan Defence submits that JCE I requires proof of direct intent with respect to both the common purpose and the underlying crime, and that dolus eventualis does not suffice.<sup>12377</sup> It contends that crimes that are merely foreseeable are not properly included in the common purpose.<sup>12378</sup> No other parties made any relevant submissions in this regard. The KHIEU Samphan Defence makes these submissions in response to the Supreme Court Chamber’s Appeal Judgement in Case 002/01, in which the Supreme Court Chamber allegedly created a new hybrid category of JCE by combining actus reus elements from JCE I with mens rea elements from JCE III, which was not foreseeable to the Accused, violating the principle of legality.<sup>12379</sup>

3714. The Chamber notes that the mens rea requirement for JCE varies according to category and in particular depending on whether crimes are encompassed by the common purpose.<sup>12380</sup> While JCE I requires that crimes are encompassed by the common purpose, JCE III pertains to crimes committed outside the common purpose as a natural and foreseeable consequence of effecting that common purpose. On the basis of this distinction, international jurisprudence has held that JCE I requires direct intent while JCE III requires only that an accused was aware that these crimes were a possible consequence of the execution of the common purpose and willingly took the risk that they would be committed (dolus eventualis).<sup>12381</sup> For example, in Stanišić and

<sup>12375</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 694; Case 002 Trial Chamber Decision on JCE, para. 16; Kvočka et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 110; Milutinović et al. Trial Judgement, para. 109 (Volume I). If an accused is not shown to have shared the required discriminatory intent, he may still be liable as an aider and abettor if he knowingly made a substantial contribution to the crime.

<sup>12376</sup> Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, para. 1053 (“for an accused to be guilty of a crime based on liability under the notion of JCE, his or her mens rea must cover, both the ingredients of the crime and those of the mode of liability.”) See also, Popović et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 1652; Brđanin Appeal Judgement, para. 365.

<sup>12377</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, paras 499-504, 2462.

<sup>12378</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, paras 452, 459-462, 470, 498.

<sup>12379</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, paras 430-431, 449-451, 514. See also, Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, paras 806-810, 857, 860, 1054, 1062, 1086.

<sup>12380</sup> See e.g., Tadić Appeal Judgement, paras 204, 220, 228 (“By contrast, the mens rea element differs according to the category of common design under consideration.”); Blagojević and Jokić Trial Judgement, para. 703 (“The mens rea required for the first and third categories of joint criminal enterprise differs.”); Vasiljević Appeal Judgement, para. 101 (“the mens rea differs according to the category of joint criminal enterprise under consideration”); Brđanin Appeal Judgement, para. 365 (“The mens rea required for a finding of guilt differs according to the category of joint criminal enterprise liability under consideration.”).

<sup>12381</sup> Tadić Appeal Judgement, para. 228; Stakić Appeal Judgement, para. 87. See also, Mladić Trial Judgement, paras 3560-3561. See above, para. 3706.

Simatović, the ICTY Trial Chamber stated that: “[i]t follows [...] that the first form of the JCE requires intent in the sense of dolus directus, and that recklessness or dolus eventualis does not suffice”.<sup>12382</sup> In Karemera and Ngirumpatse, the ICTR Appeals Chamber stated that: “[t]he question of “foreseeability” relates to the extended form of joint criminal enterprise, not the basic form”.<sup>12383</sup> The ICTY Appeals Chamber confirmed in Šainović et al. that the “ability to predict” is an improper mens rea standard under JCE I and that the Trial Chamber had correctly required that Šainović “had knowledge of, as opposed to ability to foresee, the commission of crimes and shared the intent for their commission with the other members of the JCE”.<sup>12384</sup>

3715. The Chamber finds that the intent (dolus eventualis) that forms part of the definition of JCE III cannot be transposed into JCE I. As JCE III was not part of customary international law during the relevant period of the Closing Order,<sup>12385</sup> indirect intent (dolus eventualis) does not suffice for a finding of JCE before the ECCC.<sup>12386</sup> Accordingly, and consistent with the submissions of the KHIEU Samphan Defence, the Chamber finds that the degree of intent required under JCE I is direct intent.

3716. The Co-Prosecutors submit that the mens rea for JCE I includes only the two degrees of direct intent: “(i) direct intent that the crime be committed (dolus directus of the first degree), and (ii) awareness that the crime will occur in the ordinary course of events, or phrased another way, awareness of a substantial likelihood that it will occur (dolus directus of the second degree)”.<sup>12387</sup> While the Chamber agrees that JCE I requires direct intent, it notes that the Co-Prosecutors mischaracterise direct intent of the second degree. Awareness that something will occur is not the same as awareness

<sup>12382</sup> Stanišić and Simatović Trial Judgement, para. 1258, fn. 2193.

<sup>12383</sup> Karemera and Ngirumpatse Appeal Judgement, paras 564 (“However, as above, the Trial Chamber understands such knowledge and acceptance of the risk that crimes would be committed to be insufficient for the first form of JCE liability.”), 2332.

<sup>12384</sup> Šainović et al. Appeal Judgement, paras 1014-1016, 1470 (“The Appeals Chamber recalls that the mens rea standard relevant to liability for commission through participation in a JCE is that the accused must share the intent for the commission of the crimes alleged in the Indictment and not merely foresee their occurrence.”).

<sup>12385</sup> See above, para. 3707. See also, Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, paras 791-807.

<sup>12386</sup> The Trial Chamber observes that the ECCC is in the rare position of employing the mode of liability JCE, while not all three forms of it were part of customary international law during the relevant period of the Closing Order. However, the Chamber sees no reason to deviate from established jurisprudence from the ad hoc Tribunals defining JCE I’s mens rea.

<sup>12387</sup> Co-Prosecutors’ Closing Brief, para. 227, fn. 641. See also, T. 18 February 2016 (Appeal Hearing), F1/7.1, p. 79.

of the substantial likelihood that something will occur. The words “will occur in the ordinary course of events” require “virtual certainty”, while awareness of a substantial likelihood that something will occur indicates a probable, not a necessary, outcome.<sup>12388</sup> The former standard “implies that ‘the consequence will follow, barring an unforeseen or unexpected intervention that prevent this occurrence’”.<sup>12389</sup> Thus, the standard described by the Co-Prosecutors as dolus directus in the second degree is in fact a less than direct degree of intent moving more closely toward the notions of recklessness and dolus eventualis.<sup>12390</sup>

15.3. Planning

3717. To be held responsible for planning, an accused, alone or with others, must design criminal conduct constituting or involving a crime later perpetrated.<sup>12391</sup> The plan must precede and substantially contribute to the criminal conduct;<sup>12392</sup> it need not be established that the crime would not have been committed without the accused’s plan.<sup>12393</sup> An accused must intend the commission of a crime; this includes cases where the accused is aware of the substantial likelihood that a crime will be committed upon the execution of the plan.<sup>12394</sup> For specific intent crimes such as persecution and genocide, it must be proved that the accused had the requisite intent.<sup>12395</sup> Finally, the Chamber recalls its finding that planning is a mode of liability which requires a positive act to materialise.<sup>12396</sup>

<sup>12388</sup> Prosecutor v. Jean-Pierre Bemba Gombo et al., ICC Trial Chamber, ICC-01/05-01/13, Judgement, 19 October 2016, para. 29.

<sup>12389</sup> Prosecutor v. Jean-Pierre Bemba Gombo et al., ICC Trial Chamber, ICC-01/05-01/13, Judgement, 19 October 2016, para. 29.

<sup>12390</sup> Orić Trial Judgement, paras 277, 279, fn. 773; Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, para. 1054. See also, Blaškić Appeals Judgement, paras 41-42; Kordić and Čerkez Appeals Judgement, paras 30-32.

<sup>12391</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 698; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 518; Kordić and Čerkez Appeal Judgement, para. 26.

<sup>12392</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 698; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 518; Kordić and Čerkez Appeal Judgement, para. 26; Nahimana et al. Appeal Judgement, fn. 2116.

<sup>12393</sup> Karadžić Trial Judgement, para. 571; Popović et al. Trial Judgement, para. 1006.

<sup>12394</sup> Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 519; Kordić and Čerkez Appeal Judgement, para. 31; Nahimana et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 479; Karadžić Trial Judgement, para. 571; Limaj et al. Trial Judgement, para. 513.

<sup>12395</sup> Kalimanzira Trial Judgement, para. 161.

<sup>12396</sup> See above, para. 3703.

15.4. Instigating

3718. While the Khmer and French versions of Article 29 of the ECCC Law refer to incitement (“inciter”), the notions of instigation and incitement are considered synonymous.<sup>12397</sup>

3719. To be held responsible for instigating, an accused must, through an act or a culpable omission, prompt another to commit a crime and the crime must have been actually perpetrated.<sup>12398</sup> Prompting may be express or implied, and liability may ensue through verbal, written or other non-verbal prompting.<sup>12399</sup> Instigating does not require that an accused have authority over the perpetrator,<sup>12400</sup> distinguishing it from ordering.<sup>12401</sup> The act or omission must precede and substantially contribute to, not merely facilitate, the criminal conduct.<sup>12402</sup> It is, however, not necessary to prove that without such instigation the crime would not have been committed.<sup>12403</sup> An accused must intend the commission of a crime; this includes cases where the accused is aware of the substantial likelihood that a crime will be committed, as a result of the instigation.<sup>12404</sup> For specific intent crimes such as persecution and genocide, it must be proved that the accused had the requisite intent.<sup>12405</sup>

15.5. Ordering

3720. Ordering requires that an accused, in a de facto (in fact) or de jure (in law) position of authority, instruct another person to commit a crime. No formal superior-

<sup>12397</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 699; Akayesu Appeal Judgement, para. 478.

<sup>12398</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 700; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 522; Ministries Judgement, p. 576; Kordić and Čerkez Appeal Judgement, para. 27; Dorđević Trial Judgement, para. 1870; Milutinović et al. Trial Judgement, para. 83 (Volume I); Brdanin Trial Judgement, para. 269; Blaškić Trial Judgement, para. 280; Karadžić Trial Judgement, para. 572.

<sup>12399</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 700; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 522; Orić Trial Judgement, paras 271-273.

<sup>12400</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 700; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 522; Orić Trial Judgement, paras 271-273.

<sup>12401</sup> See below, para. 3720. See also, Strugar Trial Judgement, para. 332.

<sup>12402</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 700; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 522; Nuremberg Judgement, pp. 336-338 (acquitting a defendant, in part, on the basis that the incitement was not sufficiently direct or unequivocal); Kordić and Čerkez Appeal Judgement, para. 27; Nahimana et al. Appeal Judgement, fn. 2116.

<sup>12403</sup> Karadžić Trial Judgement, para. 572; Kordić and Čerkez Appeal Judgement, para. 27.

<sup>12404</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 700; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 524; Nuremberg Judgement, pp. 303 (noting that the accused received current information of the progress of the final solution and “continued to write and publish his propaganda of death”), 338; Kordić and Čerkez Appeal Judgement, para. 32; Nahimana et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 480.

<sup>12405</sup> Nchamihigo Appeal Judgement, para. 61; Kalimanzira Trial Judgement, para. 161.

subordinate relationship between the two is required.<sup>12406</sup> Responsibility may ensue where an accused issues, passes down or otherwise transmits an order, including through intermediaries.<sup>12407</sup> There is no requirement that an order be given in any particular form and the existence of an order may be proved through circumstantial evidence.<sup>12408</sup> The order must precede and substantially contribute to the commission of a crime.<sup>12409</sup> It need not be proved that without the order the crime would not have been committed.<sup>12410</sup> An accused must intend the commission of a crime; this includes cases where the accused is aware of the substantial likelihood that the execution of the order will result in the commission of a crime.<sup>12411</sup> For specific intent crimes such as persecution and genocide, it must be proved that the accused had the requisite intent.<sup>12412</sup> Finally, the Chamber recalls its finding that ordering is a mode of liability which requires a positive act to materialise.<sup>12413</sup>

15.6. Aiding and Abetting

3721. The Chamber notes that the French version of Article 29 (new) of the ECCC Law equates “aiding and abetting” with the notion of “complicité”. While the two share some common features, the Chamber has already determined that the phrase “aidé et encouragé” more clearly reflects the nature of aiding and abetting liability in customary international law and accords with the English and Khmer versions of the ECCC Law.<sup>12414</sup>

<sup>12406</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 702; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 527; RuSHA Judgement, p. 106; Einsatzgruppen Judgement, pp. 487-488; Kordić and Čerkez Appeal Judgement, para. 28.

<sup>12407</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 702; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 527; High Command Judgement, pp. 616-617 (those transmitting orders may be responsible if the order is criminal on its face or may be applied in a criminal manner and the order is not transmitted subject to the necessary clarification or safeguard).

<sup>12408</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 702; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 527; Kamuhanda Appeal Judgement, para. 76.

<sup>12409</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 702; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 527; High Command Judgement, p. 683 (considering that officers drafting orders based upon the overall directives and ideas of the commander may be responsible if they demonstrate some initiative, as opposed to “merely transcrib[ing]”).

<sup>12410</sup> Karadžić Trial Judgement, para. 573; Strugar Trial Judgement, para. 332.

<sup>12411</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 702; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 528; High Command Judgement, p. 511; Blaškić Appeal Judgement, paras 41-42; Nahimana et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 481.

<sup>12412</sup> Kalimanzira Trial Judgement, para. 161.

<sup>12413</sup> See above, para. 3703.

<sup>12414</sup> Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 532; Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 703.

3722. An aider and abettor must provide practical assistance, encouragement or moral support which has a substantial effect on the commission of a crime that is in fact committed.<sup>12415</sup> No evidence of a plan or agreement between the aider or abettor and the perpetrator is required.<sup>12416</sup> To be found guilty for aiding and abetting, an accused must know that a crime would likely be committed and that his conduct assists or facilitates the commission of a crime.<sup>12417</sup> Furthermore, an accused must be aware of the essential elements of the crime committed by the perpetrator, but need not share the perpetrator's intent to commit the crime, including the specific intent to commit crimes such as persecution and genocide.<sup>12418</sup>

3723. The ICTY Appeals Chamber has expressly held “that the actus reus of aiding and abetting a crime may occur before, during or after the principal crime has been perpetrated”.<sup>12419</sup> The Trial Chamber considers that the ICTY approach reflects an understanding that an offer, made before or during the commission of a crime, of assistance to be provided after the fact, may encourage or morally support the perpetrator and thereby have a substantial effect on the commission of a crime.<sup>12420</sup> This approach also appears to have been favoured in certain post-World War II jurisprudence.<sup>12421</sup> This Chamber finds that the overarching requirement is that assistance, encouragement or moral support must have a substantial effect on the commission of a crime.<sup>12422</sup> Therefore, in the absence of any form of prior assistance,

<sup>12415</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 704; Case 001 Trial Judgement, paras 528, 533; Flick Judgement, p. 1217 (“One who knowingly by his influence and money contributes to the support thereof must, under settled legal principles, be deemed to be, if not a principal, certainly an accessory to such crimes”); Justice Judgement, p. 1118; Schonfeld Trial, pp. 64, 70 (giving “additional confidence to his companions”); Blaškić Appeal Judgement, paras 45-46, 48.

<sup>12416</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 704; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 534; Tadić Appeal Judgement, para. 229.

<sup>12417</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 704; Case 001 Trial Judgement, paras 534-535; Einsatzgruppen Judgement, p. 569 (“in locating, evaluating and turning over lists of Communist party functionaries to the executive department of his organization he was aware that the people listed would be executed when found”); Blaškić Appeal Judgement, paras 45-50.

<sup>12418</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 704; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 535; Blagojević and Jokić Appeal Judgement, para. 127; Seromba Appeal Judgement, para. 65.

<sup>12419</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 712; Blaškić Appeal Judgement, para. 48 (emphasis added).

<sup>12420</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 712; Furundžija Trial Judgement, para. 230; Aleksovski Trial Judgement, para. 62. See also, Brđanin Appeal Judgement, para. 277 (“encouragement and moral support can only form a substantial contribution to a crime when the principal perpetrators are aware of it”). The Chamber notes that the Blagojević Trial Chamber “required for ex post facto aiding and abetting that at the time of the planning, preparation or execution of the crime, a prior agreement exist[ed] between the principal and the [aider and abettor]” (Blagojević and Jokić Trial Judgement, para. 731). This approach was not endorsed by the ICTY Appeals Chamber.

<sup>12421</sup> Schonfeld Trial, p. 70; Rohde Trial, p. 56.

<sup>12422</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, paras 704, 713.

encouragement or moral support, assistance provided exclusively after the time of perpetration cannot satisfy such requirement. It is only when a substantial effect occurs that the necessary causal link exists.<sup>12423</sup> The Chamber need not identify in the abstract all conduct that may have a substantial effect on the commission of a crime. Rather, this is a matter of evidence to be assessed on a case-by-case basis.<sup>12424</sup> The Chamber also finds that the actus reus of aiding and abetting does not require proof of “specific direction”.<sup>12425</sup>

3724. Finally, the Chamber finds that customary international law, as set out in post-World War II jurisprudence and later clarified by ad hoc Tribunal jurisprudence, foresees that an accused may be held criminally liable for a culpable omission which aids and abets the commission of a crime.<sup>12426</sup> Whether an omission aids or abets a crime is a matter to be determined on a case-by-case basis.<sup>12427</sup> This determination will depend on the position and authority of an accused.<sup>12428</sup>

15.7. Superior Responsibility

3725. For a superior to be held responsible for the criminal conduct of his subordinates, there must first be a superior-subordinate relationship between an accused and the person who committed the crime. Superior responsibility, applicable to both military and civilian superiors, may ensue on the basis of both direct and indirect relationships of subordination.<sup>12429</sup> The superior must have exercised effective control over the perpetrator, in the sense of possessing the material ability to prevent or punish the crimes.<sup>12430</sup> Whether a superior had effective control is a matter of evidence, not

<sup>12423</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, paras 708-710, 713.

<sup>12424</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 713; Taylor Appeal Judgement, para. 475; Blagojević and Jokić Appeal Judgement, para. 134.

<sup>12425</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, paras 707-710; Šainović et al. Appeal Judgement, paras 1649, 1651.

<sup>12426</sup> See e.g., Einsatzgruppen Judgement, p. 572; Essen Lynching Trial, p. 90; Mrkšić and Šljivančanin Appeal Judgement, para. 49; Brđanin Appeal Judgement, para. 277; Orić Appeal Judgement, para. 43; Popović et al. Trial Judgement, para. 1019. See above, para. 3703. See also, Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 706; Section 9.1: Applicable Law: Crimes: Crimes Against Humanity, paras 627, 708.

<sup>12427</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 706; Taylor Appeal Judgement, para. 475; Blaškić Appeal Judgement, para. 47.

<sup>12428</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 706; Einsatzgruppen Judgement, pp. 572 (omissions of a person in a high position of authority may encourage an accused to commit a crime), 585 (acquitting an accused considering his low position and that he was not “in a position to protest”); Essen Lynching Trial, p. 90; Orić Appeal Judgement, para. 42.

<sup>12429</sup> Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 542; Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, paras 715, 721.

<sup>12430</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 715; ECCC Law, Article 29 (new); Case 001 Trial Judgement, paras 540-542; ECCC Law, Article 29 (new); Delalić et al. Appeal Judgement, paras 191-192, 198, 206, 252.

law, and thus must be assessed on a case-by-case basis.<sup>12431</sup> Second, the superior must have known, or have had reason to know, that a crime was about to be or had been committed by his subordinate.<sup>12432</sup> The superior must have knowledge that his subordinate committed a crime and not simply knowledge of the occurrence of a crime.<sup>12433</sup> A superior has reason to know that a crime has been, or was about to be, committed where he possessed information sufficiently alarming to justify further enquiry.<sup>12434</sup> However, this information need not provide specific details about the unlawful acts committed or about to be committed.<sup>12435</sup>

3726. Finally, a superior must have failed to take the necessary and reasonable measures to prevent the crime or punish the perpetrator.<sup>12436</sup> Necessary measures are those appropriate for a superior to discharge his obligation, showing a genuine effort to prevent or punish. Reasonable measures are those reasonably falling within the material power of a superior. Necessary and reasonable measures must be considered on a case-by-case basis.<sup>12437</sup> The failure to prevent and the failure to punish arise at different points in time: a superior's responsibility to prevent a crime arises prior to its commission, while the responsibility to punish a perpetrator arises after the commission of a crime.<sup>12438</sup> In customary international law, as it existed by 1975, there was no prerequisite that a superior have a duty to act recognised in domestic law.<sup>12439</sup>

<sup>12431</sup> Decision on IENG Sary's Appeal against the Closing Order (PTC), D427/1/30, 11 April 2011, para. 459; Blaškić Appeal Judgement, para. 69.

<sup>12432</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 715; ECCC Law, Article 29 (new); Case 001 Trial Judgement, paras 543-544. See also, RuSHA Judgement, p. 106; High Command Judgement, p. 545; Hostage Judgement, pp. 1230, 1271 (a superior "may require adequate reports of all occurrences that come within the scope of his power [...] If he fails to require and obtain complete information, the dereliction of duty rests upon him and he is in no position to plead his own dereliction as a defence"), 1281 ("He cannot close his eyes to what is going on around him and claim immunity from punishment because he did not know that which he is obliged to know"); Toyoda Judgement, p. 5006 (a superior may be responsible if "knew or should have known by use of reasonable diligence"); Delalić et al. Appeal Judgement, paras 228-241.

<sup>12433</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 715; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 543; Orić Appeal Judgement, paras 57-59.

<sup>12434</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 715; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 544; Hadžihasanović and Kubura Appeal Judgement, para. 28.

<sup>12435</sup> Čelebići Appeal Judgement, para. 238; Galić Appeal Judgement, para. 184.

<sup>12436</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 716; ECCC Law, Article 29 (new); Case 001 Trial Judgement, paras 545-547; Einsatzgruppen Judgement, pp. 485-486.

<sup>12437</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 716; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 545; Halilović Appeal Judgement, para. 63.

<sup>12438</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 716; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 546; Hadžihasanović and Kubura Appeal Judgement, paras 40 (a causal link between the failure to punish and the crime is not required), 259-260.

<sup>12439</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 720; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 477; Decision on IENG Sary's Appeal against the Closing Order (PTC), D427/1/30, 11 April 2011, para. 459.

16.COMMON PURPOSE

16.1. Closing Order

3727. According to the Closing Order, the common purpose of the CPK leaders was to “implement rapid socialist revolution in Cambodia through a ‘great leap forward’ and defend the Party against internal and external enemies, by whatever means necessary”.<sup>12440</sup> The Closing Order charges that the common purpose, which was in existence on or before 17 April 1975 and continued until at least 6 January 1979, was shared, among others, by members of the CPK Standing Committee, including NUON Chea and IENG Sary; members of the CPK Central Committee, including KHIEU Samphan; heads of CPK ministries, including IENG Thirith; zone and autonomous sector secretaries; and heads of the Party Centre military divisions.<sup>12441</sup>

3728. As limited to Case 002/02, the Closing Order charges that a plurality of persons designed, contributed to and implemented the following policies during the DK period in order to achieve the above common purpose:

1. The repeated movement of the population from towns and cities to rural areas, as well as from one rural area to another, implementation limited to the treatment of the Cham during the movement of the population out of the Central (old North), Southwest, West and East Zones “from the latter part of 1975 until some time in 1977” (MOP Phase Two);<sup>12442</sup>
2. The establishment and operation of cooperatives and worksites, implementation limited to the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, 1st January Dam and Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site;<sup>12443</sup>

<sup>12440</sup> Closing Order, paras 156, 158, 1524, 1528. Regarding the term “by whatever means necessary”, see below, para. 3864.

<sup>12441</sup> Closing Order, paras 158, 159, 895-901, 903-993, 1153-1199, 1528, 1529, 1532-1533, 1536-1537.

<sup>12442</sup> Case 002 Additional Severance Decision Annex, paras 2(i), 3(i); Closing Order, paras 157, 160-163, 165, 167.

<sup>12443</sup> Case 002 Additional Severance Decision Annex, paras 2(ii), 3(ii)-(v); Closing Order, paras 157, 168-177 (generally), 302-321 (Tram Kak Cooperatives), 323-349 (Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite), 351-367 (1st January Dam Worksite), 383-398 (Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site).

3. The re-education of “bad elements” and killing of “enemies”, both inside and outside CPK ranks as it relates to the establishment and operation of security centres and execution sites and within the context of internal purges, implementation limited to S-21 Security Centre, Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, Au Kanseng Security Centre and Phnom Kraol Security Centre;<sup>12444</sup>
4. The targeting of specific groups, including the Cham and Vietnamese (implementation limited to the relevant geographic and temporal scopes identified below);<sup>12445</sup> Buddhists (implementation limited to the Tram Kak Cooperatives);<sup>12446</sup> and former officials of the Khmer Republic, including both civil servants and military personnel and their families (implementation limited to Tram Kak Cooperatives, 1st January Dam Worksite, S-21 Security Centre and Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre);<sup>12447</sup> and
5. The regulation of marriage, nationwide implementation.<sup>12448</sup>

3729. The Co-Prosecutors submit that the CPK’s policies broadly served to enslave the population and persecute and kill enemies “on an industrial scale”. They submit that the policies constituted a “common plan” which was criminal in nature and which led to the commission of crimes, including extrajudicial killings, imprisonment, forced transfers, enslavement, persecution of various groups, forced marriage and sexual crimes.<sup>12449</sup>

<sup>12444</sup> Case 002 Additional Severance Decision Annex, paras 2(iii), 3(vi)-(ix); Closing Order, paras 157, 178-203 (generally), 415-474 (S-21 Security Centre), 489-514 (Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre), 589-623 (Au Kanseng Security Centre), 625-642 (Phnom Kraol Security Centre).

<sup>12445</sup> For the Cham, see Case 002 Additional Severance Decision Annex, paras 2(iv)(a), 3(xi); Closing Order, paras 157, 205-207, 211-212 (generally), 745-770, 776-789 (implementation). See below, Section 16.4.3.1: Cham. For the Vietnamese, see Case 002 Additional Severance Decision Annex, paras 2(iv)(b), 3(xii); Closing Order, paras 157, 205-207, 213-215 (generally), 791-831 (implementation). See below, Section 16.4.3.2: Vietnamese.

<sup>12446</sup> Case 002 Additional Severance Decision Annex, paras 2(iv)(c), 3(x); Closing Order, paras 157, 205-207, 210 (generally), 740-743 (implementation).

<sup>12447</sup> Case 002 Additional Severance Decision Annex, para. 2(iv)(d); Closing Order, paras 157, 205-209 (generally).

<sup>12448</sup> Case 002 Additional Severance Decision Annex, para. 2(v), 3(xiii); Closing Order, paras 157, 216-220 (generally), 842-860 (implementation).

<sup>12449</sup> Co-Prosecutors’ Closing Brief, paras 256, 261-267.

3730. The NUON Chea Defence submits that, even if an agreement to implement rapid socialist revolution through a “great leap forward” and to defend the country against enemies could be established, that common purpose was not criminal and did not lead to the commission of crimes in its implementation. It further submits that the evidence demonstrates the diametrically opposing purposes of senior CPK leaders, which militates against a finding of a plurality of persons acting in concert in the furtherance of a common purpose.<sup>12450</sup>

3731. The KHIEU Samphan Defence does not advance any submissions regarding the common purpose.<sup>12451</sup> On the basis of the Defence team’s submissions with respect to the policies underlying the charged common purpose,<sup>12452</sup> however, the Chamber interprets the KHIEU Samphan Defence to be challenging the inherent criminality of the common purpose or resultant crimes in line with its understanding of the law applicable to joint criminal enterprise.

3732. In addressing the above submissions, the Chamber will first turn to the existence of a common purpose as charged by the Closing Order before examining the “policies” pursuant to which the common purpose is charged to have been implemented. Finally, the Chamber will consider whether the crimes established at the crime base (as delimited by the Severance Decision) are attributable to the relevant policy and were therefore perpetrated in furtherance or implementation of the common purpose. The individual criminal responsibility of each Accused will be considered in the following sections.<sup>12453</sup>

---

<sup>12450</sup> NUON Chea Closing Brief, paras 355-376.

<sup>12451</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, paras 2452-2468 (see para. 2455: “Parce que KHIEU Samphân a été condamné définitivement dans 002/01 pour sa participation au régime du KD, il ne se fait aucune illusion sur l’issue de 002/02. S’il ne cessera jamais de contester les conclusions de la Chambre et de la Cour suprême sur son rôle et sur sa contribution aux crimes objet de 002/01, il ne voit aucun intérêt à développer dans 002/02 les arguments qu’il a constamment avancés et qui ne seront jamais entendus par les CETC.”).

<sup>12452</sup> See e.g., KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, paras 1147-1174 (establishment of worksites, cooperatives and the movement of populations), 1461-1486 (establishment of security centres), 1522-1526 (Buddhists), 1840-1877 (Cham), 2207-2257 (Vietnamese), 2306-2318 (Khmer Republic officials and soldiers), 2428-2439 (regulation of marriage).

<sup>12453</sup> Section 17: The Criminal Responsibility of NUON Chea; Section 18: The Criminal Responsibility of KHIEU Samphan.

16.2. Development of the Common Purpose*16.2.1. 1930 – 17 April 1975: *The Road to Socialist Revolution

3733. The intention by CPK leaders to initiate socialist revolution in Cambodia predated the 17 April 1975 “liberation” of Phnom Penh, and therefore the ECCC’s temporal jurisdiction. The Chamber incorporates by reference the relevant paragraphs of Section 3: Historical Background detailing the development of the common purpose between January 1930 and 17 April 1975.<sup>12454</sup>

16.2.2. 17 April 1975 – 6 January 1979: *The Socialist Revolution

3734. On the morning of 17 April 1975, CPK forces entered Phnom Penh under the banner of the Cambodian People’s National Liberation Armed Forces (“CPNLAF”).<sup>12455</sup> KHIEU Samphan attributed this success to the “correct political line of our Revolutionary Organisation, notably the line of independence, sovereignty, self-reliance and being master[s] of our own destiny”.<sup>12456</sup> As demonstrated in this section, senior CPK leaders including NUON Chea and KHIEU Samphan continued to support and promote this line as the basis of the Party’s socialist revolution ultimately waged throughout the entire DK period.

3735. Between 25 and 27 April 1975, KHIEU Samphan reportedly chaired a Special National Congress, which resolved that FUNK/GRUNK structures would temporarily be maintained and emphasised that no foreign military bases would be tolerated in Cambodia. It further declared the new government’s commitment to the construction of a classless society, free from exploitation, in which all would strive to build and defend the country.<sup>12457</sup> Although it is unclear to the Chamber whether this congress

<sup>12454</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, paras 196-204, 206, 208-210, 212, 214-215, 220-223, 226-227, 229-230, 233, 235.

<sup>12455</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, para. 235.

<sup>12456</sup> Speech by KHIEU Samphan at the Fifth Summit Conference of Non-Aligned Countries, E3/549, 16-19 August 1976, p. 14, ERN (En) 00644938.

<sup>12457</sup> POL Pot Interview by Yugoslavian Journalists, E3/5713, 20 March 1978, ERN (En) 00750098 (POL Pot states that, during the Special National Congress, the CPK noted the desire to build an equal, classless society devoid of exploitation “in which everyone strives to increase production and to defend the country”); Cambodia Holds ‘Special Congress’ (The Guardian), E3/3722, 21 May 1975, ERN (En) S00003467 (reporting that the Special National Congress unanimously adopted a communiqué endorsing the creation of an independent, sovereign, non-aligned state in which “the exploiting and exploited strata no longer exist”).

actually took place,<sup>12458</sup> it is satisfied that the reported resolution represented the political line espoused by the CPK at the time.

3736. Over the course of about 10 days in May 1975, Central Committee members including POL Pot, NUON Chea, KHIEU Samphan and zone secretaries met at the Silver Pagoda, located within the Royal Palace compound in Phnom Penh. During this time, reasons justifying the evacuations of the cities were provided by the Party leadership and priority was given to the need to rapidly build and defend the country through the creation of cooperatives and the construction of dams and canals.<sup>12459</sup> Thereafter, between approximately 20 and 25 May 1975, the Party leadership convened a series of mass education sessions before tens of thousands of cadres in Phnom Penh to convey the CPK's platform for leading the country. POL Pot, NUON Chea, KHIEU Samphan, IENG Thirith, SON Sen, Ta Mok and others attended at least one meeting at the Olympic Stadium, Borei Keila and/or the Khmer-Soviet Technical Institute during this time.<sup>12460</sup> POL Pot, NUON Chea and others specifically instructed representatives from all military units and all district, sector and zone secretaries on the organisation of cooperatives, the elimination of private property, the prohibition of currency and markets, and the building of dams and canals.<sup>12461</sup> Speakers further identified several

<sup>12458</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, para. 593.

<sup>12459</sup> T. 29 May 2013 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/198.1, pp. 20-21 (the Central Committee met in April or May at the Silver Pagoda, where POL Pot announced the commencement of the socialist revolution and indicated the end of the united front. Land was to become collective property and dams and canals had to be built quickly); KHIEU Samphan Interview Record, E3/27, 13 December 2007, p. 9, ERN (En) 00156749 (explanations for the evacuation of Phnom Penh were given at a meeting in the Silver Pagoda); T. 26 July 2012 (ROCHOEM Ton alias PHY Phuon), E1/97.1, pp. 69-71 (for about ten days in May 1975 at the Silver Pagoda, zone leaders attended study sessions. POL Pot and NUON Chea led the meetings, summarising the situation and outlining plans for the socialist revolution including building and defending the country and establishing cooperatives).

<sup>12460</sup> The Chamber attributes the differing accounts to the size, duration, timing and importance of these seminars and accepts that several meetings, seminars or rallies were held during this time.

<sup>12461</sup> T. 6 June 2012 (SAO Sarun), E1/82.1, pp. 24-25, 27-28, 30-35, 44-46, 57-58, 60-61 (SAO Sarun was present at a meeting lasting three days in Phnom Penh; held not long after the liberation of Phnom Penh (around 10 days after 17 April 1975). He was instructed to attend by the sector. There were people from all over the country representing the sectors, as well as the military. POL Pot and NUON Chea lectured that the country had been liberated and the people had to be led to farm rice so that starvation could be avoided. They discussed political matters, the organisation of cooperatives, the prohibition of currency, the closing of the markets, private property, building irrigation systems and the closing of monasteries); T. 11 June 2012 (SAO Sarun), E1/84.1, pp. 51-52 (participants were told to explain the content of the meeting to their bases); T. 12 June 2012 (SAO Sarun), E1/85.1, p. 71 (confirming that POL Pot spoke); T. 12 December 2012 (PHAN Van alias KHAM Phan), E1/152.1, pp. 35-37 (rally held outside the Olympic Stadium in May 1975 involving tens of thousands of participants from all over the country); T. 11 December 2012 (PHAN Van alias KHAM Phan), E1/151.1, pp. 93-94 (PHAN Van alias KHAM Phan's father attended meetings at the time of Khmer New Year and in May 1975 in Phnom Penh); T. 19 January 2016 (PRAK Yut) (CS), E1/378.1, pp. 86-90 (recalling POL Pot, Ta Mok and SAO Phim and adding that it was POL Pot who spoke); T. 20 January 2016 (PRAK Yut), E1/379.1, pp. 21-22 categories of enemy and instructed cadres on their treatment. This is discussed elsewhere in this Judgement.<sup>12462</sup>

3737. On 9 October 1975, the Standing Committee convened to assign governmental responsibilities to POL Pot, NUON Chea, KHIEU Samphan, IENG Sary, KOY Thuon, SON Sen and VORN Vet, among others.<sup>12463</sup> POL Pot reaffirmed that the “general line is to build and defend the country [...] on the force of the masses”.<sup>12464</sup>

3738. The new Constitution of Democratic Kampuchea, which came into effect on 5 January 1976, entrenched this general line. Reaffirming the resolutions adopted at the Special National Congress in April 1975, the Constitution declared DK to be a “State of the people, workers, peasants, and all other Kampuchean labourers” which “absolutely opposed to the corrupt, reactionary culture of the various oppressive classes and that of colonialism and imperialism”.<sup>12465</sup> During the Fourth Party Congress in January 1976, the Party leadership adopted a slightly amended CPK Statute which

---

(recalling 300 participants at one event); T. 21 January 2016 (PRAK Yut) (CS), E1/380.1, pp. 66-67; CHEA Sim Interview by Ben KIERNAN, E3/1568, 3 December 1991, ERN (En) 00651865-00651867 (a national meeting lasting 5 days was held in Phnom Penh on 20 May 1975 with secretaries of every district, region and zone in attendance. NUON Chea spoke on the first day; POL Pot spoke on the second. The agenda of the meeting included the party line and the principles of building socialism in DK. In ten to 15 years, the Party planned to modernise agriculture by means of scientific methods, by preparing irrigation dams and canals, and to modernise industry. POL Pot and NUON Chea spoke about eight points including the creation of cooperatives, the closure of markets and the abolition of money); HENG Samrin Interview by Ben KIERNAN, E3/1568, 2 December 1991, ERN (En) 00651880 (on 20 May 1975, there was a meeting at the Olympic Stadium to receive a plan from the Party Centre for the whole country, attended by both military and civilian officials. The plan concerned the evacuation of people and the non-circulation of money). See also, T. 16 July 2013 (Stephen HEDER), E1/224.1, pp. 103-104 (those he interviewed indicated that there was more than one meeting in more than one place and attended by “not entirely overlapping groups of people”); OUK Bunchhoeun Interview by Stephen HEDER, E3/387, undated, pp. 7-11, ERN (En) 00350206-00350210; HENG Samrin Interview by Ben KIERNAN, E3/1568, 2 December 1991, ERN (En) 00651883-00651885; CHEA Sim Interview by Ben KIERNAN, E3/1568, 3 December 1991, ERN (En) 00651865-00651866.

<sup>12462</sup> For the identification of general categories of enemies, see below, paras 3942-3943. For the treatment of Buddhists, see Section 10.1.9: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Treatment of Buddhists. For the treatment of Khmer Republic soldiers and officials, see below, para. 4038. See also, Section 10.1.6.3: Tram Kak Cooperatives, Instructions in relation to Evacuees and former Khmer Republic Officials. For the treatment of the Vietnamese, see Section 13.3.5: Targeting of the Vietnamese. For the treatment of the Cham, see Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham.

<sup>12463</sup> Standing Committee Minutes, E3/1733 [E3/1612, E3/182 and E3/183], 9 October 1975, ERN (En) 00183393-00183394, 00183402. See also, Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 396.

<sup>12464</sup> Standing Committee Minutes, E3/1733 [E3/1612, E3/182 and E3/183], 9 October 1975, pp. 1-2, 13, ERN (En) 00183393-00183394, 00183405.

<sup>12465</sup> DK Constitution, E3/259, 5 January 1976, ERN (En) 00184833-00184835 (Preamble (reaffirming the desire for an independent, sovereign and equal society “without rich or poor and without exploiters or [the] exploited”, in which all people “join forces to do manual labour together and increase production for the construction and defence of the country”), Articles 1 (“The State of Kampuchea is a State of the people, workers, peasants, and all other Kampuchean labourers”), 3 (“The culture of Democratic Kampuchea [...] will serve the tasks of defending and building Kampuchea into an ever more prosperous country”). See also, Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 412.

reinforced the need to continue taking major strides in the socialist revolution by implementing Marxism-Leninism with the aim of moving toward communism in the future; building and defending the country; continuing the class struggle against non-proletarian world views, the petty bourgeoisie, capitalists, feudalists, imperialists and all reactionaries; and rapidly striving toward prosperity pursuant to the principles of independence and self-reliance. It also declared the CPK as the highest organisation of the peasants and army.<sup>12466</sup> The political line was further echoed in the CPK Youth League Statute, also adopted in early 1976.<sup>12467</sup>

3739. On 30 March 1976, the CPK Central Committee declared all state organisations, including the government, subordinate to the Party. It also designated national holidays and celebrations, including independence celebrations (15-17 April), intended to incite “resolution to build and defend the country in a great miraculous leap”.<sup>12468</sup> The objective of achieving a “great and magnificent leap” was again promoted by KHIEU Samphan at the first session of the People’s Representative Assembly, held between 11 and 13 April 1976. At the meeting, which was attended by POL Pot, NUON Chea, IENG Thirith and other CPK leaders, KHIEU Samphan endorsed the priority of building and defending an independent and self-reliant country quickly while continuing the class struggle against imperialism, colonialism and other “oppressor classes”.<sup>12469</sup> The Assembly also unanimously resolved to mobilise “the entire people” to maximise rice production “ever higher and ever faster” to build the country “in a great and miraculous leap”.<sup>12470</sup> The need to be “on the offensive” and make a “great leap forward” rapidly to achieve socialist goals was further promoted throughout the

<sup>12466</sup> CPK Statute, E3/130 [E3/214], January 1976, ERN (En) 00184024-00184025 (Articles 1-5).

<sup>12467</sup> Statute of the Communist Youth League of Kampuchea, E3/1607, January 1976, ERN (En) 00574535-00574537 (Articles 2, 4-11).

<sup>12468</sup> Decision of the Central Committee Regarding a Number of Matters, E3/12, 30 March 1976, pp. 4-6, ERN (En) 00182812-00182814 (noting that state organisations are “totally of our Party” and that the government “must be totally an organisation of the Party, directly of our state”). See also, Section 5: Administrative Structures, paras 412-414.

<sup>12469</sup> Document on Conference of Legislature, E3/165, 11-13 April 1976, pp. 5-9, ERN (En) 00184052-00184056. The Chamber has already found that the elections, as well as the PRA itself, were a façade. See Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 413; Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 537.

<sup>12470</sup> Document on Conference of Legislature, E3/165, 11-13 April 1976, pp. 24, ERN (En) 00184071 (“After careful discussion of all matters raised in the agenda, the Assembly made the following unanimous decisions”), 29, ERN (En) 00184076 (“Further strengthen and expand the force of great national solidarity and the entire people to be on the offensive on every battlefield of production in every sector, especially in agriculture, aiming to produce the maximum amount of rice to solve and raise the livelihood of the people ever higher and ever faster, and along with this to push the building of our country even faster in a great and miraculous leap.”).

DK period in the Revolutionary Flag and Revolutionary Youth magazines,<sup>12471</sup> and was internally endorsed by Standing Committee members.<sup>12472</sup> POL Pot, NUON Chea, KHIEU Samphan and other senior leaders further lectured cadres at mass study sessions on the need to work harder, “eat less” and “rest less” and fulfil the Party’s goals “at all costs”.<sup>12473</sup>

3740. The Standing Committee continued to meet regularly throughout the DK period to discuss the implementation of the Party’s political line and administration of the country.<sup>12474</sup> Senior CPK leaders who were not members of the Standing Committee, <sup>12471</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Youth, E3/146, August-September 1974, pp. 10-11, ERN (En) 00538741-00538742; Revolutionary Flag, E3/5, August 1975, pp. 2, 12, 20, 29, ERN (En) 00401477, 00401487, 00401495, 00401504; Revolutionary Youth, E3/728, September 1975, pp. 6-7, ERN (En) 00773401-00773402; Revolutionary Flag, E3/166, February-March 1976, pp. 22-25, 34-36, ERN (En) 00517834-00517836, 00517846-00517848; Revolutionary Youth, E3/733, May 1976, ERN (En) 00184256; Revolutionary Flag, E3/760, June 1976, p. 25, ERN (En) 00509628; Revolutionary Flag, E3/762, August 1976, pp. 3-9, ERN (En) 00486744-00486750; Revolutionary Youth, E3/755, September 1976, pp. 21-22, ERN (En) 00509656-00509657; Revolutionary Youth, E3/758, December 1976, p. 31, ERN (En) 00544887; Revolutionary Flag, E3/135, June 1977, pp. 28-29, ERN (En) 00446873-00446874; Revolutionary Flag, E3/743, July 1977, pp. 3-4, ERN (En) 00476158-00476159; Revolutionary Youth, E3/772, September 1977, pp. 16-23, ERN (En) 00541715-00541722; Revolutionary Flag, E3/4604, April 1978, pp. 18-19, ERN (En) 00519846-00519847; Revolutionary Flag, E3/746, July 1978, pp. 3, 7, ERN (En) 00428291, 00428295; Revolutionary Flag, E3/215, September 1978, p. 24, ERN (En) 00488637; Revolutionary Youth, E3/766, November 1978, p. 12, ERN (En) 00524173.

<sup>12472</sup> See e.g., Standing Committee Minutes, E3/228, 9 January 1976, p. 3, ERN (En) 00182616 (unaccredited speaker); Standing Committee Minutes, E3/224, 30 May 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00182667 (by POL Pot, with NUON Chea, KHIEU Samphan, VORN Vet and SON Sen in attendance).

<sup>12473</sup> T. 23 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/113.1, pp. 80-83 (training session at Borei Keila which stressed the importance of a “great leap forward” at which POL Pot, NUON Chea, KHIEU Samphan, HU Nim and YUN Yat were present); T. 27 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/115.1, pp. 28 (stating KHIEU Samphan and NUON Chea were present), 31-32, 45-46 (KHIEU Samphan indicated that, “to uncover the traitors of the Revolution and the infiltrated enemies, we were asked to understand the -- how to work more, eat less, rest less”), 47 (cadres urged to accomplish Angkar’s directions “at all costs”); T. 20 September 2012 (CHEA Say), E1/124.1, pp. 29-34, 71 (NUON Chea and KHIEU Samphan lectured on “the economisation and on strengthening or working hard”, including “working hard to build the country”); T. 3 July 2013 (EK Hen), E1/217.1, pp. 42-44 (study session “started with [KHIEU Samphan] explaining and instructing the workers to strive harder in our work in order to assist our country. [...] He did not want us to argue [with] each other, but rather to consolidate and strive to work hard to build the country, as the war had just ended.”). See also, T. 25 July 2012 (ROCHOEM Ton alias PHY Phuon), E1/96.1, pp. 76-78 (KHIEU Samphan and NUON Chea were among the presenters who taught “how to follow the principle of national democratic revolution and the organisational position, or stance.”), T. 1 August 2012 (ROCHOEM Ton alias PHY Phuon), E1/100.1, pp. 95-96 (KHIEU Samphan lectured on “the situation inside and outside the country and the situation after the liberation. And besides that, he talked about the socialist revolution [and the] revolutionary life view”); T. 7 August 2012 (ONG Thong Hoeung), E1/103.1, p. 99 (witness was told by his wife that, at K-15, KHIEU Samphan lectured that “Cambodia is being developed and it needs the resources, and also that we had to build ourselves”).

<sup>12474</sup> Section 5.1.2: Standing Committee and Central Committee.

including KHIEU Samphan,<sup>12475</sup> IENG Thirith,<sup>12476</sup> KOY Thuon,<sup>12477</sup> SAO Phim,<sup>12478</sup> NEY Sarann alias Ya,<sup>12479</sup> KANG Chap alias Se,<sup>12480</sup> RUOS Nhim and KE Pauk<sup>12481</sup> also took part in meetings where matters of the political line, foreign affairs, commerce and trade, national defence, social affairs and economic affairs including agricultural production were discussed.

3741. In September 1976, POL Pot was provisionally relieved of his duties as Prime Minister, reportedly for health reasons, and NUON Chea served as interim Prime Minister until September 1977.<sup>12482</sup> POL Pot reappeared at a mass rally on 27 September 1977, where he publicly announced the existence of the CPK. At the rally, reportedly attended by CPK Central Committee members and cadres from “all departments”, POL Pot confirmed the Party line of independence, sovereignty and self-reliance; the development of a worker-peasant state built on collectivism and socialist class struggle; the need to defend and build the country quickly through cooperatives and construction initiatives; and opposition to imperialists, feudalists, capitalists, reactionaries, counter-revolutionary elements and enemies generally.<sup>12483</sup> Although the Party publicly celebrated 1960 as its founding year at this and other events, this was an illusory campaign designed to suppress its origins: the CPK had earlier resolved to dissociate itself from its 1951 reconstitution as the KPRP, and therefore its connection with the Vietnamese-dominated ICP. This revisionist policy is evident from early

<sup>12475</sup> Section 8.3.3: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan: Membership of the Central and Standing Committees.

<sup>12476</sup> See e.g., Standing Committee Minutes, E3/226, 10 June 1976, ERN (En) 00183363-00183373.

<sup>12477</sup> See e.g., Standing Committee Minutes, E3/227, 2 November 1975, ERN (En) 00183409-00183415; Standing Committee Minutes regarding national defence matters, E3/229, 22 February 1976, ERN (En) 00182625-00182627; Standing Committee Minutes regarding economic matters, E3/230, 22 February 1976, ERN (En) 00182546-00182547; Standing Committee Minutes, E3/238, 28 February 1976, ERN (En) 00424112-00424115; Standing Committee Minutes regarding the eastern frontier, E3/217, 11 March 1976, ERN (En) 00182635-00182637; Standing Committee Minutes, E3/233, 13 March 1976, ERN (En) 00182649-00182650.

<sup>12478</sup> See e.g., Standing Committee Minutes (copied by C.E. Goscha), E3/10693, 10, 11 and 13 April 1977, ERN (En) 01324075-01324082.

<sup>12479</sup> See e.g., Standing Committee Minutes, E3/218, 26 March 1976, ERN (En) 00182651-00182657; Standing Committee Minutes, E3/221, 14 May 1976, ERN (En) 00182693-00182705; Standing Committee Minutes, E3/223, 17 May 1976, ERN (En) 00182708-00182714.

<sup>12480</sup> See e.g., Standing Committee Minutes, E3/221, 14 May 1976, ERN (En) 00182693-00182705; Standing Committee Minutes, E3/223, 17 May 1976, ERN (En) 00182708-00182714.

<sup>12481</sup> See e.g., Standing Committee excerpts (Document 21.5.23 from PRT Trial), E3/7328, 11 April 1977, ERN (En) 01002086-01002086.

<sup>12482</sup> Section 7.4.2: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea: Acting Prime Minister.

<sup>12483</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/11, September 1977, pp. 3-54, ERN (En) 00486214-00486265; 27 Sep Mass Meeting, Pol Pot Speech Mark KCP Anniversary (in FBIS collection), E3/143, ERN (En) 00168771-00168776.

publications of the Revolutionary Flag and internal meeting records,<sup>12484</sup> and was confirmed by NUON Chea at trial.<sup>12485</sup>

3742. Between 1 and 2 November 1978, the CPK held its Fifth Party Congress at which agriculture, economics and defence continued to be the main focus.<sup>12486</sup> The Party line was variously promoted, confirmed, supported and endorsed in speeches, interviews, statements and meetings by POL Pot,<sup>12487</sup> NUON Chea,<sup>12488</sup> KHIEU

<sup>12484</sup> Decision of Central Committee Regarding a Number of Matters, E3/12, 30 March 1976, p. 2, ERN (En) 00182810 (the Central Committee decided to: “Designate the birth of the Party back to 1960, not using 1951, in order to not let it get attached to others – to be clearly separate”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/5, August 1975, p. 16, ERN (En) 00401491 (“The strategic and tactical lines of the Communist Party of Kampuchea were clearly and fundamentally correctly drawn up in 1960 during the First Party General Assembly (even though it is true that our Party was created in 1951)”). Cf. Revolutionary Flag, E3/10, September-October 1976, p. 5, ERN (En) 00450505 (“In 1951, we set up a temporary organisation in order to prepare to create a Party. At that time, the Party had not yet been born. We just set up the preconditions to organise a Party.”). See also, Section 3: Historical Background, paras 198, 204.

<sup>12485</sup> T. 5 December 2011 (Accused NUON Chea), E1/16.1, p. 65.

<sup>12486</sup> Fifth Party Congress Meeting Minutes, E3/816, 1-2 November 1978, pp. 1-3, ERN (En) 00281339-00281341 (committees established or re-appointed included the Central Committee Economics Committee (POL Pot and Ta Mok as chairman and vice-chairman; IENG Sary, VORN Vet and KHIEU Samphan as members), Military Staff Committee (POL Pot as chairman, SOU Met, Ta Mok and Ruonn [SAO Saroeun] as permanent members), Rubber Plantation Committee and the Economy and Planning Committee (VORN Vet listed but without a title. He was purged in the aftermath of the Fifth Congress. See Section 12.2.8.5.2: S-21 Security Centre: VORN Vet)). See also, Book by P. Short: Pol Pot: The History of a Nightmare, E3/9, p. 392, ERN (En) 00396600 (stating that VORN Vet was sent to S-21 a day after the Congress).

<sup>12487</sup> See e.g., Standing Committee Minutes regarding Sihanouk’s resignation, E3/197, 11 March 1976, p. 4, ERN (En) 00182641 (“Opinions of Comrade Secretary”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/11, September 1977, pp. 3-54, ERN (En) 00486214-00486265; Text of Pol Pot Speech at 27 Sep KCP Anniversary Meeting (in FBIS collection), E3/290, 28 September 1977, ERN (En) 00168617-00168654; POL Pot Interview by Yugoslav Journalists (Journal of Contemporary Asia), POL Pot Speech at 10th Anniversary of the Founding of the RAK, E3/349, 17 January 1978, ERN (En) S00012699-S00012722; POL Pot Interview by Yugoslavian Journalists, E3/5713, 20 March 1978, pp. 1-8, ERN (En) 00750097-00750104; 27 Sep Phnom Penh Meeting Celebrates KCP 18th Anniversary: Pol Pot Speech (in FBIS collection), E3/76, 29 September 1978, ERN (En) 00170446-00170469.

<sup>12488</sup> See e.g., Document on Conference of Legislature, E3/165, 11-13 April 1976, pp. 24-30, ERN (En) 00184071-00184077; Nuon Chea Speaks on Cambodian Army Anniversary (in FBIS collection), E3/147, 17 January 1977, ERN (En) 00168465-00168470; Revolutionary Flag, E3/11, September 1977, p. 20, ERN (En) 00486231 (“A country association was organised [in 1955] to whip up the worker movement. The Comrade Deputy Secretary of our Party was given the task of leading this movement.”); Standing Committee Minutes, E3/218, 26 March 1976, p. 6, ERN (En) 00182656 (“Opinions and instructions from Comrade Deputy Secretary” instructing members to: “Keep implementing the measures of the Party, political, military and diplomatic.”); NUON Chea Speech at TENG Ying-Tchao Banquet (DK News Bulletin), E3/78, 18 January 1978, p. 7, ERN (En) 00290285; NUON Chea Speech to the Communist Workers’ Party of Denmark, E3/196, July 1978, ERN (En) 00762391-00762398. See also, Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 542.

Samphan,<sup>12489</sup> IENG Sary,<sup>12490</sup> SON Sen<sup>12491</sup> and VORN Vet<sup>12492</sup> throughout the DK period.

3743. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that by 17 April 1975, and continuing until at least 6 January 1979, senior CPK leaders including POL Pot, NUON Chea and KHIEU Samphan among others, shared the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution in Cambodia through a “great leap forward” designed to build the country, defend it from enemies and radically transform the population into a homogenous Khmer society of worker-peasants. The Chamber observes that the common purpose does not have as its primary objective the commission of crimes, as such, and cannot therefore “amount to” such under the applicable law.<sup>12493</sup> Nevertheless, and as detailed further below, the successful implementation of the common purpose – and therefore the transformation of the country into a pure,

<sup>12489</sup> See e.g., Khieu Samphan 21 Apr Victory Message on Phnom Penh Radio (in FBIS collection), E3/118, 21 April 1975, ERN (En) 00166995-00166996; Khieu Samphan Interview by Kampuchea News Agency Representative, E3/4588, 12 August 1975, pp. 1-4, ERN (En) 00878358-00878361; Reception for Sihanouk: Speeches by Khieu Samphan and Sihanouk (in SWB/FE/5006/B collection), E3/711, 11 September 1975, ERN (En) S00003732-S00003733; Khieu Samphan Speech at Fifth Summit Conference of Non-Aligned Countries, E3/549, 16-19 August 1976, pp. 4-21, ERN (En) 00644931-00644941; Khieu Samphan’s Speech at Anniversary Meeting (in SWB/FE/5490/C collection), E3/200, 15 April 1977, ERN (En) S00004164-S00004165, S00004169 (“We must uphold our spirit of revolutionary vigilance at all times against the enemy from all quarters, both at home and abroad”); Radio Reports More on Visit of LPDR’s Souphanouvong: Khieu Samphan’s Address (in FBIS collection), E3/1497, 20 December 1977, ERN (En) 00168379-00168380; Third Anniversary Celebrated at 15 April Mass Rally: Khieu Samphan Statement (in FBIS collection), E3/1361, 16 April 1978, ERN (En) 00168813-00168814, 00168818-00168819; Sihanouk Attends, Khieu Samphan Addresses KCP Banquet (in FBIS collection), E3/294, 30 September 1978, ERN (En) 00170170; Government Statement Appeals for Aid to Combat SRV Aggression (in FBIS collection), E3/296, 1 January 1979, ERN (En) 00169296. See also, Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, para. 607.

<sup>12490</sup> See e.g., Phoun Sipaseut, Ieng Sary Speak at 15 Dec Phnom Penh Banquet: Ieng Sary Speech (in FBIS collection), E3/1356, 18 December 1975, ERN (En) 00167583-00167584; Leaders Receive SRV Journalists Delegation: Ieng Sary Speech (in FBIS collection), E3/278, 21 July 1976, ERN (En) 00167879; Ieng Sary Hosts Banquet for Burmese Delegation: Ieng Sary Speech (in FBIS collection), E3/143, 31 August 1977, ERN (En) 00168723; IENG Sary Speech at UN General Assembly, E3/607, 5 October 1976, pp. 6-8, ERN (En) 00586803-00586805; IENG Sary Speech at UN General Assembly, E3/1586, 11 October 1977, paras 34, 44-45, 48, ERN (En) 00079811, 00079812-00079813; IENG Sary Speech at UN General Assembly, E3/547, 9 June 1978, pp. 31-32, ERN (En) 00081532-00081533; UN ECOSOC Document: Telegram from IENG Sary to Commission on Human Rights, E3/4605, 20 September 1978, ERN (En) 00095649.

<sup>12491</sup> See e.g., Speeches Mark Sihanouk’s Return: Son Sen Welcome Speech (in FBIS collection), E3/271, 10 September 1975, ERN (En) 00167442-00167443; PRC Charge in Phnom Penh Hosts National Day Reception: Son Sen’s Speech (in FBIS collection), E3/290, 30 September 1977, ERN (En) 00168616.

<sup>12492</sup> See e.g., Fang I Friendship Delegation Arrives 24 Dec: Vorn Vet Speech (in FBIS collection), E3/283, 26 December 1976, ERN (En) 00167745-00167746; PRC Minister Speaks at Phnom Penh Banquet 2 Jan: Vorn Vet Speech (in FBIS collection), E3/147, 3 January 1977, ERN (En) 00168448-00168449; Banquet Speeches by Chen Yung-Kuei and Vorn Vet: Excerpts from Speech by Vorn Vet (in SWB/FE/5695/A3 collection), E3/2730, 14 December 1977, ERN (En) 00390995.

<sup>12493</sup> Section 15.2: Applicable Law: Individual Criminal Responsibility: Commission through a Joint Criminal Enterprise, para. 3709. See also, Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, para. 808.

revolutionary society – was contingent upon the execution of harmful policies and the elimination of all counter-revolutionary elements perceived to be inhibiting the Party or the progress of the socialist revolution. In Section 16.3 the Chamber will assess the categories of real or perceived enemies whose elimination was central to the common purpose. The ultimate determination of whether the common purpose involved the commission of crimes, and therefore whether it was criminal in character, will be made upon examination of its implementation through the charged policies (Section 16.4: Implementation of the Common Purpose).

16.3. Real or Perceived Enemies

16.3.1. Chronological Overview of the CPK's Notion of Enemies

3744. This section provides a chronological overview of contemporaneous documentary evidence relating to the CPK's notion of enemies, followed by a factual analysis of that evidence. As a general introduction, the Chamber notes that this section will demonstrate that throughout the DK era so-called enemies were discussed continuously and at length during meetings at various levels: in telegrams, at study sessions, in speeches, in CPK publications and in other contemporaneous documents such as notebooks and policy directives. As further shown below, the concept of the "enemy" encompassed those who were perceived as opposing in fact or ideologically the communist revolution. Individuals would be classified as such based on their real or perceived association with a particular group or class, or as a consequence of having engaged in particular real or perceived counter-revolutionary behaviour, which could range from stealing food to disseminating leaflets critical of the regime. Enemies also encompassed foreign (including neighbouring) countries and their nationals. From early on, a distinction between internal enemies (that is, from within the country and the CPK) and external enemies (including Thai, Vietnamese, KGB and CIA) was made.

3745. For the purposes of this chronological overview, the Chamber has considered the numerous contemporaneous documents it has before it. In this regard, the Chamber finds internal, contemporaneous documents, on which it relies for its substance, to have significant probative value.<sup>12494</sup> These include Standing Committee meeting minutes; other DK meeting minutes, including of meetings of the Deputy Secretaries and Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, and of the Council of Ministers; DK notebooks, including a notebook described as IENG Sary's diary; policy documents and telegrams.

<sup>12494</sup> Section 2: Preliminary Issues, para. 57. See also, Section 5: Administrative Structures, paras 349-350; Section 6: Communication Structures, paras 470-472, 479.

3746. With respect the notebook which the Chamber refers to as the IENG Sary diary, the Chamber notes the following. The diary, which follows the activities of IENG Sary, appears on the Case File in English as "IENG Sary's Regime: The Diary of the Khmer Rouge Foreign Ministry, 1976-1979" translated by PHAT Kosal and Prof. Ben KIERNAN.<sup>12495</sup> The unsigned diary was found in early 1979 by KHIEU Kanharith in a house that apparently had been recently vacated by IENG Sary. In 1986, Minister KHIEU Kanharith allowed Prof. KIERNAN to copy it.<sup>12496</sup> The diary, with entries ranging from 21 May 1976 to 1 August 1978, contains a summary record of speeches and documents prepared by or distributed by IENG Sary, recording internal meetings held at the DK Foreign Ministry in May and July of 1976. The contents of the diary are consistent with other contemporaneous CPK documents.<sup>12497</sup> Considering IENG Sary's prominent role within the upper echelon of the CPK, the substance of these meetings provides important insight into CPK policies and deliberations.

3747. With respect to contemporaneous documents intended to be used for external communication purposes or as material for ideological training, the Chamber is mindful of the fact that these may contain propaganda. They include CPK publications, such as the Revolutionary Flag and Revolutionary Youth; FBIS and SWB records of DK radio broadcasts and any other record of public appearances by CPK leaders, either in DK or abroad. Regarding the Revolutionary Flag and the Revolutionary Youth, the Chamber is mindful of the fact that these educational magazines, while contemporaneous evidence intended for CPK members, were disseminated more widely than other internal, contemporaneous CPK documents such as meeting minutes, notebooks, policy documents and telegrams, and may therefore contain propaganda. The Chamber will keep this in mind when assessing such evidence. Regarding FBIS and SWB records, while the Chamber is aware that these are transcriptions translated into English of original broadcasts in Khmer of which the audio recordings are not available to the Chamber, it notes that many of the speeches contained within FBIS and SWB reports may be compared with the same speeches that appear in DK contemporaneous publications. The Chamber considers the FBIS and SWB compilations to be important evidence. Nonetheless, given the indirect nature of this evidence the Chamber will only rely on it when sufficiently corroborated by other evidence.<sup>12498</sup>

<sup>12495</sup> IENG Sary's Diary, E3/522 [E3/925 and E3/926], undated.

<sup>12496</sup> IENG Sary's Diary, E3/522 [E3/925 and E3/926], undated, pp. 3-4, ERN (En) 00003239-00003240; Letter from Ben Kiernan to Office of Co-Investigating Judges, D269/9/1, 30 April 2010, ERN (En) 00517677-00517678.

<sup>12497</sup> See e.g., IENG Sary's Diary, E3/522 [E3/925 and E3/926], undated, pp. 40-44, ERN (En) 00003276-00003280 (recording on 30 November 1976 "Documents on Consciousness", including "(1) socialist revolution; (2) class contradictions; (3) authority of the proletarian class; (4) private property; (5) dialectical materialism"). See also, Revolutionary Flag, E3/10, September-October 1976, pp. 18-47, ERN (En) 00450518-00450547 (setting out "five fundamental ideological and strategic documents for all comrades in the Party" which are "(1) socialist revolution in every field; (2) class contradictions; (3) state power and dictatorship of the proletarian class; (4) private ownership of classes opposed to collective ownership of proletarian class; (5) dialectical materialism"). The consistency between these two documents serves to buttress the reliability of the IENG Sary Diary.

3748. In addition, various witnesses testified in relation to specific documents or events discussed therein. These witnesses were called to testify with respect to particular crime sites and the Chamber accordingly addresses their reliability and credibility in the relevant sections of the Judgement. They also gave evidence relevant to some of the documents discussed in this section and the topic of real or perceived enemies. They include Duch,<sup>12499</sup> PECH Chim,<sup>12500</sup> NETH Savat,<sup>12501</sup> SAO Sarun,<sup>12502</sup> MEAS Voeng,<sup>12503</sup> SUONG Sikoeun,<sup>12504</sup> OM Chy<sup>12505</sup> and PRUM Sarat.<sup>12506</sup>

16.3.1.1. Pre-1975

3749. The pre-DK draft CPK Statute lists the English, Japanese, German and Australian imperialists as the “imperialists [who] are absolutely the enemies of our nation and people”. It notes these were only a small number – 1,500 people – but that

<sup>12498</sup> Section 6: Communication Structures, paras 469-472.

<sup>12499</sup> See e.g., Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2080-2082.

<sup>12500</sup> See e.g., Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 818.

<sup>12501</sup> See e.g., Section 12.5: Phnom Kraol Security Centre, para. 3020.

<sup>12502</sup> See e.g., Section 12.5: Phnom Kraol Security Centre, para. 3020.

<sup>12503</sup> See e.g., Section 6: Communication Structures, paras 512, 516; Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, paras 3395, 3412, 3456.

<sup>12504</sup> See e.g., Section 3: Historical Background, para. 400; Section 6: Communication Structures, para. 481; Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, para. 623; Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2240, 2325.

<sup>12505</sup> See e.g., Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, paras 1450, 1468, 1501, 1513, 1525, 1531, 1540, 1553, 1563, 1570-1571, 1578, 1586, 1590, 1593, 1617, 1651.

<sup>12506</sup> See e.g., Section 4: General Overview, para. 290; Section 6: Communication Structures, paras 463, 510.

they had joined forces with the ruling class in Cambodia, namely the feudalists and capitalists.<sup>12507</sup>

3750. An undated notebook containing a CPK analysis of social classes in Cambodian society before 1975 explains that there were two categories of feudalists: the feudal class of nobles and the feudal class of landlords. The former included members of the royal family and powerful, high-ranking officials; the latter included the many landlords in rural Cambodian society.<sup>12508</sup> Other classes were: the capitalist class; the petty bourgeoisie class (with whom peasants and workers could work well together); the peasant class; and the labour class. Other separate classes included: monks (regarded as similar to the peasant class, but living “their lives as dependants of others from all classes, especially the peasant class”); intellectuals (“afraid of hardship and prolonged revolutionary struggle”); police and soldiers (“the armed forces of class enemy”, who are “absolutely reactionary”); and “various ethnic classes” (such as the “Champa ethnic group and Thai”, who were also “divided into many classes according to economic status”).<sup>12509</sup> With regard to monks, the document also notes that “high-ranking monks” are close to the high class and therefore have “high class political influence”, while (especially low class) monks are nationalistic and “love democracy”.<sup>12510</sup> The document additionally states that all party members and revolutionists must “have to absolutely prove loyalty to the Party’s labour class and avoid showing any allegiance to other classes like the petty bourgeoisie class, average or rich peasant class, feudal class, and foreign imperialism”.<sup>12511</sup>

<sup>12507</sup> Draft CPK Statute, E3/8380, undated, p. 40, ERN (En) 00940602 (handwritten copy 1972).

<sup>12508</sup> Notebook, E3/1233, undated, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 00711612-00711613 (the feudal class of nobles encompassed the royal family and high-ranking officials who were powerful, including the King, provincial governors and District governors), 4, ERN (En) 00711614 (the petty bourgeoisie class also included civil servants), 8, ERN (En) 00711618 (the police and soldier class were a special class who used weapons to serve the dictatorship, they were the tool of the armed forces of class enemy and were “absolutely reactionary”).

<sup>12509</sup> Notebook, E3/1233, undated, pp. 3-8, ERN (En) 00711613-00711618. Regarding “various ethnic classes” it was noted at p. 8, ERN (En) 00711618: “All the ethnic people in Cambodian society are divided into classes. Generally speaking various ethnic people are in the peasant class. However, like Khmer, Champa ethnic group and Thai are divided into many classes according to economic status. As for ethnic groups living in forests and very rural areas and having insufficient means, politically speaking, they are very good and important fighters for our Revolution”.

<sup>12510</sup> Notebook, E3/1233, undated, p. 7, ERN (En) 00711617.

<sup>12511</sup> Notebook, E3/1233, undated, p. 9, ERN (En) 00711619.

16.3.1.2. 1975

3751. An undated document (seemingly authored by “LONG Ya”) from the DK era entitled “Viewpoint on Kampuchea following 17 April 1975” identifies people who lived or studied abroad as a threat to the revolution. The document notes that “some people who have lived or studied abroad have been convinced to return to the country in order to find any gap and infiltrate into our Revolution”.<sup>12512</sup> It also notes that the CPK’s enemy was LON Nol and that they were to fight and destroy him. To achieve this, the document notes “we must equip people with the anger of the classes”.<sup>12513</sup> The CPK’s “morality towards the oppressing classes” was to “hate each of the oppressing and hidden classes. We must work against them according to the Party’s line by destroying Fascist cruel people; terminating such a regime.”<sup>12514</sup>

3752. In the beginning of the DK era, despite ongoing armed hostilities with Vietnam to the east,<sup>12515</sup> the CPK’s focus with respect to enemies was on Thailand, the western border and internal enemies especially those being former Khmer Republic soldiers and officials and those having counter-revolutionary behaviour. On 4 June 1975, Comrade Pin of the Special Zone (alias KHOEM Pin, later Secretary of Division 703),<sup>12516</sup> ordered the execution of 17 former Khmer Republic officials whom the Party had decided to “smash”; identified members of their families as “traitors”; and “asked” all cadres “to implement this policy of the Party”.<sup>12517</sup>

3753. On 22 July 1975, a conference took place with the Revolutionary Army of Kampuchea (“RAK”).<sup>12518</sup> The “comrade chairman of the High Level Military Committee” stressed the importance for the RAK to defend the entire country, noted

<sup>12512</sup> DK Notes entitled Viewpoint on Kampuchea following 17 April 1975, E3/1235, undated, p. 2, ERN (En) 00707612.

<sup>12513</sup> DK Notes entitled Viewpoint on Kampuchea following 17 April 1975, E3/1235, undated, p. 7, ERN (En) 00707617.

<sup>12514</sup> DK Notes entitled Viewpoint on Kampuchea following 17 April 1975, E3/1235, undated, p. 8, ERN (En) 00707618.

<sup>12515</sup> Section 4: General Overview, paras 282-284.

<sup>12516</sup> List of Participants of the 1st General Staff Training, E3/1585 [E3/10574.1], 20 October 1976, p. 11, ERN (En) 00897659; Book by Huy V.: The Khmer Rouge Division 703: From Victory to Self-destruction, E3/2116 [E3/2117], 4 June 2003, pp. 6, 49-50, 171, ERN (En) 00081291, 00081334-00081335, 00081456.

<sup>12517</sup> Execution Order, E3/832, 4 June 1975, ERN (En) 00068915.

<sup>12518</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/5, August 1975, p. 13, ERN (En) 00401488.

that “we will continue to smash the defeated enemy remnants to consolidate our victory”, and urged to continue to “smash” internal and external enemies.<sup>12519</sup>

3754. In August 1975, the Standing Committee visited the Northwest Zone. The record of this visit discusses the “[e]nemy situation” and makes a distinction between “A. Border activities” and “B. Internal activities”. In relation to border activities, it mentions that the IN Tam group, allegedly supported by the Thai and the Americans, had been active along the border with Thailand.<sup>12520</sup> The IN Tam group was said to have come three kilometres into DK to cultivate rice, but “we are seeking to eradicate them”. In relation to internal activities, the record notes that there were spies amongst “the railway works (new workers)”,<sup>12521</sup> who “conduct psychological warfare and sabotage” and encourage people to flee the country and cross the border into Thailand. The record notes that these internal enemies were being sought and arrested, but that not all had been purged yet.<sup>12522</sup>

3755. In the August 1975 issue of the Revolutionary Flag, the struggle between March 1970 and March 1975 is described as “the struggles of the Party in the economic-financial sector with the enemy, the feudalists-capitalists and their henchmen”.<sup>12523</sup> In addition, the issue repeatedly refers to “the LON Nol traitors”.<sup>12524</sup>

3756. Policy Document No. 3 dated 19 September 1975 speaks of the American imperialists and Thailand as real threats, and of Vietnam as an enemy not to worry about.<sup>12525</sup> Money is described as something that not only leads to private ownership, which means a separation from the collective, but that could also be used by the enemy to bribe cadre.<sup>12526</sup> With respect to raising capital for the bases, it also notes “[t]he new group cannot be guaranteed. If later on a world war occurs, we cannot rely on the group

<sup>12519</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/5, August 1975, p. 26, ERN (En) 00401501.

<sup>12520</sup> IN Tam had been a general and politician associated with the LON Nol government. He was considered one of the “seven traitors”. See Section 3: Historical Background, para. 231, fn. 556; Book by P. Short: Pol Pot: The History of a Nightmare, E3/9, pp. 214, 259-260, ERN (En) 00396414, 00396467-00396468.

<sup>12521</sup> The phrase “new workers” was sometimes used to refer to certain “new people”. See below, para. 3848.

<sup>12522</sup> Record of the Standing Committee’s visit to the Northwest Zone, E3/216, 20-24 August 1975, p. 1, ERN (En) 00850973.

<sup>12523</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/5, August 1975, p. 3, ERN (En) 00401478.

<sup>12524</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/5, August 1975, pp. 18, 20, ERN (En) 00401493, 00401495.

<sup>12525</sup> DK Policy Document No. 3, E3/1765, 19 September 1975, p. 17, ERN (En) 00523585.

<sup>12526</sup> DK Policy Document No. 3, E3/1765, 19 September 1975, p. 18, ERN (En) 00523586.

who lived comfortably; we can only depend upon our poor base people.”<sup>12527</sup> The Chamber understands the “new group” to refer to the “New People” or “17 April People”.

3757. Policy Document No. 6, dated 22 September 1975, notes a more nuanced stance toward New People:

We must not treat them, as in the past, as capitalists, university students, former officials, students, petty bourgeoisies, traders, and national capitalists, compradors because they have joined our circle [side]. We are fully competent to grab hold of them. We must organize livelihood meetings and continuous education sessions for them, so that most of them can be changed quickly.<sup>12528</sup>

The document also notes that “most of the monks, from 90 to 95 percent of them, abandoned their monkhood” and now worked in rice fields. People no longer went to pagoda’s or offered alms to monks; “[t]his [religious] practice has disappeared [...] [s]o, this special layer [of society] will no longer cause any worry”.<sup>12529</sup>

3758. An introductory document for party members containing strategies on ideologies recalls the Party’s September 1975 decision that “no other class stratum is allowed besides the worker-peasant class”.<sup>12530</sup> The document is also copied in the September-October 1976 issue of the Revolutionary Flag.<sup>12531</sup>

3759. The October 1975 issue of the Revolutionary Youth notes in relation to the former regime of LON Nol that “[w]e must remember these stories forever, and use them in the future to educate our children to hold a hereditary grudge against the enemy forever”.<sup>12532</sup>

<sup>12527</sup> DK Policy Document No. 3, E3/1765, 19 September 1975, p. 21, ERN (En) 00523589.

<sup>12528</sup> DK Policy Document No. 6, E3/99, 22 September 1975, p. 3, ERN (En) 00244276. “New workers” and “new peasants” appear to have been categories of “New People”. “New workers” were those who worked at factories, see p. 4 (ERN (En) 00244277: “In sum, we are able to take hold of 70 percent of the base workers and peasants and 30 percent of the new workers and peasants”). See also, Revolutionary Youth, E3/750, 11 November 1975, pp. 23-25, ERN (En) 00522473-00522475; Revolutionary Youth, E3/752, March 1976, p. 27, ERN (En) 00593574; Textile Factory Aids Peasant Struggle (in FBIS collection), E3/1358, 27 July 1977, ERN (En) 00168270.

<sup>12529</sup> DK Policy Document No. 6, E3/99, 22 September 1975, p. 2, ERN (En) 00244275.

<sup>12530</sup> Introductory Document for Party Members, E3/138, undated, p. 8, ERN (En) 00743797.

<sup>12531</sup> See below, para. 3792.

<sup>12532</sup> Revolutionary Youth, E3/729, October 1975, p. 23, ERN (En) 00357922. See also, pp. 30-31, ERN (En) 00357929-00357930 of the same Revolutionary Youth issue (poetry titled “Do Not Forget The Blood Grudge Of Our Revolutionary Ancestors” urging readers to seek revenge against the enemy).

3760. The minutes of the Standing Committee meeting of 9 October 1975 note that it was agreed that radio communications should be used, inter alia, to “spy on the enemy”.<sup>12533</sup> During that same Standing Committee meeting, POL Pot noted that “we must monitor closely in politics, in ideology, and in organization to get a close, agile and detailed grasp”.<sup>12534</sup> The issue of branding people “traitors” was also discussed; POL Pot noted that the word “traitor” was serious and should not be used too easily. POL Pot talked about Comrade Mean (alias CHAN Chakrei) and a Comrade Phan, regarding whom suspicion had arisen at this point,<sup>12535</sup> as examples. POL Pot said enemy networks could not be trusted; Angkar’s own networks were to be used to investigate CHAN Chakrei alias Mean and Phan, and it was to be kept quiet.<sup>12536</sup>

3761. On 27 November 1975, Duch sent a report to “Brother 03”, whom Duch identified as IN Lorn alias Nat(h), at the time Duch’s superior at S-21, from Division 703.<sup>12537</sup> Duch sought advice on whether or not to arrest three persons: KEAM Tort and NGOV Va, who allegedly had lied about their biographies, claiming they were “workers”, and TAB Bundin, son of an upper middle-class peasant and son-in-law of a feudal landowner. Duch said KEAM was the son of an upper middle-class peasant and had been a member of the Khmer Youth Group; Duch accused NGOV Va of having visited the house LON Nol.<sup>12538</sup> Duch testified that he sent this report to Nat(h), because he did not have the authority to arrest anyone himself.<sup>12539</sup>

3762. The November 1975 issue of Revolutionary Youth warns that:

[C]omrades, you should understand and remember that it is you who have sacrificed everything continuously, even your young life, for the Party, the revolution, and the people in smashing up the neo colonialism of American imperialism and the feudal-capitalist regime until they have been gone from the Kampuchea land. So, why

<sup>12533</sup> Standing Committee Minutes, E3/1733 [E3/1612, E3/182 and E3/183], 9 October 1975, pp. 9-10, ERN (En) 00183401-00183402.

<sup>12534</sup> Standing Committee Minutes, E3/1733 [E3/1612, E3/182 and E3/183], 9 October 1975, p. 11, ERN (En) 00183403.

<sup>12535</sup> Section 12.1: Internal Factions, paras 1890-1892, 1894-1896.

<sup>12536</sup> Standing Committee Minutes, E3/1733 [E3/1612, E3/182 and E3/183], 9 October 1975, pp. 11-12, ERN (En) 00183403-00183404. See also, Section 12.1: Internal Factions, paras 1890-1892, 1894-1896; Section 12.2.8.1.3: S-21 Security Centre: CHAN Chakrei alias Mean (Comrade Mean alias CHAN Chakrei was purged around May 1976).

<sup>12537</sup> T. 7 June 2016 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/433.1, pp. 72-73 (explaining that “Brother 03” was an abbreviation of “Brother 703” from “Division 703”, as the practice at the time was to refer to people by using the unit number).

<sup>12538</sup> DK Report, E3/1052, 27 November 1975, pp. 1-2, ERN (En) 00289848-00289849.

<sup>12539</sup> T. 7 June 2016 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/433.1, pp. 72-73.

should you still regret or want to embrace the individual possession, which is the legacy of the colonist, feudalist, and capitalist regime which has been already kicked out by us? There is no material better than socialism.<sup>12540</sup>

3763. The DK Constitution, agreed upon in December 1975 and adopted on 5 January 1976, includes a general provision in Article 10 on “[a]cts violating the laws of the people’s State are as follows”. It reads: “Hostile and destructive acts which are systematically organised and endanger the people’s State are punishable to the highest degree. Other cases are subject to constructive re-education within the framework of the State’s or people’s organisations”.<sup>12541</sup> The DK Constitution includes a provision on freedom of religion but bans “reactionary religion”: “Reactionary religions which are detrimental to Democratic Kampuchea and Kampuchean people are absolutely forbidden”.<sup>12542</sup>

16.3.1.3. 1976

3764. In early 1976, Thailand was still perceived as an important enemy, while less attention was given to Vietnam to the east. During the Standing Committee meeting of 9 January 1976, both the western and the eastern borders were discussed, referring again to the Thai as enemies.<sup>12543</sup> Fighting was reported to have occurred along the western border, stating that “Thailand acts as the core for the traitor groups which the CIA sponsors”.<sup>12544</sup> With respect to the eastern border, the minutes state that nothing was happening, due to measures having been taken in every sector (“politically, militarily, and diplomatically”).<sup>12545</sup>

3765. The CPK Statute, adopted at the Fourth Party Congress held in January 1976,<sup>12546</sup> sets out the Party line with respect to counter-revolutionary ideologies and behaviour. It states that “[t]he Party absolutely opposes any political, ideological, or organizational violation of organizational discipline through independentism,

<sup>12540</sup> Revolutionary Youth, E3/750, November 1975, p. 13, ERN (En) 00522463.

<sup>12541</sup> DK Constitution, E3/259, 5 January 1976, ERN (En) 00184836.

<sup>12542</sup> DK Constitution, E3/259, 5 January 1976, ERN (En) 00184838.

<sup>12543</sup> Standing Committee Minutes, E3/228, 9 January 1976, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 00182615-00182616.

<sup>12544</sup> Standing Committee Minutes, E3/228, 9 January 1976, p. 2, ERN (En) 00182615.

<sup>12545</sup> Standing Committee Minutes, E3/228, 9 January 1976, p. 2, ERN (En) 00182615.

<sup>12546</sup> Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 343.

liberalism, sectarianism, or nepotism which, destroys Party solidarity and unity, and absolutely opposes any creation of cliques to break up the Party”.<sup>12547</sup> It continues that:

The Party must have high level revolutionary vigilance toward all enemy activities and trickery, direct or indirect, overt or secret, which have the intent to destroy the Party by every means. All Party organizations and every Party member must always be good and clean and be pure politically, ideologically, and organizationally, by building a clear, clean, and pure personal history, consecutively and constantly.<sup>12548</sup>

3766. The Statute of the Communist Youth League of Kampuchea (“CYLK”), also from January 1976, demands that the CYLK “[m]ust have the high spirit of revolutionary vigilance and secrets, counter all enemy destructive activities and tricks, and protect the “CYLK”, the Party, revolution, and worker-peasant people”.<sup>12549</sup> It also requires that all CYLK members “be morally and politically clean with no involvement with the enemy”.<sup>12550</sup>

3767. At an S-21 “livelihood” meeting that took place on 18 February 1976, Duch noted that there were difficulties interrogating CIA agents,<sup>12551</sup> the need to “eliminate the view that attacking the enemy is cruel” and that sympathy with the enemy had to be eliminated.<sup>12552</sup> The minutes include a “special note” added under Duch’s name that reads: “The army has to smash all CIA agents without sparing even a single person”.<sup>12553</sup> Duch testified that staff at S-21 were taught to have vengeance and “harbour anger against the enemy”.<sup>12554</sup>

3768. A report dated 26 February 1976 from a person named Sem reports “Enemy CIA Situations” when referring to a radio communication in Thai that had been intercepted. Two persons were detained for questioning and implicated another person named Khan in Phnom Penh. The report contains a note from SON Sen to inform Angkar of the fact that a person named Khan had been implicated, and another note in

<sup>12547</sup> CPK Statute, E3/130, undated, p. 4, ERN (En) 00184025.

<sup>12548</sup> CPK Statute, E3/130, undated, p. 4, ERN (En) 00184025.

<sup>12549</sup> CYLK Statute, E3/1230, January 1976, p. 4, ERN (En) 01201895.

<sup>12550</sup> CYLK Statute, E3/1230, January 1976, p. 5, ERN (En) 01201896 (Article 1C).

<sup>12551</sup> Minutes of Meeting, E3/8384, 18 February 1976, ERN (En) 00543733.

<sup>12552</sup> Minutes of Meeting E3/8384, 18 February 1976, ERN (En) 00543734-00543735. See also, Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2164, 2616.

<sup>12553</sup> Minutes of Meeting, E3/8384, 18 February 1976, p. 3, ERN (En) 00543734; Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2164.

<sup>12554</sup> T. 20 March 2012 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/51.1, p. 36; Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2164, 2596, 2616.

a different handwriting to inquire in every department whether a person named Khan had been arrested.<sup>12555</sup>

3769. On 8 March 1976, two Standing Committee meetings took place: one on propaganda and one on base work.<sup>12556</sup> During the meeting regarding propaganda, Angkar discussed the 20 March 1976 election, noting that radio broadcasts had to be prepared in order to avoid attacks from “the enemy”. While the Agence France Presse (“AFP”) was named as one of the entities attacking them, the word “enemy” appears to be used in general terms here, referring to any outsider.<sup>12557</sup> The meeting regarding base work also included a discussion on the election, its function of preventing “the enemy” from attacking them and showing the outside world that they (i.e. the DK government) are organised and acting appropriately.<sup>12558</sup> Here, too, the word “enemy” was used in a general sense. Comrade Sot, Secretary of Sector 106 (Siem Reap),<sup>12559</sup> reported on the “enemy situation” in Sector 106 during the same meeting on base work, referring to Thai spies who had infiltrated 16 kilometres into DK territory and who had been captured.<sup>12560</sup> A similar situation is reported by BOU Phat alias Hang, Secretary of Sector 103 (Preah Vihear);<sup>12561</sup> Thai nationals, termed “spies”, were captured along the Thai border at Prasat Preah Vihear.<sup>12562</sup> Comrade Sreng reported on a number of arrests

<sup>12555</sup> DK Telegram, E3/1175, 26 February 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00525784.

<sup>12556</sup> Standing Committee Minutes regarding propaganda, E3/231, 8 March 1976; Standing Committee Minutes regarding base work, E3/232, 8 March 1976.

<sup>12557</sup> Standing Committee Minutes regarding propaganda, E3/231, 8 March 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00183360.

<sup>12558</sup> Standing Committee Minutes regarding base work, E3/232, 8 March 1976, p. 2, ERN (En) 00182629.

<sup>12559</sup> Comrade Sot was arrested and sent to S-21 early 1977. See S-21 Prisoner List, E3/10266, various dates, p. 35, ERN (En) 01367732 (noting arrest on 21 February 1977); S-21 confession (PA Phal alias Sot), E3/1754, 19 March 1977; Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2327. See also, Section 12.1: Internal Factions, paras 1885-1887.

<sup>12560</sup> Standing Committee Minutes regarding base work, E3/232, 8 March 1976, p. 4, ERN (En) 00182631.

<sup>12561</sup> T. 4 September 2012 (NORNG Sophang), E1/121.1, p. 6 (Hang was Sector 103 Secretary); PRUM Son Interview Record, E3/4606, 20 November 2009, ERN (En) 00414070 (Hang was chairman of Sector 103 until his arrest in 1978); PRUM Sou Interview Record, E3/420, 24 November 2009, ERN (En) 00422379 (Hang was secretary of Sector 103 until his arrest in 1978); SENG Kimoeun Interview Record, E3/425, 17 December 2009, p. 3, ERN (En) 00421613 (after 17 April 1975 Hang was secretary of Sector 103 until his arrest). See also, Standing Committee Minutes regarding base work, E3/232, 8 March 1976, pp. 4-7, ERN (En) 00182631-00182634 (Comrade Hang reported to the Standing Committee on the situation in Sector 103 requesting and receiving instructions); Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2327.

<sup>12562</sup> Standing Committee Minutes regarding base work, E3/232, 8 March 1976, p. 4, ERN (En) 00182631.

made by the military “in 303” (i.e. the North Zone)<sup>12563</sup> as well as that a number of persons attempted to flee to Southern Vietnam.<sup>12564</sup> Regarding the “enemy situation” in Sectors 103 and 106, Angkar named the Thai as such, while it regarded Laos as a nation in serious trouble, and therefore, no threat to DK.<sup>12565</sup>

3770. During the Standing Committee meeting on 11 March 1976 regarding the resignation of NORODOM Sihanouk, the label “enemies” was used in general terms by Angkar.<sup>12566</sup> The minutes note that “[w]e must end feudalism, just like this. The chess game has gotten to that point. The entire feudalist regime has been permanently smashed and dug out by the revolution. The kings existing over 2,000 thousand [sic] years must, in the end, be clean.”<sup>12567</sup> During a second meeting that day, where the eastern border was discussed, the term “enemies” was used by Angkar to refer to foreign powers: neighbouring countries in general, Vietnam and France in particular.<sup>12568</sup>

3771. The “Decision of the Central Committee Regarding a Number of Matters” dated 30 March 1976 contains the headline “the right to smash, inside and outside the ranks”, and specifies which organisations had the authority to do so: “[i]f in the base framework, to be decided by the Zone Standing Committee; Surrounding the Centre Office, to be decided by the Central Office Committee; In independent Sectors, the decision shall be taken by the Standing Committee; For the Centre Military, the decision shall be taken by the [General] Staff.”<sup>12569</sup>

3772. In a telegram dated 2 April 1976 to POL Pot, KE Pauk noted that the enemy situation was generally stable in the North Zone. Yet, he also noted that some engaged in “propaganda” that the revolution was strict and that cooperatives should be resisted,

<sup>12563</sup> Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 370 (initially, this zone had code number 304). Comrade Sreng was later purged, see Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, paras 1465-1466; Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2291.

<sup>12564</sup> Standing Committee Minutes regarding base work, E3/232, 8 March 1976, p. 3, ERN (En) 00182630.

<sup>12565</sup> Standing Committee Minutes regarding base work, E3/232, 8 March 1976, p. 7, ERN (En) 00182634.

<sup>12566</sup> Standing Committee Minutes regarding Sihanouk’s resignation, E3/197, 11 March 1976, p. 2, ERN (En) 00182639.

<sup>12567</sup> Standing Committee Minutes regarding Sihanouk’s resignation, E3/197, 11 March 1976, p. 4, ERN (En) 00182641.

<sup>12568</sup> Standing Committee Minutes regarding the eastern frontier, E3/217, 11 March 1976, pp. 1-2, ERN (En) 00182635-00182636.

<sup>12569</sup> Decision of the Central Committee Regarding a Number of Matters, E3/12, 30 March 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00182809. See also, Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3955-3956.

and included complaints about hunger.<sup>12570</sup> Particularly in Chamkar Leu district, in Sector 42, enemies were identified as former soldiers “in combination with the Cham and former cooperative team chairmen”.<sup>12571</sup> They were reported to have posted photos of LON Nol along with his 18 March 1970 announcement on trees in Trapeang village, to have burned forests and to have destroyed crops.<sup>12572</sup>

3773. KHIEU Samphan gave a speech on 15 April 1976 to mark the first anniversary of 17 April 1975. In his speech, KHIEU Samphan repeatedly referred to the “traitorous LON Nol clique” as a lackey of US imperialists.<sup>12573</sup> Propaganda Minister HU Nim used the same language in a statement issued to also commemorate this anniversary.<sup>12574</sup>

3774. At the first meeting of the Council of Ministers on 22 April 1976, POL Pot gave a speech saying that Thailand was still “a strong enemy”, but that they still made contact with the Thai.<sup>12575</sup> POL Pot stated that some countries sent spies, and that diplomatic agents of some countries were CIA agents. He added that the United States “arrang[ed] espionage inside the Soviet Embassy”. POL Pot continued with a warning to be vigilant when contacting foreigners and to speak as little as possible as to not misspeak.<sup>12576</sup>

POL Pot stated the CPK’s revolutionary ideology:

Defend the revolutionary state authority, the fruits of the revolution, defend the Party, the people, the Army, independence, sovereignty, etc, [against] every form of enemy activity, both overt and covert. [...] We can be in mastery only when we train/educate the masses in every ministry and office and in the Army, in the cooperatives, the unions, etc. Therefore, do not think just about Committees. Only when the entire masses absorb, only when we use the masses as our eyes and as our noses, will we be able to defend, to be in mastery. Therefore, hold meetings constantly, hold study sessions constantly, draw experience constantly.<sup>12577</sup>

<sup>12570</sup> DK Telegram, E3/952 [E3/953 and E3/511], 2 April 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00182658.

<sup>12571</sup> DK Telegram, E3/952 [E3/953 and E3/511], 2 April 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00182658.

<sup>12572</sup> DK Telegram, E3/952 [E3/953 and E3/511], 2 April 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00182658.

<sup>12573</sup> See e.g., Khieu Samphan Address (in FBIS collection), E3/275, 16 April 1976, ERN (En) 00167630-00167631 (entry dated 15 April 1976).

<sup>12574</sup> See e.g., Hu Nim Statement (in FBIS collection), E3/275, 16 April 1976, ERN (En) 00167637 (“Thousands of troops of the U.S. imperialists, the Thieu-Ky clique and the traitorous Lon Nol clique – ground air and naval forces – savagely machinegunned and bombed our people, our women, children and Buddhist monks, killing them and destroying our homes and monasteries.”) (entry dated 14 April 1976).

<sup>12575</sup> Meeting of the Council of Ministers, E3/817, 22 April 1976, p. 4, ERN (En) 00143464.

<sup>12576</sup> Meeting of the Council of Ministers, E3/817, 22 April 1976, p. 12, ERN (En) 00143472.

<sup>12577</sup> Meeting of the Council of Ministers, E3/817, 22 April 1976, p. 7, ERN (En) 00143467.

3775. The focus on enemies started to shift towards Vietnam in early 1976, when border negotiations between DK and Vietnam were failing.<sup>12578</sup> During the Standing Committee meeting on 14 May 1976, the Liaison Committees and the border situation with Vietnam were discussed, stating “enemies are active” and “[s]ometimes enemies create problems to destroy our negotiations”.<sup>12579</sup>

3776. A document dated 20 May 1976 issued on the third-year anniversary of the “Organization of Peasant Cooperatives” notes that after the coup in the early 1970s, revolutionary forces were not strong and “[d]rawing the distinction between comrade and enemy was not clear”.<sup>12580</sup> It recounted the “Party’s achievements” of 1975 and its alleged victory over “American imperialists and the traitor’s army”.<sup>12581</sup> It emphasised the importance of the cooperatives in helping defeat “enemies in the military, political and diplomatic realms”.<sup>12582</sup> It continued: “[c]ooperatives serve as an additional weapon for the Party to attack the enemies economically”.<sup>12583</sup> Strong cooperatives meant “a strong country defense [...]. No enemy shall be able to enter”.<sup>12584</sup>

3777. The June 1976 issue of the Revolutionary Flag signals the beginning of a shift in the CPK’s attention away from Thailand. It contains excerpts from a speech to West Zone Assembly by the “Comrade Party Organization Representative” on the enemy situation.<sup>12585</sup> The representative noted that enemy activity along the border was at a minimum, while having “smashed many enemies in the interior of the country and [having] scattered them”.<sup>12586</sup> The representative warned that enemy activity would

<sup>12578</sup> Section 4: General Overview, para. 284.

<sup>12579</sup> Standing Committee Minutes, E3/221, 14 May 1976, p. 13, ERN (En) 00182705. See also, T. 11 February 2015 (Elizabeth BECKER), E1/261.1, p. 49 (confirming in relation to this document the shift in focus towards Vietnam as “they started to see Vietnamese, very separate from this border issue, as interfering in their internal life and accusing many, many members of Democratic Kampuchea of being agents for Vietnam”).

<sup>12580</sup> Third Year Anniversary of the Organization of Peasant Cooperatives, E3/50, 20 May 1976, p. 2, ERN (En) 00636009.

<sup>12581</sup> Third Year Anniversary of the Organization of Peasant Cooperatives, E3/50, 20 May 1976, p. 3, ERN (En) 00636010.

<sup>12582</sup> Third Year Anniversary of the Organization of Peasant Cooperatives, E3/50, 20 May 1976, p. 4, ERN (En) 00636011.

<sup>12583</sup> Third Year Anniversary of the Organization of Peasant Cooperatives, E3/50, 20 May 1976, p. 4, ERN (En) 00636011.

<sup>12584</sup> Third Year Anniversary of the Organization of Peasant Cooperatives, E3/50, 20 May 1976, p. 10, ERN (En) 00636017.

<sup>12585</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/760, June 1976, pp. 11-12, ERN (En) 00509614-00509615.

<sup>12586</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/760, June 1976, p. 11, ERN (En) 00509614.

continue: “[t]his is a continual struggle between revolution and counter revolution; it will not stop”.<sup>12587</sup>

3778. The IENG Sary’s diary contains summary records of speeches and documents prepared or distributed by IENG Sary, including the records of internal meetings held in the DK Foreign Ministry in May and July of 1976.<sup>12588</sup> An entry dated 10 July 1976, minuting a meeting of the Ministry Congress, contains enumerations of “enemies of Cambodia”, which include imperialists and liberals, “who spy on us”. It also noted: “[t]he consciousness of private property is an enemy of the revolution”.<sup>12589</sup> The notes speak of reducing enemies to a minimum.<sup>12590</sup> Enemy tactics are also noted: “[they] verbally attack Angkar’s standpoint and political line. Our enemies mostly attack via this route, so we must have revolutionary vigilance and adhere to criticism and self-criticism.”<sup>12591</sup>

3779. In a telegram dated 18 July 1976 from BOU Phat alias Hang, Secretary of Sector 103 (Preah Vihear),<sup>12592</sup> to NUON Chea, SON Sen and IENG Sary, Hang reported that “CIA pacification agents made contact with these guys from Thailand via this very Preah Vihear temple corridor”, making the link between Thailand and the CIA.<sup>12593</sup> Hang also asked for advice regarding a person named Phoeun, who Hang reported had refused to participate in communal eating, enjoyed too much freedom and allegedly threatened to rape five women, wives of the commerce unit’s soldiers, and was allegedly seen assaulting one. Hang noted that he and others were of the opinion that Phoeun had “no more revolutionary element”, was incapable of observing the “Socialist line”, and could not be “changed back”.<sup>12594</sup>

<sup>12587</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/760, June 1976, p. 11, ERN (En) 00509614.

<sup>12588</sup> See above, para. 3746.

<sup>12589</sup> IENG Sary’s Diary, E3/522 [E3/925 and E3/926], undated, p. 18, ERN (En) 00003254 (entry dated 10 July 1976). See also, T. 1 April 2015 (TAK Sann), E1/286.1, pp. 38-39 (confirming her previous statement that upon arrival at Tram Kak, TAK was informed that if Angkar discovered that anyone was keeping private property, that person would be considered an enemy of the regime).

<sup>12590</sup> IENG Sary’s Diary, E3/522 [E3/925 and E3/926], undated, pp. 19-20, 87, ERN (En) 00003255-00003256, 00003323 (entries dated 10 July 1976 and 15 December 1976, respectively).

<sup>12591</sup> IENG Sary’s Diary, E3/522 [E3/925 and E3/926], undated, p. 29, ERN (En) 00003265 (entry dated 10 July 1976).

<sup>12592</sup> See above, para. 3769. Comrade Hang was arrested and sent to S-21 early 1978. See S-21 confession (BOU Phat alias Hang), E3/2470, 3 February 1978; Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2327.

<sup>12593</sup> DK Telegram, E3/874, 18 July 1976, ERN (En-Kh) 00003705.

<sup>12594</sup> DK Telegram, E3/874, 18 July 1976, ERN (En-Kh) 00003705-00003706.

3780. The July 1976 issue of Revolutionary Flag warns about CIA infiltration:

[E]xperience has shown that it is imperative to grasp the biographies. If the biographies are unclear, even though the [candidates] are good, do not yet induct them. Be vigilant regarding the CIA; they have infiltrated. The CIA attacks the revolution by injecting drugs into the veins of the revolution. Therefore, it is imperative to clearly grasp the biographies.<sup>12595</sup>

3781. At a 3 August 1976 Standing Committee meeting of the military work in Kampong Som, MEAS Muth of Division 164 (navy) reported on the “enemy situation” within territorial waters, noting no significant activity at the borders with Thailand and Vietnam.<sup>12596</sup> POL Pot, when responding with his advice and noting the lack of activity from “enemies both in the East and in the West”, said that the West is composed of “American imperialists”, Thais and “traitors who foster their schemes to invade us”.<sup>12597</sup>

3782. In 1976, the focus also gradually shifted more inwards, as the fear of enemies within the CPK increased.<sup>12598</sup> At a meeting of the Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Brigades and Regiments on 2 August 1976, SON Sen addressed the duty to defend the DK as follows:

[I]t is imperative to think in terms of fending off enemies both external and internal, but it is especially important to pay attention fending off the enemy that is burrowing from within. This means it is imperative to pay attention to purging no-good elements completely from the Party, the Core Organizations and our male and female combatants within the Revolutionary Army.<sup>12599</sup>

3783. At a similar meeting on 18 August 1976, Comrade Pin (alias KHOEM Pin, Secretary of Division 703),<sup>12600</sup> Comrade Sok (alias KE Sok(h), CHAN Chakrei’s successor as Secretary of Division 170)<sup>12601</sup> and Comrade Suong (Secretary of Division

<sup>12595</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/4, July 1976, ERN (En) 00268938.

<sup>12596</sup> Standing Committee Minutes, E3/823, 3 August 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00234012.

<sup>12597</sup> Standing Committee Minutes, E3/823, 3 August 1976, p. 2, ERN (En) 00234013.

<sup>12598</sup> Section 12.1.4: Internal Factions: 1976 Events – Explosions in Siem Reap and Phnom Penh.

<sup>12599</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Brigades and Regiments, E3/795, 2 August 1976, p. 10, ERN (En) 00656578.

<sup>12600</sup> List of Participants of the 1st General Staff Training, E3/1585 [E3/10574.1], 20 October 1976, p. 11, ERN (En) 00897659; Book by Huy V.: The Khmer Rouge Division 703: From Victory to Self-destruction, E3/2116 [E3/2117], 4 June 2003, pp. 6, 49-50, ERN (En) 00081291, 00081334-00081335.

<sup>12601</sup> List of Participants of the 1st General Staff Training, E3/1585 [E3/10574.1], 20 October 1976, ERN (En) 00897657; Book by Huy V.: The Khmer Rouge Division 703: From Victory to Self-destruction, E3/2116 [E3/2117], 4 June 2003, pp. 51, 139, ERN (En) 00081336, 00081424. See also, Section 12.1: Internal Factions, para. 2017.

450)<sup>12602</sup> reported on the “enemy situation”. Comrade Pin reported the following activity: “[t]wo bandits have been captured at the sea”, persons who allowed weapons to be stolen, theft in general, desertions and villagers who convinced people to take more food beyond their rations. Comrade Sok mentioned the arrest of a woman named Poeu and nine desertions in August. Comrade Suong reported that 18 people deserted in August alone, alleged banditry and “[c]ompany cadres hit and maltreated combatants”.<sup>12603</sup> SON Sen advised to resolve these issues by educating people about the socialist revolution and added that “no-good elements must be definitely screened”, blaming conflicts on enemy motivation and ignorance.<sup>12604</sup> 3784. At another similar meeting on 30 August 1976, SON Sen reported that on 26 August 1976 internal unrest had occurred at Ang Prouch, on the border between Kandal Steung district and Sector 33 (in the Southwest Zone),<sup>12605</sup> as a result of which 100 people were arrested. SON Sen said that those arrested had said there was a connection with the army regarding this unrest and had implicated Chakrei (i.e. CHAN Chakrei alias Mean) as their leader. SON Sen also reported that before this incident, 60 people had been arrested. He noted that the unrest described appeared to have been planned, as they initially had prepared for an uprising on 20 August. SON Sen further reported that they had raised banners with the slogans “Long Live Buddhism” and “Long Live the White Khmer Front of Liberation from Rice by the Can”. SON Sen noted again a nexus between this and the army: soldiers from Division 170 had fled to Sector 20, where they allegedly had engaged in propaganda to “the effect that there was unrest in Phnom Penh between the Khmer Rouge and the White Khmer”.<sup>12606</sup> SON Sen stated that measures to be taken should include additional education (“Do not allow

---

<sup>12602</sup> List of Participants of the 1st General Staff Training, E3/1585 [E3/10574.1], 20 October 1976, p. 4, ERN (En) 00897652 (listing Comrade Suong as belonging to the Division Committee of Division 450); Report from Division 450, E3/1163, 14 November 1976, p. 3, ERN (En) 00877004 (indicating that Comrade Suong worked in Division 450); Rice Consumption Plan in 1976, E3/1136, 4 January 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00543743 (listing Comrade Suong at the “Unit Chair” of Division 450). Comrade Suong was arrested and sent to S-21 early 1977. See S-21 confession (CHEA Non alias Suong), E3/1892, 20 February 1977; Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2422.

<sup>12603</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/797, 18 August 1976, ERN (En) 00234457-00234458.

<sup>12604</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/797, 18 August 1976, ERN (En) 00234458-00234459.

<sup>12605</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 904.

<sup>12606</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/798, 30 August 1976, ERN (En) 00183966.

pacifism”), and Divisions were to examine and keep track of “no-good elements”.<sup>12607</sup> Others at the meeting reported instances of theft and (promoting) desertion.<sup>12608</sup> Dissent was also reported as enemy activity. Comrade Sao said that a fisherman at Logistics Fishing had criticised the collective eating system and had said “the White Khmer” and people in the cooperative will “rise up, attack and smash anybody who makes them eat rice gruel”.<sup>12609</sup> In response to these reports, SON Sen made the following general statement about enemies:

The enemy would like to take the opportunity to gather up no-good elements, the status-and rank-conscious, those whose families we have swept out, those whom we have removed from their positions, and those who have not internalized the revolutionary movement and can’t keep up with the rest, and, at the same time, the new people who don’t yet understand things, whom we are putting in difficulty and temporarily lack food: the CIA enemy is finding opportunities to gather them all up to attack us.<sup>12610</sup>

He also summed up the measures to be taken: educate Party and Youth League members as well as soldiers; screen out no-good elements, isolate and educate them.<sup>12611</sup>

3785. At the Plenary Meeting of Division 920 on 7 September 1976, Comrade Say (Deputy Secretary of Division 920)<sup>12612</sup> reported on the internal situation, noting increased efforts to educate people about the socialist revolution, but warning about weak Party members and problems relating to misuse of the Party line. As an example, he mentioned that some cadre and Party members beat and threatened combatants, having “twisted the Party line and used authority against combatants”.<sup>12613</sup>

<sup>12607</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/798, 30 August 1976, ERN (En) 00183966.

<sup>12608</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/798, 30 August 1976, ERN (En) 00183967.

<sup>12609</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/798, 30 August 1976, ERN (En) 00183968.

<sup>12610</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/798, 30 August 1976, ERN (En) 00183968.

<sup>12611</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/798, 30 August 1976, ERN (En) 00183968.

<sup>12612</sup> List of Participants Second General Staff Study Session, E3/847, 23 November 1976, p. 16, ERN (En) 00195337; Second General Staff Study Course, E3/1142, 23 November 1976, ERN (En) 00535809. See also, Section 12.5: Phnom Kraol Security Centre, para. 3046.

<sup>12613</sup> Minutes of Plenary Meeting of the 920th Division, E3/799, 7 September 1976, p. 3, ERN (En) 00184779.

3786. During the meeting with Division 703 and S-21 of 9 September 1976,<sup>12614</sup> it was discussed that leaflets (with texts critical of the regime) were found on the street east of Wat Botum and near the Chinese Embassy in Phnom Penh. Duch was present at this meeting and said that they had arrested (YIM) Sambat, and had questioned Leat and Mat, who said that the leaflets came from Phuon of Division 170.<sup>12615</sup> SON Sen said it was necessary to examine the units of Division 170 as well as the units of Division 703 and nearby units. He said that this problem must have come from within (noting such leaflets were also found in June and July of that year), as they were produced “in legitimate working places, offices of Divisions, regiments or various ministries”.<sup>12616</sup> SON Sen also stated these activities were part of an overall enemy plan.<sup>12617</sup> As for measures to be taken, SON Sen suggested increased efforts regarding political and ideological education, increased surveillance and rounding up persons from Division 170 in one location.<sup>12618</sup> SON Sen also suggested that Comrade Pang (alias CHHIM Sam Aok), head of S-71,<sup>12619</sup> liaise with the various ministries,<sup>12620</sup> which indicates that such enemy activities were reported to the ministries as well.

3787. On the same day, a meeting took place of Division 164 with MEAS Muth. With respect to the internal situation, a desertion plan from VUNG Sruol, a platoon cadre, involving 40 persons was discussed. The minutes noted that “the Division commander separated the bad people and sent them to stay at the different places so that they were not mixed with the good people”.<sup>12621</sup> The 40 that deserted were apparently re-distributed amongst other units, and most of them improved. Some, however, refused to work, demanding to be reunited with those who were sent away earlier.<sup>12622</sup> SON Sen spoke of an elaborate, but never executed, plan to attack the islands by foreign enemies (United States, France, Thailand, Taiwan, South Korea, Japan), which he

<sup>12614</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2203-2273.

<sup>12615</sup> Minutes of Meeting with Office 703 and S-21, E3/811, 9 September 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00933846. See also, Section 12.1: Internal Factions, para. 1892.

<sup>12616</sup> Minutes of Meeting with Office 703 and S-21, E3/811, 9 September 1976, p. 3, ERN (En) 00933848.

<sup>12617</sup> Minutes of Meeting with Office 703 and S-21, E3/811, 9 September 1976, p. 3, ERN (En) 00933848.

<sup>12618</sup> Minutes of Meeting with Office 703 and S-21, E3/811, 9 September 1976, p. 4, ERN (En) 00933849.

<sup>12619</sup> T. 28 March 2012 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/55.1, pp. 67-68 (when questioned on this meeting, Duch confirmed that Comrade Pang was the head of S-71, and that Comrade Pang and KHMA My, a member of S-71, were tasked with finding out who had distributed the leaflets in Phnom Penh). See also, Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2203.

<sup>12620</sup> Minutes of Meeting with Office 703 and S-21, E3/811, 9 September 1976, p. 4, ERN (En) 00933849.

<sup>12621</sup> Minutes of Meeting of comrades 164, E3/813, 9 September 1976, p. 2, ERN (En) 00657355.

<sup>12622</sup> Minutes of Meeting of comrades 164, E3/813, 9 September 1976, p. 2, ERN (En) 00657355.

connected to internal enemies (“Khmer traitors”).<sup>12623</sup> He also alleged these external enemies were liaising with one another and wanted the Japanese to put an embassy in place in DK to use for spying – SON Sen stated that the CIA was hiding in embassies.<sup>12624</sup> SON Sen indicated that this information came from confessions from enemies: “According to the confession[s] of the returnees from outside the country”.<sup>12625</sup>

3788. SON Sen discussed the “enemy situation” at another Divisions meeting on 16 September 1976, where he said that American imperialists had been plotting to take the islands of Koh Trang and Poulo Wai, and to target Battambang and Preah Vihear provinces. These enemies allegedly reported back to CIA agents in South Vietnam.<sup>12626</sup> SON Sen also referred to CHAN Chakrei again:

Chakrey is a main network who has a contact with both Imperialists and revisionists. They enticed opponents, authoritarianists and those who are not satisfied with our revolution. Soviet, Vietnam, and CIA agents also have a linked network with Chakrey who is an old enemy buried inside. The new ones (enemy): opponents, [and] authoritarianists, had been enticed by Vietnam. If [we]examine the tumultuous activity these days, they [are making] contacts with CIA agents. Those who have non-revolutionary standpoint also encourage such activity. This situation is linked to the general situation of enemy.<sup>12627</sup>

In addition to imperialists, revisionists are identified as enemies.<sup>12628</sup>

3789. On the same day, 16 September 1976, a meeting took place with people from Divisions 290 and 170, which also discussed these Divisions and (possible) enemies within them.<sup>12629</sup> The enemy situation discussed at this meeting pertained to those within the military. SON Sen noted that since CHAN Chakrei alias Mean was arrested, Chakrei had implicated others in his confessions: “After his arrest, Chakrei implicated a number of people of Sector 24 who had been in contact with the Vietnamese and the

<sup>12623</sup> Minutes of Meeting of comrades 164, E3/813, 9 September 1976, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 00657355-00657356.

<sup>12624</sup> Minutes of Meeting of comrades 164, E3/813, 9 September 1976, p. 3, ERN (En) 00657356.

<sup>12625</sup> Minutes of Meeting of comrades 164, E3/813, 9 September 1976, p. 2, ERN (En) 00657355.

<sup>12626</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/800, 16 September 1976, ERN (En) 00184339.

<sup>12627</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/800, 16 September 1976, ERN (En) 00184339-00184340.

<sup>12628</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/800, 16 September 1976, ERN (En) 00184340.

<sup>12629</sup> Minutes of Meeting Divisions 290 and 170, E3/822, 16 September 1976.

Soviets to attack our revolution on this 30 September 1976”.<sup>12630</sup> As a result, they arrested Chhouk and others from Sector 24. The meeting agreed to arrest four people from Division 290: CHUM Chan, KHIEV Ma, Chum, YOS Yan (the older brother of YOS Sophon).<sup>12631</sup> DUCH was also present at this meeting, and added another 29 names from Division 170 of people that needed to be arrested.<sup>12632</sup> It was also decided to “take out” two women: Chakrei’s wife and niece.<sup>12633</sup> All these people were to be arrested and transported to S-21, maintaining secrecy.<sup>12634</sup>

3790. On 19 September 1976, small incidents of possible sabotage and theft were reported at a logistics meeting. Comrade Oeun, Secretary of Division 310,<sup>12635</sup> noted that anyone who steals was to be regarded as the enemy and noting that the theft of 200kg of rice was a “political trend”.<sup>12636</sup> People fleeing and returning home were also seen as enemies.<sup>12637</sup> SON Sen responded by explaining that there were two main enemy networks: “Network 1: American imperialists, French, Taiwan, CIA. [...] Network 2: Revisionists such as Soviet-Vietnam”. He referred again to the example of Chakrei, who by then had been arrested, and described him as “a CIA agent [who] has a close relationship with revisionists in the base – Sector 24 and Sector 25 adjacent to Vietnam”.<sup>12638</sup> SON Sen noted that the real danger is the enemy attacking “from inside”.<sup>12639</sup> He explained that “[t]his is a conflict between revolutionary class and imperialist and revisionist [classes]”.<sup>12640</sup>

<sup>12630</sup> Minutes of Meeting Divisions 290 and 170, E3/822, 16 September 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00937114.

<sup>12631</sup> Minutes of Meeting Divisions 290 and 170, E3/822, 16 September 1976, pp. 1-2, ERN (En) 00937115.

<sup>12632</sup> Minutes of Meeting Divisions 290 and 170, E3/822, 16 September 1976, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 00937115-00937116.

<sup>12633</sup> Minutes of Meeting Divisions 290 and 170, E3/822, 16 September 1976, p. 3, ERN (En) 00937116.

<sup>12634</sup> Minutes of Meeting Divisions 290 and 170, E3/822, 16 September 1976, p. 3, ERN (En) 00937116.

<sup>12635</sup> List of Participants of the 1st General Staff Training, E3/1585 [E3/10574.1], 20 October 1976, p. 2, ERN (En) 00897650 (listing Comrade Oeun as Secretary of Division 310); Rice Consumption Plan in 1976, E3/1136, 4 January 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00543743 (listing Comrade Oeun as belonging to Division 310). See also, Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 436.

<sup>12636</sup> Minutes of Logistics Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/809, 19 September 1976, ERN (En) 00183970, 00183974.

<sup>12637</sup> Minutes of Logistics Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/809, 19 September 1976, ERN (En) 00183976.

<sup>12638</sup> Minutes of Logistics Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/809, 19 September 1976, ERN (En) 00183978.

<sup>12639</sup> Minutes of Logistics Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/809, 19 September 1976, ERN (En) 00183978.

<sup>12640</sup> Minutes of Logistics Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/809, 19 September 1976, ERN (En) 00183978.

3791. The summary of the 1976 study session, which had introduced the 1977 four-year plan, notes that they had made a lot of progress in a very short time, “in the context of a fierce and uncompromising fight to the death with the class enemy, both inside the country and coming from outside the country”.<sup>12641</sup> The summary further notes:

It is the property-less class under the leadership of its Party according to its correct line, in combat with exploiting classes of every description, whether they are international exploiting classes or exploiting classes remaining in our national society, and especially the combat by absolute means against their instruments and representatives who furtively steal their way into and hide themselves in our revolutionary ranks and in the ranks of the Party.<sup>12642</sup>

The document also makes clear that the 1977 Plan included renewed efforts to impose a rigorous study regime of Party documents.<sup>12643</sup> However, the Chamber does not have the Khmer original of the summary of the 1976 study session, and therefore approaches this evidence with appropriate caution.

3792. In September-October 1976, the Revolutionary Flag stressed that:

[T]here are only the worker class and the peasant class, but the peasants include both old and new peasants. Among the old peasants there are poor peasants, lower-middle peasants, mid-level peasants, upper middle peasants, and wealthy peasants. Among the new peasants are the petty bourgeoisie, the capitalists, the feudalists, and other workers and laborers. Therefore, there are contradictions within the old peasants from upper-middle peasants on up, in particular with the wealthy peasants, that are life and death contradictions. There are also contradictions within the new peasants, contradictions with capitalists and feudalists that are life-and-death contradictions. When individuals reform, they are not life and death contradictions, but they do not easily reform.<sup>12644</sup>

This Revolutionary Flag uses language which is identical to that of an introductory document for party members.<sup>12645</sup> It continued: “These contradictions are buried, because the forces of the proletarian dictatorship are stronger, and they cannot move.

---

<sup>12641</sup> Chapter by B. Kiernan, “Summary of the Results of the 1976 Study Session” in Pol Pot Plans the Future: Confidential Leadership Documents from Democratic Kampuchea, 1976-1977, E3/8 [E3/213 and E3/735], September 1976, p. 169, ERN (En) 00104081.

<sup>12642</sup> Chapter by B. Kiernan, “Summary of the Results of the 1976 Study Session” in Pol Pot Plans the Future: Confidential Leadership Documents from Democratic Kampuchea, 1976-1977, E3/8 [E3/213 and E3/735], September 1976, p. 170, ERN (En) 00104082.

<sup>12643</sup> Chapter by B. Kiernan, “Summary of the Results of the 1976 Study Session” in Pol Pot Plans the Future: Confidential Leadership Documents from Democratic Kampuchea, 1976-1977, E3/8 [E3/213 and E3/735], September 1976, p. 176, ERN (En) 00104085.

<sup>12644</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/10, September-October 1976, p. 29, ERN (En) 00450529.

<sup>12645</sup> The English translations of these passages differ, but the originals in Khmer are identical.

Some elements may reform, but many elements do not reform. When they die, they instruct their children to struggle on against the communists.”<sup>12646</sup>

3793. The consolidation of the change in focus toward Vietnam and internal enemies is illustrated at the meeting of the Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments on 9 October 1976. Regular “enemy activity” was reported: people trying to flee and stealing food.<sup>12647</sup> In addition, Comrade San (likely the Deputy Secretary of Division 502)<sup>12648</sup> concluded that more than 80 elements with political tendencies had already “been removed”,<sup>12649</sup> showing that political opposition was also equated with enemy activity.<sup>12650</sup> Comrade Suong (Secretary of Division 450)<sup>12651</sup> noted that enemies had infiltrated the organisation, “attacking the Revolution in words”.<sup>12652</sup> He also mentioned “[t]hey are opposing the paddy farming plan taking combatants who are ill to lie in the paddy fields and compelling them to work although they are ill”.<sup>12653</sup> Comrade Oeun, Secretary of Division 310,<sup>12654</sup> noted that some people were concealing their biographies, notably those who were White Khmer or had lived in Vietnam.<sup>12655</sup> Comrade Nat, former Secretary of Division 703, former chairman of S-21 and later reassigned to the General Staff,<sup>12656</sup> confirmed the shift in focus away from Thailand

<sup>12646</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/10, September-October 1976, ERN (En) 00450529. See also, Introductory Document for Party Members, E3/138, undated, p. 8, ERN (En) 00743799 (the same passage in different wording is included here).

<sup>12647</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/13, 9 October 1976, pp. 3-4, ERN (En) 00940338-00940339.

<sup>12648</sup> List of Participants of the 1st General Staff Training, E3/1585 [E3/10574.1], 20 October 1976, p. 12, ERN (En) 00897660 (listing Comrade San as Deputy Secretary of Division 502). See also, Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 438.

<sup>12649</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/13, 9 October 1976, p. 4, ERN (En) 00940339.

<sup>12650</sup> See e.g., para. 3786 (spreading leaflets with texts critical of the regime was also perceived as enemy activity).

<sup>12651</sup> List of Participants of the 1st General Staff Training, E3/1585 [E3/10574.1], 20 October 1976, p. 4, ERN (En) 00897652 (listing Comrade Suong as belonging to the Division Committee of Division 450); Report from Division 450, E3/1163, 14 November 1976, p. 3, ERN (En) 00877004 (indicating that Comrade Suong worked in Division 450); Rice Consumption Plan in 1976, E3/1136, 4 January 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00543743 (listing Comrade Suong at the “Unit Chair” of Division 450).

<sup>12652</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/13, 9 October 1976, p. 13, ERN (En) 00940348.

<sup>12653</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/13, 9 October 1976, p. 13, ERN (En) 00940348.

<sup>12654</sup> List of Participants of the 1st General Staff Training, E3/1585 [E3/10574.1], 20 October 1976, p. 2, ERN (En) 00897650 (listing Comrade Oeun as Secretary of Division 310); Rice Consumption Plan in 1976, E3/1136, 4 January 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00543743 (listing Comrade Oeun as belonging to Division 310).

<sup>12655</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/13, 9 October 1976, p. 14, ERN (En) 00940349.

<sup>12656</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2145.

and towards Vietnam: “the enemy to the West, despite the coup d’état in Thailand, is unable to attack us. The enemy to the East, the revisionists is our absolute enemy and very dangerous”.<sup>12657</sup> SON Sen gave a long speech summarising recent events surrounding the arrests and confessions of CHAN Chakrei alias Mean (Secretary of Division 170), SUOS Neou alias Chhouk (Secretary of Sector 24 in the East Zone), MEN San alias NEY Sarann alias Ya (Secretary of the Northeast Zone) and KEO Meas (former member of the Central Committee),<sup>12658</sup> stressing that everyone was to maintain secrecy and not disseminate the information to the lower levels.<sup>12659</sup> He also spoke of the leaflets and grenades being thrown around the Royal Palace in Phnom Penh as enemy activities.<sup>12660</sup> SON Sen claimed that they had “basically smashed the CIA agents on the inside”,<sup>12661</sup> stressing the importance of a “clean army” and maintaining absolute secrecy.<sup>12662</sup> SON Sen said that the 1976 internal purges were a victory over the revisionists who had been trying to infiltrate for more than ten years.<sup>12663</sup> He noted that enemies were attacking internally and externally, but that attacks from the inside were the determining factor. Referring to the recent internal purges, SON Sen noted: “[n]ow, we have smashed to smithereens these internal stratagems, and smashed them to smithereens strategically”.<sup>12664</sup> SON Sen also suggested evil elements “in the sense of class struggle” must be screened based on three principles: first, the “destructive category” must be screened out; second the “normal liberal category” must be educated more; and third, the “category of those who have merely been incited by the enemy” must be educated so that they no longer believe the enemy.<sup>12665</sup> The existence of these three categories was confirmed by witnesses who testified at trial. For example, Duch

<sup>12657</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/13, 9 October 1976, p. 16, ERN (En) 00940351.

<sup>12658</sup> Section 12.1: Internal Factions, paras 1878-1887, 1890-1899.

<sup>12659</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/13, 9 October 1976, pp. 6-7, ERN (En) 00940341-00940342. SON Sen reiterates this at the end of the meeting, see Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/13, 9 October 1976, p. 20, ERN (En) 00940355.

<sup>12660</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/13, 9 October 1976, pp. 6-7, ERN (En) 00940341-00940342. See above, para. 3786.

<sup>12661</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/13, 9 October 1976, p. 8, ERN (En) 00940343.

<sup>12662</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/13, 9 October 1976, p. 9, ERN (En) 00940344.

<sup>12663</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/13, 9 October 1976, p. 17, ERN (En) 00940352.

<sup>12664</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/13, 9 October 1976, p. 18, ERN (En) 00940353.

<sup>12665</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/13, 9 October 1976, pp. 19-20, ERN (En) 00940354-00940355.

testified that these three categories had been part of the Party line since its creation in 1960, but that in each category it depended on the decision-maker in charge how to implement this policy.<sup>12666</sup> Witness NETH Savat testified that he recalled these three categories of enemies; he saw them in a circular shortly before he was arrested himself.<sup>12667</sup> The circular indicated that the first category was to be killed, the second to be detained and the third to be sent to the cooperatives.<sup>12668</sup> Witness SAO Sarun also testified that he recalled these three categories and said that there was no absolute instruction to only arrest; they were also to re-educate.<sup>12669</sup>

3794. On 18 October 1976, at a subsequent meeting of the Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, SON Sen emphasised the measures, also discussed at the previous meeting on 9 October 1976, to be taken to counter the enemy and protect the revolution.<sup>12670</sup> He noted that the CIA's plan was to attack the revolution "with the French and American imperialists, the Japanese, and traitor groups" and seize DK's islands. He said they must conduct internal purges to undercover any enemies hiding within.<sup>12671</sup> With respect to "the revisionists, [i.e.] the Soviets and the Vietnamese", SON Sen noted that the Vietnamese had been trying to attack them both internally and externally.<sup>12672</sup> SON Sen said that in response to these attempts they "drove the Vietnamese from our territory".<sup>12673</sup> He noted "[e]ven though the traitor groups have already been fundamentally smashed, Vietnam still continues to lead the remaining groups to continue their activities".<sup>12674</sup>

<sup>12666</sup> T. 21 June 2016 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/441.1, p. 59.

<sup>12667</sup> T. 11 March 2016 (NETH Savat), E1/400.1, p. 19. See also, Section 12.5: Phnom Kraol Security Centre, para. 3061.

<sup>12668</sup> T. 11 March 2016 (NETH Savat), E1/400.1, pp. 28-29, 66-67.

<sup>12669</sup> T. 30 March 2016 (SAO Sarun), E1/411.1, pp. 24-25.

<sup>12670</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/815, 18 October 1976; Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/13, 9 October 1976.

<sup>12671</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/815, 18 October 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00877015.

<sup>12672</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/815, 18 October 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00877015.

<sup>12673</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/815, 18 October 1976, p. 2, ERN (En) 00877016. See also, Section 13.3.7: Treatment of the Vietnamese: Movement of Vietnamese Civilians from Cambodia to Vietnam.

<sup>12674</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/815, 18 October 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00143500.

3795. A telegram dated 26 November 1976 from SON Sen to Comrade Dim (i.e. KUN Dim, Deputy Commander of a battalion within Division 164)<sup>12675</sup> illustrates that attention was still paid to the islands and that to some extent Thailand was still considered as a potential threat to the CPK. The telegram states that “CIA [agents] from Thailand” were active on Poulo Wai islands.<sup>12676</sup>

3796. The IENG Sary diary includes an entry dated 30 November 1976 entitled “Documents on Consciousness”, which includes a document “about class contradiction”. The document lists various classes (worker class, the peasant class, the petty-bourgeois, the capitalists, the nobility and the feudalist classes) and notes that “contradictions” were to be resolved, meaning class contradictions within Cambodian society. While types of classes were eliminated, their “class essence” was still there.<sup>12677</sup> The document stresses that the Party must be able to see these contradictions, and that before analysing them, they need to find out the class which is at the source of such contradictions. It concludes that they must “analyse the contradictions based mainly on class”.<sup>12678</sup> Outside enemies were identified as “American imperialists and the revisionists”,<sup>12679</sup> and elsewhere, in an entry dated 1 August 1978, specified as including Japan, Russia, Laos and Thailand.<sup>12680</sup>

3797. Enemy activity included theft and desertion, as noted during the meeting of Secretaries and Logistics Officers of Divisions and Regiments on 15 December 1976.<sup>12681</sup> There was, however, also a sense that the internal enemy situation was under control. In general, SON Sen noted that there had been fewer problems, but warned that there were still occurrences of theft, spreading of anonymous letters and “[e]xpressing slogans attacking the collective regime”.<sup>12682</sup> He added that the Soviet and Vietnamese

<sup>12675</sup> List of Participants Second General Staff Study Session, E3/847, 23 November 1976, p. 11, ERN (En) 00195332; Second General Staff Study Course, E3/1142, 23 November 1976, ERN (En) 00535795.

<sup>12676</sup> DK Telegram, E3/1153, 26 November 1976, ERN (En) 00233926.

<sup>12677</sup> IENG Sary’s Diary, E3/522 [E3/925 and E3/926], undated, p. 42, ERN (En) 00003278 (entry dated 30 November 1976). This sentiment is also echoed in Introductory Document for Party Members, E3/138, undated, p. 2, ERN (En) 00743791.

<sup>12678</sup> IENG Sary’s Diary, E3/522 [E3/925 and E3/926], undated, p. 42, ERN (En) 00003278 (entry dated 30 November 1976).

<sup>12679</sup> IENG Sary’s Diary, E3/522 [E3/925 and E3/926], undated, p. 50, ERN (En) 00003286 (entry dated 30 November 1976).

<sup>12680</sup> IENG Sary’s Diary, E3/522 [E3/925 and E3/926], undated, p. 81, ERN (En) 00003317 (entry dated 1 August 1978).

<sup>12681</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Logistics Officers of Divisions and Regiments, E3/804, 15 December 1976, pp. 6-7, ERN (En) 00233715-00233716.

<sup>12682</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Logistics Officers of Divisions and Regiments, E3/804, 15 December 1976, p. 9, ERN (En) 00233718.

revisionists had been scattered, but were still active. SON Sen said that dangerous elements must be screened out of the units. He stated that efforts to grasp biographies had been good, but that there were still some comrades hiding their histories: “[b]e most careful about those who [sic] mothers and fathers were purged or whose siblings were purged”.<sup>12683</sup>

3798. The IENG Sary diary includes minutes of another meeting that took place on 15 December 1976, and notes that capitalists, feudalists and imperialists (“the pests attempting to destroy our leadership machine”) had been “wiped out”.<sup>12684</sup> The entry also notes that enemies to the west and to the east both wanted to “destroy them”, that Thailand was being helped in this regard by American imperialists, and that these enemies tried to infiltrate in the Party, calling on everyone to be careful.<sup>12685</sup>

3799. On 16 December 1976, at the meeting of Division 920, SON Sen again stated that with respect to the internal enemy situation there was nothing to worry about, because they had been “smashed”.<sup>12686</sup> SON Sen also noted that the strategy was to disperse enemies:

Problems inside units of organization: On the matter of those who used to be with the Vietnamese: do not allow them to concentrate. They must be split up and sent to be carpenters and water jar makers and the like, interspersed with forces belonging to us whose stance is solid.<sup>12687</sup>

3800. At the meeting of Division 801 on 16 December 1976, Comrade Thi noted that the (external) enemy situation had (also) eased. He only reported some theft.<sup>12688</sup> The General Staff held a meeting on 19 December 1976, where it noted that with respect to “the enemy situation in general”, there was nothing of great concern.<sup>12689</sup>

3801. Witness PECH Chim testified that, during a political training session he attended in December 1976, NUON Chea explained how to make the distinction

---

<sup>12683</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Logistics Officers of Divisions and Regiments, E3/804, 15 December 1976, p. 9, ERN (En) 00233718.

<sup>12684</sup> IENG Sary’s Diary, E3/522 [E3/925 and E3/926], undated, p. 86, ERN (En) 00003322 (entry dated 15 December 1976).

<sup>12685</sup> IENG Sary’s Diary, E3/522 [E3/925 and E3/926], undated, p. 86, ERN (En) 00003322 (entry dated 15 December 1976).

<sup>12686</sup> Minutes of Meeting Division 920, E3/805, 16 December 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00923160.

<sup>12687</sup> Minutes of Meeting Division 920, E3/805, 16 December 1976, p. 2, ERN (En) 00923161.

<sup>12688</sup> Minutes of Meeting Division 801, E3/806, 16 December 1976, p. 2, ERN (En) 00874987.

<sup>12689</sup> DK Military Minutes General Staff Office, E3/826, 19 December 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00233994.

between internal and external enemies, and between friends and enemies.<sup>12690</sup> NUON Chea also spoke about class struggle, the repressed class and the oppressors, and how people in high positions were not good. PECH Chim further testified that “they were very afraid of Lon Nol’s men”.<sup>12691</sup> PECH Chim said that they received instructions in study sessions to assess, track, capture and smash the enemy. According to him, the term “smash” meant to eradicate or to rid society of – in his opinion, it did not necessarily mean to kill them, but to eliminate the sense of class, the repression and exploitation of other people, to get rid of that mindset.<sup>12692</sup>

16.3.1.4. 1977

3802. The December 1976-January 1977 issue of the Revolutionary Flag includes excerpts of a speech by NUON Chea delivered on 16 January 1977 at a rally in Phnom Penh on the occasion of the ninth anniversary of the founding of the RAK.<sup>12693</sup> NUON Chea warned that every type of enemy (outside the country, inside the country, “imperialist enemies”, and “the various exploiting class enemies”) wanted to take back DK and “take our people, our workers and our peasants, and make them slaves again”.<sup>12694</sup> NUON Chea recounted that in 1970 they were fighting “the American imperialists and their servants, the contemptible Nol being the ringleader”.<sup>12695</sup> NUON Chea also reminisced that when fighting in the town of Banam in 1973 they expelled, among others, the ethnic Vietnamese and the ethnic Chinese as a tactic to take away people from the enemy with the aim to bar the enemy from having an army or an economy.<sup>12696</sup> Regarding attacking the enemy militarily, NUON Chea noted that the enemy had to be attacked “by eradicating their war of espionage, their psychological warfare, and their pacifist agents”.<sup>12697</sup> When discussing combat lines, NUON Chea

<sup>12690</sup> T. 1 July 2013 (PECH Chim), E1/215.1, pp. 39, 41, 75; T. 22 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/290.1, p. 39. See below, para. 3858 (regarding the meaning of “smash” according to the Chamber). PECH Chim was initially inconsistent regarding the year he attended this meeting, flitting between December 1975 and December 1976. He finally settled on December 1976, which is consistent with when he became District Secretary (in 1976). See also, Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 953.

<sup>12691</sup> T. 22 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/290.1, pp. 38-39.

<sup>12692</sup> T. 1 July 2013 (PECH Chim), E1/215.1, pp. 37-38; T. 22 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/290.1, pp. 52-53.

<sup>12693</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/25, December 1976-January 1977, pp. 13-45, ERN (En) 00491406-00491438. See also, Nuon Chea Speaks on Cambodian Army Anniversary (in FBIS collection), E3/147, 17 January 1977, ERN (En) 00168465-00168470.

<sup>12694</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/25, December 1976-January 1977, p. 17, ERN (En) 00491410.

<sup>12695</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/25, December 1976-January 1977, p. 18, ERN (En) 00491411.

<sup>12696</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/25, December 1976-January 1977, p. 29, ERN (En) 00491422. See also, Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3384.

<sup>12697</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/25, December 1976-January 1977, p. 31, ERN (En) 00491424.

stated that one guerrilla team could “kill one enemy and wound one enemy per day”, adding that 5,000 teams could thus “smash” lots of enemies.<sup>12698</sup>

3803. IENG Sary’s diary summarised the achievements of 1976 in an entry dated 18 January 1977 and included having found many cases of “CIA pests”.<sup>12699</sup> It noted that the world was divided into three “blocs”. The first bloc – “our real enemy” – included “American Imperialists, the West German, Japanese, French, English Imperialists and the capitalist countries including European countries, Canada”. The second bloc – “our enemies like the first bloc”, “they always want us to be liberal like them” – included the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe. The third bloc included different groups: first, those completely loyal to them, namely China, Albania and North Korea; second, “normal friends”, namely Yugoslavia, Romania and Algeria; and third, those who were not content with them and opposed them as “the puppets of the Imperialists”, namely Taiwan and South Korea.<sup>12700</sup> It was also noted that 1976 had been a key year:

Our enemies are now decrepit and possibly dying. The revolution has pulled out their roots, and the espionage networks have been smashed. In respect of the enemy classes, they no longer exist. However, there remain American imperialists, the revisionists, the KGB, and Vietnam. Even though they have been defeated, they still persist. Another thing is that the enemies are burrowing within us, the military, the workers, the co-operatives, who are inside our ranks. In order to make the Socialist Revolution meaningful and powerful, these enemies must be wiped out one after the other.<sup>12701</sup>

One of the core tasks of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs was to “clearly define our [external] enemies”.<sup>12702</sup>

3804. Where in December 1976 there had still been a sense of having the enemy situation under control, this state of relative calm quickly faded in early 1977. At a divisions and regiments meeting on 1 March 1977, various enemy activities were

---

<sup>12698</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/25, December 1976-January 1977, p. 36, ERN (En) 00491429. See also, para. 3817 (discussing guerrilla tactics at Instructions from 870, E3/741, 3 January 1978, p. 3, ERN (En) 00296005).

<sup>12699</sup> IENG Sary’s Diary, E3/522 [E3/925 and E3/926], undated, p. 89, ERN (En) 00003325 (18 January 1977).

<sup>12700</sup> IENG Sary’s Diary, E3/522 [E3/925 and E3/926], undated, pp. 93-94, ERN (En) 000033329-000033330 (18 January 1977).

<sup>12701</sup> IENG Sary’s Diary, E3/522 [E3/925 and E3/926], undated, p. 95, ERN (En) 00003331 (18 January 1977).

<sup>12702</sup> IENG Sary’s Diary, E3/522 [E3/925 and E3/926], undated, p. 97, ERN (En) 00003333 (18 January 1977).

reported, including purges of those who had come from Vietnam,<sup>12703</sup> theft,<sup>12704</sup> drinking alcohol,<sup>12705</sup> internal purges,<sup>12706</sup> writing poetry and short stories,<sup>12707</sup> and having long hair.<sup>12708</sup> SON Sen responded that these enemy activities demonstrated that the CIA, Vietnamese and revisionists were still trying to sabotage their revolution.<sup>12709</sup> SON Sen noted that they now saw more clearly who the enemy was: “the contemptible Chhouk, Ya and Chakrei traitorous networks were revisionist networks, and we did not give weight to characterizing them as CIA networks. In fact, all these contemptible guys were CIA links who had been infiltrated into our Party long ago”.<sup>12710</sup> SON Sen claimed that the CIA and revisionists were one.<sup>12711</sup> He concluded that every external enemy was connected to an internal enemy and that “[t]he enemies to the east and to the west are in it together”.<sup>12712</sup> SON Sen said that their priorities would change in 1977:

Before, we stipulated our duties as: First, the duty of socialist revolution; Second, the duty of building socialism; Third, the duty of defending the country. Now, we are putting forward the duty of defending the country as number one, the duty of continuing the socialist revolution as number two, and the duty of building socialism as number three.<sup>12713</sup>

<sup>12703</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/807, 1 March 1977, p. 2, ERN (En) 00933834 (Comrade Chhin noted that “[a]fter the studies, those who came from Vietnam, the children of soldiers, sub-district chiefs and police were purged and sent to do production in one place”).

<sup>12704</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/807, 1 March 1977, p. 3, ERN (En) 00933835 (Comrade Maut reported: “as for units deployed in the vicinity of depots, chicken of those who are guarding the depots have been stolen. A number of the cadres and combatants guarding the depots used to be with the traitors as their bodyguards for long.”).

<sup>12705</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/807, 1 March 1977, p. 3, ERN (En) 00933835 (Comrade Pheap mentioned persuading combatants to drink alcohol and picking fruit as enemy activity).

<sup>12706</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/807, 1 March 1977, pp. 3-4, ERN (En) 00933835-00933836 (Comrade Yan spoke of “[m]aybe 600 persons are elements who must be removed” but it was not known at what level of the organisation these “enemy elements” were).

<sup>12707</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/807, 1 March 1977, p. 4, ERN (En) 00933836 (reported by Comrade Sokh).

<sup>12708</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/807, 1 March 1977, p. 4, ERN (En) 00933836 (Comrade Sim noted that some persons were suspicious “because they were wearing long hair and behaving widely [sic]”).

<sup>12709</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/807, 1 March 1977, p. 7, ERN (En) 00933839.

<sup>12710</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/807, 1 March 1977, pp. 7-8, ERN (En) 00933839-00933840.

<sup>12711</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/807, 1 March 1977, p. 8, ERN (En) 00933840.

<sup>12712</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/807, 1 March 1977, p. 9, ERN (En) 00933841.

<sup>12713</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/807, 1 March 1977, p. 9, ERN (En) 00933841.

3805. At a meeting of divisions and independent regiments held on 3 April 1977, it was noted with respect to the internal enemy that “in 1976, we basically eliminated most [of] the reactionaries from the important organizations, including the revisionists and CIA members”.<sup>12714</sup> The minutes also include the plan to educate and purge “the reactionaries in our military ranks” by requesting biographies of all high-ranking officials of regiments, battalions and companies, and of all soldiers by the end of 1977.<sup>12715</sup> The Chamber notes that this information comes from minutes that Professor GOSCHA found at the People’s Army Library in Hanoi in the form of Vietnamese translations of Khmer contemporaneous documents, and which he copied entirely. The Chamber will accordingly have regard to the subject-matter, theme and general thrust of the minutes, without according undue weight to the meaning of particular words or phrases.<sup>12716</sup>

3806. In a special issue of the Revolutionary Flag released in April 1977 on the second anniversary of 17 April 1975, excerpts from a speech by a “Comrade representing the Party” are included.<sup>12717</sup> The representative discussed the first quarter of 1977 regarding defeat of all types of enemies:

Thus, the view toward the victories in every field during the past few months is that they were profound and audacious and underwent strenuous, tense combat between us and the enemies both internal and external, between the revolution and the traitors to the revolution both internal and external, between the collective and the private, between socialism and capitalism, between the Kampuchean revolution under the correct leadership of the Communist Party of Kampuchea on one side and the “CIA”, the “KGB”, and the “Y[uon]” and their running dogs on the other.<sup>12718</sup>

In the same issue, the “Comrade representing the Party” is featured as telling readers, regarding “CIA”, “KGB” and “Yuon” agents, to continue to “strike them and trample them [...] [and] smash them even more so they cannot raise their heads”.<sup>12719</sup>

<sup>12714</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments (copied by C.E. Goscha), E3/10693, 3 April 1977, p. 2, ERN (En) 01324076.

<sup>12715</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments (copied by C.E. Goscha), E3/10693, 3 April 1977, p. 3, ERN (En) 01324077.

<sup>12716</sup> Section 5: Administrative Structures, paras 351-354.

<sup>12717</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/742, April 1977, p. 3, ERN (En) 00478494 (the title above the speech is: “Continue to Strengthen and Expand the Great Victories of Early 1977 to Become Even Mightier In Order to Sweep the Enemy Clean and Continue to Completely Implement and Even Surpass The Party’s 1977 Plan”. Similar language of “sweep clean” is used at ERN (En) 00478496, 00478499-00478502).

<sup>12718</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/742, April 1977, p. 4, ERN (En) 00478495.

<sup>12719</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/742, April 1977, p. 5, ERN (En) 00478496.

3807. KHIEU Samphan delivered a speech on the occasion of the second anniversary of 17 April 1975, in which he stated that: “[w]e must wipe out the enemy in our capacity as masters of the situation, following the lines of domestic policy, foreign policy and military policy of our revolutionary organization”. He also said “[w]e must uphold our spirit of revolutionary vigilance at all times against the enemy from all quarters, both at home and abroad, to defend Democratic Cambodia, protect the worker-peasant administration and preserve the fruits of our revolution resolutely and permanently”.<sup>12720</sup>

3808. The June 1977 Revolutionary Flag issue reiterates the need to concentrate on continuing attacking external and internal enemies. It explained that the revolution has enemies because:

This is the law of nature in the conflicts between revolution and counter revolution, between the people and the oppressor classes, between the worker class and the capitalist class, between the collective and the private, between socialism and capitalism, between true Marx-Leninism and revolution-betraying revisionism, between independence/mastery and aggression, expansionism, colonialism, imperialism, etc.<sup>12721</sup>

3809. A telegram from Comrade Vy dated 15 June 1977 – with NUON Chea, IENG Sary, VORN Vet and SON Sen all copied – reported the capture in Sector 107 of 209 Vietnamese soldiers, including nine women, identified as mostly Jarai (Charai) and deemed external enemies.<sup>12722</sup> Comrade Vy asked Angkar for a “high-level decision”.<sup>12723</sup> As discussed elsewhere, the Chamber finds that at least 100 ethnic Jarai from the group mentioned in the telegram were executed approximately one week after their arrival at Au Kanseng Security Centre.<sup>12724</sup>

3810. The July 1977 issue of the Revolutionary Flag contained a speech by the “Party Organization Representative” on the occasion of the West Zone Cadre Conference on 25 July 1977, in which the representative stressed that it was imperative to counter any

<sup>12720</sup> Khieu Samphan’s Speech at Anniversary Meeting (in SWB/FE/5490/C collection), E3/200 [E3/201], 19 April 1977, ERN (En) S00004165, S00004169, respectively. The same speech can be found at [partly illegible]: Khieu Samphan Speech (in FBIS collection), E3/286, 18 April 1977, ERN (En) 00168204-00168211 (entry dated 15 April 1977).

<sup>12721</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/135, June 1977, p. 34, ERN (En) 00446879.

<sup>12722</sup> DK Telegram, E3/240, 15 June 1977, ERN (En) 00897667. See also, Section 12.4: Au Kanseng Security Centre, paras 2935-2937.

<sup>12723</sup> DK Telegram, E3/240, 15 June 1977, ERN (En) 00897668.

<sup>12724</sup> Section 12.4.6: Au Kanseng Security Centre: Arrival and Execution of the Jarai.

capitalist propaganda by “[re-educating] the poor peasants and the lower middle peasants so they will have class anger, have class combat, and have a firm class stance”.<sup>12725</sup> It included an example of a person named Ham, who had allegedly said during a Zone committee meeting, that cattle of the rich were fatter than cattle of the poor. This was considered an attack on the regime: “[t]o believe that private property cattle are fatter than collective property cattle is to attack the collective regime, to attack the Party’s socialist revolution, whether wittingly or unwittingly”.<sup>12726</sup> This Ham was later allegedly exposed as an enemy embedded in the Party, for which his remarks regarding fat cattle were considered an omen.<sup>12727</sup> Witness MEAS Voeun, Deputy Chairman of Division 1 of the West Zone, testified that this conference was intended to raise awareness about the internal enemy, “those who were within the ranks”.<sup>12728</sup>

3811. A report dated 12 September 1977 of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs states that “[a]t our Ministry’s conference, it was noted that we have basically smashed and swept cleanly away the enemies who were CIA, KGB and Yuon territory-swallowers”.<sup>12729</sup> The Ministry noted that there was still enemy activity but 98 percent “cleanliness” had been achieved in the Ministry, meaning that 98 percent of the people working there were good and had “an understanding of the problem of sweeping enemies cleanly away”.<sup>12730</sup> According to the Ministry, there were still some “liberal elements” of which it could not be determined whether they were “thick individuals” or enemy elements.<sup>12731</sup> The report also notes: “[f]or example, the enemy makes it heard that ‘in a little while, everybody will be arrested, and only Brother Khieu Samphan will be left.’ [...] We must raise revolutionary vigilance really high, because our Ministry has rather a lot of contact with foreigners.”<sup>12732</sup>

3812. On 27 September 1977, POL Pot gave a five-hour speech on the occasion of the 17th anniversary of the CPK, at which the existence of the CPK was officially and publicly announced.<sup>12733</sup> The speech is reported in the FBIS collection and according

<sup>12725</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/193, July 1977, p. 25, ERN (En) 00399245.

<sup>12726</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/193, July 1977, p. 25, ERN (En) 00399245.

<sup>12727</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/193, July 1977, pp. 25-26, ERN (En) 00399245-00399246.

<sup>12728</sup> T. 2 February 2016 (MEAS Voeun), E1/386.1, p. 71.

<sup>12729</sup> Report on Committee Meeting, E3/857, p. 1, ERN (En) 00355487.

<sup>12730</sup> Report on Committee Meeting, E3/857, p. 1, ERN (En) 00355487.

<sup>12731</sup> Report on Committee Meeting, E3/857, p. 1, ERN (En) 00355487.

<sup>12732</sup> Report on Committee Meeting, E3/857, p. 2, ERN (En) 00355488.

<sup>12733</sup> 27 Sep Mass Meeting, Pol Pot Speech Mark KCP Anniversary (in FBIS collection), E3/143, 29 September 1977, ERN (En) 00168771 (entry dated 27 September 1977). See also, Revolutionary Flag, to the Phnom Penh radio announcer, “all members [not named] [sic] of the KCP [i.e. CPK] Central Committee” were present at this rally in Phnom Penh, including “more than 10,000 representatives of workers, cooperative peasants, the Cambodian Army and various departments and cabinet ministries in Phnom Penh”.<sup>12734</sup> In his speech, POL Pot noted that there were still a “handful of reactionary elements who continue to carry out activities against [sic] and attempt to subvert our Cambodian Revolution”.<sup>12735</sup> He warned that these “counter-revolutionary elements” were “not to be regarded as belonging to our people”, but were to be seen as enemies of DK.<sup>12736</sup> POL Pot said that these elements were to be dealt with the same way any enemy should be dealt with, namely:

[B]y separating, educating and training elements that can be won over to the people’s side, neutralizing [apyeakret] [sic] any reluctant elements so that they will not undermine the revolution, and isolating and eradicating [kamchat] [sic] only the smallest possible number of the elements who are cruel and who determinedly oppose the revolution and the people and collaborate with foreign enemies to fight against their own nation, their own people and their own revolution.<sup>12737</sup>

3813. POL Pot’s speech of 27 September 1977 is also replicated in the September 1977 special issue of the Revolutionary Flag, with some differences in the language.<sup>12738</sup> The same section as in the preceding paragraph is included as:

We do not consider these traitors, these counterrevolutionary elements, to be part of the people. They are enemies of Democratic Kampuchea, of the Kampuchean revolution and of the Kampuchean people. Contradictions with these elements must be solved by the measures proper for enemies: separate, educate and win over the elements which can be won over; neutralize the elements which are wavering, preventing them from doing any damage to the revolution; and, finally, isolate and eradicate only the smallest possible number of those elements who are cruel and persist in acting against the revolution and

---

E3/11 [E3/144], September 1977, p. 4, ERN (En) 00486215. See also, Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 342.

<sup>12734</sup> 27 Sep Mass Meeting, Pol Pot Speech Mark KCP Anniversary (in FBIS collection), E3/143, 29 September 1977, ERN (En) 00168771 (entry dated 27 September 1977).

<sup>12735</sup> 27 Sep Mass Meeting, Pol Pot Speech Mark KCP Anniversary (in FBIS collection), E3/143, 29 September 1977, ERN (En) 00168775 (entry dated 27 September 1977).

<sup>12736</sup> 27 Sep Mass Meeting, Pol Pot Speech Mark KCP Anniversary (in FBIS collection), E3/143, 29 September 1977, ERN (En) 00168775 (entry dated 27 September 1977).

<sup>12737</sup> 27 Sep Mass Meeting, Pol Pot Speech Mark KCP Anniversary (in FBIS collection), E3/143, 29 September 1977, ERN (En) 00168775 (entry dated 27 September 1977).

<sup>12738</sup> These differences likely stem from differences in translation: the FBIS collection contains translations done contemporaneously by the U.S. embassy in Bangkok (with the original Khmer not available), while the Revolutionary Flag was translated from the original Khmer. See Section 6: Communication Structures, para. 470.

the people, and collaborate with foreign enemies to destroy their own people and their own revolution.<sup>12739</sup>

POL Pot noted that 98 to 99 percent of Kampuchean people had been liberated, creating a “vast productive force”,<sup>12740</sup> but “life and death contractions” still existed in society: “These antagonistic contradictions are also due to another infamous handful of reactionary elements, who carry out their counter-revolutionary work and seek to destroy our Kampuchean revolution. These elements are small in number one to two percent of the population.”<sup>12741</sup> POL Pot appears to suggest that the remaining one to two percent should be regarded as not belonging to the Kampuchean people, and must be dealt with by re-educating them or isolating and eradicating them. Witness SUONG Sikoeun, who worked at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs at the time, confirmed that this Revolutionary Flag issue was disseminated by the propaganda and information section of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.<sup>12742</sup> This issue also grouped together the American imperialists and the “LON Nol traitor clique” and enemies of the revolution.<sup>12743</sup> Additionally, it noted that:

[T]he true essence of their so-called ‘struggle’ was to obtain ‘independence’ for Kampuchea from the French colonialists in the interests of the feudalists, the aristocrats, the landowners, the capitalists, and the other privileged strata. This form of struggle confused and deceived the opinions of masses only for a while: later, the masses cursed, denied, and opposed it.<sup>12744</sup>

3814. On 28 September 1977, the day after his five-hour speech in Phnom Penh, POL Pot went to Beijing, China, for a meeting between DK and Chinese delegations.<sup>12745</sup> At a banquet on 28 September 1977, POL Pot distinguished between friends and enemies by calling out enemies of the revolution, and listing all the countries and peoples they considered friends.<sup>12746</sup> Minutes transcribed by Professor GOSCHA indicate that at a

<sup>12739</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/11 [E3/144], September 1977, p. 42, ERN (En) 00486253.

<sup>12740</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/11 [E3/144], September 1977, pp. 42, 47, ERN (En) 00486253, 00486258 (“Thus, to summarize, 98% to 99% of the population are for the revolution”).

<sup>12741</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/11 [E3/144], September 1977, ERN (En) 00486253.

<sup>12742</sup> T. 7 August 2012 (SUONG Sikoeun), E1/103.1, pp. 7-8.

<sup>12743</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/11, September 1977, pp. 28, 36, ERN (En) 00486239; 00486247.

<sup>12744</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/11, September 1977, p. 10, ERN (En) 00486221.

<sup>12745</sup> Minutes of the conference between Kampuchea and China on 29 September 1977 (copied by C.E. Goscha), E3/10686, 29 September 1977, ERN (En) 01324057-01324074; Cambodian Delegation’s Visit to China (in SWB/FE/5628/A3 collection), E3/1349, 28 September 1977, ERN (En) 00390895.

<sup>12746</sup> Cambodian Delegation’s Visit to China (in SWB/FE/5628/A3 collection), E3/1349, 28 September 1977, ERN (En) 00390903-00390904 (enemies being “the imperialists, expansionists and reactionaries of all kinds” and friends being “people of the non-aligned and Third World countries”, which included conference with the Chinese delegation the next day on 29 September 1977, still in Beijing, POL Pot identified three spy networks: the CIA (the largest); the Vietnamese (smaller, but very active); the KGB (“newly operating in Kampuchea”).<sup>12747</sup> He noted that all three had been operating in DK, and that their operations had become intensive. The movement of Khmer Serei, which operated among students and intellectuals, was alleged to operate closely with the CIA and Vietnam’s spy network. The KGB was alleged to be involved in a much smaller quantity.<sup>12748</sup> POL Pot also noted that the CIA, Thailand, the Soviet Union and Vietnam were collaborating.<sup>12749</sup> The Chamber notes that this information comes from minutes copied by Professor GOSCHA from the Vietnamese translation he found at the People’s Army Library in Hanoi, and will accordingly have regard to the subject-matter, theme and general thrust of the minutes, without according undue weight to the meaning of particular words or phrases.<sup>12750</sup>

3815. In relation to the same visit to China in 1977, at a farewell press conference on 3 October in Beijing, POL Pot is recorded as saying:

[W]e launched struggle both in the countryside and cities and took the countryside as base areas. We waged both overt and covert struggles with covert struggle as the basis. We waged both legal and illegal struggles with illegal struggle as the basis. We attached special importance to violent struggle, unfolding both violent political struggle and armed struggle with armed struggle as the main form.<sup>12751</sup>

3816. On 30 December 1977, KHIEU Samphan made a statement on the severance of diplomatic ties with Vietnam, which occurred the next day,<sup>12752</sup> referring to Vietnam as an “aggressive expansionist and annexationist” enemy.<sup>12753</sup> In this statement, KHIEU Samphan referred to “the enemy” within the context of the ongoing armed conflict with China, North-Korea, East Timor, the Palestinian people, and the Zimbabwean, Namibian and Azanian peoples in South-Africa).

---

<sup>12747</sup> Minutes of the conference between Kampuchea and China on 29 September 1977 (copied by C.E. Goscha), E3/10686, 29 September 1977, p. 1, ERN (En) 01324057.

<sup>12748</sup> Minutes of the conference between Kampuchea and China on 29 September 1977 (copied by C.E. Goscha), E3/10686, 29 September 1977, p. 1, ERN (En) 01324057.

<sup>12749</sup> Minutes of the conference between Kampuchea and China on 29 September 1977 (copied by C.E. Goscha), E3/10686, 29 September 1977, p. 2, ERN (En) 01324058.

<sup>12750</sup> Section 5: Administrative Structures, paras 351-354.

<sup>12751</sup> Pol Pot’s Press Conference in Peking (in SWB/FE/5631/A3 collection), E3/2728, 3 October 1977, ERN (En) 00390925.

<sup>12752</sup> Section 4: General Overview, para. 289.

<sup>12753</sup> KHIEU Samphan Statement (in FBIS collection), E3/1359, 3 January 1978, p. 6, ERN (En) 00169523 (entry dated 30 December 1977). The statement was also recorded in SWB: Statement by Khieu Samphan (in SWB/FE/5703/A3 collection), E3/267, 3 January 1978, ERN (En) S00008729. See also, DK Communication to the RAK and People of Cambodia, E3/1393, 31 December 1977, ERN (En) 00713101-00713112.

Vietnam, which had reached a new high around the time DK severed diplomatic ties with Vietnam: “[w]e continue to drive out and destroy the enemy forces from Cambodian territory”.<sup>12754</sup>

16.3.1.5. 1978

3817. A DK telegram dated 3 January 1978 with instructions from Office 870 contains a warning that the “Soviet-backed invading Yuon enemy” planned to invade DK.<sup>12755</sup> Instructed countermeasures included military attacks, political attacks (eliminating espionage and psychological warfare), cutting off food and economy (“starving them constantly”) and cutting off the roads to prevent the enemy from transporting food, ammunitions and troops.<sup>12756</sup> Guerrilla tactics were discussed, pursuant to which one team of 10 persons could “attack and smash at least three enemies, killing or wounding them in one day and one night”.<sup>12757</sup> The instructions also warned against allowing any room for the enemy to “incite pacifist agents”.<sup>12758</sup> The instructions were to be “distributed and studied in the Zone, Sector and District Party Committees, in the cooperative committees, in the battlefield committees, divisions, committees, regiments, battalions, companies, platoons, squads, combatants, and the command committees”.<sup>12759</sup>

3818. On 17 January 1978, POL Pot gave a speech at a mass rally on the occasion of the 10th anniversary of the RAK, in which he characterised the pre-DK era as two periods of struggle for national liberation (the first from 1968 to March 1970 and the second from March 1970 to April 1975) and the DK era as a period of national defence.<sup>12760</sup> Regarding the former periods of struggle for national liberation, he considered LON Nol and SISOWATH Sirik Matak “as chieftains” with “the US

<sup>12754</sup> KHIEU Samphan Statement (in FBIS collection), E3/1359, 3 January 1978, p. 7, ERN (En) 00169524 (entry dated 30 December 1977).

<sup>12755</sup> Instructions from 870, E3/741, 3 January 1978, p. 1, ERN (En) 00296003.

<sup>12756</sup> Instructions from 870, E3/741, 3 January 1978, p. 2, ERN (En) 00296004.

<sup>12757</sup> Instructions from 870, E3/741, 3 January 1978, p. 3, ERN (En) 00296005. See also, para. 3802 (where guerrilla tactics are discussed at Revolutionary Flag, E3/25, December 1976-January 1977, p. 36, ERN (En) 00491429).

<sup>12758</sup> Instructions from 870, E3/741, 3 January 1978, p. 4, ERN (En) 00296006.

<sup>12759</sup> Instructions from 870, E3/741, 3 January 1978, p. 6, ERN (En) 00296008.

<sup>12760</sup> Speech by POL Pot, E3/349, 17 January 1978, p. 9, ERN (En) S00012704. This speech is also included in: Revolutionary Flag, E3/744, February 1978, pp. 1-19, ERN (En) 00464050-00464068; and excerpts are included in: Pol Pot's Speech at 17th January Army Day Meeting (in SWB/FE/5718/B collection), E3/5710, 20 January 1978, ERN (En) S00008685-S00008691 (entry dated 17 January 1978).

imperialists as strings-pullers”.<sup>12761</sup> Regarding the latter period, the “Vietnamese aggressors, annexationists, swallows of territories” were named as the enemy being fought by the RAK.<sup>12762</sup> POL Pot then spoke of “the grand victory” over the Vietnamese in January 1978, when Vietnam allegedly had suffered 29,000 casualties or wounded at the hands of the RAK.<sup>12763</sup> POL Pot also referred to enemies more generically throughout the speech as meaning all those who the RAK had fought.<sup>12764</sup> Additionally, he noted that “[a] mother with a strong revolutionary nature would also have sons with a strong revolutionary nature”.<sup>12765</sup> He further highlighted the stance and importance of the role of children:

If these mothers are good, their sons and daughters are also good. These mothers belong to a good origine [sic] of class and they have been successively and firmly armed with politics, ideology and collectivist organization by the Party. With such good mothers, their sons and daughters would also be as good.<sup>12766</sup>

POL Pot also noted that if mothers have a “strong revolutionary nature” so do their children. “It is these children that fight and win victory, no matter how mighty the enemy may be. This will forever be the line and the organizational stance of our Revolutionary Army.”<sup>12767</sup>

3819. The January-February 1978 issue of Revolutionary Youth warns that “the expansionist territory-swallowing Yuon are constantly looking for opportunities to invade and take Kampuchea and re-enslave the Kampuchean people”.<sup>12768</sup>

3820. The March 1978 issue of the Revolutionary Flag notes many enemies operate the same way: “When the Yuon attacked us, the Yuon agents come to the surface. The CIA agents come to the surface. The CIA and the Yuon are the same. They both attack

<sup>12761</sup> Speech by POL Pot, E3/349, 17 January 1978, pp. 9, 11, ERN (En) S00012704-S00012705. See also, Revolutionary Flag, E3/744, February 1978, p. 8, ERN (En) 00464057.

<sup>12762</sup> Speech by POL Pot, E3/349, 17 January 1978, p. 12, ERN (En) S00012705. See also, Revolutionary Flag, E3/744, February 1978, p. 11, ERN (En) 00464060.

<sup>12763</sup> Speech by POL Pot, E3/349, 17 January 1978, p. 15, ERN (En) S00012707. See also, Revolutionary Flag, E3/744, February 1978, p. 13, ERN (En) 00464062.

<sup>12764</sup> See e.g., Speech by POL Pot, E3/349, 17 January 1978, pp. 3-4, 10, ERN (En) S00012701, S00012704.

<sup>12765</sup> Speech by POL Pot, E3/349, 17 January 1978, p. 6, ERN (En) S00012702.

<sup>12766</sup> Speech by POL Pot, E3/349, 17 January 1978, p. 5, ERN (En) S00012702. See also, Revolutionary Flag, E3/744, February 1978, p. 5, ERN (En) 00464054.

<sup>12767</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/744, February 1978, p. 5, ERN (En) 00464054. See also, Speech by POL Pot, E3/349, 17 January 1978, p. 6, ERN (En) S00012702.

<sup>12768</sup> Revolutionary Youth, E3/726, January-February 1978, p. 3, ERN (En) 00278710.

the Kampuchean revolution. They just wear Yuon labels or CIA labels. Their theme is the same. Their mission is the same.”<sup>12769</sup>

3821. On 10 April 1978, an unidentified Phnom Penh radio broadcaster stressed the importance of distinguishing between “patriots” and “enemies”, “between us and the enemy”, “between patriotism and treason”, “between the worker-peasant class and the feudal-capitalist landowner and other oppressor classes, between revolution and counterrevolution, between the collective system of the party’s proletariat and the private system of other anti-proletarian classes, and between the KCP [i.e. CPK] and another antinational and counter-revolutionary sham party.” The announcer proceeded to explain what was to be understood by “we” in this context: “our nation, people, worker-peasant class, revolution, collective system of the proletariat, cooperatives, trade unions, Revolutionary Army, and KCP [i.e. CPK]”. The enemy included:

[I]mperialist aggressors and lackeys of all stripes; the enemy which has the intention of annexing and swallowing our territory; the enemy which is planted within our revolutionary ranks; the enemy in the form [sic] of the feudal-capitalist and landowner classes and other oppressor classes; the enemy in the form of the private and individualist system; and, particularly, the expansionist, annexationist Vietnamese enemy.<sup>12770</sup>

The announcer also stressed that “[o]nly when you have a seething hatred for the enemy [...] will you stay alert in your efforts to weed out and exterminate the enemy planted within”.<sup>12771</sup>

3822. In an entry dated 12 April 1978, with respect to “the internal problem (traitors)”, the S-21 notebook referred to by the Chamber as the Combined S-21 Notebook<sup>12772</sup> includes statistics of how “clean” the Party now was: 90% “[p]ure zones”, 80% “[p]ure sectors” and 70-80% “[p]ure districts”, 50-60% “[p]ure cooperatives” and 90% “[p]ure army”.<sup>12773</sup>

<sup>12769</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/745, March 1978, p. 7, ERN (En) 00504073.

<sup>12770</sup> Importance of Distinguishing Between Patriots, Enemies Stressed (in FBIS collection), E3/1361, 14 April 1978, ERN (En) 00168808 (entry dated 10 April 1978).

<sup>12771</sup> Importance of Distinguishing Between Patriots, Enemies Stressed (in FBIS collection), E3/1361, 14 April 1978, ERN (En) 00168810 (entry dated 10 April 1978).

<sup>12772</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2131, 2134.

<sup>12773</sup> Combined S-21 Notebook, E3/834, April 1978 to December 1978, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 00184484-00184485 (entry dated 12 April 1978).

3823. KHIEU Samphan delivered a speech on the occasion of the third anniversary of 17 April 1975 at a mass meeting held on 15 April 1978. KHIEU Samphan addressed the border clashes with Vietnam and wished the army “continuous victories over the enemy, especially over the Vietnamese enemy aggressors, annexationists and swallowers of territory”.<sup>12774</sup> At this meeting, a resolution was adopted, which included the following solemn pledges regarding national defence: no. 5 “[t]o exterminate resolutely all agents of the expansionist, annexationist Vietnamese aggressors from our units and from Cambodian territory forever”; no. 6: “[t]o exterminate resolutely all CIA agents from our units and Cambodian territory forever”; and part of no. 9: to “maintain national unity in the struggle to exterminate the enemies of all stripes, particularly the expansionist, annexationist Vietnamese enemy, in order to preserve the nation and the Cambodian race forever”.<sup>12775</sup> Regarding “labour leadership”, it included the pledge (no. 5): “[t]o screen and exterminate all enemy elements planted within our ranks disguised as cadres of various echelons and in various corps”.<sup>12776</sup> The resolution ends with a statement of solidarity with all Marxist-Leninists against “against imperialism, expansionism, annexationism, racism and all reactionaries”.<sup>12777</sup>

3824. The April 1978 special issue of the Revolutionary Flag contains a speech delivered by POL Pot on the third anniversary of 17 April 1975, in which he addressed internal and external enemies. He briefly noted that there had been some clashes at the western border but focused mainly on the events surrounding the eastern border. POL Pot reiterated that “[t]he party made the determination to fight and smash large numbers of the enemy’s life forces” and that the Party’s slogan was that one of them had to fight 30 “Yuon”.<sup>12778</sup> In this same speech, POL Pot said, as also reiterated in a radio broadcast on 10 May 1978,<sup>12779</sup> that “[t]his issue [of one against 30] does not just apply to the

<sup>12774</sup> Speech by KHIEU Samphan, E3/202 [E3/169], undated, p. 4, ERN (En) 00002959. See also, Phnom Penh Rally Marks 17th April Anniversary (in SWB/FE/5791/B/1 collection), E3/562, 16 April 1978, ERN (En) S00010558-S00010559 (noting that this speech took place on 15 April 1978); Third Anniversary Celebrated 15 April Mass Rally (in FBIS collection), E3/1361, 17 April 1978, ERN (En) 00168813-00168814 (entry dated 16 April 1978).

<sup>12775</sup> Phnom Penh Rally Marks 17th April Anniversary (in SWB/FE/5791/B/1 collection), E3/562, 16 April 1978, ERN (En) S00010563.

<sup>12776</sup> Phnom Penh Rally Marks 17th April Anniversary (in SWB/FE/5791/B/1 collection), E3/562, 16 April 1978, ERN (En) S00010566.

<sup>12777</sup> Phnom Penh Rally Marks 17th April Anniversary (in SWB/FE/5791/B/1 collection), E3/562, 16 April 1978, ERN (En) S00010566.

<sup>12778</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/4604, April 1978, pp. 5-6, ERN (En) 00519833-00519834. See also, Section 13.3.5: Treatment of the Vietnamese: Targeting of the Vietnamese. See below, para. 3826.

<sup>12779</sup> See below, para. 3826.

Army: the entire Party, the entire Army, the entire people absorb this line and view and stance”.<sup>12780</sup> He warned that if the Yuon would be able to take Kampuchea, the Kampuchean race would be gone within 30 years.<sup>12781</sup> POL Pot also said that the Vietnamese look down on DK “and want to take Kampuchea as its slave”.<sup>12782</sup> In comparing the Americans to the Vietnamese, POL Pot noted that Kampuchean “when they fight the Americans they strike just 10 blows of the club; however, when they fight the Yuon, they strike 100 blows of the club”.<sup>12783</sup>

3825. A memorandum from the DK Ministry of Foreign Affairs to the United Nations and its Member States dated 22 April 1978 called attention to the “propaganda machine of the imperialists, expansionists and annexationists” that “has raised the ‘human rights’ issue in its slander and denigration” of DK.<sup>12784</sup> These external entities were accused of not only launching verbal attacks, but also having repressed and massacred Cambodians – stated in reference to US bombing between 1970 and 1975, “with the active participation of the British imperialists”.<sup>12785</sup>

3826. In a radio broadcast dated 10 May 1978, the “one against 30” policy towards the Vietnamese was set out again, reiterating that “[t]his matter does not concern only the armed forces, the entire party, army and people must become fully aware of these lines views and stand”.<sup>12786</sup>

3827. The May-June 1978 issue of the Revolutionary Flag warns with respect to insiders to not “rely on the fact that they may be Party or Youth League members, because the enemy set up [...] traitorous apparati [sic] long ago”.<sup>12787</sup>

3828. A Central Committee circular dated 20 June 1978 outlined the Party’s policy

<sup>12780</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/4604, April 1978, p. 6, ERN (En) 00519834. See also, Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, paras 3379, 3402, 3405.

<sup>12781</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/4604, April 1978, p. 9, ERN (En) 00519837.

<sup>12782</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/4604, April 1978, p. 10, ERN (En) 00519838.

<sup>12783</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/4604, April 1978, p. 22, ERN (En) 00519850.

<sup>12784</sup> DK Ministry of Foreign Affairs Memorandum to the United Nations, E3/1385, 22 April 1978, ERN (En) 00235721.

<sup>12785</sup> DK Ministry of Foreign Affairs Memorandum to the United Nations, E3/1385, 22 April 1978, ERN (En) 00235722, 00235725, 00235728.

<sup>12786</sup> Past Year’s National Defense Efforts Reviewed (in FBIS collection), E3/1362, 12 May 1978, ERN (En) 00170015 (entry dated 10 May 1978). See also, Cambodia’s Strategy of Defence against Vietnam (in SWB/FE/5813/A3 collection), E3/8398, 15 May 1978, ERN (En) 00003960 (entry dated 10 May 1978). See above, para. 3824. See also, Section 4: General Overview, para. 283.

<sup>12787</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/727, May-June 1978, ERN (En) 00185335.

regarding “those who have been misled in accepting an assignment from the enemy, joining the CIA or serving as Yuon (Vietnamese) agents or joining the KGB and opposing the Party, Revolution, People and Democratic of Kampuchea”.<sup>12788</sup> It stated that amnesty would be given to those who would cease their (spying) activities immediately.<sup>12789</sup> Those who did not, however, were still to be eliminated. The same policy was reiterated in the May-June 1978 issue of the Revolutionary Flag, which noted the policy was issued to “quiet and calm things down”.<sup>12790</sup> The circular also contained instructions for the application of this guidance: all sections were instructed to hold meetings and educate people on this party policy.<sup>12791</sup> Witness OM Chy, a commune level work unit chief who supervised 500 workers at a canal worksite connected to the 1st January Dam,<sup>12792</sup> testified that fewer arrests took place after this guidance was issued, although arrests still happened.<sup>12793</sup> This party line also appears in the Combined S-21 Notebook as a re-focus on re-education, at least with respect to Khmer. Foreigners, “Yuon” and “CIA imperialists” were excluded from this line of alleged “compassion to the people”.<sup>12794</sup> Persons who served any of these groups before 17 April 1975 but then stopped would not be blamed. However, any person who continued such activities after 17 April 1975 had to be punished.<sup>12795</sup>

3829. The July 1978 issue of the Revolutionary Flag exhorts readers to pay attention to “sweeping out the concealed enemy boring from within even more absolutely clean”. These enemies were identified as being CIA agents, Yuon agents and KGB agents. They were all considered “life and death foes”, but the Yuon agents were now deemed the “utmost dangerous”.<sup>12796</sup> It also highlights the “contemptible Lon Nol traitors” and

<sup>12788</sup> Guidance of the Central Committee, E3/763, 20 June 1978, ERN (En) 00275217.

<sup>12789</sup> Guidance of the Central Committee, E3/763, 20 June 1978, ERN (En) 00275217-00275218.

<sup>12790</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/727, May-June 1978, ERN (En) 00185328-00185329.

<sup>12791</sup> Guidance of the Central Committee, E3/763, 20 June 1978, ERN (En) 00275220.

<sup>12792</sup> Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, paras 1450, 1468, 1501, 1513, 1525, 1531, 1540, 1553, 1563, 1570-1571, 1578, 1586, 1590, 1593, 1617, 1651.

<sup>12793</sup> T. 30 July 2015 (OM Chy), E1/326.1, p. 76.

<sup>12794</sup> Combined S-21 Notebook, E3/834, April 1978 to December 1978, pp. 38-40, ERN (En) 00184520-00184522 (entry dated 8 October 1978).

<sup>12795</sup> Combined S-21 Notebook, E3/834, April 1978 to December 1978, p. 27, ERN (En) 00184509 (entry dated 11 August 1978).

<sup>12796</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/746, July 1978, pp. 3, 7, ERN (En) 00428291, 00428295 (“sweep cleanly away concealed enemies boring from within who are CIA agents, are Yuon agents and KGB, they must be sweptly [sic] completely cleanly away in terms of their politics, ideology and organizing too.”). Similar language appears in Revolutionary Flag, E3/747, August 1978, pp. 5, 14, 21, ERN (En) 00499770, 00499779, 00499786 (“CIA agents, running-dog agents of the Yuon, and KGB agents”).

their collaboration with external enemies to ruin the CPK's revolution.<sup>12797</sup>

3830. In a statement to the Communist Workers' Party of Denmark dated 30-31 July 1978,<sup>12798</sup> NUON Chea noted that during the years of building the party (from 1960 to 1967) their enemies were "the US imperialists, their lackey and the reactionary classes".<sup>12799</sup> NUON Chea said that the Soviet Union and Vietnam were both opposed to the CPK engaging in armed struggle and that they took actions against them; the Soviets by creating a new party and the Vietnamese by "sneaking around giving our cadres pamphlets such as Lenin's Left Wing Communism: An Infantile Disorder. They said we were too left."<sup>12800</sup> During the time of armed struggle, indicated by NUON Chea as dating from 1968 to 1975, they only had a small army that used bows and arrows, but they "gained the confidence of the people by showing them that traditional weapons could kill the enemy".<sup>12801</sup> NUON Chea noted that external enemies, particularly Vietnam, were trying to undermine them, but "[w]e are not worried about the external military aggression. We worry most of all about the enemy inside."<sup>12802</sup> In response to the question why they did not mention the Soviets externally, NUON Chea answered:

Inside the party we struggle resolutely against the Soviet Union, but we have many enemies now – US imperialism, Thailand, Vietnam – and for tactical reasons we must limit our enemies as much as possible. It should be clear that we oppose the Soviet Union and revisionism, but our line has to be different from the line taken in China because we are a small country.<sup>12803</sup>

<sup>12797</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/746, July 1978, p. 5, ERN (En) 00428293 ("In 1970, the concealed enemy boring from within also reported all the plans put forward by the Party in opposition to the coup d'état to the contemptible traitor Lon Non, and the contemptible Lon Nol traitors even presented plans to the contemptible concealed enemies boring from within for wrecking the plans put forward by the Party as well. But neither the enemy on the outside nor the enemies within were able to hold things back. They were defeated, and they were exposed for what they were.").

<sup>12798</sup> This visit is also recorded in the FBIS collection, see 29 July Banquet (in FBIS collection), E3/75, 29 July 1978, ERN (En) 00168896-00168898. A few days later, the Danish delegation also met POL Pot, see Pol Pot Meeting with Danish Party Delegation Recorded (in FBIS collection), E3/75, 5 August 1978, ERN (En) 00168935.

<sup>12799</sup> NUON Chea Speech to the Communist Workers' Party of Denmark, E3/196, 30-31 July 1978, p. 21, ERN (En) 00762393.

<sup>12800</sup> NUON Chea Speech to the Communist Workers' Party of Denmark, E3/196, 30-31 July 1978, p. 22, ERN (En) 00762394.

<sup>12801</sup> NUON Chea Speech to the Communist Workers' Party of Denmark, E3/196, 30-31 July 1978, p. 22, ERN (En) 00762394.

<sup>12802</sup> NUON Chea Speech to the Communist Workers' Party of Denmark, E3/196, 30-31 July 1978, p. 27, ERN (En) 00762399.

<sup>12803</sup> NUON Chea Speech to the Communist Workers' Party of Denmark, E3/196, 30-31 July 1978, p. 27, ERN (En) 00762399.

NUON Chea said that enemy activity inside the party usually involved “CIA, Vietnamese and KGB agents”. These had been active inside the party for a long time, but they discovered this only recently because they had not been able to solve “an internal contraction” through persuasion and self-criticism.<sup>12804</sup> NUON Chea said the reason they emptied the cities after 17 April 1975 was to ruin a joint plan by the United States, KGB and Vietnam to take over DK. By spreading CIA, KGB and Vietnamese agents out over the country side, they could not implement their plan to seize power.<sup>12805</sup> NUON Chea also elaborated on how the Party’s strategy was that its leadership was to be defended at any cost; without leadership the Party would perish and would not be able to lead the struggle: “[i]f we lose members but retain the leadership, we can continue to win victories. [...] There can be no comparison between losing two to three leading cadres and 200-300 members. Rather the latter than the former.”<sup>12806</sup> The Chamber notes that this information appears to come from a chain (re)translation and will accordingly have regard to the subject-matter, theme and general thrust of the statement, without according undue weight to the meaning of particular words or phrases.<sup>12807</sup>

3831. The West Zone’s monthly report to Angkar dated 4 August 1978 notes that “persons with elements as Vietnamese, CIA agents, and those with no-good elements” were being “screened”. It mentioned 100 Vietnamese people had been smashed, 60 people “who had been from the ranking group as well as the CIA of the American imperialist” had been smashed.<sup>12808</sup>

<sup>12804</sup> NUON Chea Speech to the Communist Workers’ Party of Denmark, E3/196, 30-31 July 1978, p. 30, ERN (En) 00762402.

<sup>12805</sup> NUON Chea Speech to the Communist Workers’ Party of Denmark, E3/196, 30-31 July 1978, p. 30, ERN (En) 00762402.

<sup>12806</sup> NUON Chea Speech to the Communist Workers’ Party of Denmark, E3/196, 30-31 July 1978, p. 31, ERN (En) 00762403.

<sup>12807</sup> NUON Chea Speech to the Communist Workers’ Party of Denmark, E3/196, 30-31 July 1978, p. 36, ERN (En) 00762408 (a note is added at the end of this document, saying: “Nuon Chea spoke to the delegation in Khmer, the national language of Kampuchea. His remarks were translated into English by Ngo Pin, official interpreter of Democratic Kampuchea, and recorded verbatim in Danish longhand by Peter Bischoff. The text that follows has been retranslated into English by Peter Bischoff and edited, abridged and annotated by Laura Summers.”). See also, T. 10 July 2013 (Stephen HEDER), E1/221.1, p. 53 (noting that NUON Chea’s speech presumably in Khmer could also have first been translated into French, while the transcript given to Laura SUMMERS by the Danish Communist Workers’ Party may have been in English, French or Danish).

<sup>12808</sup> Zone 401 Report, E3/1094, 4 August 1978, p. 7, ERN (En) 00315374 (listed under the heading “About the screening of the Yuon elements, CIA agents, and the not good elements”). See also, Section 11.3: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, para. 1727; Section 6: Communication Structures, paras 489-491.

3832. In an entry dated 11 August 1978, the Combined S-21 Notebook<sup>12809</sup> shows that the strategic line was to: “[s]mash all agents of the CIA, KGB, and the Yuon, but we smash them by gathering the maximum force and isolating the enemy to the maximum”.<sup>12810</sup> It addresses the global conflict between the capitalist and the worker, which “is a conflict between friend and enemy”.<sup>12811</sup> It notes that the strategic line had changed over the years: “the old tactical line designated that the enemy of the socialist revolution was the capitalist. The new strategic line designates the enemies of the revolution are the CIA, KGB, the Yuon, and their running dogs.”<sup>12812</sup> The old line was not wrong, but “not yet strong and enlightened”.<sup>12813</sup> The document also offers more information on who were considered CIA: “the CIA were built by the Americans from those in all classes, intellectuals, monks, feudalists, capitalists, landowners, peasants of all strata, workers, laborers. Each person who joined the CIA, regardless of his former class, even the base stratum, worked to serve the international capitalists, that is, the Americans.”<sup>12814</sup> The same is stated to apply to the KGB and the “Yuon”.

3833. The August 1978 issue of Revolutionary Flag refers to the Vietnamese as the “territory-swallowing expansionist genocidal Yuon aggressor enemy”.<sup>12815</sup>

3834. A telegram dated 16 September 1978 from IENG Sary to the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities responds to that Sub-Commission’s decision taken the previous day to investigate the human rights situation in DK. IENG Sary characterised this decision as support for the activities of traitors and American Imperialists, who he accused of killing more than 1 million people in DK and “destroying 80 percent of Kampuchea”. IENG Sary warned that “as in the past people and government of Democratic Kampuchea will make mincemeat of any criminal

<sup>12809</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2131, 2134.

<sup>12810</sup> Combined S-21 Notebook, E3/834, April 1978 to December 1978, pp. 25-26, ERN (En) 00184507-00184508 (entry dated 11 August 1978).

<sup>12811</sup> Combined S-21 Notebook, E3/834, April 1978 to December 1978, p. 25, ERN (En) 00184507 (entry dated 11 August 1978).

<sup>12812</sup> Combined S-21 Notebook, E3/834, April 1978 to December 1978, p. 27, ERN (En) 00184509 (entry dated 11 August 1978).

<sup>12813</sup> Combined S-21 Notebook, E3/834, April 1978 to December 1978, p. 27, ERN (En) 00184509 (entry dated 11 August 1978).

<sup>12814</sup> Combined S-21 Notebook, E3/834, April 1978 to December 1978, p. 27, ERN (En) 00184509 (entry dated 11 August 1978).

<sup>12815</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/747, August 1978, ERN (En) 00499786.

manoeuvres of the Imperialists and their partisans”.<sup>12816</sup>

16.3.2. Factual Analysis

3835. As the evidence discussed above shows, the meaning of real or perceived enemies that may be deduced from both internal and external CPK communications depends in large part on the context in which these so-called enemies were discussed. For the Chamber’s overall assessment, the evidence regarding who was considered an enemy discussed here will thus be complimented by evidence from the relevant crime site.<sup>12817</sup>

3836. In addition, the Chamber takes into consideration that before 1975 the CPK was engaged in armed struggle against the LON Nol regime.<sup>12818</sup> The Chamber also notes its finding that there existed an armed conflict between DK and Vietnam from May 1975 until 6 January 1979.<sup>12819</sup> It further notes that the ideology underlying the CPK revolutionary stance was based on a Marxist-Leninist approach to communism and on its own reading of the class struggle in Cambodian society.<sup>12820</sup> These circumstances are relevant for assessing the evidence discussed in this section and the CPK’s references to enemies.

3837. The NUON Chea Defence submits, relying on the DK Constitution, that the term “enemy” was exclusively used to refer to activity, that is those who conduct “dangerous activities in opposition to the people’s State”,<sup>12821</sup> rather than group identity. It also submits that “enemy” is thus not a generic term referring to any pre-defined group targeted based on their identity as such, but a term used to refer to those

<sup>12816</sup> DK Telegram from IENG Sary to Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities, E3/4605, 16 September 1978, ERN (En) 00095649.

<sup>12817</sup> See e.g., Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives; Section 11.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite; Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite; Section 11.3: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site; Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre; Section 12.3.: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre; Section 12.4: Au Kanseng Security Centre; Section 12.5: Phnom Kraol Security Centre.

<sup>12818</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, para. 222.

<sup>12819</sup> Section 4: General Overview, para. 336.

<sup>12820</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, paras 202, 226.

<sup>12821</sup> NUON Chea Closing Brief, para. 395, referring to DK Constitution, E3/259, 5 January 1976, ERN (En) 00184836 (Article 10, titled “Acts violating the laws of the people’s State are as follows” actually reads in full: “Hostile and destructive acts which are systematically organised and endanger the people’s State are punishable to the highest degree. Other cases are subject to constructive re-education in the framework of the State’s or people’s organisations”). See above, para. 3763.

who had breached DK law by engaging in activities that threatened national sovereignty and state security.<sup>12822</sup> No other Party made submissions in this regard.

3838. The Chamber notes that the DK Constitution neither mentions nor explains the meaning of the term “enemy”. Based on the evidence discussed above and analysed further below, the Chamber finds that while engaging in certain types of activity could indeed result in being branded an enemy, the CPK did not use the term exclusively to refer to activity rather than group identity.

16.3.2.1. The stratification of the population and the categorisation of enemies

3839. The CPK continuously stratified the DK population into classes (which included, for instance, subdividing the peasant class into types: old or new, poor, lower-middle, mid-level, upper-middle and wealthy)<sup>12823</sup> and categorised different kinds of potential threats, to which it referred as enemies. The Chamber finds that despite the CPK’s constant (re-)categorisation of different types of enemies and changing shifts in focus, any person or entity not adhering to or threatening the CPK’s Party line, i.e. the Marxist-Leninist notion of communist revolution through armed struggle, could be branded an enemy; it was a distinction between who could be considered a “comrade” within the only remaining classes of workers and peasants in DK or a “friend” among the few foreign countries that had ties with the regime, and who could not.<sup>12824</sup>

3840. The degree of emphasis on different types of enemies fluctuated during the DK era, depending on whoever posed the biggest threat at a certain time. The initial focus in this regard was on the previous regime of LON Nol and generic enemies of the Marxist-Leninist revolution: feudalism, capitalists, imperialists, revisionists.<sup>12825</sup> Soon the notion of enemies became more concrete. Thailand was initially the primary enemy,<sup>12826</sup> but this attention started to shift to Vietnam in early to mid-1976.<sup>12827</sup> Around the same time, internal enemies became central to discussions on enemies.<sup>12828</sup>

<sup>12822</sup> NUON Chea Closing Brief, para. 395.

<sup>12823</sup> See above, paras 3750, 3792, 3810.

<sup>12824</sup> See above, paras 3801, 3803, 3814, 3832, 3839.

<sup>12825</sup> See above, paras 3751-3759.

<sup>12826</sup> See above, paras 3752, 3756, 3768-3769, 3774.

<sup>12827</sup> See above, paras 3756, 3770, 3775, 3777.

<sup>12828</sup> See above, paras 3752, 3786-3787, 3789-3790, 3793-3794. Matters appeared to calm down in December 1976, when SON Sen stated at a meeting that regarding the internal enemy situation there was nothing to worry about because they had been “smashed”. See above, paras 3797-3799.

While the categories were broad and plentiful, they did not change significantly after the 1976 internal purges and rise in conflict with Vietnam that same year.<sup>12829</sup>

3841. Some countries were off the CPK's radar in this regard. China was considered a friend of DK and always remained supportive.<sup>12830</sup> Laos was considered an enemy but was not perceived as a real threat and was therefore only sporadically discussed.<sup>12831</sup>

16.3.2.1.1. Internal and external enemies

3842. Enemies were roughly divided into two categories: internal enemies and external enemies.<sup>12832</sup> Internal enemies were generally those from within the ranks of the party or the army – i.e. insiders – or civilians.<sup>12833</sup> External enemies could be anyone from outside the organisation or outside the country.<sup>12834</sup>

3843. The CPK leaders briefly appeared to feel that the internal enemy situation was under control around mid-December 1976, after the first wave of internal purges triggered by the Royal Palace incident was behind them.<sup>12835</sup> The alleged attempted coup d'état of early 1977 seemed to have quickly ended the CPK leaders' brief sense of control over the internal enemy situation.<sup>12836</sup> Throughout the DK period, the CPK regarded internal enemies as a very significant threat.<sup>12837</sup> Mid-1978, the CPK considered their new Party line to be stronger and more enlightened as it had then evolved from focusing on capitalists as the main internal enemy of the revolution to realising the primary enemies in this regard were CIA, KGB and “Yuon” agents, all of whom had to be smashed.<sup>12838</sup>

<sup>12829</sup> Section 12.1.1.4: Internal Factions: 1976 Events – Explosions in Siem Reap and Phnom Penh; Section 4: General Overview, paras 284-285.

<sup>12830</sup> See above, paras 3803, 3814-3815.

<sup>12831</sup> See above, paras 3769, 3796.

<sup>12832</sup> See above, paras 3752, 3782, 3800-3801, 3809 (meeting minutes and telegrams); 3806, 3808, 3824, 3829-3830 (CPK Magazines and speeches).

<sup>12833</sup> See above, paras 3786, 3793. See also, Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Brigades and Regiments, E3/795, 2 August 1976, p. 10, ERN (En) 00656578.

<sup>12834</sup> See above, paras 3752, 3782, 3799, 3801, 3806, 3808-3809, 3824, 3829-3830.

<sup>12835</sup> See above, paras 3797-3799. See also, Section 12.1.4.2: Internal Factions: The Royal Palace grenade explosions (April 1976).

<sup>12836</sup> See above, para. 3804. A second wave of internal purges followed, see Section 12.1.5: Internal Factions: 1977 Events – Division 310 and the Northwest Zone (RUOS Nhim).

<sup>12837</sup> See above, paras 3790, 3793, 3827, 3830.

<sup>12838</sup> See above, para. 3832.

3844. While this (internal versus external) distinction was the one most commonly made, the line between the two categories was often blurred. Internal enemies were usually alleged to be agents from foreign entities, and accused of being CIA, KGB and “Yuon” agents.<sup>12839</sup> Toward the end of the DK era, this lumping together of different types of internal and external enemies became more persistent – everyone was in it together.<sup>12840</sup>

16.3.2.1.2. Counter-revolutionary ideologies and behaviour

3845. Those who were considered as adhering to or supporting pacifism and revisionism,<sup>12841</sup> imperialism, capitalism and feudalism – or any political or ideological stance that did not accord with the CPK’s Marxist-Leninist revolutionary approach, which necessarily included armed struggle and thus excluded any type of pacifist thought or behaviour – were all considered enemies.<sup>12842</sup>

3846. Many different types of behaviour could fall under counter-revolutionary “enemy activity”. For example, theft (often of food);<sup>12843</sup> rape (or any conduct deemed “immoral”);<sup>12844</sup> people fleeing home and desertion;<sup>12845</sup> mistreatment of combatants and cadre;<sup>12846</sup> misuse of the Party line;<sup>12847</sup> and expressing opinions (through spreading leaflets, for instance); having “political tendencies”; or practicing “reactionary religions”.<sup>12848</sup> This could include something as seemingly harmless as saying “cattle

<sup>12839</sup> See above, paras 3794, 3804. For instance, CHAN Chakrei alias Mean was accused of being a CIA agent. See above, para. 3793; Section 12.1.4.2: Internal Factions: The Royal Palace grenade explosions (April 1976).

<sup>12840</sup> See above, paras 3804 (SON Sen saying countries to the east and the west were in it together and that CIA and revisionists were one), 3814 (POL Pot saying that the CIA, Thailand, the Soviet Union and Vietnam were all collaborating), 3820 (a Revolutionary Flag issue noting that the CIA and the “Yuon” were the same).

<sup>12841</sup> Marxism split into two main camps late nineteenth century: “revisionist” Marxists favoured a gradual and peaceful transition to socialism, while revolutionary Marxists favoured armed struggle. Lenin rejected revisionism and added his own changes to the ideology, thus creating what was later known as Marxist-Leninist communism, which the CPK claimed to adhere to. Revisionism’s rejection of armed struggle as the favoured means to achieve socialism was generally deemed bourgeois and counterrevolutionary by orthodox Marxists. See T. Ball and R. Dagger, ‘Communism: Communism after Marx’, Encyclopædia Britannica (online edition). See also, Section 3: Historical Background, paras 202, 226. The June 1977 issue of Revolutionary Flag spoke of a conflict “between true Marx-Leninism and revolution-betraying revisionism”. See above, para. 3808.

<sup>12842</sup> See above, paras 3755, 3757-3758, 3762, 3784, 3788, 3792, 3803, 3808, 3813, 3821, 3832.

<sup>12843</sup> See above, paras 3783-3784, 3790, 3793, 3797, 3800.

<sup>12844</sup> See above, para. 3779.

<sup>12845</sup> See above, paras 3754, 3769, 3783-3784, 3787, 3790, 3793, 3797.

<sup>12846</sup> See above, paras 3783, 3785, 3793.

<sup>12847</sup> See above, para. 3785.

<sup>12848</sup> See above, paras 3763, 3784, 3786, 3792-3793, 3797, 3810, 3813.

of the rich were fatter than cattle of the poor”.<sup>12849</sup> There were also several instances in which people with long hair were targeted for arrest.<sup>12850</sup>

16.3.2.1.3. Specific categories of enemies

16.3.2.1.3.1. Former ranking civilian and military personnel of the Khmer Republic

3847. Those linked to the former regime were regarded as enemies throughout the DK era, but from 1976 the CPK’s fear-driven attention shifted towards so-called CIA agents and Vietnam.<sup>12851</sup> “LON Nol traitors” were discussed at length in the CPK magazines Revolutionary Flag and Revolutionary Youth as late as August 1978, though, and accused of working together with the American imperialists or acting as “their lackeys”.<sup>12852</sup>

16.3.2.1.3.2. “New People”

3848. “New People” or “17 April People”, who were roughly divided into the categories “new peasants” and “new workers”,<sup>12853</sup> were generally distrusted and therefore at risk of being branded enemies more quickly than “Old People” or “Base People”.<sup>12854</sup> Policy Document No. 6, dated 22 September 1975, tends to indicate, however, that in some CPK publications there was not an outright target on New People: “We must not treat them, as in the past, as capitalists, university students, former officials, students, petty bourgeoisies, traders, and national capitalists, compradors because they have joined our circle [side]”.<sup>12855</sup> This sentiment was echoed

<sup>12849</sup> See above, para. 3810 (a Revolutionary Flag issue explained that “[t]o believe that private property cattle are fatter than collective property cattle is to attack the collective regime, to attack the Party’s socialist revolution, whether wittingly or unwittingly.”).

<sup>12850</sup> See above, para. 3804. See also, Minutes of Meeting of Secretaries and Economics of Divisions, E3/793, 16 May 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00923159 (Comrade Pin noted that there were no problems with enemies in the unit, but that “two skinny, long-haired persons were arrested at Central Market” on 11 May 1976); Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/13, 9 October 1976, p. 4, ERN (En) 00940339 (“someone who was wearing both men’s and women’s clothes and long hair was shot dead at Wat Chumpou Voan Pagoda”. Comrade Met added that this person was an enemy but not from within the “unit of organization”); Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/807, 1 March 1977, p. 4, ERN (En) 00933836 (Comrade Sim noted that: “Three persons were also detained on the waterways at Division 450. They fell under suspicion because they were wearing long hair and behaving widely [sic].”).

<sup>12851</sup> See above, paras 3751, 3755, 3761, 3772-3773, 3818.

<sup>12852</sup> See e.g., paras 3755, 3813, 3818, 3829.

<sup>12853</sup> See above, paras 3756-3757.

<sup>12854</sup> See e.g., para. 3756.

<sup>12855</sup> See above, para. 3757.

a year later in a meeting on 30 August 1976: New People who do not yet understand must be educated, but they do form a risk for CIA infiltration.<sup>12856</sup> Although officially eradicated, class origin thus remained at the centre of the CPK's analyses of contradictions and real or perceived enemies in DK society, and a matter of life and death struggle in order to succeed in the class warfare.<sup>12857</sup>

16.3.2.1.3.3. Returnees from abroad

3849. People returning to Cambodia from abroad, such as students and diplomats who returned either voluntarily or after having been recalled,<sup>12858</sup> were also at risk of being branded enemies more quickly than “Old People” or “Base People”. An undated DK document entitled “Viewpoint on Kampuchea following 17 April 1975” notes that “some people who have lived or studied abroad have been convinced to return to the country in order to find any gap and infiltrate into our Revolution”.<sup>12859</sup> During a meeting with Division 164, SON Sen said that certain information came from confessions from people returning from abroad, whom SON Sen – as the minutes indicate – considered enemies.<sup>12860</sup>

16.3.2.1.3.4. Monks

3850. Monks were deemed a “special class” that related most closely to the peasant class,<sup>12861</sup> but who were allegedly susceptible to CIA infiltration, just as “New People”

<sup>12856</sup> See above, para. 3784.

<sup>12857</sup> See above, paras 3792, 3796.

<sup>12858</sup> See e.g., DK Policy Document No. 6, E3/99, 22 September 1975, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 00244275-00244276 (“external fronts have returned to the country [...] former officials working with us before, or other diplomats of Lon Nol, students in Europe and America who were not previously on our side [...] it is up to us to decide what to do with them”); SISOWATH Ayravady Declaration, E3/5679, 22 October 1989, pp. 1-3, ERN (En) 00078082-00078083 (for instance, returnees were former GRUNK officials and diplomats, and included, inter alios, NORODOM Phurissara and SARIN Chhak, the former GRUNK Minister of Foreign Affairs based in Beijing); T. 6 August 2012 (SUONG Sikoeun), E1/102.1, pp. 87-92 (witness learned in 1979 that some of the returned diplomats had disappeared); T. 7 August 2012 (ONG Thong Hoeung), E1/103.1, pp. 100, 105 (some returnees disappeared and the Witness later learned that they were executed); T. 8 August 2012 (ONG Thong Hoeung), E1/104.1, pp. 81-86 (many returnees were sent to Boeng Trabaek where they worked and were criticised pursuant to the class struggle); T. 7 May 2013 (Philip SHORT), E1/190.1, pp. 17-19 (citing Book by P. Short, Pol Pot: The History of a Nightmare, E3/9, 2004); Book by B. Kiernan, The Pol Pot Regime: Race, Power and Genocide in Cambodia under the Khmer Rouge, 1975-1979, E3/1593, pp. 147-149, ERN (En) 01150070-001150071 (describing how Cambodians returned once their admission back into the country was approved by Angkar in September 1975).

<sup>12859</sup> See above, para. 3751.

<sup>12860</sup> See above, para. 3787.

<sup>12861</sup> See above, para. 3750. See also, DK Notebook, E3/8381, undated, pp. 21, 26, ERN (En) 01369261, 01369266 (echoing the undated Notebook E3/1233, pp. 6-7, ERN (En) 00711616-00711617, listing monks as a “special class”); Section 10.1.9: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Treatment of Buddhists.

and returnees from abroad.<sup>12862</sup> A policy document dated 22 September 1975 stated that 90 to 95 percent of monks had already abandoned their monkhood and were working in the rice fields, noting that this special class would no longer be cause for worry.<sup>12863</sup>

16.3.2.1.3.5. CIA, KGB and “Yuon” (Vietnamese) agents

3851. CIA, KGB and “Yuon” (Vietnamese) agents were sometimes discussed as separate categories, but were usually mentioned together, as alleged collaborators.<sup>12864</sup> For instance, CHAN Chakrei alias Mean was alleged to have been a CIA agent supported by the Soviet Union and Vietnam,<sup>12865</sup> and POL Pot, during his visit to China on 28 September 1977, said the CIA, Thailand, the Soviet Union and Vietnam were all working together.<sup>12866</sup> The Thai were linked to the CIA and the “American imperialists” throughout the entire DK era.<sup>12867</sup>

3852. The KGB is not mentioned in any of the minutes of the Standing Committee meetings or other DK era meetings before the Chamber, indicating the CPK did not perceive the KGB as a realistic threat. However, the Chamber finds that “KGB agents” appear in other evidence as enemies nonetheless,<sup>12868</sup> because the Soviet Union was deemed an ally of the CPK’s enemy, revisionist Vietnam.<sup>12869</sup> Any pacifist or revisionist tendencies were not in line with the Kampuchean revolution. NUON Chea said to the Danish Communist Workers’ Party in July 1978 that the Soviet Union was surely considered an enemy, yet one not wise to take on considering the DK’s small size and more important enemies they had to focus on.<sup>12870</sup>

3853. The Vietnamese or “Yuon” (agents) were increasingly discussed throughout the DK era as the armed conflict between DK and Vietnam intensified, and were considered the most dangerous enemy.<sup>12871</sup> In early 1978, the CPK introduced its “one against 30” policy.<sup>12872</sup> Witness PRUM Sarat testified that he understood this to mean that one RAK

<sup>12862</sup> See above, para. 3832. See also, para. 3784.

<sup>12863</sup> See above, para. 3757.

<sup>12864</sup> See above, paras 3774, 3788, 3790, 3793, 3804, 3806, 3814, 3820.

<sup>12865</sup> See above, para. 3790.

<sup>12866</sup> See above, para. 3814.

<sup>12867</sup> See above, paras 3752, 3756, 3764, 3774, 3779, 3781, 3795, 3814.

<sup>12868</sup> See above, paras 3803, 3806, 3811, 3814, 3828-3830, 3832.

<sup>12869</sup> See above, para. 3790.

<sup>12870</sup> See above, para. 3830.

<sup>12871</sup> See above, paras 3793, 3811, 3819-3820, 3824, 3828-3829.

<sup>12872</sup> See above, paras 3824, 3826. See also, Section 4: General Overview, paras 282-293.

soldier “had to smash 30 Vietnamese soldiers”.<sup>12873</sup> Conversely, POL Pot said, as also reiterated in a radio broadcast on 10 May 1978,<sup>12874</sup> that “[t]his issue [of one against 30] does not just apply to the Army: the entire Party, the entire Army, the entire people absorb this line and view and stance”.<sup>12875</sup> The Chamber finds that the word “Yuon”, which had been used in Cambodia since long ago to refer to Vietnamese people, was used in a derogatory fashion in aggressive rhetoric and associated with both combatants and civilians.<sup>12876</sup>

3854. The NUON Chea Defence submits that the words “CIA” and “KGB” were never used as literal references to these intelligence agencies. Rather, they were labels given to those with Western imperialist leanings on the one hand, and Soviet or Vietnamese (revisionist) leanings on the other hand.<sup>12877</sup> Similarly, the KHIEU Samphan Defence submits that these labels were used for foreigners as well as anyone who opposed the CPK’s regime.<sup>12878</sup> No other Party made submissions in this regard.

3855. The Chamber agrees with the NUON Chea Defence and the KHIEU Samphan Defence that the CPK’s references to foreign intelligence agencies are not to be taken literally. It cannot be known how many CIA agents, KGB agents and Vietnamese agents, if any, were in DK at the relevant time, nor can it be known how many persons had connections to – or sympathised with – these intelligence agencies and their corresponding home countries. The Chamber finds that references in the evidence to CIA, KGB and Vietnamese agents must be understood to have served predominantly rhetorical purposes, and mainly expressed the CPK’s fear of the different external (counter-revolutionary) influences on people within DK.

16.3.2.2. CPK’s approaches to enemies

16.3.2.2.1. Advocating “class anger”

3856. The CPK advocated “class anger”, which entailed, for example, ensuring that children would hold “a hereditary grudge against the enemy forever” and ensuring that

<sup>12873</sup> T. 26 January 2016 (PRUM Sarat), E1/382.1, p. 66.

<sup>12874</sup> See above, para. 3826.

<sup>12875</sup> See above, para. 3824. See also, Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, paras 3379, 3402, 3405.

<sup>12876</sup> Section 13.3.5: Treatment of the Vietnamese: Targeting of the Vietnamese.

<sup>12877</sup> NUON Chea Closing Brief, para. 218. See also, T. 1 February 2017 (Stephen MORRIS), E1/486.1, p. 72.

<sup>12878</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, paras 1215-1216.

people would have “a seething hatred for the enemy” as this would help people stay alert when exterminating internal enemies.<sup>12879</sup> Duch testified in this regard that staff at S-21 were taught to have vengeance and “harbour anger against the enemy”.<sup>12880</sup>

16.3.2.2.2. Disperse, isolate, educate, smash

3857. Policies regarding how to deal with so-called enemies depended on the type of enemy and on the context. Generally, with respect to less threatening categories, the CPK’s emphasis was on isolation (removing bad elements from good elements to avoid contaminating the latter) and re-education.<sup>12881</sup> It was also a tactic to disperse enemies so that they would not be able to gather forces and would be influenced positively by good elements.<sup>12882</sup> Some categories of enemies, such as New People and returnees from abroad, were suspect and were thus at risk of being branded an enemy and being sent for re-education, but they were considered to pose less of a threat than those suspected of being CIA, Soviet or “Yuon” agents. Internal and external enemies suspected of being such spies were to be eliminated, “exterminated” “swept cleanly away” or “smashed” immediately.<sup>12883</sup>

3858. According to Witness PECH Chim, the term “smash” meant to eradicate or to rid society of – in his opinion, it did not necessarily mean to kill them, but to eliminate the sense of class, the repression and exploitation of other people, to get rid of that mindset.<sup>12884</sup> Conversely, according to Duch “to smash” meant “to execute”.<sup>12885</sup> On S-21 execution lists, the term “smashed” was used to indicate prisoners had been executed.<sup>12886</sup> Moreover, when discussing combat lines in the December 1976-January 1977 issue of the Revolutionary Flag, NUON Chea stated that one guerrilla team could “kill one enemy and wound one enemy per day”, adding that 5,000 teams could thus

<sup>12879</sup> See above, paras 3751, 3759, 3767, 3810, 3821.

<sup>12880</sup> T. 20 April 2012 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/51.1, p. 36. See also, Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2164, 2596, 2616.

<sup>12881</sup> See above, paras 3757, 3774, 3783-3787, 3791-3793, 3828. See also, Section 16.4.2.1.3: Common Purpose: Implementation of the Common Purpose: Establishment and Operation of Security Centres and Execution Sites: Existence of Policy: Re-education of “Bad Elements”.

<sup>12882</sup> See above, paras 3777, 3799.

<sup>12883</sup> See above, paras 3767, 3793-3794, 3803, 3806, 3811, 3823-3824, 3829, 3831, 3832.

<sup>12884</sup> T. 1 July 2013 (PECH Chim), E1/215.1, pp. 37-38; T. 22 April 2015 (PECH Chim), E1/290.1, pp. 52-53.

<sup>12885</sup> KAING Guek Eav Interview Record, E3/453, 5 September 2007, p. 3, ERN (En) 00147581; KAING Guek Eav Interview Record, E3/449, 21 January 2008, pp. 7-8, ERN (En) 00159558-00159559; T. 20 March 2012 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/51.1, pp. 17-18.

<sup>12886</sup> Section 12.2.3.2.2.6: S-21 Security Centre: General Considerations on Evidence: Documentary Evidence: Contemporaneous S-21 prisoner lists: Execution lists.

“smash” lots of enemies.<sup>12887</sup> The Chamber therefore finds that, unless the context of the evidence clearly indicates otherwise, “to smash” meant “to kill”.

3859. According to Witness NEANG Ouch, the phrase “to sweep clean somebody” meant to execute or kill that person.<sup>12888</sup> Stephen HEDER similarly stated that the phrase “swept cleanly away” meant “wiped out”.<sup>12889</sup> Moreover, the evidence demonstrates that the terms “to smash” and “to sweep (cleanly) away” were used interchangeably.<sup>12890</sup> The Chamber thus finds that “to sweep cleanly away” (or variations thereof) meant “to kill”, unless the context of the evidence clearly indicates otherwise.

16.3.2.2.3. Family members, including children

3860. Children and other family members played a vital role in combatting enemy activity. On the one hand, children were used to perpetuate grudges.<sup>12891</sup> On the other hand, children of “no-good” elements were perceived as potential enemies. SON Sen said at a meeting in December 1976: “[b]e most careful about those who [sic] mothers and fathers were purged or whose siblings were purged”.<sup>12892</sup> An introductory document for party members, copied also in the Revolutionary Flag issue of September-October 1976, stated “[w]hen they die, they instruct their children to struggle on against the communists”.<sup>12893</sup>

3861. The February 1978 issue of the Revolutionary Flag included a speech by POL Pot in which he highlighted the stance and importance of the role of children: “When the mother is good, the children are good. The mothers have good, correct class origin, and the Party has collectively indoctrinated them politically, ideologically, and organizationally time and time again. With good mothers like this, the sons and daughters, the troops, are also good.”<sup>12894</sup> “The mothers have mighty revolutionary

<sup>12887</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/25, December 1976-January 1977, p. 36, ERN (En) 00491429. See above, para. 3802. See also, para. 3817 (discussing guerrilla tactics at Instructions from 870, E3/741, 3 January 1978, p. 3, ERN (En) 00296005).

<sup>12888</sup> T. 10 March 2015 (NEANG Ouch alias Ta San), E1/274.1, p. 4; T. 11 March 2015 (NEANG Ouch alias Ta San), E1/275.1, p. 13. See also, T. 12 March 2015 (NUT Nov), E1/276.1, p. 69 (testifying that “sweeping clean” meant “to purge within the rank”).

<sup>12889</sup> T. 11 July 2013 (Stephen HEDER), E1/222.1, pp. 12, 41-42.

<sup>12890</sup> See above, paras 3811, 3829.

<sup>12891</sup> See above, para. 3759.

<sup>12892</sup> See above, para. 3797.

<sup>12893</sup> See above, para. 3792.

<sup>12894</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/744, February 1978, ERN (En) 00464054. See above, para. 3818.

natures, so the children have mighty revolutionary natures. It is these children that fight and win victory, no matter how mighty the enemy may be. This will forever be the line and the organizational stance of our Revolutionary Army.”<sup>12895</sup>

16.3.2.3. Dissemination of information regarding enemies

3862. In addition to the numerous discussions held during Standing Committee meetings and other DK era meetings discussed above in the Chronological Overview (Section 16.3.1), the CPK used study sessions, radio broadcasts, speeches and CPK magazines to disseminate the information about the enemy to the masses. Such information pertained to who should be considered an enemy. Details of how to deal with enemy activity and how specific enemies had been dealt with were discussed only within the CPK at the higher level: with members of the Standing Committee,<sup>12896</sup> with the Deputy Secretaries and the Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments,<sup>12897</sup> and at meetings at the ministries such as the Ministry of Foreign Affairs,<sup>12898</sup> and offices such as S-21.<sup>12899</sup> These discussions were kept secret.<sup>12900</sup>

3863. The Revolutionary Flag and the Revolutionary Youth were both used to disseminate information regarding people considered enemies by the Party, and included speeches by POL Pot and NUON Chea.<sup>12901</sup> Real or perceived enemies were discussed at length throughout these CPK publications, for instance: (the former regime of) LON Nol,<sup>12902</sup> non-revolutionary individuals (feudalists, capitalists, etc.),<sup>12903</sup> American imperialists or CIA,<sup>12904</sup> and the Vietnamese (“Yuon”).<sup>12905</sup>

<sup>12895</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/744, February 1978, ERN (En) 00464054. See above, para. 3818. This is corroborated by Duch who testified that children were arrested and brought to S-21 at the same time as their parents “to avoid vengeance or revenge at a later stage”. See Case 001 Transcript (KAING Guek Eav), E3/5808, 2 September 2009, p. 71, ERN (En) 00374564. Duch gave the example of Huy Sre, the former head of Prey Sar, whose wife and child were arrested and killed alongside Huy Sre, in accordance with “the principle of the upper echelon”. See T. 14 June 2016 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/437.1, p. 22. See also, Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2317.

<sup>12896</sup> See above, paras 3754, 3760, 3764, 3769, 3770, 3781.

<sup>12897</sup> See above, paras 3782, 3793, 3794.

<sup>12898</sup> See above, para. 3786.

<sup>12899</sup> See above, paras 3767, 3786.

<sup>12900</sup> See above, paras 3760, 3789, 3793.

<sup>12901</sup> See above, paras 3802, 3812-3813, 3818, 3824. See also, Section 6.1.5: Communication Structures: Methods of Communication: Magazines; Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 545.

<sup>12902</sup> See e.g., paras 3755, 3813, 3818, 3829.

<sup>12903</sup> See e.g., paras 3762, 3792, 3813.

<sup>12904</sup> See e.g., paras 3780, 3829.

<sup>12905</sup> See e.g., paras 3819-3820, 3824, 3829, 3833.

16.4. Implementation of the Common Purpose

3864. The Closing Order charges that CPK leaders intended to achieve the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution “by whatever means necessary”. It further charges that, in order to achieve this common purpose, CPK leaders designed and implemented measures including the five “policies” described above.<sup>12906</sup> The Chamber finds that the expression “by whatever means necessary” refers in this case to the policies through which socialist revolution in Cambodia was implemented. The Chamber will examine below whether these policies existed, whether they encompassed the commission of crimes and whether they were intrinsically linked to the common purpose, thereby rendering it criminal in character.

3865. In determining whether a policy as charged in the Closing Order existed at the relevant time,<sup>12907</sup> the Chamber will review contemporaneous CPK pronouncements and documents which it has ruled to be particularly probative,<sup>12908</sup> and will look to consistent patterns of conduct beyond the crime base which corroborate the existence of a centrally-devised policy.<sup>12909</sup> The Chamber will then assess whether crimes established at the crime base in the preceding sections of this Judgement were perpetrated in furtherance of the policy as charged, and therefore whether they were encompassed by the common purpose.

16.4.1. “Control” and “Capture the People”: Movement of Population, Establishment of Cooperatives and Worksites

3866. The Closing Order charges the existence of a policy to establish and operate cooperatives and worksites throughout Cambodia during the DK period. According to

<sup>12906</sup> See above, para. 3728. See also, Closing Order, paras 157, 1524.

<sup>12907</sup> In so doing, the Chamber may have reference to any relevant and credible evidence which clarifies a given context, establishes by inference the elements of criminal conduct during the indictment period (including criminal intent) and/or demonstrates a deliberate pattern of conduct. See Nahimana et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 315. See also, Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, paras 827, 963, 970 (permissible reference to extratemporal and extra-jurisdictional supporting the existence of a pattern of conduct or policy); Trial Chamber Senior Legal Officer Email to Parties, E362, 26 August 2015, ERN (En) 01134372 (clarifying that evidence of the existence of the alleged targeting policy of former Khmer Republic officials could be led which concerned events outside its alleged implementation at the sites identified in the Severance Decision).

<sup>12908</sup> Section 2: Preliminary Issues, para. 46.

<sup>12909</sup> Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, paras 963, 970. The Chamber will use such evidence for corroborative purposes only and will not make findings relevant to the commission of crimes outside of seised crime sites.

the Closing Order, the objectives of population movements included fulfilling the labour requirements of cooperatives and worksites, providing food supplies to the people, protecting the population from security threats and depriving city dwellers (i.e. New People) and former Khmer Republic civil servants of their economic and political status by transforming them into peasants.<sup>12910</sup> The related program of establishing cooperatives and worksites intended to provide food for internal consumption and for export according to the Closing Order. This involved rapidly increasing the production of paddy and other commodities, creating a nationwide irrigation network and building infrastructure pursuant to the ideological objective of eliminating the private sphere, destroying the existing social structure and replacing it with a system of collectivisation.<sup>12911</sup>

3867. Although charged as two separate “policies” pursuant to which the common purpose was allegedly implemented, the Chamber deems it apposite to consider the movement of populations and establishment of cooperatives and worksites collectively in light of their overlapping political and ideological objectives. However, as the movement of populations has only been charged with respect to the treatment of the Cham, the implementation of the movement of populations policy will be discussed below in Section 3988 only insofar as it concerns the Cham.

3868. The Co-Prosecutors submit that the CPK adopted a policy to seize, control and enslave the Cambodian population at cooperatives and worksites in order to achieve unrealistic agricultural targets. According to the Co-Prosecutors, this brought about the forcible displacement of populations nation-wide, their complete physical and psychological enslavement and resulted in direct and indirect deaths.<sup>12912</sup>

3869. The NUON Chea Defence submits that the charged cooperatives and worksites policy was not criminal, and that the Closing Order’s findings to the contrary exemplify “ignorance of socialism at best, and at worst, a deep bias against it”. It contends that the establishment of cooperatives served to “improve agricultural production, and thus provide sufficient food for all DK citizens, irrespective of their social origin or wealth”, while the establishment of worksites sought to ameliorate the conditions occasioned by

---

<sup>12910</sup> Closing Order, para. 161.

<sup>12911</sup> Closing Order, para. 169.

<sup>12912</sup> Co-Prosecutors’ Closing Brief, paras 268-290.

the civil war. Noting that it was “both a duty and a right of DK citizens to build and defend the country”, the NUON Chea Defence claims that the overarching aim of ensuring independence and self-reliance was legitimate and lawful, and that it succeeded in increasing prosperity during the DK period despite evident limitations of the time.<sup>12913</sup> It does not advance any submissions with respect to the charged population movement policy.

3870. The KHIEU Samphan Defence advances that the CPK inherited a decrepit “war economy” in need of modernisation. To surmount the challenges of the time, the KHIEU Samphan Defence submits that it was necessary to dispatch human resources to rebuild the country and economy, with agriculture being the only available means of capital generation. The Defence maintains that the objective of cooperatives and worksites was the improvement of living conditions.<sup>12914</sup>

3871. The Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers do not make any submissions with regard to the policies concerning the movement of populations and the establishment and operation of cooperatives and worksites. The Chamber will address the merits of the Parties’ submissions following a holistic appraisal of the evidence before it.

16.4.1.1. Existence of policy

3872. For the reasons discussed in Section 3: Historical Background, in May 1972 the CPK Central Committee resolved to close markets, end the use of currency and organise cooperatives in liberated areas. NUON Chea reasoned that the continued circulation of currency was a threat to the expansion of liberated zones and the CPK’s ability to control the population since “US spies or the Vietnamese spies used money in order to buy or to lure our cadres” at the time.<sup>12915</sup> In late 1972, the CPK acknowledged the shortcomings of its various approaches, noting that the lack of ideological education had led to dissent and opposition in liberated areas, and further emphasised the need for direct political mobilisation of the masses through indoctrination.<sup>12916</sup>

<sup>12913</sup> NUON Chea Closing Brief, paras 974-1005.

<sup>12914</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, paras 1152-1174.

<sup>12915</sup> T. 31 January 2012 (Accused NUON Chea), E1/36.1, p. 20. See also, DK Policy Document No. 3, E3/1765, September 1975, p. 18, ERN (En) 00523586.

<sup>12916</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/783, September-October 1972, pp. 9-10, ERN (En) 00720210-00720211.

3873. As part of its stronger approach to the control the population in this new phase of national democratic revolution, on 20 May 1973 the Party proclaimed its decision to organise cooperatives in liberated zones by communally harnessing the productivity of 15 to 30 households per village, which was deemed to be the “fundamental unit in the organisation of production cooperatives”.<sup>12917</sup> Referred to as the “cornerstone in ensuring the great victory of the Great Socialist Revolution”,<sup>12918</sup> a number of rationales would be proffered for the introduction of cooperatives before and throughout the DK period.

3874. Ideologically, the cooperative was viewed as the primary instrument for waging class struggle by attacking old methods of production and organising economically subjugated peasants into self-sufficient collectives.<sup>12919</sup> This approach was heralded by the CPK under its guiding principles of “independence”, “mastery” and “self-reliance”,<sup>12920</sup> which necessitated the “relentless, complete and conclusive elimination of class and regime of feudalists, landlord[s] and capitalists”<sup>12921</sup> – often referred to as

<sup>12917</sup> Revolutionary Youth, E3/729, October 1975, pp. 3-4, ERN (En) 00357902-00357903; Third Year Anniversary of the Organisation of Peasant Cooperatives, E3/50, undated, pp. 1, 3, ERN (En) 00636008, 00636010. See also, Pol Pot's Press Conference in Peking (in SWB/FE/5631/A3/4 collection), E3/2728, 4 October 1977, ERN (En) 00390926. See also, Section 3.2.1: Historical Background: Establishment of Cooperatives before 1975.

<sup>12918</sup> Third Year Anniversary of the Organisation of Peasant Cooperatives, E3/50, 20 May 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00636008.

<sup>12919</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/748, October-November 1975, ERN (En) 00495826-00495827; Third Year Anniversary of the Organisation of Peasant Cooperatives, E3/50, undated, p. 2, ERN (En) 00636009. See also, Section 3: Historical Background, paras 239-251; Section 10.1.7: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Life and Work in the Cooperatives.

<sup>12920</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/785, July 1973, ERN (En) 00713996; Revolutionary Flag, E3/5, August 1975, pp. 14, 19-20, ERN (En) 00401489, 00401494-00401494; Revolutionary Flag, E3/748, October-November 1975, ERN (En) 00495808-00495809, 00495811, 00495814-00495815; Revolutionary Flag, E3/166, February-March 1976, pp. 4, 7-9, ERN (En) 00517816, 00517819-00517821; Revolutionary Flag, E3/759, April 1976, pp. 3, 14, ERN (En) 00517851, 00517862; Revolutionary Flag, E3/4, July 1976, pp. 16, ERN (En) 00268928 (referring to the adoption of the line of independence-mastery in 1966), 25, ERN (En) 00268937; Revolutionary Flag, E3/139, November 1976, p. 8, ERN (En) 00455285; Revolutionary Flag, E3/25, December 1976-January 1977, p. 9, ERN (En) 00491402; Revolutionary Flag, E3/742, April 1977, p. 7, ERN (En) 00478498; Revolutionary Flag, E3/743, July 1977, p. 16, ERN (En) 00476171; Revolutionary Flag, E3/170, October-November 1977, ERN (En) 00182571; Revolutionary Flag, E3/4604, April 1978, p. 20, ERN (En) 00519848; Revolutionary Flag, E3/746, July 1978, p. 18, ERN (En) 00428306; Revolutionary Flag, E3/747, August 1978, pp. 10-11, ERN (En) 00499775-00499776; Revolutionary Flag, E3/215, September 1978, p. 22, ERN (En) 00488635.

<sup>12921</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/748, October-November 1975, ERN (En) 00495814; Third Year Anniversary of the Organisation of Peasant Cooperatives, E3/50, undated, p. 2, ERN (En) 00636009 (Organising cooperatives “consisted of attacking the power of the classes of feudalists, land owners and capitalists. It was a measure to harness the force of the base people and forge a strong alliance between workers and peasants.”).

the “enemy”.<sup>12922</sup> It further required “abolishing”, “attacking”, “uprooting”, liquidating” and “smashing” the entire feudal class including land owners, rich peasants, the bourgeois and other non-revolutionary or oppressive classes as the “hallmark of our absolute revolution”, alongside the total elimination of private ownership, in paving the way for a new socialist order.<sup>12923</sup>

3875. As the “forward battlefields” and “hottest frontlines” of the revolution at the time,<sup>12924</sup> the cooperatives further served to defend against enemy forces by depriving them of vital human resources. The people would therefore no longer be subject to counter-revolutionary conversion or exploitation by the ideological enemy or Khmer Republic soldiers in liberated areas.<sup>12925</sup>

3876. In a trend that would continue well into the DK period, the CPK sought to address the apathy of the masses in liberated zones and opposition to the revolutionary cause by enhancing “socialist consciousness” through communal initiatives.<sup>12926</sup> As the

---

<sup>12922</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/748, October-November 1975, ERN (En) 00495804 (“Storming attack against the imperialist enemies, the storming attack against the feudalist, landlord and capitalist enemies”); Third Year Anniversary of the Organisation of Peasant Cooperatives, E3/50, undated, p. 5, ERN (En) 00636012 (“Cooperatives accelerated the movement attacking the enemy in all realms. Its role serves as a fundamental key in achieving the great victory of the National Democratic Revolution.”). See above, Section 16.3.2.1.2: Counter-Revolutionary Ideologies and Behaviour.

<sup>12923</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/748, October-November 1975, ERN (En) 00495802; Revolutionary Flag, E3/166, February-March 1976, pp. 3-6, ERN (En) 00517815-00517818; Revolutionary Flag, E3/762, August 1976, pp. 26-27, ERN (En) 00486767-00486768; Third Year Anniversary of the Organisation of Peasant Cooperatives, E3/50, undated, pp. 4-5, 7-8, 21-22, ERN (En) 00636011-00636012, 00636014-00636015, 00636028-00636029.

<sup>12924</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/748, October-November 1975, ERN (En) 00495824; Revolutionary Flag, E3/747, August 1978, p. 20, ERN (En) 00499785.

<sup>12925</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/5, August 1975, p. 12, ERN (En) 00401487; Revolutionary Flag, E3/25, December 1976-January 1977, p. 31, ERN (En) 00491422 (referring to fighting on Highway 6 in 1971: “[T]he contemptible Thieu’s forces could attack from the south and take Kratie. However, they were defeated. Why was that? Because we pulled out the people. When all the people were pulled out, they gained no additional forces. They had no additional strength in terms of economics or manpower. They grew even weaker. [...] The decisive factor in the victory: we pulled out the people.”); Speech of Party Zone Representative, E3/8, June 1976, ERN (En) 00104007; Revolutionary Flag, E3/747, August 1978, p. 20, ERN (En) 00499785 (“Also in 1973, the Party decided to organize cooperatives throughout the country. The cooperative movement was at a mighty boil in class struggle and in going on offensives against the enemy on the forward battlefields”). See also, DK Publication, Document No. 6: Concerning the Grasp and Implementation of the Political Line in Mobilising the National Democratic Front Forces of the Party, E3/99, 22 September 1975, p. 4, ERN (En) 00244277 (“Our responsibility is to take control of [the lower level] so that the enemy will not fight us.”).

<sup>12926</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/785, 7 July 1973, ERN (En) 00713996 (“We must be able to control the concrete situation of each individual in order to determine and take measures, and develop requests properly for each period by avoiding subjectivism and idealism”); Third Year Anniversary of the Organisation of Peasant Cooperatives, E3/50, undated, p. 2, ERN (En) 00636009 (after 1970 coup “the people had not yet matured to absolute revolutionary consciousness; they were still influenced by the capitalists and land owners.”).

primary social unit, the cooperative was to supplant notions of private ownership,<sup>12927</sup> industry, production and means of production,<sup>12928</sup> family;<sup>12929</sup> formal education,<sup>12930</sup> medical institutions and the production of medicine.<sup>12931</sup> The CPK would declare that “everything resides in the cooperatives”, necessitating the need to “grasp hold” of them.<sup>12932</sup>

3877. As acknowledged in Party publications, an important strategic line of the revolution was to “control” and “capture the people”,<sup>12933</sup> which the CPK implemented

<sup>12927</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/5, August 1975, p. 7, ERN (En) 00401482 (referring to the period 1973-1975: “We set up a process of cooperativization [...] but we made progress in eliminating private ownership of land and means of production, and in general we put cooperative ownership in place.”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/166, February-March 1976, pp. 5-6, ERN (En) 00517817-00517818; Revolutionary Flag, E3/10, September-October 1976, pp. 13, 36-37, ERN (En) 00450513, ERN (En) 00450536-00450537.

<sup>12928</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/5, August 1975, p. 33, ERN (En) 00401508; Revolutionary Flag, E3/748, October-November 1975, ERN (En) 00495823, ERN (En) 00495826 (“The cooperative is mandatory to mobilize the labour forces among the base peasants for all kinds of production, including agricultural and handicraft production etc, and industrial production in the long run”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/139, November 1976, p. 23, ERN (En) 00455300; Revolutionary Flag, E3/745, March 1978, p. 13, ERN (En) 00504079.

<sup>12929</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/10, September-October 1976, pp. 38-39, ERN (En) 00450538-00450539 (“Private ownership in organization, organizing by one’s personal sentiments, by one’s family, by one’s clique, and not standing upon the political, ideological, and organizational line on the Party. [...] [T]hat is wrong. [...] [A]nyone who thinks a lot about family interests always deceives the revolution, renounces the revolution, and lives separately seeking family happiness, not seeking happiness inside the Party.”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/139, November 1976, p. 11, ERN (En) 00455288; Revolutionary Flag, E3/743, July 1977, p. 12, ERN (En) 00476167. See also, Section 14: Regulation of Marriage, para. 3544.

<sup>12930</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/11, September 1977, pp. 50-51, ERN (En) 00486261-00486262; Revolutionary Flag, E3/4604, April 1978, pp. 20-21, ERN (En) 00519848-00519849 (“Operating [within cooperatives], later on the masses will be able to make everything throughout the country. How will this progress? Not by studying in one or two universities, but by studying in the university of the entire country of Kampuchea. So then, anyone can go to the university in the cooperatives. [...] Throughout the country, every cooperative studies; this is called eradicating illiteracy in the great revolution[ary] movement of the masses, not eradicating illiteracy by opening a school or two.”). See also, IENG Sary Speech at UN General Assembly, 32nd Session, E3/1586, 11 October 1977, para. 59, ERN (En) 00079814 (“Our schools exist mainly at the level of cooperatives and factories. Our education rests on a popular and national base, from which we are speeding up the development of technology and the sciences.”).

<sup>12931</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/166, February-March 1976, pp. 21-22, ERN (En) 00517833-00517834 (“[S]ince modern medicine is currently not very plentiful, [...] modern hospitals in the base areas must have mastery in going around to look for the maximum quantity roots to combine into traditional medicines for every type of disease in order to guarantee the maintenance of health of our people”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/743, July 1977, p. 19, ERN (En) 00476174 (the “fundamental class” in cooperatives is to be responsible for medicine, among other areas); Revolutionary Flag, E3/745, March 1978, p. 13, ERN (En) 00504079; POL Pot Interview by Yugoslavian Journalists, E3/5713, 20 March 1978, p. 2, ERN (En) 00750098; Revolutionary Flag, E3/4604, April 1978, p. 20, ERN (En) 00519848.

<sup>12932</sup> Chapter by B. Kiernan, “Excerpted Report on the Leading Views of the Comrade Representing the Party Organization at a Zone Assembly”, in Pol Pot Plans the Future: Confidential Leadership Documents from Democratic Kampuchea, 1976-1977, E3/8, 3-7 June 1976, ERN (En) 00104006.

<sup>12933</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/25, December 1976-January 1977, p. 31, ERN (En) 00491422 (referring to its pre-1975 achievements at Banam and Oudong: “This is a very important strategic line: control the people and capture the people [...]. So then, in the work of defending the country at present and later on, both with respect to cooperatives and the movement of populations from liberated zones. With regard to the former, the Revolutionary Flag explained that strict adherence to the Party line – which was to be strengthened through “indoctrination of [the] Party’s situational views and political lines toward the elimination of any non-revolutionary views and the reinforcement of the Party’s revolutionary views” – and active participation in the revolutionary movement through cooperatives was essential “in order to gain a [sic] strict control over the people”.<sup>12934</sup> KHIEU Samphan later reflected on the success of pre-1975 cooperatives, confirming that they in fact allowed the CPK “to control rice, control the enemy, [and] control the people”.<sup>12935</sup>

3878. By controlling the people, the CPK could, by extension, control the enemy. From as early as 1973, the CPK internally disseminated the imperative to “control the concrete situation of each individual” in zones under CPK administration:

In the evacuation of people from the areas under the control of the enemy to the liberated zones, we took strong and optimistic views of mass population to successfully send them away to the countryside with no worry that people could be fraught with difficulty due to the lacks [sic] of everything. In addition, we were not afraid that people in the liberated areas could not help the evacuated people.<sup>12936</sup>

3879. Under the mantra of “whatever side has the people, that side wins” and with the objective of depriving the enemy of human and economic resources, the CPK proceeded to remove inhabitants of areas liberated from Khmer Republic control.<sup>12937</sup>

---

it is important to have a grasp on the people. That is why the Party concentrates on grasping the cooperatives.” [emphasis added] More generally: “Throughout the world, they never capture the people. Our line was to capture the people: one we took him; two week took them; 100, we took them; 1,000, we took them, and so on until we captured the people from Phnom Penh too. [...] When the enemy has no people, the enemy has no military and no economic strength. Our reasoning is correct. [...] We fight to capture the people in every location.”). Philip SHORT testified that “seizing the people” was a Chinese communist tactic employed throughout the Chinese Revolution. See T. 7 May 2013 (Philip SHORT), E1/190.1, pp. 78-79.

<sup>12934</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/748, October-November 1975, ERN (En) 00495803.

<sup>12935</sup> Book by Khieu S.: Considerations on the History of Cambodia from the Early Stage to the Period of Democratic Kampuchea, E3/16, p. 83, ERN (En) 00498302.

<sup>12936</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/785, 7 July 1973, ERN (En) 00713995-00713996 (further claiming that the CPK’s ability to mobilise “people of all classes [and] status” was the result of their “ability to manage them in accordance with the popular masses’ line and views.”). See also, Section 3.2.1: Historical Background: Establishment of Cooperatives before 1975.

<sup>12937</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/25, December 1976-January 1977, p. 31, ERN (En) 00491422 (“An example: The fighting in Banam in 1973. We took everyone in Banam Town, expelling the ethnic Vietnamese, the ethnic Chinese, the military, the police; we took everyone, taking away the people from the enemy.” Regarding the fighting on Highway 6 in 1971: “[T]he contemptible Thieu’s [i.e. Thieu-Ky] forces could attack from the south and take Kratie. However, they were defeated. Why was that? Because we pulled out the people. When all the people were pulled out, they gained no additional forces. They had no additional strength in terms of economics or manpower. They grew even weaker. [...] The

POL Pot would also later explain that the liberation the Cambodian worker-peasant population meant liberating an “immense labour and production force”.<sup>12938</sup> KHIEU Samphan acknowledged that forced evacuations and the “frenetic campaign for superior-level agricultural cooperative” was part of the “same utopian program” by the Party Centre.<sup>12939</sup> Evidence before the Chamber indicates that people were “evacuated” between 1970 and 1975 from towns in Prey Veng,<sup>12940</sup> Svay Rieng,<sup>12941</sup> Kampong Cham and surrounding villages,<sup>12942</sup> Kampot,<sup>12943</sup> Stung Treng,<sup>12944</sup> Kratie,<sup>12945</sup> Oudong<sup>12946</sup> and Kampong Thom following their liberation by CPK forces.<sup>12947</sup> As the CPNLAF advanced toward the capital, CPK forces removed residents from localities they captured along the way, including those living near National Road 1 between Neak Loeung and Phnom Penh in July 1974.<sup>12948</sup> decisive factor in the victory: we pulled out the people. An example: We liberated Oudong in 1974. We pulled out all the people. When they took it back, they had no forces. They had no forces of the people; they had no economic or military strength.”)

---

<sup>12938</sup> Text of Pol Pot Speech at 27 Sep KCP Anniversary Meeting (in FBIS collection), E3/290, 28 September 1977, ERN (En) 00168645.

<sup>12939</sup> Book by Khieu S.: Cambodia's Recent History and the Reasons Behind the Decisions I Made, E3/18, pp. 62, 111-112, ERN (En) 00103754, 00103778-00103779.

<sup>12940</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/25, December 1976-January 1977, p. 31, ERN (En) 00491422 (Banam). See also, LANG Hel Interview Record, E3/5251, 14 October 2008, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 00235494-00235495 (Prey Veng town); BUN Buon Interview Record, E3/5508, 27 October 2009, p. 3, ERN (En) 00403040.

<sup>12941</sup> KHEM Leng Interview Record, E3/5539, 28 August 2009, pp. 3-4, ERN (En) 00380123-00380124; LOEM Savon Interview Record, E3/5296, 18 July 2009, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 0035814-00358146.

<sup>12942</sup> T. 9 April 2013 (François PONCHAUD), E1/178.1, pp. 13 (evacuation of Bos Khnor in 1970), 61-62; T. 10 April 2013 (François PONCHAUD), E1/179.1, p. 8 (evacuation of Kampong Cham in 1973); T. 10 July 2013 (Stephen HEDER), E1/221.1, pp. 95, 98 (evacuation of Kampong Cham in September 1973); T. 11 July 2013 (Stephen HEDER), E1/222.1, p. 4; T. 15 July 2013 (Stephen HEDER), E1/223.1, p. 71; T. 29 July 2016 (Henri LOCARD), E1/451.1, p. 56 (evacuation of Kampong Cham). See also, Further Submission from the International Commission of Jurists under Commission on Human Rights Decision 9 (XXXIV) (ECOSOC), E3/3327, 25 January 1979, p. 2, ERN (En) 00075939.

<sup>12943</sup> T. 9 April 2013 (François PONCHAUD), E1/178.1, p. 13; T. 10 April 2013 (François PONCHAUD), E1/179.1, pp. 3-4 (Danmak Chang'aeur).

<sup>12944</sup> T. 19 July 2012 (David CHANDLER), E1/92.1, p. 60; T. 20 July 2012 (David CHANDLER), E1/93.1, p. 98; IENG Sary Interview by ABC Television (Australia), E3/93, 6-19 September 1996, p. 7, ERN (En) 00078611; IENG Sary Interview by Stephen HEDER, E3/89, 17 December 1996, p. 5, ERN (En) 00417603.

<sup>12945</sup> IENG Sary Interview by ABC Television (Australia), E3/93, 6-19 September 1996, p. 7, ERN (En) 00078611; IENG Sary Interview by Stephen HEDER, E3/89, 17 December 1996, p. 5, ERN (En) 00417603.

<sup>12946</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/25, December 1976-January 1977, p. 31, ERN (En) 00491422; FUNK Publication: Nouvelles du Cambodge, No. 696, E3/114, 4 April 1974, pp. 7-8, ERN (En) 00280556-00280557; FUNK Publication: Nouvelles du Cambodge, No. 698, E3/167, 10 April 1974, ERN (En) 00280586; T. 18 July 2012 (David CHANDLER), E1/91.1, p. 44; T. 20 July 2012 (David CHANDLER), E1/93.1, p. 98; T. 10 April 2013 (François PONCHAUD), E1/179.1, p. 8; T. 19 June 2013 (NOU Mao), E1/209.1, pp. 6, 41-43; T. 10 July 2013 (Stephen HEDER), E1/221.1, pp. 88, 94; T. 29 July 2016 (Henri LOCARD), E1/451.1, p. 56; T. 11 July 2013 (Stephen HEDER), E1/222.1, p. 5.

<sup>12947</sup> T. 10 April 2013 (François PONCHAUD), E1/179.1, p. 4 (Kampong Kou).

<sup>12948</sup> US State Department Telegram, Subject: Recent Movement of Khmer Refugees to Neak Loeung, E3/4185, 10 July 1974.

3880. Plans for the final assault and evacuation of Phnom Penh and other urban centres were discussed at a meeting of the CPK Central Committee in June 1974 attended by POL Pot, NUON Chea, SAO Phim, KOY Thuon, Ta Mok, VORN Vet, RUOS Nhim and SON Sen. At the meeting, they resolved to take the capital in the dry season of 1974-1975.<sup>12949</sup> The plan to liberate and evacuate Phnom Penh was finalised in early April 1975 at a meeting at Office B-5 attended by POL Pot, NUON Chea, KHIEU Samphan, SON Sen, VORN Vet, KOY Thuon, KE Pauk, SAO Phim and Ta Mok.<sup>12950</sup>

3881. People were removed from Phnom Penh on a large scale in the aftermath of liberation on 17 April 1975.<sup>12951</sup> Orders to remove residents to the countryside were communicated down the chain of command and consistently implemented throughout the city.<sup>12952</sup> POL Pot later described the “evacuation” of residents to the countryside as one of the important factors for the success of the revolution.<sup>12953</sup>

3882. From early 17 April 1975 to 25 April 1975, at the latest, Phnom Penh was under

<sup>12949</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, para. 230.

<sup>12950</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, para. 233. See also, Section 8.1.3.1: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan: Attendance at June 1974 Central Committee Meeting and April 1975 meeting of CPK leaders.

<sup>12951</sup> Section 4: General Overview, para. 277.

<sup>12952</sup> T. 30 July 2012 (ROCHOEM Ton alias PHY Phuon), E1/98.1, p. 57; ROCHOEM Ton alias PHY Phuon Interview Record, E3/24, 5 December 2007, p. 4, ERN (En) 00223581; T. 20 September 2012 (CHEA Say), E1/124.1, pp. 44-45; CHEA Say Interview Record, E3/69, 11 December 2007, p. 2, ERN (En) 00233150 (witness was a soldier stationed north of Phnom Penh in Preak Por); T. 24 October 2012 (KUNG Kim), E1/138.1, pp. 90-91, 101; T. 25 October 2012 (KUNG Kim), E1/139.1, pp. 18-21 (“Oeun from Division 310 [...] rendered orders all the way from [the] Division and then to the company, and platoon, and to the squad, and I received such order from this level”), 53, 57-58; T. 5 November 2012 (SUM Chea), E1/140.1, pp. 10-12, 19 (witness was a soldier in Division 1); T. 8 April 2013 (CHHAOM Se), E1/177.1, pp. 34 (“Regarding the order to evacuate the population from the city, I believe that these orders were the blanket ones; every city had to be evacuated, no doubt.”), 66; T. 22 April 2013 (CHHOUK Rin), E1/181.1, pp. 89-94 affirming CHHOUK Rin Interview Record, E3/362, 29 July 2008, p. 4, ERN (En) 00268896. The consistent manner in which the evacuation was executed throughout the city demonstrates that there was in fact a decision to do so, even though it may have been communicated down the ranks imperfectly. See T. 19 April 2012 (SAUT Toeung), E1/64.1, pp. 78-81; T. 2 May 2012 (PEAN Khean), E1/71.1, p. 57; T. 3 October 2012 (MEAS Voeun), E1/129.1, pp. 88-89, 93-95; T. 14 December 2012 (SUON Kanil), E1/154.1, p. 57; T. 17 December 2012 (SUON Kanil), E1/155.1, pp. 21-22. T. 9 January 2013 (UNG Ren), E1/157.1, pp. 41-42; T. 24 April 2013 (CHUON Thi), E1/183.1, pp. 30, 45-48, 71. See also, T. 15 August 2012 (SA Siek), E1/108.1; T. 28 January 2013 (Al ROCKOFF), E1/165.1; T. 5 June 2013 (Sydney SCHANBERG), E1/201.1; T. 6 June 2013 (Sydney SCHANBERG), E1/202.1; US State Department Telegram, Subject: Khmer Refugee Walks Out From Phnom Penh, E3/3004, June 1975, ERN (En) 00495556-00495560; French Ministry of Foreign Affairs Telegram, Subject: Situation in Phnom Penh, Morning of 18 April, E3/2703, 19 April 1975, ERN (En) 00488013; A Great Caravan of Human Misery (Times Newspaper), E3/51, 18 April 1975, ERN (En) S00003279; Red Forces ‘Purifying’ Cambodia (Los Angeles Times), E3/3365, 8 May 1975, ERN (En) 00445199-00445200.

<sup>12953</sup> Far Eastern Relations: Pol Pot on Evacuation of Cambodian City Residents (in SWB/FE/5631/A3 collection), E3/2728, 4 October 1977, ERN (En) 00390921; Pol Pot’s Press Conference in Peking (in SWB/FE/5631/A3 collection), E3/2728 [E3/2072], 4 October 1977, ERN (En) 00390927 [S00080549].

the direct control of military divisions from the Special Zone (commanded by VORN Vet), East Zone (SAO Phim), North Zone (KE Pauk) and Southwest Zone (Ta Mok).<sup>12954</sup> Consistently with the procedures followed throughout military campaigns between 1970 and 1975, Zone Secretaries sought and received instructions from senior leaders including POL Pot, NUON Chea and SON Sen, stationed at B-5 at the time.<sup>12955</sup>

3883. In a pattern of conduct that continued after the fall of Phnom Penh, all population centres along National Road 5 to the Thai border had been emptied of their inhabitants by May 1975.<sup>12956</sup> By at least June 1975, all population centres along National Road 6 between Prek Dam and Siem Reap had been removed.<sup>12957</sup> By August 1975, inhabitants of various provincial towns including Takeo, Kampong Speu, Kampong Thom, Kampong Chhnang, Kampong Cham, Kampot, Kampong Som, Pursat, Pailin, Poipet, Battambang and Siem Reap were also displaced.<sup>12958</sup>

3884. By 25 April 1975, POL Pot, NUON Chea, KHIEU Samphan, IENG Sary and SON Sen had arrived in Phnom Penh and formed a Joint Leadership Committee,<sup>12959</sup>

<sup>12954</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, para. 233.

<sup>12955</sup> T. 13 December 2011 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/21.1, pp. 93-94 (after 1970, “Pol Pot called upon me to go [to the CPK headquarters] in order to participate and to listen to what he did with the military cadre from various [...] battlefields who came to report to him and to listen to him how he gave directions back to those people”); T. 31 July 2012 (ROCHOEM Ton alias PHY Phuon), E1/99.1, pp. 39-40 (at the time of the 1973 offensive on Kampong Cham town, POL Pot and NUON Chea were at nearby S-71, while SON Sen was at Bos Khnaor. Soldiers who carried out the attacks “belonged to the Centre”); T. 9 January 2013 (UNG Ren), E1/157.1, pp. 36-39 (following the 1974 attack on Oudong, SON Sen assumed command and arranged communicated tactical instructions “in order [for brigades, regiments and battalions] to succeed in the attack”); T. 5 June 2013 (Sydney SCHANBERG), E1/201.1, pp. 46-47 (a Khmer Rouge military leader at the Ministry of Information on 17 April 1975 stated that “some of the top political and governmental leaders are not far from the city”); KE Pauk Autobiography, E3/2782, undated, ERN (En) 00089710-00089711 (in 1972, the Central Committee ordered him to cooperate with Centre Unit 39, led by SON Sen, to “sweep and clean enemies around Kampong Thom”. In July 1973, the Central Committee met and decided to attack National Road 6. In September 1973, the Central Committee pledged to attack the whole country and ordered that East Zone forces attack along National Road 1, Southwest Zone forces along National Roads 2, 3 and 4 and Western Zone forces along National Roads 4 and 5, the North Zone along National Road 5. The “higher level” decided to launch offensives on Oudong).

<sup>12956</sup> US State Department Telegram, Subject: Evacuation of Foreigners from Cambodia, E3/4147, 3 May 1975, pp. 1-2, ERN (En) 00413469-00413470; US State Department Telegram, Subject: American Talks of Phnom Penh After the Fall, E3/4148, 4 May 1975, p. 4, ERN (En) 00413478.

<sup>12957</sup> French Embassy Letter, Subject: Testimony of Brigadier-General SOR Buon, E3/2666, 23 June 1975, p. 3, ERN (En) 00517765. See also, T. 20 March 2012 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/51.1, pp. 72-73 (“I received some information about the evacuation of people in Kampong Thom [...] from my brother-in-law. [...] He said that the evacuation was prepared. People who were taken by cars were to be smashed, and people who were walked [sic] would live.”).

<sup>12958</sup> Section 4: General Overview, para. 277.

<sup>12959</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview Record, E3/27, 13 December 2007, pp. 2, ERN (En) 00156742 (deposing that he entered Phnom Penh about seven to 10 days after 17 April 1975), 6, ERN (En) 00156746 (stating that he, NUON Chea and POL Pot entered together); T. 26 July 2012 (ROCHOEM Ton alias PHY Phuon), E1/97.1, pp. 61-62 (testifying that, by 20 April 1975, all divisional commanders meeting regularly with Zone and Sector Secretaries to discuss policies and plans to develop the country.<sup>12960</sup> In this new phase of socialist revolution, the Party's priority was to rapidly build a self-reliant, independent and classless country and defend it from enemies.<sup>12961</sup> KHIEU Samphan explained that, in order to build the country quickly and solve food shortages occasioned by civil war, people needed to be coerced to join cooperatives.<sup>12962</sup> In his doctoral thesis, he wrote that it was necessary for the feudal of the surrounding battlefields, including KOY Thuon, SAO Phim, VORN Vet, CHENG An and Ta Mok, were meeting at the Phnom Penh railway station, while NUON Chea arrived later, perhaps 21 April, and POL Pot and KHIEU Samphan arrived thereafter); ROCHOEM Ton alias PHY Phuon Interview Record, E3/24, 5 December 2007, p. 5, ERN (En) 00223582 (deposing that he entered Phnom Penh with SON Sen on 20 April 1975); POL Pot Interview by Yugoslavian Journalists, E3/5713, 20 March 1978, p. 8, ERN (En) 00750104 (POL Pot returned to Phnom Penh on 24 April 1975); IENG Sary Interview by Stephen HEDER, E3/543, 17 December 1996, p. 5, ERN (En) 00442665 (IENG Sary returned around 23-25 April 1975).

---

<sup>12960</sup> T. 26 July 2012 (ROCHOEM Ton), E1/97.1, pp. 67-68 (POL Pot, NUON Chea, KHIEU Samphan, IENG Sary, SON Sen, KOY Thuon, VORN Vet, Ta Mok, SAO Phim and others regularly met), 70-71 (among other topics, they discussed the socialist revolution, building and defending the country and building cooperatives); ROCHOEM Ton alias PHY Phuon Interview Record, E3/24, 5 December 2007, p. 5, ERN (En) 00223582 (POL Pot gave presentations and NUON Chea led discussions about the internal and external situation and the implementation of the socialist revolution).

<sup>12961</sup> See e.g., IENG Sary Speech at UN General Assembly, 31st Session, E3/607, 5 October 1976, p. 6, ERN (En) 00586803 (“[I]mmediately after liberation our people throughout the country engaged in a vast and intensive revolutionary mass movement to perform two fundamental tasks: the defence and building of the country.”); Standing Committee Minutes, E3/182, 9 October 1975, p. 13, ERN (En) 00183405 (“The general line is to build and defend the country, to build the country and defend it based on the force of the masses.”); POL Pot Interview by Yugoslavian Journalists, E3/5713, 20 March 1978, p. 2, ERN (En) 00750098 (following a “special national congress in late April 1975”, the CPK determined “to build a prosperous and happy Cambodian society [...] free from all class or individual forms of exploitation, in which everyone strives to increase production and to defend the country”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/5, August 1975, p. 12, ERN (En) 00401487 (“When all of the cadres, Party members, people and our Revolutionary Army are in unity with the Party line like this, they are truly a mighty and magnificent force for successfully fulfilling the missions of defending the country and building the country in great leaps of absolute victory moving toward a bright, glorious future.”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/5, August 1975, pp. 12, 29-30, ERN (En) 00401487, 00401504-00401505; Revolutionary Flag, E3/166, February-March 1976, p. 12, ERN (En) 00517824; Revolutionary Flag, E3/759, April 1976, p. 3, ERN (En) 00517851; Revolutionary Flag, E3/25, December 1976-January 1977, p. 4, ERN (En) 00491397; Revolutionary Flag, E3/135, June 1977, p. 11, ERN (En) 00446856; Revolutionary Flag, E3/215, September 1978, p. 25, ERN (En) 00488638; Revolutionary Youth, E3/766, November 1978, pp. 7-8, ERN (En) 00524168-00524169.

<sup>12962</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview Transcript, E3/4049, undated, p. 1, ERN (En) 00789058 (“[T]o be able to build our country quickly, first, food issues would be resolved speedily. [...] But, in order to reach that goal, there had to be coercion for a while, coercion to join cooperatives, because nobody would voluntarily take part in cooperatives. Even poor peasants would not accept these high-level cooperatives, because there was no private harvest for themselves”); KHIEU Samphan Interview Transcript, E3/4050, undated, p. 1, ERN (En) 00789062 (“Within a brief period their lives would be better off. So then everyone would be happy with their own achievements. Even the city people would be happy that they had joined in the actual rebuilding of the country. First they were coerced, but later when they saw the results, [...] they would become crystal clear in themselves that they had joined in rebuilding the country and everyone would come to the idea that we were all peasants.”); Book by Khieu S.: Cambodia's Recent History and the Reasons Behind the Decisions I Made, E3/18, pp. 61, ERN (En) 00103753 (“I was greatly surprised to learn, during my talks with C.P.K. executives after April 1975, that the superior level cooperatives had been used in the liberated regions since 1973. For sure, they had to be imposed on the population, because peasants in any country would never agree to give all the fruits of their labour to any organization. They might, however, if, after years of living in a cooperative, they saw the benefits of class of landlords, retailers and usurers to be driven from their unproductive activities to participate in collective production.<sup>12963</sup> He also argued that “methodical organisation of the peasant force into mutual aid teams and then into cooperatives” would increase productivity, opening up new land and improving irrigation.<sup>12964</sup> Eventually, KHIEU Samphan believed that the people would become willing participants in the socialist revolution after seeing the fruits of their labour, and would accept the part they played – as peasants – in rebuilding and defending Cambodia.<sup>12965</sup>

3885. Both KHIEU Samphan and NUON Chea later acknowledged that those who joined cooperatives were not free and could not leave.<sup>12966</sup> The coercive nature of the population movements coupled with the institution of agricultural cooperatives was recognised in the Revolutionary Youth:

After the liberation of the entire country, 99.9% of the Kampuchean people have been obliged to live in the countryside so as to be able to participate in the movement to increase production to sustain themselves and contribute to defending and building the country. During this initial period in which we have just emerged from the massively destructive war and there are all kinds of shortages, everything from, shelter, housings, food supplies, the various means and tools from production, etc, the cooperatives.<sup>12967</sup> such an arrangement and how it could improve their living conditions.”), 111, ERN (En) 00103778 (“[T]he Khmer Rouge victory on April 17, 1975, strengthened Pol Pot’s conviction that the only way to ensure the movement’s survival [...] was the forced collectivization of the country.”).

---

<sup>12963</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, para. 567.

<sup>12964</sup> Thesis by Khieu S.: Cambodia’s Economy and Industrial Development, E3/123, p. 104, ERN (En) 00750637.

<sup>12965</sup> See above, fn. 12962. See also, KHIEU Samphan Speech at Third Anniversary of Founding of DK, E3/169, 17 April 1978, p. 8, ERN (En) 00280396 (“[O]ur people are increasingly satisfied with our socialist collectivist regime. They have become increasingly aware of the power of this regime which can effectively defend and build the country by force, and rapidly improve the people’s standard of living in all independence and sovereignty while relying on its own forces at the highest level.”).

<sup>12966</sup> Book by Khieu S.: Cambodia’s Recent History and the Reasons Behind the Decisions I Made, E3/18, p. 61, ERN (En) 00103753; KHIEU Samphan and NUON Chea Interview by EA Meng-Try and LOEUNG Sopheak, E3/108, 9-11 June 2006, ERN (En) 00000928 (“Meng-Try: Why there was [sic] an evacuation in 1975? Khieu Samphan: They evacuated people to live in cooperative[s]. In the cooperative people were not free but they had enough food to eat. And the country could also [be] strong enough to fight our enemy.”). See also, An Encounter with Khieu Samphan (The Nation), E3/660, 25 January 1981, ERN (En) S00029266 (“During 1975-78, the people saw that Democratic Kampuchea did some good things and also some bad things. [...] So, there must be new political programs which have been implemented within the country since September, 1979. There is no more collectivism. People are free to grow their rice and vegetables.”); T. 31 January 2012 (Accused NUON Chea), E1/36.1, pp. 24-25 (“Q. [...] Mr Nuon Chea, can you please tell the Chamber if those who were living in the cooperatives, [...] had the choice to leave the cooperatives and settle elsewhere? A. If they were to live in the cooperatives they could not go anywhere else. They would stay and lived [sic] and worked in the cooperative.”).

<sup>12967</sup> Revolutionary Youth, E3/729, October 1975, p. 4, ERN (En) 00357903 (emphasis added).

3886. A 1975 CPK Policy Document sought to lure the population into joining the cooperative movement:

Although our economy is based on an organised cooperative, we manage to mobilise resources. [...] People become a member [sic] of the cooperative at their own wish. We do not force them. If they do not want to enter the cooperative, they are welcome. Those who do not want to do so, they can wait, observe and do it later. So, even if the enemy want[s] to attack us, they cannot do so.<sup>12968</sup>

3887. In late August 1975, the Standing Committee visited Battambang and Pursat provinces (Northwest Zone), receiving and assessing reports in the various sectors concerning the situation of the people, enemies, the military, agriculture and industry. Reaffirming that the role of cooperatives had been to provide human resources, economic and political strength for defeating “imperialism”, the Standing Committee record further noted that the role of cooperatives was now “to absorb all the new people coming out of all the cities and towns, especially Phnom Penh city and, in the Northwest [Zone], Battambang”. It further noted that “[e]very type of horrible element exists among the hundreds of thousands of new people in Battambang”, but that the “cooperatives have absorbed them completely”. The Standing Committee cautioned the need for vigilance with respect to the “contemptibles” and “no-good elements” among the “New People”, who were to be made to be “satisfied with the Revolution” and made “to see that this regime is one that belongs to them, so that they no longer desire to go anywhere else”.<sup>12969</sup>

3888. The report concerning the Standing Committee’s visit to the Northwest Zone does not indicate who attended. The Chamber notes, however, that NUON Chea was present in Cambodia in late August 1975, had ultimate decision-making authority, was a longstanding member of the Standing Committee and played a central and ongoing role in the development of Party policy.<sup>12970</sup> KHIEU Samphan, on the other hand, was travelling to China, Vietnam and North Korea in late August 1975.<sup>12971</sup> While there is insufficient evidence to establish to the required standard that either NUON Chea or

<sup>12968</sup> DK Publication, Document No. 6: Concerning the grasp and implementation of the political line in Mobilizing the National Democratic Front Forces of the Party, E3/99, 22 September 1975, p. 1, ERN (En) 00244274 (emphasis added).

<sup>12969</sup> Record of the Standing Committee’s visit to the Northwest Zone, E3/216, 20-24 August 1975, pp. 3-4, ERN (En) 00850975-00850976.

<sup>12970</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea.

<sup>12971</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, para. 592.

KHIEU Samphan participated in the August 1975 visit to the Northwest Zone, the Chamber is satisfied that, by virtue of their positions of seniority within the Party, they were both aware of the report and participated in the development of plans and policies reflected therein.

3889. Following the Standing Committee's visit to the Northwest Zone, a September 1975 policy document signified the Party's intention to transform the country's "backward" agricultural system to a modern one within 10 to 15 years, noting that "agriculture is the key to restoring and building our economy" and resolving food shortages.<sup>12972</sup> In so doing, the CPK intended, among other things, to build dams, dykes and canals; implement a production target of three tonnes of rice per hectare by 1977 with a view to exporting at least two million tonnes of rice by 1980; gradually phase out human labour by independently manufacturing agricultural machinery within three to four years; and eventually eliminate villages and replace them with cooperatives, which would also subsume the role of schools, hospitals and machinery workshops.<sup>12973</sup> The speed at which this was to be achieved was key:

Today, we have only people's cooperative ownership and state ownership. Therefore, comparing revolutionary eras, China, Korea, Vietnam, we were the fastest, 30 years faster. This is very good. [...] As for the Chinese experience, they set up cooperatives at a high level during 1956 through 1958. They continue to set up the collective. China has been liberated for [3]0 years and has still not yet organised to solve the rice field dykes. But for us, we already have cooperatives. Therefore, our speed is very fast.<sup>12974</sup>

3890. The Standing Committee had by this time recognised the limitations inherent in this plan. The imperative to advance agricultural production and rapidly increase rice production was hampered by the deficit in agrarian machinery. As a result, manpower was the only form of capital available and therefore required strategic allocation.<sup>12975</sup>

<sup>12972</sup> DK Publication, Examination of Control and Implementation of the Policy Line, E3/781, September 1975, pp. 1, 12, ERN (En) 00523569, 00523580. See also, Section 10.1.7.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Economic Plans and Production Targets.

<sup>12973</sup> DK Publication, Examination of Control and Implementation of the Policy Line, E3/781, September 1975, pp. 1-20, ERN (En) 00523569-00523588.

<sup>12974</sup> DK Publication, Examination of Control and Implementation of the Policy Line, E3/781, September 1975, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 00523570-00523571.

<sup>12975</sup> Record of the Standing Committee's visit to the Northwest Zone, E3/216, 20-24 August 1975, p. 6, ERN (En) 00850978; DK Publication, Examination of Control and Implementation of the Policy Line, E3/781, September 1975, p. 8, ERN (En) 00523576. See also, Standing Committee Minutes, E3/237, 10 March 1976, ERN (En) 00543730 (POL Pot comments that "we lack manpower" but that "mobilization has to be done in the future"); Decisions of Party Committee Conference of all Divisions, E3/790, 10-14 July 1976, ERN (En) 00714791; Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Logistics Officers of Divisions and

In this regard, the September 1975 policy document emphasised the need to address all shortages in the country (including food, cattle and medicine) and instructed the relocation of people to the Northwest Zone (“an additional force of 500,000”); Preah Vihear province (20,000 people); Kampong Thom province (North Zone, later the Central Zone) and the East Zone (to “sectors which are short of people”). Lastly, the document highlights that the Party “can only depend upon our poor base people”, and that “the new group [...] who lived comfortably”, i.e. New People, “cannot be guaranteed”.<sup>12976</sup>

3891. Although the September 1975 policy document does not name its authors or those responsible for the plans and policies it sets out, it is clear that its purpose was to examine the implementation of the Party line to build the country following liberation. IENG Sary confirmed that he was present at a September 1975 Standing Committee meeting including POL Pot, NUON Chea, KHIEU Samphan, SAO Phim, SON Sen, Ta Mok, VORN Vet, RUOS Nhim and KOY Thuon, among others, at which defence, agriculture, drought and industry were discussed.<sup>12977</sup>

3892. The policy document’s objectives were rapidly formalised and promulgated nationwide. The October-November 1975 issue of the Revolutionary Flag reported that the First National Economic Congress, attended by “economic cadres”, mandated that all would labour to rapidly build and defend the country, achieving a modern agricultural economy within 10 to 15 years; confirmed the production target of three tonnes of rice per hectare; determined that the struggle against imperialists and “their lackeys” remained necessary; encouraged the advancement of the class struggle and the expansion of cooperatives; and instructed that all manpower be organised for consecutive projects on a seasonal basis.<sup>12978</sup> In this latter regard, mobile units were

---

Regiments, E3/804, 15 December 1976, p. 3, ERN (En) 00233712 (Comrade Pin notes that, in relation to food production, “there were some manpower shortages”).

<sup>12976</sup> DK Publication, Examination of Control and Implementation of the Policy Line, E3/781, September 1975, pp. 1-20, ERN (En) 00523569-00523588. See also, Record of the Standing Committee’s visit to the Northwest Zone, E3/216, 20-24 August 1975, p. 6, ERN (En) 00850978 (recording a lack of “mastery of [the] water problem”, that “human being strength is insufficient” and insisting that: “The labour force must be increased. Three or four hundred thousand more would not be enough. The current strength of one million persons can only work 50 per cent. It’s imperative to add four or five hundred thousand more.”).

<sup>12977</sup> IENG Sary Interview by Stephen HEDER, E3/89, 17 December 1996, pp. 2-5, ERN (En) 00417600-00417603. See also, T. 15 July 2013 (Stephen HEDER), E1/223.1, pp. 63-64 (confirming the accuracy of the interview transcripts in E3/89).

<sup>12978</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/748, October-November 1975, ERN (En) 00495808-00495816. The 1976 production plan was advertised throughout the year. See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/166, February-always on standby and designed for regular deployment to cooperatives and construction sites.<sup>12979</sup> Only once cooperatives were individually expanded from 10 or 20 families to 1,000 families, and thus able to provide manpower for all activities, would it be possible to avoid further population movements.<sup>12980</sup>

3893. According to the Party, the improvement of living standards and the people's livelihood was inextricably linked to the rapid and ongoing fulfilment of economic targets.<sup>12981</sup> In addition to initiating large-scale agricultural projects nation-wide, the priority was also to repair and restore factories, road, sea and air communication routes; construct new bridges, ports and roads; and restart national industry, including the production of light and heavy machinery for agriculture, construction materials, raw materials and pharmaceutical products.<sup>12982</sup> All of this was to be achieved independently without foreign aid or assistance.<sup>12983</sup>

---

March 1976, pp. 25-30, ERN (En) 00517837-00517842; Revolutionary Flag, E3/759, April 1976, pp. 17-24, ERN (En) 00517865-00517872; Revolutionary Flag, E3/760, June 1976, pp. 3-32, ERN (En) 00509606-00509635; Revolutionary Flag, E3/4, July 1976, pp. 8-32, ERN (En) 00268920-00268944 (“Constructing socialism is three tons per hectare, paddy dike and canal systems, fertilizer, caring for the cattle, etc.”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/762, August 1976, pp. 10-11, 17, ERN (En) 00486751-00486752, 00486758; Revolutionary Flag, E3/10, September-October 1976, pp. 14-17, ERN (En) 00450514-00450517; Revolutionary Flag, E3/139, November 1976, pp. 5-15, ERN (En) 00455282-00455292.

<sup>12979</sup> For mobile units, see Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives. See below, para. 3903.

<sup>12980</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/748, October-November 1975, ERN (En) 00495827. For a detailed survey of the proposed expansion of cooperatives, see Section 10.1.5.5: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Communes and Cooperatives.

<sup>12981</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/748, October-November 1975, ERN (En) 00495818-00495819. Promotion of the revolution as a means of improving living standards and the people's livelihood continued throughout the DK period. See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/166, February-March 1976, pp. 13-15, 19-22, ERN (En) 00517825-00517827, 00517831-00517834; Revolutionary Flag, E3/760, June 1976, p. 3, ERN (En) 00509606; Revolutionary Flag, E3/4, July 1976, p. 10, ERN (En) 00268922; Revolutionary Flag, E3/10, September-October 1976, pp. 8, 33-35, ERN (En) 00450508, 00450533-00450535; Revolutionary Flag, E3/742, April 1977, p. 12, ERN (En) 00478503 (“We must push the offensive to build socialism in every field as stated in the 1977 Plan of the Party, economically (agriculture, industry, communications, transport, commerce, rubber, salt, and so on), culturally, educationally, in social affairs, in public health, in every aspect of the livelihood of the people, technologically, and so on.”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/135, June 1977, p. 18, ERN (En) 00446863 (advocating small, intermediate and large-scale rice farming as contributors to “sorting out livelihood to strengthen and expand our collective regime”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/4604, April 1978, p. 23, ERN (En) 00519851 (“When there is rice, when there is water, and when there are fish, [the people] plant other crops too, and their livelihood changes its face tremendously. They have great confidence [...] in the regime, confidence in the results that [they] can actually see.”).

<sup>12982</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/748, October-November 1975, ERN (En) 00495809; Revolutionary Flag, E3/166, February-March 1976, p. 13, ERN (En) 00517825; Revolutionary Youth, E3/730, December 1975, p. 9, ERN (En) 00363430. See also, Record of the Standing Committee's visit to the Northwest Zone, E3/216, 20-24 August 1975, pp. 5-6, ERN (En) 00850977-00850978; Standing Committee Minutes, E3/237, 10 March 1976, ERN (En) 00543729-00543731 (generally).

<sup>12983</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/762, August 1976, p. 5, ERN (En) 00486746 (“[W]e resolve our contradictions in terms of industry by standing upon our agricultural capital. We do not strengthen and

3894. By late September 1975, the CPK claimed not only to have gained “effective control over all regions” of the country, but also over most of the people. Former class distinctions had been dissolved and the people reduced to one “peasant class”, “cooperatively” organised as “the only class to carry out economic activities”.<sup>12984</sup> Henceforth, “no other class stratum [was to be] allowed beside the worker-peasant class”.<sup>12985</sup> Former civil servants, petty bourgeoisies, traders, compradors and aristocrats – all reclassified as “New People” – were no exception to this rule:

These new peasants do not have the political regime and economic base as before, particularly, in the rural areas. Therefore, now we have control over all regions. In the cities are our workers, youths and soldiers. In the rural area are base and new peasants. That is it; nothing else.<sup>12986</sup>

3895. As discussed above,<sup>12987</sup> the CPK maintained a distinction between Base or Old People and New or 17 April People throughout the DK period. The Standing Committee specifically instructed that New People were to subordinate themselves to the cooperatives and to the “leadership of cadres emerging from the basic classes” – i.e. Base People.<sup>12988</sup>

3896. Despite proclaiming the success of the cooperative movement, the CPK quickly acknowledged that “bad elements” were “still chaotically mixed in among the ranks of the new people”.<sup>12989</sup> However, it was “impossible to attack, completely smash and [immediately] dispose of” the “outlook, stances, ideology, worldview and credo” of the expand industry by requesting foreign aid. Therefore, we are able to resolve our contradictions based upon both our agricultural capital and our stance of independence, mastery, and self-reliance.”).

---

<sup>12984</sup> DK Publication, Document No. 6: Concerning the Grasp and Implementation of the Political Line in Mobilising the National Democratic Front Forces of the Party, E3/99, 22 September 1975, p. 2, ERN (En) 00244275.

<sup>12985</sup> DK Publication, Introductory Document for Party Members, E3/138, undated, p. 8, ERN (En) 00743797 (“We made a decision in September 1975 that no other class stratum is allowed besides the worker-peasant class. We consider anyone working in the worker framework as a worker, and we consider anyone working in the peasant framework is as a peasant.”).

<sup>12986</sup> DK Publication, Document No. 6: Concerning the Grasp and Implementation of the Political Line in Mobilising the National Democratic Front Forces of the Party, E3/99, 22 September 1975, p. 2, ERN (En) 00244275.

<sup>12987</sup> Section 10.1.7.2: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Categorisation of People: Full-Rights, Candidates and Depositees. See above, Section 16.3.2.1.3.2: “New People”.

<sup>12988</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, paras 990-991, 999. Regarding the further classification into Full-Rights Persons, Candidates and Depositees, see below, para. 3908.

<sup>12989</sup> Revolutionary Youth, E3/729, October 1975, p. 4, ERN (En) 00357903 (“In the complex situation where more than two million new people have just gone down to live in the countryside and enemy agents and various other bad elements are still chaotically mixed in among the ranks of the new people, our production cooperatives also have the duty to help strengthen the state authorities in the villages and subdistricts”).

“new worker-peasant people”. The collective movement would slowly expunge the remnants of “imperialist-feudalist-capitalist outlooks” and, with the aid of political indoctrination and manual labour, would succeed in transforming the entire population into worker-peasants.<sup>12990</sup>

3897. On 14 December 1975, KHIEU Samphan chaired a National Congress at which he was reported to have presented the new constitution and emphasised that all people could work collectively, either in the factories or in the fields.<sup>12991</sup> The preamble to the constitution declared that the “entire Kampuchean people and the entire Kampuchean Revolutionary Army desire [...] a society in which all live harmoniously in great national solidarity and join forces to do manual labour together and increase production for the construction and defence of the country”. Article 2 provided that all important means of production were the property of the State and people’s collectives, while Article 12 insisted that: “There is absolutely no unemployment in Democratic Kampuchea”. Article 14 determined that: “It is the duty of all to defend and build the country together in accordance with individual ability and potential”.<sup>12992</sup> The statutes of the CPK and Communist Youth League of Kampuchea similarly placed members under an ongoing duty to “keep close contact with the popular masses, [...] the worker-peasants in the unions and cooperatives” and participate in building and defending Democratic Kampuchea in the direction of socialist revolution.<sup>12993</sup>

3898. 1976 saw an intensified campaign to control people inside cooperatives. Contemporaneous publications demonstrate the CPK’s push to increase “criticism” and “self-criticism” at lifestyle meetings as “the most important means of eradicating all the non-revolutionary elements within us”. In order to counter the enemy, it was necessary to “grasp the cooperatives” and “grasp the biographies” of its inhabitants to “know

<sup>12990</sup> Revolutionary Youth, E3/729, October 1975, pp. 9-10, ERN (En) 00357908-00357909.

<sup>12991</sup> National Congress Held; New Constitution Adopted (in FBIS collection), E3/1356, 15 December 1975, ERN (En) 00167574-00167575 (the “Special National Congress” recognised the “appeal of the people” for a “new Cambodia” in which all people “jointly strive to increase production to build and protect the country”); Phnom Penh Reportage on Third National Congress: Khieu Samphan Report (in FBIS collection), E3/273, 6 January 1976, ERN (En) 00167810-00167817 (“Everybody works in the fields because our workers practice the collective system of labor and because they collectively own the factories, trains and all production sites.”). It was not clear to the Chamber whether this congress actually took place. See Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, para. 593.

<sup>12992</sup> DK Constitution, E3/259, 5 January 1976, ERN (En) 00184833-00184834, 00184837-00184838 (Preamble, Articles 2, 12, 14).

<sup>12993</sup> CPK Statute, E3/214, undated, pp. 4-5, 10, ERN (En) 00184025-00184026, 00184031; CYLK Statute, E3/1230, January 1976, pp. 4-5, ERN (En) 01201895-01201896.

clearly which person is good and which person is not good”.<sup>12994</sup> “Contradictions” between collective workers and the former capitalist regime nevertheless remained manifest during 1976. In cooperatives, the revolutionary stance was “still not firm” and “[e]nemies still continue[d] their activities”.<sup>12995</sup> The CPK further intensified efforts to expand Party membership to hasten production in all sectors, expand its control over the base and discourage potentially bad elements away from enemy conduct and firmly into the grasp of the Party.<sup>12996</sup>

3899. On 30 March 1976, the CPK Central Committee declared that the goal of the revolutionary struggle was to “seize state power and place it in the hands of the worker-peasants, and to attack and eliminate all oppressive state power”. Following a similar resolution by the Standing Committee earlier the same month with regard to the construction of dykes,<sup>12997</sup> the Central Committee resolved to establish a regime of weekly reporting to Office 870 on matters related to the three tonnes of rice per hectare target.<sup>12998</sup> Telegrams before the Chamber confirm that updates on the construction of dykes and canals, as well as rice production targets and agricultural accomplishments, <sup>12994</sup> Section 10.1.7.5.2: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Meetings, Education, Biographies and Criticism.

<sup>12995</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/166, February-March 1976, pp. 6, ERN (En) 00517818 (“Therefore, the contradictions between the capitalist-private regimes and the collective workers remain as they were. For example: Some members of the cooperatives hide rice: this is private and capitalist in nature. This path does not head toward socialism, toward the collective. Those unhappy with the collective path walk toward the capitalist path, the private path. Those who are happy with the collective walk toward the socialist path, the collective path of the proletarian class. This is a struggle between two contradictory views, stances, and lines.”), 7, ERN (En) 00517819 (“We built, strengthened, and expanded the collective regime in terms of production and daily living and made an important large step, like the cooperatives, the unions and the organization of collective living in the revolutionary ranks. However, it is still not firm. So then, this is why our Party has said, “It is imperative to continue socialist revolution by continuing to attack the remnants of the capitalist class, the private regime, and all private ownership”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/760, June 1976, p. 12, ERN (En) 00509615 (“Enemies still continue their activities. [...] In the cooperatives, we must gain mastery.”). See also, Chapter by B. Kiernan, “Excerpted Report on the Leading Views of the Comrade Representing the Party Organization at a Zone Assembly”, in Pol Pot Plans the Future: Confidential Leadership Documents from Democratic Kampuchea, 1976-1977, E3/8, p. 19, ERN (En) 00104007 (“Talking about co-operatives is talking about socialism. [...] This shows that socialist consciousness and socialist relationships are still not very strong. Socialist revolution has not yet penetrated deeply into our co-operatives.”).

<sup>12996</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/4, July 1976, pp. 25-26, ERN (En) 00268937-00268938; Revolutionary Flag, E3/762, August 1976, pp. 27-28, ERN (En) 00486768-00486769; Revolutionary Flag, E3/135, June 1977, pp. 27, 33, ERN (En) 00446872, 00446878; Revolutionary Flag, E3/193, August 1977, p. 9, ERN (En) 00399229. KAING Guek Eav alias Duch estimated that CPK membership amounted to five percent of the population. See T. 21 March 2012 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/52.1, pp. 83-84. In light of the Party’s April 1977 projection of recruiting three Party members per 100 families, the Chamber finds Duch’s estimation to be excessive. See Revolutionary Flag, E3/742, April 1977, p. 15, ERN (En) 00478506 (“We must build three Party members per every 100 families. [...] 1,000 families must have 30 Party members”).

<sup>12997</sup> Section 6: Communication Structures, para. 487.

<sup>12998</sup> Decision of the Central Committee Regarding a Number of Matters, E3/12, 30 March 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00182809.

were indeed regularly communicated to the Party Centre by zone authorities.<sup>12999</sup> However, the available evidence before the Chamber was incomplete and did not permit it to confirm that this was done on a strict weekly basis. The Central Committee also announced that model districts which achieved the “three tonnes per hectare” target, and which had arranged their labour force “well and properly”, would be rewarded with the presentation of an honorary flag with the inscription “great leap forward”.<sup>13000</sup>

3900. POL Pot affirmed the government’s obligation to adhere to the Party line at the first Council of Ministers meeting on 22 April 1976.<sup>13001</sup> At the second Council of Ministers meeting on 31 May 1976, POL Pot praised the achievements of the socialist revolution and reported on the construction of rice fields, dykes and canals; the collection of “thousands of forces in each working site” where irrigation projects were underway; and highlighted drawbacks including food shortages, disease and inadequate shelters.<sup>13002</sup> The “weaknesses” identified by POL Pot mirror the poor living conditions in the Northwest Zone witnessed by the Minister of Social Affairs, IENG Thirith, one year later.<sup>13003</sup> Reporting to POL Pot and other CPK leaders, IENG Thirith relayed that people in Battambang were ill from malaria and diarrhoea, had to work far from their villages and had no homes. In addition, “all people [were] going to the rice fields” despite an apparent directive to exclude young children or old people, pregnant women or new mothers from this initiative.<sup>13004</sup> Similar living conditions were also reported in <sup>12999</sup> See e.g., DK Telegram, E3/1219, 20 May 1977, ERN (En) 00583935-00583936 (Sector 401 [i.e. West Zone] report to Angkar); DK Telegram, E3/179, 29 May 1977, ERN (En) 00183013-00183018 (Sector 560 [i.e. Northwest Zone] report to Angkar); DK Telegram, E3/853, 3 June 1977, pp. 3-5, ERN (En) 00185244-00185246 (Southwest Zone report to Angkar); DK Telegram, E3/1179, 8 June 1977, pp. 2-5, 00583918-00583921 (Sector 560 [i.e. Northwest Zone] report to Angkar); DK Telegram, E3/1073, 10 April 1978, pp. 3-4, ERN (En) 00293360-0029336-1 (report from North Zone Secretary Se to Angkar, copied to POL Pot, NUON Chea, IENG Sary and Office 870); DK Telegram, E3/1094, 4 August 1978, pp. 54-58, ERN (En) 00143626-00143630 (Sector 401 [i.e. West Zone] report to Angkar).

<sup>13000</sup> Decision of the Central Committee Regarding a Number of Matters, E3/12, 30 March 1976, pp. 1-2, ERN (En) 00182809-00182810. See also, Section 10.1.11: Tram Kak as a Model District.

<sup>13001</sup> Meeting of the Council of Ministers, E3/817 [E3/818], 22 April 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00143461 (“Therefore, members of the Government and members of the Committees in all sectors must grasp the true nature of our Government and our duties, and strive to fulfil their tasks as well, following the Party line. Grasping the Party line means grasping the organizational stance of the Party and grasping the political objectives of the Party in every sector in order to implement the policies of the Party well and correctly.”).

<sup>13002</sup> Minutes of Meeting of the Council of Ministers, E3/794, 31 May 1976, pp. 7-9, ERN (En) 00182677-00182679.

<sup>13003</sup> IENG Thirith was appointed as Minister for Social Affairs in April 1976. See Section 5.2.1: DK Ministries and Committees.

<sup>13004</sup> IENG Thirith Interview by Elizabeth BECKER, E3/659, October-November 1980, p. 25, ERN (En) 00182322 (“I reported to our leaders that there was something queer in some provinces, for example in Battambang, I saw something very clear, that they make people, all people going to the rice fields, very far from the village and they have no home; and I saw they have no home and they are all ill. I reported

Siem Reap (Sector 106) in 1976, where 40 percent of the workforce was reportedly lost due to illness.<sup>13005</sup> At various construction sites it was reported that progress, without the use of machinery or tools, was slow, and that supplies and raw materials were dwindling.<sup>13006</sup> Indeed, the Ministry of Commerce reported that forces were not being used “in accordance with modern technology”, citing as an example labour groups assigned to digging ponds and growing crops on infertile land.<sup>13007</sup>

3901. By mid-1976, the Party leadership began to realise that they faced difficulties in reaching the target of three tonnes of rice per hectare by the end of 1976. At a Health and Social Affairs meeting attended by KHIEU Samphan in June 1976, the Party leadership reiterated that unless the target of three tonnes of rice per hectare was achieved, the Party would not be able to feed the general public or build or defend the country.<sup>13008</sup> The Revolutionary Flag acknowledged that manpower had not been distributed with proper discernment in the implementation of the “Great Magnificent Leap”: having sent all of its human resources to worksites, the Party did not have any “secondary forces” left behind to grow vegetables or crops.<sup>13009</sup>

3902. In response, the West Zone was instructed by a Party representative in June 1976 to allocate manpower strategically on a countrywide basis according to need.<sup>13010</sup> to [...] the Prime Minister. That’s quite queer. It is not normal. [...] At the time I told my leader there is something wrong in that province because I know the directives of the Prime Minister: not young, not old people, not pregnant women, not women feeding babies and not small children, but I saw [...] many people ill of diarrhoea and malaria so I reported it to him.”). POL Pot was “appointed” as “Prime Minister” at the first PRA conference in April 1976. See Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 414.

---

<sup>13005</sup> Standing Committee Minutes regarding base work, E3/232, 8 March 1976, p. 3, ERN (En) 00182630.

<sup>13006</sup> See e.g., Standing Committee Minutes, E3/237, 10 March 1976, ERN (En) 00543729-00543730 (on 10 March 1976, the Ministry of Public Works held a meeting at which it discussed the slow progress of: Kirrom Dam (“it is a bit slow because we break the stone by ourselves; There is a shortage of nuts that must be bought; [...] Request to Korea to bring in some equipments [sic.”), Chroy Changvar Bridge (“Request for more mechanics from the southwest; The lack of a crane that can lift bridge’s materials of over 100 tons is also a problem”), the provision of water and electricity (“Request for immediate delivery of raw materials”, noting that: the electricity section had run out of spare parts at all three locations; the water section has sufficient chloride stock for three months; and that alum stocks will last two more months) and construction of National Roads 4 and 5 (“Request for rock grinding machines”)).

<sup>13007</sup> Ministry of Commerce Report, E3/1159, 25-26 July 1976, p. 5, ERN (En) 00701591.

<sup>13008</sup> Standing Committee Minutes, E3/226, 10 June 1976, p. 7, ERN (En) 00183369.

<sup>13009</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/760, June 1976, pp. 24-25, ERN (En) 00509627-00509628 (“We firmly believe that we can build the country rapidly. The enemies cannot attack us. [...] The strategy and tactics must be disseminated to the cooperatives for their enlightenment so [that] they can build the country quickly. [...] This is the concrete meaning of the Great Magnificent Leap.”).

<sup>13010</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/760, June 1976, pp. 9-10, 15, 18-21, ERN (En) 00509612-00509613, 00509618, 00509621-00509624 (instructing that labour had to be organised throughout the country to ensure that both the front and rear revolutionary forces had adequate forces). See also, Revolutionary Flag, E3/4, July 1976, pp. 8-12, ERN (En) 00268920-00268924 (storming attacks had to be launched

The following month, the Ministry of Commerce reported its contribution to national development and defence by providing resources for agricultural production.<sup>13011</sup>

3903. From late 1975 and continuing throughout 1976, a seasonal workforce consisting of tens of thousands of people was displaced within and between Battambang and Pursat provinces (Northwest Zone),<sup>13012</sup> within and between Kampot, Takeo, Prey Veng, Svay Rieng, Kampong Cham, Kampong Thom and Kandal provinces (Southwest, West, Central (old North) and East Zones),<sup>13013</sup> and to Kratie province (Sector 505).<sup>13014</sup> From season to season, these people (and in particular mobile units specifically designated in each cooperative) were relocated to farm and build infrastructure, including dams and irrigation systems.<sup>13015</sup>

---

“following the most effective and correct lines of action” including strengthening and expanding the cooperatives, focusing on water, and fulfilling the goal of achieving three tonnes of rice per hectare by way of careful and consistent planning and organisation); Standing Committee Minutes, E3/237, 10 March 1976, ERN (En) 00543730 (it was necessary to mobilise “in order to expand roads and bridges”); East Zone Report, E3/1218, 15 November 1976, ERN (En) 00548800 (on 15 November 1976, the East Zone received a report concerning, among other topics, the gathering of mobile work forces to intensify rice harvests at the places where there was much ripening rice); Revolutionary Flag, E3/762, August 1976, pp. 15-16, ERN (En) 00486756-00486757 (water was a priority and forces had to be gathered from many communes to sort out water in any other communes or districts).

<sup>13011</sup> Ministry of Commerce Report, E3/1110 [E3/1159], 25-26 July 1976, p. 2, ERN (En) 00583830 [ERN (En) 00701588] (“Contributed to nation [sic] protection and development; and [a]ctually, we’ve contributed to achieving three tons per hectare and building 30% of new rice field dike system [sic] in 1976.”).

<sup>13012</sup> See e.g., T. 7 February 2013 (PIN Yathay), E1/170.1, p. 45; MOUR SETHA Interview Record, E3/5311, 19 August 2009, pp. 3-7, ERN (En) 00373362-00373366; PRUM SARUN Interview Record, E3/5187, 18 June 2008, pp. 3-5, ERN (En) 00274178-00274180; Refugee Accounts, E3/4590, p. 243, ERN (En) 00820561; Article by Utara N., The Deprivation of Rights, E3/1800, July 2003, p. 56, ERN (En) 00080450.

<sup>13013</sup> See e.g., T. 6 December 2012 (KIM VANNDY), E1/149.1, pp. 11-12 (KIM VANNDY was moved from Kandal to a worksite at Prey Phdau Dam in Svay Rieng); YUOS PHAL Interview Record, E3/4611, 12 December 2009, pp. 3-4, ERN (En) 00455376-00455377 (YUOS PHAL was moved from Phnom Penh to Kampong Cham, later to Takeo province, La Ach Sva in Kampot province and, in late 1975, finally to Trapeang Tum in Pursat province for three years to work with a mobile unit). See also, LONG SORN Civil Party Application, E3/4872, 9 January 2008, p. 3, ERN (En) 00842162 (LONG SORN was moved from Takeo to Svay Rieng and Kampot); CHIN KIM LEANG Supplementary Information, E3/4941, 15 June 2010, p. 1, ERN (En) 00833992 (CHIN KIM LEANG was moved from Kampot to Kampong Thom); YANN NHAR Civil Party Application, E3/4987, 24 July 2009, p. 6, ERN (En) 00873677 (YANN NHAR was moved from Phnom Penh to Au Ansa village in Takeo, and later to Svay Sa village, Takeo province); LY MAT Civil Party Application, E3/5053, 12 August 2009, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 00840069-00840070 (LY MAT was moved first within Kandal province and then later to Prey Veng province); REACH YEN Civil Party Application, E3/5019, undated, pp. 1-2, ERN (En) 00893424-00893425 (REACH YEN was moved twice within Svay Rieng province); SUM SOEUN Civil Party Application, E3/5055, undated, p. 4, ERN (En) 00893430 (SUM SOEUN was moved to Kandal province to build dykes). See also, Section 13.2.8: Movement of Population Phase Two.

<sup>13014</sup> See e.g., HENG LAI HEANG Interview Record, E3/436, 23 November 2009, pp. 8-9, ERN (En) 00414568-00414569.

<sup>13015</sup> See e.g., Minutes of Meeting of the Council of Ministers, E3/794, 31 May 1976, p. 8, ERN (En) 00182678 (thousands of people were collected to build canals at worksites throughout the Northwest, Southwest, East and West Zones); PRUM SARUN Interview Record, E3/5187, 18 June 2008, pp. 3-5, ERN

3904. From as early as August 1976, the Revolutionary Flag promoted the need to create preconditions to improve agricultural conditions to permit six tonnes of rice to be harvested per hectare.<sup>13016</sup> The primary impediment, however, was “the water problem”, i.e. drought. In order to harness water for irrigating fields throughout the year and ensure increased production, it was necessary to construct more dams, reservoirs and feeder canals.<sup>13017</sup> The feasibility of achieving these objectives was raised at a meeting of division and regiment leaders on 12 August 1976. Referring to the mismanagement of labour forces and incorrect land fertilisation and irrigation techniques to date, Division 310 Commander SBAUV Him alias Oeun stated that:

---

(En) 00274178-00274180 (PRUM Sarun was sent to the Kampong Puoy worksite, Battambang province, along with tens of thousands of others from all over Battambang, for three months every year after the harvest was over); Refugee Accounts, E3/4590, pp. 82, ERN (En) 00820400 (after the harvest, people were forced to go elsewhere to start from scratch), 187, ERN (En) 00820505 (in September/October 1975, all the boys and girls were withdrawn as part of an “elite” force to build a dyke at Damnak Siem, Siem Reap), 243, ERN (En) 00820561 (youths were sent to harvest crops or build waterworks far away from their home cooperatives); Book by E. Becker: When the War was Over: Cambodia and the Khmer Rouge Revolution, E3/20, p. 241, ERN (En) 00237946 (people in the Northwest were moved from project to project and then back to the rice fields); Article by F. Ponchaud, “Kampuchea: A Revolutionary Economy”, E3/2412, 25 January 1979, pp. 5, ERN (En) 00598523 (while one part of the population was engaged in massive water projects, another part was assigned to clearing forests. In 1976, a significant number of those sent to work virgin lands were sent back to traditionally cultivated lands), 13, ERN (En) 00598531 (in the dry season, a large proportion of cooperative workers were sent to construction sites). See also, BIEAN Sareth Civil Party Application, E3/4755, 18 January 2009, p. 4, ERN (En) 00864551 (BIEAN Sareth was moved to various cooperatives as part of a mobile unit in Battambang province to transplant and harvest rice and work on dykes as the season changed); ENG Hong Sum Civil Party Application, E3/5091, 13 November 2009, p. 8, ERN (En) 00569691 (when the rice was ripe in 1976, they were moved again to Krang Svat village, Battambang province); SOK Moeun Civil Party Application, E3/4918, undated, p. 4, ERN (En) 00893391 (SOK Moeun was sent to farm rice at Svay Doun Kaev, Bakan district, Pursat province in June 1976); EL Yas Civil Party Application, E3/4975, 6 February 2008, pp. 3-4, ERN (En) 00871631-00871632 (after being relocated within Pursat province in 1975, EL Yas and her family were sent to Chonlong village, Kbal Trach commune, Krakor district, Pursat province. As soon as the rainy season rice harvest was complete, they were ordered to farm dry season rice in Russei Muoy Roy Kum, Bakan district, Pursat province).

<sup>13016</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/762, August 1976, p. 6, ERN (En) 00486747.

<sup>13017</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/166, February-March 1976, p. 14, ERN (En) 00517826 (“Our Party members and evolutionary cadres [...] went down close to the [popular mass] movement to put up dams, dig feeder canals, dig reservoirs, and sort out the water problem for the people to increase production.”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/10, September-October 1976, p. 15, ERN (En) 00450515 (“According to [our] estimate, within five years our agriculture will progress greatly. If there is water, there will be rice. The harvest will increase from three tons to four tons to five tons to six tons.”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/135, June 1977, p. 20, ERN (En) 00446865 (“[I]n order to build socialism according to [the] plan, we have to master water. We have to continue sorting out water.”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/743, July 1977, p. 3, ERN (En) 00476158 (“Our core mission of the Party for 1977 is to push a great offensive movement systematically in marvellous great leaps to produce rice during 1977 and to absolutely achieve three tons and six tons per hectare [...] by going on an offensive to sort out the water problem to a greater extent in terms of reservoirs, canals, paddy [dyke] systems, and small and large feeder canals.”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/11, September 1977, p. 50, ERN (En) 00486261 (“In total, in 1977 our cooperative peasants built all sorts of water projects, which solved the water problem during all seasons, dry as well as rainy, for 400,000 hectares of farmland.”). See also, Revolutionary Flag, E3/215, September 1978, p. 20, ERN (En) 00488633 (“According to the experience of our movement over the past three years, we see that the water problems can be sorted out within eight to ten years.”).

“Achieving 1.5 ton[ne]s per hectare of early rice is not possible yet because we do not have experience”.<sup>13018</sup> SON Sen reiterated that 1.5 tonnes of first harvest rice was “not yet reliably guaranteed” and noted that the achievement of three tonnes per hectare of late [i.e. second harvest] rice was “also not yet guaranteed”. Despite acknowledging the lack of technical expertise on the ground – including the cultivation, fertilisation and irrigation of crops – SON Sen declared that this “is not a major obstacle”; the only impediment was an ideological one: “the Party [...] does not yet have a spirit of mastery as regards work”. “What is of fundamental importance”, he added, “is the leadership of the Party”.<sup>13019</sup>

3905. In spite of evident limitations, the CPK pushed forth with its economic planning, demanding even more output. On 17 and 18 November 1976, the Party leadership held its Second National Economic Congress, at which it adopted the economic plan for 1977.<sup>13020</sup> The draft Four-Year Economic Plan for 1977 to 1980 reveals the decision to continue increasing rice production by harvesting “fertile, first-class fields” twice a year to reap between six and seven tonnes of grain “according to the soil, and zone and the region”.<sup>13021</sup> The Four-Year Plan was promoted by the Party throughout 1977 until at least March 1978.<sup>13022</sup>

3906. The CPK leadership continued to promote the need to gather manpower and every type of material force to achieve, and where possible surpass, the Party’s economic targets. In the face of persistent drought and food shortages, all available manpower was to be assigned to planting and cultivation, building paddy dyke systems,

<sup>13018</sup> Minutes of Meeting of the Committees Attached to Divisions and Regiments, E3/796, 12 August 1976, p. 9, ERN (En) 00597001. Oeun was arrested six months later and executed at S-21 Security Centre. See Section 12.2.8.2.3: S-21 Security Centre: SBAUV Him alias Oeun.

<sup>13019</sup> Minutes of Meeting of the Committees Attached to Divisions and Regiments, E3/796, 12 August 1976, p. 11, ERN (En) 00597003.

<sup>13020</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/139, November 1976, p. 3, ERN (En) 00455280.

<sup>13021</sup> Four Year Plan 1977-1980, E3/8, p. 51, ERN (En) 00104023. Twenty percent or more of arable land in Sector 103 (Preah Vihear), the West and (old) North Zones was slated for two harvests per year of a combined six or seven tonnes in 1977, with this percentage increasing progressively through the four years. See also, Section 10.1.7.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Economic Plans and Production Targets.

<sup>13022</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/742, April 1977, pp. 3, 12-14, ERN (En) 00478494, 00478503-00478505; Revolutionary Youth, E3/770, May 1977, pp. 27-28, ERN (En) 00539044-00539045; Revolutionary Flag, E3/135, June 1977, pp. 7, 20-21, 34-36, ERN (En) 00446852, 00446865-00446866, 00446879-00446881; Revolutionary Flag, E3/743, July 1977, pp. 3-7, ERN (En) 00476158-00476162; Revolutionary Flag, E3/193, August 1977, pp. 3-4, 8, 14-15, 20, ERN (En) 00399223-00399224, 00399228, 00399234-00399235, 00399240; Revolutionary Youth, E3/772, September 1977, pp. 7, 26-30, ERN (En) 00541706, 00541725-00541729; Revolutionary Flag, E3/745, March 1978, pp. 3-4, 12-13, ERN (En) 00504069-00504070, 00504078-00504079.

canals, dams, reservoirs and textile production.<sup>13023</sup> As part of this enterprise, KHIEU Samphan declared that irrigation projects were being built by “progressive corps” in every region, sector and district, and reported that each reservoir, canal and dam construction site was manned by as many as 10,000 to 30,000 workers.<sup>13024</sup>

3907. According to the CPK, the success of these initiatives allowed the DK to begin exporting tens of thousands of tonnes of rice in 1977, in order to amass capital for further construction and national defence efforts.<sup>13025</sup> Evidence before the Chamber shows that while DK had begun exporting husked rice to Madagascar in 1977,<sup>13026</sup> its export operations were generally hampered by the lack of export-quality merchandise.<sup>13027</sup>

3908. In 1977, population movements were again consistently reported in Battambang and Pursat provinces (Northwest Zone), where displaced persons were assigned to farms, worksites and factories.<sup>13028</sup> Sector-level mobile units were also sent to build

<sup>13023</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/742, April 1977, p. 12, ERN (En) 00478503; Revolutionary Flag, E3/135, June 1977, pp. 18, ERN (En) 00446863 (noting food shortages and that the diet of some workers during the rainy season “may in some locations be somewhat poor, leading the people to be a little weak”, the Party insisted that “mobile units can be assigned anywhere to build reservoirs, plant potatoes, bananas, etc”. The use of these collective forces was “not yet appropriate [since] there are still contradictions” including “embedded enem[ies]”), 20-22, ERN (En) 00446865-00446867 (noting the “bad natural drought impacting our early year rice” and stating that it “is imperative to distribute manpower properly. [...] It is imperative to sort out the problem of food supplies first. [...] [I]t is imperative that we keep on building the paddy dike systems. [...] The same for dams and reservoirs. [...] Move most of the manpower to increasing production planting potatoes, pumpkins, gourds, wax melons, eggplant, etc. [...] The same for canals, dams, reservoirs. [...] The same even with textiles”), 35, ERN (En) 00446880; Revolutionary Flag, E3/743, July 1977, pp. 3-5, ERN (En) 00476158-00476160; Revolutionary Flag, E3/170, October-November 1977, p. 28, ERN (En) 00182575 (“Our experience in 1977 has been drought and more drought. The people had to go four or five kilometres to get water, and [others] had to waste time waiting for it. We have not yet been able to resolve this contradiction because our action line on the water problem still isn’t effective.”). See also, Revolutionary Flag, E3/11, September 1977, pp. 49-50, ERN (En) 00486260-00486261 (lauding efforts which resulted in the damming of the Preaek Thnaot, Chinit, Pursat, Battambang, Siem Reap and Steung Kralanh Streams).

<sup>13024</sup> Khieu Samphan’s Speech at Anniversary Meeting (in SWB/FE/5490/C collection), E3/200, 15 April 1977, ERN (En) S00004166 (“Each construction site of a reservoir, canal or dam is manned by as many as 10,000, 20,000 or even 30,000 workers. For this reason, the work progresses quickly.”).

<sup>13025</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/11, September 1977, p. 50, ERN (En) 00486261; Radio Text of Ieng Sary’s 11 Oct UN Address (in FBIS collection), E3/290, 25 October 1977, ERN (En) 00168717.

<sup>13026</sup> See e.g., Commerce Committee Report, E3/2043, 11 June 1977, ERN (En) 00583637 (5,250 tonnes in 52,500 sacks); Commerce Committee Report, E3/325, 15 August 1977, ERN (En) 00685482 (5,250 tonnes of rice to the amount of $997,550.00); DK Telegram, E3/2080, 15 September 1977, ERN (En) 00531912 (reporting the transportation of 5,000 tonnes of husked rice via Tamatao).

<sup>13027</sup> DK Telegram, E3/2082, 14 October 1977, ERN (En) 00509589 (“At the present situation, we are lacking everything and we have no significant goods to export to free markets.”). See also, Article by N. Chanda, Cambodia Goes to Market (in Far Eastern Economic Review), E3/1912, 20 May 1977, p. 75, ERN (En) S00006573 (a merchant who inspected DK samples noted that “30% of the rice was broken and of coarse quality”).

<sup>13028</sup> Submission from the International Commission of Jurists under Commission on Human Rights Decision 9 (XXXIV) (ECOSOC), E3/1804, 16 August 1978, p. 4, ERN (En) 0087527; LAY Bony dams in the Northwest Zone (including Trapeang Thma Dam),<sup>13029</sup> Kampong Thom (including the 1st January and 6th January Dams),<sup>13030</sup> Kampong Cham (Central (old North) and East Zones) and Kampot (Southwest Zone).<sup>13031</sup> By this time, construction had also begun on the Kampong Chhnang Airfield (West Zone).<sup>13032</sup> Echoing previous failures to eradicate undesirable elements,<sup>13033</sup> the Revolutionary Flag in August 1977 announced that “various oppressor classes” had “seized power” in some cooperatives and determined that “[i]f we are not absolute [...] the other classes will continue to hold power in the cooperatives”.<sup>13034</sup> This also followed the introduction of a tripartite classification of Full-Rights People, Candidates and Depositees in early 1977 which was “imperative to clearly distinguish” the different elements in cooperatives and “to not allow any further confusion”.<sup>13035</sup> As discussed elsewhere,<sup>13036</sup> the CPK in 1977 continued its practice of setting different rations for different categories of person, with the largest quantities intended for those of poor and lower-middle peasant classification or those who were deemed to be the “most productive”. While there was evidence that this was indeed implemented at cooperatives and worksites,<sup>13037</sup> the Chamber has found that food dispensed to workers, peasants and prisoners throughout the DK period was generally inadequate and frequently led to disease and death from malnutrition.<sup>13038</sup>

---

Interview Record, E3/3958, 26 August 2009, p. 10, ERN (En) 00379163 (LAY Bonyand others were transferred to Boeng Kol, Bakan district in Pursat province to farm); SOK Moeun Civil Party Application, E3/4918, 6 January 2008, p. 4, ERN (En) 00893391; LONG Sorn Civil Party Application, E3/4872, 9 January 2008, p. 3, ERN (En) 00842162; EL Yas Civil Party Application, E3/4975, 6 February 2008, pp. 3-4, ERN (En) 00871631-00871632; SAN Mom Civil Party Application, E3/4992, 11 July 2009, p. 3, ERN (En) 00893412; SAM Pha Civil Party Application, E3/5005, 26 July 2009, p. 4, ERN (En) 00871751.

<sup>13029</sup> Section 11.1.6.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: Workforce Composition.

<sup>13030</sup> Section 11.2.10: 1st January Dam Worksite: Gathering the Workforce.

<sup>13031</sup> T. 25 January 2012 (PRAK Yut), E1/33.1, pp. 92, 94-96 (as Kampong Siem District Secretary (in Kampong Cham), PRAK Yut sent people out of Kampong Siem to build dams, including in Prey Chhor district, Kampong Cham province. Approximately 50 people from each district were also recruited to build the dam at Kaoh Sla, the biggest in Kampot.); Article by F. Ponchaud, Kampuchea: A Revolutionary Economy, E3/2412, 25 January 1979, pp. 3-4, ERN (En) 00598521-005985212 (the 17 January Dam was built by 20,000 peasants and youths in mobile units beginning in May 1977; more than 23,000 youths constructed the 6 January Dam).

<sup>13032</sup> Section 11.3: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site.

<sup>13033</sup> See above, para. 3895.

<sup>13034</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/193, August 1977, p. 19, ERN (En) 00399239. See also, Section 11.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, para. 1341.

<sup>13035</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 989.

<sup>13036</sup> Section 10.1.7.3: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Rations and Communal Eating: Implementation in Tram Kak.

<sup>13037</sup> Section 10.1.7.3.2: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Implementation in Tram Kak; Section 11.1.8.2.2: Food Rations at Trapeang Thma Dam.

<sup>13038</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, paras 1011-1016, 1020, 1142; Section 11.2.17.1: 1st January Dam Worksite: Living Conditions: Food; Section 11.1.8.2.2: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: Food

3909. By 1978, CPK leaders had declared the success of their economic policies. In January 1978, NUON Chea delivered a speech on the occasion of a visiting Chinese delegation, in which he declared that the rice production targets of three and six tonnes of crop per hectare had been achieved.<sup>13039</sup> In April 1978, POL Pot declared that the “water issue” had been resolved and that economic output in the preceding year had exceeded expectations. He added that if economic targets were maintained, “we can export more [rice] than last year”.<sup>13040</sup> KHIEU Samphan repeated these assertions in an April 1978 speech celebrating the third anniversary of the CPK victory and praised the development of the country’s agricultural production, industry, handicraft and social sectors. In addition, he announced the increase of the rice production target for 1978 to three-and-a-half and seven tonnes per hectare, reinforced the need to meet and exceed production targets pursuant to the Four-Year Plan and underscored the need to “subordinate resolutely all personal [...] interests to the collective interests of the nation, class, people and revolution”.<sup>13041</sup>

3910. In April 1978, POL Pot continued the CPK’s trend of calling for relentless “storming attacks” to build and defend the country.<sup>13042</sup> Contrary to his contention that the CPK did not furnish instructions on extended working hours at cooperatives<sup>13043</sup> – an assertion which was repeated again in a June 1978 broadcast<sup>13044</sup> – earlier Party

---

Rations at Trapeang Thma Dam; Section 11.1.12.4: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Attacks Against Human Dignity; Section 11.2.24.5: 1st January Dam Worksite: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Attacks Against Human Dignity; Section 11.3: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, paras 1747-1748, 1832; Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2367; Section 12.3.12.8: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Attacks Against Human Dignity; Section 12.4.7.7: Au Kanseng Security Centre: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Attacks Against Human Dignity (see also, paras 2915-2916); Section 12.5.8.7: Phnom Kraol Security Centre: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Attacks Against Human Dignity.

<sup>13039</sup> Speech by NUON Chea, E3/78, 18 January 1978, p. 7, ERN (En) 00290285 (“With regard to nation building, in particular rice production in 1977, we have achieved 100% success in the plan to produce 3 tons per hectare and 6 tons per hectare. We must keep up our revolutionary vigilance [...] [to] build our country quickly and improve our people’s standards of living.”).

<sup>13040</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/4604, April 1978, pp. 16-17, ERN (En) 00519844-00519845.

<sup>13041</sup> Speech by KHIEU Samphan, E3/169, 17 April 1978, p. 12, ERN (En) 00280400; Third Anniversary Celebrated at 15 April Mass Rally: Khieu Samphan Statement (in FBIS collection), E3/1361, 16 April 1978, pp. H8-H9, ERN (En) 00168820-00168821; Phnom Penh Rally Marks 17th April Anniversary (in SWB/FE/5791/B/1 collection), E3/562, 16 April 1978, ERN (En) S00010564.

<sup>13042</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/748, October-November 1975, ERN (En) 00495802, 00495804, 00495808-00495828; Revolutionary Flag, E3/4, July 1976, pp. 6, 8-13, ERN (En) 00268918, 00268920-00268925; Revolutionary Flag, E3/135, June 1977, ERN (En) 00142910.

<sup>13043</sup> Section 11.2.11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite: Government Policy Regarding Work Hours.

<sup>13044</sup> Nation-Building, Defence Tasks Outlined (in FBIS collection), E3/293, 30 June 1978, ERN (En) 00169721.

broadcasts insisted that:

We must work wholeheartedly and achieve tangible results. We must perform our tasks expeditiously by augmenting manpower or extending working hours. We must do this because the forefront has been working day and night. Neither the army nor the people at the front think of time or schedules.<sup>13045</sup>

3911. Yet another broadcast in May 1978 declared that workers had “increased their working hours” as part of an “offensive to overfulfil the plan of the Party and the Democratic Kampuchea government”.<sup>13046</sup> The Chamber recalls its findings that the Party Centre issued instructions concerning work hours, was aware that workers were forced to work irregular hours and without rest and envisaged work outside of regular hours.<sup>13047</sup> It accordingly finds that broadcasts to the contrary sought to deflect blame and eschew responsibility.

3912. As part of their regular reports to Angkar, zone secretaries routinely reported on the “livelihood” and living conditions of workers and peasants inside their respective zones. The evidence demonstrates that, following reports by the sectors,<sup>13048</sup> the issue of food shortages was reported directly to senior leaders including POL Pot, NUON Chea, SON Sen and IENG Sary throughout the DK period by the Southwest, West,

<sup>13045</sup> Unity Between Front, Rear Needed for Victory (in FBIS collection), E3/292, 31 January 1978, ERN (En) 00169180 (emphasis added).

<sup>13046</sup> Commentary Urges Unity of Cambodian People (in FBIS collection), E3/1362, 11 May 1978, ERN (En) 00170038.

<sup>13047</sup> Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, para. 1277.

<sup>13048</sup> See e.g., DK Telegram, E3/178, 21 May 1977, p. 14, ERN (En) 00342721 (Sector 5 Committee reporting to RUOS Nhim that: Thma Puok and Sisophon districts “have had rather less” food rations than that determined by Angkar; the three sangkats of Phnom Leab, Teuk Cho and Rohal “must face difficulty this coming June” and that “[t]he solution is to plan to share the food” from other sangkats “in order to get through to the months of September and October”; in Phnom Srok and Preah Netr Preah “there is also concern about the food”); DK Telegram, E3/1086, 28 May 1977, ERN (En) 00143569 (Region 1 report indicating that “The matter of food supply has been tackled to an extent”); DK Telegram, E3/851, 28 May 1977, ERN (En) 00183603 (Sector 4 report: “There is no change in the people’s standard of living in Daun Teav district, in that the rations are being sorted out appropriately to the state of shortages. [...]. The standard of living of the people in Bak Pre a district is one of economic shortages of food. From an evaluation of the last six months, it’s run out in every cooperative, and it’s apparent [that] the people’s strength is weak. Looking forward, the eating is already down to one can for every two and a half people, and we can see already that there’s no potential for barter between one cooperative and the next.”); DK Telegram, E3/950, 11 May 1978, ERN (En) 00185216-00185217 (RUOS Nhim report to “Angkar 870” indicating that food shortages had beset Regions 1, 4 and 5); DK Telegram, E3/1198, 5 April 1977, p. 1, ERN (En) 00916976 (Report of Division 801, Regiment 81 Commander PAO Sam On to SAO Saroeun, copied to SON Sen and Office 870, warning that in Sector 107 (Northeast Zone) cooperatives, “The Hang people face shortages like this. If we force them to work hard, be careful or they will hack.” The original bears a handwritten annotation by SON Sen asking: “Who is Hang?”).

Northwest, North, Northeast and East Zones,<sup>13049</sup> as well as by the air force.<sup>13050</sup>

3913. The prevalence of diseases and illnesses including malaria, cholera, fever, diarrhoea, leprosy, jaundice and swelling,<sup>13051</sup> as well as the lack of available

<sup>13049</sup> See e.g., DK Telegram, E3/1164, 25 November 1976, ERN (En) 0516709-00516710 (Division 801 Commander SAO Saroeun reporting to SON Sen that “enemies” in the Northeast Zone had “indoctrinated the cadres and combatants not to trust our Revolution” due to “insufficient food rations” and stating that one of the shortcomings was because “we sometimes suffered from a shortage of food”); DK Telegram, E3/179, 29 May 1977, ERN (En) 00183013 (Northwest Zone (i.e. M-560) telegram to Angkar reporting, under heading “People Situation”: “People’s living standard is a shortage in many regions. Now, people in Regions 1, 2, 4, 6 and 7 are the most needy. Most people at support bases eat thin rice soup [gruel], while those at front battle[grounds] have in some regions a ration of 2 cans of rice per day, and eat in some other regions either of alternative rice and gruel twice a day.”); DK Telegram, E3/853, 3 June 1977, ERN (En) 00185246 (Southwest Zone report to Angkar that “some districts and sub-districts have encountered the shortage” but that “it can be addressed”); DK Telegram, E3/1179, 8 June 1977, p. 3, ERN (En) 00583919 (West Zone report stating that “As for people’s livelihood, [the] food issue has been solved in part”); DK Telegram, E3/1091, 23 August 1977, ERN (En) 00143573 (North Zone Secretary KANG Chap alias Se, reporting to Committee 870: “The shortage of food for people in some districts did not result from the shortage of water, compost, or people’s less effort, but it was because cadres had not understood the guidelines of cultivation [crop diversification] of the Party clearly and building of class stand points had been paid less attention to.”); DK Telegram, E3/1144, 5 September 1977, ERN (En) 00517924-00517925 (North Zone Secretary KANG Chap alias Se reporting to Committee 870 that: “Because of the large shortage of food supply, we could estimate that our supply could not last up to September” and that “Sector 44 is still in shortage for food”, which caused pilfering); DK Telegram, E3/907, 24 December 1977, p. 1, ERN (En) 00183634 (Chhon (i.e. SAO Phim) report copied to POL Pot, NUON Chea, IENG Sary, VORN Vet, SON Sen and Office 870 that “Our daily food rations are totally expended. That which I asked for previously, please Brother, supply it urgently.”); DK Telegram, E3/914, 31 December 1977 (Phuong report copied to POL Pot, NUON Chea, IENG Sary, VORN Vet, SON Sen and Office 870 that “A large number of cooperative people and workers in Krek and Memut [East Zone] [...] are facing food shortage now”); DK Telegram, E3/157, 21 April 1978 (Brother Ri report copied to POL Pot, NUON Chea, IENG Sary, VORN Vet and Office 870 indicating that “[T]he food ration is the same as reported previously. Generally speaking, the situation is not as difficult as in 1977”); DK Telegram, E3/1092, 16 July 1978, p. 3, ERN (En) 00289923 (West Zone report to Angkar indicating that “In general, people have rice for lunch and dinner; however now they start having the mixture of rice with corn and yam sometimes.”); DK Telegram, E3/1093, 23 July 1978, ERN (En) 00295173 (West Zone report to Angkar indicating that the food situation has been “dealt with” by supplying corn, cassava and yams). See also, DK Telegram, E3/1218, 15 November 1976, ERN (En) 00548800 (“Brother Lao” reporting to “respected Brother” (i.e. SON Sen) that “recommendations have been given to people [in districts 21 and 22 in Sector 101 (Northeast Zone)] to grow corn, bean and potato to have enough food for consumption” since the districts “do not produce enough rice”. In District 34: “It’s tough [...] Kalai and [illegible] may face food shortage[s] for three months. The situation is severe in L’ak village”).

<sup>13050</sup> DK Telegram, E3/1133, 1 September 1976, ERN (En) 00505035-00505036 (SOU Met reporting on behalf of the Division 502 Committee (i.e. the navy) an act of thievery by two individuals due, inter alia, to insufficient food).

<sup>13051</sup> See e.g., DK Telegram, E3/853, 3 June 1977, p. 5, ERN (En) 00185246 (Southwest Zone report to Angkar that: “Nowadays, in Kampot, Kampong Speu and Takeo province. the people have got cholera, and some people died. Therefore, the local hospitals have launched campaigns against this disease by sending medical workers to examine and treat patients.”); DK Telegram, E3/1179, 8 June 1977, p. 3, ERN (En) 00583921 (West Zone telegram reporting that in Sector 1: regarding the “people’s health issue, in [our] concentration worksite, there are numerous diseases, particularly fever, dysentery, amenorrhoea, [and] fallen uterus.” In Sector 5: “As for health [issue], there are some chill and flu especially in Kok Rumchek. In Sre Daemdai battlefield, cholera caused one person dead. With respective other people, we have protective measures, sanitary practice, and 10,000 have already been offered vaccination.”); DK Telegram, E3/1093, 23 July 1978, ERN (En) 00295173 (West Zone telegram to Angkar reporting on the health situation: “Generally, our people were not frequently sick, but in some bases there were some health problems such as people got diarrhoea, swelling, fever, paling, etc. and other chronic illness. To medication,<sup>13052</sup> was also regularly reported to the Angkar by way of sector committees.<sup>13053</sup> The Standing Committee was informed about disease and the lack of food and medicine in the Northwest Zone during its visit in August 1975.<sup>13054</sup> POL Pot informed the Council of Ministers (HU Nim and IENG Thirith in attendance, among others) about the shortage of rations, poor shelter and diseases in May 1976 and urged that improvements be made by the ministries.<sup>13055</sup> IENG Thirith personally reported instances of illness in Battambang to POL Pot and other CPK leaders.<sup>13056</sup> Members of the Standing Committee were encouraged to visit “the rice fields frequently, at least 15 days each month”.<sup>13057</sup> In light of the systematic vertical reporting regime within the ranks of the CPK and the foregoing evidence demonstrating their actual knowledge, the Chamber finds that members of the uppermost echelon of the CPK – including POL Pot, NUON Chea and KHIEU Samphan – were aware of living conditions on the ground. While some documentation shows the Party Centre’s intention to keep the address this issue, we educated medics at all levels for them to observe the kind of diseases and provide treatment at all time. We also asked for hygiene practice, that is by always using hot water and cleaning houses.”); DK Telegram, E3/179, 29 May 1977, ERN (En) 00183013 (Northwest Zone (i.e. M-560) telegram to Angkar reporting: “In all regions, such disease[s] as fainting spell[s], diarrhoea and fever are most prominent”, and that “there have been some people affected” by malaria); DK Telegram, E3/950, 11 May 1978, ERN (En) 00185216 (RUOS Nhim report to “Angkar 870” that the issue of malaria “must be gradually addressed”).

---

<sup>13052</sup> See e.g., DK Telegram, E3/879, 11 November 1975, p. 2, ERN (En) 00182596 (SAO Phim (i.e. Chhon) telegram to POL Pot, copied to SON Sen, IENG Sary, Doeun and IENG Thirith, reporting that the Zone is “short [of] general treatment medications”: “In general, general medications in the villages and sector are all gone. The medicine which Angkar provided previously has been handed out, only a little per each patient.”); DK Telegram, E3/1209, May 1978, ERN (En) 00522888 (KANG Chap (i.e. Se) telegram to Committee 870, copied to POL Pot, NUON Chea, IENG Sary, VORN Vet and Office 870, reporting that in the North Zone: “there is some shortage of medicine; [we] have continuously dealt with it by gradually producing more medicine.”).

<sup>13053</sup> See e.g., DK Telegram, E3/1086, 28 May 1977, ERN (En) 00143569 (Region 1 report to Northwest Zone: “People at concentration work sites mostly caught diseases like fever and diarrhoea; women ceased menstruating and had genital diseases.”); DK Telegram, E3/1218, 15 November 1976, ERN (En) 00548800-00548801 (“Brother Lao” reporting to “respected Brother” (i.e. SON Sen) instances of “malaria, stomach ache blood in urine and jaundice” as well as leprosy in Sector 101 (Northeast Zone). In Sector 107: “jaundice, nerve shaking” and “leprosy” are reported, with “the number of lepers [having] increased to more than 1000”); DK Telegram, E3/1181, 27 June 1977 (Sector 5 telegram to Northwest Zone reporting: “[People’s] living standards [in Thmar Puork] are medium”; in Phom Srok: “Living conditions are fairly poor”; in Preah Netr Preah: “It is the worst place of starvation, which last year alone killed more than 20,000 people”). See also, SON Em Interview Record, E3/9477, 2 June 2014, p. 4, ERN (En) 01034083 (stating that he “received reports from various sectors in the [Northwest] Zone, and I typed the reports by a typewriter and telegraph” before sending them to “Office 870”); T. 22 November 2016 (SON Em), E1/501.1, pp. 37-39.

<sup>13054</sup> Record of the Standing Committee’s visit to the Northwest Zone, E3/216, 20-24 August 1975, p. 1, ERN (En) 00850973.

<sup>13055</sup> Minutes of Meeting of the Council of Ministers, E3/794, 31 May 1976, pp. 8-9, 11-12, ERN (En) 0018267-00182679, 00182681-00182682.

<sup>13056</sup> See above, para. 3900.

<sup>13057</sup> Meeting of the Council of Ministers, E3/817 [E3/818], 22 April 1976, p. 10, ERN (En) 00143470.

labour force healthy,<sup>13058</sup> as shown below dismal living conditions abounded across the country and the CPK repeatedly failed to respond adequately to widespread disease and hunger.<sup>13059</sup> The standing healthcare system of past, which had been staffed by trained medical professionals – i.e. those deemed by the CPK to have been steeped in “feudalist” and “capitalist” tendencies – was replaced by laypeople without qualifications or medical training in the spirit of independence, mastery and self-reliance.<sup>13060</sup> The Chamber finds that as part of its mandate to monitor the implementation of the Party’s policies,<sup>13061</sup> the Central Committee (and in particular the Standing Committee) was fully apprised of issues affecting the livelihood of workers and peasants at bases, cooperatives and worksites including food shortages, health issues and the lack of medicine throughout the DK period.

3914. In spite of widespread starvation across the country, the CPK exported large quantities of rice to generate capital. Between January and September 1978, DK exported over 29,000 tonnes of rice valued at nearly six million US dollars, atop other commodities totalling over 20 million dollars.<sup>13062</sup> Imports to the various DK offices during the same period exceeded 58 million dollars.<sup>13063</sup>

3915. The displacement of populations continued between late 1977 and early 1979. In contrast to previous displacements taking place across the entire country, the CPK “evacuated” populations from Prey Veng, Svay Rieng, Kampong Cham and Kampong Chhnang as a result of the East Zone purges and border clashes. Notwithstanding the cause of their displacement, evidence before the Chamber demonstrates that the effect

<sup>13058</sup> Standing Committee Minutes regarding base work, E3/232, 8 March 1976, p. 6, ERN (En) 00182633; Radio Calls for Attention to Year’s Last Crop (in FBIS collection), E3/1339, 29 November 1977, ERN (En) 00168308.

<sup>13059</sup> See below, para. 3926. The Chamber notes reports of a “countrywide medical conference” ostensibly held between 25 and 28 October 1978, at which POL Pot reportedly discussed the need to improve the people’s health, prevent all diseases, provide medicine to the sick and master the use of “modern” medicine. See Countrywide Medical Conference Issues Resolution (in FBIS collection), E3/77, 9 November 1978, ERN (En) 00170123-00170124. As this event was not corroborated by any reliable evidence on the Case File, the Chamber accords this article minimal weight. On the available evidence, it is unclear to the Chamber whether this event genuinely took place.

<sup>13060</sup> Section 11.1.8.5.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: CPK Approach to Health.

<sup>13061</sup> Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 355.

<sup>13062</sup> Export Statistics in 1978 (from January to September), E3/2059, undated, ERN (En) 00583647-00583648 (rice exports totalled 29,758.145 tonnes at $5,911,833.85, while other exports (including rubber, cotton, coffee, pepper, sesame, soybeans, mung beans, peanuts, wood, animal and other products) amounted to $20,204,168).

<sup>13063</sup> Import Statistics in 1978 (from January to September), E3/2059, undated, ERN (En) 00583646 (total imports: $58,690,705.96), ERN (En) 00583651-00583652 (imports by weight). DK largely imported textiles, fuel, medicine, insecticide and machine parts.

of these population movements was, much like previous displacements, to put populations to work in cooperatives in Pursat, Kampong Thom, Battambang and Takeo provinces.<sup>13064</sup>

---

<sup>13064</sup> See e.g., PHOK Sdaeng Interview Record, E3/7795, 10 December 2008, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 00268641-00268642; HENG Nea Interview Record, E3/5259, 10 December 2008, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 00275915-00275916; KHOEM Samon Interview Record, E3/5260, 11 December 2008, pp. 3-5, ERN (En) 00327161-00327163; SOM Chhom Interview Record, E3/7892, 10 December 2009, pp. 2-3, 6, ERN (En) 00422365-00422366, 00422369; DUONG Sau Interview Record, E3/7708, 20 November 2008, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 00250740-00250741; UNG Chhat Interview Record, E3/4600, 21 August 2009, pp. 3-4, ERN (En) 00373917-00373918; IN Vuthy Interview Record, E3/5542, 3 September 2009, p. 6, ERN (En) 00373230; PRUM Yan Interview Record, E3/7816, 29 January 2009, p. 3, ERN (En) 00292839; MEY Savoeun Interview Record, E3/9467, 11 October 2013, pp. 7-8, ERN (En) 00978755-00978756; DUONG Uon Interview Record, E3/7789, 3 December 2008, pp. 3-5, ERN (En) 00268628-002686230; MAN Saroeun Interview Record, E3/5258, 4 December 2008, pp. 2-4, ERN (En) 00251699-00251701; KEO Chea Interview Record, E3/7791, 4 December 2008, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 00251755-00251756; HIM Tan Interview Record, E3/7788, 2 December 2008, pp. 3-4, ERN (En) 00268635-00268636. See also, KE Pich Vannak Interview Record, E3/35, 4 June 2009, pp. 12-13, ERN (En) 00346156-00346157 (declaring that: “There was an evacuation of people from the East Zone to other Sectors” at a time when “fighting along the borders [was] also intensifying”); SENG Yon Interview Record, E3/7738, 20 April 2008, pp. 3-4, ERN (En) 00272282-00272283; KHEM Leng Interview Record, E3/5539, 28 August 2009, ERN (En) 00380127-00380128; SOK Thul Interview Record, E3/5254, 5 November 2008, p. 6, ERN (En) 00242363; TUM Son Interview Record, E3/7756, 5 February 2009, p. 3, ERN (En) 00294403; KOL Lim Interview Record, E3/5243, 17 September 2008, p. 4, ERN (En) 00225492; KHOEM San Interview Record, E3/5250, 13 October 2008, p. 3, ERN (En) 00235490; CHAP Yon Interview Record, E3/7885, 22 October 2009, ERN (En) 00404269; KUNG Tes Interview Record, E3/5241, 12 February 2009, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 00333962-00333963; MAT Ysa Interview Record, E3/5207, 14 August 2008, p. 4, ERN (En) 00242078; ROS Samen alias ROS Men Interview Record, E3/5240, 12 February 2009, p. 3, ERN (En) 00289621; THENG Huy Interview Record, E3/5244, 17 September 2008, p. 4, ERN (En) 00233301; RUOS Savi Interview Record, E3/7715, 12 May 2009, pp. 3, 10, ERN (En) 00328375, 00328382; KHUN Mon Interview Record, E3/7806, 16 September 2008, p. 2, ERN (En) 00225486; SIN Chhem Interview Record, E3/7794, 5 December 2008, p. 3, ERN (En) 00251406; IENG On Interview Record, E3/9352, 16 September 2008, p. 3, ERN (En) 00231660; UNG Ien Interview Record, E3/7796, 11 December 2008, p. 3, ERN (En) 00268646; SOKH Chhin Interview Record, E3/3956, 8 December 2009, ERN (En) 00426294-00426295; CHAK Muli Interview Record, E3/5234, 13 January 2009, pp. 6-7, ERN (En) 00288203-00288204.

3916. The object of fulfilling economic and ideological goals, both by establishing and operating cooperatives and worksites nationwide, and by moving populations to and between rural areas to these sites was variously promoted, supported and/or endorsed by POL Pot,<sup>13065</sup> NUON Chea,<sup>13066</sup> KHIEU Samphan,<sup>13067</sup> IENG Sary,<sup>13068</sup> SON Sen,<sup>13069</sup> IENG Thirith<sup>13070</sup> and VORN Vet throughout the DK period.<sup>13071</sup> Both NUON Chea and KHIEU Samphan lectured cadres on meeting economic and production targets,<sup>13072</sup> while NUON Chea furnished specific instructions to cadres on the management of cooperatives in order to ensure the fulfilment of quotas and to increase the amount of harvests per year.<sup>13073</sup>

<sup>13065</sup> See e.g., Record of the Standing Committee's visit to the Northwest Zone, E3/216, 20-24 August 1975, p. 3, ERN (En) 00850975 ("Angkar's guiding opinions" provided at a meeting discussing the strengthening and expansion of cooperatives); Standing Committee Minutes regarding base work, E3/232, 8 March 1976, pp. 4-6, ERN (En) 00182631-00182633 ("Opinions and instructions of Angkar regarding the base" discussing rice production, dykes, cooperatives at Sectors 303, 103 and 106); Standing Committee Minutes, E3/223, 17 May 1976, p. 3, ERN (En) 00182710 (reporting POL Pot's conclusion that: "Our policy is still the same: strengthening and extending forces in all fields, namely the [P]arty, the military, economy, and especially [the] food issue."); Standing Committee Minutes, E3/226, 10 June 1976, pp. 7, ERN (En) 00183369 (three tonnes of crop per hectare), 10, ERN (En) 00183372 (mobilising children into the workforce); Standing Committee Minutes, E3/823, 3 August 1976, ERN (En) 00234015 (advocating crop diversification for self-sufficiency and nation-building); Text of Pol Pot Speech at 27 Sep KCP Anniversary Meeting (in FBIS collection), E3/290, 28 September 1977, ERN (En) 00168617 (production targets and cooperatives), 00168644-00168645 (cooperatives and collective production, liberated people as an "immense labor and production force"), 00168650 (transformation of Cambodia into a modern agricultural society); The Far East: Pol Pot on Evacuation of Cambodian City Residents (in SWB/FE/5631/A3 collection), E3/2728, 3 October 1977, ERN (En) 00390926-00390927 (POL Pot "said that it was imperative to master the economy if the people's forces were to be consolidated and expanded to the greatest extent possible. [...] One of the important factors [of the success of the revolution] is the evacuation of city residents to the countryside. [...] 'The second success is the solution of our people's livelihood. Our 1976 harvest can in the main [sic] meet the people's need for livelihood. After the war, we must first of all solve the problem of grain and the problem of people's livelihood.'"); Final Instalment of Tanjug Report on Cambodia (in FBIS collection), E3/1361, 24 April 1978, ERN (En) 00168878 ("The cooperative is the basic cell of society. Pol Pot maintains that they embrace about 85% of the population."); Conclusion of Pol Pot Speech at 27 Sep Phnom Penh Meeting (in FBIS collection), E3/294, 29 September 1978, ERN (En) 00170162-00170163 (extolling the virtues of cooperatives in alleviating food shortages and improving livelihood and living conditions, mobilising "the entire people and nation", national construction including dams, reservoirs, canals and increased land under irrigation), 00170166 (industrial development); Revolutionary Flag, E3/215, September 1978, pp. 7, ERN (En) 00488620 (speech by POL Pot counselling that comrades "must know how to increase production"), 13-18, ERN (En) 00488626-0048631 (extolling the benefits of the cooperative regime).

<sup>13066</sup> See e.g., Nuon Chea's Speech at Army Anniversary Meeting (in SWB/FE/5417/C1 collection), E3/191, 17 January 1977, ERN (En) S00004076 (discussing 1976 production targets); Nuon Chea Speaks on Cambodian Army Anniversary (in FBIS collection), E3/147, 17 January 1977, ERN (En) 00168465; Document on Conference of Legislature, E3/165, 11-13 April 1976, p. 29, ERN (En) 00184076; Standing Committee Minutes, E3/224, 30 May 1976, pp. 1-4, ERN (En) 00182667-00182670 (POL Pot, NUON Chea, VORN Vet, SON Sen and KHIEU Samphan attend meeting discussing rice production in different regions and economic goals in detail); DK Telegram, E3/898, 11 December 1977, ERN (En) 00183626 (copied to a telegram by KANG Chap to Committee 870 noting that Siem Reap comprises mostly New People "to be distributed to other districts"); NUON Chea Speech at TENG Ying-Tchao Banquet (DK News Bulletin), E3/78, 18 January 1978, p. 7, ERN (En) 00290285 (praising the three and six tonnes per hectare plan); DK Telegram, E3/1209, May 1978, p. 1, ERN (En) 00522888 (copied to a telegram by KANG Chap discussing the progress of agricultural production, construction of dams, canals and dykes, and production of fertilisers throughout the zone); NUON Chea Speech to the Communist Workers' Party of Denmark, E3/196, July 1978, ERN (En) 00762396-00762397 ("As for living conditions, we have basically solved our problems by means of irrigation projects. We are accumulating capital for the development of our country on the basis of independence and self-reliance."). See also, Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea; Section 11.2.9: 1st January Dam Worksite: Inauguration of the 1st January Dam and Visits of Senior Cadres and Foreign Delegations. See below, fns 13072-13073.

<sup>13067</sup> See e.g., Khieu Samphan 21 Apr Victory Message on Phnom Penh Radio (in FBIS collection), E3/118, 21 April 1975, ERN (En) 00166994-00166995 (referring to "all people" building dykes, digging canals and water reservoirs, increasing production, cultivating two rice harvests annually, "working day and night [...] without rest"); Welcome Rally Marks Sihanouk's Return: Khieu Samphan Speech (in FBIS collection), E3/271, 12 September 1975, ERN (En) 00167454 ("It is the beginning of an important revolution affecting water, field embankments, ditches, paddyfields [sic] and so forth. In the years to come our nation and its countryside will make even greater changes to the joy and satisfaction of all our people."); First People's Representative Assembly Convenes (in FBIS collection), E3/275, 16 April 1976, ERN (En) 00167641 ("[I]n our capacity as representatives of the Cambodian workers, peasants and revolutionary armed forces, we still have a set of other immediate, actual tasks to fulfill. [...] We must always maintain our revolutionary vigilance so as to advance in giant strides in all production fields and particularly in the field of agriculture in which we must produce rice to the maximum to help raise our people's living standards as high and as quickly as possible and, at the same time, to accelerate our nation-building efforts by leaps and bounds."); Khieu Samphan's Speech at Anniversary Meeting (in SWB/FE/5490/C collection), E3/200, 15 April 1977, ERN (En) S00004165-S00004170 ("We must continue the struggle on the basis of the principles of independence and self-reliance, and implement and carry out our revolutionary organization's 1977 plan 100% and even more. We must fulfil or overfulfil production plans both within the framework of the overall 1977 plan and within the framework of each production battlefield, front, unit or base."); Third Anniversary Celebrated at 15 April Mass Rally: Khieu Samphan Statement (in FBIS collection), E3/1361, 16 April 1978, ERN (En) 00168816-00168818; Sihanouk Attends, Khieu Samphan Addresses KCP Banquet (in FBIS collection), E3/294, 30 September 1978, ERN (En) 00170170 ("[W]e have the correct leadership of the KCP and Comrade Secretary Pol Pot and valiant people who are pleased with the party's collective system. For this reason we have confidence in the brilliant future of our revolution and our KCP."); Government Statement Appeals for Aid to Combat SRV Aggression (in FBIS collection), E3/296, 1 January 1979, ERN (En) 00169295 ("The rear is vigorously struggling to maximize production in order to maintain under all circumstances mastery in food supplies at the rate set by the [P]arty."). See also, Cambodians Urged to Unite in New Year's Offensive (in FBIS collection), E3/30, 31 December 1974, ERN (En) 00166660 (stating that liberated zones were working to solve the water problem by building dams, digging canals and increasing production to two crop harvests per year). See also, Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan. See below, fn. 13072.

<sup>13068</sup> U.S. State Department Telegram, Subject: Newsweek Interview of IENG Sary, E3/621, 10 September 1975, ERN (En) 00413791 ("All of our people are working day and night to rebuild the country. Cambodia is like a giant workshop."); Reportage on Visit of PRC Trade Minister: Ieng Sary Reception Speech (in FBIS collection), E3/274, 7 March 1976, ERN (En) 00167952 (discussing the need to build new field embankments, irrigation canals and develop agricultural and industrial production, adding that: "There are worksites everywhere"); Ieng Sary Hosts 31 Dec Diplomatic Corps Banquet: Ieng Sary Speech (in FBIS collection), E3/147, 1 January 1977, ERN (En) 00168437 (reporting the success of the 1976 agricultural plan and advocating the need to build field embankments, ditches, canals, dams, dykes and reservoirs); DK Publication, Democratic Kampuchea: A Workers' and Peasants' State in South-East Asia, E3/3306, March 1977, ERN (En) 00419293-00419294; Ieng Sary Holds Reception to Mark National Day: Ieng Sary Address (in FBIS collection), E3/286, 17 April 1977, ERN (En) 00168215-00168216 (discussing agricultural development to ensure two harvests per year and therefore economic surplus); DK Telegram, E3/243, 20 January 1978, ERN (En) 00532796 (copied to a telegram notifying Angkar of the "evacuation" of people from the border and the progress of agricultural production in Sectors 23 and 24); Ieng Sary Interview with Le Monde on Conflict with SRV (in FBIS collection), E3/75, 31 July 1978, ERN (En) 00168912 (explaining that the evacuation of populations was for three reasons: food shortage, the presence of "enemy networks" and the people's "farming experience").

<sup>13069</sup> See e.g., Sihanouk, Penn Nouth Visit Worksite (in FBIS collection), E3/271, 19 September 1975, ERN (En) 00167470 (accompanying NORODOM Sihanouk and his entourage on a visit to the Boeung Pralit-Boeung Snor worksite consisting of 7,000 hectares of rice fields); DK Telegram, E3/952, 2 April 1976, pp. 1-2, ERN (En) 00182658-00182659 (telegram copied to SON Sen reporting on rice production, cooperatives and agricultural construction in the North Zone); DK Telegram, E3/1227, 3 September 1977, ERN (En) 00590300 (telegram by SON Sen to “Committees of Divisions and Regiments” instructing “storm attacks” to meet agricultural production goals for the 1977 rainy season cultivation plan); DK Telegram, E3/1145, 6 September 1977, ERN (En) 00517924 (telegram by KANG Chap to Committee 870, copied to SON Sen, indicating that “a small fraction of people [were] resisting the new policy of agricultural production” and noting that it was the North Zone’s measure “to educate them [...] about the new policy” [emphasis added]); DK Telegram, E3/978, 5 November 1977, p. 1, ERN (En) 00324808 (telegram copied to SON Sen, reporting, among other things, the situation of drought and the intended mobilisation of “all masses to solve the water issue”, pushing dry season rice and preparing “the forces to work rice fields on all the land where there is water”); DK Telegram, E3/914, 31 December 1977, p. 1, ERN (En) 00183641 (telegram copied to SON Sen noting that “[a] large number of cooperative people and workers in Krek and Memut [East Zone] move[d] to the river sides starting from Chhlong to Kroch Chhmar” and that they were “facing food shortage[s] now”).

<sup>13070</sup> See e.g., Minutes of Meeting of the Council of Ministers, E3/794, 31 May 1976, pp. 7-9, ERN (En) 00182677-00182679 (POL Pot reporting on the ongoing construction of cooperatives, dyke systems and canals, and the need to increase rice production to resolve food shortages), 18-19, ERN (En) 00182688-00182689 (noting that “Comrade Phea” was in “total agreement with Angkar’s comments” and Phea reporting that “[o]ur brothers and sisters work until 10 pm at offices as well as [at] factories”, and noting generally that they must “endeavour to know their respective duties in order to be with the movement of three tons per hectare”); Standing Committee Minutes, E3/226, 10 June 1976, pp. 1, ERN (En) 00183363 (reporting to Standing Committee on the production of medical supplies and noting that the workforce was not yet “in full scale”), 10, ERN (En) 00183372 (POL Pot directing that the whole nation “faced [a] shortfall of work force” and that some workers “were still young children” but that “in a little while they would become adults [...] If the request was for young children [to work] it would be easier [...] because young children could make striking assault without having [a] repellent mood in making fertiliser compost”); Vietnam Women’s Union Delegation Arrives 7 Feb: Ieng Thirith Speech (in FBIS collection), E3/284, 8 February 1977, ERN (En) 00168415 (referring to the success of the “seething mass movement” and the need to solve the irrigation problem by planting dry season crops, building canals, ditches and bank networks); Material on Activities of Ha Thie Que, SRV Delegation: Ieng Thirith Banquet Speech (in FBIS collection), E3/284, 12 February 1977, ERN (En) 00168425 (referring to the “sacrifice of the Cambodian people” who were “struggl[ing] enthusiastically and ardently to build dikes, canals, water reservoirs and [...] embankment networks so as to master the water supply problem”).

<sup>13071</sup> See e.g., Standing Committee Minutes, E3/224, 30 May 1976, ERN (En) 00182670 (attending meeting discussing the cessation of dry season farming from March 1977 and the implementation of “storm attacks” thereafter to achieve irrigation for two farming intervals); Fang I Friendship Delegation Arrives 24 Dec: Vorn Vet Speech (in FBIS collection), E3/283, 26 December 1976, ERN (En) 00167746 (“Our Cambodian people are now launching a seething battle in all spheres, particularly in increasing production and improving their livelihood [...]. Our people are busy gathering and storing the rice crop without loss and in good time”); DK Telegram, E3/1113, 17 February 1978, p. 1, ERN (En) 00434864 (copied to a telegram discussing the transfer of mobile units to undertake rice transplantation during the rainy season).

<sup>13072</sup> T. 23 April 2013 (CHHOUK Rin), E1/182.1, pp. 9-10; CHHOUK Rin Interview Record, E3/421, 26 November 2009, p. 4, ERN (En) 00414059; T. 3 July 2013 (EK Hen), E1/217.1, p. 43; T. 31 August 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/467.1, p. 103 affirming PHAN Him DC-Cam Interview, E3/9318, 14 February 2004, ERN (En) 00679670.

<sup>13073</sup> Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, paras 1479, 1486-1487.

3917. Throughout the DK period, cooperatives were established around Phnom Penh;<sup>13074</sup> in the Central (old North),<sup>13075</sup> Southwest,<sup>13076</sup> West,<sup>13077</sup> Northwest,<sup>13078</sup> East<sup>13079</sup> and Northeast Zones;<sup>13080</sup> Kratie (Sector 505),<sup>13081</sup> Preah Vihear (Sector 103),<sup>13082</sup> Siem Reap (Sector 106)<sup>13083</sup> and Mondulkiri (Sector 105).<sup>13084</sup> The construction of dams, canals and irrigation networks was similarly recorded across the country,<sup>13085</sup> including in the Central (old North),<sup>13086</sup> Southwest,<sup>13087</sup> West,<sup>13088</sup> Northwest,<sup>13089</sup> Northwest<sup>13090</sup> and East Zones;<sup>13091</sup> in Kratie (Sector 505),<sup>13092</sup> Preah Vihear (Sector 103),<sup>13093</sup> Mondulkiri (Sector 105)<sup>13094</sup> and Siem Reap (Sector 106).<sup>13095</sup> Evidence further demonstrates the construction of railway projects stretching across the country.<sup>13096</sup>

<sup>13074</sup> See e.g., T. 4 June 2012 (SAR Kimlouth), E1/80.1, p. 68 (Steung Meanchey); T. 10 November 2016 (NORNG Net), E1/498.1, p. 36 (“Stung” Cooperative).

<sup>13075</sup> See e.g., Section 11.1.8.2.2: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: Food Rations at Trapeang Thma Dam (referring generally to cooperatives in the Central (old North) Zone); Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, paras 1486-1488, 1492 (referring to cooperatives in the vicinity of the 1st January Dam); Revolutionary Flag, E3/135, June 1977, p. 8, ERN (En) 00446853 (showing a cooperative in Batheay district); DK Publication, Democratic Kampuchea: A Workers’ and Peasants’ State in South-East Asia, E3/3306, March 1977, p. 12, ERN (En) 00419308 (Meak cooperative in Stung Trang).

<sup>13076</sup> See e.g., Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives; T. 4 June 2012 (SAR Kimlouth), E1/80.1, pp. 67-68 (Kien Svay); T. 9 August 2012 (ONG Thong Hoeung), E1/105.1, p. 44 (Chhouk); T. 22 October 2012 (YIM Sovann), E1/136.1, p. 19 (Kaoh Thum district); T. 1 July 2013 (PECH Chim), E1/215.1, p. 30 (District 105); T. 4 December 2012 (TOENG Sokha), E1/147.1, p. 46 (Bati district); T. 5 December 2012 (PECH Srey Phal), E1/148.1, p. 27 (Prey Trab, Kandal); Revolutionary Youth, E3/770, May 1977, p. 9, ERN (En) 00539026 (picture showing “[t]he youth of the Preak Rokar Cooperative in the Southwest Zone”); Revolutionary Youth, E3/726, January-February 1978, p. 23, ERN (En) 00278730 (picture showing “female youths and cooperative peasants in the Southwest Zone”); Briefs: Southwest Region Production Cooperatives (in FBIS collection), E3/273, 27 January 1976, ERN (En) 00167863 (“the people in the southwestern region organized themselves into production cooperatives”).

<sup>13077</sup> See e.g., T. 21 March 2012 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/52.1, p. 12 (in 1973: Kampong Tralach district, Kampong Chhnang; and Amleang commune, Kampong Speu); T. 1 October 2012 (KHIEV En), E1/127.1, pp. 10, 12 (Kampong Leaeng, Kampong Chhnang); DK Press Release, E3/1387, 26 December 1978, p. 2, ERN (En) 00853087 (Kraing Dei Vay, Kampong Speu consisting of “5,000 people”).

<sup>13078</sup> See e.g., T. 19 April 2012 (SAUT Toeung), E1/64.1, p. 52 (Battambang); T. 19 October 2012 (YIM Sovann), E1/135.1, p. 101 (Kbal Chheu Puk Cooperative, Pursat); T. 24 October 2012 (LAY Bony), E1/138.1, p. 5 (Kaoh Chum Cooperative, Pursat); T. 23 November 2012 (CHAU Ny), E1/146.1, pp. 60-61 (Moung Ruessei district, Battambang); T. 5 December 2012 (PECH Srey Phal), E1/148.1, p. 48 (Stueng, Pursat); T. 30 May 2013 (YIM Roumdoul), E1/199.1, p. 88 (Ou Preal, Bakan district, Pursat); Revolutionary Youth, E3/765, October 1978, p. 11, ERN (En) 00539986 (showing picture of cooperative in Kandal Steung district, Battambang).

<sup>13079</sup> See e.g., T. 29 May 2013 (CHHENG Eng Ly), E1/198.1, p. 107 (Roka Kaong, Kampong Cham); T. 1 September 2016 (PHAN Him), E1/468.1, p. 20 (cooperative at “Seh Sar office” which was “west of a road to Knaor Dambang”); Voice of DK, E3/1245, undated, pp. 6-7, ERN (En) 00484189-00484190 (Svay Rieng; Prey Veng; Chhloung district); DK Magazine: Kampuchea, E3/9315, August 1976, pp. 4-6, ERN (En) 01149223-01149225; Briefs: Chamkar Leu District Rice (in FBIS collection), E3/294, 20 October 1978, ERN (En) 00170286 (Chamkar Leu, Kampong Cham); Peasant Representatives Meet in Prey Veng City 21-22 Oct (in FBIS collection), E3/294, 24 October 1978, ERN (En) 00170309.

<sup>13080</sup> See e.g., Section 12.4: Au Kanseng Security Centre, paras 2866, 2881, 2887 (referring generally to cooperatives in the region); T. 6 June 2012 (SAO Sarun), E1/82.1, pp. 7-8 (Kaoh Nheaek, Mondulkiri); People in Northeast Welcome New Constitution (in FBIS collection), E3/273, 18 January 1976, ERN (En) 00167847 (Stung Treng; Ratanakiri); Briefs: Northeast Production Drive (in FBIS collection), E3/1357, 11 February 1976, ERN (En) 00167775; People Strive to Produce Farm Tools to Preserve Rice (in FBIS collection), E3/283, 8 December 1976, ERN (En) 00167732 (reporting cooperatives in Mondulkiri, Ratanakiri and Stung Treng); Youth, Cooperative Peasants Produce in Northeast (in FBIS collection), E3/291, 21 October 1977, ERN (En) 00168556-00168557 (Ratanakiri); Voice of DK, E3/1245, undated, pp. 4, 8, ERN (En) 00484187, 00484191 (Kaoh Nheak, Mondulkiri, Ratanakiri).

<sup>13081</sup> See e.g., T. 19 June 2012 (YUN Kim), E1/88.1, pp. 10-11; T. 19 September 2016 (HENG Lai Heang), E1/476.1, p. 6 (Kantuot commune); People Strive to Produce Farm Tools to Preserve Rice (in FBIS collection), E3/283, 8 December 1976, ERN (En) 00167732 (reporting cooperatives in Kratie).

<sup>13082</sup> See e.g., KOR Bun Heng Interview Record, E3/47, 18 November 2009, ERN (En) 00412144, 00412146; Army's Defence, Reconstruction Efforts in Preah Vihear (in FBIS collection), E3/143, 10 September 1977, ERN (En) 00168742.

<sup>13083</sup> See e.g., Briefs: Siem Reap Rice Crop (in FBIS collection), E3/273, 23 January 1976, ERN (En) 00167863 ("production cooperatives throughout Siem Reap province"); Briefs: Kralanh Tool Production (in FBIS collection), E3/75, 26 July 1978, ERN (En) 00168933 (Kralanh).

<sup>13084</sup> See e.g., Briefs: Srok O Rang Livestock (in FBIS collection), E3/1358, 21 July 1977, ERN (En) 00168259; DK Magazine: Kampuchea, E3/9316, April 1977, p. 28, ERN (En) 01174762.

<sup>13085</sup> See e.g., Commentary on Completing Dry Season Irrigation Work (in FBIS collection), E3/287, 9 May 1977, ERN (En) 00168140 ("There are now reservoirs, canals, ditches, dams and embankment networks virtually everywhere."); Revolutionary Flag, E3/759, April 1976, p. 17, ERN (En) 00517865 ("building paddy dike systems in the flatlands throughout the country"); DK Magazine: Kampuchea, E3/9316, April 1977, p. 28, ERN (En) 01174762 ("The united endeavour to resolve water issues has gained strong momentum all over the country."); Revolutionary Flag, E3/11, September 1977, pp. 49-50, ERN (En) 00486260-00486261 ("In total, in 1977 our cooperative peasants built all sorts of water projects, which solved the water problem during all seasons, dry as well as rainy, for 400,000 hectares of farmland. All of these have been built by our workers and peasants relying entirely on their own efforts, with their own bare hands and their hoes."); Revolutionary Flag, E3/215, September 1978, p. 19, ERN (En) 00488632 ("We fundamentally achieved our water construction project plans throughout the country during 1978. That is, during 1978 we built new dams, reservoirs and large and small feeder canals and can now irrigate an additional 300,000 hectares of rice paddies. Added to the 400,000 hectares in 1977, this makes a total of 700,000 hectares").

<sup>13086</sup> See e.g., CHANN Sang Interview Record, E3/9498, 24 May 2013, p. 3, ERN (En) 00950665 (30 September Canal, Kampong Thom); Commentary on Completing Dry Season Irrigation Work (in FBIS collection), E3/287, 9 May 1977, ERN (En) 00168140 (17 April Reservoir, Srok Batheay); DK Magazine: Kampuchea, E3/9316, April 1977, pp. 21, ERN (En) 01174755 (12 April Reservoir, Kang Meas district; Kaebrae Thamacheat "Transforming Nature Reservoir", Kampong Siem district; Mohasamaki "Great Solidarity Reservoir", Phkay Proek commune; 5 January Reservoir, Kampong Svay), 22, ERN (En) 01174756 (6 November Reservoir, Stoung district; 1 November Reservoir, Sandan district); Revolutionary Youth, E3/771, July-August 1977, pp. 19-20, ERN (En) 00509678-00509679 (Sre Ampil Dam, Kien Svay); Revolutionary Youth, E3/774, March-April 1978, p. 27, ERN (En) 00529444 (construction of a square reservoir in Kampong Cham, a dam and two canals on the Steung Stong in Kampong Thom).

<sup>13087</sup> See e.g., Commentary on Completing Dry Season Irrigation Work (in FBIS collection), E3/287, 9 May 1977, ERN (En) 00168140 (ditches along Route 38 in Srok Kandal Stoeng); Peasants in Kampong Trach, Kampot Overcome SRV Rice Destruction (in FBIS collection), E3/1360, 26 February 1978, ERN (En) 00169873 (dams in Phnum Leav and Sre Chea communes); Revolutionary Flag, E3/748, October-November 1975, ERN (En) 00495817 (Prek Taphe Dam, Kandal); Revolutionary Youth, E3/769, April 1977, p. 8, ERN (En) 00491110 (Tuol Lolork Reservoir, Prey Kabbas district); DK Magazine: Kampuchea, E3/9316, April 1977, pp. 25, ERN (En) 01174759 (Tuol Krasang Dam; channel worksite from Kampong Tram Dam to Prey Puoch commune; Tuek Mlech Reservoir worksite, Srae Knong district), 26, ERN (En) 01174760 ("Three canal worksites each about 10 kilometres long to channel water from Kampong Tuol Dam to irrigate rice fields in Kandal Stoung district."); Revolutionary Youth, E3/771, July-August 1977, pp. 19, ERN (En) 00509678 (Chong Khsach Dam; Chong Koh Dam; Samroang Thom Dam, Kandal; Prek Thmei canal); 22, ERN (En) 00509681 (Boeung Thorn Thom Reservoir in Samroang Thom commune); Democratic Kampuchea News (in SWB/D56/087 collection), E3/300, December 1977, p. 6, S00702870 (40 km of canals in the districts of Tbaung Khmum, Aur Reaing Euv and Kanhchriech). See also, Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives.

<sup>13088</sup> See e.g., LEV Lam Interview Record, E3/4630, 1 July 2008, pp. 4-5, ERN (En) 00274645-00274646 (Trapaing Pring ditch worksite for cadre prisoners, Svay Chuk); VA Limhun Interview Record, E3/9756, 15 September 2014, p. 4, ERN (En) 01046935 (Anlong Chrey dam); SA Sarin DC-Cam Interview, E3/4596, 5-6 May 2009, p. 37, ERN (En) 00739529 (Roleang Chrey dam); Commentary on Completing Dry Season Irrigation Work (in FBIS collection), E3/287, 9 May 1977, ERN (En) 00168140 (15 March Canal, Kampong Speu); Revolutionary Flag, E3/759, April 1976, p. 10, ERN (En) 00517858 (construction of “major dam” in Kampong Speu by cooperative workers); DK Magazine: Kampuchea, E3/9316, April 1977, pp. 9, ERN (En) 01174743 (Trapeang Vaeng Dam, Kampong Speu), 22, ERN (En) 01174756 (Baek Krang, Ou Ta Pang, Banteay Brei and Lou Cheung Kou canals, Prey Nob district); Democratic Kampuchea News (in SWB/D56/087 collection), E3/300, December 1977, p. 6, S00702870 (Angkor Borei dyke dam, Koh Sla-Stung Kev dam, dams along the Pek Thnot river, other canals dozens of kilometres long).

<sup>13089</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/170, October-November 1977, ERN (En) 00182577 (Steung Streng); Democratic Kampuchea News (in SWB/D56/087 collection), E3/300, December 1977, pp. 6-7, S00702870-00702871 (referring to many dykes, reservoirs and irrigation networks in Ratanakiri).

<sup>13090</sup> See e.g., T. 19 August 2015 (CHHUM Seng), E1/333.1, p. 31 (describing the construction of a dam in Pongro village); T. 8 December 2015 (PRUM Sarun), E1/364.1, p. 79 (describing the Kamping Puoy dam); PAN Chhuong Interview Record, E3/9483, 14 March 2013, p. 3, ERN (En) 00937033 (Kok Romchek dam worksite at the border of Phnom Srok district and Preah Neth Preah district; Kamboar dam worksite, Preah Neth Preah); CHHEAN Hea Interview Record, E3/9807, 13 October 2013, pp. 5, 11, ERN (En) 00969638, 00969644 (Kang Hort Dam, Battambang); PHAN Saray Interview Record, E3/9789, 25 February 2014, p. 6, ERN (En) 00986689 (Tumnup Yeay Rim dam, Trapeang Chong cooperative); Commentary on Completing Dry Season Irrigation Work (in FBIS collection), E3/287, 9 May 1977, ERN (En) 00168140 (Phnom Thipadei reservoir, Srok Koh Kralor; reservoir at Prachiech, Battambang); Revolutionary Youth, E3/756, October 1976, pp. 23-24, ERN (En) 00574392-00574393 (Kampuchea Thmei Canal and eight feeder canals dug by cooperative youth); DK Magazine: Kampuchea, E3/9316, April 1977, pp. 24, ERN (En) 01174758 (Charik Dam, Kandieng); 29, ERN (En) 01174763 (Tuek Chrab reservoir, Battambang); Revolutionary Flag, E3/135, June 1977, p. 31, ERN (En) 00446876 (Damnak Ampil dam, Pursat); Democratic Kampuchea News (in SWB/D56/087 collection), E3/300, December 1977, p. 6, S00702870 (60 km-long “Democratic Kampuchea Canal” and the 50 km-long “17 April canal”).

<sup>13091</sup> See e.g., Commentary on Completing Dry Season Irrigation Work (in FBIS collection), E3/287, 9 May 1977, ERN (En) 00168140 (reservoir stretching from Phum Dak Po in Srok Romeas Hek to Srok Chantrea, Svay Rieng; reservoir at Soeng Krachap, Tbong Khmum); Revolutionary Youth, E3/758, December 1976, p. 25, ERN (En) 00544881 (new dyke, canal system, dam and reservoir to hold rain water in Sector 20); DK Magazine: Kampuchea, E3/9316, April 1977, pp. 27, ERN (En) 01174761 (Boeng Krachab Reservoir, Tbong Khmum), 29, ERN (En) 01174763 (channel digging in Sithor Kandal district); Democratic Kampuchea News (in SWB/D56/087 collection), E3/300, December 1977, p. 6, S00702870 (dams along the Pursat, Maung and Sangke rivers; Phnom Bassac, “17 January” and Trapeang Thma reservoirs); Revolutionary Flag, E3/25, December 1976-January 1977, p. 19, ERN (En) 00491412 (dam in Svay Teap sub-district); Revolutionary Youth, E3/774, March-April 1978, p. 27, ERN (En) 00529444 (6 km-long canal, Memot district); Revolutionary Flag, E3/4604, April 1978, p. 15, ERN (En) 00519843 (Steung Trabaek; dams at Koh Sautin).

<sup>13092</sup> See e.g., Democratic Kampuchea News, E3/300, pp. 6-7, S00702870-00702871 (referring to many dykes, reservoirs and irrigations networks in Kratie).

<sup>13093</sup> See e.g., Commentary on Completing Dry Season Irrigation Work (in FBIS collection), E3/287, 9 May 1977, ERN (En) 00168140 (O Talok, O Po and Prey Chik dams, Srok Rovieng).

<sup>13094</sup> See e.g., T. 6 June 2012 (SAO Sarun), E1/82.1, pp. 44-45 (generally), 75 (Ou Buon Leu in Kaoh Nheak); T. 28 March 2016 (BUN Loeng Chauy), E1/409.1, pp. 37, 61-62 (Ou Buon Leu and Ou Buon Krom dams); BUN Loeng Chauy Interview Record, E3/5178, 10 June 2008, p. 11, ERN (En) 00274104 (Ou Buon Kroam dam, Mondulkiri); Democratic Kampuchea News (in SWB/D56/087 collection), E3/300, December 1977, pp. 6-7, S00702870-00702871 (referring to many dykes, reservoirs and irrigations networks in Mondulkiri).

<sup>13095</sup> See e.g., Commentary on Completing Dry Season Irrigation Work (in FBIS collection), E3/287, 9 May 1977, ERN (En) 00168140 (O Chruk dam, Siem Reap); Revolutionary Youth, E3/768, March 1977, pp. 27, ERN (En) 00525963 (Baek Tab dam, Banteay Srei, Reservoir in Nokor Pheas) 28, ERN (En) 00525964 (Canal, Au Chik); DK Magazine: Kampuchea, E3/9316, April 1977, p. 27, ERN (En) 01174761 (Puok district reservoir); Revolutionary Flag, E3/135, June 1977, p. 8, ERN (En) 00142909 (Baray Toek Thla, Siem Reap); Revolutionary Flag, E3/4604, April 1978, p. 15, ERN (En) 00519843 (Steung Kralanh, Siem Reap).

<sup>13096</sup> See e.g., KHIM Samnang DC-Cam Interview, E3/5660, 10 October 2003, p. 13, ERN (En) 00884271 (“I was transferred to work at railway construction in Kampong Speu”); CHEAL Choeun Interview

3918. The Chamber finds that the foregoing clearly demonstrates the existence of a policy to establish and operate cooperatives and worksites as a means of furthering the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a “great leap forward” in order to build the country, defend it against enemies and radically transform the population into a homogenous society of worker-peasants. This policy was directly implemented at cooperatives and worksites throughout the country and was carried out by the Party’s entire administrative network of zone, sector, district and local-level secretaries, CPK cadres and RAK personnel. The Chamber now turns to examine the scope of this policy and the crimes encompassed by the common purpose.

16.4.1.2. Criminality of policy

3919. As limited to Case 002/02, the Chamber is seized of facts relevant to the implementation of this policy through a joint criminal enterprise with respect to crimes charged at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, 1st January Dam Worksite and Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site.<sup>13097</sup> For the reasons outlined below, the Chamber finds that the policy to establish and operate cooperatives and worksites involved the commission of crimes which were encompassed by the common purpose.

3920. Murder – The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of murder was established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, 1st January Dam Worksite and Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site.<sup>13098</sup> The crime was found to have been perpetrated with direct intent at Trapeang Thma Dam and the 1st January Dam worksites only, with those ultimately killed at these sites Record, E3/10681, 27 January 2016, pp. 8-10, ERN (En) 01213338-01213340 (describing railway construction in various sectors); Phnom Penh Reports Repair of Battambang-Pursat Railway Line (in FBIS collection), E3/1365, 14 June 1975, ERN (En) 00167205-00167206 (“Our revolutionary army has completed repair work on the railway line from Battambang to Pursat”); Phnom Penh Notes Repair of Sihanoukville-Veal Railway (in FBIS collection), E3/1365, 24 June 1975, ERN (En) 00167249-00167250 (describing the cadres of the revolutionary army engaged in repairing the section of railway line from Veal Renh to Sihanoukville); Revolutionary Youth, E3/770, May 1977, p. 17, ERN (En) 00539034 (“the brothers and sisters received a new mission from the Party, the mission of preparing and building a new railway of international standard from Phnom Penh to Kampong Saom”); Railway Work (in FBIS collection), E3/1362, 3 May 1978, ERN (En) 00170012 (“At present, railway workers are building another portion of the railway line from Samraong station to Kompong Speu town.”).

---

<sup>13097</sup> See above, para. 3728.

<sup>13098</sup> Section 10.1.13.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Legal Findings: Murder and Extermination; Section 11.1.12.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: Legal Findings: Murder and Extermination; Section 11.2.24.1: 1st January Dam Worksite: Legal Findings: Murder and Extermination; Section 11.3.13: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site: Legal Findings: Murder and Extermination.

having been accused of being enemies.<sup>13099</sup> The Chamber is satisfied that these executions were perpetrated in pursuit of the CPK's policy of "smashing" the most serious category of enemy, discussed below.<sup>13100</sup> It is therefore satisfied that the execution of enemies was perpetrated in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a "great leap forward" in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform society. The Chamber finds that the crime against humanity of murder, as established at the Trapeang Thma Dam and 1st January Dam worksites, was encompassed by the common purpose insofar as the crimes were committed with direct intent.

3921. The Chamber has further found that workers died as a result of prevailing conditions at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, 1st January Dam Worksite and Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, and that these deaths were occasioned as a result of dolus eventualis.<sup>13101</sup> Recalling that JCE in its basic form is incompatible with dolus eventualis,<sup>13102</sup> the Chamber finds that these deaths were not encompassed by the common purpose.

3922. Enslavement – The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of enslavement was established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam

<sup>13099</sup> Section 11.1.12.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: Legal Findings: Murder and Extermination (finding that those who were murdered were identified as enemies and killed on Ta Val's orders; accused of feigning night blindness and therefore unable to undertake construction work; and two individuals accused of not working hard or following instructions) [see also, Section 11.1.11.2.3: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: Public Executions (finding that workers were executed for failing to work hard or follow instructions)]; Section 11.2.24.1: 1st January Dam Worksite: Legal Findings: Murder and Extermination (referring to those killed at Baray Choan Dek Pagoda) [see also, Section 11.2.16: 1st January Dam Worksite: Killings at Baray Choan Dek Pagoda (finding that those who were arrested and killed at the Baray Choan Dek Pagoda were considered to be detractors of the revolution and enemies, including those who did not work hard enough)].

<sup>13100</sup> See below, Section 16.4.2.1.2: "Smashing" of Enemies.

<sup>13101</sup> Section 10.1.13.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Legal Findings: Murder and Extermination (deaths resulting from food shortages, malnutrition, overwork, sickness and inadequate medical treatment); Section 11.1.12.1.2: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: Legal Findings: Murder and Extermination: Deaths resulting from Working and Living Conditions (deaths resulting from hard labour, food deprivation, poor detention conditions, lack of medical care, poor hygiene and exhaustion); Section 11.2.24.1.2: 1st January Dam Worksite: Legal Findings: Murder and Extermination: Deaths resulting from Working and Living Conditions (deaths resulting from hard labour, starvation, inhospitable conditions and ineffective medicine); Section 11.3.13.1.2: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site: Legal Findings: Murder and Extermination: Deaths resulting from Working and Living Conditions (deaths resulting from poor working conditions, starvation and overwork). While the crime against humanity of extermination was charged at the above sites, the Chamber found that extermination was not proved because mass deaths were the result of living and working conditions (i.e. dolus eventualis). In accordance with the applicable law, the Chamber recharacterised these incidents as the crime against humanity of murder.

<sup>13102</sup> Section 15.2: Applicable Law: Individual Criminal Responsibility: Commission through a Joint Criminal Enterprise.

Worksite, 1st January Dam Worksite and Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site.<sup>13103</sup> It has found that the population of Tram Kak district was enslaved for the purpose of constructing extensive irrigation infrastructure (including cooperatives, paddy fields, dams, dykes and feeder canals) in order to harvest three to six tonnes per hectare of crop in line with the CPK's economic plans.<sup>13104</sup> The primary purpose of the 1st January Dam was to provide irrigation to nearby rice fields and thus help attain the three-tonnes-per-hectare crop yield target set by the Party.<sup>13105</sup> Trapeang Thma Dam was constructed in response to the CPK Central Committee's decision to implement dry season farming in accordance with the CPK's 1977 economic plan.<sup>13106</sup> The Chamber finds that these objectives were implemented in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a "great leap forward" in order to, among other things, build the country and radically transform the population into a homogenous society of worker-peasants. The Chamber finds that the crime against humanity of enslavement, as established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, 1st January Dam Worksite and Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, was encompassed by the common purpose.

3923. Underpinning the construction of Kampong Chhnang Airfield was the defence of the country as part of DK's military strategy.<sup>13107</sup> In this regard, the Chamber recalls that while the CPK's categorisation of external enemies shifted over time from the Thai to the Vietnamese as a result of the armed conflict between the two countries, its policy of defending against external enemies steadfastly remained throughout the entire DK period.<sup>13108</sup> Further, the Chamber has found that soldiers were sent to the Airfield for tempering as punishment for their alleged enemy affiliations.<sup>13109</sup> The Chamber is satisfied that the construction of Kampong Chhnang Airfield was undertaken in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a "great leap forward" in order to, among other things, defend the country

---

<sup>13103</sup> Section 10.1.13.2: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Legal Findings: Enslavement; Section 11.1.12.2: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: Legal Findings: Enslavement; Section 11.2.24.2: 1st January Dam Worksite: Legal Findings: Enslavement; Section 11.3.13.2 Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site: Legal Findings: Enslavement.

<sup>13104</sup> Section 10.1.7.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Economic Plans and Production Targets.

<sup>13105</sup> Section 11.2.5: Purpose of the 1st January Dam.

<sup>13106</sup> Section 11.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, para. 1224. See above, para. 3905.

<sup>13107</sup> Section 11.3: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, para. 1723.

<sup>13108</sup> See above, Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies: Chronological Overview (see e.g., Sections 16.3.1.4-16.3.1.5).

<sup>13109</sup> Section 11.3: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, para. 1736.

against enemies (in this instance, internal and external enemies). The Chamber finds that the crime against humanity of enslavement, as established at Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, was encompassed by the common purpose.

3924. Persecution on political grounds – The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of persecution on political grounds was established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, 1st January Dam Worksite and Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site.<sup>13110</sup> Real and perceived enemies of the CPK including New People, former Khmer Republic officials, traitors, counter-revolutionaries and other detractors of the revolution who were perceived as unable to fulfil revolutionary goals were systematically singled out for discriminatory treatment by CPK cadres for detention, disappearance and death.

3925. Having found that the CPK actively discriminated against several categories of enemy as a means of defending and preserving the revolutionary order, the Chamber is satisfied that the foregoing discriminatory treatment was meted out to real and perceived enemies in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a “great leap forward” in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform society. The Chamber finds that the crime against humanity of persecution on political grounds, as established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, 1st January Dam Worksite and Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, was encompassed by the common purpose.

3926. Other inhumane acts through attacks against human dignity – The Chamber has further found that the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through attacks against human dignity was established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, 1st January Dam Worksite and Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site.<sup>13111</sup> On the whole, workers were afforded less than adequate living

---

<sup>13110</sup> Section 10.1.13.6: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Legal Findings: Persecution on Political Grounds; Section 11.1.12.3: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: Legal Findings: Persecution on Political Grounds; Section 11.2.24.3: 1st January Dam Worksites: Legal Findings: Persecution on Political Grounds; Section 11.3.13.3 Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site: Legal Findings: Persecution on Political Grounds.

<sup>13111</sup> Section 10.1.13.9: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Attacks against Human Dignity (food shortages, malnutrition, lack of adequate toileting facilities, arduous labour, long working hours, inadequate medical facilities, conditions of fear); Section 11.1.12.4: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Attacks Against Human Dignity and working conditions to sustain them in their assignments. CPK authorities furnished inadequate food rations and failed to provide clean drinking water, satisfactory accommodation, toilets, sanitation and medical facilities. Workers were exposed to hazardous working practices and instructed to work harder to fulfil Party-determined quotas to achieve overarching economic, agricultural and military objectives in the face of rampant overexertion, emaciation, malnutrition, disease and death. The Chamber considers that such delinquent conditions, in the form of serious attacks on human dignity, were essential to the CPK authorities' exercise of control over the workers and therefore the implementation of revolutionary objectives. The Chamber is satisfied that such conditions were implemented in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a "great leap forward" in order to, among other things, build the country and radically transform the population into a homogenous society of worker-peasants. The Chamber finds that the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through attacks against human dignity, as established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, 1st January Dam Worksite and Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, was encompassed by the common purpose.

3927. Other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as enforced disappearances – The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as enforced disappearances was established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, 1st January Dam Worksite and Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site.<sup>13112</sup> It has found that those who disappeared at these sites were identified by CPK cadres as enemies.<sup>13113</sup> As

---

(insufficient food, lack of clean drinking water and sanitation facilities, arduous labour for long periods without rest days, climate of fear); Section 11.2.24.5: 1st January Dam Worksites: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Attacks Against Human Dignity (malnutrition, starvation, irregular menstruation, inhospitable living conditions, rampant illness, inadequate medical care); Section 11.3.13.4: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Attacks Against Human Dignity (insufficient food and starvation, arduous labour, strict working schedules and long shifts, inadequate living and working conditions).

<sup>13112</sup> Section 10.1.13.10: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Conduct Characterised as Enforced Disappearances; Section 11.1.12.5: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Conduct Characterised as Enforced Disappearances; Section 11.2.24.6: 1st January Dam Worksite: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Conduct Characterised as Enforced Disappearances; Section 11.3.13.5: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Conduct Characterised as Enforced Disappearances.

<sup>13113</sup> Section 10.1.13.10: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Conduct Characterised as Enforced Disappearances (referring to the disappearance of Buddhist monks in the aftermath of 17 April 1975, former soldiers and teachers, political opponents and/or serious offenders, the Vietnamese and Khmer Krom); Section 11.1.12.5: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: Legal Findings:

to the circumstances in which they disappeared, the Chamber has found that the principle of secrecy was a fundamental tenet of the CPK's modus operandi from its earliest days.<sup>13114</sup> According to NUON Chea, secrecy safeguarded the Party “from the danger of enemy infiltration”, allowed the CPK to triumph over enemies who “cannot find out who is who” and therefore ensured the longevity of the Party.<sup>13115</sup> The Chamber finds that dealing with enemies in accordance with the revolutionary framework necessitated operating in a shroud of secrecy, and is satisfied that disappearances at the foregoing sites were enforced in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a “great leap forward” in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform society. The Chamber finds that the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as enforced disappearances, as established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, 1st January Dam Worksite and Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, was encompassed by the common purpose.

16.4.1.3. Conclusion

3928. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that the policy to establish and operate cooperatives and worksites was intrinsically linked to the common purpose. The policy involved the commission of the crimes against humanity of murder, enslavement, persecution on political grounds and other inhumane acts through attacks against human dignity and conduct characterised as enforced disappearances as a means of achieving the common purpose, thereby rendering it criminal in character.

3929. Having regard to the scale and duration of atrocities perpetrated in the implementation of the common purpose through this policy, the NUON Chea and KHIEU Samphan Defence teams' submissions positing that cooperatives and worksites were lawfully established with the overarching purpose of ameliorating living

---

Other Inhumane Acts through Conduct Characterised as Enforced Disappearances (including those accused of feigning sickness, former soldiers and civil servants, those with “bad backgrounds” and people labelled as “enemies”); Section 11.2.24.6: 1st January Dam Worksite: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Conduct Characterised as Enforced Disappearances (many of those who disappeared were those labelled as enemies and sent to Baray Choan Dek Pagoda. See Section 11.2.16: 1st January Dam Worksite: Killings at Baray Choan Dek Pagoda); Section 11.3.13.5: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Conduct Characterised as Enforced Disappearances (workers were arrested and disappeared on the basis of unfounded accusations).

<sup>13114</sup> See below, para. 3939. See also, Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies.

<sup>13115</sup> See below, para. 3939.

conditions occasioned by the civil war are not substantiated on the evidence and are therefore rejected.

16.4.2. *Establishment and Operation of Security Centres and Execution Sites

3930. The Closing Order charges the existence of a policy by the CPK to re-educate “bad elements” and kill “enemies”, both inside and outside Party ranks, as a means of achieving the common purpose.<sup>13116</sup> According to the Closing Order, the CPK destroyed existing legal and judicial structures as it took power across liberated zones from 1970, and that, by 17 April 1975, it had replaced these structures with a network of approximately 200 security centres and “countless execution sites” in every zone throughout Cambodia. According to the Closing Order, the objective of these sites was to “smash” – i.e. identify; arrest (or “sweep”); interrogate (often through torture and in order to incriminate “networks”); and execute – enemies in secret, in order to defend the country.<sup>13117</sup> In contrast to how the terms are described in the Closing Order, the Chamber has found that the CPK used the terms “to smash” and “to sweep cleanly away” (or variations thereof) to denote executions.<sup>13118</sup>

3931. The NUON Chea Defence submits that the CPK’s “national defence and security policy” did not amount to or involve the commission of crimes. Rather, it submits that the policy was “perfectly legitimate and akin to many security related policies worldwide”. It contends that the CPK’s security and defence framework prioritised education as the main response to offences and that its implementation did not amount to or involve the commission of offences, citing to the gravity of alleged treasonous activity and the operation of the DK legal system as justifying the Party’s actions. Finally, it posits that the implementation of this policy varied due to local authorities’ deviations, without substantiating this submission.<sup>13119</sup>

3932. The KHIEU Samphan Defence submits that the establishment of security centres was not a “pre-existing ideology” but was rather triggered by rebellion which allowed authorities to isolate dangerous elements during a period that threatened the

<sup>13116</sup> Closing Order, para. 157.

<sup>13117</sup> Closing Order, paras 178-180, 182.

<sup>13118</sup> Section 16.3.2.2.2: Real or Perceived Enemies: Disperse, Isolate, Educate, Smash.

<sup>13119</sup> NUON Chea Closing Brief, paras 389-412.

existence of the DK regime. The KHIEU Samphan Defence further submits that the Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre's district-level administration and paucity of in-court evidence demonstrating the dissemination of orders to an echelon higher than the sector level militates against a finding of the existence of a centralised CPK policy.<sup>13120</sup> 3933. Both Accused testified that DK did not have a policy "to kill its own people".<sup>13121</sup> Contrary to the foregoing assertions, the Co-Prosecutors submit that the CPK adopted an extreme line against enemies from 1960, which continued throughout the DK period. They submit that this policy indiscriminately targeted an evolving category of civilian and military personnel, both within and beyond ranks, and entailed the extrajudicial "slaughter" of the Cambodian population under the direction of the Party.<sup>13122</sup> The Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers did not make any submissions with respect to this policy. The Chamber will address the merits of the Parties' submissions following a holistic appraisal of the evidence before it.

16.4.2.1. Existence of policy

3934. The Chamber has above examined the various categories of enemy identified by the CPK throughout the DK period.<sup>13123</sup> Their identification for elimination as a fundamental tenet of the communist movement in Cambodia traces back to the self-proclaimed foundations of the CPK. NUON Chea acknowledged that, after 1960, Angkar "clearly decided that political action and armed violence must be used to overthrow and crush the enemy" who was "using arms and totalitarian tools to repress and kill our people".<sup>13124</sup> Duch testified that the Party Centre had resolved to purge bad elements who could not be re-educated in 1960 and affirmed that three categories of enemies had been delineated at this time.<sup>13125</sup>

<sup>13120</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, paras 1469-1486. The KHIEU Samphan Defence's submission that a policy referable to S-21, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres cannot be imputed to KHIEU Samphan as a result of their administration under the military hierarchy is examined in Section 18.1.2.2: The Criminal Responsibility of KHIEU Samphan: Knowledge Concurrent with the Commission of Crimes: Security Centres, Execution Sites and Internal Purges.

<sup>13121</sup> T. 29 May 2013 (Accused NUON Chea), E1/198.1, p. 56; T. 4 June 2013 (Accused NUON Chea), E1/200.1, p. 26; T. 4 June 2013 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/200.1, p. 68.

<sup>13122</sup> Co-Prosecutors' Closing Brief, paras 293-304.

<sup>13123</sup> See above, Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies.

<sup>13124</sup> Nuon Chea Speaks on Cambodian Army Anniversary (in FBIS collection), E3/147, 17 January 1977, ERN (En) 00168467. See above, para. 3741 (fn. 12485). See also, Section 3: Historical Background, para. 205.

<sup>13125</sup> See above, Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, para. 3793.

3935. According to contemporaneous CPK publications, Secret Defence Units were subsequently established in 1968 to “defend the revolution’s base areas” in zones under Khmer Rouge control, in particular to “covertly smash the enemy, government agents and reactionaries in order to defend the Party, the revolution, and the People”.<sup>13126</sup> NUON Chea testified that these units were tasked with monitoring “people whose activities were suspicious or whose activities were regarded [to be] of those who infiltrated in the Party”.<sup>13127</sup> NUON Chea asserted that the Secret Defence Units had “the authority to smash those spies”.<sup>13128</sup> The Chamber has found that the CPK inflated the role of these autonomously organised and ill-equipped security formations, which primarily consisted of children who defended local CPK cadres.<sup>13129</sup>

3936. Cambodians allegedly affiliated with the Viet Minh became the objects of the CPK’s suspicions shortly after their return to Cambodia in 1970.<sup>13130</sup> NUON Chea, who was himself sent by the Party to Vietnam for political training between about 1951 and 1954,<sup>13131</sup> bemoaned their very presence in Cambodia:

They lived in Vietnam for 16 years [i.e. since the Geneva Accords] and they were influenced by the views, standpoints, political line, organizational line from the Vietnamese Communist Party and they were to disseminate and implement those in Cambodia. In addition, they even attacked the political line, organizational line, the strategy and the tactics of the Communist Party of Kampuchea continually since 1960.<sup>13132</sup>

3937. Duch confirmed in court that, following a purge of “cadres from Hanoi”, a number were sent to M-13 in 1973 and that three were “interrogated and, later on, smashed”.<sup>13133</sup> Expert David CHANDLER observed that the campaign of arrests and killings of “Hanoi people” – “highly trained” political cadre who ideologically “upstaged” their Cambodian counterparts – had foreshadowed the system of seeking

<sup>13126</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, para. 212.

<sup>13127</sup> T. 12 January 2012 (Accused NUON Chea), E1/26.1, pp. 8-9.

<sup>13128</sup> T. 13 December 2011 (Accused NUON Chea), E1/21.1, p. 9.

<sup>13129</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, para. 212.

<sup>13130</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, para. 226.

<sup>13131</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 522.

<sup>13132</sup> T. 22 November 2011 (Accused NUON Chea), E1/14.1, p. 79.

<sup>13133</sup> T. 15 June 2016 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/438.1, pp. 8-9.

out “strings”, networks or traitorous associations.<sup>13134</sup> Duch confirmed that “not many of them remained after 17 April 1975”.<sup>13135</sup>

3938. The treatment of enemies was highlighted in a leadership manifesto published in the July 1973 issue of the Revolutionary Flag, wherein the Party promoted the need to maintain absolute secrecy in their arrest and execution:

If our leadership is loosen[ed], we will not be able to carry out shock assaults against the enemies and we will be destr[oyed]. [...] If the spies are arrested to be executed in the meeting before the people, some people may be frightened of us. They think that we are extremely cruel. The stance to smash the spies is correct but it is inappropriately carried out.<sup>13136</sup>

3939. Secrecy pervaded the very core of the CPK’s operations.<sup>13137</sup> Expert Philip SHORT testified that the “obsession” with secrecy stretched back to the Issarak struggle against the French colonial authorities.<sup>13138</sup> According to Philip SHORT, the “paranoia about enemies burrowing within the Party” was a guiding factor in the Party’s methodology.<sup>13139</sup> NUON Chea publicly confirmed in 1978 that secrecy was “a way to defend ourselves from the danger of enemy infiltration”, adding that, “[o]nly through secrecy can we be masters of the situation and win victory over the enemy who cannot find out who is who”.<sup>13140</sup>

3940. NUON Chea confirmed in court that the process of eliminating enemies had actively been considered by the Party leadership in 1974. He testified that an extraordinary session of the CPK Standing Committee held in mid-1974 discussed the

<sup>13134</sup> T. 19 July 2012 (David CHANDLER), E1/92.1, pp. 64-67.

<sup>13135</sup> T. 15 June 2016 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/438.1, p. 7. See also, T. 19 July 2012 (David CHANDLER), E1/92.1, p. 66 (“The ones who stayed behind were, I think, taken by surprise and executed. [...] These people did not resurface in Cambodia.”).

<sup>13136</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/785, July 1973, ERN (En) 00713998-00713999 (emphasis added).

<sup>13137</sup> Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 342. See above, para. 3927; Section 16.3: Real and Perceived Enemies, paras 3793, 3862. See also, KHIEU Samphan Response to OCIJ, E3/112, 30 December 2007, p. 2, ERN (En) 00170882 (“Whoever’s task it is, that person knows it. The tasks of others are not to be known, not to be seen, not to be heard.”).

<sup>13138</sup> For the Khmer Issarak resistance movement, see Section 3: Historical Background, para. 197.

<sup>13139</sup> T. 6 May 2013 (Philip SHORT), E1/189.1, pp. 85-86 (describing the principle of secrecy as having “as much to do with Khmer culture as with [the] objective practical considerations” of the Party’s very survival at the time), 88-89. See also, T. 7 May 2013 (Philip SHORT), E1/190.1, pp. 18-19.

<sup>13140</sup> NUON Chea Speech to the Communist Workers’ Party of Denmark, E3/196, July 1978, ERN (En) 00762399 (referring to the period “after liberation”: “Secret work is fundamental in all that we do. [...] On the one hand, this is a matter of general principle, and on the other, it is a way to defend ourselves from the danger of enemy infiltration. As long as there is class struggle or imperialism, secret work will remain fundamental. Only through secrecy can we be masters of the situation and win victory over the enemy who cannot find out who is who.”).

“destructive actions by the traitors who [had] infiltrated in the Party”.<sup>13141</sup> The Revolutionary Flag later confirmed that the Central Committee had decided to close the door to Party membership in 1974 to prevent spies from infiltrating its ranks.<sup>13142</sup> Consequently, “there were internal purges”; measures which “were primarily [...] to struggle to build ideology within the Party, the Army, and the state authorities”.<sup>13143</sup>

3941. The Revolutionary Flag identifies the subjects of these purges as cadre in Sector 37 (Koh Kong and Kampong Seila), who were accused of collaborating “with the contemptible [LON] Nol and the Thai reactionaries” in 1974 and were promptly purged along with Southwest Zone Deputy Secretary and CPK Central Committee member Prasith alias Chong.<sup>13144</sup> While NUON Chea testified that Prasith was killed by bandits in the forest after being called to a meeting with Ta Mok,<sup>13145</sup> the Chamber does not find this account convincing in light of the foregoing evidence and other indicators that Prasith’s disappearance coincided with his summons to attend a Central Committee meeting.<sup>13146</sup> Expert Philip SHORT observed that, while Prasith was perhaps not the first CPK cadre to have been liquidated, his execution was the first occasion at which the Party’s leadership had approved the execution of a Central Committee member, adding that he considered this event to be a “tipping point” in the CPK’s history and “the beginning of the internal purges which went on to devour” the Party.<sup>13147</sup>

<sup>13141</sup> T. 22 November 2011 (Accused NUON Chea), E1/14.1, pp. 103-104.

<sup>13142</sup> Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 402.

<sup>13143</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/166, February-March 1976, pp. 32-33, ERN (En) 00517844-00517845. See also, Revolutionary Flag, E3/25, December 1976-January 1977, p. 29, ERN (En) 00491423 (noting that after mid-1974, “we agreed to close the doors to the Party and not to expand the party to prevent the enemy from entering”).

<sup>13144</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/193, August 1977, pp. 6-7, ERN (En) 00399226-00399227 (“The despicable Chong and the Despicable Chhan got along well. [...] [T]hey wanted to take Koh Kong [...] in order to collaborate with the contemptible Nol and the Thai reactionaries, and take all of Koh Kong to join with the Thai reactionaries. [...] This is not a minor issue. Re-examining this, it is seen that the group that collaborated with the traitors in Koh Kong committed a very serious offence. But we were able to sort out the germ elements at Koh Kong and Kampong Seila. Now, the whole of Sector 37 [...] is clean, very much cleaner than before. [...] But in 1974 we sorted out this issue completely and permanently: no problem remained because we had already eradicated all the enemies.” [emphasis added]). See also, Section 3: Historical Background, para. 203.

<sup>13145</sup> T. 30 January 2012 (Accused NUON Chea), E1/35.1, p. 25.

<sup>13146</sup> T. 26 July 2012 (ROCHOEM Ton alias PHY Phuon), E1/97.1, pp. 44-45 (testifying that Chong was not seen at the June 1974 Central Committee meeting); Combined S-21 Notebook, E3/834, April 1978-December 1978, p. 26, ERN (En) 00184508 (entry dated 11 August 1978: “In March 1974, we judged A-Chong”); Book by B. Kiernan: The Pol Pot Regime, E3/1593, pp. 68-72, ERN (En) 01150031-01150033 (according to the author’s interviews, Prasith was summoned to a Central Committee meeting in January 1974 and never seen again).

<sup>13147</sup> T. 6 May 2013 (Philip SHORT), E1/189.1, pp. 19-21; T. 7 May 2013 (Philip SHORT), E1/190.1, pp. 76-77; Book by P. Short: Pol Pot: The History of a Nightmare, E3/9, pp. 259-260, ERN (En) 00396467-00396468 (“Prasith was not the first CPK cadre to be liquidated. Mok had already eliminated

3942. After 17 April 1975, POL Pot, NUON Chea and KHIEU Samphan held mass education seminars in Phnom Penh.<sup>13148</sup> Reiterating POL Pot and NUON Chea’s talking points on the need to uncover enemies and “spy networks”,<sup>13149</sup> KHIEU Samphan instructed cadres to transform their behaviour in order to achieve the Party’s goals and identify enemies, clarifying that malingering workers and those who broke equipment would be categorised “as people who betray the Party”.<sup>13150</sup> Civil Party EM Oeun, a former medic who attended one of these lectures at Borei Keila at which POL Pot, NUON Chea, KHIEU Samphan and other senior leaders were present, told the Chamber that:

[The speakers said] that in order to find out who would be the infiltrated enemies, then we needed to look at those people[’s] performance. So, to do so, one needed to allow people to work more, eat less. And they had to look into the activity of the persons who were doing farming, and if these individuals every now and then broke things, even needles -- if women broke needles often, these people could also be perceived as enemies. Not just women, anyone.<sup>13151</sup>

3943. EM Oeun added that KHIEU Samphan instructed cadres to “pay attention to the New People”, as they were steeped in feudalism.<sup>13152</sup> The Civil Party clarified that the CPK “had the view that anyone who obstructs the Party’s affair[s] or opposed the Party a number of lower-ranking officials [...] This was the first time, however, that intra-Party conflict had reached into the ranks of the Central Committee. It was the first time, too, that the Party leadership had authorised the execution of one of its own number.”). See also, Section 18: The Criminal Responsibility of KHIEU Samphan, paras 4221-4230; Sections 12.1: Internal Factions (see Sections 12.1.3-12.1.6).

---

<sup>13148</sup> See above, para. 3736.

<sup>13149</sup> T. 23 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/113.1, pp. 82-83 (summarising the contents of previous speakers), 84-85 (NUON Chea spoke about “soldiers in the previous regimes, including Norodom Sihanouk and Lon Nol regimes, and [the speakers] also targeted the intellectuals and students, particularly those who graduated abroad”), 103; T. 28 November 2016 (BEIT Boeurn), E1/502.1, pp. 22-23 (KHIEU Samphan “used to speak [at study sessions]. When the chief made a speech, then the member and the deputy would be allowed also to comment or to supplement the presentation made by the chief.”). On POL Pot and NUON Chea’s statements regarding enemies, see e.g., T. 23 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/113.1, p. 84 (referring to NUON Chea’s speech); T. 27 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/115.1, pp. 26-28 (naming other participants at Borei Keila), 31-32 (POL Pot speech about need to know who enemies are regardless of family relationship), 44 (NUON Chea talked about “spy networks”); T. 28 November 2016 (BIT Boeurn), E1/502.1, p. 23 (“They did not say who the enemies were. However, [POL Pot] said that sometimes the enemies were our parents or our relatives and did we dare to smash those enemies if our parents were the enemies.”), 27-28 (“They said that we should strengthen our leadership and to search for the enemy embedded within our revolutions”).

<sup>13150</sup> T. 23 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/113.1, pp. 84-85.

<sup>13151</sup> T. 23 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/113.1, p. 82; T. 28 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/116.1, p. 32. See also, T. 27 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/115.1, pp. 52-53 (“I was rather terrified, myself, and my colleagues were a bit terrified upon hearing that statement”). The Civil Party’s evidence about this event was generally consistent with his Civil Party Application. The Chamber accepts his account as credible.

<sup>13152</sup> T. 27 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/115.1, pp. 51-53 affirming EM Oeun Civil Party Application, E3/1729, 29 January 2010, p. 7, ERN (En) 00751867.

[...] would be regarded as the enemy or the traitor of the Party”, clarifying that “the Party had to smash the enemies” at the time, meaning “to execute”.<sup>13153</sup>

3944. At this time, the CPK proceeded to dismantle or failed to replace vestiges of state institutions of the Khmer Republic and pre-1970 monarchy, including the legislature and judiciary.<sup>13154</sup> By August 1975 at latest, the CPK was establishing Santebal – a neologism encompassing the notions of Norkorbal (the police force under the NORODOM Sihanouk and Khmer Republic eras) and Santesok (“security”) – which became synonymous with the DK detention and execution apparatus.<sup>13155</sup> As Duch testified:

The word Santebal does not refer exactly to a prison as prisons existed in France or as prisons existed in Cambodia in the time before that. [...] Santebal offices in Cambodia refer[red] to a location where people were to be kept before they were sent to be killed. That was the role played by Santebal offices in Cambodia at the time, that is, people were kept there, interrogated and later on they were smashed. It was not a place like a court where people go through a trial and they later are sentenced to serve a certain amount of years.<sup>13156</sup>

3945. The remit of security centres was to absolutely implement orders to “smash” enemies:

When a decision was made to smash, then other security offices or units had to make the arrest and to send to the security office to arrest, to detain, to torture and to smash. It had to happen and nobody dared to object the decision [...]. If somebody opposed, [he] would be punished.<sup>13157</sup>

3946. As discussed further below, the ultimate treatment of prisoners at security centres was commensurate with their prisoner status and the severity of their alleged

<sup>13153</sup> T. 27 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/115.1, pp. 31-32, 37-38.

<sup>13154</sup> Section 5: Administrative Structures, paras 417-418.

<sup>13155</sup> KAING Guek Eav Interview Record, E3/448, 4 December 2007, p. 3, ERN (En) 00154908; Laurence PICQ Interview Record, E3/5168, 30 October 2008, p. 2, ERN (En) 00323633.

<sup>13156</sup> T. 9 June 2016 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/435.1, p. 74.

<sup>13157</sup> Case 001 Transcript (KAING Guek Eav), E3/5794, 28 April 2009, p. 32, ERN (En) 00325580 (specifically referring to decisions by those to whom the right to smash was delegated, see below, para. 3955). See also, T. 21 March 2012 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/52.1, p. 26 (“The policy was applied the same -- the same policy was that whenever the Party regarded someone as an enemy we had to smash him or her, and we had no way to contest it. When the Party determined a person as an enemy, we had nothing but to smash that enemy for the Party.”); T. 29 March 2012 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/56.1, p. 15 (“The Party’s policy towards the enemy [was] stable, as the renounced enemy would be smashed. But it was to be done in accordance with particular circumstance. So there was no precise guidance. [...] We had stable policies against the enemies, that is, the enemies were to be killed.”). See also, Section 12.2.4: S-21 Security Centre: Locations and Establishment.

offending. Evidence before the Chamber demonstrated that whereas the most serious category of enemy was “smashed” in accordance with the revolutionary framework (Section 16.4.2.1.2), less serious offenders were reformed, re-educated or refashioned (Section 16.4.2.1.3). In view of its findings below, the Chamber accepts Duch’s evidence of the operation of security centres but only insofar as it concerns the “smashing” of the most serious category of offender.

16.4.2.1.1. Number of security centres and offices

3947. The Chamber has identified several security centres and offices which existed prior to 1975, including: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre (Takeo);<sup>13158</sup> M-13A and M-99 (Kampong Speu); M-13B (Kandal); M-15 (Southwest Zone); and security offices in Krouh Chhmar, Kok Kduoch and Pongro.<sup>13159</sup>

3948. The Co-Prosecutors submit that over 260 DK-era security offices have been identified by researchers, citing to mapping initiatives by DC-Cam and Henri LOCARD.<sup>13160</sup> The Co-Prosecutors’ precise methodology in arriving at the figure of “more than 260” security centres was not apparent to the Chamber. The Chamber has nevertheless reviewed the available evidence on the Case File to ascertain an approximate number. In so doing, it has independently reviewed evidence of the existence of security centres and offices during the DK period and cross-checked its findings against DC-Cam and Henri LOCARD’s respective investigations. In line with its general considerations on the evidence, the Chamber has only relied upon credible (and where available, appropriately corroborated) evidence in reaching an approximate number of security centres.

16.4.2.1.1.1. DC-Cam’s findings

3949. The Co-Prosecutors reference a number of DC-Cam documents in support of the above submission,<sup>13161</sup> including a report identifying 195 former security centres investigated as part of mapping missions conducted between 1995 and 2003.<sup>13162</sup> An

<sup>13158</sup> Section 12.3.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Location and Establishment.

<sup>13159</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, paras 245, 250.

<sup>13160</sup> Co-Prosecutors’ Closing Brief, para. 264. See also, Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 110.

<sup>13161</sup> Co-Prosecutors’ Closing Brief, para. 264, fn. 779.

<sup>13162</sup> DC-Cam Report, DK Prison, E3/2378, 23 August 2006, ERN (En) 00194821-00194829. See also, Genocide Sites in Cambodia 1975-1979 (Yale University), E3/2366, undated, ERN (En) 00188711

updated version of the report dated February 2008 identifies a total of 196 security centres.<sup>13163</sup> A further report prepared by Craig ETCHESON, a former DC-Cam and OCP investigator and Expert in Case 001, provides details of DC-Cam’s methodology in arriving at the total number of security centres. It details the collection of witness statements by DC-Cam investigators as part of a mass grave and security centre mapping initiative conducted over several years, focusing on the nationwide network of DK detention facilities established at the zone, region, district, commune and village levels. According to Craig ETCHESON, the accumulated expertise of DC-Cam investigators enabled them to gauge the reliability of informants through a process of corroboration with other eyewitnesses, perpetrators, victims and other available evidence. Systematic Global Positioning System recording also pinpointed the location of these sites.<sup>13164</sup> The testimony of DC-Cam Deputy Director VANTHAN Dara Peou further confirmed that investigators were trained experts in conducting such interviews.<sup>13165</sup>

3950. No other party made submissions with regard to the total number of security centres. The Chamber notes that Duch accepted the existence of 196 security centres at trial but acknowledged that this figure was put to him by the Co-Prosecutors during the course of proceedings in Case 001,<sup>13166</sup> and that “[i]t was not the figure that I came up with through my research”. Indeed, he testified that he was aware of only “a small number of security centres” during the DK period aside from S-21, M-15 and two offices in Kampong Thom and Sector 32.<sup>13167</sup> The Chamber is satisfied that the source of his knowledge in this regard was in fact the DC-Cam report identifying 196 security

---

(mapping security centre sites identified by DC-Cam); DC-Cam Map of Security Centre sites, E3/2365, 2001, ERN 00188695.

<sup>13163</sup> DC-Cam Report, DK Prison, E3/2764, 18 February 2008, ERN (En) 00347406-00347413. Two further documents cited by the Co-Prosecutors and entitled “memorial” and “burial” contain references to execution sites listed in E3/2764. See DC-Cam Report, Memorial, E3/2765, 7 November 2006, ERN (En) 00379116-00379119; DC-Cam Report, Burial, E3/2763, 18 February 2008, ERN (En) 00379092-00379115.

<sup>13164</sup> Report by C. Etcheson, The Number: Quantifying Crimes Against Humanity in Cambodia, E3/1807, 1999, pp. 8, 12-13, ERN (En) 00089465, 00089469-00089470.

<sup>13165</sup> T. 23 January 2012 (VANTHAN Dara Peou), E1/31.1, p. 11.

<sup>13166</sup> See e.g., KAING Guek Eav Organigram of DK Structure, E3/457, 25 June 2008, ERN (En) 00198898 (noting: “There are 196 offices throughout the whole country (including S-21)”); KAING Guek Eav Final Submission in Case 001, E3/442, 23 November 2009, p. 21, ERN (En) 00412111. The Chamber observes that it was in Duch’s interest to emphasise, during proceedings against him, the number of other security centres, and therefore the number of other persons responsible for similar atrocities during the DK period.

<sup>13167</sup> T. 22 June 2016 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/442.1, pp. 64-66.

offices and accords minimal weight to his testimony regarding the total number of security centres between 1975 and 1979.

3951. The Chamber is satisfied that DC-Cam's approach to investigating security centres was methodologically sound and finds that the organisation's research credibly and verifiably demonstrates the existence of 196 DK-era security centres across the country. The Chamber observes that DC-Cam's investigations were at times limited by unfavourable conditions including security concerns, inclement weather and scheduling issues,<sup>13168</sup> and as a result do not represent the totality of security centres established or operated during the DK period.

16.4.2.1.1.2. Henri LOCARD's findings

3952. The Co-Prosecutors also point to the research of Henri LOCARD in support of their submission positing the existence of more than 260 security centres.<sup>13169</sup> The NUON Chea Defence objects to the totality of Henri LOCARD's evidence for the reasons outlined elsewhere in this Judgement.<sup>13170</sup>

3953. The Chamber has examined Henri LOCARD's findings insofar as they relate to the identification of security centres operational during the DK period. Subject to a margin of error accounting for divergent transliterations, approximately 50-60 security

<sup>13168</sup> Report by C. Etcheson, The Number: Quantifying Crimes Against Humanity in Cambodia, E3/1807, 1999, pp. 9, 11, ERN (En) 00089466, 00089468.

<sup>13169</sup> Co-Prosecutors' Closing Brief, para. 264, fn. 779 citing to Report by H. Locard, Research Notes on Democratic Kampuchea Prison Network: Northwest Region, E3/2071, May 2007, pp. 1-36, ERN (En) 00087303-00087332; Report by H. Locard, S-21 & Phnom Penh Under DK, E3/3214, 11 July 2007, pp. 1-9, ERN (En) 00403279-00403287; Report by H. Locard, Preah Vihear Sector or Zone 103, E3/3244, 31 May 2007, pp. 1-3, ERN (En) 00403276-00403278; Report by H. Locard, Northeast: Eisan Region – Zone-Sector 105, Mondulkiri, E3/3219, 27 June 2007, pp. 1-10, ERN (En) 00403253-00403262; Report by H. Locard, Northeast: Eisan Region – Zones-Sectors 101, 102, 104, 105, 107, 505, Provinces of Ratanakiri, Mondulkiri, Stung Treng and Kratieh, E3/3255, 14 June 2007, pp. 1-51, ERN (En) 00403192-00403242; Report by H. Locard, Kratieh – 505: Special Zone, E3/3274, 24 June 2007, pp. 1-10, ERN (En) 00403243-00403252; Report by H. Locard, Kompong Thom-Uddor Region Sector or Zone 43, E3/3218, 2 June 2007, pp. 1-28, ERN (En) 00208411-00208438; Report by H. Locard, Bophea Region: Dambon 20-24, E3/3209, undated, pp. 1-61, ERN (En) 00403131-0043191; Report by H. Locard, Niredey Region: the Southeast, E3/3232, 11 July 2007, pp. 1-69, ERN (En) 00217621-00217689; Report by H. Locard, Kampong Cham: West Bank of the Mekong, Old North Region, Zone or Sectors 41 & 42, E3/2649, 5 June 2007, pp. 1-26, ERN (En) 00208385-00208410; Report by H. Locard, Siem Reap Province: New North Region, E3/3863, 30 May 2007, pp. 1-59, ERN (En) 0064149-00164207; Report by H. Locard, Stung Treng: Dambon 104 & 103, E3/3265, 16 June 2007, pp. 1-13, ERN (En) 00403263-00403275; Report by H. Locard, Research Notes on Democratic Kampuchea Prison Network: Northwest Region-Peayaoap, E3/2071, May 2007, pp. 1-30, ERN (En) 00087303-00087332.

<sup>13170</sup> Section 2.4.7.2: Considerations Regarding Specific Witnesses, Civil Parties and Experts: Expert Henri LOCARD.

centres identified by Henri LOCARD are corroborated by DC-Cam's findings and other reliable evidence on the Case File. A further 83 security centres identified by Henri LOCARD find no corroboration with other evidence. The Chamber recalls its finding that Henri LOCARD's writings are of limited, if any, probative value and that it will accord them little weight unless clear and reliable evidence corroborates his findings.<sup>13171</sup> The Chamber takes into account that Henri LOCARD's findings are based on information he personally gathered which are not always identifiable or verifiable. The Chamber therefore accepts the conclusions of Henri LOCARD only insofar as they concern the 50-60 security centres corroborated by DC-Cam's findings and other reliable evidence on the Case File, and accords minimal weight to his findings regarding the remainder.

16.4.2.1.1.3. Other security centres and conclusion

3954. In addition to the foregoing, the Chamber has identified at least 20 further security centres or offices from the Case File.<sup>13172</sup> While only a handful of these were subject to examination in court, the Chamber observes that the existence of the vast majority of others could not definitively be established to the requisite standard. The

<sup>13171</sup> Section 2: Preliminary Issues, para. 106.

<sup>13172</sup> T. 19 June 2012 (YUN Kim), E1/88.1, p. 76 (stating that there was a security centre at Prasral for "light offence people"); T. 20 June 2012 (YUN Kim), E1/89.1, p. 36 ("B-3, before it was converted into the youth work site, was also a security office where cadres were guarded from other districts to be detained at the B-3 location."); T. 22 October 2012 (CHUM Sokha), E1/136.1, pp. 68 (stating "Uncle Meak" had been arrested and detained at the Security Centre in Samraong village), 70 (stating that his father was tempered and forced to work in Trapeang Leak Kbal Security Centre, located to the east of Kdei village); T. 24 October 2012 (LAY Bony), E1/138.1, pp. 43, 61-62 (testifying that she was marched from Tuk Thkoul prison to Boeng Kol Re-education Centre and observed that many disappeared) [see also, LAY Bony Interview Record, E3/3958, 26 August 2009, ERN (En) 00379161-00379163]; Case 001 Transcript (VANN Nath), E3/7450, 29 June 2009, pp. 12-15, ERN (En) 00345670-00345673 (describing the prison in Balatt Cooperative where he was shackled with the same type of shackles used at S-21); SAU Ren DC-Cam Interview, E3/2073, 24 January 2003, p. 37, ERN (En) 00876415 ("When I arrived in Tang Kouk, I was imprisoned for three months [...] I was imprisoned in Chiveakpheap village, Andoung Pou commune"); RUOS Savi Interview Record, E3/7715, 12 May 2009, p. 8, ERN (En) 00328380 (stating that the sector in the East had security offices in Bak Ay and Kansoam Sat villages); BUN Sat Interview Record, E3/7884, 14 October 2009, pp. 3, ERN (En) 00398828 (stating that he was detained in Ta Suos Pagoda in Ta Suos commune, Svay Rieng), 4, ERN (En) 00398829 (stating that in the Svay Rieng district there were detention centres at Sla Pagoda, Chreang Pagoda, Thnal Keng and Tuol Pralay), 5, ERN (En) 00398830 (There was a security centre, known as Svay Yea Commune Security Centre); SOU Sotheavy Interview Record, E3/4609, 18 December 2009, ERN (En) 00434881 (describing torturing tools used at Krang Chheh Security Centre); UK Soeum Interview Record, E3/5603, 3 March 2010, pp. 7, ERN (En) 00491352 (describing the "militia office" in Rumlech Cooperative where people who were arrested were detained), 9, ERN (En) 00491354 (stating that he was told by Ta Pheng that Bakan Leu had a security centre called Sam Sant); TOAT Thoeun Interview Record, E3/9610, 10 September 2013, p. 23, ERN (En) 00974033 (stating that Kakaoh Chak correction centre detained thousands of combatants).

Chamber is satisfied that a minimum of 200 security centres were established and operated across DK during the indictment period. It recognises that the totality of evidence indicates a much higher number, however the Chamber is unable to determine whether or not that number exceeds 260, as submitted by the Co-Prosecutors.

16.4.2.1.2. “Smashing” of enemies

3955. The framework and modalities by which enemies were condemned to detention in security centres – and frequently death – were constitutionally legitimised and implemented pursuant to Party decree. The DK Constitution determined that “hostile and destructive acts which are systematically organised and endanger the people’s State are punishable to the highest degree”.<sup>13173</sup> The contours of the Party’s stance toward the punishment of enemies were plainly outlined in the Central Committee’s 30 March 1976 decision, wherein “[t]he right to smash, inside and outside the [Party] ranks” was delegated down the Party lines:

The right to smash inside and outside the [Party] ranks

Objective:

1. Establish a framework to carry out our absolute revolution.
2. To strengthen our socialist democracy.

All this to strengthen our state authority.

- If in the base framework, to be decided by the Zone Standing Committee.
- Surrounding the Centre Office, to be decided by the Central Office Committee.
- In independent Sectors, the decision shall be taken by the Standing Committee.
- For the Centre Military, the decision shall be taken by the [General] Staff.<sup>13174</sup> 3956. The Chamber considers this to be a significant document. The provenance, chain of custody and probative value of this document (and others in the collection as part of which it was obtained) is discussed elsewhere in this Judgement.<sup>13175</sup> The document is consistent with other high-level CPK documentation in substance and in form,<sup>13176</sup> and contains reference to events otherwise verified by the Chamber.<sup>13177</sup> The Co-Prosecutors refer to this document extensively in their closing brief, and the NUON Chea Defence accepts it as the Central Committee's framework for "identifying the competent authority to implement its policy depending on the suspected offender's workplace".<sup>13178</sup> Neither the KHIEU Samphan Defence nor the Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers made any relevant submissions in this regard. The Chamber is satisfied that this document is an authentic, reliable and probative piece of evidence demonstrating the dissemination of policy instructions from the upper echelon of the CPK.

<sup>13173</sup> DK Constitution, E3/259, 5 January 1976, ERN (En) 00184836 (Article 10). The Chamber notes that the original publication was made available in Khmer and French, with the latter edition omitting the words “systematically organised” (“systématiquement organiser”) (see ERN (Kh) 00089847; ERN (Fr) S00012654-00012655). The Chamber declares the Khmer version to be authoritative in this instance.

<sup>13174</sup> Decision of the Central Committee Regarding a Number of Matters, E3/12, 30 March 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00182809.

3957. NUON Chea claimed that "[t]he Party had no authority to smash anyone", and could only "demote or [...] sack Party members" before sending them "to the base authority to make decisions, or to the Court to decide".<sup>13179</sup> In light of its findings in this section, the Chamber accords no weight to NUON Chea's assertion. Furthermore, and contrary to NUON Chea's claim that such matters were forwarded to the courts, the Chamber has found that no functioning judiciary existed during the DK period.<sup>13180</sup>

3958. Despite the Party's policy of secrecy, the smashing of enemies was widely reported within Party ranks. As outlined in Sections 16.4.2.1.2 and 16.4.2.1.3, the Revolutionary Flag explained that 1976 and 1977 in particular were marked by purges and the systematic "smashing" of enemies with "strings" or "networks" embedding

<sup>13175</sup> Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 349. See also, Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, para. 3771.

<sup>13176</sup> The typeface and typeset (indentation, alignment, headings and presentation) is consistent with other high-level documents. See e.g., DK Document, Instructions of 870, E3/741, 3 January 1978; DK Document, Guidance of the Central Committee, E3/764, 20 June 1978; DK Document, Instructions of 870, E3/723, undated; DK Document, Advice from 870, E3/9373, 3 January 1979.

<sup>13177</sup> References in the document to the target of "three tonnes per hectare" (ERN (En) 00182809 [see above, para. 3892]); "model districts" (ERN (En) 00182809 [see Section 10.1.11: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Tram Kak as a Model District]); founding date of the Party (ERN (En) 00182810 [see above, para. 3741]); "elections", setting up "state organisations" including the PRA, State Presidium and government (ERN (En) 00182812-00182814 [see above, paras 3737-3739]) have otherwise been established by the Chamber.

<sup>13178</sup> NUON Chea Closing Brief, para. 403.

<sup>13179</sup> T. 13 December 2011 (Accused NUON Chea), E1/21.1, p. 42.

<sup>13180</sup> Section 5: Administrative Structures, paras 417-418. See above, para. 3944.

within the ranks of the Party.<sup>13181</sup> IENG Sary also defined 1976 as a “key year” in the hunt for enemies.<sup>13182</sup>

3959. That this was nothing short of a nationwide enterprise was made clear by the October-November 1977 edition of the Revolutionary Flag:

We now consider that our Party is already strong, and that is why we have been able to sweep cleanly away more than 99% of the contemptible major concealed enemies boring from within. But supposing if they were able to strengthen and expand and make a comeback someplace: that would mean that place was weak. Things throughout the country must be examined like this. Each zone must be examined like this. Each sector must be examined like this. Each district must be examined like this. Each cooperative must be examined like this. The army and ministries and offices must be examined like this.<sup>13183</sup>

3960. KHIEU Samphan echoed the call for the “suppression” of enemies in a speech during the second anniversary of the 17 April 1975 “liberation”:

We must wipe out the enemy in our capacity as masters of the situation, following the lines of domestic policy, foreign policy and military policy of our revolutionary organization. Everything must be done neatly and thoroughly. We must not become absent-minded, careless or forgetful because of past victories. On the contrary, we must further steel ourselves, remain alert, constantly maintain the spirit

<sup>13181</sup> See also, Revolutionary Flag, E3/139, November 1976, p. 9, ERN (En) 00455286 (“During 1976 the enemy carried out strong activities. They had their networks inside the country that have been embedded inside our ranks for a long time. They made propaganda against socialist revolution, against the collective, against the cooperatives, and they agitated for the return of the private regime. However, because our socialist revolution was profound, the bad elements embedded inside the Party’s ranks and outside the party were totally scattered and overthrown by our people and our Revolutionary Army.”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/25, December 1976-January 1977, p. 5, ERN (En) 00491398 (“The traitor strings that we smashed successively were organized traitor strings, systematic strings, that had existed since the national democratic revolution period. However, during that period, they could live with us. In socialist revolution, they were segregated out. 1976 was a year of these class combat inside our revolution and inside our Party. Many germs appeared. All the traitor strings appeared.”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/742, April 1977, p. 4, ERN (En) 00478495 (“These enemies of all types strive to build espionage forces: all three of their major networks that have embedded and bored holes from within the Party, the revolution, and our Army during the past 27 years were discovered by us and were fundamentally smashed during the first trimester of 1977.”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/135, June 1977, p. 27, ERN (En) 00446872 (“During first half of 1977 we systematically swept clean the embedded enemy boring holes from within. Through this experience, we see that we cannot just look at their movements. After we look at their movements, we must also look at their personal histories. Which network? Who do they contact? Who brought them in? We know their circles. We know their origins. We are able to research them. So then, we must clearly assess their personal histories time after time. Only when their personal histories are clearly grasped can we feel warm about the quality of our cadres and our Party members.”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/745, March 1978, pp. 6, ERN (En) 00504072, 8, ERN (En) 00504074.

<sup>13182</sup> See above, Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, para. 3803.

<sup>13183</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/736, October-November 1977, ERN (En) 00182550.

of revolutionary vigilance and continue to fight and suppress all stripes of the enemy at all times.<sup>13184</sup>

3961. Civil Party PREAP Chhon told the Chamber that, in delivering a speech to a group of East Zone evacuees at Chbar Ampov market in 1977, KHIEU Samphan stated that:

[W]e made a revolution in order to eliminate the Lon Nol regime. And another point was to eliminate the capitalist, the feudalist, the intellectuals. He [i.e. KHIEU Samphan] didn't want them to exist. That's what he meant in his speech. [...] If we betrayed the Party and the Party knew it, then we would be killed. He added another point that, 'If you are kept, no gain; if you're pulled out, no loss'! It is for those who betrayed the revolution.<sup>13185</sup>

3962. Telegrams dispatched to Angkar bear conclusive evidence of the Standing Committee's direct involvement in the campaign to identify and eliminate enemy networks. Three telegrams before the Chamber from the West Zone to the Party Centre best demonstrate the regular and comprehensive reporting relationship between the zones and the CPK leadership. A telegram dated 16 July 1978 details the "national defence" situation within the Zone, including the identification, arrest and interrogation of internal enemies including former Khmer Republic soldiers and workers who had allegedly committed moral offences or expressed dissatisfaction with the revolution, collectivist initiatives and work regimes. The telegram further details the interrogation of enemies and the extraction of confessions, adding in one instance that following the interrogation of a former Khmer Republic second lieutenant, "we will send him as well as his confession to Angkar". Measures by the Zone directed against enemy activity include "examining, searching and following [...] the trail of all kinds of tricks of our undercover enemy burrowing from within, so that we can absolutely sweep them away by way of strictly following the party's organizational line to go parallel with [the] political and ideological line".<sup>13186</sup>

<sup>13184</sup> Khieu Samphan's Speech at Anniversary Meeting (in SWB/FE/5490/C collection), E3/200, 15 April 1977, ERN (En) S00004165. See above, Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, para. 3807.

<sup>13185</sup> T. 30 November 2016 (PREAP Chhon), E1/504.1, pp. 90, 95-96. The Civil Party was examined at length (for over one hour) by the KHIEU Samphan Defence about his failure to name KHIEU Samphan in his initial Civil Party Applications. In court, the Civil Party credibly and consistently described the circumstances under which he provided his initial statements, including the fact that he was not specifically asked about KHIEU Samphan and that he sought to limit his answers to the questions asked of him. See T. 1 December 2016 (PREAP Chhon), E1/505.1, pp. 6-37. In view of the Civil Party's credible evidence in court and the Chamber's position on the probative value of Civil Party Applications (in particular the circumstances under which they are furnished), the Chamber accepts the Civil Party's evidence on this event.

3963. A further telegram dated 23 July 1978 similarly details enemy activity, as well as "building [the] socialist regime", living conditions inside the West Zone and political and ideological education, including that "cadres of all levels" are working closely with all areas "to an even greater extent in order to control movements and investigate biographies and activities of people who are to be admitted into the Party membership". The report also includes tables detailing agricultural and industrial output by the Zone in the preceding period.<sup>13187</sup> The third telegram, a West Zone monthly report of June 1978, recounts in minute detail enemy conduct inside cooperatives rather than districts and sectors. Under the heading "Screening out persons with elements as Vietnamese, CIA agents, and those with no-good elements", the report identifies that "100 Vietnamese people – small and big, young and old – have been smashed" along with 60 others "burrow[ing] inside units and collectives".<sup>13188</sup>

3964. Regular reports to Angkar by zone secretaries detailing the internal and external enemy situation, including the search for enemy strings and networks, was further evidenced in the Southwest,<sup>13189</sup> Northwest,<sup>13190</sup> Central (old North),<sup>13191</sup> new

<sup>13186</sup> DK Telegram, E3/1092, 16 July 1978, ERN (En) 00289921-00289923 (emphasis added).

<sup>13187</sup> DK Telegram, E3/1093, 23 July 1978, ERN (En) 00143593-00143602.

<sup>13188</sup> DK Telegram, E3/1094, 4 August 1978, ERN (En) 00143618-00143630. See also, Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, paras 3410, 3470.

<sup>13189</sup> See e.g., DK Telegram, E3/853, 3 June 1977, ERN (En) 00185243 (Southwest Zone report addressed to Angkar).

<sup>13190</sup> See e.g., DK Telegram, E3/1179, 8 June 1977, ERN (En) 00583917-00583918 (M-560 (i.e. Northwest Zone) report for period 24 May 1977 to 7 June 1977 referring to "enemies who had been identified [and] were arrested and smashed successively"); DK Telegram, E3/1183, August 1977, ERN (En) 00574570-00574573 ("Weekly report to beloved Angkar from M.560"); DK Telegram, E3/950, 11 May 1978, ERN (En) 00185215-00185216 (telegram by RUOS Nhim to "Angkar 870" reporting the "smashing" of 40 attempted escapees and generally listing as one of the measures the "smash[ing of] invasive enemies"); DK Telegram, E3/863, 17 May 1978, ERN (En) 00321961-00321962 (telegram by RUOS Nhim to "Angkar 870" noting that "we smashed 58" people trying to escape to Thailand; that "border guards smashed some" of the remainder; and that "we attacked" and "smashed 3 heads and wounded 1 head" of Thai spies).

<sup>13191</sup> See e.g., DK Telegram, E3/952, 2 April 1976, ERN (En) 00182658 (telegram by KE Pauk to "respected Brother Pol", copying NUON Chea, SON Sen and Office 870).

North<sup>13192</sup> and Northeast Zones.<sup>13193</sup> The Chamber is satisfied that these telegrams demonstrate the monitoring by the Central and Standing Committees of the implementation of the Party's policies in accordance with their mandates.<sup>13194</sup>

3965. Consistently with its findings about mass arrests, detentions and executions at S-21 and Kraing Ta Chan Security Centres, the Chamber finds that the CPK maintained a policy of identifying, arresting, isolating and smashing the most serious category of enemy throughout the DK period.<sup>13195</sup> This policy was directly implemented at security centres and execution sites throughout the country and was carried out by the Party's entire administrative network of zone, sector, district and local-level secretaries, CPK cadres and RAK personnel.

16.4.2.1.3. Re-education of "bad elements"

3966. Less serious offending conduct not deemed "hostile and destructive" to the state was nominally "subject to constructive re-education within the framework of the people's organisations".<sup>13196</sup> Beginning in 1975 and continuing throughout the DK period, CPK publications encouraged re-education as a means of strengthening the revolutionary stance and defending against enemies attempting to bore into the ranks of the Party.<sup>13197</sup> The Revolutionary Flag specifically promoted the need to engage in

<sup>13192</sup> See e.g., DK Telegram, E3/1209, 6 May 1976, ERN (En) 005522888 (telegram by KANG Chap alias Se to "Com 870", copying POL Pot, NUON Chea, IENG Sary, VORN Vet and Office 870, reporting that "Generally speaking, we can defend from the internal and external enemies."); DK Telegram, E3/1144, 6 September 1977, ERN (En) 00517923-00517924 (telegram by KANG Chap alias Se to "Committee 870", copying POL Pot, NUON Chea, IENG Sary, VORN Vet, SON Sen and Office 870); DK Telegram, E3/1077, 11 April 1978, ERN (En) 00340539-00340540 (telegram by KANG Chap alias Se to "Committee 870", copying POL Pot, NUON Chea, VORN Vet, IENG Sary and Office 870); DK Telegram, E3/949, 9-10 May 1978 (telegrams by KE Pauk to "Committee 870", copying POL Pot, NUON Chea, IENG Sary, VORN Vet and Office 870, reporting the death and injury of over 55 "enemies" following attacks).

<sup>13193</sup> See e.g., DK Telegram, E3/157, 21 April 1978, ERN (En) 00348086 (telegram by UM Neng alias Vy to "Respected Brother", copied to POL Pot, NUON Chea, IENG Sary, VORN Vet and Office 870, reporting "At the border, we are still pushing the enemy back. Spies have entered locations twice; we smashed some").

<sup>13194</sup> Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 355.

<sup>13195</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre; Section 12.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre.

<sup>13196</sup> DK Constitution, E3/259, 5 January 1976, ERN (En) 00184836 (Art. 10).

<sup>13197</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/139, November 1976, pp. 30, ERN (En) 00455307 (referring to weak collective stances: "That comes from not being responsible, not from opposing socialist revolution, but from not understand. So then, there must be more education and indoctrination again and again."), 40, ERN (En) 00455317 ("Correctly implement all the lines of the Party, the ideology of the Party, the organisational line of the Party. This is fundamental. When we go out of bounds, we help one another by refashioning one another. But the important thing is advance prevention. Educate and study in advance not to make that have to be sorted out later. So then, strive to indoctrinate in advance. When the masses absorb the political and ideological lines of the Party, they will not do anything to the contrary. Even if they do not understand them in the sense of implementation, they will not do anything contrary to criticism and self-criticism meetings to “eradicate” non-revolutionary elements within DK society while educating the popular masses about appropriate views on the new revolutionary order.<sup>13198</sup> Although the magazine limited the methodology behind this framework to conducting meetings, studying various Party documents and listening to radio reports,<sup>13199</sup> the reality proved otherwise. Intellectuals and other Cambodians returning from abroad were subjected to hard labour and self-criticism at K-15.<sup>13200</sup> Witness ONG Thong Hoeung provided the most vivid description of the process of re-education. He described it as a combination of study sessions, criticism/self-criticism and gruelling physical labour as a means of eradicating class distinction and refashioning the population into a single class.<sup>13201</sup>

3967. In court, KHIEU Samphan acknowledged that the Party’s regime of re-education through criticism and self-criticism meetings was ideologically fundamental to the class struggle,<sup>13202</sup> including building class stance and developing “class anger”.<sup>13203</sup> At mass rallies during the DK period, he directed this class anger at New People. Civil Party EM Oeun confirmed that KHIEU Samphan “clearly stressed that in order to uncover enemies burrowing from within, we needed to assign much hard labour to the New People”. He added that:

On this point, I still recall what he told us and the political lines at that time. They wanted to uncover the enemy burrowing from within, and in doing so, [...] we had to give [New People] a lot of work, little food to eat so that they – so that we could uncover the enemies from within. That’s what he mentioned in the session. I was rather terrified, myself, them.”); Revolutionary Flag, E3/193, August 1977, p. 26, ERN (En) 00399246 (“Since we had not yet profoundly whipped them up, we had not yet re-educated them to deeply understand the matter of class, class nature, true class content, the true nature of state power in order to seize state power, in order to defend state power, and what state power is, we had not yet re-educated them constantly, deeply, at clearly at all Therefore, this is why the enemies and the various classes are still able to deceive them. If we whip them up like this, the enemy will not be able to enter. The enemies embedded inside will be unable to do anything. The enemies outside will not be able to enter.”).

---

<sup>13198</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, paras 1026-1028.

<sup>13199</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 1028.

<sup>13200</sup> DK Publication, Document No. 6: Concerning the Grasp and Implementation of the Political Line in Mobilising the National Democratic Front Forces of the Party, E3/99, 22 September 1975, p. 4, ERN (En) 00244277; T. 7 August 2012 (ONG Thong Hoeung), E1/103.1, pp. 98-102; T. 11 August 2016 (ROS Chuor Siy), E1/455.1, pp. 94-95.

<sup>13201</sup> T. 7 August 2012 (ONG Thong Hoeung), E1/103.1, pp. 100-102.

<sup>13202</sup> T. 29 May 2013 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/198.1, p. 23.

<sup>13203</sup> T. 29 May 2013 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/198.1, p. 88.

and my colleagues were a bit terrified. [...] That's what he said at that time: "Keeping you is of no gain; and losing you is of no loss".<sup>13204</sup>

3968. Both NUON Chea and KHIEU Samphan specifically lectured cadres on the importance of introspection and refashioning through criticism and self-criticism sessions.<sup>13205</sup> At a meeting of Independent Divisions and Regiments in March 1977, SON Sen declared that those indebted to the enemy "must be re-educated and concentrated in one place".<sup>13206</sup> By 1978, however, the CPK had recognised that failed attempts at re-education would require other disciplinary measures "at the appropriate level":

When any cadre or any Party member is not systematically revolutionarily vigilant, this causes systematic breaks in secrecy and systematic damage to revolutionary forces; when the Party has educated and refashioned them many times but they refuse to change, measures at the appropriate level must be taken.<sup>13207</sup>

3969. NUON Chea described before the Chamber exactly what these "measures" were:

Communism only eliminates those people who destroy the country, [i.e. those] who could not be educated. I'll give you an example. The bad people would be reminded, criticised -- self-criticised -- once, twice, thrice, and then they would have to make a text on revolutionary life-view, and if they can be reformed to build the country, that would be fine. [...] Some people can be re-educated while others could not. So for those who could be re-educated, they became good people, and those who could not would be sacked and removed from the Party and sent to the local authority to engage in labour.<sup>13208</sup>

<sup>13204</sup> T. 27 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/115.1, pp. 51-53 affirming EM Oeun Civil Party Application, E3/1729, 29 January 2010, p. 7, ERN (En) 00751867. See also, T. 23 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/113.1, p. 90.

<sup>13205</sup> T. 23 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/113.1, pp. 84-85; T. 3 July 2013 (EK Hen), E1/217.1, pp. 52-53. See also, T. 25 July 2012 (ROCHOEM Ton alias PHY Phuon), E1/96.1, pp. 76-78.

<sup>13206</sup> Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/807, 1 March 1977, p. 12, ERN (En) 00933844. See also, Minutes of Meeting Secretaries and Deputy Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, E3/797, 18 August 1976, ERN (En) 00234458-00234459 (SON Sen concludes that: "People with no-good elements must be definitely screened. Our principle and standpoint must be defined that external enemies are not able to harm us, but we must be careful with internal enemies by specifically carrying out education and handling disputes in time.").

<sup>13207</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/747, August 1978, p. 10, ERN (En) 00499775. See also, Revolutionary Flag, E3/4, July 1976, p. 27, ERN (En) 00268939 ("Discipline must be implemented carefully in order that the Party be strong, in firm solidarity and unity. The Party's principle is to criticise/self-criticise in order to refashion. This is the foundation. But if after being repeatedly refashioned there is no reform, no progress, it is imperative to implement discipline, so that the masses will have faith and the Party will be firm, enabling us to improve the principles of the Party, improve the Party line.").

<sup>13208</sup> T. 13 December 2011 (Accused NUON Chea), E1/21.1, p. 42 (emphasis added).

3970. In a speech delivered on 17 January 1978, POL Pot expressly identified as suspect and unreliable persons from outside the peasant class.<sup>13209</sup> Three months later, KHIEU Samphan broadcast a statement stating that “our people’s vigilance” and “class hatred” had “become more seething” in the past year.<sup>13210</sup> Indeed, the Chamber has found that the Party had long been implementing “absolute measure[s]” on the ground “against those elements who cause destruction to the collective regime and socialism”; notably, “by decreasing and sweeping clean by means of implementing the proletarian class dictatorship”.<sup>13211</sup>

3971. In June 1978, the CPK Central Committee issued a directive regarding “Misled Persons who have joined the CIA, served as Yuon Agents or joint the KGB and opposed the Party, Revolution, People and Democratic Kampuchea”, apparently amnestying enemies who had engaged in counter-revolutionary activities prior to 1975 but maintaining that “the CPK must eliminate” those who intentionally continued in such treasonous acts. Those engaging in “just some opposing activities”, those verbally inciting opposition to the Party and those “who have just been persuaded by the propaganda” of the enemy, were now subject to a policy of re-education and admonition, “in order for them to be awakened, and to return to take sides with our Party, Revolution and people”.<sup>13212</sup> The directive was disseminated in the May-June edition of the Revolutionary Flag and at a mass meeting in about September of that year.<sup>13213</sup> Duch described this directive as a deceptive ploy to calm the population.<sup>13214</sup> Indeed, while this “reorientation” in policy appears to have been limited to the Khmer

<sup>13209</sup> POL Pot Speech, E3/349, 17 January 1978, p. 5, ERN (En) S00012702 (“The peasants of poor and inferior middle strata can be considered as belonging to the proletarian and semi-proletarian classes in the countryside. [...] In we base [the army] on other sources, then our army would not be strong any more.”).

<sup>13210</sup> Phnom Penh Rally Marks 17th April Anniversary (in SWB/FE/5791/B collection), E3/562, 16 April 1978, ERN (En) S00010562.

<sup>13211</sup> Section 11.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Construction Site, para. 1341. See also, Section 11.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Construction Site, para. 1319 (referring to measures taken by the CPK to solve social antagonisms through class struggle).

<sup>13212</sup> Central Committee Guidance, E3/764, 20 June 1978, ERN (En) 00275218-00275219.

<sup>13213</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/727, May-June 1978, ERN (En) 00185328; Conclusion of Pol Pot Speech at 27 Sep Phnom Penh Meeting (in FBIS collection), E3/294, 29 September 1978, ERN (En) 00170162-00170169 (“As for contradictions, we are making every effort to solve them by taking re-education and reorientation as the basis and relying on the force of the collective masses.”); KAING Guek Eav Responses to OCIJ, E3/15, 21 October 2008, ERN (En) 00251388; SAO Sarun Interview Record, E3/367, 17 December 2008, p. 3, ERN (En) 00278694; SAO Sarun Interview Record, E3/404, 20 October 2009, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 00403024-00403025.

<sup>13214</sup> KAING Guek Eav Responses to OCIJ, E3/15, 21 October 2008, ERN (En) 00251388. See also, T. 29 March 2012 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/56.1, pp. 5-10.

population – the Vietnamese<sup>13215</sup> and Cham<sup>13216</sup> having explicitly been exempted from clemency – it is clear that arrests and executions continued to take place after this point.<sup>13217</sup>

3972. Consistently with its findings at Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres, the Chamber finds that the CPK maintained a policy of re-educating enemies whose alleged offending or status was not deemed to be serious according to the revolutionary framework. This policy was directly implemented at security centres (and worksites<sup>13218</sup>) throughout the country and entailed the refashioning of “bad elements” through political indoctrination, criticism/self-criticism and work assignments designed to temper counter-revolutionary tendencies. This policy was carried out by the Party’s entire administrative network of zone, sector, district and local-level secretaries, CPK cadres and RAK personnel. The Chamber now turns to examine the scope of this policy and the crimes encompassed by the common purpose.

16.4.2.2. Criminality of policy

3973. As limited to Case 002/02, the Chamber is seized of facts relevant to the implementation of this policy through a joint criminal enterprise within the context of internal purges and at S-21,<sup>13219</sup> Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres.<sup>13220</sup> For the reasons outlined below, the Chamber finds that the policy to establish and operate security centres and execution sites to identify, arrest, isolate and smash enemies and re-educate “bad elements” involved the commission of crimes which were encompassed by the common purpose.

3974. Murder – The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of murder was established at S-21 and Kraing Ta Chan Security Centres, and that the vast majority

<sup>13215</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3404. See above, Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, para. 3828.

<sup>13216</sup> Mass executions of the Cham continued throughout 1978. See Section 13.2.9: Treatment of the Cham: Killing and Detention of the Cham.

<sup>13217</sup> See e.g., Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, para. 1468; Section 12.2.8.5: S-21 Security Centre: July 1978 to 7 January 1979 – The Last of the Internal Purges.

<sup>13218</sup> See e.g., Section 10.1.7.5.2: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Meetings, Education, Biographies and Criticism; Section 11.1.7.4: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: Criticism and Self-Criticism Meetings; Section 11.2.14: 1st January Dam Worksite: Criticism and Self-Criticism Meetings; Section 11.3.10: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site: Meetings.

<sup>13219</sup> Grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions were charged in relation to the treatment of the Vietnamese at S-21 and Au Kanseng Security Centres and are discussed below in Section 16.4.3.2.2.2 with respect to S-21 Security Centre only, having not been established at Au Kanseng Security Centre.

<sup>13220</sup> See above, para. 3728.

of those executed were marked for death from the moment of their entry as a result of their enemy status.<sup>13221</sup> Insofar as detainees were executed at these sites with direct intent, the Chamber finds that their deaths were part of the policy to “smash” the most serious category of enemy.

3975. The Chamber has further found that the executions a) at Au Kanseng Security Centre of at least 100 ethnic Jarai, perceived by CPK to have been “external enemies”; and b) at Phnom Kraol Security Centre of prisoner Heus for speaking “an ethnic language”,<sup>13222</sup> separately constituted the crime against humanity of murder. In view of the CPK’s stance toward perceived enemies, the Chamber finds that their execution was the direct result of the policy to “smash” the most serious category of enemy.

3976. The Chamber is satisfied that the foregoing executions were perpetrated in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a “great leap forward” in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform society. The Chamber finds that the crime against humanity of murder, as established at S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres in the above instances, was encompassed by the common purpose.

3977. The Chamber has further found that prisoners died as a result of prevailing conditions at S-21, Kraing Ta Chan and Phnom Kraol Security Centres, and that these deaths were occasioned as a result of dolus eventualis.<sup>13223</sup> Recalling that JCE in its basic form is incompatible with dolus eventualis,<sup>13224</sup> the Chamber finds that these deaths were not encompassed by the common purpose. Further, the Chamber has found that three deaths at Au Kanseng Security Centre were the result of melees with guards, while two further executions were perpetrated for reasons which were not apparent to the Chamber.<sup>13225</sup> As a result of the paucity of evidence relevant to the intent of the <sup>13221</sup> Section 12.2.24.1.1: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings: Murder; Section 12.3.12.1: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings: Murder.

<sup>13222</sup> Section 12.4.7.1: Au Kanseng Security Centre: Legal Findings: Murder (see also, para. 3001 (finding that the Jarai were executed as a result of their perceived “external enemy” status)); Section 12.5.8.1: Phnom Kraol Security Centre: Legal Findings: Murder (see also, paras 3107-3114).

<sup>13223</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2560 (blood drawing), 2567-2569 (beatings and mistreatment); Section 12.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, para. 2815 (mistreatment and detention conditions); Section 12.5: Phnom Kraol Security Centre, para. 3116 (death of Touch as a result of detention conditions).

<sup>13224</sup> Section 15: Applicable Law: Individual Criminal Responsibility, para. 3715.

<sup>13225</sup> Section 12.4: Au Kanseng Security Centre, paras 2963-2964.

perpetrators, the Chamber is not satisfied that these deaths were occasioned as a result of the CPK's policy to "smash" the most serious category of enemy, and accordingly finds that they were not encompassed by the common purpose.

3978. Extermination – The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of extermination was established at S-21, Kraing Ta Chan and Au Kanseng Security Centres. It has found that at least 11,742 people were intentionally executed as part of the same murder operation at S-21. From at least 1,000 deaths at Kraing Ta Chan, an indeterminate fraction were killed as a result of direct intent. At least 111 prisoners were executed at Au Kanseng including at least 100 ethnic Jarai and six Vietnamese.<sup>13226</sup> The Chamber has assessed the criminal conduct underlying the charge of extermination at these sites above under the characterisation of murder and has found that, insofar as it relates to the abovementioned intentional acts,<sup>13227</sup> the crime of murder was encompassed by the common purpose. By extension, the Chamber finds that the intentional, large-scale murder of enemies at these sites was part of the CPK's policy to "smash" the most serious category of enemy. It finds that it was therefore perpetrated in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a "great leap forward" in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform society. The Chamber finds that the crime against humanity of extermination, as established at S-21, Kraing Ta Chan and Au Kanseng Security Centres, was encompassed by the common purpose.

3979. Enslavement – The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of enslavement was established at S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres.<sup>13228</sup> It has found that prisoners were exploited at these sites for the purpose of exacting a gain for the Party. Prisoners who were put to work at S-21 and Kraing Ta Chan had their executions suspended until they had exhausted their purpose.<sup>13229</sup> Light offenders at Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres were forced to work as part of the Party's attempt to "re-educate", "refashion" and "reform" them in line with the Party's aim of developing class stance and disposition toward the revolution.<sup>13230</sup> The Chamber is satisfied that prisoners at all four security centres were enslaved by CPK authorities as a measure of control as part of the revolutionary framework. It finds that this was done in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a "great leap forward" in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform society. The Chamber finds that the crime against humanity of enslavement, as established at S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres, was encompassed by the common purpose.

<sup>13226</sup> Section 12.2.24.1.2: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings: Extermination; Section 12.3.12.2: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings: Extermination; Section 12.4.7.2: Au Kanseng Security Centre: Legal Findings: Extermination.

<sup>13227</sup> See above, paras 3974-3976.

<sup>13228</sup> Section 12.2.24.1.3: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings: Enslavement (finding that detainees with particular skills were forced to work as carpenters, interpreters, cooks, medics, mechanics, construction workers and artists); Section 12.3.12.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings: Enslavement (finding that a small number of detainees was forced to cook, sweep, carry and fetch for guards, drag corpses from detention buildings and bury them, while others were forced to carry earth, flatten termite mounds, farm rice or graze cattle); Section 12.4.7.3: Au Kanseng Security Centre: Legal Findings: Enslavement (finding that light offenders were forced to plant, farm and forage vegetables, work in rice fields, weed and clear grass for new plantations, cook, carry wood, construct buildings for cadre, assist with interrogations, guard other prisoners and bury bodies); Section 12.5.8.3: Phnom Kraol Security Centre: Legal Findings: Enslavement (finding that light offenders were forced to stomp jute seeds, clear grass, saw wood, work in rice fields, build dams, thresh and transplant rice).

3980. Imprisonment – The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of imprisonment was established at S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres.<sup>13231</sup> It has found prisoners were arbitrarily detained at these locations as a result of their perceived enemy status.<sup>13232</sup> Detention was overwhelmingly the result of purges and prisoner numbers spiked as the purge of cadres intensified nationwide.<sup>13233</sup> The Chamber is satisfied that the imprisonment of real and perceived

<sup>13229</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2451; Section 12.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, para. 2823.

<sup>13230</sup> See above, Section 16.4.2.1.3: Re-education of "Bad Elements".

<sup>13231</sup> Section 12.2.24.1.4: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings: Imprisonment; Section 12.3.12.4: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings: Imprisonment; Section 12.4.7.4: Au Kanseng Security Centre: Legal Findings: Imprisonment; Section 12.5.8.4: Phnom Kraol Security Centre: Legal Findings: Imprisonment.

<sup>13232</sup> Section 12.2.24.1.4: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings: Imprisonment (finding that from at least October 1975 through 7 January 1979, S-21 was used to detain prisoners identified as "enemies", some of whom were implicated in confessions, with the associates of others rounded up, arrested and detained en masse); Section 12.3.12.4: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings: Imprisonment (finding that prisoners were sent to Kraing Ta Chan on the basis of perceived transgressions against the Party or perceived threat to the revolution, and that this was often the result of their association with other executed prisoners); Section 12.4.7.4: Au Kanseng Security Centre: Legal Findings: Imprisonment (finding that prisoners were detained as a result of their perceived enemy status and that interrogative practices were employed to procure further "confessions" of counter-revolutionary activities); Section 12.5.8.4: Phnom Kraol Security Centre: Legal Findings: Imprisonment (finding that detention at Phnom Kraol Security Centre was the result of a systematic process of implication by association with perceived enemies).

<sup>13233</sup> The incarceration of prisoners at S-21 increased following former Deputy (old) North Zone Secretary KOY Thuon's confessions, which incriminated scores of individuals and led to the arrest, detention and execution of others from early 1977. See Section 12.1.5.1: Internal Factions: Division 310's Planned Capture of Phnom Penh; Section 12.2.8.2.1: S-21 Security Centre: KOY Thuon. At Kraing Ta Chan, an influx of prisoners was apparent from 1977. See Section 12.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre.

enemies was conducted in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a “great leap forward” in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform society. The Chamber finds that the crime against humanity of imprisonment, as established at S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres, was encompassed by the common purpose.

3981. Torture – The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of torture was established at S-21 and Kraing Ta Chan Security Centres.<sup>13234</sup> It has found that severe pain and suffering was by and large inflicted upon prisoners during interrogations for the purpose of obtaining “confessions” of counter-revolutionary conduct or procuring incriminatory evidence about other “enemies” or traitorous networks. Torture was also used as a means of intimidating or punishing detainees, typically for failing to provide confessions.<sup>13235</sup> The Chamber is satisfied that detainees were tortured as part of the CPK’s quest to weed out enemies of the revolution and that this was done in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a “great leap forward” in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform society. The Chamber finds that the crime against humanity of torture, as established at S-21 and Kraing Ta Chan, was encompassed by the common purpose.

3982. Persecution on political grounds – The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of persecution on political grounds was established at S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres.<sup>13236</sup> Real and perceived enemies including CIA, KGB and Vietnamese agents, former Khmer Republic officials, counter-revolutionaries, detractors and traitors of the revolution, feudalists,

---

Au Kanseng experienced an increase in civilian and military detainees as a result of purges of the Northeast Zone and Division 801, which also coincided with the demise of the Zone Secretary Ya. See Section 12.4: Au Kanseng Security Centre, paras 2867, 2885-2886. Prisoner number at Phnom Kraol spiked from 1977 against the backdrop of purges of Sector 105 and Division 920. See Section 12.5.4.3: Phnom Kraol Security Centre, Evidence of Arrests in Sector 105.

<sup>13234</sup> Section 12.2.24.1.5: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings: Torture; Section 12.3.12.5: Kraing Ta Chan: Legal Findings: Torture.

<sup>13235</sup> Section 12.2.24.1.5: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings: Torture (finding that prisoners were systematically tortured in order to secure confessions of involvement in counterrevolutionary conduct or treason); Section 12.3.12.5: Kraing Ta Chan: Legal Findings: Torture (generally).

<sup>13236</sup> Section 12.2.24.1.6: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings: Persecution on Political Grounds; Section 12.3.12.6: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings: Persecution on Political Grounds; Section 12.4.7.5: Au Kanseng Security Centre: Legal Findings: Persecution on Political Grounds; Section 12.5.8.6: Phnom Kraol Security Centre: Legal Findings: Persecution on Political Grounds.

ethnic Vietnamese and others were systematically singled out for adverse treatment by the CPK and dispensed with at these security centres according to the revolutionary framework. As detailed above, these elements were variously targeted for arbitrary arrest and detention, torture, physical and psychological mistreatment, re-education through forced labour and indoctrination, disappearance and death.

3983. Having found that the CPK actively discriminated against several categories of enemy as a means of defending and preserving the revolutionary order, the Chamber is satisfied that the foregoing discriminatory treatment was meted out to real and perceived enemies in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a “great leap forward” in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform society. The Chamber finds that the crime against humanity of persecution on political grounds, as established at S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres, was encompassed by the common purpose.

3984. Persecution on religious grounds – The Closing Order charges the Accused with the crime against humanity of persecution on religious grounds under the mode of liability of joint criminal enterprise pursuant to the policy to “smash” enemies and re-educate “bad elements”.<sup>13237</sup> The Case 002 Additional Severance Decision limited the implementation of this policy to the establishment and operation of security centres and execution sites and within the context of internal purges.<sup>13238</sup> The Chamber observes that the Closing Order does not charge religious persecution at any of the security centres within the scope of Case 002/02. Instead, the crime is charged with regard to the treatment of the Cham, MOP Phase Two, at 1st January Dam and at the Tram Kak Cooperatives.<sup>13239</sup> The Chamber has assessed below in Section 16.4.3: Targeting of Specific Groups whether this crime is encompassed by the common purpose with regard to the treatment of the Cham<sup>13240</sup> and Buddhists.<sup>13241</sup> As the charge of

<sup>13237</sup> Closing Order, paras 1525(iii)(h), 1529.

<sup>13238</sup> See above, para. 3728.

<sup>13239</sup> Closing Order, paras 1419-1421. Persecution on religious grounds against Buddhists is charged at nine other sites which are outside the scope of Case 002/02. See Case 002 Additional Severance Decision Annex.

<sup>13240</sup> See below, para. 3992.

<sup>13241</sup> See below, para. 4019.

persecution on religious grounds is inapplicable to the security centres within the scope of Case 002/02, the Chamber enters no findings in this regard.

3985. Other inhumane acts through attacks against human dignity – The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through attacks against human dignity was established at S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres.<sup>13242</sup> Prisoners at all four sites were imprisoned arbitrarily; exposed to appalling and unhygienic detention conditions; deprived of sufficient food and effective medicine causing illness, disease and death; and subjected to dehumanisation and a climate of fear and intimidation by security centre personnel. Some prisoners were tortured and threatened into complying with Angkar's prescriptions, while others witnessed the death and disappearance of their fellow detainees. Those who were forced to work were enslaved for the sole benefit of the Party. The Chamber considers that the imposition of such delinquent conditions, in the form of serious attacks on human dignity and serious mental and physical suffering, was part of the CPK authorities' means of exercising control over the prisoners and was therefore implemented in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a "great leap forward" in order to, among other things, defend the country from enemies and radically transform society. The Chamber finds that the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through attacks against human dignity, as established at S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres, was encompassed by the common purpose.

3986. Other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as enforced disappearances – The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through enforced disappearances was established at Kraing Ta Chan and Phnom Kraol Security Centres.<sup>13243</sup> The Chamber recalls that a fundamental tenet of the CPK's modus operandi was the principle of secrecy in order to safeguard the Party from enemy infiltration and therefore the Party's longevity.<sup>13244</sup> The Chamber has found that dispensing with enemies in accordance with the revolutionary framework necessitated operating in a shroud of secrecy, and is satisfied that this was in fact done in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a "great leap forward" in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform society. The Chamber finds that the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as enforced disappearances, as established at Kraing Ta Chan and Phnom Kraol Security Centres, was encompassed by the common purpose.

<sup>13242</sup> Section 12.2.24.1.8: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Attacks Against Human Dignity; Section 12.3.12.8: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Attacks Against Human Dignity; Section 12.4.7.7: Au Kanseng Security Centre: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Attacks Against Human Dignity; Section 12.5.8.7: Phnom Kraol Security Centre: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Attacks Against Human Dignity.

<sup>13243</sup> Section 12.3.12.9: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Conduct Characterised as Enforced Disappearances; Section 12.5.8.8: Phnom Kraol Security Centre: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Conduct Characterised as Enforced Disappearances.

16.4.2.3. Conclusion

3987. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that the policy to identify, arrest, isolate and "smash" the most serious category of enemy at security centres and execution sites, and to re-educate "bad elements" was intrinsically linked to the common purpose. The policy variously involved the commission of the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, enslavement, imprisonment, torture, persecution on political grounds and other inhumane acts through attacks against human dignity and conduct characterised as enforced disappearances, thereby rendering it criminal in character.

16.4.3. Targeting of Specific Groups

3988. The Closing Order charges the existence of a targeting policy by the CPK to establish "an atheistic and homogenous society without class divisions, abolishing all ethnic, national, religious, racial, class and cultural differences", as a means of achieving the common purpose. According to the Closing Order, Cham, Vietnamese and Buddhist groups, as well as former Khmer Republic officials (including civil servants and former military personnel) and their families, were targeted in a pattern that began before 1975 and continued until at least 6 January 1979.<sup>13245</sup>

<sup>13244</sup> See above, para. 3927.

<sup>13245</sup> Closing Order, paras 205, 207.

16.4.3.1. Cham

3989. The Closing Order identifies the Cham as one of the objects of the CPK's targeting policy.<sup>13246</sup> The Parties' submissions regarding the treatment of the Cham, including the existence of a CPK policy targeting this group, have been addressed in Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham.

16.4.3.1.1. Existence of policy

3990. The Chamber has established the existence of a CPK policy throughout the DK period targeting the Cham as a result of their group identity as part of the Party's overarching goal to establish an atheistic and homogenous Khmer society.<sup>13247</sup> As part of this targeting policy, which intensified following a series of rebellions in late 1975, the Cham population was forcibly removed from the East Zone, broken up and systematically dispersed in the Central (old North) Zone to "ease tensions" (MOP Phase Two). The Chamber has found that this was done to break up Cham communities rather than merely to reallocate the labour force.<sup>13248</sup> The Chamber now turns to examine the scope of this policy and the crimes encompassed by the common purpose.

16.4.3.1.2. Criminality of policy

3991. As limited to Case 002/02, the Chamber is seized of facts relevant to the implementation of this policy through a joint criminal enterprise. Regarding the treatment of the Cham, the Chamber is seized of facts concerning genocide by killing members of this group (from 1977 at Trea Village Security Centre and Wat Au Trakuon); murder and extermination as crime against humanity (within the same temporal and geographic scope for extermination, with murder limited to Wat Au Trakuon, Trea Village Security Centre and widespread killings from 1977); and imprisonment and torture (both from mid-1978 at Trea Village Security Centre). With respect to MOP Phase Two, the Chamber is seized of the implementation of this policy regarding the crimes against humanity of persecution on political and religious grounds, and other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced transfer only.<sup>13249</sup> For

---

<sup>13246</sup> See above, para. 3728.

<sup>13247</sup> Section 13.2.5: Treatment of the Cham: Targeting of the Cham.

<sup>13248</sup> Section 13.2.8: Movement of Population Phase Two.

<sup>13249</sup> Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham, para. 3182. The crimes against humanity of extermination and other inhumane acts through attacks against human dignity and conduct characterised as enforced

the reasons outlined below, the Chamber finds that the policy targeting the Cham for adverse treatment involved the commission of crimes which were encompassed by the common purpose.

3992. Murder, extermination and genocide by killing – The Chamber has found that a large number of people including a majority of Cham from the Kang Meas district in Sector 41 were arrested and brought to Wat Au Trakuon in 1977 for execution.<sup>13250</sup> It has further found that Cham people were arbitrarily arrested and detained in 1978 at Trea Village Security Centre, where their Cham identity was systematically screened, at times through torture, before they were executed in large numbers.<sup>13251</sup> Furthermore, the Chamber has found that these executions constituted the actus reus of genocide by killing members of the Cham religious group and were perpetrated with genocidal intent.<sup>13252</sup>

3993. Having established that a CPK policy to destroy the Cham population existed from 1977,<sup>13253</sup> the Chamber finds that the CPK policy targeting the Cham had as its primary objective their physical destruction as an ethnic and religious group, as such. The Chamber is satisfied that the treatment of the Cham demonstrates the CPK's objective of establishing an atheistic and homogenous society without class divisions and, in so doing, the Party's intent to abolish all national, religious, class and cultural differences. The Chamber is further satisfied that this objective was implemented through the CPK's policy to identify, arrest, isolate and "smash" enemies,<sup>13254</sup> and was therefore in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a "great leap forward" in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform the population into an atheistic and homogenous Khmer society. The Chamber accordingly finds that the crime of genocide by killing and the crimes against humanity of murder and extermination committed disappearances were not established with respect to MOP Phase Two. See Section 13.2.10: Treatment of the Cham: Legal Findings (specifically Sections 13.2.10.2, 13.2.10.7, 13.2.10.9).

---

<sup>13250</sup> Section 13.2.10.1: Treatment of the Cham: Legal Findings: Murder.

<sup>13251</sup> Sections 13.2.10.1-13.2.10.4: Treatment of the Cham: Legal Findings: Murder, Extermination, Imprisonment, Torture.

<sup>13252</sup> Section 13.2.10.10: Treatment of the Cham: Legal Findings: Genocide.

<sup>13253</sup> Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham, para. 3228.

<sup>13254</sup> See above, Section 16.4.2: Establishment and Operation of Security Centres and Execution Sites.

against the Cham, as established by the Chamber within the relevant temporal and geographic parameters described above, were encompassed by the common purpose.

3994. Imprisonment and torture – The Chamber refers to its finding in the preceding paragraph that the treatment of the Cham, including their arbitrary detention at Trea Village Security Centre, torture and eventual execution, constituted the implementation of the CPK’s policy to identify, arrest, isolate and “smash” enemies. The Chamber is satisfied that these acts were in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a “great leap forward” in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform the population into an atheistic and homogenous Khmer society. The Chamber accordingly finds that the crimes against humanity of imprisonment and torture, as established by the Chamber at Trea Village Security Centre, were encompassed by the common purpose.

3995. Persecution on political grounds – The Chamber has found that the CPK imposed restrictions on Cham religious and cultural practices in the East Zone, Central (old) North Zone and other locations, and that these restrictions largely took place between 1975 and 1977 (i.e. within the scope of MOP Phase Two). Such restrictions widely included the evacuation of Cham populations and their dispersal among Khmer communities;<sup>13255</sup> prohibitions on the use of the Cham language, daily prayers, traditional clothing and grooming practices; the confiscation or burning of Korans; the destruction, dismantling and repurposing of mosques and an enforced “Khmer” dietary regime including the consumption of pork.<sup>13256</sup> The Chamber has further found that these practices were imposed in response to the Cham rebellions in late 1975 and the group’s status as perceived enemies,<sup>13257</sup> and that these acts were committed with specific intent to discriminate against the Cham.<sup>13258</sup> The Chamber is satisfied that the foregoing discriminatory acts were perpetrated against the Cham in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a “great leap forward” in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform the population into an atheistic and homogenous Khmer society.

<sup>13255</sup> Section 13.2.8: Treatment of the Cham: Movement of Population Phase Two.

<sup>13256</sup> Section 13.2.6.1: Treatment of the Cham: Restrictions on Cham Religious and Cultural Practices in the East Zone; Section 13.2.6.2: Treatment of the Cham: Restrictions on Cham Religious and Cultural Practices in the Central (old North) Zone; Section 13.2.6.3: Treatment of the Cham: Restrictions on Cham Religious and Cultural Practices in Other Locations.

<sup>13257</sup> Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham, paras 3232, 3234, 3242, 3268.

<sup>13258</sup> Section 13.2.10.5: Treatment of the Cham: Legal Findings: Persecution on Political Grounds.

The Chamber accordingly finds that the crimes against humanity of persecution on political grounds, as established by the Chamber within MOP Phase Two, was encompassed by the common purpose.

3996. Persecution on religious grounds – The Chamber has found that the CPK imposed restrictions on Cham religious and cultural practices at the 1st January Dam Worksite, in Krouch Chhmar district, within the Central (old North) Zone and various areas throughout Cambodia. Further, the Chamber has found that the CPK targeted the Cham for destruction as an ethnic and religious group, as such, from some time in 1977.<sup>13259</sup> The Chamber is satisfied that such discriminatory treatment was meted out in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a “great leap forward” in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform the population into an atheistic and homogenous Khmer society. The Chamber accordingly finds that the crime against humanity of persecution on religious grounds was encompassed by the common purpose.

3997. Other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced transfer – The Chamber has found that Cham communities were “evacuated” from the East Zone after two rebellions in late 1975 and dispersed among Khmer populations.<sup>13260</sup> The Chamber has additionally found that this was part of a discriminatory campaign targeting the Cham broadly as enemies (during MOP Phase Two) and on religious grounds from late 1975 through 6 January 1979.<sup>13261</sup> The Chamber is satisfied that the forcible transfer of Cham communities was perpetrated in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a “great leap forward” in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform the population into an atheistic and homogenous Khmer society. The Chamber accordingly finds that the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced transfer was encompassed by the common purpose.

<sup>13259</sup> Section 13.2.10.6: Treatment of the Cham: Legal Findings: Persecution on Religious Grounds.

<sup>13260</sup> Section 13.2.10.8: Treatment of the Cham: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Conduct Characterised as Forced Transfer.

<sup>13261</sup> Sections 13.2.10.5-13.2.10.6: Treatment of the Cham: Legal Findings: Persecution on Political and Religious Grounds.

16.4.3.1.3. Conclusion

3998. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that the policy targeting the Cham population for adverse treatment on the basis of their identity was intrinsically linked to the common purpose. The policy variously involved the commission of the crime of genocide by killing members of the Cham group and the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, imprisonment, torture, persecution on religious and political grounds and the other inhumane act of conduct characterised as forced transfer as a means of achieving the common purpose, thereby rendering it criminal in character.

16.4.3.2. Vietnamese

3999. The Closing Order identifies the Vietnamese as one of the objects of the CPK's targeting policy.<sup>13262</sup> The Parties' submissions with regard to the Vietnamese, including the existence of a CPK policy targeting this group, have been addressed in Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese.

16.4.3.2.1. Existence of policy

4000. The Chamber has accepted that a broad policy targeting the Vietnamese for adverse treatment existed in DK throughout the indictment period,<sup>13263</sup> and now turns to examine the scope of this policy and the crimes encompassed by the common purpose.

16.4.3.2.2. Criminality of policy

4001. As limited to Case 002/02, the Chamber is seized of facts relevant to the implementation of this policy through a joint criminal enterprise to the exclusion of crimes allegedly committed by the RAK on Vietnamese territory. Regarding the treatment of the Vietnamese, the Chamber is seized of facts concerning genocide by killing (nationwide from April 1977); the crimes against humanity of murder (of Vietnamese who resisted deportation in 1975-1976 and nationwide from April 1977), extermination (nationwide from April 1977), deportation (from Prey Veng, Svay Rieng and Tram Kak Cooperatives in 1975 and 1976) and persecution on racial grounds (in

---

<sup>13262</sup> See above, para. 3728.

<sup>13263</sup> Section 13.3.5: Treatment of the Vietnamese: Targeting of the Vietnamese. See also, Section 4.1: Factual Overview of the Temporal Scope of Case 002/02 (including the Nature of the Armed Conflict); Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies.

Prey Veng, Svay Rieng, Tram Kak Cooperatives and the S-21, Kraing Ta Chan and Au Kanseng Security Centres throughout the indictment period); as well as grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions (at S-21).<sup>13264</sup> For the reasons outlined below, the Chamber finds that the policy targeting the Vietnamese for adverse treatment involved the commission of crimes which were encompassed by the common purpose.

16.4.3.2.2.1. Genocide and crimes against humanity

4002. Murder, extermination and genocide by killing – The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of murder was established in relation to: a) four Vietnamese families in Svay Rieng in 1978; b) Vietnamese fishermen and refugees caught encroaching on DK waters at Ou Chheu Teal port after April or May 1977; c) Vietnamese captured by Division 164 on 19 and 20 March 1978; d) seven Vietnamese families on Ta Mov, Kampong Chhnang province in 1977; e) a large number of Vietnamese civilians at Wat Ksach in Siem Reap province in late 1978; and f) 13 relatives of UCH Sunlay and the wives and children of three or four other Khmer men in Kratie in September 1978.<sup>13265</sup> Each of the victims was killed as a result of their Vietnamese identity.<sup>13266</sup> In addition to these deaths, the Chamber has found that the execution of 780 Vietnamese persons at S-21 and Au Kanseng Security Centres – all of whom were executed on the basis of their Vietnamese identity<sup>13267</sup> – established the crime against humanity of extermination.<sup>13268</sup> Finally, the Chamber has found that the foregoing killings were systematically perpetrated with genocidal intent targeting <sup>13264</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, paras 3351 (grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions against Vietnamese detainees including wilful killing, torture, inhumane treatment, wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health, wilful deprivation of the rights of a fair and regular trial and unlawful confinement, 3360 (crimes against humanity).

<sup>13265</sup> Section 13.3.10.1: Treatment of the Vietnamese: Legal Findings: Murder.

<sup>13266</sup> Regarding (a), see Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3453 (the victims were killed as part of a systematic policy targeting Vietnamese in the area). Regarding (b) and (c), see Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, paras 3490, 3493 (CPK armed forces were ordered to systematically target Vietnamese boats). For (d), (e) and (f), see Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, paras 3497, 3500 (the victims were separated from non-Vietnamese individuals before being killed).

<sup>13267</sup> Regarding Au Kanseng, see Section 12.4: Au Kanseng Security Centre, para. 2996 (finding that the six Vietnamese victims were targeted on racial grounds). Regarding S-21, see Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2480 (finding that 774 Vietnamese were killed at S-21), 2607-2609 (finding that the Vietnamese were arrested and detained at S-21 as a result of their perceived racial difference to Khmers).

<sup>13268</sup> Section 13.3.10.2: Treatment of the Vietnamese: Legal Findings: Extermination.

individuals on the basis of their membership of the Vietnamese racial, national and/or ethnic group, and therefore constituted the crime of genocide by killing.<sup>13269</sup>

4003. Having established that a CPK policy to destroy the Vietnamese population in Cambodia existed from April 1977,<sup>13270</sup> the Chamber finds that the CPK policy targeting the Vietnamese as enemies had as its primary objective their physical destruction as a racial group, as such, in Cambodia from April 1977 to 6 January 1979. The Chamber is satisfied that this objective was implemented through the CPK's policy to identify, arrest, isolate and "smash" enemies,<sup>13271</sup> and was therefore in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a "great leap forward" in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform the population into a homogenous Khmer society. The Chamber therefore finds that the crime of genocide by killing and the crimes against humanity of murder and extermination against the Vietnamese, as established by the Chamber within the relevant temporal and geographic parameters described above, were encompassed by the common purpose.

4004. Deportation – The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of deportation of the Vietnamese was established in 1975 and 1976 at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, across Prey Veng and Svay Rieng.<sup>13272</sup> This was consistent with evidence showing that, due to their perceived enemy status,<sup>13273</sup> the Vietnamese were generally targeted for deportation from the early stages of the DK regime.<sup>13274</sup> In line with the Chamber's findings concerning the CPK's shift in policy from deportation of the Vietnamese to their destruction from about April 1977,<sup>13275</sup> the Chamber finds that between 17 April 1975 and April 1977, the CPK policy targeting the Vietnamese had as its primary objective their deportation from Cambodian territory. It is satisfied that this objective was implemented in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a "great leap forward" in order to, among

<sup>13269</sup> Section 13.3.10.5: Treatment of the Vietnamese: Legal Findings: Genocide.

<sup>13270</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3416.

<sup>13271</sup> See above, Section 16.4.2: Establishment and Operation of Security Centres and Execution Sites.

<sup>13272</sup> Section 10.1.13.3: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Legal Findings: Deportation; Section 13.3.10.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese: Legal Findings: Deportation.

<sup>13273</sup> Section 13.3.7: Treatment of the Vietnamese: Movement of Vietnamese Civilians from Cambodia to Vietnam; Section 16.3.2.1.3.5: Real or Perceived Enemies: CIA, KGB and "Yvon" (Vietnamese) Agents.

<sup>13274</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3415.

<sup>13275</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3415.

other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform the population into a homogenous Khmer society. The Chamber finds that the crime against humanity of deportation, as established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Prey Veng and Svay Rieng in 1975 and 1976, was encompassed by the common purpose.

4005. Persecution on racial grounds – The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of persecution on racial grounds was established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives (in the period before mid-1976), S-21 Security Centre (from March 1976), Au Kanseng Security Centre (in late 1978), and in Prey Veng and Svay Rieng (between 1975 and 1979).<sup>13276</sup> The Chamber recalls its findings that the Vietnamese were singled out by the CPK prior to 1975,<sup>13277</sup> targeted for adverse treatment throughout the DK period (in particular, for deportation before April 1977 and for destruction as a racial group thereafter),<sup>13278</sup> and were considered to be the DK’s most dangerous enemy,<sup>13279</sup> especially as the armed conflict with Vietnam intensified from 1977.<sup>13280</sup> The Chamber has found that the Vietnamese were specifically subjected to discrimination on the basis of their membership of the Vietnamese racial group,<sup>13281</sup> and is satisfied that this specific intent was shared by direct perpetrators and JCE participants alike. In view of the forgoing, and in light of the above findings concerning the extent and scale of atrocities committed against the Vietnamese population, the Chamber finds that the CPK’s discriminatory policies targeting the Vietnamese for deportation and destruction were implemented in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a “great leap forward” in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform the population into a homogenous Khmer society of worker-peasants. The Chamber therefore finds that the crime against humanity of persecution on racial grounds, as <sup>13276</sup> Section 10.1.13.8: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Legal Findings: Persecution on Racial Grounds; Section 12.2.24.1.7: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings: Persecution on Racial Grounds; Section 12.4.7.6: Au Kanseng Security Centre: Legal Findings: Persecution on Racial Grounds; Section 13.3.10.4 Treatment of the Vietnamese: Legal Findings: Persecution on Racial Grounds.

<sup>13277</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, paras 225-229; Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, paras 3382-3384.

<sup>13278</sup> Section 13.3.5: Treatment of the Vietnamese: Targeting of the Vietnamese. See above, paras 4002-4003.

<sup>13279</sup> See above, Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, para. 3853.

<sup>13280</sup> Section 4: General Overview, para. 285; Section 12.1.5.1.2: Internal Factions: 1977 Events: Findings.

<sup>13281</sup> Section 13.3.10.4: Treatment of the Vietnamese: Legal Findings: Persecution on Racial Grounds.

committed against the Vietnamese and established by the Chamber, was encompassed by the common purpose.

16.4.3.2.2.2. Grave breaches of the 1949
Geneva Conventions

4006. The Chamber has found that grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions were committed at S-21 Security Centre against Vietnamese prisoners protected under the 1949 Geneva Conventions through: a) wilful killing; b) torture; c) inhumane treatment; d) wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health; e) wilfully depriving prisoners of war or civilians of the rights of a fair and regular trial; and f) unlawful confinement of civilians. The Chamber has assessed the criminal conduct underpinning these charges (as crimes against humanity) in the foregoing paragraphs with regard to the treatment of the Vietnamese at S-21, and elsewhere in this Judgement within the context of security centres, execution sites and purges.<sup>13282</sup>

4007. Wilful killing, torture and unlawful confinement – The Chamber recalls that save for their chapeau requirements, the grave breaches of wilful killing, torture and unlawful confinement share the same legal elements as the respective crimes against humanity of murder, torture and imprisonment,<sup>13283</sup> which the Chamber has determined were committed in furtherance of the common purpose and encompassed thereby.<sup>13284</sup> Having established that these crimes were committed at S-21 against Vietnamese prisoners protected under the Geneva Conventions,<sup>13285</sup> the Chamber finds that the grave breaches of wilful killing, torture and unlawful confinement were encompassed by the common purpose.

4008. Wilfully depriving a prisoner of war or a civilian of the rights of a fair and regular trial – The Chamber recalls that save for their chapeau requirements, the grave breach of wilfully depriving a prisoner of war or a civilian of the rights of a fair and regular trial is largely identical to the crime against humanity of imprisonment, and fundamentally turns on the arbitrary deprivation of liberty without due process of

<sup>13282</sup> See above, Section 16.4.2: Establishment and Operation of Security Centres and Execution Sites.

<sup>13283</sup> Sections 9.2.1-9.2.2, 9.2.7: Applicable Law: Grave Breaches of the Geneva Conventions 1949 (wilful killing, torture and unlawful confinement of a civilian).

<sup>13284</sup> See above, paras 3980 (imprisonment), 3981 (torture), 3974 (murder), 4002 (murder, extermination and genocide by killing of the Vietnamese).

<sup>13285</sup> See above, fn. 13282.

law.<sup>13286</sup> In finding that the crime against humanity of imprisonment was established at S-21, the Chamber has taken into consideration the fact that prisoners were provided with no legal recourse upon being detained at S-21; they were given no information on their rights, what they were accused of and were not provided with access to legal representation or brought before a judge. Prisoners were not formally charged and had no opportunity to defend themselves against allegations that they were “enemies”. Indeed, the Chamber has found that no functioning judiciary existed during the DK period.<sup>13287</sup> Having established that the crime against humanity of imprisonment was committed in furtherance of the common purpose and was encompassed thereby,<sup>13288</sup> and that Vietnamese persons protected under the Geneva Conventions were arbitrarily imprisoned at S-21,<sup>13289</sup> the Chamber finds that the grave breach of wilfully depriving a prisoner of war or a civilian of the rights of a fair and regular trial was encompassed by the common purpose.

4009. Inhumane treatment – The Chamber observes that save for their chapeau requirements, the legal elements of the grave breach of inhumane treatment are similar to those of the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts. Whereas both crimes require intentional acts or omissions causing serious mental or physical suffering or injury, or intentional acts constituting a serious attack on human dignity, the grave breach of inhumane treatment imports the notion of “serious mental harm or physical suffering or injury”.<sup>13290</sup> The Chamber considers the addition of “harm” to be inconsequential to the overall assessment of conduct, as the notion is synonymous with suffering and/or injury. Having established that the crime against humanity of other inhumane act through attacks against human dignity was committed in furtherance of the common purpose and was encompassed thereby,<sup>13291</sup> and that this crime was

---

<sup>13286</sup> Section 9: Applicable Law: Crimes, paras 689, 691-694 (the crime against humanity of imprisonment); 770 (the grave breach of the Geneva Conventions 1949 of wilfully depriving a prisoner of war or civilian the rights of a fair and regular trial).

<sup>13287</sup> Section 5: Administrative Structures, paras 417-418; Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2582.

<sup>13288</sup> See above, para. 3980.

<sup>13289</sup> Section 12.2.24.2.5: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings: Wilfully Depriving a Prisoner of War or Civilian of the Rights of Fair and Regular Trial.

<sup>13290</sup> Section 9: Applicable Law: Crimes, paras 724-725 (other inhumane acts), 766 (the grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions of 1949 of inhumane treatment).

<sup>13291</sup> See above, para. 3982.

perpetrated against Vietnamese prisoners at S-21,<sup>13292</sup> the Chamber finds that the grave breach of inhumane treatment was encompassed by the common purpose.

4010. Wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health – The Chamber recalls that this grave breach consists of conduct causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health (including mental health) but does not include acts which solely cause harm to an individual’s human dignity.<sup>13293</sup> The Chamber has found that the treatment meted out to Vietnamese prisoners at S-21 constituted attacks against human dignity and serious mental and physical suffering and injury.<sup>13294</sup> Having established that this conduct, in the form of the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts, was committed in furtherance of the common purpose and was encompassed thereby,<sup>13295</sup> the Chamber finds that the grave breach of wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health was encompassed by the common purpose.

4011. In view of the CPK’s policy targeting the Vietnamese for destruction from April 1977 to 6 January 1979, and its policy to “smash” the most serious category of enemy, the Chamber is satisfied that the foregoing grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions were perpetrated in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a “great leap forward” in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform the population into a homogenous Khmer society of worker-peasants.

16.4.3.2.3. Conclusion

4012. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that the policies targeting the Vietnamese population in Cambodia a) for deportation between 17 April 1975 and April 1977; b) for destruction from April 1977 until 6 January 1979; and c) generally for identification, arrest, isolation and “smashing” as the most serious category of enemy, were intrinsically linked to the common purpose. The policies variously <sup>13292</sup> Section 12.2.24.1.8: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Attacks Against Human Dignity (generally). For Grave Breaches, see also, Section 12.2.24.2.2: Torture; Section 12.2.24.4: Wilfully Causing Great Suffering or Serious Injury to Body or Health, Inhumane Treatment.

<sup>13293</sup> Section 9: Applicable Law: Crimes, para. 761.

<sup>13294</sup> Section 12.2.24.2.4: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings: Wilfully Causing Great Suffering or Serious Injury to Body or Health.

<sup>13295</sup> See above, para. 3982.

involved the commission of the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, deportation, persecution on racial grounds; the crime of genocide by killing; and grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions through wilful killings, torture, inhumane treatment, wilful infliction of great suffering or serious injury to body or health, wilful deprivation of the rights of a fair and regular trial and unlawful confinement of civilians. The policies were therefore criminal in character.

16.4.3.3. Buddhists

4013. The Closing Order identifies the Buddhists as one of the objects of the CPK's targeting policy.<sup>13296</sup> The Co-Prosecutors submit that the CPK policy to persecute and kill enemies included the persecution of Buddhists.<sup>13297</sup> The KHIEU Samphan Defence submits that the Chamber was improperly seized of facts concerning a nationwide policy against Buddhists.<sup>13298</sup> The Chamber has already determined that, while it is only seized of facts relevant to the targeting of Buddhists in the Tram Kak Cooperatives, this does not preclude consideration of evidence that is relevant to the development of the policy about their treatment, which may have originated outside of Tram Kak district.<sup>13299</sup>

4014. Neither the NUON Chea Defence nor the Lead Co-Lawyers make any submissions relevant to the existence of a targeting policy against Buddhists. The Chamber will address the merits of the other Parties' submissions following a holistic appraisal of the evidence before it.

16.4.3.3.1. Existence of policy

4015. Evidence demonstrating the CPK's stance toward Buddhism and monks has been assessed in Section 3: Historical Background, Section 10.1.9: Tram Kak Cooperatives and Section 16.3.2.1.3.4: Real or Perceived Enemies. In addition to the evidence discussed in the Tram Kak Cooperatives section, the Chamber has before it evidence demonstrating a consistent and widespread pattern of the forcible defrocking of monks in the aftermath of 17 April 1975, followed by their expulsion from pagodas

---

<sup>13296</sup> See above, para. 3728.

<sup>13297</sup> Co-Prosecutors' Closing Brief, paras 372-381.

<sup>13298</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, paras 1492-1521.

<sup>13299</sup> Section 2: Preliminary Issues, para. 178.

throughout the country.<sup>13300</sup> The evidence also demonstrates the subsequent closure and destruction of pagodas,<sup>13301</sup> their conversion for use for non-religious purposes

<sup>13300</sup> See e.g., T. 2 May 2012 (PEAN Khean), E1/71.1, p. 50 (stating that he “heard people saying that monks were defrocked or disrobed”); T. 19 June 2012 (YUN Kim), E1/88.1, p. 50 (“after 1976, there were no longer any monks” in Kratie); T. 20 June 2012 (YUN Kim), E1/89.1, p. 77 (stating that, in Kratie, “when no people or laypersons offering food to the monk, a monk could never remain in the pagoda.”); T. 1 October 2012 (KHIEV En), E1/127.1, p. 67 (Kampong Leang, Kampong Chhnang, West Zone); T. 6 December 2012 (HUN Chhunly), E1/149.1, pp. 57 (stating that the head monk of Po Veal Pagoda (Battambang) was evacuated and had disappeared since his removal), 59 (“at Battambang, from the New Year of 1976, all Buddhist monks were dispelled [sic] from the pagodas.”); T. 13 December 2012 (PHAN Van), E1/153.1, p. 21 (stating that in Mondulkiri during the Khmer Rouge era, people “did not see Buddhist monks anymore”); T. 7 February 2013 (PIN Yathay), E1/170.1, p. 22 (recalling Samdech HUOT Tat’s refusal to leave Phnom Penh due to his old age); T. 19 March 2015 (RIEL Son), E1/280.1, pp. 13-14 (stating that more than 100 monks were “evacuated” from Phnom Penh and elsewhere); T. 19 May 2015 (OR Ho), E1/301.1, pp. 6, 42, 59 (Prey Sraengae village, Kampong Thom, Central Zone); T. 26 May 2015 (MEAS Layhuor), E1/305.1, pp. 66-67 (1st January Dam); T. 27 May 2015 (HUN Sethany), E1/306.1, p. 30 (Baray district, where he met the monk who was instructed to disrobe); T. 13 August 2015 (CHHIT Yoekuk), E1/330.1, p. 24 (stating that in the Preah Netr Preah district, Northwest Zone, monks “were not allowed to remain in the temple” and that “all the monks were defrocked and they all were forced to leave the monkhood.”); T. 2 September 2015 (MEAN Loeuy), E1/340.1, p. 61 (monks and civilians were evacuated from Bo Pagoda in Phnum Srok district, Northwest Zone, in 1975); T. 9 September 2015 (SOS Min), E1/344.1, p. 64 (Angkor Ban commune, Krouch Chhmar district, Central/East Zones); T. 14 September 2015 (SEN Srun), E1/346.1, pp. 12-13 (Wat Au Trakuon, Central (old North) Zone); T. 16 September 2015 (TAY Koemhun), E1/348.1, p. 23 (stating that in Sambuor Meas village, Kampong Cham province, East Zone “[t]he commune chief [...] had been a monk there until the time that he was asked to defrock.”); T. 5 October 2015 (BAN Seak), E1/353.1, p. 37 (Chamkar district, East Zone); T. 19 January 2016 (PRAK Yut), E1/378.1, p. 84 (stating that “[b]etween 1975 and 1979 there were not Buddhist monks and there were no pagodas” in Kampot (Southwest Zone) and Kampong Cham (East Zone)); T. 11 December 2015 (UNG Sam Ean), E1/366.1, pp. 68-69 (stating that “[t]here were no monks in the pagoda any more” at Kraham Ka village, Chantrei commune, East Zone); T. 6 January 2016 (THANG Phal), E1/371.1, p. 70 (stating that “[b]etween 1975 and ’79, there were no longer any monks living in the pagoda” in Pou Chentam village, Svay Antor commune, East Zone); T. 3 August 2016 (CHIN Saroeun), E1/454.1, pp. 34-35 (stating that “it was after the 17 April 1975 that I was defrocked. [...] I was told to leave the monkhood [when sent to Mondulkiri] because the regime said that there would be no more monks in the regime”); T. 17 October 2016 (CHEAL Choeun), E1/484.1, p. 6 (“monks were “disrobed one after another until there was no monk in the pagoda” in Bakan district, Northwest Zone); T. 21 November 2016 (SON Em), E1/500.1, p. 29 (“It did not happen only in Battambang province. It happened all over the country. Monks and pagoda[s] were not allowed to continue.”); T. 15 December 2016 (LONG Vonn), E1/514.1, p. 83 (stating that Ta Tit[h] “was defrocked in around 1975” in Takeo province). See also, T. 19 June 2013 (NOU Mao), E1/209.1, pp. 71-72 (stating that Ta Mok, who was in charge of the cult section, promoted the idea of defrocking Buddhist monks in the Southwest Zone before 1975 and that after 1975 there were no more monks to defrock, because they had already been defrocked at the very beginning).

<sup>13301</sup> See e.g., T. 2 May 2012 (PEAN Khean), E1/71.1, p. 50 (stating that after 1975, “[t]here were no pagodas; pagodas were removed”); T. 19 June 2012 (YUN Kim), E1/88.1, pp. 51 (stating that, in Kratie “people were not allowed to enter the compound of the pagoda.”), 53 (“Sambour pagoda, the 100 Pillars pagoda, became decayed, and some of the roof tiles were removed so that they could be used to build – to use as the roof of a hospital.”); T. 23 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/113.1, p. 72 (stating that the Party asked him to smash the pagoda and he had no choice but to obey); T. 12 June 2013 (SIM Hao), E1/206.1, pp. 78, 96 (stating that in Phnom Penh pagodas were mined and destroyed, and the Khmer Rouge would use the monks in order to destroy the Tuol Tumpoung Pagoda, so that they could reuse remnants from the temple for road construction); T. 15 June 2015 (KEO Loeur), E1/316.1, p. 31; T. 9 December 2015 (UM Suonn), E1/365.1, pp. 41-42 (Yeang village, Chi Kraeng district, Siem Reap province); T. 8 January 2016 (SOS Romly), E1/372.1, p. 43 (Wat Ampeak Vaon, or Mango Grove, Pagoda); LOET Khun Interview Record, E3/7769, 31 May 2009, p. 3, ERN (En) 00340190 (Badeum Pagoda, Kamphun village, Chey Mungkul Pagoda, Samkhuoy commune, Sesan district, Stung Treng province); SAO Phen Interview Record, E3/445, 5 April 2010, ERN (En) 00508574 (stating that in Krang Leav commune, Kampong Chhnang province, “[s]oon after the Khmer Rouge took power, I saw that pagodas were demolished or destroyed [...] for example, at this Krang Leav pagoda, the temple was detonated by landmines.”).

(including as security centres and execution sites,<sup>13302</sup> warehouses and worksites,<sup>13303</sup> as places of accommodation<sup>13304</sup> and for administrative purposes),<sup>13305</sup> and desecration through sacrilegious use.<sup>13306</sup> Further evidence indicates that general Buddhist worship was prohibited between 1975 and 1979,<sup>13307</sup> as were Buddhist rituals and practices

---

<sup>13302</sup> See e.g., T. 7 December 2012 (HUN Chhunly), E1/150.1, p. 31 (stating that, in Battambang “certain Buddhist pagodas were transformed into prisons. And others were transformed into the detention centre”); T. 19 May 2015 (OR Ho), E1/301.1, p. 42 (Prey Sraeng village, Kampong Thom, Central (old North) Zone); T. 14 September 2015 (SEN Srun), E1/346.1, p. 13 (Wat Au Trakuon, Central (old North) Zone); T. 11 August 2016 (CHE Heap), E1/455.1, p. 20 (testifying that his “brother’s wife along with the wives of other cadres who worked in the sewing unit, were taken away in one truck to Russei Sanh pagoda”); T. 21 September 2016 (SEM Om), E1/478.1, p. 36 (stating that Ta Rem “ordered his subordinates to lift the children up and smash them against car tyre. And that happened near a pond located inside Suong pagoda”, in the East Zone); T. 30 November 2016 (PREAP Chhon), E1/504.1, p. 80 (stating that when he was called to study at Wat Chey pagoda [Ta Chey village, Kampong Chamlang commune, Svay Chrum district], he found around 500 former soldiers or self-defence force imprisoned there); HUOT Robieb Interview Record, E3/7771, 24 June 2009, p. 3, ERN (En) 00350257 (stating that Samraong Knong Pagoda was under the control of the soldiers to be used as the interrogation place and detain people and that in 1977, he saw the Khmer Rouge soldiers walking a person into Samraong Knong Pagoda, and I never saw him return.”). See also, Section 11.2.16: 1st January Dam Worksite: Killings at Baray Choan Dek Pagoda.

<sup>13303</sup> See e.g., T. 19 June 2012 (YUN Kim), E1/88.1, p. 52 (pagodas in Kratie “were used as warehouses or, as the kiln were bricks were made, tiles were made”); T. 15 June 2015 (KEO Loeur), E1/316.1, p. 31 (witness was told that pagodas at the rear battlefield were turned into handicraft places); T. 9 December 2015 (UM Suonn), E1/365.1, pp. 41-42 (pagodas in Yeang village, Chi Kraeng district, Siem Reap province, were used to pound rice); T. 15 December 2015 (Y Vun), E1/368.1, pp. 9, 19-20 (Khsach Pagoda (Kampong Speu, West Zone) was used as an handicrafts place and to store rice and timber; and that one of the monk residences was used to store rice); T. 29 June 2016 (MEAS Soeur), E1/446.1, p. 75 (confiscated weapons were stored in Tuntim Pagoda in Tboung Khmum district, East Zone); LOET Khun Interview Record, E3/7769, 31 May 2009, p. 3, ERN (En) 00340190 (stating that in (Sesan district), Stung Treng province, the Khmer Rouge turned the pagoda into communal eating halls and rice warehouses).

<sup>13304</sup> See e.g., T. 19 June 2012 (YUN Kim), E1/88.1, p. 52 (young people “were made to live” in pagodas); T. 27 October 2015 (SEAN Song), E1/357.1, pp. 72,75 (the pagoda in Sanvaeuy commune, Siem Reap province was used to house mobile unit workers” for about a fortnight); HUOT Robieb Interview Record, E3/7771, 24 June 2009, p. 3, ERN (En) 00350257 (stating that “Samraong Knong Pagoda was used as a place for the Khmer Rouge to stay.”).

<sup>13305</sup> See e.g., T. 19 June 2012 (YUN Kim), E1/88.1, p. 51 (“at one of the pagodas [in Kratie], they reserved a place for meeting.”); T. 7 December 2012 (HUN Chhunly), E1/150.1, p. 31 (“one of the pagodas [in Battambang] was transformed into the operation training centre.”); T. 5 October 2015 (BAN Seak), E1/353.1, pp. 22-23 (the commerce office of Sector 42 (Central (old North) Zone) was in the Cheyyou Pagoda in Spueu), 64 (the Krouch Chhmar (East Zone) district office was constantly mobile and that sometimes meetings were held in the pagoda); T. 8 January 2016 (SOS Romly), E1/372.1, p. 44 (stating that sometimes pagodas were used as a mobile office); T. 28 November 2016 (BEIT Boeur), E1/502.1 pp. 14, 52-53 (Angkar sent him to base at Tuol Tumpung Pagoda in Phnom Penh, where he worked within the pagoda’s “compound”).

<sup>13306</sup> See e.g., T. 9 August 2012 (ONG Thong Hoeung), E1/105.1, p. 26 (Wat Langka in Phnom Penh “was kind of used for pigs”); T. 9 December 2015 (UM Suonn), E1/365.1, pp. 41-42 (the monastery in Yeang village, Chi Kraeng district, Siem Reap province, was used to raise animals); LOET Khun Interview Record, E3/7769, 31 May 2009, p. 3, ERN (En) 00340190 (stating that in Samkhuoy commune, Sesan district, Stung Treng province the Khmer Rouge turned the pagodas into pigsties).

<sup>13307</sup> See e.g., T. 6 December 2011 (KLAN Fit), E1/17.1, pp. 92-93 (“At Stung Treng we were banned from practicing religions, believing in spirits. [...] at that time we had to really abandon [religion] because we were intimidated, otherwise we would be accused of losing the firm stands”); T. 2 May 2012 including the lighting of incense,<sup>13308</sup> and wedding and funerary rites.<sup>13309</sup> Buddha statues and religious objects were also frequently destroyed.<sup>13310</sup> Witnesses were told about Buddhism's incompatibility with the revolution,<sup>13311</sup> and described in court the complete destruction of Buddhism during the DK period.<sup>13312</sup> As YUN Kim put it:

---

(PEAN Khean), E1/71.1, p. 50 (“After 1975, such practice [paying homage to monks] were in no existence [sic.”]); T. 6 January 2016 (THANG Phal), E1/371.1, pp. 70-71 (stating that, in Pou Chentam village, Svay Antor commune, Prey Veang district East Zone “[b]etween 1975 and ’79, we were not allowed to celebrate any Buddhist religious ceremony.”); T. 29 June 2016 (MEAS Soeurn), E1/446.1, p. 87 (“even the majority of the people who were Buddhists, they were not allowed to practice their religious beliefs”); T. 3 August 2016 (CHIN Saroeun), E1/454.1, p. 35 (Kratie); BAN Siek Interview Record, E3/375, 6 July 2009, p. 11, ERN (En) 00360759 (“even the Buddhist monks were not allowed to chant.”).<sup>13308</sup> See e.g., T. 1 March 2016 (UCH Sunlay), E1/394.1, p. 93 (testifying that “my own father [...], a clergyman at the pagoda [in Kratie], was also killed for having collected some dead plants to burn as incense for praying to Buddha. [...] even lighting the incense to pay gratitude to Buddha, he was arrested and executed for that simple reason.”); T. 9 March 2016 (VAN Mat alias SALES Ahmat), E1/398.1, pp. 86-87 (stating that he attended a meeting about the prohibition of religious practices of Islam and other religions, including Buddhism); T. 3 August 2016 (CHIN Saroeun), E1/454.1, p. 35 (“At the time we were not allowed to use incense lights”).

<sup>13309</sup> See e.g., T. 6 December 2012 (KIM Vannady), E1/149.1, p. 12 (testifying, with reference to the death of his mother in Prey Phdau Dam, that “death, during the regime, was very pathetic [...]. [W]hen someone died, he or she would be buried or covered with some leaves. They died like [...] animals.”); T. 11 December 2015 (UNG Sam Ean), E1/366.1, p. 95 (stating that he requested his brother-in-law to be buried at Chantrei Pagoda, in Chantrei commune, East Zone, but he was not allowed to do it); T. 24 August 2016 (SOU Sotheavy), E1/463.1, p. 63 (“In the Pol Pot’s time, there were no sermon preached by monks and there were no wedding procession.”).

<sup>13310</sup> See e.g., T. 23 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/113.1, p. 72 (“at that time the Party asked me to smash [...] the Buddha, but I had no choice.”); T. 12 June 2013 (SIM Hao), E1/206.1, p. 96 (Tuol Tumpung Pagoda in Phnom Penh); T. 30 May 2013 (SOPHAN Sovany), E1/199.1, p. 47 (stating that “the Buddha statues were destroyed. Some of the heads were gone, or the limbs”); T. 16 February 2015 (EM Phoeung), E1/263.1, pp. 67-68 (“During the DK regime [...] everything was destroyed. The Buddhist manuscript, for example, that were made from palm tree leaves, they torn them – they torn them apart and used them as hats.”). T. 2 December 2015 (PRAK Doeun), E1/361.1, p. 63 (stating that he “saw the Khmer Rouge actually dismantle a Buddha statue.”); T. 9 December 2015 (UM Suonn), E1/365.1, pp. 41-42 (Khsach pagoda Yeang village, Sangvaeuy commune, Chi Kraeng district, Siem Reap province); T. 11 December 2015 (UNG Sam Ean), E1/366.1, p. 69 (“There were no longer Buddha statues, they were all gone” and stating that he “saw the structure of the [Chantrei] temple but there were no Buddha statues.”); LOET Khun Interview Record, E3/7769, 31 May 2009, pp. 3-4, ERN (En) 00340190-00340191 (stating that at Chey Mongkul Pagoda, Samkhuoy commune, Sesan district, Stung Treng province, “the Buddha statues were carried away and tossed in the river.”); T. 6 April 2016 (SOS Kamri alias KAMARUTTIN Yusof), E1/415.1, pp. 82-83 (Chamkar Leu district, Kampong Cham province, North Zone).

<sup>13311</sup> See e.g., T. 5 October 2015 (BAN Seak), E1/353.1, p. 88 (the witness, secretary of Krouch Chhmar district in the East Zone, stated that “[t]he Buddhist monks were considered enemies of the Khmer Rouge.”); KHIM Soeun Interview Record, E3/7979, 22 November 2007, p. 3, ERN (En) 00223545 (stating that he was shown Leninist documents about not having monks); BAN Siek Interview Record, E3/375, 6 July 2009, p. 11, ERN (En) 00360759 (stating that “The Communist Party loathed Buddhist monks and monarch the most.”).

<sup>13312</sup> See e.g., T. 19 May 2015 (OR Ho), E1/301.1, p. 59 (“And as for [Cham] religion – or we can say also for Buddhism – the religion and Islam were abolished. Monks were defrocked and Cham were not allowed to worship anymore.”); T. 9 September 2015 (SOS Min), E1/344.1, p. 64 (“All religions, including Buddhism and Islam, were abolished. Buddhism is the religion of the nation and other religions were abolished in the regime. Buddhism was abolished during the time [...] although Buddhism is the national religion in the country.”); T. 11 January 2016 (MUY Vanny), E1/373.1, p. 20 (stating that in Peam Chi Kang commune “[r]eligion was prohibited, and that applied to the Cham and to the Khmer people.”); T. 6 April 2016 (SOS Kamri alias KAMARUTTIN Yusof), E1/415.1, p. 83 (stating that in Kampong Cham “[i]f you speak about religion, other religious followers [than the Cham] including

Regarding religion, [...] we were advised [...] not to believe in any religion [...]. Buddhism came to an end in 1976. [...] During the Democratic Kampuchea regime, there were no monks, so no one practiced Buddhism. It was an end to Buddhism. No monks, no religion. So I could say that it was an end to Buddhism.<sup>13313</sup>

4016. EM Oeun described his anguish at being ordered to destroy the remnants of Buddhism:

I loved Buddhism and I loved people, but at that time the Party asked me to smash the pagoda, the Buddha, but I had no choice. I loved Buddhism and I was bestowed with the authority to smash the religion, the Buddha that I once loved and respected, but I had no choice. [...] Destroying Buddhism took many forms, one of which was [...] not allowing people to enter the monkhood. And they also forbid pagoda construction and building. That was the overall picture of the destruction of Buddhism.<sup>13314</sup> 4017. The Chamber is satisfied that a centrally-devised policy to abolish Buddhist practices and forbid the practice of Buddhism in DK existed throughout the indictment period. It has examined evidence of the charged policy's implementation at the Tram Kak Cooperatives in Section 10.1.9.1: Events at Angk Roka Pagoda and Section 10.1.9.2: Other Pagodas, Buddhist Symbols and Practices. The Chamber now turns to examine the scope of this policy and the crimes encompassed by the common purpose.

16.4.3.3.2. Criminality of policy

4018. As limited to Case 002/02, the Chamber is seized of facts relevant to the implementation of this policy through a joint criminal enterprise at the Tram Kak Cooperatives.<sup>13315</sup> For the reasons outlined below, the Chamber finds that the policy targeting Buddhists for adverse treatment involved the commission of crimes which were encompassed by the common purpose.

4019. Persecution on religious grounds – The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of persecution on religious grounds was established at the Tram Kak Buddhist were also killed.”); LOET Khun Interview Record, E3/7769, 31 May 2009, pp. 3-4, ERN (En) 00340190-00340191 (stating that in Badeum, Samkhuoy commune, Sesan district, Stung Treng province “[a]t the time the Khmer Rouge imposed a policy to eliminate Buddhism. [...] the Khmer Rouge abolished Buddhism, and prohibited people not to provide meals to the monks; they said ‘this group does nothing’.”); BAN Siek Interview Record, E3/375, 6 July 2009, p. 11, ERN (En) 00360759.

---

<sup>13313</sup> T. 19 June 2012 (YUN Kim), E1/88.1, pp. 49-52.

<sup>13314</sup> T. 23 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/113.1, p. 72.

<sup>13315</sup> See above, para. 3728.

Cooperatives.<sup>13316</sup> It has found that over 100 monks were deliberately gathered at Angk Roka Pagoda in Tram Kak district and forced to defrock, having specifically been targeted on the basis of their religious identity.<sup>13317</sup> Reflective of a pattern across Tram Kak district,<sup>13318</sup> the Chamber has further found that the complete abolition of Buddhist practices – including the repurposing of pagodas for non-religious use and the destruction of Buddhist symbols – was consistent with the prohibition of Buddhism as a result of its incompatibility with revolutionary principles.<sup>13319</sup>

4020. The treatment of Buddhists in Tram Kak district was consistent with evidence that the persecutory treatment of Buddhists outside that district,<sup>13320</sup> the CPK’s categorisation of monks as a “special class”,<sup>13321</sup> a September 1975 policy pronouncement indicating that “90 to 95 percent of [monks had] left the monkhood” and projection that “Buddhist practices will no longer exist”,<sup>13322</sup> the 1976 constitutional prohibition of “reactionary religions” (which Buddhism was considered to be) and KHIEU Samphan’s explanation of the Party’s motivation for this prohibition, including the need to oppose “at all costs” those using religion to subvert the regime,<sup>13323</sup> as well as his 1976 statement that “just like everyone else, even Buddhist monks have the duty and obligation to work”.<sup>13324</sup> The evidence also confirms Elizabeth BECKER and Yugoslavian journalist Slavko STANIĆ’s accounts of pagodas being used as granaries and storehouses in late 1978.<sup>13325</sup> The Chamber is satisfied that the foregoing instances mirror practices specifically targeting Buddhists at the Tram Kak Cooperatives for adverse treatment on the basis of their religious identity and finds that this specific intent was shared by direct perpetrators and JCE participants alike.

4021. In view of the foregoing, the Chamber is satisfied that the policy to abolish Buddhist practices and forbid the practice of Buddhism was implemented in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a “great

---

<sup>13316</sup> Section 10.1.13.7: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Legal Findings: Persecution on Religious Grounds.

<sup>13317</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 1183.

<sup>13318</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, paras 1105, 1183.

<sup>13319</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 1184.

<sup>13320</sup> See above, paras 4015-4017.

<sup>13321</sup> See above, Section 16.3.2.1.3.4: Real or Perceived Enemies: Monks.

<sup>13322</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 1088.

<sup>13323</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, paras 1090, 1108.

<sup>13324</sup> Section 18.2.2: The Criminal Responsibility of KHIEU Samphan: Commission through a Joint Criminal Enterprise: Intent.

<sup>13325</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 1108.

leap forward” in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform the population into an atheistic and homogenous Khmer society of worker-peasants. The Chamber therefore finds that the crime against humanity of persecution on religious grounds, as established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, was encompassed by the common purpose.

16.4.3.3.3. Conclusion

4022. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that the policy to abolish Buddhist practices and forbid the practice of Buddhism was intrinsically linked to the common purpose. The policy involved the commission of the crime against humanity of persecution on religious grounds against Buddhist monks as a means of achieving the common purpose, thereby rendering it criminal in character.

16.4.3.4. Former Khmer Republic officials

4023. The Closing Order collectively identifies former Khmer Republic officials (including civil servants and former military personnel) and their families as objects of the CPK’s targeting policy.<sup>13326</sup> It charges that this policy came into existence before 1975 and continued until at least 6 January 1979. According to the Closing Order, public declarations of intent to execute the most senior Khmer Republic figures were evident in February 1975 and, following 17 April 1975, a secret decision to kill many other members of the Khmer Republic elite had been made. As charged, this led to the arrest and execution of high-ranking officials, in particular during the evacuation of Phnom Penh and during population movements throughout Cambodia.<sup>13327</sup>

4024. The KHIEU Samphan Defence submits that the Closing Order charges the existence of a targeting policy only in relation to the evacuation of Phnom Penh.<sup>13328</sup> The KHIEU Samphan Defence nevertheless acknowledges that “the movement of the population from Phnom Penh [...] constitutes only one of the several occurrences of a pattern of targeting former officials of the Khmer Republic”.<sup>13329</sup> As identified above, the Closing Order also clearly charges that this policy continued throughout the DK

<sup>13326</sup> See above, para. 3728.

<sup>13327</sup> Closing Order, paras 205-206, 208-209.

<sup>13328</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, paras 2310-2311.

<sup>13329</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, para. 2310 quoting Closing Order, para. 206 (emphasis added).

period.<sup>13330</sup> The KHIEU Samphan Defence further contends that the absence of a charged policy is evident in the Closing Order’s failure to include former Khmer Republic officials as one of the “targeted groups” in the section pertaining to “Factual Findings of Crimes”.<sup>13331</sup> While the Closing Order does not specifically enumerate former Khmer Republic officials in that section, it plainly contemplates facts referable to their (mis)treatment under sub-sections relating to the crime sites under examination in Case 002/02.<sup>13332</sup> The KHIEU Samphan Defence submissions in this regard are therefore rejected.

4025. The NUON Chea Defence asserts that documentary evidence, contemporaneous records and in-court testimony fail to establish the existence of a nationwide targeting policy of Khmer Republic officials.<sup>13333</sup> The Co-Prosecutors conversely submit that a policy to identify, arrest and often execute former soldiers and officials of the LON Nol regime was evident throughout the DK period.<sup>13334</sup> The Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers made no submissions in this regard. The Chamber will address the merits of the NUON Chea Defence and Co-Prosecutors’ submissions following a holistic appraisal of the evidence before it.

16.4.3.4.1. Existence of policy

16.4.3.4.1.1. Pre-17 April 1975

4026. By September 1972, KHIEU Samphan, HU Nim and HOU Youn were publicly calling for the “elimination” of high-ranking members of the Khmer Republic administration “and others and their subordinates” on behalf of GRUNK and the CPNLAF.<sup>13335</sup> Early editions of the Revolutionary Flag magazine echoed these calls within CPK ranks.<sup>13336</sup> The question of Khmer Republic loyalists was discussed at an

<sup>13330</sup> See above, para. 4023.

<sup>13331</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, para. 2312.

<sup>13332</sup> See e.g., Closing Order, paras 319 (Tram Kak Cooperatives), 366 (1st January Dam Worksite), 432 (S-21 Security Centre), 498, 506 (Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre). See below, para. 4050.

<sup>13333</sup> NUON Chea Closing Brief, paras 935-948.

<sup>13334</sup> Co-Prosecutors’ Closing Brief, para. 305.

<sup>13335</sup> KHIEU Samphan, HOU Youn, HU Nim Statement, E3/116, 9 September 1972, ERN (En) 00485283 (appeal to all people to “fight resistantly [sic] to eliminate the main traitors including the contemptible LON Nol, SIRIK Matak, SON Ngoc Thanh, IN Tam, LON Non, HANG Thun Hak, and others and their subordinates”).

<sup>13336</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/783, September-October 1972, ERN (En) 00720205 (“Currently, imperialist America and traitors LON Nol, SIRIM [sic] Matak and SOENG Ngoc Thanh are failing and we have suppressed them; they can no longer manoeuvre. They are desperately trying to fight back with poisonous extraordinary meeting of the Central Committee in late 1974. NUON Chea told the Chamber that, following liberation, the Party leadership anticipated that:

[Defecting LON Nol soldiers] would start stealing, robbing, burning down people[']s homes, and so on and so forth. And we had not enough people to protect our people if these things happened. They would start fighting; attacking our people through means of guerrilla war and they would drag us to follow them and that there will be no peace. We could never transplant rice or go about our daily life.<sup>13337</sup>

4027. In December 1974, NORODOM Sihanouk declared that GRUNK would grant amnesty to Khmer Republic officials who joined forces with FUNK and GRUNK.<sup>13338</sup> In the meantime, KHIEU Samphan maintained the CPK's line through the veneer of GRUNK, publicly declaring in January 1975 that the "traitorous Phnom Penh clique" could not "escape complete annihilation" by the CPNLAF.<sup>13339</sup> On 26 February 1975, a FUNK press release announced that, on behalf of FUNK, GRUNK and the CPNLAF, a National Congress purportedly chaired by KHIEU Samphan had declared it "absolutely necessary to kill [the] seven traitors" of the Khmer Republic for treason. President LON Nol, Prime Minister LONG Boret, presidential advisor Prince SISOWATH Sirik Matak, former Prime Ministers SON Ngoc Than and IN Tam, former President CHENG Heng and Khmer Republic Commander-in-Chief SOSTHÈNE Fernandez were marked for execution.<sup>13340</sup> All other Khmer Republic officials and personnel were invited to cease collaborating with the republican regime and join FUNK.<sup>13341</sup>

4028. The resolutions of the National Congress were repeated in the lead-up to 17 April 1975. KHIEU Samphan, HU Nim, HOU Youn, FUNK and GRUNK outlets politics to disrupt our movement. We, however, must absolutely crush them."); Revolutionary Flag, E3/785, July 1973, ERN (En) 00713995.

---

<sup>13337</sup> T. 22 November 2011 (Accused NUON Chea), E1/14.1, pp. 94, 107-108.

<sup>13338</sup> The Chamber has already found that NORODOM Sihanouk was effectively marginalised by the CPK since 1970 and had no power to enforce such promises or to control events inside the country. See Section 3: Historical Background, para. 222. See below, fn. 13372.

<sup>13339</sup> Khieu Samphan 14 Jan Message to CPNLAF Fighters (in FBIS collection), E3/30, 15 January 1975, ERN (En) 00166709-00166710 ("This clique cannot escape complete annihilation by our CPNLAF and people in the near future.").

<sup>13340</sup> The Chamber could not conclusively determine whether this "National Congress" took place but has accepted that the decisions allegedly reached therein were representative of other pronouncements by KHIEU Samphan. See Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, para. 581. See also, Sihanouk: U.S. Will 'Not Lose Face' If It Lets Cambodia Fail (in FBIS collection), E3/120, 6 March 1975, ERN (En) 00166786 (listing titular functions of the Khmer Republic administration).

<sup>13341</sup> Khieu Samphan Chairs NUF C Congress Session: Communiqué Issued (in FBIS collection), E3/488, 26 February 1975, ERN (En) 00166772.

reiterated calls for the death of the “seven traitors”, urged defections from Khmer Republic forces and advocated for civil unrest to bring about the end of the LON Nol regime.<sup>13342</sup> Assurances of amnesty continued to be extended to all republican forces and officials (except the “seven traitors”), provided that they ceased their collaboration with the Khmer Republic immediately.<sup>13343</sup> The GRUNK leadership warned that the children of those who did not defect were “indelibly marked as the descendants of traitors”,<sup>13344</sup> and cautioned that clemency would be denied and that a bloodbath would ensue if the CPNLAF met any resistance after taking Phnom Penh.<sup>13345</sup>

<sup>13342</sup> See e.g., NUFC Editorial Hails Decisions of 2[n]d National Congress (in FBIS collection), E3/120, 4 March 1975, ERN (En) 00166792-00166793 (urging people to respond to communiqué of second national congress and defect); Further Appeal Urges People to Join CPNLAF Struggle (in FBIS collection), E3/120, 7 March 1975, ERN (En) 00166796 (inciting civil disturbances and urging “brother army officers, troops, policemen, militiamen who have weapons” to “turn [their] weapons” on the seven traitors: “Without them, the Cambodian nation and people will be at peace.”) [emphasis added]; Khieu Samphan Appeals for Intensified Struggle (in FBIS collection), E3/120, 15 March 1975, ERN (En) 00166828 (inciting riots, civil unrest and the seizure of weapons; “The time has come for us to put an end to the existence of the traitors.”); NUFC Radio Hails CPNLAF Successes: 17 Mar ‘Urgent Appeal’ (in FBIS collection), E3/120, 17 March 1975, ERN (En) 00166843 (“No matter how obstinate the US imperialists may be, they cannot prevent the traitorous [seven traitor] clique from collapse.”); RGUNC’s Hou Nim Issues Appeal to Monks on Current Situation (in FBIS collection), E3/120, 22 March 1975, ERN (En) 00166870 (“the existence of the [seven] traitors should be ended.”); RGUNC Cabinet Issues 25 March Communiqué-Appeal (in FBIS collection), E3/120, 26 March 1975, ERN (En) 00166874 (KHIEU Samphan reiterates the national congress’s decision that “the existence of the fascist, rotten traitors must be ended at all costs”) [emphasis added]; AKI: CPNLAF Continuing Offensive ‘Without Compromise’ (in FBIS collection), E3/118, 10 April 1975, ERN (En) 00166937 (reporting that LON Nol, CHENG Heng, SOSTHÈNE Fernandez, SON Ngoc Than and IN Tam had fled Phnom Penh and that the “residents and youths will annihilate and put an end to the existence of traitors Sirik Matak and LONG Boret, who are now in Phnom Penh.”).

<sup>13343</sup> See e.g., NUFC Editorial Hails Decisions of 2[n]d National Congress (in FBIS collection), E3/120, 4 March 1975, ERN (En) 00166792-00166793 (urging people to respond to communiqué of second national congress and rise up); US State Department Telegram, Subject: Khmer Report, March 1975, E3/3334, 4 March 1975, pp. 6-7, ERN (En) 00413052-00413053 (politicians and high personalities, other than the seven traitors, could join FUNK if they stopped cooperating with LON Nol “now”); GRUNK Telegram to UN Secretary-General, E3/189, 18 March 1975, p. 2, ERN (En) 00894299 (the National Congress called upon LON Nol officials to abandon the seven traitors “while there is still time”); Khieu Samphan Issues Statement on Current Situation (in FBIS collection), E3/118, 1 April 1975, ERN (En) 00166897-00166898; Khieu Samphan Appeals to Phnom Penh Citizens to Join NUFC 14 Apr (in FBIS collection), E3/118, 14 April 1975, ERN (En) 00166948-00166949.

<sup>13344</sup> Peen [sic] Nouth Greets Compatriots on Cambodian New Year (in FBIS collection), E3/118, 13 April 1975, ERN (En) 00166956 (“You should take this good opportunity to defect from [Khmer Republic] ranks and join the patriotic ranks of the people in order to avoid passing on a bad name to your children, who will be indelibly marked as the descendants of traitors to the nation and the people. You know that you must bear full responsibility for the good name of your families.”).

<sup>13345</sup> U.S. State Department Telegram, Subject: March 12 EA Press Summary, E3/3338, 12 March 1975, ERN (En) 00413155; U.S. State Department Telegram, Subject: John Burns Interview with Sihanouk, E3/3339, 15 March 1975, ERN (En) 00413177-00413178; U.S. State Department Telegram, Subject: Khmer Report, E3/3341, 18 March 1975, ERN (En) 00413197.

4029. KHIEU Samphan also continued publicly lauding the successes of the CPNLAF and its “elimination” of Khmer Republic forces.<sup>13346</sup> On 16 April 1975, NORODOM Sihanouk rejected outright the Khmer Republic’s offer of a ceasefire (conditional on the guarantee that no reprisals for previous government acts would follow), urging the “first rank traitors” to flee the country because as war criminals, they “deserve nothing less than the gallows”.<sup>13347</sup> The following day, having marched on parts of Phnom Penh, the CPNLAF warned the remaining Khmer Republic leadership that “we are not coming here for negotiations. We are entering the capital through force of arms of the CPNLAF.”<sup>13348</sup>

4030. With regard to the treatment of Khmer Republic soldiers before 1975, refugee accounts obtained by Stephen HEDER at the Thai border indicate that initial CPK campaigns to re-educate captured Khmer Republic soldiers had been dropped by mid-1973, whereupon arrestees were subject to execution.<sup>13349</sup> These accounts were neither explored nor confirmed during the course of Stephen HEDER’s testimony before the Chamber. According to Expert Philip SHORT, there was no written CPK policy concerning the treatment of Khmer Republic soldiers before 1975, but he opined that

---

<sup>13346</sup> See e.g., FUNK Publication: Nouvelles du Cambodge No. 698: KHIEU Samphan Speech, E3/167, 10 April 1974, ERN (En) 00280586 (“On 18 March, our People’s National Liberation Armed Forces liberated another city, Udong, by annihilating all the puppet soldiers there along with their reinforcements; in other words, over 5,000 enemies were eliminated, 1,500 of whom were captured.”); Khieu Samphan 14 Jan Message to CPNLAF Fighters (in FBIS collection), E3/30, 15 January 1975, ERN (En) 00166709-00166710 (“We annihilated close to 20 battalions of enemy troops and liberated tens of thousands of our people from the demonic claws of the traitor Lon Nol and his clique. [...] The Mekong is the transportation route upon which the traitors had pinned almost all their hopes to prolong their doomsday and to continue to sow devastation on our nation and people.”); Khieu Samphan Congratulates CPNLAF on Neak Luong Victories (in FBIS collection), E3/118, 5 April 1975, ERN (En) 00166924 (lauding the death or wounding of 20 battalions (5,500 soldiers) and “liberation” of 50,000 people); KHIEU Samphan, HOU Youn, HU Nim Statement, E3/637, 17 April 1975, ERN (En) 00740933, 00740938 (“According to an interim report some 1,550 heads of the enemy military personnel and officers including of hundreds [of] colonels, captains, lieutenants and major lieutenants have been smashed while ten thousands of people have been liberated. [...] All in all, up to mid-January 1973, [...] [w]e have smashed total of 10,245 heads of the enemies and liberated dozens of bases, Mekong River and tens of thousands of people, and confiscated thousands of rifles and the enemies have become hot-blooded and more panic stricken.”).

<sup>13347</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, para. 234.

<sup>13348</sup> CPNLAF Representative Tells Government Troops to Surrender (in FBIS collection), E3/118, 17 April 1975, ERN (En) 00166974.

<sup>13349</sup> Report by S. Heder and M. Matsushita: Interviews with Kampuchean Refugees at Thai-Cambodian Border, E3/1714, February-March 1980, p. 25, ERN (En) 00170716 (In or about 1973 “Those who could be proved [to be] LON NOL agents were executed. Agents were hated more than LON NOL soldiers. Most LON NOL soldiers who were captured were forgiven but all the agents were executed. Most LON NOL soldiers were re-educated for a short time and told not to re-join the LON NOL army and then released. They were put into the co-ops and all[o]wed to go back to LON NOL zones. After 1973 up to 75% of LON NOL soldiers were forgiven. Before 1973, all were forgiven and even allowed to return to their homes in LON NOL zones.”).

the uniformity of treatment meted out to armed forces evinced the existence of such policy.<sup>13350</sup> The Chamber notes that the Expert's finding was based on limited sources and approaches it with due caution.<sup>13351</sup> Former Khmer Rouge soldier and Witness IENG Phan described receiving instructions from the upper echelon "not to kill" or mistreat Khmer Republic soldiers before 1975, but rather to "send them to the rear".<sup>13352</sup> While he furnished relatively consistent responses in court and was otherwise a credible witness, IENG Phan acknowledged that, as a frontline soldier, he was not aware of the fates of prisoners of war once they had been sent to the rear.<sup>13353</sup> The Chamber considers that although his testimony credibly reveals the nature of orders disseminated to certain frontline soldiers, it does not shed light on the actual fates of those republican soldiers who had surrendered to CPNLA soldiers before 1975. The Chamber finds IENG Phan's evidence to be inconclusive on the question of a policy targeting Khmer Republic soldiers.

4031. In contrast to IENG Phan's evidence, other in-court evidence consistently and credibly indicated that Khmer Republic soldiers, officials and their family members were variously arrested throughout the country prior to 17 April 1975, detained and/or executed in areas under Khmer Rouge control.<sup>13354</sup> Such indicators support the <sup>13350</sup> T. 8 May 2013 (Philip SHORT), E1/191.1, pp. 98-102. See also, Book by P. Short: Pol Pot: The History of a Nightmare, E3/9, p. 255, ERN (En) 00396455 (referring to the events at Oudong on 3 March 1974: "Officials and uniformed soldiers were separated from the rest, led away and killed.").

<sup>13351</sup> T. 7 May 2013 (Philip SHORT), E1/190.1, pp. 73-74; T. 8 May 2013 (Philip SHORT), E1/191.1, pp. 98-102; Book by P. Short: Pol Pot: The History of a Nightmare, E3/9, p. 255, ERN (En) 00396455. See also, Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, paras 879-881.

<sup>13352</sup> T. 20 May 2013 (IENG Phan), E1/193.1, pp. 8, 15-16, 36, 65-70.

<sup>13353</sup> T. 20 May 2013 (IENG Phan), E1/193.1, pp. 8, 70.

<sup>13354</sup> T. 2 February 2015 (KEV Chandara), E1/255.1, p. 41 ("When I was detained at the [Kraing Ta Chan Security] Centre, [...] [t]here was not less than 50 victims executed a day. It's not only for the Lon Nol officers or soldiers [...]. They [among others] were taken for execution in that prison. And the killing was more intense in 1975."); T. 4 February 2015 (SORY Sen), E1/256.1, p. 55 ("I believed my detention [at Kraing Ta Chan in 1974] was due to my father being District Chief during the Sihanouk regime."); SORY Sen DC-Cam Interview, E3/4846, 26 February 2004, ERN (En) 00527771 ("In 1973 they question[ed] my background because my father was the chief [of the] district in the past. I was sent to [the] security centre [in 1974]"); T. 25 March 2015 (SAUT Saing), E1/282.1, pp. 42-43 (stating that under the tenure of Ta Chhen (1973-1975) at Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, there were more prisoners who were former LON Nol soldiers or civil servants); T. 3 April 2015 (BUN Sarouen), E1/288.1, pp. 28, 45 (witness's father and uncle were chiefs in Prey Chheu Teal village during the Khmer Republic and were subsequently arrested and detained in Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre in 1973 or 1974); T. 29 March 2016 (CHAN Bun Leath), E1/410.1, pp. 11 ("I know that in Mondolkiri at that time, there were no more former Lon Nol soldiers. [...] The issue of Lon Nol soldiers already ended because it happened since '70 until '75. [...] Therefore, most of them were purged"), 12 ("I don't think that they were killed because there were no more former Lon Nol soldiers at that time, but during the [DK] period, Khmer Rouge soldiers killed themselves -- killed each other, rather."). See also, PHOL Phai Interview Record, E3/7752, 7 August 2008, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 00275154-00275155; T. 11 July 2013 (Stephen HEDER), conclusion that, by 1975, a discriminatory stance toward Khmer Republic officials and their families for adverse treatment had begun materialising in CPK-controlled areas. Whether this amounted to a policy entailing the commission of specific crimes will be determined following the Chamber's assessment of the totality of evidence encompassing the entire DK period.

16.4.3.4.1.2. Aftermath of 17 April 1975 to late 1975

4032. According to Duch, “former soldiers and officers of [the] Lon Nol regime were the key enemies” of the CPK after 17 April 1975.<sup>13355</sup> Pursuant to information he received during his chairmanship of S-21, “after 17 April, soldiers were systematically eliminated”, adding that, “[a]fter the liberation, soldiers were hunted down and fled”.<sup>13356</sup> The Chamber's review of contemporaneous documents referring to enemies confirms that former Khmer Republic officials were indeed the objects of the CPK's attention as at April 1975.<sup>13357</sup>

4033. Witness PRAK Khorn provided clear and convincing testimony about the treatment of Khmer Republic soldiers on 17 April 1975. After “not more than 50” soldiers were arrested and gathered up in Takhmau, PRAK Khorn put them onto vehicles “to be smashed at Kouk Roluos pagoda”, which he personally witnessed as he stood guard. PRAK Khorn specifically recalled that one of the executed soldiers was a colonel whose French wife and children were also executed. He added that “[i]f we had not killed those people, they would have shot back at us”.<sup>13358</sup>

4034. IENG Sary stated in a later interview that:

[The] decision to kill so many people was not made beforehand, but after 17 April, maybe around 20 April, when it was decided to do whatever had to be done in order to make it impossible for [Khmer

E1/222.1, p. 31 affirming Report by S. Heder and M. Matsushita: Interviews with Kampuchean Refugees at Thai-Cambodian Border, E3/1714, February-March 1980, p. 67, ERN (En) 00170758.

<sup>13355</sup> T. 21 March 2012 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/52.1, p. 26. See also, Section 12.2.18: S-21 Security Centre: Former Khmer Republic Officials.

<sup>13356</sup> T. 20 March 2012 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/51.1, p. 66 (“The documents of [M-13], the documents that [were] the heritage of S-21, mentioned that a lot of soldiers and military officials [of the Khmer Republic] were arrested. So it is clear that those people were collected and smashed.”); KAING Guek Eav Interview Record, E3/429, 11 November 2009, pp. 5-6, ERN (En) 00403920-00403921. See also, Case 001 Transcript (KAING Guek Eav), E3/5795, 29 April 2009, pp. 3-4, ERN (En) 00325853-00325854.

<sup>13357</sup> See above, Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, para. 3751.

<sup>13358</sup> T. 28 April 2016 (PRAK Khorn), E1/424.1, pp. 21, 28-31.

Republic soldiers] to stage a counter-revolutionary comeback. According to what I was told, these guys had made a defeat plan according to which they would assassinate the Khmer Rouge once we had arrived and carry out a coup d'état to seize power back from us. When I asked for details, I was told that searches of [Khmer Republic] officer[s'] homes had found grenades and guns everywhere that were part of the preparations for such a coup d'état. It was only once the evacuation had begun that this was clearly seen and the decision was made.<sup>13359</sup>

4035. Witness ROCHOEM Ton alias PHY Phuon conversely told the Chamber that upon his arrival in Phnom Penh on 20 April 1975, orders were issued to not harm Khmer Republic soldiers who had surrendered.<sup>13360</sup> In his statement to investigators, he clarified that this instruction was issued by POL Pot himself.<sup>13361</sup> Much like IENG Phan's testimony on the instructions furnished to front-line soldiers,<sup>13362</sup> the instructions received by ROCHOEM Ton alias PHY Phuon were not consistent with events unfolding behind the scenes. While the Chamber accepts that orders to not harm surrendering Khmer Republic soldiers may have been issued by the Party Centre, these instructions proved to be little more than a ruse, as demonstrated below.<sup>13363</sup>

4036. Extreme measures were taken to curb the threat of a counter-revolutionary insurgency in the Northwest Zone following liberation. Witness evidence described the rounding up, arrest and execution of at least 250 former Khmer Republic soldiers and officials at Tuol Po Chrey in Kandieng district, Northwest Zone, approximately one week after 17 April 1975.<sup>13364</sup> By about May 1975, two of the "seven traitors", LONG Boret and Prince SISOWATH Sirik Matak were executed in Phnom Penh, the latter

<sup>13359</sup> IENG Sary Interview by Stephen HEDER, E3/537, 17 December 1996, p. 6, ERN (En) 00003665 (emphasis added).

<sup>13360</sup> T. 30 July 2012 (ROCHOEM Ton alias PHY Phuon), E1/98.1, p. 88 affirming PHY Phuon Interview Record, E3/24, 5 December 2007, p. 5, ERN (En) 00223582.

<sup>13361</sup> PHY Phuon Interview Record, E3/24, 5 December 2007, p. 5, ERN (En) 00223582 (clarifying that "[d]uring war, on the battlefield, [it] was different"; in Phnom Penh "they had surrendered to us, and we need not touch them, just welcome them and greet them [...]. [POL Pot] said that they were 'Cambodians, like us'; Don't touch them at all. Those were the words of Pol Pot.").

<sup>13362</sup> See above, para. 4030.

<sup>13363</sup> See below, para. 4051.

<sup>13364</sup> See e.g., T. 2 May 2013 (LIM Sat), E1/187.1, pp. 29, 73-74; LIM Sat Interview Record, E3/364, 23 November 2008, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 00250759-00250760; LIM Sat Interview Record, E3/4601, 18 November 2009, ERN (En) 00412158-00412159; T. 4 July 2013 (SUM Alat), E1/218.1, pp. 28-31, 34-38, 93-94; SUM Alat Interview Record, E3/4637, 10 June 2008, pp. 4-5, ERN (En) 00242125-00242126. See also, T. 19 October 2012 (YIM Sovann), E1/135.1, pp. 113-115; T. 30 April 2013 (UNG Chhat), E1/186.1, pp. 11-13, 18-20, 22-23, 25-27, 84-85; SIEM Soeum Interview Record, E3/5235, 15 January 2009, p. 3, ERN (En) 00287329; ORK Chhoem Interview Record, E3/5500, 22 August 2009, p. 3, ERN (En) 00367288; ORK Chhoem Interview Record, E3/9471, 2 October 2014, pp. 4-5, ERN (En) 01050496-01050497; Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, paras 487-508.

having declined US Ambassador John DEAN's offer to be evacuated from Phnom Penh in the days before 17 April 1975, even in the face of certain execution.<sup>13365</sup> Five other high-ranking Khmer Republic officials had also been arrested and executed by this time, including LON Non (resigned Brigadier General and younger brother of former President LON Nol),<sup>13366</sup> UNG Bun Hor (former National Assembly President), THOM Lim Huong (former Minister of Information), CHHIM Chhuon (former Phnom Penh Special Military Region Commander) and SREY Yar (former Paratrooper Brigade Commander).<sup>13367</sup> The relatives and associates of ranking Khmer Republic officials (including LONG Boret's family) were also targeted for arrest and execution at S-21 Security Centre.<sup>13368</sup>

4037. KHIEU Samphan praised the destruction of the former regime following liberation, heralding the fact that "the enemy [had] died in agony".<sup>13369</sup> Conversely, GRUNK Prime Minister PENN Nouth denied as "grossly exaggerated" the alleged "bloodbath" of "traitors" in Phnom Penh, citing to "the fact that [GRUNK/CPNRAF] had incited the traitors to flee and now continue to allow them to escape in large numbers".<sup>13370</sup> Noting the spurious role of GRUNK,<sup>13371</sup> PENN Nouth's diminished capacity to credibly comment on events in Cambodia in the aftermath of 17 April 1975 as a result of his presence in Beijing, and the French Foreign Ministry's opinion that he

<sup>13365</sup> White House Cabinet Meeting Transcript, E3/3445, 16 April 1975, p. 3, ERN (En) 00443344.

<sup>13366</sup> LON Non was named by NORODOM Sihanouk in an expanded list of 16 "super-traitors" who "ought to be brought before the State courts to answer [for] the countless heinous crimes and misdemeanours they committed against the land, the people, the nation and the State of Kampuchea." See NORODOM Sihanouk Speech (Kampuchea News Agency), E3/1287, 2 April 1975, ERN (En) 00771787.

<sup>13367</sup> U.S. State Department Telegram, Subject: American Talks of Phnom Penh After Fall, E3/4148, 4 May 1975, ERN (En) 00413478. See also, T. 28 January 2013 (AI ROCKOFF), E1/165.1, pp. 47-48, 56-57; T. 5 June 2013 (Sydney SCHANBERG), E1/201.1, pp. 51-59; T. 7 June 2013 (Sydney SCHANBERG), E1/203.1, pp. 5-6; Amnesty International Report: Democratic Kampuchea (Cambodia), E3/3865, 1975-1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00004213 (IENG Sary confirmed in November 1975, during a visit to Thailand, that LONG Boret, SIRIK Matak and LON Non had been executed); U.S. State Department Telegram, Subject: IENG Sary Visit to Thailand, E3/3360, 20 November 1975, ERN (En) 00413889 (IENG Sary stated that LONG Boret and LON Non had been executed).

<sup>13368</sup> Section 12.1: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2490.

<sup>13369</sup> Khieu Samphan 21 Apr Victory Message on Phnom Penh Radio (in FBIS collection), E3/118, 21 April 1975, ERN (En) 00166994.

<sup>13370</sup> French Foreign Ministry Telegram, Subject: Interview with Mr PENN Nouth, E3/4132, 19 April 1975, ERN (En) 00491365.

<sup>13371</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, para. 222.

had “no clear idea of the events unfolding in Cambodia”,<sup>13372</sup> the Chamber accords no weight to PENN Nouth’s statement.

4038. During mass rallies and political training sessions in May 1975, senior CPK leaders including POL Pot, NUON Chea, KHIEU Samphan, SON Sen and HU Nim spoke about the presence of enemies inside the country. According to Civil Party EM Oeun, NUON Chea spoke about enemies infiltrating the Party and was, according to the Civil Party, “referring to people who could have been the soldiers in the previous regimes, including [the] Norodom Sihanouk and Lon Nol regimes”.<sup>13373</sup> This was confirmed by three former Division 310 soldiers who attended the May 1975 rallies. SAM Aum, who was interviewed by OCIJ investigators, recalled that SON Sen spoke about “screening and sorting” enemies including “in the context of the army, soldiers whose parents or relatives were affiliated with LON Nol’s government”. These soldiers were referred to as “soldiers with tendency”, according to SAM Aum.<sup>13374</sup> SON Sen’s call to “find those with connections to political tendencies such as [those] having relatives who had served as Republican soldiers” was confirmed by SAEM Heuan in his DC-Cam interview.<sup>13375</sup> KHOEM Samhuon told the OCIJ that SON Sen’s order extended to arresting former high-ranking civil servants and soldiers.<sup>13376</sup> The Chamber accepts that SON Sen issued orders to identify and arrest former soldiers of the Khmer Republic during the May 1975 rallies in Phnom Penh.<sup>13377</sup>

4039. Expert David CHANDLER opined that, following liberation, those who had a connection with the Khmer Republic had become the targets of “a kind of vendetta”

<sup>13372</sup> French Foreign Ministry Telegram, Subject: Interview with Mr PENN Nouth, E3/4132, 19 April 1975, ERN (En) 00491366 (“It is obvious that both the prime minister of GRUNK and the Head of State [i.e. NORODOM Sihanouk] are completely wrapped up in the myriad protocol and public relations activities in Peking and have had in recent days, no clear idea of the events unfolding in Cambodia.”). See also, French Ministry of Foreign Affairs Telegram, Subject: Your Telex No. 347 Refers, E3/2718, 17 April 1975, ERN (En) 00722361-00722362 (“[W]e tried to reach Mr Penn Nouth [...]. He sneaked off before I got the chance to tell him why I wanted to speak to him. It was quite clear that our Cambodian interlocutors in Peking had sensed why we wanted to talk to them; so they chose to hide from us because they felt powerless.”).

<sup>13373</sup> T. 23 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/113.1, pp. 81-85.

<sup>13374</sup> SAM Aun Interview Record, E3/10731, 18 April 2016, p. 5, ERN (En) 01246896.

<sup>13375</sup> SAEM Heuan alias Kim DC-Cam Interview, E3/7516, 28 February 2005, ERN (En) 00183598.

<sup>13376</sup> KHOEM Samhuon Interview Record, E3/3962, 6 March 2009, p. 4, ERN (En) 00293365.

<sup>13377</sup> See also, HENG Samrin Interview by Ben KIERNAN, E3/1568, 2 December 1991, ERN (En) 00651884 (in his interview with Ben KIERNAN, HENG Samrin stated that the CPK leadership did not instruct cadre to kill – they used the general word komchat, not komtec (i.e. kill) – but rather instructed that LON Nol leaders not be allowed “to remain in the framework”).

involving, in many cases, executions.<sup>13378</sup> Contemporaneous news articles reported evidence of a “blood debt” being paid by former republican officials, soldiers and their families from May 1975, with orders allegedly issued by the Party leadership to “eliminate all high-ranking military officials” including officers from the rank of lieutenant to colonel.<sup>13379</sup> An execution order issued by the Special Zone on 4 June 1975 notes that the listed 17 person had been “examined by the Party” and instructs that “they are to be smashed”, with a request that “comrades [...] implement this policy of the Party”.<sup>13380</sup>

4040. Deputy chief of the General Staff for the Northwest Zone TOAT Thoeun, who testified before the Supreme Court Chamber, recalled a meeting held approximately one month after liberation, which was attended by Northwest Zone Secretary RUOS Nhim. Asked whether he had heard any “policy [or] general statement of what to do with Lon Nol soldiers”, TOAT Thoeun stated that he overheard the dissemination of a “policy from the upper echelon” – which he understood to mean “those who were in the [Party] Centre” – “to smash all former imperialists” and “former feudalists”. The “policy” was not well received by zone and sector officials who, according to the witness, were heard to say that they would beseech the Party Centre “to spare [the] lives of the former soldier[s]”.<sup>13381</sup>

<sup>13378</sup> T. 20 July 2012 (David CHANDLER), E1/93.1, pp. 8-9. See also, T. 18 July 2012 (David CHANDLER), E1/91.1, p. 22.

<sup>13379</sup> Reports Hint ‘Blood Debt’ Being Paid (The Washington Post), E3/3370, 12 May 1975, ERN (En) 00445425 (“Not long after the Communists captured Phnom Penh [...] they issued the following secret instructions: ‘Eliminate all high-ranking military officials, government officials. Do this secretly. Also get provincial officers who owe the Communist Party a blood debt.’ [...] One unit, relaying orders from the Communist high command, called for the execution of all military officers from lieutenant to colonel, with their wives and their children.”). See also, Massive Cambodia Bloodbath Reported (Los Angeles Times), E3/3393, 4 May 1975, ERN (En) 00445197 (“The first victims of the bloodbath were said to be officers of the Cambodian army and some government officials. All officers down to the rank of second lieutenant were to be killed along with their wives”); Paper by S. Heder: Reassessing the Role of Senior Leaders and Local Officials in Democratic Kampuchea Crimes: Cambodian Accountability in Comparative Perspective, E3/4527, p. 11, ERN (En) 00661465 (referring to political training sessions in May-June 1975: “It was apparently during the course of these conclaves that Pol [Pot] and Nuon [Chea] refined and expanded the categories whose members must all be killed to include ‘officers, starting from the generals and working down through to the lieutenants, as well as kinh, policemen, military police personnel and reactionary civil servants.”).

<sup>13380</sup> DK Execution Order, E3/832, 4 June 1975, ERN (En) 00068915 (listing one “secret agent” and 16 soldiers, including one second lieutenant, five first lieutenants, one captain, three majors, five lieutenant colonels and one colonel; one entry references the soldier’s “absolute support for the Republic regime”, while the family members of three other named soldiers are referenced as “traitors”).

<sup>13381</sup> T. 6 July 2015 (TOAT Thoeun), F1/3.1, pp. 123-126. The Chamber has found that TOAT Thoeun’s testimony was largely consistent with his statements and therefore credible. See Section 12.1: Internal Factions, para. 1935.

4041. In-court witness testimony, Civil Party evidence, witness statements and contemporaneous materials on the Case File clearly demonstrate the nationwide hunt for high-ranking former members of the Khmer Republic armed forces, civilian officials and their families in the immediate aftermath of liberation and throughout 1975,<sup>13382</sup> and their subsequent disappearance,<sup>13383</sup> arrest<sup>13384</sup> and/or execution.<sup>13385</sup>

<sup>13382</sup> See e.g., IENG Phan Interview Transcript, E3/419.1, 23 November 2009, p. 2, ERN (En) 00912383 (the witness, a Khmer Rouge soldier, was instructed to look for LON Nol soldiers after the evacuation of Phnom Penh); KHOEM Samhuon Interview Record, E3/3962, 6 March 2009, p. 4, ERN (En) 00293365 (SON Sen gave an order to arrest high-ranking civil servants and soldiers of the Khmer Republic in May 1975); CHHIM Srorn Interview Record, E3/9827, 11 March 2014, p. 7, ERN (En) 00985094 (The Khmer Rouge “searched for those who had been involved with the LON Nol government, including the commandoes. They gathered up those people so that it would be easy to kill them.”); PEN Thol Interview Record, E3/9775, 10 August 2015, p. 5, ERN (En) 01151235 (“[T]he people they had us arrest [in Kampong Siem] were people with tendencies toward the LON Nol regime, such as government officials, soldiers, military police (PM), police officers, teachers, and so on.”). See also, U.S. National Security Council Memorandum, Subject: Assessment of Developments in Indochina Since the End of the War, E3/3472, 15 July 1976, p. 13, ERN (En) 00443170 (reports that a Khmer Rouge order went out to kill all army officers and civilian officials of the former regime).

<sup>13383</sup> See e.g., T. 22 October 2012 (CHUM Sokha), E1/136.1, pp. 41-42, 69-70 100-101 (the Civil Party was a former member of the Khmer Republic air force whose father, two uncles and other extended family members, who also were part of the Khmer Republic armed forces, disappeared after liberation); T. 24 October 2012 (LAY Bony), E1/138.1, pp. 27-29 (the Civil Party’s husband was a captain in the Khmer Republic armed forces who stated that after 17 April 1975, if the CPK “noticed the ankles had the marks of where [they were] wearing boots”, they would “conclude that they were the soldiers and they would be arrested”; her in-law, a former soldier, returned to Phnom Penh from Preaek Ang, Siem Reap province upon hearing an announcement and thereafter disappeared. “[W]e concluded that he was killed by the Khmer Rouge.”); T. 4 December 2012 (TOENG Sokha), E1/147.1, p. 78 (the Civil Party was evacuated from Phnom Penh on 17 April 1975: “When we reached Bati [Takeo], people from Phnom Penh were made to live at houses of the Base People. The Base People knew very immediately that these people were soldiers of former officials, but a few days later, they were nowhere to be found”); T. 27 May 2013 (YOS Phal), E1/197.1, p. 74 (the Civil Party was a police officer during the Khmer Republic but managed to dissimulate that fact from the Khmer Rouge: “Those [Lon Nol soldiers] from the rank of major-lieutenant, lieutenant and captain were taken away one after another.”); T. 19 May 2015 (OR Ho), E1/301.1, pp. 16, 26-28 (witness was the deputy chief of Prey Srangae village and saw 15 families disappear from Baray district, Kampong Thom: “some of them were in [the] civil service, policemen and some were in the army. [...] I have never seen them back.”); T. 11 August 2015 (LAT Suoy), E1/328.1, pp. 53-55 (following liberation, the witness, who was a Khmer Rouge soldier, heard that those identified as having connections to the Lon Nol regime were arrested and taken away: “And then they disappeared.”. The witness “heard from others that they would be killed.”); T. 10 November 2016 (OU Dav), E1/498.1, pp. 82, 100 (the Civil Party, who was defrocked in 1971 and drafted into Division 1, described the disappearance of her brother and other soldiers at Pochentong who heeded Khmer Rouge calls to board trucks to be returned to their native villages: “they boarded the vehicles and they disappeared”); BUN Thoeun Interview Record, E3/9746, 16 July 2014, pp. 5-6, ERN (En) 01031927-01031928 (the witness was the Sanlung commune member who stated that “they killed those holdings ranks of second-lieutenant and higher-ups [one or two weeks after the fall of the Khmer Republic regime] [...]. They were not seen [to] return, so I assumed that they were taken to be killed.” The order “had to be from the top level before arriving at the district level.”); NGET Yi Interview Record, E3/9832, 9 July 2014, p. 9, ERN (En) 01035034 (the witness worked as a guard in Damnak Kansaeng village, Pursat; immediately after liberation, those from the LON Nol regime “were searched for and sent to be ‘re-educated’ [...] and I never saw them return.”); Refugee Accounts, E3/4590, various dates, p. 13, ERN (En) 00820331 (“All the refugees gave the same answer: they ‘disappeared’ all the soldiers, all the civil servants [...]. Anyone who seemed to have any authority among Lon Nol loyalists had to disappear. Intellectuals, students and the like, they were not spared” in the aftermath of liberation).

<sup>13384</sup> See e.g., BUN Thien Interview Record, E3/5498, 17 August 2009, p. 6, ERN (En) 00384400 (the witness, who was a Khmer Rouge soldier, stated that: “Only the ranked people were taken [...] at least equivalent to a major lieutenant” after liberation); French Embassy Letter, Subject: Testimony of Brigadier-General SOR Buon, E3/2666, 23 June 1975, p. 6, ERN (En) 00517767 (all soldiers who were not shot were gathered into camps; executions occurred almost every day at a camp in Kampong Thom); CHAN Sokeat Interview Record, E3/5169, 21 April 2008, p. 5, ERN (En) 00250081 (the witness was detained at Wat Cha Detention Centre in Svay Rieng, which was “used as the detention centre to put prisoners who were LON Nol soldiers” in mid-1975); KHEM Chhoeun Interview Record, E3/7749, 16 July 2008, p. 3, ERN (En) 00275041 (the witness was responsible for food and vegetable stuffs in a cooperative in Toul Torteung village: “There were people arrested [in 1975 in Takeo]. They were the soldiers and civil servants of the Lon Nol regime.”); PHOL Phai Interview Record, E3/7752, 7 August 2008, p. 8, ERN (En) 00275160 (After 1975, “I made the biographies of the newly arrived people and sent them to the subdistrict. While I was [Kraing Lovea (Kampong Chhnang)] village chairman, they came and arrested people in my village. They were former teachers, soldiers and policemen.”); KUNG Samat Interview Record, E3/5232, 22 December 2008, p. 3, ERN (En) 00279257 (the witness, who was a soldier in Regiment 4, saw soldiers being separated from the people being evacuated to Kampong Chhnang gathered at one place after liberation).

<sup>13385</sup> See e.g., T. 10 April 2012 (François PONCHAUD), E1/179.1, pp. 14 (testifying about a man whom he interviewed, who told him that “Angkar requested that soldiers and high-ranking officials write their name on a board in Kien Svay Pagoda [Kandal]. [...] In the evening, they gathered those [...] soldiers, as well as the high-ranking officials – and they killed them in the lake. I learned about that on the 22nd or the 23rd of April 1975”); T. 24 October 2012 (LAY Bony), E1/138.1, pp. 15-18 (the Khmer Rouge learned that her husband was a Khmer Republic soldier upon their arrival in Pursat province in 1975; both were arrested and her husband was executed); T. 5 November 2012 (SUM Chea), E1/140.1, pp. 16-18, 31-32, 113 (the witness heard from Koeun that the Khmer Rouge “put [up] the loudspeakers and they would propagandise along the street, and then those [former soldiers] who pop up would be instantly arrested and they would eventually be killed” west of Preak Pnov [Kandal] in the days following 17 April 1975); T. 12 November 2012 (PE CHUY Chipse), E1/143.1, pp. 69, 72-73, 90-91 (testifying about trucks of former officials from Siem Reap to be executed; those evacuated to Kampong Kdei were not detailed, but were interrogated and executed); T. 6 December 2012 (HUN Chhunly), E1/149.1, pp. 39-40 (“Lon Nol soldiers ranking from the Major Lieutenant gathered [...] [a]nd those who had the rank below that gathered at a primary school near the new bridge. On the 23rd of April 1979 [sic] at 5 a.m., there was a truck coming to pick all those military officers and all the public servants, all the heads of all departments from Battambang, heading towards National Road Number 5. As for the lower-rank soldiers below Major Lieutenant, they were transported by truck toward Pailin. [...] I learned [about their fate] through one of the drivers. He said the soldiers were transported to Thipakdei Mountain and they were executed there.”); T. 2 July 2013 (LEV Lam), E1/216.1, p. 26 (“After the meeting and after the sorting out of the biographies, some of those people [17 April evacuees who had been identified as Lon Nol soldiers] disappeared; they were smashed. [...] My uncle [...] was taken away and killed [...] about three or four kilometres to the west of the village.”); T. 17 August 2015 (CHHUM Seng), E1/331.1, p. 66 (testifying that “the Khmer Rouge [were] determined to eradicate all Lon Nol soldiers” following liberation); T. 8 December 2015 (PRUM Sarun), E1/364.1, pp. 86-87 (a formerly ranking soldier was “arrested, taken away and shot to death at the corner of Phnom Krapeu” in Banan district (Battambang province) on 17 April 1975); T. 9 December 2015 (PRUM Sarun), E1/365.1, p. 8 (testifying that she had to bury the executed soldier and his wife since “the stench would be too strong for the villagers”); CHEK Vanthang Interview Record, E3/5188, 18 June 2008, p. 2, ERN (En) 00274200 (witness’s husband, a former Khmer Republic soldier in Siem Reap, was rounded up by the Khmer Rouge and killed after 17 April 1975); CHUCH Punlork Interview Record, E3/5211, 26 August 2008, p. 3, ERN (En) 00275399 (Khmer Republic soldiers were assembled, driven away by truck and killed in Phnom Sampeou district, Battambang province); POV Sinuon Interview Record, E3/5545, 29 September 2009, p. 3, ERN (En) 00387500 (witness’s father, a former Khmer Republic soldier, was shot by the Khmer Rouge on 17 April 1975 in Pursat); UT Seng Interview Record, E3/5267, 14 January 2009, p. 9, ERN (En) 00282358 (“Those connected with the former regime were killed during 1975. [...] As for those who had gone to study in Phnom Penh and had returned home, they were killed along with their entire families. [...] They said, ‘[When you] dig up grass, dig it out by the roots.’”); MUN Mot Interview Record, E3/9564, 25 July 2014, p. 5, ERN (En) 01044795 (describing the execution of a former Khmer Republic village chairman, his wife, son and daughter); U.S. National Security Council Memorandum, Subject: Assessment of Developments in Indochina Since the End of the War, E3/3472, 15 July 1976, p. 14, ERN (En) 00443171 (one account describes the execution of ten former senior civil servants and their families (about 60

16.4.3.4.1.3. Early 1976 to 6 January 1979

4042. Following the campaign to drive populations from urban and rural centres into cooperatives and worksites, the shortcomings of the unsustainable collective regime were soon blamed on elements of the former regime. According to the September-October 1976 edition of the Revolutionary Flag, most of the “contradictions” in base areas were due to Depositee People who were members of the former regime:

In the base areas, as for the characteristics of the contradictions that we can detect, most of them are government officials, policemen, soldiers, and students. This comes from the capitalists and the landowners not showing themselves. They are the instigators, but they do not show their faces. When they held power, they did not show their faces; they just paid government agents to show their faces.<sup>13386</sup>

4043. The same issue highlighted that unreformed elements and their families could not be trusted, emphasising that “[w]hen they die, they instruct their children to struggle against the communists”.<sup>13387</sup>

4044. IENG Sary acknowledged that by this time, the CPK had decided to separate “people who supported Lon Nol” from base people and “poor people from the cities”.<sup>13388</sup> Indeed, evidence before the Chamber clearly demonstrates that former Khmer Republic officials and their families were systematically screened through registers and biographies to determine their class affinities and former occupations.<sup>13389</sup> people total) in Mongkol Borei); U.S. State Department Telegram, Subject: Life Inside Cambodia, E3/3559, 31 March 1976, p. 5, ERN (En) 00443067 (the Khmer Rouge killed all military officers, civil servants, village chief, businessmen and local militia, as well as their families, of Phnom Srok between 17 and 20 April 1975); Further Submission from the International Commission of Jurists under Commission on Human Rights Decision 9 (XXXIV) (ECOSOC), E3/3327, 25 January 1979, p. 2, ERN (En) 00075939.

---

<sup>13386</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/10, September-October 1976, pp. 29-30, ERN (En) 00450529-00450530.

<sup>13387</sup> See above, Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, para. 3860.

<sup>13388</sup> IENG Sary Interview with Elizabeth BECKER, E3/94, 22 July 1981, ERN (En) 00342504 (“In 1976, then we began to divide the people. [...] As chairman, Pol Pot summed it up collectively. At that time we divided it up: 1) people of the base 2) poor people from the cities 3) people who supported Lon Nol.”).

<sup>13389</sup> See e.g., T. 22 October 2012 (CHUM Sokha), E1/136.1, pp. 39-40 (Southwest Zone); T. 5 December 2012 (PECH Srey Phal), E1/148.1, p. 22 (Phnom Penh); T. 7 February 2013 (PIN Yathay), E1/170.1, p. 23 (Phnom Penh); T. 30 May 2013 (NOU Hoan), E1/199.1, pp. 25-26 (Phnom Penh); T. 2 July 2013 (LEV Lam), E1/216.1, pp. 24-26 (West Zone); T. 26 January 2015 (CHOU Koemlan), E1/252.1, p. 79 (Southwest Zone); T. 7 May 2015 (EK Hoeun), E1/298.1, pp. 34-35 (Southwest Zone); T. 19 May 2015 (OR Ho), E1/301.1, pp. 18-19 (Old North Zone); T. 11 June 2015 (KEO Kin), E1/314.1, pp. 46-47 (Old North Zone); T. 24 June 2015 (CHUM Samoeurn), E1/321.1, p. 75 (Southwest Zone); T. 11 August 2015 (LAT Suoy), E1/328.1, pp. 53-54 (Northwest Zone); T. 17 August 2015 (CHHUM Seng), E1/331.1, pp. 66-67 (Northwest Zone). See also, T. 16 December 2015 (PAK Sok), E1/369.1, pp. 59-60 (CPK cadre were also required regularly to draft biographies to separate those with connections to the Khmer Republic).

They were induced to reveal their backgrounds under the pretext that they would meet NORODOM Sihanouk,<sup>13390</sup> be sent for education or to meet Angkar,<sup>13391</sup> or returned to their previous professions.<sup>13392</sup> 4045. With specific regard to former Khmer Republic soldiers, Expert David CHANDLER opined that the imprisonment and execution of this group continued throughout the DK regime, despite the “formal” cessation of a directed CPK campaign of persecution against republican soldiers in mid-1975.<sup>13393</sup> Expert Philip SHORT concluded that “soldiers above a certain rank” and “high officials [...] were executed”, adding that there is “abundant testimony” to that effect in his research and experience.<sup>13394</sup> Contrary to large numbers of former civil servants, who were able to dissimulate their identities throughout the DK period, it was Philip SHORT’s view that the execution of former soldiers was “systematic” and formed part of a nationwide pattern.<sup>13395</sup> As illustrated below in Section 16.4.3.4.2, David CHANDLER and Philip SHORT’s findings were consistent with the evidence before the Chamber in both trial segments of Case 002.

4046. Reports of adverse treatment toward Khmer Republic officials continued from mid-1975 through 1976.<sup>13396</sup> Disappearances, arrests and/or executions of ranking

<sup>13390</sup> See e.g., T. 6 December 2012 (HUN Chhunly), E1/149.1, pp. 45-47; T. 30 April 2013 (UNG Chhat), E1/186.1, pp. 3-4; T. 13 October 2016 (CHEAL Choeun), E1/483.1, pp. 119-122; T. 17 October 2016 (CHEAL Choeun), E1/484.1, p. 8 (stating that they were all killed).

<sup>13391</sup> See e.g., T. 30 April 2013 (UNG Chhat), E1/186.1, p. 4; T. 3 May 2013 (LIM Sat), E1/188.1, pp. 10-11; T. 4 July 2013 (SUM Alat), E1/218.1, p. 20 (soldiers were promised that they would “meet Angkar”); T. 16 September 2016 (MOM Vun), E1/475.1, pp. 46, 75-76. See also, T. 11 July 2013 (Stephen HEDER), E1/222.1, pp. 32-33 affirming Report by S. Heder and M. Matsushita: Interviews with Kampuchean Refugees at Thai-Cambodian Border, E3/1714, February-March 1980, ERN (En) 00170737 (“The method of arrest is always to call someone in for study sessions. [...] The same method was used against Lon Nol officers in 1975. They were asked to go meet [Angkar] voluntarily and offered forgiveness but then just taken away and executed.”).

<sup>13392</sup> See e.g., T. 5 December 2012 (PECH Srey Phal), E1/148.1, p. 22; T. 10 November 2016 (OU Dav), E1/498.1, pp. 80-81; T. 24 October 2012 (LAY Bony), E1/138.1, pp. 27-28; T. 2 September 2015 (MEAN Loeuy), E1/340.1, pp. 60-61; T. 25 August 2016 (YOS Phal), E1/464.1, pp. 43-44. See also, T. 10 April 2013 (François PONCHAUD), E1/179.1, pp. 28-29 (“Angkar was very good at telling lies. [...] Angkar told those people to write down their names on the board. Those who wrote their names were promised some jobs. Angkar cheated them and Angkar killed them.”).

<sup>13393</sup> T. 20 July 2012 (David CHANDLER), E1/93.1, pp. 8-9.

<sup>13394</sup> T. 8 May 2013 (Philip SHORT), E1/191.1, pp. 94-95.

<sup>13395</sup> T. 7 May 2013 (Philip SHORT), E1/190.1, pp. 87-88.

<sup>13396</sup> See e.g., PRUM Sarun Interview Record, E3/5187, 18 June 2008, p. 4, ERN (En) 00274179 (“[D]uring those times [in 1976] the Khmer Rouge gathered up the families of Lon Nol soldiers and took them to live at the Au Pongmoan base [Battambang]. [...] They asked around looking for high ranking soldiers to take them and kill them.”); SENG Srun Interview Record, E3/1692, 11 August 2008, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 00242085-00242086 (in early 1976, soldiers were arrested and detained); AP Chroeng Interview Record, E3/9788, 27 March 2015, E3/9788, p. 11, ERN (En) 01092984 (“The killing of LON

Khmer Republic officials intensified in 1977,<sup>13397</sup> and continued throughout 1978.<sup>13398</sup>

Nol soldiers [in 1976 or 1977 was] carried out by a different unit. [...] My uncle, cousins and other relatives who were soldiers under [the] LON Nol regime were brought to be killed at Kandieng district. They were transported in a convoy of vehicles to be killed there.”); U.S. State Department Telegram, Subject: Life Inside Cambodia, E3/3559, 31 March 1976, pp. 3, 23-24, ERN (En) 00443063, 00443065, 00443085-00443086 (refugees from Cambodian provinces close to the Thai border reported executions of teachers, students and low-ranking LON Nol soldiers since 1 January 1976); U.S. National Security Council Memorandum, Subject: Assessment of Developments in Indochina Since the End of the War, E3/3472, 15 July 1976, p. 24, ERN (En) 00443170 (reporting that, since 1 January 1976, the Khmer Rouge executed former teachers, students and low-ranking enlisted men of the Khmer Republic army); Submission from Amnesty International under Commission on Human Rights Decision 9 (XXXIV) (ECOSOC), E3/4521, 15 August 1978, ERN (En) 00076003-00076004 (reports of summary executions of many people because of their position under the former administration and in some cases, relatives of those regarded as traitors or enemies, who were also executed. Many refugees alleged that large-scale summary executions of officers of the former republican army occurred in 1975 and early 1976, sometimes involving their family dependents. They were either executed or taken away and never heard of again.).

<sup>13397</sup> See e.g., T. 14 January 2016 (YOU Vann), E1/376.1, pp. 64-65 (“[W]e needed to record the number of soldiers from the old regimes in each village. [...] [I]f that family had soldiers’ member [sic] and then we recorded only the parents. If we identified that that person was the soldier and we recorded only that individual as a soldier and his wife.”); T. 1 March 2016 (SIENG Chanthy), E1/394.1, pp. 27-28 (regarding the disappearance of her brothers in 1977 in the East Zone, the Civil Party stated that “of course [their disappearance and deaths were] related [to their former professions] because [the Khmer Rouge] knew that my brother had been a policeman and that the other brother had been a soldier.”); T. 24 October 2016 (PREAP Sokhoeurn), E1/488.1, pp. 20-21 (“From 1975 to 1977, at that time they searched for people with affiliation or tendency to Lon Nol’s government. At the time, my brother named Ol, who was a soldier of [the] Lon Nol regime, was arrested and taken away to be killed. His wife was put in a truck. There were also two other women [...] [whose] husbands were accused of being linked to a network, they were arrested in 1975 or 1976, and in 1977, the wives were also identified, put in a truck and taken away to be killed. [...] [My brother] was searched for and identified as a Lon Nol soldier, and he was arrested and killed. [...] I also heard that my father [was] taken away to be killed.”); CHAN Sokeat Interview Record, E3/5169, 21 April 2008, pp. 5-6, ERN (En) 00250081-00250082 (the “Southwest group” came to “arrest LON Nol soldiers” in 1977 in Svay Rieng and “[s]ome were arrested in 1978”); HUN Sa Interview Record, E3/5228, 19 November 2008, p. 4, ERN (En) 00250274 (after the arrival of the Southwest Zone cadre, witness “personally saw them take those three [Lon Nol soldiers] and shoot them to death”); YANG Sokhom Interview Record, E3/9778, 15 September 2014, pp. 9, 15-16, ERN (En) 01047773, 01047779-01047780 (attendees at district-level meetings in Pursat from mid-1977 were told: “Anyone appearing to be an enemy who raises their head must be swept clean and smashed”, specifically referring to civil servants or soldiers of the Khmer Republic); ORK Chhoem Interview Record, E3/9471, 2 October 2014, pp. 23-24, ERN (En) 01050515-01050516 (referring to the killing of persons in Bakan district before mid-1977, “I heard that [the Khmer Rouge] had received information that those people were former LON Nol government officials.”); CHECH Sopha Interview Record, E3/9831, 13 October 2014, pp. 8-9, ERN (En) 01050625-01050626 (witness’s uncle and relatives who were Khmer Republic soldiers were “taken to be killed” in 1977). See also, T. 11 July 2013 (Stephen HEDER), E1/222.1, pp. 61-62 affirming Paper by S. HEDER: Seven Candidates for Prosecution: Accountability for the Crimes of the Khmer Rouge, E3/48, March 2004, p. 37, ERN (En) 00393523.

<sup>13398</sup> See e.g., CHAN Sokeat Interview Record, E3/5169, 21 April 2008, pp. 5-6, ERN (En) 00250081-00250082 (deposing to the arrest and disappearance of LON Nol soldiers in 1977 and 1978 in Svay Rieng: “their clothes were brought back to the villagers; that made villagers [suspect] that those soldiers had all been killed.”); IM An Interview Record, E3/7737, 17 June 2008, p. 5, ERN (En) 00274161 (in late 1978, Khmer Rouge military cadre went looking for the witness “because they knew I had been a 50 household chief during the Lon Nol Era”); IN Choeun Interview Record, E3/5185, 17 June 2008, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 00274164-00274165 (the witness’s nephew and others were arrested and escorted to Wat Kirirum [Kampong Speu] in 1978, accused “of having been in the Military Police during the Lon Nol regime”); HENG Chuy Interview Record, E3/5215, 9 September 2008, p. 3, ERN (En) 00275443 (In 1978, former soldiers, police and government officials were detained in Siem Reap, later transporting 4047. The CPK actively sought the return of high-ranking “traitors” who had fled the country after 17 April 1975.<sup>13399</sup> Evidence also shows that some lower-ranking officials, non-commissioned soldiers and family members of the former regime who were not executed after 17 April 1975 were interned at security centres or forced to perform manual labour.<sup>13400</sup> The unabating threat of counter-revolutionary rebellion from republican officials nevertheless necessitated the relentless targeting of all officials of the former regime.<sup>13401</sup> Indeed, the Revolutionary Flag, which continued praising the elimination of Khmer Republic officials well into the last days of the DK,<sup>13402</sup> identified that there were between 40,000 and 60,000 “core forces [...] meaning the contemptible [LON] Nol’s group” in 1975, which required “sweeping away” and “smashing”.<sup>13403</sup> them away by truck); CHHIM Srom Interview Record, E3/9827, 11 March 2014, pp. 7-8, ERN (En) 00985094-00985095 (“They killed those who had been involved with the LON Nol government probably in August 1978 at Au Ngang in Trapeang Chong commune [Bakan district], which was a forest. After those people had been killed, I smelled a bad smell from a trench while I was driving a cart to meet my wife. [...] I knew because 28 members of my unit had been killed. All of those 28 people had been former LON Nol soldiers or commandos. [...] I saw flies surrounding the trench, but I did not see the corpses.”); LY Lon Interview Record, E3/9769, 13 May 2014, p. 20, ERN (En) 01034986 (“It was in mid-1978. It was the last time that they killed ex-LON Nol’s soldiers [in Bakan district].”); U.K. Foreign Policy Document No. 25, Human Rights Violations in Democratic Kampuchea, E3/3319, 14 July 1978, ERN (En) 00420644.

---

<sup>13399</sup> See e.g., GRUNK Mission in Paris Communiqué, E3/1352, 28 March 1975, p. 1, ERN (En) 00488015 (reminding the international community that SOSTHÈNE Fernandez, who had fled to France, remained one of the traitors sentenced by the “National Congress” and encouraging all people to support the declaration thereof); French Foreign Ministry Memo, Subject: Cambodian Review (September 1976), E3/491, 15 October 1976, p. 4, ERN (En) 00525814 (DK authorities repeatedly requested the Thais to hand over Cambodian refugees particularly close to the LON Nol regime including General SEK Sam Siet, Col. KETH Reth, Col. CHOU Deth and former Minister of Justice, BAN Sang).

<sup>13400</sup> See e.g., T. 6 December 2012 (HUN Chhunly), E1/149.1, pp. 39-40 (“As for the lower-rank soldiers below Major Lieutenant, they were transported by truck toward Pailin [...] they were ordered to farm the land near Ou Pong Moan.”); T. 26 January 2015 (CHOU Koemlan), E1/252.1, p. 59 (stating that workers were accused of being lazy and threatened with execution); T. 20 August 2015 (TAK Boy), E1/334.1, p. 5 (he and former soldiers were transferred to a place west of Nam Tau to clear the forest for seven months); BUN Sat Interview Record, 5 May 2008, E3/7709, p. 4, ERN (En) 00243278 (Chheu Teal pagoda was a detention centre of about 700 youths, consisting of students, soldiers or teachers of the LON Nol regime).

<sup>13401</sup> See above, fn. 13382.

<sup>13402</sup> See e.g., Revolutionary Flag, E3/747, August 1978, pp. 19-20, ERN (En) 00499784-00499785 (“In just one month, our Party liberated 70-75 percent of the villages and subdistricts throughout the country. With a little more time, the revolutionary movement would certainly have completely swept clean the contemptible Lon Nol traitors, and none would have remained.” [emphasis added]). See above, Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, para. 3847.

<sup>13403</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/5, August 1975, pp. 21-22, ERN (En) 00401496-004014967 (“However, the Party’s analysis was that the enemy situation had the American imperialists and the Thieu [Ky] group, but their core forces were the traitors in Kampuchea, meaning the contemptible Nol’s group. [...] Despite the fact that at the time militarily we were few and there were more than 40,000 of the enemy, and including the royal police, there were more than 60,000 of them. This was the army. As for the militia and the village defence forces, there were many more tens of thousands, many hundreds of thousands.

4048. Telegrams before the Chamber demonstrate that the arrest of Khmer Republic officials was routinely reported to POL Pot, NUON Chea, IENG Sary, VORN Vet and Office 870 throughout 1976 and 1977.<sup>13404</sup> As the nominal heads of state in 1976 and 1977, GRUNK Prime Minister PENN Nouth and subsequently-appointed President of the State Presidium KHIEU Samphan were forwarded letters of concern by Amnesty International, noting refugee reports of summary executions of civilians and Khmer Republic soldiers, and requesting that inquiries be made.<sup>13405</sup> Having not received a response, Amnesty International renewed its appeal in May 1978, this time joined by the UN Commission on Human Rights.<sup>13406</sup>

4049. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber is satisfied that a policy broadly targeting former Khmer Republic officials for adverse treatment existed throughout the DK period which was implemented by the Party's entire administrative network of zone, sector, district and local-level secretaries, CPK cadres and RAK forces. The Chamber now turns to examine the scope of this policy and the crimes encompassed by the common purpose.

16.4.3.4.2. Criminality of policy

4050. As limited to Case 002/02, the Chamber is seised of facts relevant to the implementation of this policy through a joint criminal enterprise at Tram Kak Cooperatives, Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, 1st January Dam Worksite, and S-21

---

As for us, we had at the most companies, but after several months of fighting and sweeping them away, the enemy was smashed.”)

<sup>13404</sup> See e.g., DK Telegram, E3/511 [E3/952], 2 April 1976, ERN (En) 00182658 (KE Pauk reporting to POL Pot, NUON Chea, SON Sen and Office 870 on the enemy situation in the North Zone, including former soldiers posting pictures of LON Nol and his announcement of 18 March 1970); DK Telegram, E3/1144, 5 September 1977, ERN (En) 00517923-00517924 (Sector 801 reported to POL Pot, NUON Chea, IENG Sary, VORN Vet and SON Sen that former officials, police and soldiers had been identified and only a few remained undercover); DK Telegram, E3/996 [E3/995], 19 March 1978, pp. 1-2, ERN (En) 00436995-00436996 (North Zone Secretary reporting to POL Pot, NUON Chea, IENG Sary, VORN Vet and Office 870 that “enemies contacted with the former policemen, sold[i]ers and government officials. They mingled themselves as the ‘New People’. After they acted against us, we knew them clearly and we systematically purged them. Right now, some police men, soldiers and government officials escaped after more than 20 people were purged. More actions will be taken to arrest more people.”); DK Report, E3/1094, 4 August 1978, ERN (En) 00315368 (West Zone monthly report to “Angkar” noting the “screening out” of enemy elements “from various units and [the] military [including] the elements of the 17 April including former civil servants”). See also, DK Report, E3/4103, 11 April 1977, p. 4, ERN (En) 00322133; DK Report, E3/2450, 17-19 September 1977, pp. 1-3, ERN (En) 00322161-00322163.

<sup>13405</sup> Amnesty International Report 1975-1976, E3/4520, May 1976, ERN (En) 00002901; Amnesty International Letter to KHIEU Samphan, E3/3864, 28 February 1977, ERN (En) 00498337-00498338.

<sup>13406</sup> Cambodians: An Endangered Species (Los Angeles Times), E3/4492, 7 May 1978, ERN (En) 00445239. See also, Amnesty International Press Release, E3/3311, 8 May 1977, ERN (En) 00419521.

Security Centre.<sup>13407</sup> For the reasons outlined below, the Chamber finds that the policy targeting former Khmer Republic officials for adverse treatment involved the commission of crimes which were encompassed by the common purpose.

4051. Murder – The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of murder was established with respect to former Khmer Republic officials at S-21 and Kraing Ta Chan Security Centres in the aftermath of 17 April 1975.<sup>13408</sup> It recalls that the execution of members of this group after liberation is reflective of Duch’s testimony that they had become “key enemies” after 17 April 1975, resulting in them being “hunted down” by authorities. Although he did not provide a precise timeframe, the Chamber’s findings correspond to Duch’s assertion that the most serious category of “[p]eople in Lon Nol’s regime” were “smashed secretly”.<sup>13409</sup> These findings further align with IENG Sary’s statement that the decision “to do whatever had to be done” had been made in the days following liberation – around 20 April – in order to make it impossible for republican forces to stage a counter-revolutionary comeback.<sup>13410</sup> The timing and scale of the arrests and executions in Tram Kak district further mirrors the events at Tuol Po Chrey.<sup>13411</sup>

4052. ROCHOEM Ton alias PHY Phuon’s evidence directly contradicted the notion of a clear policy to kill Khmer Republic soldiers.<sup>13412</sup> The Chamber notes that the witness was uniquely placed alongside the CPK leadership in Phnom Penh from 20 April 1975; a point at which the city had largely been swept clean of its resident population, including Khmer Republic defenders. It is not clear from his evidence whether the witness actually saw any republican officials including soldiers after his arrival in the capital.<sup>13413</sup> He was further not in a position to testify about events outside of Phnom Penh in the aftermath of liberation. The Chamber finds that POL Pot’s alleged

<sup>13407</sup> See above, para. 3728.

<sup>13408</sup> Sections 12.2.18: S-21 Security Centre: Former Khmer Republic Officials (see also, Section 12.2.24.1.1: Legal Findings: Murder); Section 12.3.12.1: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings: Murder.

<sup>13409</sup> Case 001 Transcript (KAING Guek Eav), E3/345, 18 May 2009, p. 10, ERN (En) 00328454.

<sup>13410</sup> See above, para. 4034.

<sup>13411</sup> See above, para. 4036.

<sup>13412</sup> See above, para. 4035.

<sup>13413</sup> T. 30 July 2012 (ROCHOEM Ton alias PHY Phuon), E1/98.1, p. 87 (stating that he did not see any more “enemies” after the evacuation of Phnom Penh; most likely a reference to KGB and CIA agents).

order not to harm republican soldiers, as described by ROCHOEM Ton alias PHY Phuon, was not reflective of actual events on the ground after 20 April 1975.

4053. In any event, the Chamber accepts IENG Sary's assertion that the CPK leadership's "decision to kill" was formalised on or about 20 April 1975 in an attempt to prevent a counter-revolution, and that the decision was accordingly implemented in a systematic fashion – including at the Tram Kak Cooperatives and Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre. The Chamber finds that the policy targeting all former Khmer Republic officials for execution from 20 April 1975 was implemented in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a "great leap forward" in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and transform the population into a homogeneous Khmer society of worker-peasants.

4054. The brief departure from this policy in late May 1975 is extensively corroborated. Several witnesses recalled mass rallies and political training sessions in May 1975 in Phnom Penh, attended by senior leaders including POL Pot, NUON Chea and KHIEU Samphan,<sup>13414</sup> at which SON Sen spoke about the need to "find", "screen" and "sort" soldiers affiliated with the LON Nol government. These accounts were corroborated by HENG Samrin's detailed recollection that the CPK leadership did not instruct cadre to kill at the May 1975 mass rallies, but rather directed that republican leaders be prevented from "remain[ing] in the framework".<sup>13415</sup> The Chamber has found that, consistently with this evidence, instructions were indeed issued in Tram Kak district to not harm former Khmer Republic soldiers, including those above the rank of second lieutenant to colonel.<sup>13416</sup> The Chamber is satisfied that the directive to not harm high-ranking Khmer Republic soldiers was issued by the CPK leadership during rallies held in Phnom Penh in late May 1975.

4055. The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of murder was established with respect to formerly ranking Khmer Republic officials at S-21 Security Centre (from October 1975)<sup>13417</sup> and Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre (from April

<sup>13414</sup> See above, para. 3736.

<sup>13415</sup> See above, fn. 13377.

<sup>13416</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 967. See also, Section 10.1.6.3: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Instructions in relation to Evacuees and former Khmer Republic Soldiers and Officials.

<sup>13417</sup> Section 12.2.24.1.1: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings: Murder. The earliest recorded execution of Khmer Republic elements was in October 1975. See Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2488.

1977).<sup>13418</sup> It has specifically found that ranking officers and civil servants were arrested and executed at S-21 from as early as October 1975, and that this continued throughout the security centre's operations, peaking in 1976.<sup>13419</sup> At Kraing Ta Chan, republican officials and soldiers were targeted for arrest from April and May 1977.<sup>13420</sup> In particular, former soldiers were kept at Kraing Ta Chan for no longer than one week before being executed, while "high ranking" officers – including those with the rank of first and second lieutenant – were kept outside the detention facility and marched directly to the killing site without being detained or interrogated.<sup>13421</sup>

4056. Consistently with the general nationwide pattern of executions of high-ranking republican soldiers and officials in 1976, 1977 and 1978,<sup>13422</sup> the Chamber finds that the policy targeting this group for adverse treatment had as its objective their execution from October 1975 and that this continued throughout the remainder of the DK period. It is satisfied that this policy was executed in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a "great leap forward" in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and radically transform the population into a homogeneous society of worker-peasants.

4057. Having established the existence of a policy targeting all Khmer Republic officials for execution from 20 April 1975 to late May 1975, and ranking personnel from October 1975 throughout the remainder of the DK period, the Chamber finds that the crime against humanity of murder, as established during these periods at S-21 and Kraing Ta Chan Security Centres, was encompassed by the common purpose.

4058. Persecution on political grounds – The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of persecution on political grounds was established with respect to former Khmer Republic officials and soldiers throughout the DK period at Tram Kak

<sup>13418</sup> Section 12.3.12.1: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings: Murder (finding that survival was the exception at Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre). See also, Section 12.3.11.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: New People and Former Khmer Republic Officials (finding that Khmer Republic officials and soldiers were sent to Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre from April 1977 in particular).

<sup>13419</sup> Section 12.2.18: S-21 Security Centre: Former Khmer Republic Officials.

<sup>13420</sup> Section 12.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, para. 2840.

<sup>13421</sup> Section 12.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, para. 2840 (see also, Section 12.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: New People and Former Khmer Republic Officials, para. 2801).

<sup>13422</sup> See above, 4046.

Cooperatives, Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, S-21 Security Centre and 1st January Dam.<sup>13423</sup>

4059. In addition to being targeted for execution (as detailed above), the Chamber has found that former Khmer Republic officials and soldiers were variously subject to arrest, detention, torture and disappearances at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, 1st January Dam Worksite and S-21 Security Centre.<sup>13424</sup> The Chamber's findings reflect an intentional and sustained campaign specifically targeting all former republican officials for discrimination at these sites throughout the DK period. Consistently with the widespread pattern of arrests, disappearances and discrimination of former Khmer Republic elements before 17 April 1975,<sup>13425</sup> after liberation in 1975,<sup>13426</sup> 1976, 1977 and 1978,<sup>13427</sup> the Chamber is satisfied that a policy targeting all Khmer Republic officials and their family members for discriminatory treatment existed throughout the DK period, and that this specific intent was shared by direct perpetrators of crimes and JCE participants alike.

4060. The Chamber is satisfied that this policy was implemented in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a “great leap forward” in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies and

<sup>13423</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 1175 (referring to disappearances and executions); Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, para. 1690 (referring to the identification of Khmer Republic soldiers, their arrest and disappearance); Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2601 (referring to arrests, detentions, interrogations, torture and executions); Section 12.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, para. 2813 (referring to arrests, detentions and executions). See also, Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, paras 1666, 1577 (fn. 5375) (referring to the death of former republican civil servants).

<sup>13424</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, paras 1175, 1179 (former Khmer Republic military and police were screened at Champa Pagoda in the aftermath of 17 April 1975, with many having disappeared thereafter. From April and May 1977, former republican soldiers and officials were targeted for arrest and execution). See also, Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 1201 (finding that former soldiers and teachers disappeared in the aftermath of 17 April 1975); Section 11.2.21: 1st January Dam Worksite: Treatment of New People Compared to Old People; Section 11.2.23: 1st January Dam Worksite: Treatment of former Khmer Republic Officials (referring to the identification of this group for arrest and disappearance); Section 11.2.24.3: 1st January Dam Worksite: Legal Findings: Persecution on Political Grounds (ranking soldiers were screened for the purpose of arresting them and many former soldiers disappeared); Section 11.2.24.6: 1st January Dam Worksite: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Conduct Characterised as Enforced Disappearances (generally); Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2599 (referring to the identification, arrest, detention and torture of this group before execution); Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2577; Section 12.2.24.1.5: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings: Torture (generally); Section 12.3.13.6: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings: Torture (generally). For Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, see also, paras 2799 (specifically referring also to the torture of a suspected ranking soldier), 2813 (former Khmer republic soldiers and officials were specifically targeted from April 1977 for arrest, detention and execution).

<sup>13425</sup> See above, para. 4031.

<sup>13426</sup> See above, para. 4041.

<sup>13427</sup> See above, para. 4046.

transform the population into a homogenous society of worker-peasants. The Chamber finds that the crime against humanity of persecution on political grounds, as directed against former Khmer Republic soldiers, officials and their family members throughout the DK period at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, 1st January Dam and S-21 Security Centre, was encompassed by the common purpose.

16.4.3.4.3. Conclusion

4061. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that the policy targeting former Khmer Republic elements for discriminatory treatment was intrinsically linked to the common purpose. The policy involved the commission of the crimes against humanity of murder (from 20 April 1975 to late May 1975, and from October 1975 to 6 January 1979) and persecution on political grounds (throughout the DK period) as a means of achieving the common purpose, thereby rendering it criminal in character.

16.4.4. Regulation of Marriage

4062. The Closing Order charges the existence of a policy by CPK leaders to regulate marriage.<sup>13428</sup> According to the Closing Order, the CPK intended to reconstruct the concept of marriage in order to regulate sexual relations, replace the role of parents in the selection of a suitable spouse, force couples to marry and encourage the production of children to increase the country's population to 20 million within 10 to 15 years.<sup>13429</sup> The Parties' submissions with regard to this policy have been addressed in Section 14: Regulation of Marriage.

16.4.4.1. Existence of policy

4063. The existence of a policy to regulate family-building and marriage from as early as 1974, which was implemented nationwide by the Party's entire administrative network of zone, sector, district and local-level secretaries, CPK cadres and RAK forces, has been established above in Section 14: Regulation of Marriage.<sup>13430</sup> The Chamber now turns to examine the scope of this policy and the crimes encompassed by the common purpose.

<sup>13428</sup> See above, para. 3728.

<sup>13429</sup> Closing Order, paras 216-218.

<sup>13430</sup> See also, Section 3.5: Historical Background: Marriage in Cambodia before 1975.

16.4.4.2. Criminality of policy

4064. As limited to Case 002/02, the Chamber is seised of facts relevant to the nationwide implementation of this policy through a joint criminal enterprise,<sup>13431</sup> as well as specifically at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, 1st January Dam and Trapeang Thma Dam.<sup>13432</sup> For the reasons outlined below, the Chamber finds that the policy to regulate family-building and marriage involved the commission of crimes which were encompassed by the common purpose.

4065. Other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced marriage and rape in the context of forced marriage – The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts was established through conduct characterised as forced marriage and rape in the context of forced marriage.<sup>13433</sup> It has determined that the CPK implemented this policy in accordance with its desire to increase the country's population within 10 to 15 years.<sup>13434</sup> In so doing, the CPK actively sought to supplant the traditional institution of marriage with a regime – implemented by local authorities in accordance with directives of the Party Centre – of arbitrary pairing largely devoid of individual or familial input.<sup>13435</sup> Weddings ceremonies were stripped of their ceremonial character, couples were required to pledge their commitment to Angkar to produce children, to strive to work hard to build the country, to work hard to increase rice production or to adhere to DK policies. Policy announcements including the need to increase the population and to work hard for the CPK in order to achieve work plans set by Angkar were frequently announced by Party officials during ceremonies.<sup>13436</sup> Newly-wedded couples were coerced into marriage and its consummation to fulfil the will of Angkar and produce children for the revolution to build and defend the country against enemies.<sup>13437</sup> Failure to comply led to the fear of being reported, beaten or

---

<sup>13431</sup> See above, para. 3728.

<sup>13432</sup> Section 14.3.11: Regulation of Marriage: Findings on Specifically Charged Crime Sites.

<sup>13433</sup> Section 14.4.1: Regulation of Marriage: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Conduct Characterised as Forced Marriage; Section 14.4.2: Regulation of Marriage: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Conduct Characterised as Rape in the Context of Forced Marriage.

<sup>13434</sup> Section 14.3.2.2: Regulation of Marriage: Objectives of Policy to Regulate Marriage.

<sup>13435</sup> Sections 14.3.4-14.3.6: Regulation of Marriage.

<sup>13436</sup> Section 14.3.7: Regulation of Marriage: Wedding Ceremonies.

<sup>13437</sup> Section 14: Regulation of Marriage, para. 3646.

abused by one's spouse or CPK authorities, being sent for re-education or taken away and killed.<sup>13438</sup>

4066. The Chamber finds that marriages were forcibly arranged and their consummation enforced for the purpose of increasing DK's population, and that this was implemented in furtherance of the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution through a "great leap forward" in order to, among other things, build the country, defend it against enemies and radically transform society. Having found that the CPK considered Vietnam to be the "eternal" enemy and most serious threat to the continued existence of DK,<sup>13439</sup> the Chamber is further satisfied that the primary enemy against which this policy was designed to defend in the medium to long term was, in fact, the Vietnamese. The Chamber finds that the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced marriage and rape in the context of forced marriage, as established by the Chamber, was encompassed by the common purpose.

16.4.4.3. Conclusion

4067. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that the policy to regulate marriage and family-building was intrinsically linked to the common purpose. The policy involved the commission of the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced marriage and rape in the context of forced marriage, as a means of achieving the common purpose, thereby rendering it criminal in character.

16.4.5. Legal Findings

4068. Having reviewed the totality of the evidence, the Chamber is satisfied that by 17 April 1975, and continuing until at least 6 January 1979, senior CPK leaders shared the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution in Cambodia through a "great leap forward" designed to build the country, defend it from enemies and radically transform the population into an atheistic and homogenous Khmer society of worker-peasants. The common purpose was implemented across DK by the Party's entire administrative network of zone, sector, district and local-level secretaries, CPK cadres and RAK forces through the execution of at least five policies. The Chamber has found that these policies were intrinsically linked to the common purpose and involved the commission of crimes. The Chamber therefore finds that the common purpose was itself criminal in character. The NUON Chea Defence's submission to the contrary is accordingly rejected.

---

<sup>13438</sup> Section 14.4.2: Regulation of Marriage: Legal Findings: Other Inhumane Acts through Conduct Characterised as Rape in the Context of Forced Marriage.

<sup>13439</sup> Section 13.3.5.2: Treatment of the Vietnamese: Evidence of a Policy Targeting the Vietnamese. See above, Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, paras 3843, 3853.

4069. As demonstrated in Sections 16.2 to 16.4 above, the common purpose was shared by a plurality of persons including the senior leadership consisting of POL Pot, NUON Chea, KHIEU Samphan, IENG Sary, IENG Thirith, SON Sen and VORN Vet (until his arrest in late 1978), as well as zone secretaries including Ta Mok, KE Pauk, KOY Thuon (until his house arrest in mid-1976), CHOU Chet (until his arrest in March 1978), RUOS Nhim (until his arrest in May-June 1978) and SAO Phim (until his suicide in June 1978).

4070. As discussed in detail in Sections 10-14 of this Judgement, senior CPK leaders personally oversaw the implementation of the various policies. As the nominal head of state, KHIEU Samphan promoted the common purpose and encouraged the masses on its implementation through the policies. NUON Chea and SON Sen maintained direct leadership over S-21 Security Centre, personally instructed KAING Guek Eav alias Duch on its operations and ordered the execution of prisoners. As the Chairman of the General Staff, SON Sen held overall authority for Au Kanseng Security Centre, which was administered by Centre Military Division 801, and routinely channelled information about its operations – including the execution of over 100 Jarai prisoners – to the Party Centre. NUON Chea and POL Pot personally furnished instructions to the Sector 105 Secretary, who oversaw Phnom Kraol Security Centre and ensured that the directions from the upper echelon was implemented throughout the Autonomous Sector. As the Southwest Zone Secretary, Ta Mok was involved in the extensive flow of execution reports between Sector 13, which directly administered Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, and the Zone.

4071. Ta Mok also maintained ongoing involvement with the events in Tram Kak district, personally visiting the Tram Kak Cooperatives and instructing Sector 13 cadres on the implementation of the Party's economic policy thereat. KE Pauk was responsible for the construction of the 1st January Dam and reported on its construction to Office

870. Northwest Zone Secretary RUOS Nhim often visited Trapeang Thma Dam, provided detailed reports about living and working conditions in the Zone to Office 870 and directly oversaw the Sector 5 Committee which was responsible for the Dam's construction. Kampong Chhnang Airfield was under the supervision of RAK Division 502, whose commander SOU Met regularly visited the Airfield, passed instructions to cadres supervising the Airfield, reported to SON Sen and had regular contact with Duch and SON Sen in relation to the transfer of prisoners to S-21 Security Centre. In addition, KE Pauk oversaw Sector 41 of the Central (old North) Zone at the time of mass purges by Southwest Zone cadres and was responsible for the genocide of Cham populations in that sector.

4072. SAO Phim was involved in the suppression of the October 1975 Cham rebellion, directly oversaw the destruction of Vietnamese and Cham communities through genocidal means in Sectors 20, 21, 22, 23 and 24 of the East Zone, and was replaced as zone secretary by SON Sen after his death in mid-1978. Finally, instructions to arrange marriages were funnelled down the entire CPK hierarchy from POL Pot, through sector secretaries and to lower-level committees.

4073. The Chamber finds that the above-named JCE participants used direct perpetrators to commit the crimes involved in the furtherance of the common purpose. By designing, implementing, controlling and contributing to the five policies, and by their overall positions of authority in DK, the above JCE participants are responsible for the crimes established in Case 002/02.

4074. Having established that NUON Chea and KHIEU Samphan shared the common purpose of other JCE members, the Chamber now turns to assess the degree to which they participated in the common purpose and whether such contribution was significant to the commission of crimes encompassed thereby.

17. THE CRIMINAL RESPONSIBILITY OF NUON CHEA

4075. As limited to Case 002/02, the Closing Order charges NUON Chea with the commission of crimes against humanity, grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions and genocide by killing members of the Vietnamese and Cham populations through a joint criminal enterprise in its basic form.<sup>13440</sup> In addition, it charges NUON Chea with the crimes underlying these charges under the modes of liability of planning, instigating, ordering, aiding and abetting, and, in the alternative, superior responsibility.<sup>13441</sup>

4076. The NUON Chea Defence makes the general submission that “the evidence demonstrates that key constitutive elements of the modes of liability charged against him – in particular, the primary mode of liability of JCE I – have not been proven beyond reasonable doubt”.<sup>13442</sup> The Chamber recalls that it has addressed different elements of this submission in the appropriate parts of this Judgement.<sup>13443</sup>

4077. The assessment of NUON Chea’s criminal responsibility will rest on the Chamber’s assessment of his roles, functions and conduct during the DK period as presented during Case 002. In evaluating the extent of his contemporaneous knowledge of, and contribution to, the commission of crimes and/or intent to commit the crimes charged, the Chamber will consider the totality of NUON Chea’s statements and conduct including, where appropriate, statements made after the fall of the DK.

17.1. Knowledge Relevant to the Modes of Liability

4078. NUON Chea’s knowledge of the policies, patterns of conduct and specific crimes falling within the scope of Case 002/02 is relevant to the Chamber’s assessment of all forms of responsibility,<sup>13444</sup> and will therefore be addressed first. The requisite level of knowledge varies depending on whether the criminal liability of the Accused

<sup>13440</sup> Closing Order, paras 1521-1531, 1532-1533; Case 002 Additional Severance Decision Annex, para. 6(i).

<sup>13441</sup> Closing Order, paras 1543-1560; Case 002 Additional Severance Decision Annex, para. 6(ii).

<sup>13442</sup> NUON Chea Closing Brief, para. 125.

<sup>13443</sup> See e.g., Section 12.1: Internal Factions; Section 16: Common Purpose; Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea.

<sup>13444</sup> For the applicable law on each mode of liability, see Section 15: Applicable Law: Individual Criminal Responsibility.

materialises before, concurrent with or after the commission of the crimes.<sup>13445</sup> Therefore, in this section, the Chamber will examine what NUON Chea knew prior to, concurrent with and after the commission of the crimes falling within the scope of Case 002/02.

4079. NUON Chea made various admissions, outlined below, concerning his general knowledge of the policies and of the crimes being committed by the CPK. Furthermore, throughout the time period relevant to Case 002/02, NUON Chea had access to wide-ranging information concerning the crimes.

17.1.1. Awareness of the Substantial Likelihood of the Commission of Crimes

4080. A strong proponent of waging “class struggle”,<sup>13446</sup> NUON Chea placed himself at the centre of a revolutionary movement that continuously, both before and after 17 April 1975, stratified the population into classes and categorised various groups of people according to different alleged kinds of potential threats they posed, to which it referred as internal and external enemies.<sup>13447</sup> Since the First Party Congress in 1960, NUON Chea was the Deputy Secretary of the Party, and throughout the DK period, he was a full-rights member of both the Standing and Central Committees.<sup>13448</sup> In these capacities, he played a crucial role in designing the Party’s line, which was based on the Marxist-Leninist notion of communist revolution through armed struggle, and formulating the Party’s policies, which entailed that any person or entity not adhering to or threatening the Party line or its policies could be branded an enemy.<sup>13449</sup> Throughout the Party’s existence, NUON Chea also had primary responsibility for propaganda-related matters, through which he kept a tight grip on the CPK’s carefully-crafted narrative. He was a principal author of the Party’s internal educational magazines Revolutionary Flag and Revolutionary Youth, the contents of which were under his ultimate control.<sup>13450</sup> Furthermore, he appeared as the chairman, trainer or

<sup>13445</sup> Section 15: Applicable Law: Individual Criminal Responsibility, paras 3715, 3717, 3719-3720, 3722, 3725.

<sup>13446</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, paras 520-525.

<sup>13447</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3734; Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, paras 3839-3840; Section 17: The Criminal Responsibility of NUON Chea, paras 4127, 4142.

<sup>13448</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, paras 530, 532.

<sup>13449</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3734, 3738; Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, paras 3839-3840, 3845-3846.

<sup>13450</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 545.

speaker at a range of meetings, trainings and study sessions where he promoted the Party line of vigilance and anger against internal and external enemies to lower-level followers.<sup>13451</sup> NUON Chea must have known that such indoctrination to hate would inevitably lead to violence, especially in an environment where pacifist or revisionist tendencies were targeted as enemy behaviour, and violence was an acceptable means to the end of the type of revolution the CPK advocated.<sup>13452</sup> NUON Chea supported the view that the revolution should rely on the peasants of the lowest classes in order to impose on Cambodia the dictatorship of the proletariat. The majority of those belonging to this new ruling class had very little formal education. All were strictly disciplined, indoctrinated, and taught to deceive people and behave in accordance with the principle of secrecy. NUON Chea could not ignore that giving extensive power to these people would lead to unquestioning implementation of the Party line without the exercise of proper judgement.

4081. For this reason, the only reasonable expectation was that creating a nationwide system of cooperatives, worksites, regulated marriages and security centres under the umbrella of the Party's propaganda of vigilance and anger against enemies would lead to mistreatment and death, and that such a system would involve the commission of large numbers of crimes against humanity, war crimes and genocide. The crimes falling within the scope of Case 002/02 formed part of consistent patterns of conduct carried out throughout the country before 17 April 1975 and continuing thereafter.<sup>13453</sup> In view of NUON Chea's access to reports and information concerning the implementation of the common purpose's policies, the Chamber is therefore satisfied that NUON Chea knew of these consistent patterns of conduct before, during and after the crimes falling within the scope of Case 002/02 were committed and of which they formed part.<sup>13454</sup> Furthermore, in engaging in propaganda activities and training cadre on vigilance and anger against enemies, the strict indoctrination of peasants on class struggle, including the identification of Buddhists, the Vietnamese, the Cham and former Khmer Republic

<sup>13451</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, paras 541-542.

<sup>13452</sup> Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, paras 3845 (fn. 12841), 3852, 3854.

<sup>13453</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3733, 3736-3739, 3741-3743, 3872-3918, 3920-3927, 3934-3946, 3974-3986, 3990, 3992-3997, 4000, 4002-4011, 4015-4017, 4019-4021, 4026-4049, 4051-4060, 4063, 4065-4066. See generally, Section 3: Historical Background.

<sup>13454</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3920-3927, 3974-3986, 3990, 4000, 4019-4021, 4051-4060, 4065-4066.

officials and their family members as enemies, NUON Chea knew of the substantial likelihood that crimes against these groups would be committed.

17.1.2. Knowledge Concurrent with the Commission of Crimes

4082. NUON Chea, as CPK Deputy Secretary and as a full-rights member of both the CPK Central Committee and its Standing Committee,<sup>13455</sup> was privy to information which would necessarily have put him on notice, at the time of the crimes, that the charged crimes were being committed.<sup>13456</sup> For instance, NUON Chea met with other CPK senior leaders of the Central Committee in May 1975 at the Silver Pagoda where reasons justifying the evacuations of the cities were provided and priority was given to the need to rapidly build and defend the country through the creation of cooperatives and the construction of dams and canals;<sup>13457</sup> as a Standing Committee member, NUON Chea was aware of the Standing Committee's visit to the Northwest Zone in August 1975 which preceded the Standing Committee's related policy document regarding agriculture;<sup>13458</sup> he was present at the September 1975 Standing Committee meeting discussing defence and industry;<sup>13459</sup> and he was present at the October 1975 Standing Committee meeting assigning governmental responsibilities to POL Pot, NUON Chea, KHIEU Samphan, IENG Sary, KOY Thuon, SON Sen and VORN Vet, among others.<sup>13460</sup> NUON Chea also resided and met informally with other senior Party leaders.<sup>13461</sup> NUON Chea was specifically delegated responsibility for social action policy.<sup>13462</sup> Furthermore, by virtue of his seniority within the leadership of the CPK, NUON Chea had oversight of all Party activities extending beyond the roles and responsibilities formally entrusted to him during the DK period.<sup>13463</sup> NUON Chea's involvement in military and security matters, such as his instructions regarding the conflict with Vietnam, his orders regarding the purges in the East Zone and his

<sup>13455</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, paras 518, 530-533.

<sup>13456</sup> Section 6: Communication Structures, paras 484-493, 508, 510; Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3887-3888, 3911-3912, 4040, 4048.

<sup>13457</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3736.

<sup>13458</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3887-3889.

<sup>13459</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3891.

<sup>13460</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 543; Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3737.

<sup>13461</sup> Section 6: Communication Structures, para. 484; Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 534.

<sup>13462</sup> As well as Party Affairs, Culture, Propaganda and Education policy. See Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 412.

<sup>13463</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 561.

supervision of S-21 Security Centre, demonstrates this.<sup>13464</sup> Accordingly, the Chamber is satisfied that NUON Chea obtained knowledge of the crimes in his capacity as Deputy Secretary, through his membership of the Central and Standing Committees and by virtue of his seniority and responsibilities within the Party.

4083. By virtue of his membership of the Standing Committee, NUON Chea received reports and telegrams from zones and autonomous sectors on a regular basis, in particular on issues that necessitated coordination between various zones.<sup>13465</sup> For example, NUON Chea received a telegram discussing mass transfers of people from Sector 21 in the East Zone to the then North Zone in November 1975.<sup>13466</sup> NUON Chea also received reports and telegrams from military leaders. Numerous surviving telegrams concerning the situation on the battlefields as well as on the border with Vietnam were copied to him.<sup>13467</sup> This includes telegrams sent by East Zone Secretary SAO Phim discussing particular incidents of fighting, shelling, casualties and injuries (suffered by both the DK side and the SRV side),<sup>13468</sup> as well as telegrams sent by Chhean, the DK Ambassador in Hanoi, discussing complaints of acts of aggression committed by DK armed forces on Vietnamese territory.<sup>13469</sup> Moreover, NUON Chea was personally involved in border negotiations with Vietnam in June 1975.<sup>13470</sup> NUON Chea was also present at the Standing Committee meeting on 9 October 1975 during which the reorganisation of the army and the setting up of the General Staff was discussed.<sup>13471</sup> In addition, SON Sen forwarded written messages and reports received from military commanders to other senior CPK leaders, including NUON Chea, with handwritten annotations and requests for instructions.<sup>13472</sup> Accordingly, the Chamber is satisfied that the NUON Chea received detailed information about military matters and the situation on the ground.

4084. In addition to what is discussed above, the Chamber further considers that evidence of NUON Chea's knowledge of crimes at the time of their commission is

---

<sup>13464</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, paras 552-560.

<sup>13465</sup> Section 6: Communication Structures, paras 482-493.

<sup>13466</sup> Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham, para. 3210.

<sup>13467</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 555; Section 4: General Overview, paras 286-291.

<sup>13468</sup> See e.g., Section 4: General Overview (Nature of the Armed Conflict), para. 288 (fn. 760).

<sup>13469</sup> Section 4: General Overview (Nature of the Armed Conflict), para. 286.

<sup>13470</sup> Section 4: General Overview (Nature of the Armed Conflict), paras 283, 339.

<sup>13471</sup> Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 424.

<sup>13472</sup> Section 6: Communication Structures, para. 508.

clearly canvassed through the policies by which the common purpose was implemented.

17.1.2.1. Cooperatives and worksites

4085. The Chamber recalls that NUON Chea was instrumental in developing the policy to establish and operate cooperatives and worksites, and was included in the decision-making process to close markets and in fact create cooperatives and worksites.<sup>13473</sup> In May 1975, NUON Chea was among the senior CPK leaders who instructed CPK cadre in this regard.<sup>13474</sup> Furthermore, NUON Chea was knew that a Standing Committee delegation visited the Northwest Zone in August 1975 and participated in the development of plans and policies reflected in the report of this visit.<sup>13475</sup> NUON Chea was thus closely involved in the Party's efforts to implement a system of cooperatives and worksites from early on during the DK regime, and thus knew first-hand of their existence and the circumstances on the ground.

4086. NUON Chea visited the 1st January Dam Worksite on more than one occasion, personally witnessing the circumstances of the workers at the dam. The Chamber recalls its findings that NUON Chea knew of the lack of food and medicine at the 1st January Dam Worksite.<sup>13476</sup> While the Chamber was unable to establish that NUON Chea visited the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam or Kampong Chhnang Airfield, the Chamber is satisfied that NUON Chea knew of their existence and the circumstances at these locations. In this regard, it recalls that reports were sent to the highest level of the CPK hierarchy, which included NUON Chea, through which it was informed of the difficult regime imposed on workers.<sup>13477</sup> The evidence also shows that at least at one Standing Committee meeting, SON Sen reported to the Standing Committee on the progress of the Kampong Chhnang Airfield construction.<sup>13478</sup> NUON Chea was present at this meeting. NUON Chea also participated in a key Standing Committee meeting held on 30 May 1976, during which POL Pot observed that 30 to

<sup>13473</sup> See below, para. 4121; Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3887-3888.

<sup>13474</sup> See below, para. 4130.

<sup>13475</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3887-3888.

<sup>13476</sup> Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, para. 1634.

<sup>13477</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, paras 856, 876, 897, 924, 979, 1055; Section 11.3: Kampong Chhnang Airfield, para. 1727; Section 11.1: Trapeang Thma Dam, paras 1236, 1238-1253.

<sup>13478</sup> Standing Committee Minutes, E3/222, 15 May 1976, p. 2, ERN (En) 00182666 (NUON Chea and KHIEU Samphan were both present at this meeting).

50 percent of rice production had to be handed over to the State.<sup>13479</sup> NUON Chea thus knew that substantial amounts of food were being extracted from the cooperatives. These visits and briefings provided NUON Chea with knowledge of the reality on the ground at the cooperatives and worksites that were founded pursuant to the CPK's ideological plans that he actively promoted and were operating pursuant to instructions he personally gave or supervised.

4087. NUON Chea's knowledge of the commission of crimes is further shown by his own statements post-DK; the Chamber recalls that NUON Chea later acknowledged that those who joined cooperatives could not leave.<sup>13480</sup>

4088. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber is satisfied that NUON Chea knew of the crimes committed in the course of the policy to establish and operate cooperatives and worksites.

17.1.2.2. Security centres, execution sites and internal purges

4089. NUON Chea actively engaged in disseminating the CPK's message of vigilance and anger regarding enemies through his role in propaganda and education, which included his role as one of the principal authors of the CPK's educational magazine, the Revolutionary Flag.<sup>13481</sup> Throughout the DK era, NUON Chea conducted study sessions in Phnom Penh, including with cadres who were being relocated to other areas of the country in light of purges. For instance, a group of Southwest Zone cadre sent by Ta Mok to the Northwest Zone stopped in Phnom Penh for a meeting with NUON Chea and were lectured by NUON Chea on there being traitors in the Northwest Zone.<sup>13482</sup> Moreover, NUON Chea was continuously kept abreast of enemy activity through meetings, reports and telegrams.<sup>13483</sup> For instance, enemy activity was discussed during <sup>13479</sup> Standing Committee Minutes, E3/224, 30 May 1976, p. 2, ERN (En) 00182668. See also, Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 968; Section 16: Common Purpose, fn. 13066.

<sup>13480</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3885. See also, T. 31 January 2012 (Accused NUON Chea), E1/36.1, pp. 24-25 ("Q. [...] Mr Nuon Chea, can you please tell the Chamber if those who were living in the cooperatives, [...] had the choice to leave the cooperatives and settle elsewhere? A. If they were to live in the cooperatives they could not go anywhere else. They would stay and lived [sic] and worked in the cooperative.").

<sup>13481</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 545; Section 6: Communication Structures, para. 476.

<sup>13482</sup> Section 12.1: Internal Factions, para. 1953.

<sup>13483</sup> Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, paras 3760, 3764, 3769-3770, 3775, 3779, 3809. See also, Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham, para. 3202.

the Standing Committee's visit to the Northwest Zone in August 1975,<sup>13484</sup> in relation to which the Chamber has found that NUON Chea was aware that a Standing Committee delegation visited the Northwest Zone in August 1975 and participated in the development of plans and policies reflected in the report of this visit.<sup>13485</sup> Enemy activity was further discussed during numerous Standing Committee meetings, including those held on 9 October 1975, 9 January 1976, 8 March 1976 and 11 March 1976,<sup>13486</sup> all of which were attended by NUON Chea. NUON Chea also received telegrams in relation to purges and the conflict with Vietnam, reporting enemy activity and incidents, including killings, to him and other senior CPK leaders.<sup>13487</sup> 4090. Regarding S-21 Security Centre, the Chamber recalls its legal finding that NUON Chea acted with the direct intent to commit murder as crime against humanity at S-21.<sup>13488</sup> The Chamber similarly recalls its legal finding that NUON Chea acted with the direct intent to kill on a mass scale, and thus committed extermination as a crime against humanity at S-21.<sup>13489</sup> Thus, NUON Chea's knowledge with respect to these crimes has been established.

4091. NUON Chea was also informed about torture being used at S-21 to extract confessions.<sup>13490</sup> Moreover, NUON Chea received reports from Duch detailing the mental and physical abuse inflicted upon S-21 prisoners.<sup>13491</sup> NUON Chea's contemporaneous knowledge of the commission of crimes is further shown by his own statements post-DK. NUON Chea admitted in a video recorded interview with THET Sambath that he read confessions, stating he did so to use their contents for educational purposes.<sup>13492</sup> In another video of a THET Sambath interview, NUON Chea said:

They weren't party cadres anymore because they had betrayed us. They were agents for foreigners. These people were killed. It was Pol Pot who made the final decision to kill. As for innocent people's deaths, neither Pol Pot nor I knew too much. We only knew about the

<sup>13484</sup> Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, para. 3754.

<sup>13485</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3888.

<sup>13486</sup> Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, paras 3760, 3764, 3769-3770.

<sup>13487</sup> See e.g., Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, paras 3779, 3809; Section 13.2: Treatment of the Vietnamese, paras 3408-3410; Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham, para. 3202; Section 4: General Overview, paras 282-294.

<sup>13488</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2563.

<sup>13489</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2571.

<sup>13490</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2589.

<sup>13491</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2379, 2412, 2589.

<sup>13492</sup> NUON Chea Interview by THET Sambath, E3/7209R, undated, ERN V00717048 (titled "on Confessions").

ex-cadres' deaths because Pol Pot decided to kill them. So obviously we knew.<sup>13493</sup>

4092. In a similar recording, NUON Chea further explained his motivations as follows:

If those individuals had been left alive, we would have lost our country and our people. We would have no Cambodia today. I have feelings for both the nation and the individual. But I will always put the needs of the nation before those of the individual. An individual's needs can be met later. But if the individual becomes a problem, then they must be solved.

When then asked by THET Sambath: "Are you sorry for those who were killed?", NUON Chea answered: "I have no regrets".<sup>13494</sup>

4093. NUON Chea further said that those who would not stop their traitorous activities after re-education and warnings would be killed: "If they still could not be corrected they had to be solved. [...] They were killed and destroyed."<sup>13495</sup> NUON Chea continued that if they had spared these people they would have harmed the Party line. When asked by THET Sambath what he thought of POL Pot's decision to kill traitors, NUON Chea responded that at the time he agreed and just wanted the problem solved.<sup>13496</sup> When THET Sambath suggested that traitors could also have been imprisoned, NUON Chea said: "That's a matter of opinion".<sup>13497</sup>

4094. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber thus finds that NUON Chea had contemporaneous knowledge of the crimes being committed in relation to the policy of setting up the security centres and execution sites.

17.1.2.3. Targeting of specific groups

17.1.2.3.1. Cham

4095. The Chamber recalls its finding that the CPK specifically targeted the Cham

<sup>13493</sup> NUON Chea Interview by THET Sambath, E3/7209R, undated, ERN V00717048 (titled "on Innocent Deaths").

<sup>13494</sup> NUON Chea Interview by THET Sambath, E3/7209R, undated, ERN V00717048 (titled "on the Nation").

<sup>13495</sup> Documentary by THET S.: Enemies of the People, E3/4001R, ERN V00800935, 00:48:00-00:48:45.

<sup>13496</sup> Documentary by THET S.: Enemies of the People, E3/4001R, ERN V00800935, 00:49:00-00:49:10.

<sup>13497</sup> Documentary by THET S.: Enemies of the People, E3/4001R, ERN V00800935, 00:49:10-00:49:19.

throughout the DK period as part of a policy which evolved over time.<sup>13498</sup> In addition, the Chamber notes that it was satisfied that the CPK imposed restrictions that were discriminatory in fact and deliberately perpetrated with the intent to discriminate against the Cham because of their religious and cultural practices.<sup>13499</sup> The Chamber also recalls its findings that NUON Chea played a key role in designing the CPK's policies.

4096. After the September 1975 Koh Phal and October 1975 Svay Khleang rebellions, in a telegram dated 30 November 1975, SAO Phim reported to POL Pot, with NUON Chea in copy, on mass transfers of Cham from the East Zone, Sector 21, to the then North Zone.<sup>13500</sup> Further, KE Pauk, the Secretary of the Central (old North) Zone and from late 1977 also SON Sen's deputy in the East Zone,<sup>13501</sup> regularly sent reports to Angkar, copying NUON Chea at the Party Centre level.<sup>13502</sup> In particular, in a telegram dated 2 April 1976 to POL Pot, NUON Chea in copy, KE Pauk noted that the enemy situation was generally stable in the North Zone. Yet, he also noted that some engaged in "propaganda" that the revolution was strict and that cooperatives should be resisted, and included complaints about hunger.<sup>13503</sup> Particularly in Chamkar Leu District, in Sector 42, enemies were identified as former soldiers "in combination with the Cham and former cooperative team chairmen".<sup>13504</sup> They were reported to have posted photos of LON Nol along with his 18 March 1970 announcement on trees in Trapeang village, to have burned forests and to have destroyed crops.<sup>13505</sup>

4097. The Chamber recalls that KE Pauk played an instrumental role in the charged crimes committed against the Cham during the DK period.<sup>13506</sup> The Chamber therefore finds the relationship between KE Pauk, who remained a trusted CPK member throughout the DK period and who was a fellow JCE participant,<sup>13507</sup> and NUON Chea

<sup>13498</sup> Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham, para. 3228. See also, Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3990.

<sup>13499</sup> Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham, para. 3329.

<sup>13500</sup> Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham, para. 3210.

<sup>13501</sup> Section 5: Administrative Structures, paras 376, 451.

<sup>13502</sup> Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham, para. 3202.

<sup>13503</sup> DK Telegram, E3/952 [E3/953 and E3/511], 2 April 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00182658.

<sup>13504</sup> DK Telegram, E3/952 [E3/953 and E3/511], 2 April 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00182658.

<sup>13505</sup> DK Telegram, E3/952 [E3/953 and E3/511], 2 April 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00182658.

<sup>13506</sup> Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham, paras 3202, 3223-3224, 3272-3274, 3290.

<sup>13507</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4069. The level of trust between KE Pauk and members of the Party Centre is also demonstrated by the fact that KE Pauk in his capacity as Secretary of the Central Zone received S-21 confessions. See Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2217.

to be significant in this regard. Given KE Pauk's position within the Party, the reporting structure to which he dutifully adhered and his close relationship with the Party Centre, the Chamber is satisfied that KE Pauk was not a rogue agent acting clandestinely on his own accord,<sup>13508</sup> but that NUON Chea was aware of KE Pauk's actions in name of the Party.

4098. The Chamber is satisfied that NUON Chea was aware of the persecution on political and religious grounds committed against the Cham, as well as that Cham considered to be rebels were to be purged which resulted in mass killings increasing over time.<sup>13509</sup> The Chamber is not satisfied, however, that the evidence shows to the required standard of proof that NUON Chea knew specifically that the killings of members of the Cham group at Wat Au Trakuon Security Centre in 1977 and Trea Village Security Centre in 1978 were perpetrated with genocidal intent.

4099. Finally, while NUON Chea knew of crimes committed at S-21, which involved Cham victims, the Chamber recalls that the evidence does not show that Cham detainees were specifically targeted at S-21, nor that they were treated differently than other detainees.<sup>13510</sup>

4100. The Chamber thus finds that NUON Chea knew of the commission of the crimes against humanity committed against the Cham during the DK period. However, the Chamber is not satisfied that NUON Chea knew that the deliberate killings of members of the Cham group were committed by physical perpetrators at the Wat Au Trakuon

<sup>13508</sup> Cf. Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, para. 1469.

<sup>13509</sup> KE Pich Vannak stated to OCIJ investigators that his father KE Pauk was asked to conduct an investigation following the discovery of a number of beheaded corpses at the dock in front of POL Pot's office in Phnom Penh. According to KE Pich Vannak, it was found that these corpses were of Cham people who had been killed in Kroch Chhmar district. He clarified that his father sent a report to Office 870, and pointed out the involvement of the Intervention Unit of the Centre led by Pin in these killings. However, no documentary evidence corroborates KE Pich Vannak's statements on these matters and neither KE Pauk nor any other witness ever mentioned the existence of decapitated corpses of Cham people in Phnom Penh or a report sent to the Centre following an investigation on this issue. As it was not possible for the Defence to cross-examine KE Pich Vannak before he died, the Chamber, noting possible ulterior motives and the absence of clear corroborating evidence, does not rely on KE Pich Vannak's statements as supporting evidence of NUON Chea's knowledge of the killings of Cham. See also, Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham, para. 3272, fn. 11055.

<sup>13510</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2493.

and Trea Village Security Centres with the intent to destroy, in whole or in part, the Cham group as such.<sup>13511</sup>

17.1.2.3.2. Vietnamese

4101. The Chamber recalls its findings that the CPK specifically targeted Vietnamese as a group, including civilians, throughout the DK period.<sup>13512</sup> It has found that POL Pot's "one against 30 policy" specifically targeted not only Vietnamese armed forces but also Vietnamese civilians. NUON Chea was found to have lectured at or attended political training sessions at which the Vietnamese or Vietnamese "agents" were labelled as enemies. Also, NUON Chea publicly stated that the Cambodian people and RAK had "crushed the Vietnamese strategy of 'Indochina Federation' aiming at swallowing the Kampuchea's territory and exterminating the [sic] Kampuchea's race".<sup>13513</sup> The Chamber was further satisfied that the Vietnamese were identified by the CPK through the creation of lists, and that mixed families were targeted on the basis of matrilineal ethnicity.<sup>13514</sup>

4102. NUON Chea received several telegrams reporting the arrest and execution of Vietnamese civilians and soldiers.<sup>13515</sup> Through his involvement with the operation of S-21, NUON Chea knew of the crimes committed against Vietnamese prisoners.<sup>13516</sup> In this regard, the Chamber recalls its findings that NUON Chea informed Duch of the arrival of Vietnamese prisoners at S-21 and told Duch that these "Yuong" prisoners had to be interrogated, their confessions recorded, and broadcast on the radio.<sup>13517</sup> NUON Chea edited these confessions himself to ensure they could be used on the radio, in DK publications and governments statements for educational and propaganda purposes.<sup>13518</sup>

<sup>13511</sup> Even though it is likely that NUON Chea was informed in more detail of what was happening in these locations by KE Pauk, who ordered the systematic killings of Cham in the Central Zone, the Chamber finds that the evidence put before it is insufficient to establish to the required standard of proof that NUON Chea knew that the deliberate killings of members of the Cham group were committed by physical perpetrators at the Wat Au Trakuon and Trea Village Security Centres with the intent to destroy, in whole or in part, the Cham group as such. See below, paras 4154-4155, 4192-4193.

<sup>13512</sup> Section 13.3.5: Targeting of the Vietnamese. See also, Section 16.4.3.2: Common Purpose: Vietnamese.

<sup>13513</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, paras 3406, 3517.

<sup>13514</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, paras 3497, 3501.

<sup>13515</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3408; Section 4: General Overview, paras 286-291.

<sup>13516</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2210-2215, 2229, 2231, 2460-2484, 2556, 2607-2608.

<sup>13517</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2462, 2472-2473.

<sup>13518</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2473.

4103. The Chamber thus finds that NUON Chea knew of the crimes committed against the Vietnamese during the DK period.

17.1.2.3.3. Buddhists

4104. The Chamber recalls its finding that the CPK was intent on eliminating Buddhism from Cambodian society and that the defrocking of monks was a deliberate means to achieve this aim.<sup>13519</sup> The Chamber recalls that during meetings held in May 1975, the CPK leadership, including NUON Chea, instructed representatives from military units and all district, sector and zone secretaries on the Party's policies. Following these meetings, District Secretary PREAK Khom alias Yeay Khom passed on instructions in Tram Kak District related to, among other things, the disrobing of Buddhist monks.<sup>13520</sup> The Chamber further recalls that a CPK policy document dated 22 September 1975 stated that 90 to 95 percent of monks had already abandoned their monkhood and were working in the rice fields, noting that this special class would no longer be cause for worry.<sup>13521</sup> NUON Chea also explained to the Chamber that, in his speeches during the DK era, he did not pay respect to monks because he did not want to mix religion with politics and no monks were "participating" at that time.<sup>13522</sup> In his speech to the Danish Communist Workers' Party in July 1978, NUON Chea clarified the CPK's tactic of calculated deception to achieve the Party's goals leading up to April 1975: "We even worked within the movement of Buddhist monks, making them follow us by saying we would defend the country and religion"<sup>13523</sup> and "[w]e used slogans opposing foreign suppression of the culture of Kampuchea. Monks then became patriotic, supporting us without being aware of it."<sup>13524</sup>

<sup>13519</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4015. See also, Section 3: Historical Background, para. 264.

<sup>13520</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, paras 1087-1088.

<sup>13521</sup> Section 16. 3: Real or Perceived Enemies, paras 3757, 3850.

<sup>13522</sup> T. 15 December 2011 (Accused NUON Chea), E1/23.1, p. 81.

<sup>13523</sup> NUON Chea Speech to the Communist Workers' Party of Denmark, E3/196, 30-31 July 1978, p. 34, ERN (En) 00762406 (NUON Chea stated this in the context of how they tricked people in the cities into supporting their movement between 1960 and 1973: "We did not use words like 'revolutionary', 'communist', or 'red', for example. Instead we used words everyone would accept such as 'Fight US Imperialism', 'Fight for Sovereignty', etc. People were especially scared of words such as 'communist' and 'revolutionary'. But we made them adopt our party line, in its essence, by putting out the party line. If in this way we could make people adopt the line – people who were otherwise afraid of 'revolution' and 'communism' – then those people, in spite of their fears, were able to hold aloft our party flag.").

<sup>13524</sup> NUON Chea Speech to the Communist Workers' Party of Denmark, E3/196, 30-31 July 1978, p. 35, ERN (En) 00762407.

4105. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber thus finds NUON Chea knew of the crimes committed against Buddhists during the DK period.

17.1.2.3.4. Former Khmer Republic officials

4106. The Chamber recalls its findings that the CPK targeted former Khmer Republic officials throughout the DK period for discrimination and adverse treatment including murder between 20 April 1975 and late May 1975, and again between October 1975 and 6 January 1979.<sup>13525</sup>

4107. The Chamber further recalls that “LON Nol traitors” were discussed at length in the CPK magazines Revolutionary Flag and Revolutionary Youth, the content of which was under NUON Chea’s ultimate control, and accused of working together with the American imperialists or acting as “their lackeys”.<sup>13526</sup>

4108. The Chamber also recalls its findings that the crime against humanity of murder was established with respect to formerly ranking Khmer Republic officials at S-21 Security Centre (from October 1975)<sup>13527</sup> and Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre (from April 1977).<sup>13528</sup> It has specifically found that ranking officers and civil servants were arrested and executed at S-21 from as early as October 1975, and that this continued throughout the security centre’s operations; peaking in 1976.<sup>13529</sup>

4109. On the basis of the foregoing and NUON Chea’s personal involvement in S-21,<sup>13530</sup> the Chamber finds NUON Chea knew of the crimes committed against former Khmer Republic officials. NUON Chea’s knowledge of the commission of crimes is further shown by his own statements post-DK. NUON Chea said to THET Sambath: “We eliminated the previous system. Nothing bad remained.”<sup>13531</sup>

<sup>13525</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4061.

<sup>13526</sup> Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, paras 3755, 3813, 3818, 3829, 3847.

<sup>13527</sup> Section 12.2.24.1.1: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings: Crimes Against Humanity: Murder; Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2488.

<sup>13528</sup> Section 12.3.12.1: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings: Murder (finding that survival was the exception at Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre). See also, Section 12.3.11.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: New People and Former Khmer Republic Officials (finding that Khmer Republic officials and soldiers were sent to Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre from April 1977 in particular).

<sup>13529</sup> Section 12.2.18: S-21 Security Centre: Former Khmer Republic Officials.

<sup>13530</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2188, 2191, 2193, 2197, 2210-2215.

<sup>13531</sup> NUON Chea Interview by THET Sambath, E3/7209R, undated, ERN V00717048 (titled “on Revolution”).

17.1.2.4. Regulation of marriage

4110. The Chamber recalls its findings that there existed a nationwide policy to regulate family-building and marriage, which was implemented by the Party's entire administrative and military network.<sup>13532</sup> The CPK implemented this policy in accordance with its desire to increase the country's population within 10 to 15 years: marriages were arranged and consummation enforced for this purpose.<sup>13533</sup> The Chamber further recalls that reports related to marriages were sent to Angkar.<sup>13534</sup> The Chamber thus finds that NUON Chea knew of the crimes committed in furtherance of the criminal policy to regulate marriage as he received such reports in his position of ultimate policy and decision-maker.

4111. The Co-Prosecutors rely on an alleged quote from NUON Chea in the book Behind the Killing Fields: "The man always wants to choose a beautiful girl, so that's why we forced them to get married and Angka [sic] chose the wife."<sup>13535</sup> However, the Chamber has not been able to independently verify whether NUON Chea said this, and accordingly, does not accord any weight to it.

17.1.3. Knowledge Arising After the Commission of Crimes

4112. In addition to being informed of matters through the CPK reporting hierarchy, and as demonstrated by the interviews referred to above, NUON Chea also had access to reports by other States, international organisations and international news agencies. These external sources of information publicly reported allegations of atrocities, during and after their commission.<sup>13536</sup>

4113. In 1976 and 1977, Amnesty International sent two letters, the first to then-Prime Minister PENN Nouth and the second to the recently-appointed President of the State Presidium KHIEU Samphan, expressing concern at reports of summary executions and maltreatment of civilians and requesting that inquiries be made. As no response was

<sup>13532</sup> Section 14.3.2: Regulation of Marriage: Policy Regarding the Regulation of Marriage and Discipline; Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4063.

<sup>13533</sup> Section 14.3.2.2.1: Regulation of Marriage: Objectives of Policy to Regulate Marriage: Population Increase; Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 4065-4066.

<sup>13534</sup> Section 14: Regulation of Marriage, para. 3568.

<sup>13535</sup> Book by Gina C. and Thet S.: Behind the Killing Fields: A Khmer Rouge Leader and One of His Victims, E3/4202, p. 41, ERN (En) 00757496.

<sup>13536</sup> Section 6: Communication Structures, paras 502-506.

forthcoming, Amnesty International – joined by the UN Commission on Human Rights – renewed its appeal in 1978.<sup>13537</sup>

4114. The Chamber has found that the CPK Standing Committee ordered the DK Ministry of Propaganda and Information to monitor foreign news reports closely and that detailed procedures were established for the summarising and reporting of news by the Ministry of Propaganda to the Standing Committee.<sup>13538</sup> The Chamber is satisfied that through these Ministry reports, NUON Chea, a member of the Standing Committee, was made aware of news reports detailing the crimes.

4115. On the basis of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that NUON Chea also knew of the crimes after their commission.

17.2. Commission through a Joint Criminal Enterprise

4116. The Closing Order found that NUON Chea participated or contributed to the “design, implementation and control of the execution” of the common purpose, both before and during the DK period, which “resulted in and/or involved the commission of crimes”.<sup>13539</sup> The Chamber has found that the appropriate standard is whether the accused participated in the common purpose which amounted to or involved the commission of crimes, and by his or her acts or omissions made a significant contribution to the commission of crimes encompassed by the common purpose.<sup>13540</sup>

4117. The Chamber’s factual findings in relation to the development and the criminality of the common purpose, to which all the policies were intrinsically linked, included that the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution in Cambodia through a “great leap forward” designed to build the country, defend it from enemies and radically transform the population into an atheistic and homogenous Khmer society of worker-peasants was shared by a plurality of persons.<sup>13541</sup> The Chamber now turns to assess whether NUON Chea made a significant contribution to

<sup>13537</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 4048, 4113.

<sup>13538</sup> Section 6: Communication Structures, paras 480-482.

<sup>13539</sup> Closing Order, para. 1532.

<sup>13540</sup> Section 15.2: Applicable Law: Commission through a Joint Criminal Enterprise.

<sup>13541</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 4068-4069.

the common purpose and whether he shared with the other JCE members the intent to commit the crimes charged.

17.2.1. Contribution to the Common Purpose

17.2.1.1. Designing the Common Purpose: policy development

4118. As one of DK’s founding fathers, NUON Chea participated in Party congresses and Central and Standing Committee meetings from the dawn of the revolution.<sup>13542</sup> NUON Chea was appointed Deputy Secretary of the newly rebranded Workers’ Party of Kampuchea (“WPK”) at the First Party Congress in September 1960, where he played an instrumental part in the formulation of the Party’s stance on revolutionary violence and the use of armed struggle to achieve its goals. At the First Party Congress, when the new Party Statute was enacted, the Party also outlined its goal of socialist revolution and decreed that foreign imperialists, their “lackeys” or henchmen and the “feudalists, capitalists and reactionaries” were all class enemies.<sup>13543</sup> In his capacity as the Party’s Deputy Secretary and with his contribution to the Party stance, NUON Chea helped initiate and officially approved this Party line.

4119. In the mid-1960s, NUON Chea participated in several Central and Standing Committee meetings held in the maquis.<sup>13544</sup> NUON Chea later, in July 1978, explained in a speech to the Communist Workers’ Party of Denmark that during this time the Party made a conscious choice for political and armed struggles, adding that “[t]he political struggle was promoted through legal struggle and illegal struggle, with the illegal being the basic form of struggle”.<sup>13545</sup>

4120. In January 1968, NUON Chea, alongside other senior leaders of the – by this time renamed – Communist Party of Kampuchea (“CPK”), determined that the armed revolution had to begin.<sup>13546</sup> As the revolution developed, NUON Chea met with fellow

<sup>13542</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, paras 197-215; Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3733.

<sup>13543</sup> Section 3.1.1: Historical Background, paras 203-204.

<sup>13544</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, para. 211; Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, paras 525-526.

<sup>13545</sup> NUON Chea Speech to the Communist Workers’ Party of Denmark, E3/196, 30-31 July 1978, p. 20, ERN (En) 00762392. See also, Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, para. 3830.

<sup>13546</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, para. 212; Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 552.

Party leaders and advocated that it was time for armed struggle against the LON Nol government.<sup>13547</sup>

4121. In May 1972, the CPK Central Committee decided to close markets, end the use of currency and organise cooperatives.<sup>13548</sup> As a member of the Central Committee, NUON Chea was one of the people who made this decision. NUON Chea never wavered in his belief that this was the correct thing to do. In July 1978, NUON Chea reiterated to the Danish Communist Workers' Party that he believed that the CPK's Party line was still the correct one in sending most of their cadres to work in the countryside.<sup>13549</sup> NUON Chea later reasoned that the circulation of currency was a threat to the expansion of liberated zones and the CPK's ability to control the population since "US spies or the Vietnamese spies used money in order to buy or to lure our cadres".<sup>13550</sup>

4122. NUON Chea participated in the key meetings leading up to 17 April 1975. In June 1974, the CPK Central Committee met in Meak village, Prek Kok commune to discuss plans for the final assault, liberation and evacuation of Phnom Penh and other urban centres. NUON Chea was present at this meeting. Together with other JCE participants, NUON Chea resolved to seize the capital in the dry season of 1974-1975. The plan was finalised in early April 1975 at another meeting with senior CPK leaders also attended by NUON Chea.<sup>13551</sup> By 25 April 1975, NUON Chea, together with POL Pot, KHIEU Samphan, IENG Sary and SON Sen had arrived in Phnom Penh and together formed a Joint Leadership Committee.<sup>13552</sup>

4123. NUON Chea was aware that a Standing Committee delegation visited the Northwest Zone in August 1975 and participated in the development of plans and policies reflected in the report of this visit.<sup>13553</sup> The Standing Committee's report of this visit offered "Angkar's guiding opinions" on key questions of "workforce arrangements", cooperatives and the handling of cities. The Chamber finds that the

---

<sup>13547</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, para. 215; Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, paras 525-526, 552.

<sup>13548</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, para. 239.

<sup>13549</sup> NUON Chea Speech to the Communist Workers' Party of Denmark, E3/196, 30-31 July 1978, p. 21, ERN (En) 00762393.

<sup>13550</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3872.

<sup>13551</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, para. 233; Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3880.

<sup>13552</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3884.

<sup>13553</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3888.

report outlines a calculated plan by the leadership to augment and improve national defence (by creating cooperatives) and the economy (by population movements).<sup>13554</sup>

4124. Following the Standing Committee's visit to the Northwest Zone, a September 1975 policy document signified the Party's intention to transform the country's "backward" agricultural system to a modern one within 10 to 15 years, noting that "agriculture is the key to restoring and building our economy" and resolving food shortages. The document expressly examined the Party lines on "Social Action" and "Culture", both portfolios for which NUON Chea was assigned responsibility at a Standing Committee meeting on 9 October 1975.<sup>13555</sup> On that same day the Standing Committee approved the general policy of building and defending the country "based on the force of the masses".<sup>13556</sup> During that time, NUON Chea continued as Deputy Secretary of the Party and as a full-rights member of the Standing Committee.<sup>13557</sup>

4125. NUON Chea continued to be involved in all major decisions of the Party during the DK period. On 30 March 1976, the CPK Central Committee, of which NUON Chea was a member, declared all state organisations, including the government, subordinate to the Party.<sup>13558</sup> This Central Committee decision also contains the headline "the right to smash, inside and outside the ranks", and specifies which organisations had the authority to do so.<sup>13559</sup> A few weeks later, in mid-April 1976, NUON Chea attended the first session of the People's Representative Assembly, where KHIEU Samphan promoted the objective of achieving a "great and magnificent leap" and endorsed the priority of building and defending an independent and self-reliant country quickly while continuing the class struggle against imperialism, colonialism and other "oppressor classes".<sup>13560</sup> The Assembly also unanimously resolved to mobilise "the entire people" to maximise rice production "ever higher and ever faster" to build the country "in a

<sup>13554</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3916, fn. 13065.

<sup>13555</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 543; Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3737, 3889; Standing Committee Minutes, E3/1733 [E3/1612, E3/182 and E3/183], 9 October 1975, p. 1, ERN (En) 00183393.

<sup>13556</sup> Standing Committee Minutes, E3/1733 [E3/1612, E3/182 and E3/183], 9 October 1975, pp. 1-2, 13, ERN (En) 00183393-00183394, 00183405. See also, Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3737.

<sup>13557</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, paras 530, 532.

<sup>13558</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3739.

<sup>13559</sup> Decision of the Central Committee Regarding a Number of Matters, E3/12, 30 March 1976, p. 1, ERN (En) 00182809. See also, Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3739, 3955-3956.

<sup>13560</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3739; Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, para. 3771; Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 415. See also, Section 18: The Criminal Responsibility of KHIEU Samphan, paras 4262-4264.

great and miraculous leap”.<sup>13561</sup> The need to be “on the offensive” and make a “great leap forward” rapidly to achieve socialist goals was further promoted throughout the DK period in the Revolutionary Flag and Revolutionary Youth magazines,<sup>13562</sup> of which NUON Chea was a principal author, and was internally endorsed by Standing Committee members at meetings attended by NUON Chea.<sup>13563</sup>

4126. The Standing Committee continued to meet regularly throughout the DK period to discuss the implementation of the Party’s political line, administration of the country, foreign affairs, commerce and trade, national defence, social affairs and economic affairs including agricultural production.<sup>13564</sup> NUON Chea took part in most of these meetings.<sup>13565</sup>

4127. NUON Chea’s close relationship with POL Pot further illustrates his de facto position of power and high status within the Party. Throughout the DK era, NUON Chea remained a key figure within the CPK as POL Pot’s loyal right-hand man, often seen directly at POL Pot’s side.<sup>13566</sup> As full-rights member of both the Central and Standing Committees, NUON Chea was involved in the decision-making process at the highest level. Moreover, he was appointed to replace POL Pot as interim Prime Minister when POL Pot officially took a leave of absence from September 1976 until September 1977.<sup>13567</sup> POL Pot’s and NUON Chea’s positions of ultimate power were described by NUON Chea, when interviewed by THET Sambath, as: “We could have easily just

<sup>13561</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3739.

<sup>13562</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3739.

<sup>13563</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3739.

<sup>13564</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3740.

<sup>13565</sup> The Chamber notes in this regard that of the 23 sets of Standing Committee meeting minutes that were available before to the start of Case 002/02 trial proceedings, 20 include a list of attendees. NUON Chea is recorded as present at 19 of these 20. This number excludes minutes copied by Professor Goscha and excerpts from the PRT Trial, which not always listed attendees. See Section 5: Administrative Structures, paras 347-354.

<sup>13566</sup> See e.g., Photograph of senior CPK leaders at Pochentong Airport, E3/3485, undated, ERN P00440823 (NUON Chea seen next to POL Pot); Photograph of senior CPK leaders, E3/4290, undated, ERN P00513522 (NUON Chea seen next to POL Pot); Photograph of senior CPK leaders in the DPRK, E3/3239, undated, ERN P00416541 (NUON Chea seen next to POL Pot); Photograph of senior CPK leaders at Pochentong Airport, E3/3240, undated, ERN P00416542 (NUON Chea seen next to POL Pot); Video of meeting at Olympic Stadium, E3/3051R, undated, ERN V00422509 (NUON Chea is seen right behind or right next to POL Pot at all times); Video of meeting at Olympic Stadium, E3/3052R, undated, ERN V00422555 (NUON Chea is seen right behind or right next to POL Pot at all times); Video of the CPK’s 17th Anniversary, E3/3029R, September 1977, ERN V00422534 (only NUON Chea and POL Pot on stage); Book by Gina C. and Thet S.: Behind the Killing Fields: A Khmer Rouge Leader and One of His Victims, E3/4202, ERN (En) 00757517 (depicting POL Pot and NUON Chea in northern Cambodia in 1979; photo provided to the author by NUON Chea).

<sup>13567</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, paras 539-540.

made ourselves Prime Minister and King. But anyone who calls that a revolution is completely wrong.”<sup>13568</sup> 4128. Through his contributions at Party Congresses and other meetings with the highest level of CPK leaders, the Chamber is satisfied that NUON Chea not only shared support for the common purpose, but played a key role in formulating and controlling its content.

17.2.1.2. Implementing and disseminating the Common Purpose: propaganda and education 4129. NUON Chea’s support for the common purpose that he helped devise did not waver during the DK era. He continued to implement and disseminate the common purpose, retaining a tight grip on the CPK’s carefully-crafted narrative through propaganda and training activities. As further detailed below, NUON Chea held speeches and chaired study sessions for cadres from different regions, both in Phnom Penh and in other parts of the country, including at cooperatives and worksites, he was one of the principal authors of the educational magazine the Revolutionary Flag, the Party’s primary propaganda vessel that regularly rehashed speeches given by POL Pot, NUON Chea and KHIEU Samphan, and he participated in Standing Committee meetings during which tactics of what to disclose and what to keep secret – secrecy being the counterpart of effective propaganda – were discussed.

4130. Shortly after the May 1975 meeting at the Silver Pagoda in Phnom Penh, NUON Chea, along with POL Pot and other key leaders, led a series of meetings. Between 20 and 25 May 1975 NUON Chea and other leaders instructed representatives from military units and all district, sector and zone secretaries on the Party’s policies concerning the organisation of cooperatives, elimination of private property, prohibition of currency and markets, and the building of dams and canals.<sup>13569</sup>

4131. Throughout the DK era, as noted above,<sup>13570</sup> NUON Chea conducted study sessions in Phnom Penh with cadres who went there for that specific (educational) purpose or with cadres who were being relocated to other areas of the country in light of purges. For instance, a group of Southwest Zone cadres sent by Ta Mok to the Northwest Zone in early 1977 stopped in Phnom Penh for a meeting with NUON Chea and were lectured by NUON Chea on there being traitors in the Northwest Zone.<sup>13571</sup> Cadres on their way to the East Zone's battlefield similarly stopped in Phnom Penh for study sessions with CPK leaders where NUON Chea spoke of eliminating the Vietnamese.<sup>13572</sup> NUON Chea also held speeches, study sessions and rallies on special occasions, such as the RAK January anniversaries, where he lectured on how to make the distinction between friends and enemies, and how to detect and "smash" the latter.<sup>13573</sup> NUON Chea also summoned higher level CPK cadres, such as sector secretaries, to attend study sessions in Phnom Penh.<sup>13574</sup>

<sup>13568</sup> NUON Chea Interview by THET Sambath, E3/7209R, undated, ERN V00717048, 00:01:05-00:01:20 (titled “on Revolution”).

<sup>13569</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3736.

<sup>13570</sup> See above, para. 4089.

4132. NUON Chea also held speeches and study sessions outside of Phnom Penh for district secretaries and heads of cooperatives concerning the cultivation of rice and how to dig canals, build dams and organise workforces among cooperatives.<sup>13575</sup> For this purpose, he visited the 1st January Dam Worksite, among others, on more than one occasion.<sup>13576</sup> At the Dam, NUON Chea met with the leaders responsible for its construction, reviewed the status of the Dam's construction as well as the rice cultivation and the performance of cooperatives in the area.<sup>13577</sup>

4133. In addition to his appearances at meetings, rallies and study sessions, NUON Chea's role as one of the principal authors of the Revolutionary Flag magazine allowed him to continue spreading the Party line.<sup>13578</sup> The Revolutionary Flag and the Revolutionary Youth were both used to disseminate information regarding people considered enemies by the Party, and included speeches by NUON Chea.<sup>13579</sup> Real or perceived enemies were discussed at length throughout these CPK publications, for instance: (the former regime of) LON Nol; non-revolutionary individuals (feudalists,

---

<sup>13571</sup> Section 12.1: Internal Factions, para. 1953.

<sup>13572</sup> Section 12.1: Internal Factions, para. 2047.

<sup>13573</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3934; Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, paras 3801-3802.

<sup>13574</sup> Section 12.5: Phnom Kraol Security Centre, paras 3040, 3055.

<sup>13575</sup> Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, para. 1479.

<sup>13576</sup> Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, paras 1486-1488, 1490.

<sup>13577</sup> Section 11.2: 1st January Dam, para. 1486.

<sup>13578</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 545; Section 6: Communication Structures, para. 476.

<sup>13579</sup> Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, para. 3863; Section 6: Communication Structures, paras 473-477.

capitalists, etc.); American imperialists or CIA; and the Vietnamese (“Yuon”).<sup>13580</sup>
 Duch testified that cadres at S-21 were obligated to read the Revolutionary Flag.<sup>13581</sup>

4134. NUON Chea’s control over the regime’s narrative to manipulate the masses is further demonstrated by the calculated approach to information dissemination which was aimed at indoctrinating people while concealing Angkar’s actual activities and goals under the veil of the principle of secrecy of CPK. The Chamber recalls its findings that in addition to numerous discussions held during Standing Committee meetings and other DK era meetings, the CPK used study sessions, radio broadcasts, speeches and CPK magazines to disseminate the information about the enemy to the masses.<sup>13582</sup> Such information pertained to who should be considered an enemy and what was considered enemy behaviour.<sup>13583</sup> Details of how to define enemy activity and how specific networks of enemies had to be purged were discussed only within the CPK at the higher level, which included NUON Chea and other senior leaders from the Standing Committee, the Deputy Secretaries and the Secretaries of Divisions and Regiments, the ministries such as the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and offices such as S-21.<sup>13584</sup> In line with the Party’s general aim of maintaining secrecy, these discussions were kept secret as a tactic to facilitate and secure the identification and the elimination of enemies in furtherance of the common purpose.<sup>13585</sup> In July 1978, referring to the period “after liberation”, NUON Chea explained why the CPK regarded secrecy vital:

Secret work is fundamental in all that we do. [...] On the one hand, this is a matter of general principle, and on the other, it is a way to defend ourselves from the danger of enemy infiltration. As long as there is class struggle or imperialism, secret work will remain fundamental. Only through secrecy can we be masters of the situation and win victory over the enemy who cannot find out who is who.<sup>13586</sup>

<sup>13580</sup> Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, para. 3863.

<sup>13581</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2165.

<sup>13582</sup> Section 6: Communication Structures, paras 465-472, 477.

<sup>13583</sup> Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies: Dissemination of Information Regarding Enemies.

<sup>13584</sup> Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, para. 3862.

<sup>13585</sup> See e.g., Standing Committee Minutes regarding national defence matters, E3/229, 22 February 1976, p. 2, ERN (En) 00182626 (NUON Chea was present at this meeting where a speaker only identified as Angkar, urged those present to remain vigilant, concentrate on maintaining secrecy and keeping communications quiet). See also, Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, paras 3760, 3789, 3793, 3862; Section 5: Administrative Structures, paras 342, 362, 398; Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2171, 2183, 2217, 2404.

<sup>13586</sup> NUON Chea Speech to the Communist Workers’ Party of Denmark, E3/196, 30-31 July 1978, p. 27, ERN (En) 00762399.

4135. Both in the years preceding the evacuation of Phnom Penh and during the subsequent DK period, NUON Chea focused actively on propaganda (which involved deciding what to propagate and what to keep secret) and training CPK cadres in the countryside, advocating the Party's revolutionary and economic policies, the formation of cooperatives and worksites and vigilance against enemies. NUON Chea also appeared as the chairman, trainer or speaker at a range of meetings, trainings or study sessions where he promoted the Party line of vigilance and anger against internal and external enemies.<sup>13587</sup>

4136. The Chamber is thus satisfied that through his role in the propaganda campaign and tactics (including his instrumental role in issuing the Revolutionary Flag and urging secrecy, the corresponding counterpart of effective propaganda) and training of cadres both before and after April 1975, NUON Chea played a key role in implementing and disseminating the common purpose.

17.2.1.3. Direct involvement in executing the Common Purpose: purges and S-21 Security Centre

4137. NUON Chea's contributions to the commission of crimes exceeded policy development, implementation and dissemination of the common purpose through propaganda and education. NUON Chea executed the common purpose by directly and actively engaging in the purges.<sup>13588</sup> He not only helped orchestrate and execute the Northwest Zone, Central (old North) Zone and East Zone purges, he was personally involved in the oversight of S-21 Security Centre and purges of prominent Party members such as Northwest Zone Secretary RUOS Nhim.

4138. The Chamber recalls that NUON Chea, among others, was involved in ordering a large number of purges. For instance, the Standing Committee, of which NUON Chea was a full-right member, ordered the arrest, torture and execution of hundreds of soldiers from Centre Division 170 (a former East Zone unit)<sup>13589</sup> brought to S-21 in light of the 1976 events in Phnom Penh – the distribution of critical leaflets at different locations in the city, gunfire at the Fine Arts School and a grenade explosion at the

<sup>13587</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, paras 541-547; Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3742.

<sup>13588</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4070.

<sup>13589</sup> Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 435.

Royal Palace after which Division 170 Commander CHAN Chakrei was arrested in May 1976.<sup>13590</sup> NUON Chea also ordered the purges in the Central (old North) Zone.<sup>13591</sup> Southwest Zone cadres were sent to the Central (old North) Zone by the Standing Committee, including POL Pot and NUON Chea. Under the direction of KE Pauk, the Southwest Zone cadres took over leadership positions and executed the arrests of dozens of cadres who were sent to S-21.<sup>13592</sup> Purges in the Central (old North) Zone had been ordered by NUON Chea, SON Sen and the Standing Committee. Prisoner lists from S-21 confirm that arrests continued throughout the country, and particularly in the Central (old North) Zone, after June 1978 until the end of the regime.<sup>13593</sup> Additionally, NUON Chea, as a full-rights member of the Standing Committee, was involved in ordering the East Zone purges.<sup>13594</sup> In this regard, the Chamber recalls that the arrests of CHAN Chakrei in May 1976 and SUOS Nou alias Chhouk (former secretary of Sector 24) in August 1976 triggered a continuing cycle of arrests, torture, confessions and executions of East Zone cadres at the hands of Central (old North) and Southwest Zone cadres.<sup>13595</sup> The Chamber also considers the fact that NUON Chea ordered Duch to immediately execute large groups of East Zone cadre arriving at S-21 during the second wave of East Zone purges between January and June 1978.<sup>13596</sup> Furthermore, NUON Chea was involved in ordering the Northwest Zone purges, including the arrest of Northwest Zone Secretary RUOS Nhim.<sup>13597</sup>

4139. NUON Chea played an indispensable role regarding the operation of S-21 Security Centre. NUON Chea acted as Duch's direct supervisor from 15 August 1977, following the departure of SON Sen to the battlefield, until the fall of the DK regime in early January 1979.<sup>13598</sup> In this capacity, NUON Chea regularly met with Duch and gave him instructions,<sup>13599</sup> including directions regarding particular prominent

---

<sup>13590</sup> Section 12.1: Internal Factions, paras 1890-1899.

<sup>13591</sup> Section 12.1: Internal Factions, para. 2069; Section 11.2: 1st January Dam, para. 1466.

<sup>13592</sup> Section 12.1: Internal Factions, para. 2069; Section 11.2: 1st January Dam, para. 1466.

<sup>13593</sup> Section 12.1: Internal Factions, para. 2069; Section 11.2.7: 1st January Dam: Purges of Cadres in the Central (old North) Zone.

<sup>13594</sup> Section 12.1: Internal Factions, para. 2031.

<sup>13595</sup> Section 12.1: Internal Factions, paras 2017, 2072.

<sup>13596</sup> Section 12.1: Internal Factions, paras 2031, 2038; Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2243, 2311, 2527.

<sup>13597</sup> Section 12.1: Internal Factions, paras 1941-1942, 1972; Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2284, 2312, 2319.

<sup>13598</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2188, 2191, 2193, 2210-2215.

<sup>13599</sup> See e.g., Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2243, 2311, 2457, 2462, 2494, 2497, 2510, 2554-2556.

prisoners.<sup>13600</sup> NUON Chea received and read S-21 confessions, and as he saw fit, ordered changes thereto.<sup>13601</sup> NUON Chea was among those who decided who was arrested and sent to S-21.<sup>13602</sup> NUON Chea ordered executions, both of large groups, such as those arriving at S-21 as a result of the 1978 wave of East Zone purges and those detained at S-21 directly prior to its abandonment,<sup>13603</sup> and of specific individuals.<sup>13604</sup> For instance, in 1978, CHHIM Sam Aok alias Pang, head of office S-71, was arrested and taken to S-21. Pang was subject to extended interrogation under torture, and was executed as ordered by Duch pursuant to NUON Chea's instructions.<sup>13605</sup> Also, shortly before the arrival of Vietnamese forces, NUON Chea instructed Duch to remove and kill hundreds of prisoners still detained at S-21.<sup>13606</sup> Given the rapid entry of Vietnamese forces into Phnom Penh and the rapid abandonment of S-21, nothing was done with respect to the documents which remained at the Security Centre. NUON Chea subsequently scolded Duch for not having destroyed the S-21 documents.<sup>13607</sup>

4140. The instructions provided by NUON Chea to Duch included instructions regarding Vietnamese prisoners, who NUON Chea ordered the interrogation of and their confessions recorded and broadcasted on the radio.<sup>13608</sup> NUON Chea received these confessions, and in his role as propagandist, edited them for use on the radio, in DK publications and government statements.<sup>13609</sup>

4141. NUON Chea's contributions to the operation of S-21 were not limited to the period in which he acted as Duch's direct supervisor. Even prior to taking over from SON Sen as Duch's direct supervisor at S-21, NUON Chea received confessions,<sup>13610</sup>

<sup>13600</sup> See e.g., Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2312, 2316-2317, 2323.

<sup>13601</sup> See e.g., Section 12.1: Internal Factions, para. 2017; Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2221-2222, 2226, 2228-2230, 2462, 2473, 2491.

<sup>13602</sup> See e.g., Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2183, 2197, 2312, 2317, 2457.

<sup>13603</sup> See e.g., Section 12.1: Internal Factions, para. 2031; Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2243, 2311, 2497, 2527, 2555-2556.

<sup>13604</sup> See e.g., Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2316, 2318, 2323, 2457; Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 369.

<sup>13605</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2315-2316; Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 369.

<sup>13606</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2555-2556.

<sup>13607</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2559.

<sup>13608</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2462, 2472-2473.

<sup>13609</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2472-2473.

<sup>13610</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2229.

ordered the interrogation of specific prisoners, and the exhumation and photographing of the bodies of certain prisoners who had been killed.<sup>13611</sup>

4142. NUON Chea's involvement with the operation of security centres was not limited to S-21. The Standing Committee, thus including NUON Chea, also made decisions regarding prisoners elsewhere. For instance, the order to kill a group of at least 100 Jarai prisoners at Au Kanseng Security Centre, which was under Centre Division 801's supervision, originated from the Standing Committee.<sup>13612</sup> NUON Chea also gave instructions regarding Phnom Kraol Security Centre and Autonomous Sector 105 on security and military matters.<sup>13613</sup>

4143. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber is satisfied<sup>13614</sup> that through his involvement in ordering large number of purges and his role in the operation of S-21 Security Centre, NUON Chea played a key role in executing the common purpose.

17.2.2. Intent

4144. The Chamber recalls that intent must cover both the common purpose and the crimes it encompassed.<sup>13614</sup> The Chamber has found that NUON Chea formed part of a plurality of persons who acted in unison to put into effect the common purpose.<sup>13615</sup> NUON Chea's intent to participate in the common purpose is further demonstrated by the significant contribution he made thereto directed at furthering the common purpose through his acts within the three pillars (designing, implementing and disseminating, and executing the common purpose) described above. The Chamber now turns to assess whether NUON Chea possessed the requisite mens rea for the crimes encompassed by the common purpose.

17.2.2.1. Cooperatives and worksites

4145. The Chamber has found that the crimes against humanity of murder, enslavement, persecution on political grounds and the other inhumane acts of attacks against human dignity and through conduct characterised as enforced disappearances

<sup>13611</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2197, 2510.

<sup>13612</sup> Section 12.4: Au Kanseng Security Centre, para. 2957.

<sup>13613</sup> Section 12.5: Phnom Kraol Security Centre, paras 3035-3036, 3040.

<sup>13614</sup> Section 15: Applicable Law: Individual Criminal Responsibility, para. 3712.

<sup>13615</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4069.

were variously established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, 1st January Dam Worksite and Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site.<sup>13616</sup> It has further found that, insofar as they were established at these sites, these crimes were encompassed by the common purpose as part of the policy to establish and operate cooperatives and worksites.<sup>13617</sup>

4146. NUON Chea was among the Central Committee members who decided to close the markets, end the use of currency and organise cooperatives. As found above, he never wavered in his belief that this was the correct thing to do.<sup>13618</sup> The Standing Committee's report of the Northwest Zone visit in August 1975 offered "Angkar's guiding opinions" on key questions of "workforce arrangements", cooperatives and the handling of cities. NUON Chea participated in the development of the plans and policies reflected in this report.<sup>13619</sup> The Chamber has found that NUON Chea visited some of the worksites and knew of the crimes being committed in furtherance of the common purpose in relation to the cooperatives and worksites. Yet, no changes were ever ordered to be made to the regimes that the cooperatives and worksites were operating under. Throughout the DK era, despite this knowledge of the crimes being committed at the cooperatives and worksites, NUON Chea continued to actively advocate for this economic system in speeches and CPK publications in furtherance of the common purpose.<sup>13620</sup> Not only was NUON Chea one of the principal authors of the Revolutionary Flag, he also held speeches and training sessions with cadres in cooperatives and worksites concerning the cultivation of rice and how to dig canals, build dams and organise the workforce amongst cooperatives.<sup>13621</sup> The Chamber also recalls that NUON Chea later acknowledged that those who joined cooperatives could not leave.<sup>13622</sup> Furthermore, NUON Chea lectured Southwest Zone cadres who were being relocated to the Northwest Zone on the presence of traitors in that zone.<sup>13623</sup> He

---

<sup>13616</sup> Section 10.1.13: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Legal Findings; Section 11.1.12: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: Legal Findings; Section 11.2.24: 1st January Dam Worksite: Legal Findings; Section 11.3.13: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site: Legal Findings.

<sup>13617</sup> Section 16.4.1: Common Purpose: "Control" and "Capture the People": Movement of Population, Establishment of Cooperatives and Worksites.

<sup>13618</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3888-3891.

<sup>13619</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3888.

<sup>13620</sup> Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, paras 3736, 3872, 3885, 3909, 3912-3913, 3916; Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, paras 1479, 1486-1488, 1490.

<sup>13621</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3896-3901.

<sup>13622</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3885-3886.

<sup>13623</sup> See above, para. 4131.

also held speeches, study sessions and rallies where he lectured, those present on how to make the distinction between friends and enemies, and how to detect and “smash” the latter.<sup>13624</sup> The Chamber finds that this establishes NUON Chea’s specific intent to discriminate against Party enemies on political grounds. In line with his support of the revolutionary framework concerning the treatment of enemies and particularly the principle of secrecy,<sup>13625</sup> the Chamber is satisfied that NUON Chea intended that enemies were to be dealt with in secret.<sup>13626</sup> 4147. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that NUON Chea intended the commission of crimes at cooperatives and worksites. In particular, the evidence establishes that NUON Chea shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crimes against humanity of murder, enslavement and the other inhumane act through of attacks against human dignity and through conduct characterised as enforced disappearances. In addition, and having established his specific intent to subject Party enemies to adverse treatment and discrimination, the Chamber finds that NUON Chea shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime against humanity of persecution on political grounds.

17.2.2.2. Security centres, execution sites and internal purges

4148. The Chamber has found that the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, enslavement, imprisonment, torture, persecution on political grounds and the other inhumane acts through attacks against human dignity and conduct characterised as enforced disappearances were variously established at the S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres.<sup>13627</sup> It has further found that, insofar as they were established at these security centres, these crimes were

<sup>13624</sup> See above, paras 4129-4136.

<sup>13625</sup> See above, paras 4131-4135.

<sup>13626</sup> See e.g., Section 16.4.2.1.2: Common Purpose: “Smashing” of enemies; Section 16.4.2.1.3: Common Purpose: Re-education of “bad elements”.

<sup>13627</sup> Section 12.2.24: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings; Section 12.3.12: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings; Section 12.4.7: Au Kanseng Security Centre: Legal Findings; Section 12.5.8: Phnom Kraol Security Centre: Legal Findings.

encompassed by the common purpose as part of the policy to identify, arrest, isolate and “smash” enemies.<sup>13628</sup>

4149. As discussed above, NUON Chea held speeches, study sessions and rallies where he promoted vigilance and anger against internal and external enemies and where he instructed participants on identification of and how to “smash” enemies. He summoned Southwest Zone cadres at study sessions in Phnom Penh before they were redeployed to the Northwest Zone, in order to lecture them on traitors in that area.<sup>13629</sup> The Chamber finds that NUON Chea’s conduct demonstrates his specific intent to discriminate against Party enemies on the basis of their perceived political affiliations. He supported the principle of secrecy, knew about the widespread arrests of people and actively ordered the purges of the Northwest Zone, the Central (old North) Zone and the East Zone, both the 1976-1977 wave after CHAN Chakrei’s arrest and the second wave in 1978.<sup>13630</sup> He also received confessions from S-21 prisoners and gave instructions both after and prior to his official role as Duch’s supervisor. NUON Chea thus knew of the commission of crimes and continued participating in their perpetration, even ordering them. NUON Chea’s hard-line approach regarding stratifying the population and hunting for enemies demonstrates that he intended the result of the violence he was advocating, supervising and ordering. His acceptance of this result is illustrated by his own remarks to the Danish Communist Worker’s Party in 1978: “There can be no comparison between losing two to three leading cadres and 200-300 members. Rather the latter than the former.”<sup>13631</sup> Important leaders were to be protected, others were expendable. NUON Chea’s intent is further demonstrated by his answers to questions posed by THET Sambath discussed above: NUON Chea approved of killing traitors, a category one easily fell into. The Chamber thus finds that NUON Chea intended the crimes committed in relation to the purges and at the security centres and execution sites.

4150. With regard to torture, the Chamber recalls that NUON Chea was informed about torture being used to extract confessions.<sup>13632</sup> Moreover, NUON Chea received

<sup>13628</sup> Section 16.4.2: Common Purpose: Establishment and Operation of Security Centres and Execution Sites.

<sup>13629</sup> See above, paras 4131, 4133-4135.

<sup>13630</sup> See above, para. 4138.

<sup>13631</sup> NUON Chea Speech to the Communist Workers’ Party of Denmark, E3/196, 30-31 July 1978, p. 31, ERN (En) 00762403.

<sup>13632</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2231, 2589.

reports from Duch detailing the mental and physical abuse inflicted upon S-21 prisoners.<sup>13633</sup> He continued overseeing S-21 until the end of the DK era and this practice never changed. When Duch was asked whether he ever received instructions from NUON Chea to stop torturing prisoners at S-21, Duch answered “[n]o, never”.<sup>13634</sup>

4151. NUON Chea’s intent regarding the commission of these crimes is further shown by his own statements post-DK. NUON Chea admitted in a video recorded interview with THET Sambath that he read confessions, stating he did so to use their contents for educational purposes.<sup>13635</sup> In another video of a THET Sambath interview, NUON Chea said:

They weren’t party cadres anymore because they had betrayed us. They were agents for foreigners. These people were killed. It was Pol Pot who made the final decision to kill. As for innocent people’s deaths, neither Pol Pot nor I knew too much. We only knew about the ex-cadres’ deaths because Pol Pot decided to kill them. So obviously we knew.<sup>13636</sup>

4152. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that NUON Chea intended the commission of these crimes as part of the CPK’s policy of identifying, arresting, isolating and “smashing” enemies. In particular, the evidence establishes that NUON Chea shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, enslavement, imprisonment, torture and the other inhumane acts through attacks against human dignity and conduct characterised as enforced disappearances. Having established that NUON Chea specifically intended the adverse treatment and discrimination of Party enemies, the Chamber finds that NUON Chea shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime against humanity of persecution on political grounds.

<sup>13633</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2379, 2412, 2589.

<sup>13634</sup> T. 9 June 2016 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/435.1, p. 58. See also, Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2231.

<sup>13635</sup> NUON Chea Interview by THET Sambath, E3/7209R, undated, ERN V00717048 (titled “on Confessions”).

<sup>13636</sup> NUON Chea Interview by THET Sambath, E3/7209R, undated, ERN V00717048 (titled “on Innocent Deaths”).

17.2.2.3. Targeting of specific groups17.2.2.3.1. Cham

4153. The Chamber has found that the crime of genocide and the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, imprisonment, torture, persecution on political and religious grounds, and the other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced transfer were established with respect to the treatment of the Cham.<sup>13637</sup> The Chamber has found that the foregoing crimes were encompassed by the common purpose as part of the CPK's policy targeting the Cham for adverse treatment.<sup>13638</sup>

4154. The Chamber has found the treatment of this group at the Wat Au Trakuon and Trea Village Security Centres constituted the implementation of a policy to identify, arrest, isolate and "smash" enemies.<sup>13639</sup> The Chamber has already addressed NUON Chea's specific intent to discriminate against enemies on the basis of their real or perceived political affiliations, as well as his instrumental role regarding the policy to identify, arrest, isolate and "smash" enemies, including the crimes against humanity of imprisonment, torture, murder and extermination.<sup>13640</sup> The Chamber has also found that in the case of the Cham, discriminatory policies that evolved over time were implemented to disperse the group, restrict their religious and cultural practices and kill those members who resisted assimilation.<sup>13641</sup> The Chamber accordingly finds that NUON Chea intended the commission of crimes as part of the CPK's policy targeting the Cham for adverse treatment. In particular, the evidence establishes that NUON Chea shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, imprisonment, torture and persecution on political and religious grounds against the Cham. Furthermore, as found above, the Chamber was satisfied that NUON Chea knew of the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced transfer.<sup>13642</sup> The Chamber finds that NUON Chea's knowledge taken together with his continued

---

<sup>13637</sup> Section 13.2.10: Treatment of the Cham: Legal Findings.

<sup>13638</sup> Section 16.4.3.1: Common Purpose: Cham.

<sup>13639</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3991-3994.

<sup>13640</sup> See above, Section 18.2.2.2: Security centres, execution sites and internal purges.

<sup>13641</sup> Sections 13.2.10.6: Treatment of the Cham: Legal Findings: Persecution on Religious Grounds.

<sup>13642</sup> See above, paras 4096, 4100.

participation in the CPK's policy to adversely treat the Cham demonstrate his direct intent in this regard.

4155. The Chamber recalls that it is not satisfied that NUON Chea knew that the deliberate killings of members of the Cham group were committed by physical perpetrators at the Wat Au Trakuon and Trea Village Security Centres with the intent to destroy, in whole or in part, the Cham group as such. It further finds that, conversely to other crimes, in the absence of any evidence demonstrating NUON Chea's genocidal intent to destroy the Cham ethnic and religious group, as such, NUON Chea is not responsible for genocide by killing members of the Cham group committed through the joint criminal enterprise. Accordingly, the Chamber will not impute responsibility for this crime to NUON Chea under the mode of liability of commission through a joint criminal enterprise.

4156. In sum, the Chamber finds that NUON Chea shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, imprisonment, torture, persecution on political grounds, persecution on religious grounds and other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced transfer. The Chamber, however, is not satisfied beyond reasonable doubt that NUON Chea shared the genocidal intent to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime of genocide by killing members of the Cham religious and ethnic group.

17.2.2.3.2. Vietnamese

4157. The Chamber has found that the crime of genocide and the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, deportation and persecution on racial grounds were established with regard to the treatment of the Vietnamese. In addition, the Chamber has found that a number of grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions were also established with regard to this group at S-21 Security Centre, including wilful killing, torture, inhumane treatment, wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health, wilful deprivation of the rights of a fair and regular trial and unlawful confinement.<sup>13643</sup> The Chamber has further found that these crimes were encompassed

---

<sup>13643</sup> Section 12.2.24: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings; Section 13.3.10: Treatment of the Vietnamese, Legal Findings.

by the common purpose throughout the entire DK period, with the exception of deportation as a crime against humanity, which was limited to the period between 17 April 1975 and April 1977, and genocide by killing, which was limited to the period between April 1977 and 6 January 1979.<sup>13644</sup>

4158. NUON Chea played a key role in advocating hatred of the Vietnamese. He consistently described the Vietnamese as a threat to the Khmer people and labelled them enemies,<sup>13645</sup> in line with the CPK's policy.<sup>13646</sup> The Chamber recalls that the Revolutionary Flag and the Revolutionary Youth, the contents of which was under NUON Chea's ultimate control, were used to disseminate information regarding people considered enemies by the Party. The Vietnamese ("Yuon") were discussed at length in these publications.<sup>13647</sup> Not once did NUON Chea deviate from the Party line; conversely, he consistently echoed it. NUON Chea's intent is further corroborated through his acts at S-21, where he instructed Duch to interrogate Vietnamese prisoners, whose particular confessions were recorded, edited by NUON Chea and broadcast on the radio.<sup>13648</sup> The Chamber thus finds that NUON Chea had the specific discriminatory intent regarding the crimes committed pursuant to the policy to target the Vietnamese.

4159. The "one against 30" policy expressly encompassed the total populations of both countries,<sup>13649</sup> thus including both combatants and civilians in this policy. NUON Chea publicly stated that the Cambodian people and the RAK had "crushed the Vietnamese strategy of 'Indochina Federation' aiming at swallowing the Kampuchea's territory and exterminating the [sic] Kampuchea's race".<sup>13650</sup> His perception of Vietnam as the ultimate threat and defence of the CPK's policies never wavered. When asked by THET Sambath, "Was it right to kill traitors?", NUON Chea replied:

I don't want to be accused of being brutal, but we have to consider whether it was reasonable given the threat they posed to our nation. We can't just think of the individual. Think how threatened our country would have been, if they had stayed alive. [...] Cambodia would have been lost for centuries and we would never have won her

<sup>13644</sup> Section 16.4.4.2: Common Purpose: Vietnamese.

<sup>13645</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3390.

<sup>13646</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3389; Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, paras 3839-3840, 3842-3844, 3851, 3853.

<sup>13647</sup> Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, paras 3819-3820, 3824, 3829, 3833, 3863.

<sup>13648</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2462, 2473-2474.

<sup>13649</sup> Revolutionary Flag, E3/4604, April 1978, pp. 5-6, 8-9, 24, ERN (En) 00519833, 00519834, 00519836, 00519837, 00519852.

<sup>13650</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, paras 3406, 3517.

back. Believe me if these traitors were alive, the Khmers as a people would have been finished. So I dare to suggest our decision was the correct one. If we had shown mercy to these people, the nation would have been lost. [...] I mean that we would be Vietnam's poodle until we were totally subjugated.<sup>13651</sup> 4160. The Chamber refers to NUON Chea's statements about the Vietnamese, examined above in Section 17.1.2.3.2. It considers that NUON Chea's words and actions during the DK period evince his contempt for the Vietnamese and direct intent to kill, on a large scale, the Vietnamese in Cambodia from April 1977 through 6 January 1979. The Chamber accordingly finds that NUON Chea shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crimes against humanity of murder and extermination against the Vietnamese in DK. Further, the Chamber is satisfied that the intent to kill was the result of NUON Chea's specific intent to discriminate against the Vietnamese on racial grounds. It accordingly finds that NUON Chea shared the specific intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime against humanity of persecution on racial grounds, and that the intended discriminatory acts were deliberate killing of Vietnamese, on a large scale.

4161. Furthermore, the Chamber considers that NUON Chea's words and actions during the DK period demonstrate his genocidal intent to destroy the Vietnamese as a racial, national and ethnic group, as such.<sup>13652</sup> In line with its findings in the preceding paragraph, the Chamber finds that the means by which this group was to be destroyed was through killing of Vietnamese in DK, on a large scale. The Chamber accordingly finds that NUON Chea shared the genocidal intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime of genocide by killing members of the Vietnamese racial, national and ethnic group.

4162. Lastly, the Chamber has found that NUON Chea knew of the protected status of Vietnamese prisoners at S-21 Security Centre,<sup>13653</sup> supported the revolutionary framework concerning enemies and shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, crimes underlying the policy to establish security

---

<sup>13651</sup> NUON Chea Interview by THET Sambath, E3/7209R, undated, ERN V00717048 (titled "on Killing Traitors". NUON Chea repeats the same in the clip titled "on the Nation").

<sup>13652</sup> See above, paras 4101-4102.

<sup>13653</sup> Section 4: General Overview, para. 340.

centres and execution sites.<sup>13654</sup> It accordingly finds that NUON Chea shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions against Vietnamese prisoners at S-21 Security Centre, including through wilful killing; torture; inhumane treatment; wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health; wilfully depriving prisoners of war or civilians of the rights of a fair and regular trial; and unlawful confinement.

17.2.2.3.3. Buddhists

4163. The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of persecution on religious ground was established as part of the CPK's policy targeting Buddhist monks for adverse treatment.<sup>13655</sup> It has further found that this crime was encompassed by the common purpose.<sup>13656</sup>

4164. NUON Chea was among the senior CPK leaders who decided to eliminate Buddhism in Cambodia. As discussed above, following meetings in Phnom Penh in May 1975, District Secretary Yeay Khom returned to Tram Kak District with instructions related to, among other things, the disrobing of Buddhist monks. NUON Chea further explained to the Chamber that in the speeches he gave during the DK era, he did not pay respect to monks as he did not want to mix religion with politics and that no monks were "participating" at the time. The Chamber recalls that monks were systematically defrocked in the aftermath of 17 April 1975, pagodas were destroyed, closed or converted for use for non-religious purposes.<sup>13657</sup> Moreover, in his speech to the Danish Communist Workers' Party in July 1978, NUON Chea showed his intent towards Buddhists by explaining how the Party had deliberately deceived monks in the months leading up to 17 April 1975 to garner their support while intending to abolish religion in Cambodia.<sup>13658</sup>

4165. The Chamber is satisfied that NUON Chea's actions demonstrate his specific intent to discriminate against Buddhists on the basis of their membership of that religious group. His support of the CPK's policies and their implementation

<sup>13654</sup> See above, paras 4137-4143, 4148-4152.

<sup>13655</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 1187.

<sup>13656</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4022.

<sup>13657</sup> Section 10.1.9: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Treatment of Buddhists; Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4015.

<sup>13658</sup> See above, para. 4104.

demonstrates his intent to eliminate Buddhism in Cambodia, a necessary component of which was the defrocking of monks. The Chamber finds that the evidence establishes that NUON Chea shared the specific intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime against humanity of persecution on religious grounds.

17.2.2.3.4. Former Khmer Republic officials

4166. The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of persecution on political grounds was established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives between 20 April 1975 and late May 1975, and from early 1977 through 6 January 1979 at 1st January Dam, S-21 Security Centre and Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre.<sup>13659</sup> It has further found that the crime was encompassed by the common purpose throughout the DK period as part of the CPK's policy targeting former Khmer Republic officials for adverse treatment.<sup>13660</sup>

4167. Further, the Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of murder was established with respect to former Khmer Republic officials at S-21 and Kraing Ta Chan Security Centres.<sup>13661</sup> It has found that, insofar as the crime was committed at these locations between 20 April 1975 and late May 1975 and from October 1975 through 6 January 1979, it was encompassed by the common purpose.<sup>13662</sup>

4168. NUON Chea was among the senior CPK leaders who during mass rallies and political training sessions in May 1975 urged vigilance and anger against enemies from the former LON Nol regime.<sup>13663</sup> Moreover, telegrams before the Chamber demonstrate that the arrest of former Khmer Republic soldiers and officials was routinely reported to NUON Chea during the DK period.<sup>13664</sup> Regardless, NUON Chea continued to disseminate and implement to common purpose in this regard, as demonstrated by the fact that "LON Nol traitors" were discussed at length in the CPK magazines

<sup>13659</sup> Section 10.1.13: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Legal Findings; Section 11.2.24: 1st January Dam Worksite: Legal Findings; Section 12.2.24: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings, Section 12.3.12: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings.

<sup>13660</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 4058-4060. The Chamber recalls that in this context the phrase "officials" includes civil servants and former military personnel.

<sup>13661</sup> Section 12.2.24: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings, Section 12.3.12: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings.

<sup>13662</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose: Former Khmer Republic Officials, paras 4051-4057, 4060.

<sup>13663</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4038.

<sup>13664</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4048.

Revolutionary Flag and Revolutionary Youth throughout the DK period, and were systematically accused of working together with the American imperialists or acting as “their lackeys”.<sup>13665</sup> Even before becoming Duch’s direct supervisor as S-21, NUON Chea was also directly involved in the operation of the Security Centre, where, as found above, former LON Nol soldiers and civil servants were detained and executed.<sup>13666</sup>

4169. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that NUON Chea intended the commission of crimes against officials (and their family members) of the former Khmer Republic. In particular, the evidence establishes that NUON Chea shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime against humanity of murder. Further, the Chamber finds that NUON Chea shared the specific intent of other JCE participants to discriminate against all officials of the former Khmer Republic on the basis of their political status, in particular their perceived ability to stage a counter-revolution. The Chamber therefore finds that NUON Chea shared the specific intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime against humanity of persecution on political grounds against former Khmer Republic officials throughout the DK period.

17.2.2.4. Regulation of marriage

4170. The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced marriage and rape within the context of forced marriage was established as part of the CPK’s nationwide policy to regulate marriage.<sup>13667</sup> It has further found that these crimes were encompassed by the common purpose.<sup>13668</sup>

4171. The Chamber recalls its finding that reports related to marriages were sent to Angkar.<sup>13669</sup> The Chamber thus finds that NUON Chea knew of the crimes committed pursuant to the policy to regulate marriage as he received such reports in his position of ultimate policy and decision-maker.<sup>13670</sup> Despite this knowledge, NUON Chea

<sup>13665</sup> Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, paras 3755, 3813, 3818, 3829, 3847.

<sup>13666</sup> See above, paras 4139, 4141. See also, Section 12.2.18: S-21 Security Centre: Former Khmer Republic Officials.

<sup>13667</sup> Section 14.4: Regulation of Marriage: Legal Findings.

<sup>13668</sup> Section 16.4.4: Common Purpose: Regulation of Marriage.

<sup>13669</sup> Section 14: Regulation of Marriage, para. 3568.

<sup>13670</sup> See above, para. 4110. See also, Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 516.

continued to further the common purpose in this regard through his active role as propagandist and educator. He covered the specific topics of Angkar's stance on family building and marriage as means to increase the population and achieve revolutionary goals in numerous Revolutionary Flag and Revolutionary Youth publications.<sup>13671</sup> Moreover, when asked about the DK government policy regarding population and development during an interview at the Asian parliamentarians' conference in Beijing in October 1981, NUON Chea confirmed that the DK government had pursued a policy of rapidly increasing its population.<sup>13672</sup>

4172. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that NUON Chea intended the commission of crimes as part of the CPK's nationwide policy regulating marriage. In particular, the evidence establishes that NUON Chea shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced marriage and rape in the context of forced marriage.

17.2.3. Conclusion on Joint Criminal Enterprise

4173. Having considered the evidence before it, the Chamber is satisfied that NUON Chea participated in the common purpose of the joint criminal enterprise. NUON Chea helped design, implement and disseminate the common purpose by publicly explaining, endorsing and advocating for the CPK's criminal policies. He did so through his leadership role as POL Pot's right hand, as Deputy Secretary of the CPK, as full-rights member of the Central and Standing Committees, and through his active involvement in propaganda and education. In addition, through his direct, extensive involvement in purges and the operation of S-21 Security Centre, NUON Chea executed the common purpose, using intermediaries such as Duch and direct perpetrators such as S-21 staff as the JCE's tools. In this regard, the Chamber recalls that the crimes at S-21 Security Centre (from August 1977) and in the course of internal purges are imputable to NUON Chea as JCE participant.<sup>13673</sup> Furthermore, regarding NUON Chea's involvement in S-21 prior to August 1977, the time period for which the crimes committed at S-21 are imputable to SON Sen as JCE participant,<sup>13674</sup> the Chamber considered NUON Chea's acts of reading confessions and ordering interrogations, exhumations and documentations of bodies. Accordingly, the Chamber finds that NUON Chea made a significant contribution to the commission of crimes within the scope of Case 002/02.

<sup>13671</sup> Section 14: Regulation of Marriage, paras 3549-3555.

<sup>13672</sup> Section 14: Regulation of Marriage, para. 3553.

<sup>13673</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4070.

4174. Having established that direct perpetrators acted to further the common purpose at the behest or command of JCE participants,<sup>13675</sup> and having established that NUON Chea shared the intent of other JCE members to commit crimes underlying the common purpose,<sup>13676</sup> the Chamber finds that NUON Chea committed, through a joint criminal enterprise (in its basic form), the crimes against humanity of murder (insofar as murder with direct intent was established at the Trapeang Thma Dam and 1st January Dam Worksites, the S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres, and with respect to the Cham, the Vietnamese and former Khmer Republic officials); extermination (as established at the S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres, and with respect to the Vietnamese and Cham); deportation (as established with respect to the treatment of the Vietnamese); enslavement (as established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, 1st January Dam Worksite, Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, and the S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres); imprisonment (as established at the S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres, and with respect to the treatment of the Cham); torture (as established at the S-21 and Kraing Ta Chan Security Centres and with respect to the treatment of the Cham); persecution on political grounds (as established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, 1st January Dam Worksite and Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, the S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres, and with respect to former Khmer Republic officials and the Cham), persecution on religious grounds (as established with respect to Buddhists at the Tram Kak Cooperatives and the Cham); persecution on racial grounds (as established with respect to Vietnamese, including at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, S-21 and Au Kanseng Security Centres); the other inhumane acts of attacks against human dignity (as established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, 1st January Dam Worksite, Kampong

---

<sup>13674</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4070.

<sup>13675</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4073.

<sup>13676</sup> See above, Section 17.2.2: The Criminal Responsibility of NUON Chea: Commission through a Joint Criminal Enterprise: Intent.

Chhnang Airfield Construction Site and the S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres), other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as enforced disappearances (as established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, 1st January Dam Worksite, Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site and the Kraing Ta Chan and Phnom Kraol Security Centres), forced transfer (as established with respect to the Cham), forced marriage and rape in the context of forced marriage (as established within the context of the nationwide regulation of marriage).

4175. The Chamber further finds that NUON Chea committed, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime of genocide by killing members of the Vietnamese ethnic, national and racial group and committed, through a joint criminal enterprise, the grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions of wilful killing, torture, inhuman treatment, wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health, wilfully depriving a prisoner of war or a civilian the rights of a fair and regular trial and unlawful confinement of a civilian under the Geneva Conventions at S-21 Security Centre.

4176. The Chamber has found that the evidence did not establish NUON Chea's specific intent to destroy the Cham ethnic and religious group, as such. Accordingly, the Chamber finds that NUON Chea is not responsible for committing, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime of genocide by killing members of the Cham group.

17.3. Other Modes of Liability

4177. In addition to the commission of crimes through a joint criminal enterprise, the Closing Order charges NUON Chea with planning, instigating, ordering and aiding and abetting crimes (as delimited by the Case 002 Additional Severance Decision). In the alternative to these modes of liability, the Closing Order charges NUON Chea under the mode of superior responsibility.<sup>13677</sup>

4178. The Chamber observes that the Closing Order does not particularise specific facts under the present modes of liability.<sup>13678</sup> Nevertheless, it notes that all the modes of liability under which NUON Chea has been charged share a common factual base, much of which has been discussed above in Section 17.2: Commission through a Joint

<sup>13677</sup> Closing Order, paras 1543-1560; Case 002 Additional Severance Decision Annex, para. 6(ii).

<sup>13678</sup> See e.g., Closing Order, paras 1543-1545, 1547-1548, 1550-1551, 1553-1554.

Criminal Enterprise. Because the Closing Order charges all possible forms of responsibility in respect of each charge, the Chamber may choose under which form or forms of responsibility to assess the evidence in respect of each Accused. The Chamber is not obliged to make exhaustive factual findings on each and every charged form of responsibility,<sup>13679</sup> and accordingly, will not do so in the present case. Moreover, where an accused is found to be both directly responsible and responsible as a superior in relation to the same conduct, the Chamber will convict on the basis of the former and consider an accused's superior position as an aggravating factor in sentencing.<sup>13680</sup> 4179. Having considered all of the evidence and in light of NUON Chea's instrumental role in the JCE, the Chamber finds that commission through a JCE most accurately and appropriately reflects NUON Chea's responsibility for the crimes that fall within the common purpose and for which NUON Chea's knowledge and intent has been established. For these crimes, the Chamber will therefore not analyse NUON Chea's responsibility under the other, additionally charged, modes of liability. Regarding the crimes against humanity of murder committed with dolus eventualis as established at Tram Kak Cooperatives, 1st January Dam Worksite, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, S-21 Security Centre, Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre and Phnom Kraol Security Centre, the Chamber recalls that these do not fall within the common purpose. The Chamber will consider NUON Chea's responsibility for these crimes under aiding and abetting, as the Chamber finds that this most accurately reflects NUON Chea's role vis-à-vis these murders. Additionally, the Chamber will assess NUON Chea's responsibility for the crime of genocide regarding the Cham under superior responsibility, as the Chamber finds that this most accurately reflects NUON Chea's role vis-à-vis this crime. Finally, where appropriate, the Chamber will consider NUON Chea's position as a superior for sentencing purposes.

<sup>13679</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 688; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 472; Milutinović et al. Trial Judgement, para. 76 (Volume I).

<sup>13680</sup> See above, Section 15: Applicable Law: Individual Criminal Responsibility, para. 3702; Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 688; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 539; Blaškić Appeal Judgement, para. 91.

17.3.1. Aiding and Abetting

4180. As a preliminary matter, the Chamber recalls that the present mode of liability does not require the existence of a plan or agreement between the aider or abettor and the perpetrator. Instead, it requires that the accused knew that a crime would likely be committed; that his or her conduct assisted or facilitated the commission of the crime; and that he or she was aware of the essential elements of the crime committed. The accused need not have shared the perpetrator's intent to commit the crime, including the specific intent, where applicable.<sup>13681</sup>

4181. In CPK propaganda materials such as the Revolutionary Flag magazine and at indoctrination and study sessions such as the series held in May 1975 in Phnom Penh, NUON Chea disseminated, endorsed, praised and encouraged the Party's economic policies providing for the strategic allocation of labour and class struggle through population movements and the establishment and operation of cooperatives and worksites, the Party's targeting of enemies and consequential establishment and operation of security centres and execution sites, the Party's aim to transform the population into an atheistic and homogenous Khmer society of worker-peasants which led to the targeting of specific groups and the Party's aim to increase the population which led to CPK to devise a policy to regulate marriage.

4182. NUON Chea's encouragement and moral support is particularly demonstrated by the following appearances he made throughout the country: between 20 and 25 May 1975, NUON Chea and other leaders instructed representatives from military units and all district, sector and zone secretaries on the Party's policies concerning the organisation of cooperatives, elimination of private property, prohibition of currency and markets, and the building of dams and canals;<sup>13682</sup> throughout the DK era, NUON Chea conducted study sessions with cadres in Phnom Penh, including with cadres who were being relocated to other areas of the country in light of purges;<sup>13683</sup> NUON Chea also held speeches, study sessions and rallies on special occasions, such as the January anniversaries of the RAK, where he lectured on how to make the distinction between <sup>13681</sup> Section 15: Applicable Law: Individual Criminal Responsibility: Aiding and Abetting, para. 3722.

---

<sup>13682</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3736.

<sup>13683</sup> See above, paras 4089, 4129, 4131.

friends and enemies, and how to detect and “smash” the latter;<sup>13684</sup> NUON Chea summonsed higher-level CPK cadres, such as sector secretaries, to attend study sessions in Phnom Penh;<sup>13685</sup> NUON Chea held speeches and study sessions outside of Phnom Penh in the provinces for district secretaries and heads of cooperatives concerning the cultivation of rice and how to dig canals, build dams and organise workforces among cooperatives;<sup>13686</sup> NUON Chea visited the 1st January Dam Worksite, where he met with the leaders responsible for its construction, reviewed the status of the Dam’s construction as well as the rice cultivation and the performance of cooperatives in the area.<sup>13687</sup>

4183. In addition to his appearances at meetings, rallies and study sessions, NUON Chea’s role as one of the principal authors of the Revolutionary Flag magazine allowed him to continue spreading and endorsing the Party line.<sup>13688</sup> The Revolutionary Flag and the Revolutionary Youth were both used to disseminate information regarding people considered enemies by the Party, and included speeches by NUON Chea.<sup>13689</sup> As noted above, real or perceived enemies were discussed at length throughout these CPK publications, for instance: the former regime of LON Nol; non-revolutionary individuals (feudalists, capitalists, etc.); American imperialists or CIA; and the Vietnamese (“Yuon”).<sup>13690</sup> Further, information regarding occurring crimes undeniably reached the Party Centre also from outside DK: in 1976 and 1977, Amnesty International sent two letters, one to the recently-appointed President of the State Presidium KHIEU Samphan in 1977, expressing concern at reports of summary executions and maltreatment of civilians and requesting that inquiries be made. The appeal was renewed in 1978 and at this time, Amnesty International was joined by the UN Commission on Human Rights.<sup>13691</sup> The Chamber is thus satisfied that NUON Chea

<sup>13684</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3934; Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, paras 3801-3802.

<sup>13685</sup> Section 12.5: Phnom Kraol Security Centre, paras 3040, 3055.

<sup>13686</sup> Section 11.2: 1st January Dam, para. 1479.

<sup>13687</sup> Section 11.2: 1st January Dam, paras 1486-1488, 1490.

<sup>13688</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 545; Section 6: Communication Structures, para. 476.

<sup>13689</sup> Section 16.3 Real or Perceived Enemies, para. 3863; Section 6: Communication Structures, paras 473-477.

<sup>13690</sup> Section 16.3 Real or Perceived Enemies, para. 3863.

<sup>13691</sup> See above, para. 4113.

was at all times aware of the elements of the crime against humanity of murder committed with dolus eventualis and facilitated their commission.

4184. This conduct had a substantial effect on the commission of the crimes. The Chamber is satisfied that it encouraged lower-level CPK officials to act zealously in implementing the Party's policies.

4185. The Chamber is also satisfied that NUON Chea was aware that his actions and support of the Party's policies to transfer populations and identify class enemies legitimated and fortified the resolve of CPK soldiers and officials to commit the crimes. Through his support for the common purpose and its intrinsically linked criminal policies, the Chamber is also satisfied that NUON Chea was aware of the essential elements of the crimes.

4186. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber is satisfied that NUON Chea is responsible for aiding and abetting the crimes against humanity of murder committed with dolus eventualis at S-21 Security Centre, Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, Phnom Kraol Security Centre, Tram Kak Cooperatives, 1st January Dam Worksite, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite and Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site.

17.3.2. Superior Responsibility

17.3.2.1. Superior-subordinate relationship

4187. At all times during the DK period, NUON Chea was Deputy Secretary of the Party and a full-rights member of the Standing and Central Committees. Along with POL Pot, the only person who was officially senior to him, NUON Chea exercised ultimate decision-making power.<sup>13692</sup> The CPK's upper echelon instructed the lower echelon through the chain of both the administrative hierarchy, from the zones to the sub-district entities, and the military hierarchy, from the divisions to their subunits via SON Sen and the General Staff.<sup>13693</sup> While the Chamber was not satisfied based on the available evidence that NUON Chea was a member of the Military Committee,<sup>13694</sup> he nevertheless exerted considerable influence on DK military policy and its implementation. For instance, in a meeting of the Standing Committee in March 1976, during which POL Pot was absent, NUON Chea provided instructions concerning the border situation with Vietnam, indicating that both political and diplomatic measures were required, as well as military force.<sup>13695</sup> In other instances, NUON Chea was requested by SON Sen to provide direction. SON Sen forwarded written messages and reports received from military commanders to senior CPK leaders, including NUON Chea, with handwritten annotations and requests for instructions.<sup>13696</sup> Moreover, NUON Chea was involved in the supervision of the operation of S-21 Security Centre, and had a direct superior-subordinate relationship with Duch from August 1977 until the fall of the DK on 6 January 1979.<sup>13697</sup> Accordingly, the Chamber finds that in fact a superior-subordinate relationship existed between NUON Chea and both the zone secretaries and military commanders throughout the DK period, and that through the strict chain of command of both the administrative and military sides of the DK government, NUON Chea had an indirect relationship of subordination with the persons who committed the crimes within the scope of Case 002/02.

<sup>13692</sup> See above, para. 4127; Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 561.

<sup>13693</sup> Section 6: Communication Structures, paras 482-501, 507-515; Section 5: Administrative Structures, paras 430, 466, 479.

<sup>13694</sup> Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 359; Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 551.

4188. Furthermore, the CPK Statute provided that any Party member or Party echelon which opposed the Party's organisational stances violated Party discipline and was subject to sanctions, including removal from duties and rejection from the Party.<sup>13698</sup> The Chamber recalls that NUON Chea, in addition to being responsible for propaganda and training of cadres, was also assigned responsibility for discipline.<sup>13699</sup>

4189. Accordingly, the Chamber is satisfied that by virtue of the CPK Statute and his assigned responsibilities, NUON Chea possessed both de facto (in fact) and de jure (in law) authority to discipline insubordinate members of the Party and military.

17.3.2.2. "Knew or had reason to know"

4190. As outlined above, through his senior leadership roles, NUON Chea knew or had reason to know that subordinates would commit or had committed the crimes

<sup>13695</sup> Standing Committee Minutes, E3/218, 26 March 1976, ERN (En) 00182656-00182657.

<sup>13696</sup> Section 6: Communication Structures, para. 508.

<sup>13697</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 560; Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2210-2215.

<sup>13698</sup> Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, paras 3765-3766.

<sup>13699</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, paras 542, 546-547.

pursuant to the CPK's criminal policies. In this regard the Chamber considers that NUON Chea, as CPK Deputy Secretary and as a full rights member of both the CPK Central Committee and its Standing Committee, was privy to information which would necessarily have put him on notice, at the time of the crimes, that the crimes were being committed. During Central or Standing Committee meetings, the members received reports, discussed and planned the socialist revolution and the policies through which to achieve it. As well as attending formal Party meetings, NUON Chea also resided, dined and met informally with other senior Party leaders. Accordingly, the Chamber is satisfied that NUON Chea obtained knowledge of the crimes in his capacity as Deputy Secretary and through his membership of the Central and Standing Committees.<sup>13700</sup> 4191. NUON Chea received reports and telegrams from military leaders, putting him on notice of the situation on the battlefields as well as on the border with Vietnam.<sup>13701</sup> NUON Chea travelled throughout the country, personally witnessed the circumstances at the 1st January Dam Worksite, and was actively engaged in purges and the operation of S-21 Security Centre.

4192. The Chamber has found that the evidence did not establish beyond reasonable doubt that NUON Chea knew that genocide was committed against the Cham.<sup>13702</sup> The Chamber recalls, however, that the applicable mens rea standard under the present mode of liability is twofold: "knew" or "had reason to know", the latter of which is of significance here. A superior has reason to know that a crime has been, or was about to be, committed where he possessed information sufficiently alarming to justify further enquiry.<sup>13703</sup> The Chamber further notes that "[a] showing that a superior had some general information in his possession, which would put him on notice of possible unlawful acts by his subordinates, would be sufficient to prove that he 'had reason to know'".<sup>13704</sup> The information may be oral or written and need not provide specific details about the unlawful acts.<sup>13705</sup> Moreover, the relevant information "only needs to

<sup>13700</sup> See above, para. 4082.

<sup>13701</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, paras 555-556; Section 4: General Overview, paras 289, 339; Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, paras 3408-3410.

<sup>13702</sup> See above, Section 17.1.2.3.1: The Criminal Responsibility of NUON Chea: Knowledge Relevant to the Modes of Liability: Knowledge Concurrent with the Commission of Crimes: Targeting of specific groups: Cham.

<sup>13703</sup> Section 15: Applicable Law: Individual Criminal Responsibility, para. 3725.

<sup>13704</sup> Delalić et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 238.

<sup>13705</sup> Delalić et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 238.

have been provided or available to the superior”; it is not required that the superior “actually acquainted himself with the information”.<sup>13706</sup>

4193. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber considers that NUON Chea received, among others, information from KE Pauk relating to the mistreatment of the Cham.<sup>13707</sup> The Chamber also considers that the CPK imposed restrictions that were discriminatory in fact and deliberately perpetrated with the intent to discriminate against the Cham because of their religious and cultural practices,<sup>13708</sup> and that NUON Chea was instrumental in developing and implementing such Party policies.<sup>13709</sup> The Chamber further considers NUON Chea’s close relationship with KE Pauk, his senior place within the Party and the CPK’s reporting structures in general, all of which gave NUON Chea access to information relevant to unlawful acts committed upon the Cham group by subordinates. The Chamber is satisfied that, taken together, these factors demonstrate that NUON Chea had information in his possession that justified further inquiry. The Chamber is therefore satisfied that NUON Chea at the very least had reason to know that genocide had been, or was about to be, committed against the Cham.

4194. In sum, the Chamber is thus satisfied that NUON Chea knew that his subordinates were about to or had committed crimes, or at the very least NUON Chea had reason to know this, given that he possessed information sufficiently alarming to justify further inquiry. Furthermore, in view of NUON Chea’s senior leadership role and his own contributions to CPK magazines and education sessions, the Chamber is also satisfied that NUON Chea was aware that his subordinates possessed discriminatory intent and knew, or at the very least had reason to know, that their acts would constitute persecution on political, racial and religious grounds, and genocide.

17.3.2.3. Failure to prevent or punish

4195. Notwithstanding, NUON Chea failed to take any reasonable measures to prevent further crimes at the hands of the direct perpetrators at the cooperatives and worksites, security centres and execution sites and the direct perpetrators carrying out

<sup>13706</sup> Delalić et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 239.

<sup>13707</sup> See above, paras 4095-4100. See also, Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham, para. 3202.

<sup>13708</sup> Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham, para. 3329.

<sup>13709</sup> See above, paras 4118-4143.

crimes pursuant to targeting policies and the regulation of marriage. During the DK period, there was no functioning justice system.<sup>13710</sup> Whatever discipline cadres were subjected to, an area informally under NUON Chea's responsibility,<sup>13711</sup> this only pertained to whether or not cadres adhered to the CPK's notion of correct revolutionary behaviour.<sup>13712</sup> 4196. The Chamber finds that NUON Chea had the material ability to prevent or punish the crimes. In this regard, the Chamber recalls NUON Chea position of power and his role, together with POL Pot, as ultimate decision and policy-maker.

4197. The Chamber considers that NUON Chea failed to take necessary and reasonable measures to prevent or punish the crimes committed pursuant to the CPK's criminal policies. In this regard, the Chamber recalls that not only did NUON Chea not take any steps to prevent or punish crimes, he partly caused their commission by directly ordering them.<sup>13713</sup> Consequently, the Chamber is satisfied that NUON Chea is responsible as a superior for the crimes against humanity, grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions and genocide, which thus includes the crime of genocide by killing members of the Cham ethnic and religious group as well as the crime of genocide by killing members of the Vietnamese ethnic, national and racial group as established under JCE,<sup>13714</sup> and additionally, the crimes against humanity of murder committed with dolus eventualis at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, 1st January Dam Worksite, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, S-21 Security Centre, Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre and Phnom Kraol Security Centre, and the crime of genocide by killing members of the Cham group.

---

<sup>13710</sup> Section 5: Administrative Structures, paras 417-418; Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3944-3957.

<sup>13711</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 547.

<sup>13712</sup> Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, paras 3765, 3845-3846. The Chamber recalls that the CPK Statute, adopted at the Fourth Party Congress held in January 1976, sets out the Party line with respect to counter-revolutionary ideologies and behaviour. It states that “[t]he Party absolutely opposes any political, ideological, or organizational violation of organizational discipline through independentism, liberalism, sectarianism, or nepotism which, destroys Party solidarity and unity, and absolutely opposes any creation of cliques to break up the Party”. See CPK Statute, E3/130, undated, p. 4, ERN (En) 00184025; Section 5: Administrative Structures, paras 345, 396, 398.

<sup>13713</sup> See above, paras 4082, 4138-4143, 4149, 4173.

<sup>13714</sup> See above, paras 4174-4175.

17.4. Overall Conclusion on Individual Criminal Responsibility

4198. The Chamber has found that NUON Chea committed, through a joint criminal enterprise: (a) the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, deportation, enslavement, imprisonment, torture, persecution on political, religious and racial grounds, and the other inhumane acts through attacks against human dignity and conduct characterised as enforced disappearances, forced transfer, forced marriage and rape in the context of forced marriage; (b) the crime of genocide by killing members of the Vietnamese ethnic, national and racial group; and (c) grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions of wilful killing, torture, inhuman treatment, wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health, wilfully depriving a prisoner of war or a civilian the rights of a fair and regular trial and unlawful confinement of a civilian under the Geneva Conventions at S-21 Security Centre. Accordingly, the Chamber enters a conviction for the commission of crimes through a joint criminal enterprise insofar as NUON Chea shared the direct, discriminatory and specific intent of other JCE members.<sup>13715</sup>

4199. Additionally, with respect to the deaths at cooperatives, worksites and security centres as a result of dolus eventualis (which were not encompassed by the common purpose), the Chamber has found that NUON Chea aided and abetted the crime against humanity of murder committed with dolus eventualis at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, 1st January Dam Worksite, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, S-21 Security Centre, Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre and Phnom Kraol Security Centre.<sup>13716</sup> In the present circumstances, the Chamber finds that NUON Chea's conduct is most appropriately characterised under the mode of aiding and abetting, and accordingly, enters a conviction for aiding and abetting the crime against humanity of murder with dolus eventualis at the above sites.

4200. Finally, the Chamber has found that NUON Chea is responsible as a superior for all the crimes committed pursuant to the CPK's criminal policies which fall within the scope of Case 002/02. This includes the crime of genocide by killing members of the Cham ethnic and religious group. However, having found that, first, NUON Chea was directly responsible for these crimes through his participation in the JCE except for the crime of genocide of the Cham and the crime against humanity of murder committed with dolus eventualis at S-21 Security Centre, Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, Phnom Kraol Security Centre, Tram Kak Cooperatives, 1st January Dam Worksite, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite and Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, and second, that NUON Chea is responsible for aiding and abetting the aforementioned crimes committed with dolus eventualis, the Chamber only enters a conviction under the doctrine of superior responsibility for the crime of genocide by killing members of the Cham ethnic and religious group. For the remainder, the Chamber will instead consider NUON Chea's superior position in sentencing.

<sup>13715</sup> Section 17.2.3: The Criminal Responsibility of NUON Chea: Conclusion on Joint Criminal Enterprise.

<sup>13716</sup> See above, paras 4177, 4179-4186.

18. THE CRIMINAL RESPONSIBILITY OF KHIEU SAMPHAN

4201. As limited to Case 002/02, the Closing Order charges KHIEU Samphan with the commission of crimes against humanity, grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions and genocide by killing members of the Vietnamese and Cham populations through a joint criminal enterprise in its basic form.<sup>13717</sup> In addition, it charges KHIEU Samphan with the crimes underlying these charges under the modes of liability of planning, instigating, ordering, aiding and abetting and, in the alternative, superior responsibility.<sup>13718</sup>

4202. KHIEU Samphan denied knowledge of any crimes during the DK period or his complicity therein before and during proceedings in Case 002.<sup>13719</sup> He denied being a senior leader of the CPK and rejected having been part of high-level decision-making processes in DK.<sup>13720</sup> He maintained that he was an “intellectual” of the “feudal class” who was neither trusted by the Party leadership nor considered to be a true Party member. In this regard, KHIEU Samphan claimed that he was merely “tolerated” within the CPK and was “considered useless”.<sup>13721</sup> Accordingly, by virtue of his

<sup>13717</sup> Closing Order, paras 1521-1531, 1536-1537, 1540-1541; Case 002 Additional Severance Decision Annex, para. 6(i).

<sup>13718</sup> Closing Order, paras 1543-1560; Case 002 Additional Severance Decision Annex, para. 6(ii).

<sup>13719</sup> T. 23 June 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/528.1, pp. 36-38 (denying knowledge about crimes related to the regulation of marriage, discrimination of New People, minorities and religious adherents, extermination and genocide of the Vietnamese); T. 23 November 2011 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/15.1, p. 15 (generally); T. 27 May 2013 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/197.1, pp. 82-83 (killings); T. 29 May 2013 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/198.1, pp. 18, 87 (in response to Civil Party statements of suffering); T. 30 May 2013 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/199.1, pp. 17 (atrocities), 81 (“[N]ever had I known the atrocity committed by the military commanders and leaders. [...] I did not know the great suffering of our people.”); Book by Khieu S.: Cambodia’s Recent History and the Reasons Behind the Decisions I Made, E3/18, pp. 98, ERN (En) 00103772 (“My knowledge of the extent of the suffering of 1975-1979 was limited”), 119, ERN (En) 00103782 (claiming he was unaware of POL Pot’s “ultra-radical policy and his brutal methods” or crimes and atrocities at the time).

<sup>13720</sup> T. 23 November 2011 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/15.1, p. 17; T. 13 December 2011 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/21.1, p. 95; T. 27 May 2013 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/197.1, pp. 23, 83; T. 29 May 2013 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/198.1, pp. 55, 85, 88; T. 30 May 2013 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/199.1, p. 17; T. 4 June 2013 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/200.1, p. 24; KHIEU Samphan Written Record of Adversarial Hearing, E3/557, 19 November 2007, p. 4, ERN (En) 00153269. See also, T. 31 October 2013 (Closing Statements (Case 002/01)), E1/237.1, pp. 70-71; Documentary by D. Aronowitsch and S. Lindberg: Facing Genocide – Khieu Samphan and Pol Pot, E3/4201R, ERN V00720414, 00:53:02-00:53:41.

<sup>13721</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, para. 576 (fn. 1805).

“confinement” in Phnom Penh,<sup>13722</sup> and as a result of the Party’s policy of secrecy,<sup>13723</sup> KHIEU Samphan claimed that he knew nothing, saw nothing and heard nothing during the DK period. All that he discovered about the DK he claimed to have learned after the fall of the regime in early 1979.<sup>13724</sup>

4203. The assessment of KHIEU Samphan’s criminal responsibility will rest on the Chamber’s assessment of his roles, functions and conduct during the DK period as presented during Case 002. In evaluating the extent of his contemporaneous knowledge of, and contribution to, the commission of crimes and/or intent to commit the crimes charged, the Chamber will consider the totality of KHIEU Samphan’s statements and conduct including, where appropriate, statements made after the fall of the DK.

18.1. Knowledge Relevant to the Modes of Liability

4204. KHIEU Samphan’s knowledge of the policies, patterns of conduct and specific crimes falling within the scope of Case 002/02 is relevant to the Chamber’s assessment of all forms of responsibility,<sup>13725</sup> and will therefore be addressed first. The requisite level of knowledge varies depending on whether the criminal liability of the Accused <sup>13722</sup> See e.g., T. 30 May 2013 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/199.1, p. 80 (“From 1970 to 1979, I had to live close to the leaders of the Democratic Kampuchea”); Book by Khieu S.: Cambodia’s Recent History and the Reasons Behind the Decisions I Made, E3/18, p. 119, ERN (En) 00103782 (stating that he “cloistered” himself in K-1 “without the slightest idea that [POL Pot’s] ultra-radical policy and his brutal methods were bleeding the nation dry and making a weak defendant against Vietnam. [...] I was unaware of [the crimes and massacres] at the time.”); I Knew Nothing (Stéphanie Giry, Newsweek International), E3/629, 18 September 2006, ERN (En) 00524527 (stating that he was isolated at headquarters in Phnom Penh and “knew nothing of what was happening in the countryside”). See also, T. 31 October 2013 (Closing Statements (Case 002/01)), E1/237.1, p. 73 (“I did not know what happened subsequently following the victory”).

<sup>13723</sup> T. 23 November 2011 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/15.1, p. 16; T. 29 May 2013 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/198.1, p. 88; KHIEU Samphan Written Record of Adversarial Hearing, E3/557, 19 November 2007, p. 4, ERN (En) 00153269; KHIEU Samphan Interview by Radio Free Asia, E3/713, 1 December 2007, ERN (En) 00177984; KHIEU Samphan Letter to the Co-Investigating Judges, E3/112, 8 January 2008, p. 2, ERN (En) 00170882; Book by Khieu S.: Cambodia’s Recent History and the Reasons Behind the Decisions I Made, E3/18, pp. 83, ERN (En) 00103764, 141, ERN (En) 00103793; Documentary by D. Aronowitsch and S. Lindberg: Facing Genocide – Khieu Samphan and Pol Pot, E3/4201R, ERN V00720414, 00:32:10-00:32:52.

<sup>13724</sup> KHIEU Samphan Written Record of Adversarial Hearing, E3/557, 19 November 2007, p. 4, ERN (En) 00153269; KHIEU Samphan Interview Record, E3/210, 14 December 2007, pp. 2, ERN (En) 00156948, 3-4, ERN (En) 00156949-00156950; Book by Khieu S.: Cambodia’s Recent History and the Reasons Behind the Decisions I Made, E3/18, pp. 127, 141, ERN (En) 00103786, 00103793; I Knew Nothing (Stéphanie Giry, Newsweek International), E3/629, 18 September 2006, ERN (En) 00524528. See also, T. 23 June 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/528.1, p. 37.

<sup>13725</sup> For the applicable law on each mode of liability, see Section 15: Applicable Law: Individual Criminal Responsibility.

materialises before, concurrent with or after the commission of the crimes.<sup>13726</sup> Therefore, in this section, the Chamber will examine what KHIEU Samphan knew prior to, concurrent with and after the commission of the crimes falling within the scope of Case 002/02.

4205. KHIEU Samphan made various admissions concerning his general knowledge of the policies and crimes being committed by the CPK. The Chamber will assess these in turn to determine the extent of KHIEU Samphan's knowledge about crimes during the DK period.

18.1.1. Awareness of the Substantial Likelihood of the Commission of Crimes

4206. Through his doctoral thesis published ten years prior to joining the CPK, KHIEU Samphan advocated for the necessity of “detering” the capitalist classes from their “unproductive” activities, “encouraging” them to participate in production and the organisation of cooperatives to increase production in Cambodia.<sup>13727</sup> To bring about such a radical transformation, KHIEU Samphan opined that “a package of very strict measures” was “absolutely essential”.<sup>13728</sup> The Chamber has accepted that KHIEU Samphan's thesis was not a strict “blueprint” for the policies that were ultimately enacted during the DK period.<sup>13729</sup> However, as established in the sections that follow, KHIEU Samphan's thesis demonstrates his positive disposition toward the CPK's policies of collectivism, including through the population's subjugation to state production initiatives.

4207. Between KHIEU Samphan's induction into the CPK ranks in 1969 and the Party's victory on 17 April 1975, policies were planned, tested and implemented in “liberated” areas, and patterns of conduct emerged which were evident to KHIEU Samphan as a prominent member of the CPK leadership. In a process initiated in May 1972 and confirmed one year later, the Central Committee (of which KHIEU Samphan

<sup>13726</sup> Section 15: Applicable Law: Individual Criminal Responsibility, paras 3715, 3717, 3719-3720, 3722, 3725.

<sup>13727</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, para. 567.

<sup>13728</sup> Thesis by Khieu S.: Cambodia's Economy and Industrial Development, E3/123, March 1979, p. 75, ERN (En) 00750608.

<sup>13729</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, para. 568.

was then part<sup>13730</sup>) decided to close markets and organise cooperatives by forcibly and communally harnessing human resources to increase rice production.<sup>13731</sup> By September 1972, KHIEU Samphan and other CPK leaders were calling for the “elimination” of the Khmer Republic leadership and planning the country’s liberation from republican forces through violent means.<sup>13732</sup> By 1973, the CPK was executing its political opponents and was conducting purges within ranks from 1974.<sup>13733</sup> Between 1973 and 1975, Buddhist monks were variously persecuted in liberated areas, pressured to disrobe and subjugated to collectivist activities.<sup>13734</sup> The CPK had also laid out its policy on family building by early 1974 and had begun arranging the marriages of cadres.<sup>13735</sup> Before 1975, those affiliated with Vietnam were the objects of high suspicion by the CPK and were at times singled out for execution.<sup>13736</sup>

4208. The Chamber has found that the foregoing policies were implemented during the DK period in pursuit of the common purpose and involved the commission of crimes.<sup>13737</sup> In his capacity as GRUNK Deputy Prime Minister, Minister of National Defence and CPNLAF Commander-in-Chief, KHIEU Samphan fortified the FUNK and GRUNK façade that obscured the CPK’s operations after 17 April 1975. During this time, KHIEU Samphan held important positions, attended meetings of the Standing Committee where important matters were discussed and crucial decisions were made, lived and worked in close proximity to other senior members and travelled throughout liberated zones.<sup>13738</sup> Despite occasional travel outside the country, this proximity to the Party Centre ensured KHIEU Samphan’s ongoing knowledge of the development of plans, their implementation and the substantial likelihood that crimes within the scope of Case 002/02 would occur. As discussed in further detail in the following sections, KHIEU Samphan personally issued statements on the above topics, was privy to public statements made by members of the Party Centre, received CPK circulars, and attended and presented at training and indoctrination sessions where the implementation of the

<sup>13730</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, para. 600.

<sup>13731</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, para. 239.

<sup>13732</sup> Section 16.4.3.4.1.1: Common Purpose: Targeting of Specific Groups: Former Khmer Republic Officials: Existence of Policy: Pre-17 April 1975.

<sup>13733</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3937, 3940.

<sup>13734</sup> Section 3.4: Buddhism in Cambodia before 1975.

<sup>13735</sup> Section 3.5: Marriage in Cambodia before 1975; Section 14: Regulation of Marriage, para. 3540.

<sup>13736</sup> Section 13.3.5.2: Evidence of a Policy Targeting the Vietnamese. See above, fn. 13733.

<sup>13737</sup> Section 16.4.5: Common Purpose: Legal Findings.

<sup>13738</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan.

criminal policies was discussed. The Chamber is therefore satisfied that KHIEU Samphan knew of the above CPK policies and of the resulting patterns of conduct adopted in order to implement them. It finds that KHIEU Samphan knew of the substantial likelihood that further implementation of these policies would result in the crimes committed within the scope of Case 002/02.

18.1.2. Knowledge Concurrent with the Commission of the Crimes

4209. The Chamber considers that evidence of KHIEU Samphan's knowledge of crimes at the time of their commission is most clearly canvassed by the policies through which the common purpose was implemented.

18.1.2.1. Cooperatives and worksites

4210. In court, KHIEU Samphan claimed that he was unaware that the construction of the country entailed "such great loss" during the DK period.<sup>13739</sup> As shown by his contribution to the establishment and operation of cooperatives and worksites,<sup>13740</sup> KHIEU Samphan maintained outward support for the cooperative movement until the very fall of the DK. Only in 1981 did he acknowledge that "Democratic Kampuchea did some good things and also some bad things", noting that after 1979, a new political program was implemented by the CPK – including the abolition of collectivism – which finally left people "free to grow their rice and vegetables".<sup>13741</sup> Indeed, he acknowledged that those who had joined cooperatives during the DK period – including his own relatives<sup>13742</sup> – were in fact "not free" and could not leave.<sup>13743</sup> He openly conceded that cooperatives "had to be imposed on the population, because peasants [...] would never agree to give all the fruits of their labour to any organisation".<sup>13744</sup> KHIEU Samphan further agreed that forced evacuations and high-level cooperatives

<sup>13739</sup> T. 29 May 2013 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/198.1, p. 22.

<sup>13740</sup> See below, Section 18.2.1.2: Promoting the Common Purpose; Section 18.2.2.1: Intent: Cooperatives and worksites. See also, T. 23 June 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/528.1, pp. 35-36.

<sup>13741</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3885 (fn. 12966 (E3/660)).

<sup>13742</sup> See below, paras 4232-4233. See also, T. 11 June 2013 (SO Socheat), E1/205.1, pp. 19-20; KAING Guek Eav Interview by UNHCR, E3/347, 4-6 May 1999, ERN (En) 00185031 [ERN (Fr) 00160953].

<sup>13743</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3885.

<sup>13744</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3884.

were part of the same “frenetic campaign” and that such initiatives allowed the CPK to control rice production and therefore the people.<sup>13745</sup>

4211. In post-DK interviews, KHIEU Samphan acknowledged that the CPK had to “run fast” to modernise the country through the construction of irrigation infrastructure which would give the country a 30-year lead on the Chinese, Korean and Vietnamese revolutions.<sup>13746</sup> He acknowledged, however, that conditions deteriorated as time went on “because things had to be expedited”.<sup>13747</sup> KHIEU Samphan knew that the target of harvesting three tonnes of crop per hectare was not feasible,<sup>13748</sup> but was nevertheless determined that the country could be industrialised if there was plenty to eat – only then would the masses “understand the Party”.<sup>13749</sup> Conversely, in a 2006 interview, KHIEU Samphan claimed that those in cooperatives after 1975 “had enough food to eat” and they would contribute to a country “strong enough to fight our enemy”.<sup>13750</sup> In court, however, he acknowledged that food was generally “not abundant” during the DK period.<sup>13751</sup>

4212. The Chamber considers KHIEU Samphan’s contradictory statements to be consistent with an attempt to distance himself from the crimes committed at cooperatives and worksites. In light of the Chamber’s finding that food rations at cooperatives were far below the amount that could sustain the population,<sup>13752</sup> the clear pattern demonstrating the deliberate provision of insufficient food at worksites<sup>13753</sup> and the above statements evidencing his knowledge of deteriorating conditions as a result of the implementation of the “great leap forward”, the Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan knew of wide-scale food shortages at cooperatives and worksites.

4213. KHIEU Samphan “excitedly” observed the construction of Trapeang Thma Dam in 1976 by a work force of between 10,000 and 20,000 workers.<sup>13754</sup> Dispelling

<sup>13745</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3878-3879. For high-level cooperatives, see Section 3: Historical Background, para. 242. See also, Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 949.

<sup>13746</sup> Documentary by D. Aronowitsch and S. Lindberg: Facing Genocide – Khieu Samphan and Pol Pot, E3/4201R, ERN V00720414, 00:30:27-00:31:02. See also, Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3890.

<sup>13747</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview, E3/4043, undated, ERN (En) 00786110.

<sup>13748</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview, E3/4043, undated, ERN (En) 00786110.

<sup>13749</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview, E3/3196, undated, ERN (En) 00815869.

<sup>13750</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview by MENG-TRY Ea and SOPHEAK Loeung, E3/108, 9-11 June 2006, ERN (En) 00000928.

<sup>13751</sup> T. 27 May 2013 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/197.1, p. 83.

<sup>13752</sup> Section 10.1.7.3: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Rations and Communal Eating.

<sup>13753</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3913-3914.

<sup>13754</sup> Section 11.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, paras 1254, 1261.

any notion that he did not personally observe conditions at these sites or have actual knowledge of them, KHIEU Samphan publicly announced the following year the presence of “as many as 10,000, 20,000 or even 30,000 workers” at each major reservoir, canal or dam construction site.<sup>13755</sup>

4214. KHIEU Samphan reflected on the necessity to work hard – regardless of illness – to achieve a rice yield three times greater than that of China and Vietnam.<sup>13756</sup> His post-DK interviews reveal his contemporaneous knowledge that “both the healthy people and the sick people had to work”, adding that “[m]oderately sick people had to work too”.<sup>13757</sup> He described the abysmal conditions at worksites and workers’ suffering during the DK period:

Thus, during these three years, we still could not resolve the issue of starvation. However, regarding the lack of medicines, I had the task to buy them from abroad. Much was purchased, nothing other than medicines for diarrhoea, fever, so called-general disease medicines, not sophisticated medicines such as penicillin or medicines for lung ailments and such. We went all-out to collect all the money we could to buy general medicines. I was the one who implemented this. It was not me who made the decision: the Standing Committee made the decision, but I was the one who implemented it, and this is what I saw. But there was not enough. No matter how much we [purchased] there was never enough. [...] People were forced to work without food, while they could barely walk, but even so, they were made to work. [...] [T]he majority of deaths [was] from lack of medicine, starvation, not because they were deprived of food and medicine, but because there were shortages.<sup>13758</sup>

4215. By contrast, KHIEU Samphan was less forthcoming in his writings about the role he played during the DK period. In 2004 he wrote that his role between 1975 and 1978 had merely consisted of importing goods and distributing products to zones and regions.<sup>13759</sup> KHIEU Samphan nevertheless acknowledged that the Central Committee

<sup>13755</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3906 (fn. 13024).

<sup>13756</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview with HENG Reaksmeay, E3/587, undated, p. 2, ERN (En) 00680029 (referring to “Vietnam, China Africa or others [...] They got less than one ton[ne] of rice per hectare per year. Therefore, efforts were made – we had to work harder at that time in order to achieve the minimum three ton[ne]s of rice per hectare. [...] Regarding the rice yield, it was possible to achieve this within three or four years by using fertiliser and something else if tremendous efforts were put into it, even [if] one was ill or well.”).

<sup>13757</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview, E3/4050, undated, ERN (En) 00789062. The Chamber does not consider that KHIEU Samphan was necessarily referring to conditions at Trapeang Thma Dam, but is rather demonstrable of his wider knowledge of working conditions at worksites.

<sup>13758</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview, E3/4043, undated, ERN (En) 00786109-00789110 (emphasis added).

<sup>13759</sup> Book by Khieu S.: Cambodia’s Recent History and the Reasons Behind the Decisions I Made, E3/18, p. 66, ERN (En) 00103756.

had noted and criticised “certain abuses” in the first year of the regime, and indicated that measures had been implemented to “correct” them:

- Return to smaller cooperatives (they were easier to manage).
- Improve working conditions in the fields. The number of people sent to the fields was to match the number of mattocks, shovels, baskets or other tools. The other workers were to be allowed to rest in the village or do lighter work, such as making baskets.
- Establish a rest schedule which was to be three days a month. During those three days, extra rations were to be provided.<sup>13760</sup> 4216. Consistently with KHIEU Samphan’s contemporaneous knowledge about living conditions in cooperatives in Preah Vihear,<sup>13761</sup> as well as his 1987 concession that 20,000 people “died from illness and food shortage during the three-year period throughout the country”,<sup>13762</sup> the Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan knew of the abject working conditions at cooperatives and worksites during the DK period.

4217. Concerning the persecutory treatment of workers at cooperatives and worksites, KHIEU Samphan denied in court knowing about the discrimination between Old People and New People.<sup>13763</sup> This was in stark contrast to his statement ten years earlier that it was “imperative to grasp the history of each person” in order to identify and prevent enemy infiltrators, adding that “the easiest thing to do was to differentiate them into Old People and New People”.<sup>13764</sup> Contrary to his in-court assertion and consistently with the Chamber’s findings below,<sup>13765</sup> the Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan knew of the discriminatory treatment meted out to New People at cooperatives and worksites.

4218. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber is satisfied that KHIEU Samphan knew of the crimes committed in the course of the policy to establish and operate cooperatives and worksites.

---

<sup>13760</sup> Book by Khieu S.: Cambodia’s Recent History and the Reasons Behind the Decisions I Made, E3/18, p. 58, ERN (En) 00103752.

<sup>13761</sup> See below, paras 4232-4234.

<sup>13762</sup> DK Publication: What are the Truth and Justice about the Accusations Against Democratic Kampuchea of Mass Killings from 1975 to 1978?, E3/703, 15 July 1987, ERN (En) 00004001 (stating that this figure had been reached after “preliminary but careful assessments”).

<sup>13763</sup> T. 23 June 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/528.1, pp. 36-37.

<sup>13764</sup> Book by Khieu S.: Considerations on the History of Cambodia from the Early Stage to the Period of Democratic Kampuchea, E3/16, p. 67, ERN (En) 00498286.

<sup>13765</sup> See below, para. 4281.

18.1.2.2. Security centres, execution sites and internal purges

4219. Evidence before the Chamber indicated that KHIEU Samphan's role was limited with respect to the oversight of security centres within the scope of Case 002/02, namely S-21 Security Centre, Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, Au Kanseng Security Centre and Phnom Kraol Security Centre. Considerable evidence nevertheless demonstrated KHIEU Samphan's contribution to the purges of CPK cadres and DK citizens, which the Chamber has found was inextricably intertwined with the establishment and operation of security centres and execution sites throughout the country.<sup>13766</sup>

4220. KHIEU Samphan told the Co-Investigating Judges that Office 870's role was "to monitor suspected members of the Party for the Standing Committee" but claimed that he learned of its true role after the fall of the DK regime.<sup>13767</sup> He similarly deposed that he did not learn of any arrests before 1979.<sup>13768</sup> These assertions are not convincing. On the one hand, KHIEU Samphan acknowledged witnessing the arrest of Central and Standing Committee members "one after another", noting that "everyone seemed to approve" of their removal, but on the other denied knowing that arrests took place or the true "extent or the scope of such arrests".<sup>13769</sup>

4221. High-level purges generally – In 1980, KHIEU Samphan publicly stated that the Party had, in 1977 and 1978, "defeated Yuon agents" who had "obtained important positions" within the CPK:

Some of them had the major power to distort our line, making some people in the areas they were in charge of unhappy and affecting the lives of innocent people. What did they do all these things for? They did these to isolate our Democratic Kampuchean government from the <sup>13766</sup> Section 16.4.2.1.3: Common Purpose: "Smashing" of Enemies. See also, Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3980.

<sup>13767</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview Record, E3/557, 19 November 2007, p. 4, ERN (En) 00153269; KHIEU Samphan Interview Record, E3/37, 14 December 2007, p. 5, ERN (En) 00156756. The Chamber recalls that it was unable to delineate the precise role of KHIEU Samphan as a member of Office 870. See Section 8.3.4.1: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan: Roles and Functions: Membership of Office 870.

<sup>13768</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview Record, E3/210, 14 December 2007, p. 3, ERN (En) 00156949.

<sup>13769</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview Record, E3/210, 14 December 2007, pp. 2-3, ERN (En) 00156948-00156949 (Q. "Do you maintain that you did not learn of any arrests before 1979?" A. "Not any. I observed that some members of the Central Committee disappeared one after another. I could not inform you about these names because I was not close to them. Nonetheless I did not know the extent of the arrests at that time. [...] [I]n relation to the disappearance of the members of the Central Committee and the Standing Committee, everyone seemed to approve, but I did not know the extent or the scope of such arrests.").

people. Then it would be easy for them to stage a coup. This was an attack on us from the inside out. It was an attempt to attack us from the inside out. Nonetheless, we fought constantly against these attempts and defeated them. Until 1977-1978, we managed to deal with those people completely and brought order back to the country. Thus, the people were very satisfied.<sup>13770</sup>

4222. He further acknowledged that “less than half” of the Central Committee had been swept away as part of the purges, along with “half [of] the Standing Committee”.<sup>13771</sup> KHIEU Samphan minimised these figures in his later publications, acknowledging the disappearance of only two Central and Standing Committee members.<sup>13772</sup> He nevertheless maintained that the arrests sanctioned by POL Pot were “not that large-scale”,<sup>13773</sup> and that the upper echelon “only considered the arrests of cadres who had committed misconduct; so then, in comparison with the nation-wide arrests, the numbers were small”.<sup>13774</sup> According to KHIEU Samphan, “hundreds” of “important cadres” had been arrested; “not thousands”, adding that some were executed extrajudicially “because these cadres had their own networks, conflicts [and] jealousy”.<sup>13775</sup> He blamed the “warlord nature” of the zone chairmen for the purges and named them as “the sources of all the violations during the research of networks to see who had to be arrested”.<sup>13776</sup> When Stephen HEDER pressed him on whether it was possible that some leading cadres who were denounced were innocent and wrongly killed, KHIEU Samphan responded: “No, none”. Everyone who was executed was, according to KHIEU Samphan, in fact a traitor.<sup>13777</sup>

4223. KHIEU Samphan maintained that POL Pot “did not just arrest cadres randomly”,<sup>13778</sup> adding that he “considered and weighed [matters] meticulously”.<sup>13779</sup>

<sup>13770</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview by Stephen HEDER, E3/203, 4 August 1980, p. 18, ERN (En) 00424013 (emphasis added).

<sup>13771</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview by Stephen HEDER, E3/203, 4 August 1980, p. 19, ERN (En) 00424014.

<sup>13772</sup> See below, para. 4223.

<sup>13773</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview, E3/4041, undated, ERN (En) 00790270.

<sup>13774</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview, E3/4023, undated, ERN (En) 00792450.

<sup>13775</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview by Voice of America, E3/630, 13 November 2007, ERN (En) 00524534.

<sup>13776</sup> Book by Khieu S.: Considerations on the History of Cambodia from the Early Stage to the Period of Democratic Kampuchea, E3/16, p. 62, ERN (En) 00498281. See also, T. 23 June 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/528.1, p. 34.

<sup>13777</sup> Working Paper by S. Heder: Pol Pot and Khieu Samphan, E3/3169, 1991, pp. 25-26, ERN (En) 00002770-00002771.

<sup>13778</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview, E3/4035, undated, ERN (En) 00789052.

<sup>13779</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview, E3/4039, undated, p. 1, ERN (En) 00789648.

KHIEU Samphan reflected on the CPK leaders' unwavering support of POL Pot even as their colleagues disappeared around them:

In a word, Pol Pot represented the historical leader who was never wrong when it came to making important decisions. Judging from what I saw during the expanded sessions of the Permanent Bureau [i.e. Standing Committee], however, nothing approaching fear was apparent during these meetings. [...] However, because everyone had great confidence in Pol Pot, they accepted most of the ideas and analyses without much discussion. Once when a member of the Central Committee – and later a member of the Permanent [i.e. Standing] Committee – was arrested, the committee leadership's confidence in Pol Pot did not waver. The committee considered each disappearance as a separate case and probably, in the eyes of the insiders, justified.<sup>13780</sup> 4224. In view of the above evidence demonstrating knowledge of arrests, and his unique position of standing within the Party, the Chamber is satisfied that KHIEU Samphan knew of the arrest and death of formerly high-ranking CPK cadres during the DK period. This conclusion is further supported by the examples of KHIEU Samphan's knowledge of the fates of several high-level cadres, discussed below.

4225. SUA Vasi alias Doeun – KHIEU Samphan's wife, SO Socheat, testified that KHIEU Samphan dined with Office 870 Chairman SUA Vasi alias Doeun at K-3 prior to the latter's disappearance.<sup>13781</sup> KHIEU Samphan told the Co-Investigating Judges that he only discovered after the DK's collapse that Doeun had been arrested in 1977, adding that he was not surprised by his absence at the time due to the principle of secrecy and because Doeun "travelled quite a lot". He also asserted that "[n]o one knew where [Doeun] was except for the members of the Standing Committee".<sup>13782</sup> The Chamber is not convinced by these assertions and finds that KHIEU Samphan knew of Doeun's arrest and subsequent execution. In reaching this finding, the Chamber has considered KHIEU Samphan's attendance at and participation in Standing Committee meetings, his close relationship with and proximity to POL Pot and NUON Chea,<sup>13783</sup>

<sup>13780</sup> Book by Khieu S.: Cambodia's Recent History and the Reasons Behind the Decisions I Made, E3/18, pp. 63-64, ERN (En) 00103754-00103755 (emphasis added and citations omitted). The Chamber notes the slight differences between the French and English translations of this book. It has reviewed both versions and considers that these differences do not affect the meaning of the author KHIEU Samphan who, according to the publisher, approved the English translation of his book. See ERN (En) 00103718.

<sup>13781</sup> T. 12 June 2013 (SO Socheat), E1/206.1, pp. 12-16.

<sup>13782</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview Record, E3/37, 14 December 2007, p. 2, ERN (En) 00156753.

<sup>13783</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, paras 526, 534; Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, para. 589.

and the fact that he remained as one of the few members in Office 870 after Doeun's disappearance for about two years before the fall of DK.<sup>13784</sup> More prominently, however, KHIEU Samphan's assumption of Doeun's oversight responsibilities in the Commerce Committee by late October 1976<sup>13785</sup> coincided with the removal of cadres from the Ministry of Commerce.<sup>13786</sup> Mass purges of Commerce cadres continued well into KHIEU Samphan's tenure as overseer of the Ministry's affairs, spiking in May and June 1977 and continuing throughout 1978.<sup>13787</sup> By assuming Doeun's roles during a period of internal turmoil, KHIEU Samphan not only knew that Doeun had been purged but personally ensured that his predecessor's responsibilities remained fulfilled after his removal.

4226. CHAN Chakrei, SUOS Neou alias Chhouk, KOY Thuon and KEO Meas – KHIEU Samphan was present at a 1976 political education session at Borei Keila where NUON Chea lectured on the need to identify and eliminate traitors, spy networks and CIA and KGB infiltrators. After NUON Chea specifically denounced Division 170 Commander CHAN Chakrei, old North Zone Secretary KOY Thuon and Central Committee member KEO Meas as traitors, KHIEU Samphan reiterated these sentiments before commencing his own lecture.<sup>13788</sup> KHIEU Samphan acknowledged in post-DK interviews that CHAN Chakrei's arrest, along with that of his alleged associate, Sector 24 Secretary SUOS Neou alias Chhouk, was implemented after "many documents" had been collected by POL Pot "before making a decision".<sup>13789</sup>

<sup>13784</sup> Section 8.3.4.1: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan: Roles and Functions: Membership of Office 870.

<sup>13785</sup> Section 8.3.4.2: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan: Oversight of Commerce.

<sup>13786</sup> Commerce Committee Arrest Decision, E3/962, 17 October 1976, ERN (En) 00333254 (decision "to arrest and send the following [six] persons to security to interrogate for information"); Commerce Committee Arrest Decision, E3/174, 17 October 1976, ERN (En) 00548780 (decision to "send the [following 10 people] [...] to the re-education centre of the security"); Commerce Committee Report, E3/846, 19 October 1976, pp. 1-3, ERN (En) 00234229-00234231 (ten-day periodic report announcing: "Those making contact from outside the unit are quieter than before, after we removed a number of the bad groups from the Ministry. [...] Some of the masses are worried after we took measures to remove bad groups for re-education", reporting the arrest of specific individuals and referring to lists of individuals separately "reported to Angkar".).

<sup>13787</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2284, 2297.

<sup>13788</sup> T. 27 August 2012 (EM Oeun), E1/115.1, pp. 39-46. See also, Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3967.

<sup>13789</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview, E3/4023, undated, ERN (En) 00792451; Video of KHIEU Samphan Interview, E3/4023R, ERN V00753085, 00:03:20-00:03:58, 00:07:38-00:08:20; KHIEU Samphan Interview, E3/4024, undated, p. 1, ERN (En) 00788870 ("[W]ith the arrests, [POL Pot] collected much information; he had to assemble a lot of information. As long as I knew him, Mr. Pol Pot implemented that principle; he was a leader who monitored"); KHIEU Samphan Interview, E3/4035, undated, ERN (En) 00789052.

KHIEU Samphan demonstrated his insight into POL Pot's methods regarding the two men's removal: "Chakrei had conspired with Mr. Chhouk, and who else they conspired with is unknown, to act like that, to act as instructed by Vietnam".<sup>13790</sup> CHAN Chakrei was monitored by the Standing Committee, arrested in 1976 and interrogated at S-21 between June and October 1976.<sup>13791</sup> The purge of CHAN Chakrei's alleged associates and other Division 170 "strings" followed thereafter. Chhouk and KEO Meas were arrested and executed at S-21, the former on SON Sen's direct orders.<sup>13792</sup> The Revolutionary Flag openly denounced CHAN Chakrei, Chhouk and KEO Meas in editions available to KHIEU Samphan.<sup>13793</sup> KHIEU Samphan further knew that KOY Thuon was imprisoned for nine months before the "Standing Committee sent him to S-21 for interrogation".<sup>13794</sup> The Chamber is satisfied the KHIEU Samphan knew of the fates of CHAN Chakrei, Chhouk, KEO Meas and KOY Thuon at the time.

4227. HU Nim – In a letter addressed to KHIEU Samphan, NUON Chea and other CPK leaders, HU Nim pleaded for forgiveness after his incarceration in S-21, stating that he had not betrayed the Party and recognising that "the Party may kill me".<sup>13795</sup> While it is not clear whether KHIEU Samphan, a long-time close friend of HU Nim, actually received or in fact read the letter, he acknowledged before the Co-Investigating Judges that HU Nim was killed after expressing disagreement with CPK policy.<sup>13796</sup> After HU Nim's arrest in April 1977, KHIEU Samphan publicly called for his messengers to be interrogated.<sup>13797</sup> HU Nim was executed at S-21 in July 1977.<sup>13798</sup> The Chamber is satisfied that KHIEU Samphan knew of HU Nim's arrest and death at the time.

4228. CHOU Chet alias Sy – According to Expert Philip SHORT and Witness Stephen HEDER, KHIEU Samphan was entrusted with conducting delicate investigations to

<sup>13790</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview, E3/4036, undated, ERN (En) 00790622.

<sup>13791</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2271.

<sup>13792</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2265, 2274-2275.

<sup>13793</sup> Section 12.2.8.1.1: S-21 Security Centre: KEO Meas alias KAEV Meah; Section 12.2.8.1.3: CHAN Chakrei alias Mean; Section 12.2.8.14: SUOS Neou alias Chhouk.

<sup>13794</sup> Book by Khieu S.: Considerations on the History of Cambodia from the Early Stage to the Period of Democratic Kampuchea, E3/16, p. 54, ERN (En) 00498273. See also, Section 12.2.8.2.1: S-21 Security Centre: KOY Thuon.

<sup>13795</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2301.

<sup>13796</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview Record, E3/37, 14 December 2007, p. 6, ERN (En) 00156757. See also, Section 3: Historical Background, para. 230.

<sup>13797</sup> T. 30 August 2016 (CHEA Deab), E1/466.1, p. 66.

<sup>13798</sup> Section 12.2.8.3.1: S-21 Security Centre: HU Nim alias Phoas.

determine whether or not individuals were enemies.<sup>13799</sup> KHIEU Samphan implicitly acknowledged his knowledge of the identification of enemies on at least one instance, telling Stephen HEDER in 1980 that “a comrade in [the] west” was accused of being a Vietnamese agent, but that the accusation was not founded, since “we investigated the case in a timely manner”.<sup>13800</sup> Stephen HEDER attributed this reference to the investigation of West Zone Secretary CHOU Chet alias Sy in August 1977.<sup>13801</sup> Duch confirmed this at trial, testifying – albeit in a hearsay account – that he learned through CHHIM Sam Aok alias Pang that when the Standing Committee convened to decide the fate of West Zone Secretary CHOU Chet, it was KHIEU Samphan who was invited to partake in deliberations; not Standing Committee member VORN Vet.<sup>13802</sup> CHOU Chet was arrested and detained at S-21 in April 1978 following a purge of most of his subordinates.<sup>13803</sup> The Chamber is satisfied that KHIEU Samphan was involved in Standing Committee discussions about CHOU Chet’s fate and knew of his execution.

4229. VORN Vet and SAO Phim – In a 2006 interview, KHIEU Samphan acknowledged that VORN Vet was arrested “because he [was] also one of the Viet Minh bodies hidden in the Communist Party of Kampuchea”.<sup>13804</sup> KHIEU Samphan further stated that SAO Phim “was also arrested for the same reason” as VORN Vet and noted that POL Pot was “suspicious and not happy” with him.<sup>13805</sup> He provided a reasonably detailed account of the purge of the East Zone Committee, the growing <sup>13799</sup> T. 8 May 2013 (Philip SHORT), E1/191.1, pp. 20-21 referring to Book by P. Short: Pol Pot: The History of a Nightmare, E3/9, p. 371, ERN (En) 00396579; T. 9 May 2013 (Philip SHORT), E1/192.1, pp. 87-89 (testifying that according to SUONG Sikoeun (and possibly ROCHOEM Ton alias PHY Phuon) POL Pot assigned KHIEU Samphan the task of investigating “particularly delicate” matters of a political nature and reporting back); Working Paper by S. Heder: Pol Pot and Khieu Samphan, E3/3169, 1991, pp. 14-15, ERN (En) 00002759-00002760.

<sup>13800</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview by Stephen HEDER, E3/203, 4 August 1980, p. 21, ERN (En) 00424016; Working Paper by S. Heder: Pol Pot and Khieu Samphan, E3/3169, 1991, pp. 25-26, ERN (En) 00002770-00002771 (referring to 1980 interview, with alternate translation: “to this problem, [the “Yvon”] were unable to make their accusations stick because we kept track of things and examined them”).

<sup>13801</sup> Working Paper by S. Heder: Pol Pot and Khieu Samphan, E3/3169, 1991, p. 26, ERN (En) 00002771.

<sup>13802</sup> T. 28 March 2012 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/55.1, pp. 94-95; T. 10 April 2012 (KAING Guek Eav), E1/62.1, p. 7. See also, KAING Guek Eav Interview Record, E3/453, 5 September 2007, p. 6, ERN (En) 00147584; KAING Guek Eav Interview Record, E3/448, 4 December 2007, p. 6, ERN (En) 00154911; KAING Guek Eav Interview Record, E3/61, 2 June 2008, p. 8, ERN (En) 00195578; KAING Guek Eav Interview Record, E3/356, 25 November 2008, p. 7, ERN (En) 00242901.

<sup>13803</sup> Section 12.2.8.4.2: S-21 Security Centre: CHOU Chet alias Sy.

<sup>13804</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview by MENG-TRY Ea and SOPHEAK Loeung, E3/108, 9-11 June 2006, ERN (En) 00000929.

<sup>13805</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview by MENG-TRY Ea and SOPHEAK Loeung, E3/108, 9-11 June 2006, ERN (En) 00000929.

distrust of SAO Phim until his death and the Party's measures implemented to quell the resultant upheaval.<sup>13806</sup> The Chamber recalls that VORN Vet was arrested during the Fifth Party Congress in late 1978 before being executed along with his family.<sup>13807</sup> Both NUON Chea and KHIEU Samphan attended the Fifth Party Congress in their capacities as full-rights members of the Central Committee.<sup>13808</sup> The Chamber is satisfied that KHIEU Samphan knew the circumstances of VORN Vet and SAO Phim's fates.

4230. VEUNG Chhaem alias SOTH Saphon alias Phuong – By mid-1978 at latest, KHIEU Samphan was personally facilitating purges of undesirable elements from within Party ranks. KHIEU Samphan acknowledged that he took care of the “comfort” of East Zone Rubber Plantations chief and Central Committee member VEUNG Chhaem alias SOTH Saphon alias Phuong at K-3 when the latter was summoned to K-1 to “meet the members of the Permanent Bureau”.<sup>13809</sup> Contemporaneous evidence indicates that Phuong had been implicated in treacherous activity well before this summons,<sup>13810</sup> and that his arrival in Phnom Penh had followed or coincided with the purge of prominent East Zone cadres.<sup>13811</sup> Phuong was arrested on 6 June 1978 and executed at S-21 Security Centre. Members of the East Zone Plantation office including Phuong's bodyguards and associates were executed in the days following his arrest.<sup>13812</sup> In view of the tumultuous purges of East Zone personnel at the time, KHIEU Samphan's position of unique standing within the Party and closeness to POL Pot and NUON Chea, the Chamber is satisfied that he knowingly and actively facilitated the arrest, imprisonment and execution of Phuong.

4231. Lower-level purges – Beyond high-level CPK cadres, KHIEU Samphan exposed his knowledge of the widespread purges and executions of the country's

<sup>13806</sup> DK Publication: What are the Truth and Justice about the Accusations Against Democratic Kampuchea of Mass Killings from 1975 to 1978?, E3/703, 15 July 1987, ERN (En) 00004003. The Chamber recalls that SAO Phim committed suicide after units were dispatched to arrest him in June 1978. Purges of the East Zone cadre continued throughout 1978 following his demise. See Section 12.1.6.3.7: Events at Akrei Ksatr and SAO Phim's Suicide; Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2310.

<sup>13807</sup> Section 12.2.8.5.2: S-21 Security Centre: VORN Vet.

<sup>13808</sup> Section 12.2.8.5.2: S-21 Security Centre: VORN Vet. See above, para. 4262. For NUON Chea's full-rights status, see Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 532.

<sup>13809</sup> Book by Khieu S: Cambodia's Recent History and the Reasons behind the Decisions I Made, E3/18, pp. 131-132, ERN (En) 00103788-00103789. See also, Working Paper by S. Heder: Pol Pot and Khieu Samphan, E3/3169, 1991, pp. 20-21, ERN (En) 00002765-00002766.

<sup>13810</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2313.

<sup>13811</sup> OUK Bunchhoeun DC-Cam Interview, E3/387, undated, pp. 23-24, ERN (En) 00350222-00350223. See also, Section 12.1: Internal Factions, para. 2008. See also, Section 12.1.6.3.4: Purge of the East Zone.

<sup>13812</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2313.

population through his various post-DK interviews and publications. In court, KHIEU Samphan specifically denied knowing that people had been “abused and mistreated”, or that “people had been detained arbitrarily in the base”.<sup>13813</sup> This was contradicted by his earlier statements. In a recorded interview, KHIEU Samphan demonstrated his knowledge of the widespread arrests of “networks” at the bases:

Those in charge of the bases all had their relatives and networks. Those networks included cliques, friends and relatives, who relied upon that person’s rank and power. But sometimes some people who had been assigned to work with those being arrested were also arrested along with them because it was said they were networks or elements. At that time, they used the word “element”, being linked as an “element”. As a result, many were arrested. For each one arrested how many others were in that person’s network? As I see it, there were four to ten to approximately twenty people. This is what led to the large number of arrests.<sup>13814</sup>

4232. In an open letter penned in 2001, KHIEU Samphan publicly admitted his contemporaneous knowledge of the imprisonment and ill-treatment of civilians:

In about mid-1978, I accidentally learnt of a case of arrests and barbarous acts taking place in Preah Vihear province. My wife, who was in tears, told me about it. Her siblings and relatives, along with many other people, were shackled on both their hands and legs for over a year, causing nasty wound[s] on their bodies.<sup>13815</sup>

4233. Consistently with this, Witness MEAS Voeun – a military officer under Division 1 of the West Zone who was dispatched to head Sector 103 (Preah Vihear) in August 1978<sup>13816</sup> – testified that KHIEU Samphan had sent him a telegram in 1978 asking about the welfare of his relatives and instructing that if they were facing hardship they should be sent to Phnom Penh.<sup>13817</sup> MEAS Voeun made enquiries and helped to secure the release of KHIEU Samphan’s sister-in-law from a security centre in Siem Reap.<sup>13818</sup> Notably, MEAS Voeun’s report to KHIEU Samphan did not merely describe the whereabouts and welfare of KHIEU Samphan’s sister-in-law:

<sup>13813</sup> T. 4 June 2013 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/199.1, p. 82.

<sup>13814</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview, E3/4041, undated, ERN (En) 00790270 (emphasis added).

<sup>13815</sup> KHIEU Samphan Letter, E3/205, 16 August 2001, ERN (En) 00149526.

<sup>13816</sup> T. 4 October 2012 (MEAS Voeun), E1/130.1, pp. 69-70 confirming MEAS Voeun Interview Record, E3/424, 16 December 2009, p. 6, ERN (En) 00421073.

<sup>13817</sup> T. 4 October 2012 (MEAS Voeun), E1/130.1, pp. 73-75. See also, KHIEU Samphan Interview Record, E3/210, 14 December 2007, p. 5, ERN (En) 00156951 (explaining that his sister-in-law was sent to Takhmao).

<sup>13818</sup> T. 4 October 2012 (MEAS Voeun), E1/130.1, pp. 75-76.

I reported about the people in Preah Vihear, many of whom were facing starvation, and the arrests of the people and detention in the security office. [...] The contents of the report were about how the living conditions of the people in the cooperative were; cloth[e]s, mosquito nets and blankets were provided to people; where people were arrested and sent to; where his [i.e. KHIEU Samphan's] sister-in-law was arrested and sent to.<sup>13819</sup>

4234. This evidence not only debunks KHIEU Samphan's assertions that he was unaware of the arrest and detention of civilians or indeed the conditions faced by the population across the country, but also demonstrates the degree of influence and authority his position carried to intervene in Party affairs. As a result of this interposition, KHIEU Samphan acknowledged that "the Zone Party secretaries were arrested",<sup>13820</sup> specifically naming the (new) North Zone Secretary KANG Chap.<sup>13821</sup>

4235. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber is satisfied that KHIEU Samphan knew of the crimes committed during the course of internal purges throughout the DK period.

18.1.2.3. Targeting of specific groups

18.1.2.3.1. Cham

4236. The Chamber recalls its finding that the CPK specifically targeted the Cham throughout the DK period as part of a policy which evolved over time.<sup>13822</sup> While the Chamber has found that KHIEU Samphan stressed the importance of preserving "forever the fruits of the revolution and the Kampuchean race" at a time when CPK cadres in the Central Zone and in the East Zone along the Mekong river were executing a genocidal policy to destroy the Cham religious and ethnic group in DK,<sup>13823</sup> the timing of such speeches coincided with the destruction of the Vietnamese racial, national and <sup>13819</sup> MEAS Voeun Interview Record, E3/424, 16 December 2009, p. 6, ERN (En) 00421073; T. 4 October 2012 (MEAS Voeun), E1/130.1, pp. 75-77 (statement put to witness, who confirmed that on this occasion "I reported to [KHIEU Samphan] only once about [...] the situation of the starvation people were facing.").

<sup>13820</sup> KHIEU Samphan Letter, E3/205, 16 August 2001, ERN (En) 00149526.

<sup>13821</sup> KHIEU Samphan Interview Record, E3/210, 14 December 2007, p. 5, ERN (En) 00156951 ("The cadre involved in the arrest [of his sister-in-law] was called Kang Chap and he was arrested at a later stage."). See also, Section 12.2.8.5.1: S-21 Security Centre: CHANN Sam alias KANG Chap alias Se (or Sae); T. 4 October 2012 (MEAS Voeun), E1/130.1, pp. 86-87 confirming MEAS Voeun Interview Record, E3/424, 16 December 2009, p. 5, ERN (En) 00421072 ("Preah Vihear was the autonomous area directly controlled by the Central Committee. Ta NUON Chea and Ta KHIEU Samphan used to visit there.").

<sup>13822</sup> Section 13.2.5.4: Conclusion on the CPK Policy Targeting the Cham. See also, Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3990.

<sup>13823</sup> Section 13.2.5.4: Conclusion on the CPK Policy Targeting the Cham.

ethnic group, as such.<sup>13824</sup> Nevertheless, as a senior leader with unique standing in the Party Centre, KHIEU Samphan supported the common purpose and was privy to the implementation of policies aimed at establishing an atheistic and homogenous Khmer society of worker-peasants. Inherent in the policies targeting specific groups, including Cham populations, was the commission of crimes on a discriminatory basis aimed at achieving an atheistic society. The Chamber is therefore satisfied that KHIEU Samphan knew of the commission of crimes committed against the Cham during the DK period.

18.1.2.3.2. Vietnamese

4237. The Chamber recalls its findings that the CPK specifically targeted Vietnamese as a group, including civilians, throughout the DK period.<sup>13825</sup> It has found that POL Pot's "one against 30 policy" specifically targeted not only Vietnamese armed forces but also Vietnamese civilians. In the early years of DK, KHIEU Samphan openly advocated for removal of Vietnamese populations back to Vietnam.<sup>13826</sup> Such calls mirrored the substance, form and ultimate implementation<sup>13827</sup> of the common purpose of deporting all Vietnamese peoples across the border in 1975 and 1976.<sup>13828</sup>

4238. Through his public statements, KHIEU Samphan singled out the Vietnamese for discriminatory treatment. He urged the DK population to "hate the Yuons more and more each day" and encouraged vigilance and "seething" anger against the Vietnamese enemy. He joined other CPK leaders in decisively calling for the Vietnamese to be "wiped out [...] neatly and thoroughly" from DK, "exterminate[d] resolutely" and "destroy[ed] forever". As military confrontations with Vietnam escalated, KHIEU Samphan branded the Vietnamese as requiring particular attention, citing to the "life-and-death contradiction" that existed between the DK and Vietnam. In order to protect the revolution and the "Kampuchean race", KHIEU Samphan called for DK to be "permanently clean[ed]" of the Vietnamese in order to "be free" from them.<sup>13829</sup> The

<sup>13824</sup> Section 13.3.5.2: Evidence of a Policy Targeting the Vietnamese. See also, Section 13.3.10.5: Treatment of the Vietnamese: Legal Findings: Genocide.

<sup>13825</sup> Section 13.3.1.10.5: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3516. See also, Section 16.4.3.2: Common Purpose: Targeting of Specific Groups: Vietnamese.

<sup>13826</sup> See below, para. 4271.

<sup>13827</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4004.

<sup>13828</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4004.

<sup>13829</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, paras 3406-3407.

Chamber has found that these and similar calls were often indiscriminate and often directed at the ethnic Vietnamese population in general.<sup>13830</sup> 4239. The Chamber has further found that KHIEU Samphan was aware of the protected status of Vietnamese detainees at S-21 Security Centre and knew of their ill-treatment.<sup>13831</sup> In light of the foregoing, the Chamber is satisfied that KHIEU Samphan knew of the crimes committed against the Vietnamese during the DK period.

18.1.2.3.3. Buddhists

4240. The Chamber recalls its finding that the CPK was intent on eliminating Buddhism from Cambodian society and that the defrocking of monks was a deliberate means to achieve this aim.<sup>13832</sup> KHIEU Samphan stated that he was unaware of anything to do with the practice of religion during the DK period.<sup>13833</sup> As the moral guarantor of the revolutionary movement and a liberated Cambodia, KHIEU Samphan endorsed FUNK's pledge that Buddhism was and would remain the state religion.<sup>13834</sup> As was his practice in the lead-up to 17 April 1975,<sup>13835</sup> KHIEU Samphan paid homage to the Sangha in a broadcast on 21 April 1975 for the last time, saluting "every venerable Buddhist monk" and their "great fighting will" in the name of FUNK.<sup>13836</sup> An apparent Special National Congress chaired by KHIEU Samphan issued a communiqué claiming that members of the Buddhist clergy had attended in representation of the Sangha.<sup>13837</sup> Such pronouncements proved to be little more than subterfuge aimed at shoring up the legitimacy of the interim CPK-dominated government: monks were rounded up and defrocked in the immediate aftermath of 17 April 1975 in Tram Kak District and the

<sup>13830</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3416.

<sup>13831</sup> Section 4.1: Factual Overview of the Temporal Scope of Case 002/02 (including the nature of the Armed Conflict).

<sup>13832</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4015. See also, Section 3: Historical Background, para. 264.

<sup>13833</sup> T. 23 June 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/528.1, p. 37.

<sup>13834</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, para. 263.

<sup>13835</sup> See e.g., Cambodians Urged to Unite in New Year's Offensive (in FBIS collection), E3/30, 31 December 1974, ERN (En) 00166659; Kheiu [sic] Samphan Issues Appeal to Compatriots, Monks (in FBIS collection), E3/30, 24 January 1975, ERN (En) 00166721; Khieu Samphan Appeals for Intensified Struggle 15 March (in FBIS collection), E3/120, 15 March 1975, ERN (En) 00166826-00166828; Khieu Samphan Appeals to Phnom Penh Citizens to Join NUFC 14 Apr (in FBIS collection), E3/118, 14 April 1975, ERN (En) 00166948.

<sup>13836</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 1086.

<sup>13837</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 1086.

remainder of the country,<sup>13838</sup> with Buddhist worship and practices banned during the entire DK period.<sup>13839</sup>

4241. KHIEU Samphan nevertheless continued publicly supporting the charade of normalcy. As Deputy Prime Minister of the GRUNK interim government, he welcomed NORODOM Sihanouk upon his return to Cambodia in September 1975 in the presence of clergy members.<sup>13840</sup> While monks were being defrocked en masse across the country, KHIEU Samphan lauded the DK Constitution's universal guarantee of the right to worship "any religion" to the exclusion of "reactionary religions",<sup>13841</sup> which in fact Buddhism was considered to be.<sup>13842</sup> In the same stroke, KHIEU Samphan acknowledged that the CPK's stance was one of prohibiting the use of religion to subvert the Party and its aims, especially through "foreign imperialists" using a "religious cloak to infiltrate our country". The CPK would, in KHIEU Samphan's words, "oppose them at all costs".<sup>13843</sup> He acknowledged in a later interview that the constitutional guarantee "does not imply respect also for some old privileges enjoyed by the religious class", adding that "[j]ust like everyone else, even Buddhist monks have the duty and obligation to work".<sup>13844</sup>

4242. Following the CPK's victory, KHIEU Samphan abruptly ceased his praise of Buddhist monks, making no further mention of them in his speeches, whether as GRUNK Deputy Prime Minister in marking the introduction of the DK Constitution in January 1976,<sup>13845</sup> as President of the State Presidium following PRA "elections" in

<sup>13838</sup> Section 10.1.9.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Events at Angk Roka Pagoda.

<sup>13839</sup> Section 16.4.3.3.1: Common Purpose: Treatment of Buddhists: Existence of Policy.

<sup>13840</sup> Video of NORODOM Sihanouk's return to Cambodia, E3/3023R, September 1975, ERN V00422528, 00:02:49-00:03:04 (showing a group of monks seated behind PENN Nouth followed by a shot of KHIEU Samphan prominently seated immediately opposite NORODOM Sihanouk).

<sup>13841</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 1090.

<sup>13842</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 1108.

<sup>13843</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 1090 (referring to Phnom Penh Reportage on Third National Congress: KHIEU Samphan Report (in FBIS collection), E3/273, 5 January 1976, ERN (En) 00167816). The KHIEU Samphan Defence mischaracterises the Closing Order's citation of this document as proof of the abolition of national minorities. See KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, para. 1845. The Closing Order avers that, through this speech, KHIEU Samphan "generally affirmed and contributed to the execution of [the targeting] policy", and notes that "his statements were made at around the same time that the CPK affirmed its intention to abolish all national minorities and other groups". See Closing Order, para. 1192. In light of the Chamber's considerations on the use of FBIS reports (see Section 6: Communication Structures, paras 469-472), the Chamber dismisses the KHIEU Samphan Defence's submission positing that its unavailability in Khmer renders it unusable.

<sup>13844</sup> Khieu Samphan Interviewed on Executions, National Problems (in FBIS collection), E3/608, 26 September 1976, p. 4, ERN (En) 00419843.

<sup>13845</sup> Reports of the Second Special National of April 1975 listed "representatives [...] of the Buddhist clergy" as in attendance. See 'Special National Congress' Retains Sihanouk, Penn Nouth (in FBIS

March 1976,<sup>13846</sup> following the reorganisation of the state and government in April 1976,<sup>13847</sup> or during 17 April anniversary speeches commemorating the role the Sangha had played in supporting the revolutionary cause.<sup>13848</sup> Behind the scenes, KHIEU Samphan was fervently instructing the arrangement of marriages in the absence of monks and in a manner fundamentally inconsistent with Buddhist traditions.<sup>13849</sup> Such practices continued unabated throughout 1977 and 1978 under KHIEU Samphan's watch.<sup>13850</sup>

4243. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber rejects KHIEU Samphan's assertion that he knew nothing about the practice of religion in DK insofar as it concerns Buddhism. Accordingly, the Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan knew of the crimes committed against Buddhists during the DK period.

18.1.2.3.4. Former Khmer Republic officials

4244. The Chamber recalls its findings that the CPK targeted former Khmer Republic officials throughout the DK period for discrimination and adverse treatment including murder between 20 April 1975 and late May 1975, and again between October 1975 and 6 January 1979.<sup>13851</sup> As a figure of respect, one of the faces of FUNK and GRUNK and titular Commander-in-Chief of the CPNLAF,<sup>13852</sup> KHIEU Samphan was instrumental in ensuring the CPK's victory on 17 April 1975. By late 1972, KHIEU Samphan was publicly calling for the elimination of high-ranking members of the Khmer Republic administration and their subordinates.<sup>13853</sup> Following the CPNLAF's immense territorial gains over the next few years, KHIEU Samphan announced the final assault upon Phnom Penh on 31 December 1974.<sup>13854</sup> The following month, he collection), E3/118, 27 April 1975, ERN (En) 00167012. Cf. National Congress Held; New Constitution Adopted (in FBIS collection), E3/1356, 15 December 1975, ERN (En) 00167574-00167575 (December 1975 "Special National Congress" does not report any Buddhist representatives).

---

<sup>13846</sup> The PRA "elections" led to the "appointment" of 250 members representing workers, peasants and the RAK. See Results of National Assembly Elections Announced (in FBIS collection), E3/274, 21 March 1976, ERN (En) 00167985-00167989 (KHIEU Samphan announcing the successful appointees on behalf of the "election commission").

<sup>13847</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, paras 596, 598.

<sup>13848</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, paras 1084-1086.

<sup>13849</sup> Section 14: Regulation of Marriage, paras 3551, 3569, 3586, 3611 (fn. 12053).

<sup>13850</sup> Section 14: Regulation of Marriage, para. 3570.

<sup>13851</sup> Section 16.4.3.4: Common Purpose: Targeting of Specific Groups: Former Khmer Republic Officials.

<sup>13852</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, paras 219-220; Section 8.3.1: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan: Deputy Prime Minister, Minister of National Defence and CPNLAF Commander-in-Chief.

<sup>13853</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4037.

<sup>13854</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, para. 232.

announced that the “traitorous Phnom Penh clique” could not “escape complete annihilation”, declaring it “absolutely necessary to kill [the] seven traitors” of the Khmer Republic: LON Nol, LONG Boret, SISOWATH Sirik Matak, SON Ngoc Than, IN Tam, CHENG Heng and SOSTHÈNE Fernandez.<sup>13855</sup>

4245. Contrary to the treatment they ultimately received, non-ranking government officials received assurances of amnesty in the names of KHIEU Samphan, GRUNK and FUNK if they ceased their cooperation with the “seven traitors” and joined FUNK.<sup>13856</sup> KHIEU Samphan also urged defections from the ranks of the Khmer Republic and openly advocated for civil unrest to bring about the end of the LON Nol regime.<sup>13857</sup> Following the CPK’s march on Phnom Penh, KHIEU Samphan praised the destruction of the former regime and lauded the fact that “the enemy [had] died in agony”.<sup>13858</sup>

4246. The extent of KHIEU Samphan’s knowledge with respect to specific crimes committed against former Khmer Republic officials is discussed further below in Section 18.2.2.3.4: Former Khmer Republic Officials.

18.1.2.4. Regulation of marriage

4247. KHIEU Samphan testified that he knew nothing about forced marriages during the DK period as “no such event happened” at the offices around Phnom Penh.<sup>13859</sup> Contrary to this assertion, the Chamber found that at a meeting held at Wat Ounalom approximately six or seven months after 17 April 1975, he instructed that all ministries were to arrange marriages so that couples could produce children in order to augment forces to defend the country.<sup>13860</sup> This was indeed implemented, including in the Ministry of Commerce, of which KHIEU Samphan had direct oversight, and where monthly quotas called for a minimum of 100 couples to be married during 1977 and 1978.<sup>13861</sup>

<sup>13855</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, para. 231; Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 4027, 4036-4037.

<sup>13856</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4028.

<sup>13857</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4027.

<sup>13858</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4037.

<sup>13859</sup> T. 27 May 2013 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/197.1, p. 84. See also, T. 23 June 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/528.1, p. 37.

<sup>13860</sup> Section 14: Regulation of Marriage, para. 3569.

<sup>13861</sup> Section 14: Regulation of Marriage, para. 3570. See also, Section 8.3.4.2: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan: Oversight of Commerce.

4248. In line with the CPK's policy concerning the regulation of marriage, KHIEU Samphan continued calling for the population to divest themselves of personal sentiment toward their parents in favour of Angkar, which was now to supplant the role of parents.<sup>13862</sup> He further personally promoted the Party's policy to rapidly increase DK's population.<sup>13863</sup> His involvement in the execution of this policy was corroborated by NORODOM Sihanouk, who recalled him describing the matching of young women (whom KHIEU Samphan described as fervently patriotic) with disabled soldiers as a sacrifice to the nation.<sup>13864</sup>

4249. In view of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan knew of the crimes committed in the course of the CPK's nationwide policy to regulate marriage.

18.1.3. Knowledge Arising After the Commission of the Crimes

4250. KHIEU Samphan knew about the commission of crimes within the scope of Case 002/02 after their perpetration. In 1977, Amnesty International sent a letter to KHIEU Samphan expressing concern at reports of summary executions and the maltreatment of civilians, and further requesting that inquiries be made. As no response was forthcoming, Amnesty International renewed its appeal in 1978, this time joined by the UN Commission on Human Rights.<sup>13865</sup> KHIEU Samphan could not ignore such reports, considering his strong connection to, in particular, IENG Sary and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.<sup>13866</sup>

4251. Through his interviews, statements and publications, as discussed above, KHIEU Samphan also demonstrated his contemporaneous knowledge of the patterns of conduct and underlying acts which the Chamber has found to have constituted crimes during the DK period. Specifically, KHIEU Samphan demonstrated his knowledge of crimes committed as part of the establishment and operation of cooperatives and worksites<sup>13867</sup> and internal purges.<sup>13868</sup>

<sup>13862</sup> Section 14: Regulation of Marriage, paras 3569, 3611 (fn. 12053).

<sup>13863</sup> Section 14: Regulation of Marriage, para. 3551.

<sup>13864</sup> Section 14: Regulation of Marriage, para. 3586.

<sup>13865</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4048.

<sup>13866</sup> Section 5: Administrative Structures, para. 414.

<sup>13867</sup> See above, paras 4210-4217.

<sup>13868</sup> See above, paras 4221-4223, 4225-4230.

4252. In a 1980 interview with Time Magazine, KHIEU Samphan rejected the proposition that over three million people had been killed during the DK period, stating instead that “the number was not more than 10,000”.<sup>13869</sup> In his post-DK capacity as “Vice President of Democratic Kampuchea for Foreign Affairs”, however, KHIEU Samphan acknowledged the death of 10,000 Vietnamese agents acting “in violation of State policy”. In addition, 8,000 organisers of the six “coups d’état and the chief traitors who in connivance with the Vietnamese tried to take control of the Eastern Zone” were “imprisoned”, with KHIEU Samphan admitting that 3,000 “minor offenders or innocent civilians” had “died from our mistakes”.<sup>13870</sup> In the same document, KHIEU Samphan justified the loss of life during the DK period as “small in comparison with other countries in the world, whether during big historical changes or peaceful time”.<sup>13871</sup> In stark contrast to such admissions, KHIEU Samphan later downplayed the number of people executed as part of DK-era purges, writing in 2004 that “the cadres that had to be arrested were few in number, probably not more than several hundred”.<sup>13872</sup>

4253. KHIEU Samphan attended and lectured at study sessions and mass rallies at which criminal conduct toward CPK enemies was discussed, encouraged and incited, including against the Vietnamese, former Khmer Republic officials, New People and other detractors of the revolution.<sup>13873</sup> By virtue of his positions of responsibility, KHIEU Samphan had access to CPK circulars, policy documents and Revolutionary Flag and Revolutionary Youth magazines which discussed the implementation of various CPK policies. KHIEU Samphan was privy to the speeches of other senior leaders on the implementation of various CPK policies and received, as nominal head of state, letters of concern from international bodies noting reports of atrocities against former Khmer Republic soldiers and officials.<sup>13874</sup> In this regard, KHIEU Samphan

<sup>13869</sup> A Plea for International Support (Time Magazine), E3/628, 10 March 1980, ERN (En) 00524517. See also, Documentary by D. Aronowitsch and S. Lindberg: Facing Genocide – Khieu Samphan and Pol Pot, E3/4201R, ERN V00720414, 00:52:40-00:53:02 (rejecting that two million people had been killed: “That’s a bit exaggerated”).

<sup>13870</sup> DK Publication: What are the Truth and Justice about the Accusations Against Democratic Kampuchea of Mass Killings from 1975 to 1978?, E3/703, 15 July 1987, ERN (En) 00004002.

<sup>13871</sup> DK Publication: What are the Truth and Justice about the Accusations Against Democratic Kampuchea of Mass Killings from 1975 to 1978?, E3/703, 15 July 1987, ERN (En) 00004004-00004005 (“Even during [the] Vietnam war in the 60s or 70s there were much more people who died than in Kampuchea.”).

<sup>13872</sup> Book by Khieu S.: Considerations on the History of Cambodia from the Early Stage to the Period of Democratic Kampuchea, E3/16, p. 62, ERN (En) 00498281.

<sup>13873</sup> See below, paras 4271-4273.

<sup>13874</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4048.

publicly rejected the “story of massacres [in DK], which is being publicised by sections of the Western press at regular intervals”, adding that: “I wish to be very emphatic about this: the revolutionaries are no assassins”. In his very next response, however, KHIEU Samphan acknowledged that “[t]hose traitors who remained in Democratic Kampuchea have been executed”.<sup>13875</sup> 4254. For the foregoing reasons, the Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan also knew of the crimes after their commission.

18.2. Commission through a Joint Criminal Enterprise

4255. The Closing Order found that KHIEU Samphan participated or contributed to the design, implementation and control of the execution of the common purpose, which “resulted in and/or involved the commission of crimes”.<sup>13876</sup> The Chamber has found that the appropriate standard is whether the accused participated in the common purpose which amounted to or involved the commission of crimes, and by his or her acts or omissions made a significant contribution to the commission of crimes encompassed by the common purpose.<sup>13877</sup>

4256. The Chamber’s factual findings in relation to the development and the criminality of the common purpose, to which all the policies were intrinsically linked, included that the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution in Cambodia through a “great leap forward” designed to build the country, defend it from enemies and radically transform the population into an atheistic and homogenous Khmer society of worker-peasants was shared by a plurality of persons.<sup>13878</sup> The Chamber now turns to assess whether KHIEU Samphan made a significant contribution to the common purpose and whether he shared with the other JCE members the intent to commit the crimes charged.

---

<sup>13875</sup> Khieu Samphan Interviewed on Executions, National Problems (in FBIS collection), E3/608, 26 September 1976, ERN (En) 00419841.

<sup>13876</sup> Closing Order, para. 1536.

<sup>13877</sup> Section 15.2: Applicable Law: Individual Criminal Responsibility: Commission through a Joint Criminal Enterprise, paras 3709-3710.

<sup>13878</sup> Section 15.2: Applicable Law: Individual Criminal Responsibility: Commission through a Joint Criminal Enterprise.

18.2.1. *Contribution to the Common Purpose*18.2.1.1. Supporting the Common Purpose

4257. KHIEU Samphan's support of the CPK and its policies traces back to at least 1967.<sup>13879</sup> Following the overthrow of NORODOM Sihanouk as Head of State on 18 March 1970, KHIEU Samphan was appointed to the roles of GRUNK Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of National Defence in the government in exile.<sup>13880</sup> His appointment as a candidate member of the CPK Central Committee at the Third Party Congress in 1971,<sup>13881</sup> where a mostly unchanged Party Statute was adopted calling for Marxist-Leninist national democratic revolution, class struggle and the opposition to feudalists and imperialists,<sup>13882</sup> demonstrates KHIEU Samphan's disposition toward the Party's revolutionary goals. While the Chamber has acknowledged that the objective of socialist revolution was not itself criminal in character,<sup>13883</sup> through his continued occupation of positions within the CPK and DK throughout the indictment period, KHIEU Samphan supported, tacitly encouraged, legitimised by his presence and therefore facilitated the overarching common purpose which involved the commission of crimes.<sup>13884</sup> KHIEU Samphan attributed the success of the CPK following "liberation" to the "correct political line of [Angkar], notably the line of independence, sovereignty, self-reliance and being master[s] of our own destiny".<sup>13885</sup> His support for the CPK and its policies continued throughout his capacities as full-rights member of the Central Committee and President of the State Presidium from 1976 to 1979.<sup>13886</sup> KHIEU Samphan's regular attendance at Standing Committee meetings where crucial decisions were made,<sup>13887</sup> membership of Office 870 from October 1975,<sup>13888</sup> and oversight of DK commerce matters from October 1976 until January 1979<sup>13889</sup> further

---

<sup>13879</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, paras 573-574.

<sup>13880</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, para. 577.

<sup>13881</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, para. 274.

<sup>13882</sup> Section 3: Historical Background, paras 226-227 (KHIEU Samphan supported the Party's call for a strengthened "proletarian stance" and intensified struggle against oppressive classes of the Khmer Republic).

<sup>13883</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3743.

<sup>13884</sup> Section 16.4.5: Common Purpose: Legal Findings.

<sup>13885</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3734.

<sup>13886</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, paras 576, 598, 601.

<sup>13887</sup> Section 8.3.3: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan: Membership of the Central and Standing Committees.

<sup>13888</sup> Section 8.3.4.1: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan: Membership of Office 870.

<sup>13889</sup> Section 8.3.4.2: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan: Oversight of Commerce.

evidence his support for and continued assistance to the CPK in the realisation of its objectives.

4258. KHIEU Samphan regularly attended and participated in Standing Committee meetings at which matters central to the common purpose were discussed,<sup>13890</sup> including: agriculture, drought and industry,<sup>13891</sup> the mandatory acquisition of rice from bases in the amount of “30 to 50 percent [...] or up to 100 percent”,<sup>13892</sup> and the attainment of the target of three tonnes of rice per hectare which, if unsuccessful, would leave the Party unable to feed the general public or build or defend the country.<sup>13893</sup> KHIEU Samphan also participated in discussions concerning the identification and purge of enemies, including West Zone Secretary CHOU Chet alias Sy.<sup>13894</sup> He was present when Standing Committee members regularly furnished reports concerning cooperatives, worksites and areas under their control regarding the progress and implementation of the common purpose,<sup>13895</sup> including Southwest Zone Secretary Ta Mok,<sup>13896</sup> Central (old North) Zone Secretary KE Pauk,<sup>13897</sup> and Northwest Secretary RUOS Nhim.<sup>13898</sup> KHIEU Samphan was present at the Standing Committee meeting at which the construction of a military airfield in Kampong Chhnang was planned in October 1975,<sup>13899</sup> and was present at later meetings at which SON Sen reported on the construction of Kampong Chhnang Airfield.<sup>13900</sup>

4259. In his capacity as a member of the Central Committee, KHIEU Samphan attended the Third, Fourth and Fifth Party Congresses which adopted policies from the Standing Committee concerning the overall political line in accordance with the principle of democratic centralism.<sup>13901</sup> By his membership of this body and participation in its meetings, KHIEU Samphan assented to the directive to place state power into the hands of the worker-peasants and initiatives encouraging districts to

<sup>13890</sup> Section 8.3.3: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan: Membership of the Central and Standing Committees.

<sup>13891</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3891.

<sup>13892</sup> Standing Committee Minutes E3/224, 30 May 1976, p. 2, ERN (En) 00182668.

<sup>13893</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3901.

<sup>13894</sup> See above, para. 4228.

<sup>13895</sup> Sections 5: Administrative Structures, paras 355, 364.

<sup>13896</sup> For Ta Mok’s attendance at Standing Committee meetings, see e.g., Standing Committee excerpts (Document 21.5.23 from PRT Trial), E3/7328, 11 April 1977.

<sup>13897</sup> Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, paras 1455, 1458.

<sup>13898</sup> Section 11.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, paras 1236, 1250.

<sup>13899</sup> Section 11.3: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Worksite, para. 1723.

<sup>13900</sup> Section 11.3: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Worksite, para. 1727.

<sup>13901</sup> Section 5.1.1: Party Congress; Section 5.1.9: Democratic Centralism.

achieve the “three tonnes per hectare” target.<sup>13902</sup> Indeed, he publicly endorsed the DK Constitution which promoted the CPK’s objective of transforming the entire population into a society of worker-peasants.<sup>13903</sup>

4260. KHIEU Samphan was a fully-fledged member at the time the Central Committee approved the delegation of the “right to smash” down the ranks of the CPK.<sup>13904</sup> As a full-rights voting member of the Central Committee, KHIEU Samphan contributed to the publication of a mid-1978 memorandum by the Central Committee calling for compassion to be accorded to “misled persons” who had, among other things, served as Yuon agents – a policy which the Chamber found had no tangible impact on the ground.<sup>13905</sup> The Chamber has found that this new policy was selectively reserved for Khmers and explicitly exempted “the Yuon” from more lenient re-education; the latter were instead subject to “absolute Special Brach measures, completely and totally, permanently”.<sup>13906</sup> In the final months of the DK, KHIEU Samphan attended the Fifth Party Congress at which VORN Vet was arrested and thereafter sent to S-21 Security Centre for interrogation and execution.<sup>13907</sup>

4261. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber is satisfied that KHIEU Samphan not only shared support for the common purpose but that he publicly supported it throughout the DK period.

18.2.1.2. Promoting the Common Purpose

4262. In a pattern that continued throughout the DK era, KHIEU Samphan publicly promoted, confirmed and endorsed the common purpose. Reports naming KHIEU Samphan as the chairman of a Special National Congress in the aftermath of 17 April 1975 detailed the government’s resolution to build a classless society free from exploitation in which all citizens would strive to build and defend the country.<sup>13908</sup>

<sup>13902</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3899.

<sup>13903</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3897.

<sup>13904</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, para. 600; Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3771, 3955.

<sup>13905</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3404; Section 16.3: Real or Perceived Enemies, para. 3828.

<sup>13906</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, paras 3405-3406.

<sup>13907</sup> See above, para. 4229.

<sup>13908</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, para. 593; Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3735. While it was unclear to the Chamber whether this congress actually took place, it was satisfied that the reported resolution represented the political line of the CPK.

Alongside other Central Committee members, senior leaders and zone secretaries, KHIEU Samphan participated in meetings in May 1975 over the course of about 10 days at the Silver Pagoda in Phnom Penh, laying the groundwork for rapid socialist revolution through the displacement of populations, the establishment of cooperatives, the construction of irrigation infrastructure and the initiation of defence projects.<sup>13909</sup> In his capacity as newly-appointed President of the State Presidium, KHIEU Samphan endorsed and promoted the objective of achieving a “great and magnificent leap” while building and defending an independent and self-reliant country.<sup>13910</sup> Further, KHIEU Samphan personally perpetuated the Party line by leading indoctrination sessions at mass rallies and re-education seminars for, among others, returnees from abroad and Ministry of Commerce cadres, which were aimed at strengthening socialist consciousness, forging worker-peasant identity and engendering support for CPK policies.<sup>13911</sup>

4263. At 17 April anniversaries and other events, KHIEU Samphan publicly lauded the CPK’s successes and encouraged popular support of Angkar’s program for building and defending DK.<sup>13912</sup> Although he claimed that these speeches were dictated by POL Pot, that they “were not very important” and that his “role was just protocol”, he acknowledged that, “generally I agreed with the content”.<sup>13913</sup>

4264. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber is satisfied that KHIEU Samphan not only shared support for the common purpose, but that as a senior leader he actively, vocally and publicly promoted, confirmed and endorsed it domestically and on the international stage.

18.2.1.3. Encouraging, inciting and legitimising the implementation of the Common Purpose through its policies

4265. As a respected Cambodian politician and the face of GRUNK and DK, KHIEU Samphan used his positions to support and therefore legitimise the implementation of the common purpose both domestically and internationally. Through his many public

<sup>13909</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3736.

<sup>13910</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3739.

<sup>13911</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3736. See below, Section 18.2.1.4: Instructing on the implementation of the Common Purpose through its policies.

<sup>13912</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3742 (fn. 12489).

<sup>13913</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, para. 598.

speeches and statements during the DK period, KHIEU Samphan encouraged and incited the execution of the CPK's various policies. As interim Deputy Prime Minister and later President of the State Presidium, KHIEU Samphan called on the masses to work collectively in the fields and factories in order to increase production and defend the country.<sup>13914</sup> He offered a "100 percent guarantee" that in one or two years there would be sufficient produce to export, and that "people's livelihood will be gradually improved".<sup>13915</sup> He reported the construction of dykes, canals, reservoirs and dams throughout the country by a labour force "working day and night [...] without rest" to build the country.<sup>13916</sup> In particular, KHIEU Samphan announced the DK's intention to "build new embankments measuring thousands of kilometres in length",<sup>13917</sup> and supported the transformation of the country into a "construction site" to be "built by all of our people working actively together".<sup>13918</sup> Confirming that such early speeches were far from propaganda, KHIEU Samphan acknowledged that construction workers were indeed pushed to work irregular hours.<sup>13919</sup> His knowledge of appalling conditions, gruelling work regimes and inadequate food was described by NORODOM Sihanouk in 2000:

At the beginning, from September 1975 until April 1976, I, as Head of State, travelled through my country, through Cambodia, together with KHIEU Samphan. I saw that the communes were concentration camps. I saw how work went on day and night. When the moon shone, people could not sleep. Sleep was not allowed. People had to work. I saw what people ate, for there was no rice. The rice was mixed with maize and

---

<sup>13914</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3897.

<sup>13915</sup> Deputy Premier Grants Interview to AKI (in FBIS collection), E3/119, 13 August 1975, ERN (En) 00167386.

<sup>13916</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3916 (fn. 13067).

<sup>13917</sup> Phnom Penh Reportage on Third National Congress: Khieu Samphan Report (in FBIS collection), E3/273, 5 January 1976, ERN (En) 00167816.

<sup>13918</sup> Welcome Rally Marks Sihanouk's Return: Khieu Samphan Speech (in FBIS collection), E3/271, 12 September 1975, ERN (En) 00167454 ("In the countryside the movement for increasing production is developing daily, thus greatly transforming the entire countryside this year. [...] Our country will be transformed into a most agreeable site built by all of our people working actively together"); U.S. State Department Telegram, Subject: Khieu Samphan Visit to PRC, E3/619, August 1975, ERN (En) 00413733 ("Khieu Samphan Listed his country's new tasks as 'defending the state, rehabilitating the economy and building the country in an all-round way at a rapid speed' [...]. He said the whole country had become 'a big construction site' and 'it would not be long' before Cambodia became a progressive and prosperous country.").

<sup>13919</sup> Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, para. 1508. KHIEU Samphan's assertion was confirmed by the Chamber's findings at the worksites and construction sites under examination in the present case. See Section 16.4.1.2: Common Purpose: Movement of Population, Establishment of Cooperatives and Worksites: Criminality of Policy.

other things, beans, even leaves, the chopped-up stalks of banana plants. The diet was very, very bad.<sup>13920</sup>

4266. At the first anniversary of the CPK's victory, KHIEU Samphan lauded the people's "victories" which were "achieved by great leaps and bounds", noting that DK had in one year achieved "as much as one would in 10 years". Despite being aware of conditions on the ground,<sup>13921</sup> KHIEU Samphan continued to celebrate the CPK's desire to build irrigation infrastructure "at a pace never before attained" and through manual work,<sup>13922</sup> and called on worker-peasants to increase economic output and export more rice to generate capital.<sup>13923</sup>

4267. KHIEU Samphan issued statements promoting the cultivation and harvest of dry season rice in accordance with early economic initiatives,<sup>13924</sup> impelled the general population to "fulfil or overfulfil" Angkar's Four Year Economic Plan and "maintain under all circumstances" the targets set by the Party.<sup>13925</sup> He promoted the country's independence and self-reliance by praising the construction of a dam in Kampong Speu in a "single month", announcing that the 1977 construction plan would be fulfilled "by the end of May" that year and boasting that the DK had built in months that which "would have taken years to finish" had the population engaged foreign "so-called agricultural experts of the previous era".<sup>13926</sup>

4268. KHIEU Samphan also called on the population to divest themselves of personal sentiment toward their parents in favour of Angkar, which was now to supplant the role of parents. He further openly promoted the Party's policy to rapidly increase DK's population.<sup>13927</sup> Contrary to his earlier praise of the Sangha for their contributions to the success of the revolution, KHIEU Samphan deceptively maintained the image of <sup>13920</sup> Jungle War, E3/3113R, ERN V00172509, 00:29:32-00:30:26; T. 31 January 2013 (Key Document Hearing), E1/168.1, pp. 25-26. See also, Book by P. Short: Pol Pot: The History of a Nightmare, E3/9, p. 333, ERN (En) 00396541 ("Sihanouk was brought face to face with the awfulness of life in Democratic Kampuchea for the first time during two provincial tours he made that winter [1975-1976] in the company of Khieu Samphan, one to the Eastern and Northern Zones, the other to the North-West. '[It] bowled me over', he wrote later. 'My people [...] had been transformed into cattle'").

<sup>13921</sup> See above, paras 4214-4217.

<sup>13922</sup> Phnom Penh Reportage on Third National Congress: Khieu Samphan Report (in FBIS collection), E3/273, 5 January 1976, ERN (En) 00167817.

<sup>13923</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3909.

<sup>13924</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3742 (fn. 12489).

<sup>13925</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3742 (fn. 12489) (emphasis added).

<sup>13926</sup> Khieu Samphan's Speech at Anniversary Meeting (in SWB/FE/5490/C collection), E3/200, 15 April 1977, ERN (En) S00004166, S00004168.

<sup>13927</sup> See above, para. 4248.

normalcy in public while actively encouraging the arrangement of marriages contrary to Buddhist traditions and supporting the abolition of Buddhism in DK.<sup>13928</sup> Furthermore, in his position as President of the State Presidium, KHIEU Samphan publicly denied and sought to obscure the regime's crimes against former Khmer Republic officials in the wake of 17 April 1975.<sup>13929</sup>

4269. KHIEU Samphan actively propagated the CPK's rhetoric calling for the discriminatory treatment of the Vietnamese in Cambodia throughout the DK period. NORODOM Sihanouk recalled KHIEU Samphan's fervour for inciting the population "to hate the Yuons more and more every day" to unite the population and further the Party's aims.<sup>13930</sup> In light of heightened tensions and growing animosity toward Vietnam at the time, the Chamber considers the foregoing statement to have been a clear reference to the Vietnamese.<sup>13931</sup> At 17 April celebrations in 1978, KHIEU Samphan pledged on behalf of the CPK to "destroy forever all the expansionist, annexationist Vietnamese aggressors". He vowed further to "exterminate resolutely all agents" of the Vietnamese "from our units and from Cambodian territory forever". While repeating his calls to "exterminate the enemies of all stripes", KHIEU Samphan announced that this "particularly" applied to "the expansionist, annexationist Vietnamese enemy" whose elimination was necessary to "preserve the nation and the Cambodian race forever". Lastly, KHIEU Samphan resolved that DK would "keep extremely seething the national spirit of revolutionary vigilance" against the Vietnamese enemy.<sup>13932</sup> Far from being isolated instances, KHIEU Samphan continued calling for the elimination of the Vietnamese at various fora throughout 1978 and the beginning of 1979. According to KHIEU Samphan, national defence initiatives against the Vietnamese had "stirred up [the people's] national hatred and class hatred". KHIEU Samphan joined POL Pot in statements stressing the importance of protecting and preserving the fruits of the revolution and the "Kampuchean race" from the Vietnamese.<sup>13933</sup> Such pronouncements echoed state-sponsored broadcasts and Revolutionary Flag articles at the time describing the "life-and-death contradiction"

<sup>13928</sup> See above, paras 4240-4242.

<sup>13929</sup> See above, paras 4252-4253.

<sup>13930</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3401.

<sup>13931</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3394.

<sup>13932</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3399.

<sup>13933</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3406.

between DK and Vietnam and the need to “permanently clean” DK from the “Yuon”.<sup>13934</sup>

4270. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber is satisfied that KHIEU Samphan not only shared support for the common purpose, but that he encouraged and incited its implementation through the CPK’s policies while using his senior position to legitimise the same.

18.2.1.4. Instructing on the implementation of the Common Purpose through its policies

4271. KHIEU Samphan vocally supported the CPK’s policies concerning the deportation of the Vietnamese. In 1975 and 1976, he attended and personally lectured at events stressing the importance of “evacuating” all Vietnamese from Cambodia. At this time, he specifically lectured Cambodian returnees from abroad on the common purpose, including that “all people in Kampuchea had to do farming” and remarked that those who could not – “especially the Vietnamese” – “would be sent back to Vietnam”.<sup>13935</sup> He repeated this call in April 1978,<sup>13936</sup> a point at which the CPK’s policy had evolved from their deportation to their destruction.<sup>13937</sup> After the shift in the CPK’s policy toward the Vietnamese in 1977, KHIEU Samphan lectured at indoctrination sessions that the “Khmer had to be united” and that the “Khmer shall be free of [the] Vietnamese”,<sup>13938</sup> while also attending and lecturing at political training sessions at which the Vietnamese and their “agents” were denounced as enemies.<sup>13939</sup>

4272. KHIEU Samphan attended mass rallies at which he publicly acknowledged, and therefore legitimised by virtue of his senior position, the search for enemies through the country. He attended a May 1975 rally at which CPK leaders spoke about the need to “screen” and “sort” “internal enemies” from the previous regime, such that they would be removed from “the framework”.<sup>13940</sup> As late as 1977, he was personally advising the masses that the object of the revolution was to “eliminate the Lon Nol regime [...]

<sup>13934</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, paras 3404, 3406, 3408.

<sup>13935</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3390 (fn. 11437).

<sup>13936</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3400.

<sup>13937</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3416.

<sup>13938</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3390.

<sup>13939</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, para. 3517.

<sup>13940</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4054.

eliminate the capitalist, the feudalist [and] the intellectuals”.<sup>13941</sup> KHIEU Samphan exhorted the population to seek out “infiltrated enemies” and those opposing or obstructing the work of the CPK.<sup>13942</sup> He told the masses that if they betrayed the Party or the revolution, they would be killed, reiterating that those who were kept were no gain and those who were “pulled out” were no loss.<sup>13943</sup> KHIEU Samphan instructed commerce cadres on leadership, discipline and morality, and denounced “those who were lazy to work” as enemies of the Party.<sup>13944</sup> At rallies, KHIEU Samphan reiterated NUON Chea’s denunciation of CHAN Chakrei, KOY Thuon and KEO Meas.<sup>13945</sup> In mid-1978, KHIEU Samphan presided over a political education meeting at Borei Keila, where he announced before 400 to 500 participants that Office S-71 Chairman CHHIM Sam Aok alias Pang had been arrested and taken away “because he was a traitor collaborating with the Yvon” and instructed that cadres “should not follow what Pang did”.<sup>13946</sup>

4273. KHIEU Samphan also personally lectured cadres on the necessity of meeting production targets<sup>13947</sup> and encouraged the fulfilment of work plans regardless of the cost to workers, specifically instructing cadres that malingering workers would be categorised as “people who betray the Party”.<sup>13948</sup> He told participants that New People, in particular, were to bear the brunt of hard labour – they were to be given “a lot of work [and] little food” to simultaneously ensure the fulfilment of production targets while refashioning them into worker-peasants and weeding out enemies.<sup>13949</sup> KHIEU Samphan further instructed that all ministries were to arrange marriages so that couples could produce children in order to augment forces to defend the country.<sup>13950</sup> This was indeed implemented, including at the Ministry of Commerce, of whose operations KHIEU Samphan had direct oversight, and where monthly quotas called for a minimum of 100 couples to be married during 1977 and 1978.<sup>13951</sup>

<sup>13941</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 4272.

<sup>13942</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3942-3943.

<sup>13943</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3961.

<sup>13944</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, para. 620.

<sup>13945</sup> See above, para. 4226.

<sup>13946</sup> T. 3 July 2013 (EK Hen), E1/217.1, pp. 40-42, 45, 47 affirming EK Hen Interview Record, E3/474, 5 March 2008, p. 4, ERN (En) 00205049.

<sup>13947</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3916.

<sup>13948</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3942.

<sup>13949</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3967.

<sup>13950</sup> Section 14: Regulation of Marriage, para. 3569.

<sup>13951</sup> Section 14: Regulation of Marriage, para. 3570 (fn. 11980).

4274. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber is satisfied that KHIEU Samphan not only shared support for the common purpose, but that he actively instructed on its implementation through the various policies.

18.2.1.5. Enabling and controlling the implementation of the Common Purpose and its policies

4275. In his position as GRUNK Deputy Prime Minister, KHIEU Samphan willingly participated in the CPK's rouse designed to mask the widespread mistreatment of Buddhists in the first year of DK while actively lauding practices which were fundamentally inconsistent with Buddhism.<sup>13952</sup>

4276. As a member of Office 870 and overseer of DK trade and commerce, KHIEU Samphan personally enabled the smooth functioning of the DK administration to the detriment of its population. For over two years after SUA Vasi alias Doeun's removal from Office 870 and as supervisor of commerce-related matters, KHIEU Samphan personally ensured that Doeun's responsibilities remained fulfilled.<sup>13953</sup> While the countryside was stricken by drought, and as cooperative and construction workers were deprived of adequate food<sup>13954</sup> and suffered under mandatory rice requisition policies of the Party Centre,<sup>13955</sup> KHIEU Samphan ensured that cooperatives handed over communally harvested rice for export.<sup>13956</sup> He received requests from zones for the delivery of goods, and responded to them with delivery orders. He received reports detailing the quantities of rice sent to state warehouses by the zones and the quantities of rice exported, ensuring that the maximum quantity was exported in accordance with CPK economic plans. He visited state warehouses where he inspected products destined for export,<sup>13957</sup> while personally supervising the import and export of goods in and out of DK.<sup>13958</sup>

<sup>13952</sup> See below, Section 18.2.2.3.3: Buddhists.

<sup>13953</sup> See above, para. 4225.

<sup>13954</sup> Section 10.1.7.3: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Rations and Communal Eating; Section 11.2.17.1: 1st January Dam Worksite: Living Conditions: Food (see also, paras 1450-1451); Section 16.1.4.1: Common Purpose, paras 3908, 3912-3913, 3926.

<sup>13955</sup> Section 10.1.7.3: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Rations and Communal Eating: High-Level Policy Documents.

<sup>13956</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, para. 619.

<sup>13957</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, paras 619-621.

<sup>13958</sup> Section 8.3.4.2: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan: Oversight of Commerce; Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3907, 3909, 3914.

4277. KHIEU Samphan's position of unique standing within the CPK and regular attendance at Standing Committee meetings gave him insight into the Party's operations. He participated in meetings at which cadres' fates were decided<sup>13959</sup> and contributed to the investigation and purge of others, including KANG Chap,<sup>13960</sup> while participating in a system he knew was arresting and executing members from its ranks.<sup>13961</sup> Further still, his silent assent to the mistreatment of civilians in cooperatives and worksites enabled the continued implementation of criminal policies against the DK population.<sup>13962</sup> To the outside world, however, KHIEU Samphan obscured the events inside DK and denied the perpetration of large-scale crimes.<sup>13963</sup>

4278. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber is satisfied that KHIEU Samphan not only shared support for the common purpose, but that he personally enabled and controlled its implementation through the various policies.

18.2.2. Intent

4279. The Chamber recalls that the intent must cover both the common purpose and the crimes it encompassed.<sup>13964</sup> The Chamber has found that KHIEU Samphan formed part of a plurality of persons who acted in unison to put into effect the common purpose.<sup>13965</sup> KHIEU Samphan's intent to participate in the common purpose is further demonstrated by the contribution he made thereto, which was aimed at furthering it (supporting and promoting the common purpose; encouraging, inciting and legitimising the underlying policies; and enabling, controlling and instructing on the common purpose's implementation through underlying policies) as described above. The Chamber now turns to assess whether KHIEU Samphan possessed the requisite mens rea for the crimes encompassed by the common purpose.

18.2.2.1. Cooperatives and worksites

4280. The Chamber has found that the crimes against humanity of murder, enslavement, persecution on political grounds and the other inhumane acts of attacks

<sup>13959</sup> See above, para. 4228.

<sup>13960</sup> See above, para. 4234.

<sup>13961</sup> See above, paras 4219, 4221-4230.

<sup>13962</sup> See above, paras 4231, 4231-4235.

<sup>13963</sup> See above, para. 4253.

<sup>13964</sup> Section 15: Applicable Law: Individual Criminal Responsibility, para. 3712.

<sup>13965</sup> Section 16.4.5: Common Purpose: Legal Findings.

against human dignity and conduct characterised as enforced disappearances were variously established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, 1st January Dam Worksite and Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site.<sup>13966</sup> It has further found that, insofar as they were established at these sites, these crimes were encompassed by the common purpose as part of the policy to establish and operate cooperatives and worksites.<sup>13967</sup>

4281. KHIEU Samphan maintained his support of the common purpose throughout the DK period as it concerned the establishment and operation of cooperatives and worksites.<sup>13968</sup> In so doing, he participated in meetings at which plans for achieving three tonnes of rice per hectare were devised and discussed,<sup>13969</sup> publicly promoted the objective of achieving a “great leap forward” at a “pace never before attained”<sup>13970</sup> in order to transform the country into a “construction site”,<sup>13971</sup> and called for quotas and economic plans to be fulfilled and over-fulfilled at any cost.<sup>13972</sup> All the while, KHIEU Samphan knew that the population was being converted into a society of worker-peasants which was being forced to work communally,<sup>13973</sup> and was determined that by eating “gruel together” and working without rest, the population would industrialise the country in record time.<sup>13974</sup> His enthusiasm for the implementation of the CPK’s plans was not dampened by his knowledge of the appalling working and living conditions which were intentionally imposed at cooperatives and worksites throughout the country.<sup>13975</sup> To the contrary, he actively enabled this system to continue by overseeing the requisition and distribution of rice internationally, much to the detriment of the population.<sup>13976</sup> Furthermore, KHIEU Samphan encouraged cadres to assign more work to New People and to deprive them of adequate food while supporting the unequal treatment of class enemies perceived to be impeding the CPK’s progress.<sup>13977</sup> The

<sup>13966</sup> Section 10.1.13: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Legal Findings; Section 11.1.12: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: Legal Findings; Section 11.2.24: 1st January Dam Worksite: Legal Findings; Section 11.3.13: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site: Legal Findings.

<sup>13967</sup> Section 16.4.1: Common Purpose: “Control” and “Capture the People”: Movement of Population, Establishment of Cooperatives and Worksites.

<sup>13968</sup> See above, para. 4210.

<sup>13969</sup> See above, para. 4258.

<sup>13970</sup> See above, paras 4262, 4265-4266.

<sup>13971</sup> See above, para. 4265.

<sup>13972</sup> See above, paras 4214, 4267.

<sup>13973</sup> See above, para. 4210.

<sup>13974</sup> See above, paras 4211, 4267.

<sup>13975</sup> See above, paras 4215, 4231-4234.

<sup>13976</sup> See above, para. 4275.

<sup>13977</sup> See above, paras 4217, 4273.

Chamber finds that this establishes KHIEU Samphan's specific intent to discriminate against Party enemies on political grounds. In line with his support of the revolutionary framework concerning the treatment of enemies and particularly the principle of secrecy, the Chamber is satisfied that KHIEU Samphan intended that enemies were to be dealt with in secret.<sup>13978</sup>

4282. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan intended the commission of crimes at cooperatives and worksites. In particular, the evidence establishes that KHIEU Samphan shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crimes against humanity of murder, enslavement and the other inhumane act through attacks against human dignity and conduct characterised as enforced disappearances. In addition, and having established his specific intent to subject Party enemies to discrimination and adverse treatment, the Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime against humanity of persecution on political grounds.

18.2.2.2. Security centres, execution sites and internal purges

4283. The Chamber has found that the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, enslavement, imprisonment, torture, persecution on political grounds and the other inhumane acts through attacks against human dignity and conduct characterised as enforced disappearances were variously established at the S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres.<sup>13979</sup> It has further found that, insofar as they were established at these security centres, these crimes were encompassed by the common purpose as part of the policy to identify, arrest, isolate and "smash" enemies.<sup>13980</sup>

4284. The Chamber recalls that KHIEU Samphan contributed to nationwide purges, which the Chamber has found was inextricably intertwined with the policy to establish <sup>13978</sup> See e.g., Section 16.4.2.1.2: "Smashing" of Enemies; Section 16.4.2.1.3: Re-education of "Bad Elements".

<sup>13979</sup> Section 12.2.24: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings; Section 12.3.12: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings; Section 12.4.7: Au Kanseng Security Centre: Legal Findings; Section 12.5.8: Phnom Kraol Security Centre: Legal Findings.

<sup>13980</sup> Section 16.4.2: Common Purpose: Establishment and Operation of Security Centres and Execution Sites.

and operate security centres and execution sites.<sup>13981</sup> KHIEU Samphan demonstrated acute knowledge of the circumstances of his fellow leaders' arrests. By virtue of his position of standing within the CPK, KHIEU Samphan knew of and supported the arrests of prominent Party leaders including at least four zone secretaries,<sup>13982</sup> Standing Committee members,<sup>13983</sup> former GRUNK minister HU Nim,<sup>13984</sup> formerly ranking CPK member KEO Meas,<sup>13985</sup> Office S-71 Chairman CHHIM Sam Aok alias Pang,<sup>13986</sup> Office 870 Chairman SUA Vasi alias Doeun,<sup>13987</sup> Division 170 Commander CHAN Chakrei<sup>13988</sup> and Division 170 Commander Chhouk.<sup>13989</sup>

4285. KHIEU Samphan urged cadres to identify enemies obstructing the work of the Party, urged seething anger and “vigilance” against them, and warned that traitors would be killed.<sup>13990</sup> The Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan's conduct demonstrates his specific intent to discriminate against Party enemies on the basis of their perceived political affiliations. He supported the principle of secrecy, knew about the widespread arrests of people at bases on the basis of their real or perceived affiliation with enemies, was personally informed about arbitrary detentions and conditions of imprisonment in Preah Vihear and exercised his authority to extricate his relatives therefrom.<sup>13991</sup> Twenty-five years after the fall of Democratic Kampuchea, KHIEU Samphan still supported as “ever legitimate and necessary” the defence of revolutionary objectives ahead of individual human rights principles.<sup>13992</sup>

4286. Through incongruous and often contradictory statements, KHIEU Samphan betrayed his professed ignorance about the wide-scale executions which ravaged the country throughout the DK period. By defending POL Pot's methods as warranted in the circumstances, he implicitly but necessarily endorsed the arbitrary and secret arrest,

<sup>13981</sup> See above, para. 4219.

<sup>13982</sup> CHOU Chet (see above, paras 4228, 4258), SAO Phim (see above, para. 4229); KOY Thuon (see above, paras 4226, 4272); KANG Chap (see above, para. 4234). For RUOS Nhim and NEY Sarann, see e.g., para. 4222.

<sup>13983</sup> VORN Vet (see above, para. 4229).

<sup>13984</sup> See above, para. 4227.

<sup>13985</sup> See above, para. 4226.

<sup>13986</sup> See above, para. 4272.

<sup>13987</sup> See above, para. 4225.

<sup>13988</sup> See above, para. 4226.

<sup>13989</sup> See above, para. 4226.

<sup>13990</sup> See above, para. 4272.

<sup>13991</sup> See above, paras 4231-4234.

<sup>13992</sup> Book by KHIEU S.: Cambodia's Recent History and the Reasons Behind the Decisions I Made, E3/18, p. 30, ERN (En) 00103738.

detention, torture and extrajudicial execution of his fellow CPK leaders. By deflecting the ultimate blame for atrocities onto zone secretaries, he sought to distance himself from the actions of the upper echelon, of which he himself formed part. By encouraging cadres to identify enemies and counter-revolutionary behaviour, KHIEU Samphan actively furthered the common purpose of rapidly implementing socialist revolution in order to, among other things, defend the country against enemies. By selectively exercising his authority to prevent the commission of crimes, he demonstrated his ability to avert the horrendous treatment and slaughter of his countrymen – something he was not willing to do for the others who perished under the CPK’s rule.

4287. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan intended the commission of crimes as part of the CPK’s policy of identifying, arresting, isolating and smashing enemies. In particular, the evidence establishes that KHIEU Samphan shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, enslavement, imprisonment, torture and the other inhumane acts through attacks against human dignity and conduct characterised as enforced disappearances. Having established that KHIEU Samphan specifically intended the discrimination and adverse treatment of Party enemies, the Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime against humanity of persecution on political grounds.

18.2.2.3. Targeting of specific groups

18.2.2.3.1. Cham

4288. The Chamber has found that the crime of genocide and the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, imprisonment, torture, persecution on political and religious grounds, and the other inhumane act through forced transfer were established with respect to the treatment of the Cham.<sup>13993</sup> The Chamber has found that the foregoing crimes were encompassed by the common purpose as part of the CPK’s policy targeting the Cham for adverse treatment.<sup>13994</sup>

<sup>13993</sup> Section 13.2.10: Treatment of the Cham: Legal Findings.

<sup>13994</sup> Section 16.4.3.1: Common Purpose: Cham.

4289. The Chamber has found the treatment of this group at Wat Au Trakuon and Trea Village Security Centre constituted the implementation of the CPK's policy to identify, arrest, isolate and "smash" enemies.<sup>13995</sup> The Chamber has already addressed KHIEU Samphan's specific intent to discriminate against enemies on the basis of their real or perceived political affiliations, as well as his support of the policy to identify, arrest, isolate and "smash" enemies, including the crimes against humanity of imprisonment, torture, murder and extermination.<sup>13996</sup> The Chamber has also found that in the case of the Cham, discriminatory policies were implemented to disperse the group, restrict their religious and cultural practices and kill those members who resisted assimilation.<sup>13997</sup> The Chamber accordingly finds that KHIEU Samphan intended the commission of crimes as part of the CPK's policy targeting the Cham for adverse treatment. In particular, the evidence establishes that KHIEU Samphan shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, imprisonment, torture, persecution on political and religious grounds and the other inhumane act of conduct characterised as forced transfer against the Cham.

4290. Concerning the crime of genocide by killing members of the Cham group, the Chamber observes that while it has established KHIEU Samphan's shared intent to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the underlying crime of murder against this group, no evidence was available to demonstrate, to the requisite standard, that KHIEU Samphan specifically intended to destroy the Cham ethnic and religious group, as such. Accordingly, the Chamber will not impute responsibility to KHIEU Samphan for this crime under the mode of liability of commission through a joint criminal enterprise.

18.2.2.3.2. Vietnamese

4291. The Chamber has found that the crime of genocide and the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, deportation and persecution on racial grounds were established with regard to the treatment of the Vietnamese. In addition, the Chamber has found that a number of grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions were also established with regard to this group at S-21 Security Centre, including wilful killing, torture, inhumane treatment, wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health, wilful deprivation of the rights of a fair and regular trial and unlawful confinement.<sup>13998</sup> The Chamber has further found that these crimes were encompassed by the common purpose throughout the entire DK period, with the exception of deportation as a crime against humanity, which was limited to the period between 17 April 1975 and April 1977, and genocide by killing, which was limited to the period between April 1977 to 6 January 1979.<sup>13999</sup>

<sup>13995</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3993.

<sup>13996</sup> See above, Section 18.2.2.2: Security centres, execution sites and internal purges.

<sup>13997</sup> Sections 13.2.10: Treatment of the Cham: Legal Findings (see Sections 13.2.10.6 (persecution on religious grounds), 13.2.10.8 (other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced transfer)). These acts were encompassed by the common purpose. See Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3996-3997.

4292. The Chamber refers to KHIEU Samphan's statements about the Vietnamese, examined above in Section 18.1.2.3.2. In line with his calls to remove Vietnamese populations from Cambodia back to Vietnam in the early days of DK,<sup>14000</sup> the Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan shared the intent of other JCE participants to deport Vietnamese populations to Vietnam, and thereby commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime against humanity of deportation between 17 April 1975 and April 1977.

4293. The Chamber also considers that KHIEU Samphan's words and actions during the DK period evince his contempt for the Vietnamese and direct intent to kill, on a large scale, the Vietnamese in Cambodia from April 1977 through 6 January 1979.<sup>14001</sup> The Chamber accordingly finds that KHIEU Samphan shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crimes against humanity of murder and extermination against the Vietnamese in DK. Further, the Chamber is satisfied that the intent to kill was the result of KHIEU Samphan's specific intent to discriminate against the Vietnamese on racial grounds. It accordingly finds that KHIEU Samphan shared the specific intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime against humanity of persecution on racial grounds, and that the intended discriminatory acts were the deliberate killings of Vietnamese on a large scale.

4294. Furthermore, the Chamber considers that KHIEU Samphan's words and actions during the DK period demonstrate his genocidal intent to destroy the Vietnamese as a

<sup>13998</sup> Section 13.3.10: Treatment of the Vietnamese: Legal Findings.

<sup>13999</sup> Section 16.4.3.2: Common Purpose: Targeting of Specific Groups: Vietnamese.

<sup>14000</sup> See above, para. 4237.

<sup>14001</sup> See above, para. 4238.

racial, national and ethnic group, as such.<sup>14002</sup> In line with its findings in the preceding paragraph, the Chamber finds that the means by which this group was to be destroyed was through killing of Vietnamese in DK on a large scale. The Chamber accordingly finds that KHIEU Samphan shared the genocidal intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime of genocide by killing members of the Vietnamese racial, national and ethnic group.

4295. Lastly, the Chamber has found that KHIEU Samphan knew of the protected status of Vietnamese prisoners at S-21 Security Centre,<sup>14003</sup> supported the revolutionary framework concerning enemies and shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, crimes underlying the policy to establish security centres and execution sites.<sup>14004</sup> It accordingly finds that KHIEU Samphan shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions against Vietnamese prisoners at S-21 Security Centre, including through wilful killing; torture; inhumane treatment; wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health; wilfully depriving prisoners of war or civilians of the rights of a fair and regular trial; and unlawful confinement.

18.2.2.3.3. Buddhists

4296. The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of persecution on religious ground was established as part of the CPK's policy targeting Buddhist monks for adverse treatment.<sup>14005</sup> It has further found that this crime was encompassed by the common purpose.<sup>14006</sup>

4297. The Chamber recalls that KHIEU Samphan fortified the FUNK and GRUNK façade that obscured the CPK's operations after 17 April 1975, initially by praising the Sangha for its contributions to the revolution and maintaining the impression of normalcy under the new regime. This proved to be little more than subterfuge aimed at

<sup>14002</sup> KHIEU Samphan's lasting ire at the group is emphatically demonstrated in a 2007 interview wherein he lambasts the Vietnamese as aggressors and Vietnam as a "gigantic S-21" while nonchalantly dismissing the "little S-21 over here". See Documentary by D. Aronowitsch and S. Lindberg: Facing Genocide – Khieu Samphan and Pol Pot, E3/4201R, ERN V00720414, 01:15:10-01:17:23.

<sup>14003</sup> Section 4.1: Factual Overview of the Temporal Scope of Case 002/02 (including the Nature of the Armed Conflict), para. 339.

<sup>14004</sup> Section 16.4.2: Establishment and Operation of Security Centres and Execution Sites.

<sup>14005</sup> Section 10.1.13: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Legal Findings.

<sup>14006</sup> Section 16.4.3.3: Common Purpose: Targeting of Specific Groups: Buddhists.

shoring up the legitimacy of the interim CPK-dominated government which, behind the scenes, was defrocking monks in large numbers. KHIEU Samphan supported the charade of normalcy before discontinuing any mention of the monkhood while at the same time urging the arrangement of marriages in a fashion fundamentally inconsistent with Buddhist traditions.<sup>14007</sup> 4298. The Chamber is satisfied that KHIEU Samphan's actions demonstrate his specific intent to discriminate against Buddhists on the basis of their membership of that religious group. His steadfast support of the CPK's policies and concurrent concealment of their implementation demonstrates his intent to eliminate Buddhism in Cambodia, a necessary component of which was the defrocking of monks. The Chamber finds that the evidence establishes that KHIEU Samphan shared the specific intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime against humanity of persecution on religious grounds.

18.2.2.3.4. Former Khmer Republic officials

4299. The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of persecution on political grounds was established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives between 20 April 1975 and late May 1975, and from early 1977 through 6 January 1979 at 1st January Dam, S-21 Security Centre and Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre.<sup>14008</sup> It has further found that the crime was encompassed by the common purpose throughout the DK period as part of the CPK's policy targeting former Khmer Republic officials for adverse treatment.<sup>14009</sup>

4300. The Chamber has found that KHIEU Samphan was instrumental in ensuring the CPK's victory on 17 April 1975.<sup>14010</sup> He called for the execution of the Khmer Republic leadership and was a staunch supporter of the Party's discriminatory policies throughout the DK period. The Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan shared the specific intent of other JCE participants to discriminate against all officials of the former Khmer

<sup>14007</sup> See above, paras 4240-4243, 4268.

<sup>14008</sup> Section 10.1.13: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Legal Findings; Section 11.2.24: 1st January Dam Worksite: Legal Findings; Section 12.2.24: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings, Section 12.3.12: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings.

<sup>14009</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 4058-4060. The Chamber recalls that in this context, "officials" includes former Khmer Republic civil servants and military personnel.

<sup>14010</sup> See above, paras 4244-4245.

Republic on the basis of their political status, in particular their perceived ability to stage a counter-revolution. The Chamber is also satisfied that, in line with his disposition toward the revolutionary framework, KHIEU Samphan specifically intended that all former Khmer Republic officials be subjected to adverse treatment. The Chamber therefore finds that KHIEU Samphan shared the specific intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime against humanity of persecution on political grounds against former Khmer Republic officials throughout the DK period.

4301. Further, the Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of murder was established with respect to former Khmer Republic officials at S-21 and Kraing Ta Chan Security Centres.<sup>14011</sup> It has found that, insofar as the crime was committed at these locations between 20 April 1975 and late May 1975 and from October 1975 through 6 January 1979, it was encompassed by the common purpose.<sup>14012</sup>

4302. KHIEU Samphan calls alongside HU Nim and HOU Youn in 1972 to “eliminate” high-ranking Khmer Republic officials and their subordinates mirrored his later assertion that the object of the revolution was to “eliminate the Lon Nol regime” – including the capitalists, feudalists and intellectuals who occupied its ranks – and that those who betrayed the Party or the revolution would be killed.<sup>14013</sup> These calls were reflective of events at both S-21 and Kraing Ta Chan Security Centres, where former Khmer Republic officials and their families were screened out for execution through lists and biographies.<sup>14014</sup> The Chamber is satisfied that former Khmer Republic officials (including soldiers and civil servants) and their families were subject to the CPK’s policy to identify, arrest, isolate and “smash” the most serious category of enemy, and that in this regard, KHIEU Samphan shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime against humanity of murder.

<sup>14011</sup> Section 12.2.24: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings, Section 12.3.12: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings.

<sup>14012</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 4051-4057.

<sup>14013</sup> See above, paras 4244, 4272.

<sup>14014</sup> Section 12.2.18: S-21 Security Centre: Former Khmer Republic Officials; Section 12.3.11.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: New People and Former Khmer Republic Officials.

18.2.2.4. Regulation of marriage

4303. The Chamber has found that the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced marriage and rape in the context of forced marriage was established as part of the CPK's nationwide policy to regulate marriage.<sup>14015</sup> It has further found that these crimes were encompassed by the common purpose.<sup>14016</sup>

4304. KHIEU Samphan openly advocated for the rapid increase of DK's population and concomitantly encouraged the population to divest themselves of personal sentiment toward their parents in favour of Angkar. He personally instructed that all ministries were to arrange marriages so that couples could produce children for the ultimate defence of the country.<sup>14017</sup>

4305. In light of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan intended the commission of crimes as part of the CPK's nationwide policy regulating marriage. In particular, the evidence establishes that KHIEU Samphan shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime against humanity of other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as forced marriage and rape in the context of forced marriage.

18.2.3. Conclusion on Joint Criminal Enterprise

4306. Having considered the evidence before it, the Chamber is satisfied that KHIEU Samphan participated in the common purpose. As the face of DK, KHIEU Samphan supported and promoted the common purpose, and encouraged, incited and legitimised its implementation through criminal policies. He further instructed cadres on their implementation while enabling and controlling the same. Accordingly, the Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan made a significant contribution to the commission of crimes perpetrated by CPK cadres within the scope of Case 002/02. Having established that direct perpetrators acted to further the common purpose at the behest or command of other JCE participants,<sup>14018</sup> and having established that KHIEU Samphan shared the

---

<sup>14015</sup> Section 14.4: Regulation of Marriage: Legal Findings.

<sup>14016</sup> Section 16.4.4: Common Purpose: Regulation of Marriage.

<sup>14017</sup> See above, para. 4248.

<sup>14018</sup> Section 16.1.4.5: Common Purpose: Legal Findings.

intent of other JCE members to commit crimes underlying the common purpose,<sup>14019</sup> the Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan committed, through a joint criminal enterprise (in its basic form), the crimes against humanity of murder (insofar as murder with direct intent was established at the Trapeang Thma Dam and 1st January Dam Worksites, the S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres, and with respect to the Vietnamese and Cham); extermination (as established at the S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres, and with respect to Vietnamese and Cham); deportation (as established with respect to the treatment of the Vietnamese); enslavement (as established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, 1st January Dam Worksite, Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site and the S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres); imprisonment (as established at the S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres, and with respect to the treatment of the Cham); torture (as established at S-21 and Kraing Ta Chan Security Centres and with respect to the treatment of the Cham); persecution on political grounds (as established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, 1st January Dam Worksite and Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, the S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres, and with respect to former Khmer Republic officials and the Cham), persecution on religious grounds (as established with respect to Buddhists at the Tram Kak Cooperatives and the Cham); persecution on racial grounds (as established with respect to Vietnamese, including at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, S-21 and Au Kanseng Security Centres); the other inhumane acts of attacks against human dignity (as established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, 1st January Dam Worksite, Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site and the S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres), other inhumane acts through conduct characterised as enforced disappearances (as established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, 1st January Dam Worksite, Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site and the Kraing Ta Chan and Phnom Kraol Security Centres), forced transfer (as established with respect to the Cham), forced marriage and rape in the context of forced marriage (as established within the context of the nationwide regulation of marriage).

---

<sup>14019</sup> See above, Section 18.2.2: Commission through a Joint Criminal Enterprise: Intent.

4307. The Chamber further finds that KHIEU Samphan committed, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime of genocide by killing members of the Vietnamese ethnic, national and racial group and committed, through a joint criminal enterprise, the grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions of wilful killing, torture, inhuman treatment, wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health, wilfully depriving a prisoner of war or a civilian the rights of a fair and regular trial and unlawful confinement of a civilian under the Geneva Conventions at S-21 Security Centre.

4308. The Chamber has found that the evidence did not establish KHIEU Samphan's specific intent to destroy the Cham ethnic and religious group, as such. Accordingly, the Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan is not responsible for committing, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime of genocide by killing members of the Cham group.

18.3. Other Modes of Liability

4309. In addition to the commission of crimes through a joint criminal enterprise, the Closing Order charges KHIEU Samphan with planning, instigating, ordering and aiding and abetting crimes (as delimited by the Case 002 Additional Severance Decision). In the alternative to these modes of liability, the Closing Order charges KHIEU Samphan under the mode of superior responsibility.<sup>14020</sup>

4310. The Chamber observes that the Closing Order does not particularise specific facts under the present modes of liability.<sup>14021</sup> Nevertheless, it notes that all the modes of liability under which KHIEU Samphan has been charged share a common factual base, much of which has been discussed above in Section 18.2: Commission through a Joint Criminal Enterprise. Because the Closing Order charges all possible forms of responsibility in respect of each charge, the Chamber may choose under which form or forms of responsibility to assess the evidence in respect of each Accused. The Chamber is not obliged to make exhaustive factual findings on each and every charged form of responsibility,<sup>14022</sup> and accordingly, will not do so in the present case. Moreover, where an accused is found to be both directly responsible and responsible as a superior in relation to the same conduct, the Chamber will convict on the basis of the former and consider an accused's superior position as an aggravating factor in sentencing.<sup>14023</sup>

<sup>14020</sup> Closing Order, paras 1543-1560; Case 002 Additional Severance Decision Annex, para. 6(ii).

<sup>14021</sup> See e.g., Closing Order, paras 1543-1545, 1547-1548, 1550-1551, 1553-1554.

<sup>14022</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 688; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 472; Milutinović et al. Trial Judgement, para. 76 (Volume I).

4311. Having considered all of the evidence and in light of KHIEU Samphan's role in the joint criminal enterprise, the Chamber finds that commission through a joint criminal enterprise most accurately and appropriately reflects KHIEU Samphan's responsibility for the crimes that fall within the common purpose. For these crimes, the Chamber will therefore not analyse KHIEU Samphan's responsibility under the other, additionally charged, modes of liability. Regarding the crime against humanity of murder committed with dolus eventualis as established at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, 1st January Dam Worksite, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, S-21 Security Centre, Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre and Phnom Kraol Security Centre, the Chamber recalls that it does not fall within the common purpose. The Chamber will consider KHIEU Samphan's responsibility for these crimes under the mode of aiding and abetting, as the Chamber finds that this most accurately reflects KHIEU Samphan's role vis-à-vis these murders. Similarly, the Chamber will assess KHIEU Samphan's responsibility for the crime of genocide as charged regarding the Cham, under the mode of aiding and abetting. Finally, where appropriate, the Chamber will consider KHIEU Samphan's position as a superior for sentencing purposes.

18.3.1. Aiding and Abetting

4312. As a preliminary matter, the Chamber recalls that the present mode of liability does not require the existence of a plan or agreement between the aider or abettor and the perpetrator. Instead, it requires that the accused knew that a crime would likely be committed; that his or her conduct assisted or facilitated the commission of the crime; and that he or she was aware of the essential elements of the crime committed. The accused need not have shared the perpetrator's intent to commit the crime, including the specific intent, where applicable.<sup>14024</sup>

<sup>14023</sup> Section 15.1: Applicable Law: Individual Criminal Responsibility, para. 3702; Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 688; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 539; Blaškić Appeal Judgement, para. 91.

<sup>14024</sup> Section 15.6: Applicable Law: Aiding and Abetting, para. 3722.

4313. KHIEU Samphan attended and participated in various meetings of the CPK leadership at which at which economic plans, irrigation initiatives and the implementation of the CPK's policies were planned and discussed. Notably, KHIEU Samphan attended meetings of the Standing Committee at which the implementation of the policy concerning cooperatives (including the Tram Kak Cooperatives) and worksites (including 1st January Dam, Trapeang Thma Dam and Kampong Chhnang Airfield) were discussed was monitored.<sup>14025</sup> By his attendance, KHIEU Samphan morally supported and implicitly encouraged the decision-making apparatus which continued to push forth with the planning and implementation of criminal initiatives.

4314. In public, KHIEU Samphan openly and actively encouraged and provided moral support to CPK cadres in the implementation of the Party Centre's policies at any and every cost. Through his speeches, pronouncements, instructions and lectures during the DK period, KHIEU Samphan variously lauded the labour force "working day and night" and "without rest" to build the country, impelled the population to fulfil or overfulfil" the CPK's economic plans and maintain targets set by the Party "under all circumstances".<sup>14026</sup> Through his visits to cooperatives and worksites, KHIEU Samphan observed the abject living and working conditions of worker-peasants, including starvation, illness and disease.<sup>14027</sup> As the moral guarantor of the DK, KHIEU Samphan's presence at cooperatives and worksites legitimised the absolute implementation of criminal policies. His subsequent praise encouraged cadres to continue implementing conditions which would achieve the Party's objectives regardless of the impact upon the newly-forged worker-peasants.

4315. In light of the foregoing and the considerations discussed above,<sup>14028</sup> the Chamber is satisfied that KHIEU Samphan knew that deaths would likely result from the conditions imposed at cooperatives and worksites. By his acts, KHIEU Samphan provided encouragement and moral support which had a substantial effect on the deaths of workers at cooperatives and worksites, and was at all times aware of the essential elements of the crimes committed by direct perpetrators. The Chamber therefore finds

---

<sup>14025</sup> See above, para. 4258.

<sup>14026</sup> See above, paras 4265-4267.

<sup>14027</sup> See above, paras 4213-4216. See also, Section 16: Common Purpose, paras 3910-3916.

<sup>14028</sup> See above, Section 18.1.1: Awareness of the Substantial Likelihood of the Commission of Crimes.

that KHIEU Samphan facilitated the commission of the crime against humanity of murder (through dolus eventualis) at cooperatives and worksites.

4316. Turning to the commission of this crime at security centres and within the context of internal purges, the Chamber recalls that KHIEU Samphan was apprised of the arrest, imprisonment, mistreatment and execution of real or perceived enemies or the CPK.<sup>14029</sup> As a result of his position of unique standing within the Party, KHIEU Samphan attended and supported meetings of decision-making bodies where the fates of enemies were discussed, and participated in the CPK's decision-making processes.<sup>14030</sup> He also openly called for the execution of those who betrayed the Party or revolution.<sup>14031</sup> As discussed above, KHIEU Samphan was generally aware of the conditions of starvation, the deprivation of adequate or effective medicine and mistreatment of real or perceived enemies of the CPK by cadres at cooperatives and worksites across DK in the absolute implementation of the Party's policies.<sup>14032</sup> The Chamber is satisfied that KHIEU Samphan knew of the substantial likelihood that this practice extended to security centres.

4317. In view of his knowledge about various high and low-level purges, and his shared intent to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, the crime against humanity of murder against such persons,<sup>14033</sup> the Chamber is satisfied that KHIEU Samphan knew that deaths would likely result from the conditions imposed at security centres. By his acts, KHIEU Samphan provided practical assistance and moral support to the Party Centre in the formulation and execution of this policy. These acts had a substantial effect on the commission of crimes by CPK cadres, and KHIEU Samphan was at all times aware of the essential elements of the crimes committed by direct perpetrators. The Chamber therefore finds that KHIEU Samphan assisted and facilitated the commission of the crime against humanity of murder (through dolus eventualis) at security centres and within the context of internal purges.

<sup>14029</sup> See above, Section 18.1.2.2: Knowledge Concurrent with the Commission of Crimes: Security Centres, Execution Sites and Internal Purges.

<sup>14030</sup> See above, paras 4221-4234.

<sup>14031</sup> See above, para. 4272.

<sup>14032</sup> See above, para. 4314.

<sup>14033</sup> See above, Section 18.2.2.2: Knowledge Concurrent with the Commission of Crimes: Security Centres, Execution Sites and Internal Purges. See also, Section 18.1.1: Awareness of the Substantial Likelihood of the Commission of Crimes.

4318. In view of the foregoing, the Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan is responsible for aiding and abetting the crime against humanity of murder committed with dolus eventualis at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, 1st January Dam Worksite, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site and the S-21, Kraing Ta Chan and Phnom Kraol Security Centres.

4319. With regard to the crime of genocide by killing members of the Cham ethnic and religious group, the Chamber recalls that while aiding and abetting does not require that an accused share the perpetrator's intent to commit the crime, including specific intent, the applicable law requires that the accused nevertheless assisted or facilitated the commission of crimes by providing practical assistance, encouragement or moral support which has a substantial effect on the commission of the crime. While the evidence demonstrated the KHIEU Samphan was aware of the underlying crimes of murder and extermination of Cham populations – and shared the intent of other JCE members to commit, through a joint criminal enterprise, these crimes – the evidence did not rise to the level of proving that KHIEU Samphan actively assisted or facilitated the execution of the genocidal policy against the Cham. The Chamber is therefore not satisfied that KHIEU Samphan aided and abetted the crime of genocide by killing members of the Cham ethnic and religious group. Further, the Chamber is not satisfied that the totality of KHIEU Samphan's conduct, as presented during the course of Case 002/02 with respect to the Cham, is appropriately characterised under the modes of planning, instigating or ordering. Accordingly, the Chamber will not impute responsibility for the crime of genocide by killing members of the Cham ethnic and religious group under the modes of liability of planning, instigating, ordering or aiding and abetting.

18.3.2. Superior Responsibility

4320. The crimes committed within the scope of Case 002/02 were carried out by CPK cadres and RAK personnel under the direct authority of their commanders, zone and sector secretaries. The Chamber has found that while KHIEU Samphan participated in meetings where CPK policies were discussed, and had the ability to influence others through political seminars, public statements and radio announcements in his various capacities, he did not have sufficient authority to directly order the perpetration of crimes. In the circumstances, the Chamber concludes that KHIEU Samphan did not have effective control prior to or during the commission of crimes within the scope of Case 002/02, and therefore had no accompanying duty to prevent the crimes.

4321. The Chamber next considers KHIEU Samphan's effective control, in fact or in law, after the commission of the crimes, and whether he had any accompanying duty to punish the perpetrators. Although KHIEU Samphan held various titles between 17 April 1975 and 6 January 1979,<sup>14034</sup> there is no evidence that he issued any orders to the direct perpetrators of the crimes under examination in Case 002/02. The evidence does not demonstrate that KHIEU Samphan exercised effective control over the direct perpetrators of the crimes by virtue of his positions or through his contributions to the crimes encompassed by the common purpose.

4322. Further, within the Party structures, it was NUON Chea, not KHIEU Samphan, who had the responsibility for disciplining Party members.<sup>14035</sup> KHIEU Samphan was a candidate member and, as of January 1976, a full-rights member of the Central Committee. However, this body had no ultimate decision-making authority; rather, it was the Standing Committee which was vested with this authority throughout the DK period.<sup>14036</sup> The Chamber has found that the principle of democratic centralism afforded KHIEU Samphan the opportunity to participate in meetings of the Party Centre,<sup>14037</sup> in particular the Standing Committee, however this falls short of establishing that he exercised effective control over the perpetrators of crimes.

4323. Despite overseeing the Commerce Committee from late October 1976, exercising considerable oversight and being fully apprised of DK trade and commerce matters, KHIEU Samphan's role was limited to administrative functions within that role.<sup>14038</sup> The Chamber considers that KHIEU Samphan did not exercise effective control as part of his functions as supervisor of DK commerce matters.

4324. Finally, the Chamber notes KHIEU Samphan's continuing proximity to senior leaders throughout the time period relevant to Case 002/02, his continuing importance within the CPK and significant contribution to the commission of crimes, in particular

---

<sup>14034</sup> Section 8.3: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan: Roles During the DK Period.

<sup>14035</sup> Section 7.5: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea: Roles in Propaganda and Other Related Matters.

<sup>14036</sup> Section 5.1.2: Standing Committee and Central Committee.

<sup>14037</sup> Section 5.1.9: Democratic Centralism.

<sup>14038</sup> Section 8.3.4.2: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan: Oversight of Commerce.

his regular attendance at and participation in meetings of the Standing Committee. The Chamber is not satisfied that this evidence leads to the conclusion that he exercised effective control. Partially substantial influence alone does not establish effective control within a command structure.<sup>14039</sup> 4325. Having considered the totality of the evidence, the Chamber is not satisfied that KHIEU Samphan was a superior in the sense of having had the ability to decide upon and take measures to prevent or punish the commission of crimes. Indeed, other reasonable inferences may be drawn from his overall role which militate against such a finding. The Chamber accordingly dismisses the charge that KHIEU Samphan is responsible as a superior for the crimes committed within the scope of Case 002/02.

18.4. Overall Conclusion on Individual Criminal Responsibility

4326. The Chamber has found that KHIEU Samphan committed, through a joint criminal enterprise: (a) the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, deportation, enslavement, imprisonment, torture, persecution on political, religious and racial grounds, and other inhumane acts through attacks against human dignity, conduct characterised as enforced disappearances, forced transfer, forced marriage and rape within the context of forced marriage; (b) the crime of genocide by killing members of the Vietnamese ethnic, national and racial group; and (c) grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions of wilful killing, torture, inhuman treatment, wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health, wilfully depriving a prisoner of war or a civilian the rights of a fair and regular trial and unlawful confinement of a civilian under the Geneva Conventions at S-21 Security Centre.<sup>14040</sup>

4327. Accordingly, the Chamber enters a conviction for the commission of crimes through a joint criminal enterprise for which KHIEU Samphan shared the direct, discriminatory and specific intent of other JCE members.

4328. Additionally, with respect to the deaths of workers and peasants at cooperatives, worksites and security centres as a result of dolus eventualis (which were not encompassed by the common purpose), the Chamber has found that KHIEU Samphan aided and abetted the crime against humanity of murder at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, 1st January Dam Worksite, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, S-21 Security Centre, Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre and Phnom Kraol Security Centre.<sup>14041</sup> In the present circumstances, the Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan's conduct is most appropriately characterised under the mode of aiding and abetting and accordingly enters a conviction for aiding and abetting the crime against humanity of murder with dolus eventualis at the above sites.

<sup>14039</sup> Delalić et al. Appeal Judgement, paras 258, 266.

<sup>14040</sup> See above, Section 18.2.3: Conclusion on Joint Criminal Enterprise.

4329. Finally, the Chamber has found that KHIEU Samphan is not responsible for the crime of genocide by killing members of the Cham ethnic and religious group.

---

<sup>14041</sup> See above, Section 18.3.1: Aiding and Abetting.

19. CUMULATIVE CONVICTIONS

19.1. Applicable Law

4330. Where the same Accused's conduct fulfils the elements of different offences, the Chamber must evaluate the impact of cumulative convictions. Cumulative convictions serve to "describe the full culpability of a particular accused or provide a complete picture of his criminal conduct".<sup>14042</sup> Where a Chamber has made findings of guilt on more than one statutory crime arising out of the same acts or omissions on the part of the accused, a conviction for each crime is permissible only if each of them has a materially distinct element that the other crimes in question do not.<sup>14043</sup> When this is not the case, a Chamber must convict the accused only of the crime with the more specific element or elements.<sup>14044</sup> In applying the cumulative convictions test, a Chamber must compare, in the abstract, all the general requirements of the statutory crimes in question, including chapeau elements, as well as the elements of the charged underlying offences, to determine whether each crime as a matter of law, requires proof of an element that the others do not.<sup>14045</sup>

19.2. Summary of the Accused Convictions

4331. The Chamber has found NUON Chea and KHIEU Samphan individually criminally responsible for committing, through a joint criminal enterprise: (a) the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, deportation, enslavement, imprisonment, torture, persecution on political, religious and racial grounds, and the other inhumane acts through attacks against human dignity, conduct characterised as enforced disappearances, forced transfer, forced marriage and rape in the context of forced marriage; (b) the crime of genocide by killing members of the Vietnamese ethnic, national and racial group; and (c) grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions of wilful killing, torture, inhuman treatment, wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health, wilfully depriving a prisoner of war or a civilian the rights of

<sup>14042</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1055 quoting Kunarac et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 169. See also, Case 001 Appeal Judgement, para. 330.

<sup>14043</sup> Case 001 Appeal Judgement, paras 318, 332; Delalić et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 412.

<sup>14044</sup> Case 001 Appeal Judgement, para. 298; Delalić et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 413.

<sup>14045</sup> Case 001 Appeal Judgement, paras 325-326.

a fair and regular trial and unlawful confinement of a civilian under the Geneva Conventions at S-21 Security Centre.<sup>14046</sup>

4332. The Chamber has further found that NUON Chea and KHIEU Samphan aided and abetted the crime against humanity of murder committed with dolus eventualis at Tram Kak Cooperatives, 1st January Dam Worksite, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, S-21 Security Centre, Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre and Phnom Kraol Security Centre.<sup>14047</sup>

4333. Finally, the Chamber has found NUON Chea individually responsible as a superior for the crime of genocide by killing members of the Cham ethnic and religious group.<sup>14048</sup>

19.3. Cumulative Convictions Under Articles 4 (Genocide), 5 (Crimes Against Humanity) and 6 (Grave Breaches of the Geneva Conventions) of the ECCC Law

4334. The Chamber notes the well-established case law on the permissibility of cumulative convictions for the crime of genocide and crimes against humanity on the basis that each crime contains a materially distinct element not contained in the other.<sup>14049</sup> More specifically, genocide requires proof of an intent to destroy, in whole or in part, a national, ethnical, racial or religious group which is not required as regards crimes against humanity.<sup>14050</sup> The latter requires proof that the crime was committed as part of a widespread or systematic attack against a civilian population, an element not required for genocide.<sup>14051</sup>

4335. Additionally, grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions under Article 6 require proof of a nexus between the acts of the accused and the existence of an international armed conflict, and that the victim or victims belong to a group of persons having

<sup>14046</sup> Section 17: The Criminal Responsibility of NUON Chea, para. 4198; Section 18: The Criminal Responsibility of KHIEU Samphan, paras 4326-4327.

<sup>14047</sup> Section 17: The Criminal Responsibility of NUON Chea, para. 4199; Section 18: The Criminal Responsibility of KHIEU Samphan, para. 4328.

<sup>14048</sup> Section 17: The Criminal Responsibility of NUON Chea, para. 4200.

<sup>14049</sup> See e.g., Tolimir Appeal Judgement, para. 610; Musema Appeal Judgement, paras 366-367; Nahimana et al. Appeal Judgement, paras 1029-1030.

<sup>14050</sup> Section 9.3: Applicable Law: Genocide, para. 797.

<sup>14051</sup> Section 4.2.2.1: Widespread or Systematic Attack against a Civilian Population.

protected status under the Geneva Conventions.<sup>14052</sup> Genocide and crimes against humanity do not require this materially distinct element.

4336. Cumulative convictions for genocide under Article 4, crimes against humanity under Article 5 and grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions under Article 6 based on the same criminal conduct are therefore permissible.

19.4. Cumulative Convictions Within Article 5 (Crimes Against Humanity) of the ECCC Law

4337. In relation to S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres and with respect to the treatment of the Vietnamese and the Cham, some of the Chamber's findings on the crimes against humanity of murder and extermination are based on the same deliberate killings.<sup>14053</sup> Both murder and extermination require death by intentional act or omission.<sup>14054</sup> While murder has no other elements, extermination additionally requires deaths on a massive scale.<sup>14055</sup> Accordingly, extermination, as the more specific offence, subsumes murder.<sup>14056</sup> The Chamber will therefore enter convictions only for extermination in relation to S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres and with respect to the treatment of the Vietnamese and the Cham when based on the same killings.

4338. The ECCC case law further established that there may be cumulative convictions reached for the crime against humanity of persecution and other underlying acts constituting crimes against humanity on the basis of the same criminal conduct.<sup>14057</sup> It was specifically established that extermination (encompassing murder), enslavement, <sup>14052</sup> Section 4.3: General Requirements for Grave Breaches of the Geneva Conventions of 1949 Listed in Article 6 of the ECCC Law; Section 12.2.24.1.1: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings: Murder. See also, Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 562 referring to Kordić and Čerkez Trial Judgement, paras 820, 821, 824; Kordić and Čerkez Appeal Judgement, para. 1037.

<sup>14053</sup> Section 12.2.24.1.2: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings: Extermination; Section 12.3.12.1: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings: Murder; Section 12.3.12.2: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre: Legal Findings: Extermination; Section 12.4.7.1: Au Kanseng Security Centre: Legal Findings: Murder; Section 12.4.7.2: Au Kanseng Security Centre: Legal Findings: Extermination; Section 12.5.8.1: Phnom Kraol Security Centre: Legal Findings: Murder; Section 12.5.8.2: Phnom Kraol Security Centre: Legal Findings: Extermination; Section 13.2.10.1: Treatment of the Cham: Legal Findings: Murder; Section 13.2.10.2: Treatment of the Cham: Legal Findings: Extermination; Section 13.3.10.1: Treatment of the Vietnamese: Legal Findings: Murder; Section 13.3.10.2: Treatment of the Vietnamese: Legal Findings: Extermination.

<sup>14054</sup> Section 9.1: Applicable Law: Crimes Against Humanity, paras 627, 630, 655, 657.

<sup>14055</sup> Section 9.1.2: Applicable Law: Crimes Against Humanity: Extermination, para. 655.

<sup>14056</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1057.

<sup>14057</sup> Case 001 Appeal Judgement, para. 316.

imprisonment, torture, other inhumane acts and persecution each have a materially distinct element not contained in the other, and therefore, can lead to cumulative convictions on the basis of the same criminal conduct.<sup>14058</sup> The same reasoning applies to the crime of deportation, which requires proof of forced displacement of persons across a border,<sup>14059</sup> a materially distinct element that none of the other crimes against humanity require. As a result, cumulative convictions for the crimes against humanity of extermination (encompassing murder), deportation, enslavement, imprisonment, torture, persecution and other inhumane acts are permissible.

19.5. Cumulative Convictions within Article 6 (Grave Breaches of the Geneva Conventions) of the ECCC Law

4339. In relation to S-21, some of the Chamber's findings on the grave breaches of inhuman treatment and wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health are based on the same conduct.<sup>14060</sup> The Chamber recalls that acts which constitute wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health will simultaneously constitute inhumane treatment.<sup>14061</sup> The two crimes require proof of an intentional infliction of serious bodily or mental harm.<sup>14062</sup> The grave breach of inhuman treatment, as a residual category, does not require proof of any additional, materially distinct element. The constitutive elements of wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health, on the other hand, rise to a specific level of seriousness.<sup>14063</sup> Accordingly, wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health, as the more specific offence, subsumes inhuman treatment and the Chamber will therefore enter convictions only for wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health in relation to S-21 when based on the same conduct.

<sup>14058</sup> Case 001 Appeal Judgement, para. 332 (extermination (encompassing murder), enslavement, imprisonment, torture, other inhumane acts and persecution are permissible); Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, paras 1059-1060 (cumulative convictions for persecution on political grounds, extermination and other inhuman acts (comprising forced transfer, enforced disappearances and attacks against human dignity) are permissible).

<sup>14059</sup> Section 9.1.4: Applicable Law: Crimes Against Humanity: Deportation, para. 674. See also, Stakić Trial Judgement, para. 360; Krajišnik Appeal Judgement, paras 390-391.

<sup>14060</sup> Section 12.2.24.2.3: S-21 Security Centre: Legal Findings: Inhumane Treatment; Section 12.2.24.2.4: Wilfully Causing Great Suffering or Serious Injury to Body or Health.

<sup>14061</sup> Section 9.2.3: Applicable Law: Grave Breaches of the Geneva Conventions of 1949, para. 761; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 442.

<sup>14062</sup> Section 9.2: Applicable Law: Grave Breaches of the Geneva Conventions of 1949, paras 761, 763, 766, 768.

<sup>14063</sup> Section 9.2: Applicable Law: Grave Breaches of the Geneva Conventions of 1949, para. 761.

4340. The remaining categories of grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions for which the Accused have been found individually criminally responsible all require proof of a materially distinct element. Therefore, cumulative convictions for wilful killing, torture, wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health, wilfully depriving a prisoner of war or a civilian the rights of a fair and regular trial and unlawful confinement of a civilian are permissible.

19.6. Conclusion

4341. In light of the above, the Chamber convicts the Accused of all the crimes for which they have been found individually responsible, save for the following instances:

- (i) When the Accused have been found, based on the same criminal conduct, individually responsible of murder and extermination as crimes against humanity at S-21, Kraing Ta Chan, Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres and with respect to the treatment of the Vietnamese and the Cham. In light of the law on cumulative convictions as set out above, the Chamber will enter a conviction for extermination only regarding these crimes.
- (ii) When the Accused have been found, based on the same criminal conduct, individually responsible of inhuman treatment and wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health as grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions at S-21. In light of the law on cumulative convictions as set out above, the Chamber will enter a conviction for wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health only regarding these crimes.

20.SENTENCING

20.1. Submissions

4342. The Co-Prosecutors submit that in evaluating the gravity of the crimes committed, the Chamber should consider, among other things, the number and vulnerability of the victims, the impact of the crimes upon them and their relatives, the discriminatory intent of the Accused when not already an element of the crime, the scale and brutality of the offences, the role played by the convicted person, and the geographic and temporal scope of victimisation.<sup>14064</sup> In this regard, the Co-Prosecutors submit that KHIEU Samphan and NUON Chea each played unique and critical roles in contributing to the JCE and the crimes alleged.<sup>14065</sup> As to aggravating circumstances, the Co-Prosecutors submit that the Accused were situated at the CPK's "apex of authority" during the regime, and that due to their intelligence and education, they were fully able to grasp the nature and seriousness of their acts.<sup>14066</sup> They further submit that there are no relevant mitigating factors as there is no evidence of diminished mental capacity or duress, neither Accused has cooperated with the court beyond their legally-required attendance at hearings, and they have not demonstrated sincere remorse or accepted personal responsibility for what occurred.<sup>14067</sup> Further, the age and health of both Accused provide no ground for mitigation, given the gravity of the crimes and the aggravating factors. The Co-Prosecutors therefore request that the Trial Chamber sentence NUON Chea and KHIEU Samphan to life imprisonment for the crimes proved in Case 002/02.<sup>14068</sup>

4343. The NUON Chea Defence seeks acquittal on all charges.<sup>14069</sup> It makes no submissions as to aggravating or mitigating circumstances in its Closing Brief and Closing Statement. During the trial in Case 002/02, while NUON Chea stated that he was remorseful for the suffering that occurred and that he accepted moral responsibility

---

<sup>14064</sup> Co-Prosecutors' Closing Brief, para. 1224.

<sup>14065</sup> Co-Prosecutors' Closing Brief, para. 1225.

<sup>14066</sup> Co-Prosecutors' Closing Brief, paras 1227-1228; T. 15 June 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/522.1, pp. 115-119.

<sup>14067</sup> Co-Prosecutors' Closing Brief, paras 1230-1232; T. 15 June 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/522.1, pp. 118-120.

<sup>14068</sup> Co-Prosecutors' Closing Brief, para. 1233; T. 15 June 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/522.1, p. 120.

<sup>14069</sup> NUON Chea Closing Brief, para. 1215.

as one of the most senior leaders of the CPK, he maintained his innocence as to the alleged crimes.<sup>14070</sup> He did not make a closing statement in Case 002/02.<sup>14071</sup>

4344. During Case 002/01, NUON Chea stated that while he “share[d] the responsibility as the leaders of this regime”, he had “no role whatsoever” in the executive branch. He stated that he was aware of certain things, and unaware of others.<sup>14072</sup> NUON Chea testified that bad elements within the cooperatives destroyed supplies, and that the party did not have the authority to smash anyone, stating “the allegation that people were killed or genocide was committed is not real”.<sup>14073</sup> NUON Chea denied any connection with S-21 or being a Duch’s superior. The Accused stated that he spent his life carrying out duties to serve country and people, and that he did not have any authority or connection with the commission of crimes during the DK period.<sup>14074</sup>

4345. The KHIEU Samphan Defence seeks acquittal on all charges, but does not address aggravating or mitigating factors.<sup>14075</sup> KHIEU Samphan made a closing statement in which he acknowledged the suffering of the Civil Parties and bowed in memory of all innocent victims, “but also to all those who perished by believing in a better ideal of the brighter future and who died during the five-year war under the American bombardments and the conflict with the Vietnamese invaders”.<sup>14076</sup> He acknowledged that life was hard in the cooperatives, but noted that those in senior positions believed they had a right to accuse and punish other people.<sup>14077</sup> KHIEU Samphan explained that Cambodia was emerging from an unprecedented crisis and noted the urgency of rebuilding the economy and the adverse impact of a drought of 1978 and the conflict with Vietnam.<sup>14078</sup> He claimed to have no knowledge of policies regarding discrimination, the fate of minorities and the practice of religions during the DK regime.<sup>14079</sup> KHIEU Samphan further denied that the CPK exterminated its own

<sup>14070</sup> T. 17 October 2014, E1/242.1, pp. 69-70.

<sup>14071</sup> T. 23 June 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/528.1, p. 12.

<sup>14072</sup> T. 30 May 2013, E1/199.1, p. 19.

<sup>14073</sup> T. 13 December 2011, E1/21.1, pp. 31-34, 42-43.

<sup>14074</sup> T. 18 April 2012, E1/63.1, pp. 3-4; T. 31 October 2013 (Closing Statements), E1/237.1, pp. 2-4.

<sup>14075</sup> KHIEU Samphan Closing Brief, para. 2511; T. 21 June 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/526.1, p. 52.

<sup>14076</sup> T. 23 June 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/528.1, p. 38.

<sup>14077</sup> T. 23 June 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/528.1, p. 34.

<sup>14078</sup> T. 23 June 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/528.1, pp. 34-35.

<sup>14079</sup> T. 23 June 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/528.1, pp. 36-37.

people, attributing this charge to Vietnamese propaganda.<sup>14080</sup> During Case 002/01 hearings, KHIEU Samphan answered questions from Civil Parties and offered his condolences to them, but repeatedly stated that he was not a leader, had no real authority, and was not aware of the “such great loss”.<sup>14081</sup>

20.2. Applicable Law

20.2.1. ECCC Provisions and Sentencing Framework

4346. Rule 98(5) of the Internal Rules provides that “[i]f the accused is found guilty, the Chamber shall sentence him or her in accordance with the Agreement, the ECCC Law and these [Internal Rules]”. Article 10 of the ECCC Agreement provides that “[t]he maximum penalty for conviction for crimes falling within the jurisdiction of the Extraordinary Chambers shall be life imprisonment”. Article 39 (new) of the ECCC Law provides additional guidance as follows:

Those who committed any crime as provided in Articles 3 new, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 [of the ECCC Law] shall be sentenced to a prison term from five years to life imprisonment.

In addition to imprisonment, the [Trial Chamber] may order the confiscation of personal property money and real property acquired unlawfully or by criminal conduct.

The confiscated property shall be returned to the State.<sup>14082</sup>

4347. The ECCC Agreement, the ECCC Law and the Internal Rules are largely silent as to principles and factors to be considered at sentencing. Therefore, the Chamber will exercise its own discretion in determining the sentence justified in the particular circumstances and in accordance with Article 33 of the ECCC Law will seek guidance from both relevant international and Cambodian sentencing principles and factors.<sup>14083</sup>

<sup>14080</sup> T. 23 June 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/528.1, p. 37.

<sup>14081</sup> See e.g., T. 23 May 2013, E1/196.1, pp. 17-18; T. 27 May 2013, E1/198.1, pp. 18-19, 22, 29, 54-55; T. 30 May 2013, E1/199.1, pp. 16-17, 80-81.

<sup>14082</sup> See also, Article 38 of the ECCC Law (all penalties shall be limited to imprisonment) and Article 189 of the Cambodian Criminal Code 2009 (crimes against humanity shall be punishable by life imprisonment).

<sup>14083</sup> Case 001 Trial Judgement, paras 575, 578; Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1066. See also, Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, para. 1107 quoting Dragomir Milosevic Appeal Judgement, para. 297 (“[T]rial Chambers are vested with broad discretion in determining the appropriate sentence”).

20.2.2. Relevant Sentencing Principles and Factors

4348. In reducing crimes of considerable enormity and scope to an individualised sentence, the Chamber seeks to reassure the surviving victims, their families, the witnesses and the general public that the law is effectively implemented and enforced, and applies to all regardless of status or rank.<sup>14084</sup> Sentencing further serves the purposes of deterrence, both to the accused and more generally,<sup>14085</sup> and punishment, though not revenge.<sup>14086</sup> The sentence must be proportionate and individualised in order to reflect the culpability of the accused based on an objective, reasoned and measured analysis of the accused's conduct and its consequential harm.<sup>14087</sup> These principles are also recognised and applicable in Cambodian law.<sup>14088</sup>

4349. In determining the appropriate sentence, the gravity of the crime committed is the “litmus test”<sup>14089</sup> and requires “consideration of the particular circumstances of the case, as well as the form and degree of the participation of the [a]ccused in the crime”.<sup>14090</sup> The Supreme Court Chamber has identified the following factors as being relevant to an assessment of the gravity of a crime: the number and the vulnerability of victims; the impact of the crimes upon them and their relatives; the discriminatory intent of the convicted person when it is not already an element of the crime; the scale and the brutality of the offences; and the role played by the convicted person.<sup>14091</sup>

<sup>14084</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1067. Cf. Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 579; Kordić & Čerkez Appeal Judgement, paras 1073, 1080.

<sup>14085</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1067; Kordić & Čerkez Appeal Judgement, paras 1073, 1076-1078.

<sup>14086</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1067; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 580; Kordić & Čerkez Appeal Judgement, paras 1073, 1075.

<sup>14087</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1067; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 580; Furundžija Appeal Judgement, para. 249; Prlić et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 3341; Popović et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 1998; Šainović et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 1839; Nikolić Sentencing Appeal Judgement, para. 19.

<sup>14088</sup> See Article 96 of the Cambodian Criminal Code 2009; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 581.

<sup>14089</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1068; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 582, citing Aleksovski Appeal Judgement, para. 182; Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, para. 1118.

<sup>14090</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1068; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 582, citing Stakić Appeal Judgement, para. 380. See also, Rule 145(1)(c) of the ICC Rules of Procedure and Evidence. Similarly, Article 96 of the Cambodian Criminal Code 2009 provides that in imposing a penalty, account must be taken of the seriousness and circumstances of the offence and the character of the accused; Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, paras 1112, 1118.

<sup>14091</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1068; Case 001 Appeal Judgement, para. 375; Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, para. 1118.

4350. Moreover, the Chamber will consider all relevant aggravating and mitigating factors in determining a sentence.<sup>14092</sup> Aggravating factors must be proved by the Co-Prosecutors to the same standard as that required for a conviction and only circumstances directly related to the commission of the offence charged, and for which the accused has been convicted, will be considered to be aggravating. An element of the underlying offence cannot be taken into account as an aggravating factor.<sup>14093</sup> Further, the same fact cannot be used both to demonstrate the gravity of the crime and as an aggravating factor.<sup>14094</sup> Finally, the Chamber adopts the useful guidelines regarding aggravating factors set out in Rule 145(2)(b) of the ICC's Rules of Procedure and Evidence, where relevant to the instant case:

(i) [a]ny relevant prior criminal convictions for crimes under the jurisdiction of the [ICC] or of a similar nature; (ii) abuse of power or official capacity; (iii) commission of the crime where the victim is particularly defenceless; (iv) commission of the crime with particular cruelty or where there were multiple victims; (v) commission of the crime for any motive involving discrimination on any of the grounds referred to in article 21, paragraph 3 [i.e., gender, age, race, colour, language, religion or belief, political or other opinion, national, ethnic or social origin, wealth, birth or other status]; (vi) other circumstances which, although not enumerated above, by virtue of their nature are similar to those mentioned.<sup>14095</sup>

4351. The Supreme Court Chamber has affirmed that the Trial Chamber may consider abuse of a position of authority as an aggravating circumstance, particularly where a person uses such a position to contribute to a criminal purpose. It stated that what matters is the manner in which the authority is exercised.<sup>14096</sup> It has also affirmed the consideration of a person's high level of education as an aggravating factor.<sup>14097</sup>

4352. The jurisprudence of other international tribunals has established that the burden of proof on an accused with regard to mitigating factors is a lower standard than on

<sup>14092</sup> Aggravating and mitigating factors are also considered in sentencing under Cambodian law. See e.g., Articles 77-82 and 93 of the Cambodian Criminal Code 2009.

<sup>14093</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1069; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 583; Blaškić Appeal Judgement, para. 693.

<sup>14094</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1069; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 583; Deronjić Judgement on Sentencing Appeal, paras 106-107.

<sup>14095</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1069, citing ICC Rules of Procedure and Evidence, Rule 145(2)(b).

<sup>14096</sup> Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, para. 1113.

<sup>14097</sup> Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, para. 1114.

prosecution for aggravating factors.<sup>14098</sup> Mitigating factors may be taken into account regardless of whether they are directly related to the alleged offence or not.<sup>14099</sup> Rule 145(2)(a) of the ICC's Rules of Procedure and Evidence identifies the following mitigating factors, which the Chamber again adopts:

(i) The circumstances falling short of constituting grounds for exclusion of criminal responsibility, such as substantially diminished mental capacity or duress;

(ii) The convicted person's conduct after the act, including any efforts by the person to compensate the victims and any cooperation with the Court.<sup>14100</sup>

4353. It is within the Trial Chamber's discretion to determine what additional factors may be considered mitigating and how much weight, if any, is to be accorded to these factors.<sup>14101</sup>

4354. The Supreme Court Chamber has also recognised that a person's good character may constitute a mitigating factor in sentencing.<sup>14102</sup> It nonetheless upheld the Trial Chamber's conclusion in Case 002/01 that specific instances of fair treatment of others cannot play a significant part in mitigating crimes of particularly severe gravity.<sup>14103</sup>

4355. The Chamber notes that, in accordance with established international jurisprudence, the decision of the Accused to remain silent at certain times during the trial was not considered an aggravating factor in determining their sentences.<sup>14104</sup>

20.2.3. The Impact of Multiple Convictions in the Same Proceedings

4356. There are no provisions in the ECCC Agreement, the ECCC Law or the Internal Rules indicating whether the Chamber may impose a single sentence following conviction for multiple offences in the same case, where each conviction is based on

<sup>14098</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1070; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 584; Blaškić Appeal Judgement, para. 687, fn. 1466.

<sup>14099</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1070; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 584; Blaškić Appeal Judgement, para. 696.

<sup>14100</sup> ICC Rules of Procedure and Evidence, Rule 145(2)(a).

<sup>14101</sup> Prosecutor v. Jean-Pierre Bemba Gombo et al., ICC Appeals Chamber (ICC-01/05-01/13 A6 A7 A8 A9), Judgement on the appeals of the Prosecutor, Mr Jean-Pierre Bemba Gombo, Mr Fidèle Babala Wandu and Mr Narcisse Arido against the decision of Trial Chamber VII entitled "Decision on Sentence pursuant to Article 76 of the Statute", 8 March 2018, para. 187.

<sup>14102</sup> Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, para. 1115.

<sup>14103</sup> Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, para. 1115.

<sup>14104</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1071; Blaškić Appeal Judgement, para. 687; Delalić et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 783; Limaj et al. Trial Judgement, para. 729.

distinct criminal conduct.<sup>14105</sup> In its previous judgements, however, the Trial Chamber has held that where an accused is convicted of multiple offences, a single sentence which reflects the totality of the criminal conduct must be imposed.<sup>14106</sup> The Trial Chamber sees no reason to depart from this jurisprudence which is fully consistent with Cambodian law, in particular with Article 137 of the 2009 Cambodian Criminal Code.<sup>14107</sup>

20.2.4. The Impact of Further Convictions in Case 002/02

4357. Case 002/02 is the first instance at the ECCC where the same Accused have been convicted on criminal counts in two trials resulting from the severance of proceedings in Case 002. In view of the fact that the Accused are already serving a life sentence for the criminal convictions in Case 002/01 and that such sentence is the maximum penalty foreseen by the ECCC legal framework, the Chamber must now consider whether it must impose a separate sentence for the Accused's convictions in Case 002/02.

4358. There are no provisions in the ECCC Law, ECCC Agreement or Internal Rules applicable to the present situation. The Chamber notes that sentencing guidelines at the international level concerning this specific matter are limited and finds it appropriate to first consider the relevant provisions of Cambodian law. Deference to sentencing practice at the domestic level is a common practice before international courts. For example, both the ICTY and ICTR rules instruct the court to consider "the general practice regarding prison sentences in the courts of [the domestic state]”.<sup>14108</sup> The rationale for deferring to sentencing regimes at the domestic level is equally, if not more, compelling in the context of chambers such as the ECCC established within the existing court structure of Cambodia. It is only when there is good reason that the ECCC should deviate from the Cambodian sentencing regime.<sup>14109</sup>

<sup>14105</sup> The Chamber notes that this issue differs from that of cumulative convictions, which pertains to whether an Accused person may be convicted of different crimes on the basis of the same underlying act or acts, and which has already been addressed. See Section 19: Cumulative Convictions, paras 4330, 4334-4341.

<sup>14106</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1072; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 590. In Case 001, the Trial Chamber entered a sentence of 35 years for all of the convictions proved. See Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 679. The Supreme Court Chamber found that this was a manifestly inadequate sentence, augmenting it to life imprisonment. It nonetheless, entered a single sentence for all convictions. See Case 001 Appeal Judgement, para. 383. In Case 002/01, the Trial Chamber likewise entered a single sentence of life imprisonment against each Accused without specifying the sentences for individuals crimes. See Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1105. Although the Supreme Court Chamber reversed several convictions in that case, it affirmed a single life sentence imposed against each Accused. See Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, paras 1117, 1121.

<sup>14107</sup> Cambodian Criminal Code 2009, Article 137 ("If, in the course of a single prosecution, the accused is found guilty of several concurrent offences, each of the penalties incurred may be imposed. However, if several penalties of a similar nature are incurred, only one such penalty not exceeding the highest maximum penalty allowed by law shall be imposed.").

4359. Article 138 of the Cambodian Criminal Code provides that where an Accused is convicted of concurrent offences<sup>14110</sup> in separate prosecutions, “the sentences imposed for the offences shall run cumulatively (i.e. consecutively) to the extent of the highest maximum penalty allowed by law”.<sup>14111</sup> Where the highest maximum penalty of life imprisonment has already been imposed in one proceeding, particularly when that proceeding is final following the completion of any appeal process, in practice any subsequent penalty of the same nature imposed in later trials in relation to offences concurrent to those adjudicated in the initial proceeding is automatically aggregated or combined with the previous sentence. Accordingly, the convicted person will serve a single sentence. In such circumstances, French law refers to a situation of confusion automatique des peines.<sup>14112</sup> This concept of confusion des peines has been imported

---

<sup>14108</sup> ICTY Rules of Procedure and Evidence, Rule 101(B)(iii); ICTR Rules of Procedure and Evidence, Rule 101(B)(iii). The ICTY Appeals Chamber has explained that “Trial Chambers have to take into account the sentencing practices in the former Yugoslavia and, should they depart from the sentencing limits set in those practices, must give reasons for such departure”. See Nikolić Sentencing Appeal Judgement, para. 69 (emphasis added). The statute of the Special Court for Sierra Leone which is an hybrid court, also directs the trial chamber to have recourse, where appropriate, to sentencing practice in the national courts of Sierra Leone and the ICTR (article 19).

<sup>14109</sup> Case 001 Appeal Judgement, Partially Dissenting Joint Opinion of Judges Agnieszka KLONOWIECKA-MILART and Chandra Nihal JAYASINGHE, paras 26-27.

<sup>14110</sup> Cambodian Criminal Code 2009, Article 136. The Chamber notes that the English translation of this provision is misleading. It provides that “Offences are said to be concurrent where an offence is committed by a person who has not yet been finally tried for another offence.” This suggests that the offences are concurrent where the trial of the primary offence(s) has not yet concluded when the person commits a further offence. However, the Khmer provision provides “មានបទល្មើសត្រូវត្រួតគ្នាទៅវិញទៅមក កាលបើ បទល្មើសមួយត្រូវបានប្រព្រឹត្តដោយបុគ្គលម្នាក់ មុនពេលដែលបុគ្គលនេះត្រូវបានផ្តន្ទាទោសជាស្ថាពរចំពោះបទល្មើស មួយផ្សេងទៀត”, indicating that where the commission of the primary and a secondary offence occurs prior to a final conviction of the primary offence, the offences are considered to be concurrent. This understanding is confirmed by the French provision which served as a model for Article 136 of the Cambodian Criminal Code 2009. It provides: “Il y a concours d’infractions lorsqu’une infraction est commise par une personne avant que cette personne n’ait été définitivement jugée pour une autre infraction”.

<sup>14111</sup> Cambodian Criminal Code 2009, Articles 136, 138 (emphasis added).

<sup>14112</sup> Cambodian Criminal Code 2009, Article 138. Although the English translation of this provision could be more clear, the French Penal Code, upon which the Cambodia criminal code is modelled, is more explicit. Article 132-5 of the French Penal Code provides: “Pour l’application des articles 132-3 et 132-4, les peines privatives de liberté sont de même nature et toute peine privative de liberté est confondue avec une peine perpétuelle”. Translated in English, Article 132-5 means that “For the purposes into Cambodian law, but it can also in effect be reconciled with the common law notion of “concurrent sentence”, which refers to a sentence served at the same time as one another. In both cases, the results are similar as the highest maximum penalty allowed by law must be served.

4360. In the present case, as the crimes within the scope of Cases 002/01 and 002/02 are “concurrent offences” in the sense of Cambodian law and both Accused have already been sentenced to life imprisonment in Case 002/01, the imposition of any further prison sentence in Case 002/02 would lead to the imposition of a concurrent sentence of up to life imprisonment. In other words, pursuant to the concept of confusion des peines these sentences will be aggregated to be served as a unique sentence of life imprisonment. However, as the sentences imposed must reflect the totality of the criminal conduct of the Accused,<sup>14113</sup> the Chamber now considers the criminal conduct in Case 002/02 in order to clarify which factors have been taken into account in order to determine the appropriate sentence for each of the Accused in this case.

20.2.5. Gravity of the Crimes

4361. The Chamber will now turn to the factors it has identified as being relevant to determine the gravity of the crimes.<sup>14114</sup> In doing so, it will have recourse to all factual findings made in this verdict and highlight some of the most illustrative evidence.

20.2.5.1. Number and vulnerability of victims, scale and brutality of crimes

4362. The Chamber recalls the large number of victims, the fact that many victims were extremely vulnerable, the disastrous impact of the crimes upon them and their relatives, as well as the massive scale and brutality of these crimes.

4363. The Chamber has found that over ten thousand individuals were arrested, imprisoned and killed at S-21 (at least 11,742), Kraing Ta Chan (at least 1,000), Au of articles 132-3 and 132-4, all custodial sentences are of a similar nature and all custodial sentences run concurrently within a life sentence.”

---

<sup>14113</sup> Case 001 Trial Judgement, paras 586-590; Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1072.

<sup>14114</sup> See above, para. 4349.

Kanseng (at least 111) and Phnom Kraol (two) Security Centres.<sup>14115</sup> Hundreds of the prisoners were Vietnamese civilians and soldiers.<sup>14116</sup> A large number of victims died at worksites due to the starvation rations, unhygienic conditions and unsafe work environments.<sup>14117</sup> Particularly vulnerable populations, even those who posed no threat to CPK governance, including the wives, family members and children of those identified as enemies, were imprisoned and often killed.<sup>14118</sup> Weakened by inadequate food, sickness and brutal work conditions, workers who failed to meet work demands were arrested and executed or disappeared in large numbers.<sup>14119</sup>

4364. The CPK systems of mistreatment permeated every aspect of life as the able-bodied were conscripted and enslaved at worksites and cooperatives throughout the country. Tens of thousands of workers were enslaved at the Tram Kak Cooperatives (about 8,000), Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite (10 to 20 thousand), 1st January Dam Worksite (about 20,000), and the Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site (“thousands”).<sup>14120</sup> Young children were forced to work in cooperatives and worksites.<sup>14121</sup> At the security centres forming part of this case, hundreds of individuals were forced to take part in the system of mistreatment by supporting cadres as carpenters, interpreters, cooks, medics, mechanics, construction workers, artists, etc.<sup>14122</sup>

4365. The conditions at security centres were appalling as detainees were constantly shackled, were rarely able to wash, and were forced to excrete into a small, shared

<sup>14115</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2542, 2569, 2571; Section 12.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, paras 2807-2810, 2817, 2819; Section 12.4: Au Kanseng Security Centre, paras 2967-2968; Section 12.5: Phnom Kraol Security Centre, paras 3115-3117.

<sup>14116</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2479. See also, Section 12.4: Au Kanseng Security Centre, para. 2959.

<sup>14117</sup> Section 11.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, paras 1384-1385, 1387; Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, paras 1670-1671; Section 11.3: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, paras 1800-1803, 1805.

<sup>14118</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2566; Section 12.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, para. 2812; Section 12.5: Phnom Kraol Security Centre, para. 3128.

<sup>14119</sup> Section 11.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, paras 1378-1379 (those identified as enemies were killed pursuant to Ta Val’s orders), 1401; Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, para. 1703.

<sup>14120</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, paras 1151, 1155; Section 11.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, paras 1262, 1392-1402; Section 11.3: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, paras 1732, 1736, 1810-1817.

<sup>14121</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, paras 1153, 1196; Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, para. 1614.

<sup>14122</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2573; Section 12.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, para. 2822; Section 12.4: Au Kanseng Security Centre, paras 2919, 2972; Section 12.5: Phnom Kraol Security Centre, para. 3121.

container.<sup>14123</sup> They were provided with very little thin gruel, were forced to remain silent and were regularly beaten; some were raped.<sup>14124</sup>

4366. Conditions at worksites were also extremely brutal as workers were forced to meet very demanding work requirements by strictly manual labour and under gruelling hours, both night and day.<sup>14125</sup> Workers were provided measly rations and contaminated drinking water while those who fell ill were provided with ineffective medicines and were accused of feigning sickness.<sup>14126</sup> A large number of the workers died at these worksites due to the imposition of these harsh conditions.<sup>14127</sup>

4367. At security centres, torture was institutionalised and imposed on a massive scale in order to obtain forced confessions.<sup>14128</sup> Methods of torture were extremely brutal at S-21.<sup>14129</sup> The prisoners were particularly vulnerable as they were imprisoned without any legal protection and in an environment created to instil fear.<sup>14130</sup>

4368. Large numbers of former Khmer Republic officials, New People, Jarai, and other perceived enemies were subjected to mistreatment and worse conditions, such as smaller food rations than Base People.<sup>14131</sup> Under a strict regime of enforced work, restricted freedoms and threats for deviating from the Party line, a large number of

<sup>14123</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2363-2366; Section 12.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, para. 2730; Section 12.4: Au Kanseng Security Centre, paras 2902, 2912.

<sup>14124</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2367-2369 (thin gruel and beatings); Section 12.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, paras 2732, 2738 (beatings and sexual assault). Although conditions at Au Kanseng and Phnom Kraol Security Centres were not shown to be as severe, they were nonetheless inhumane. See Section 12.4: Au Kanseng Security Centre, paras 2902, 2904, 3004; Section 12.5: Phnom Kraol Security Centre, para. 3102 (physical mistreatment and interrogations).

<sup>14125</sup> Section 11.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, para. 1384.

<sup>14126</sup> Section 11.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, paras 1298, 1384, 1415.

<sup>14127</sup> Section 11.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, para. 1384.

<sup>14128</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2590, 2594; Section 12.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, paras 2747, 2829.

<sup>14129</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2363-2402, 2597. Such included beatings with sticks, rods, rattan, bamboo, tree branches, electrical wire, whips and other tools; the use of electroshocks; suffocation through covering the head with a plastic bag; waterboarding; and the extraction of toenails and fingernails. Prisoners were cursed at and humiliated during interrogations and some were also forced to eat excrement and pay homage to images of dogs.

<sup>14130</sup> Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2592.

<sup>14131</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, paras 1175-1177; Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, paras 1688-1690; Section 11.3: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, para. 1822; Section 11.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, para. 1409; Section 12.3: Au Kanseng Security Centre, paras 2984, 2986.

people disappeared from their respective locations, be they cooperatives, worksites or security centres never to be seen again.<sup>14132</sup>

4369. Certain crimes were intended to damage the social fabric of Cambodian society, undermining a sense of well-being and security. For example, families were divided and children separated from their parents.<sup>14133</sup> In addition, hundreds of monks were publicly defrocked, Buddhist symbols and pagodas destroyed, eliminating a class of people who were venerated and a way of life which had served an important cultural and religious purpose for much of the country.<sup>14134</sup> The elimination of traditional marriage guided by a relationship of trust between parents and children, in favour of a regime of forced marriage overseen by CPK cadres, further disrupted the social fabric.<sup>14135</sup> Women who were forced to marry were raped as they were physically forced, or coerced, to have sexual intercourse with their new husbands.<sup>14136</sup> The Chamber considers that CPK policies which undermined traditional sources of emotional and psychological comfort in the face of mistreatment, famine and the disappearance of loved ones, further exacerbates the gravity of these crimes.

4370. A large number of Vietnamese were expelled from Tram Kak District, and Prey Veng province and sent to Vietnam without their consent in 1975 and 1976.<sup>14137</sup> The policies targeting Vietnamese, their deportation and killing of a large number of this racial/ethnic group, led the Chamber to conclude that there was a specific intent to destroy Vietnamese as such.<sup>14138</sup> The gravity of genocide cannot be overstated.

4371. Cham were systematically targeted through their identification, arrest, torture, killing and/or disappearance.<sup>14139</sup> Entire Cham families, including women and children,

---

<sup>14132</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, paras 1152, 1201; Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, para. 1710; Section 11.3: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, para. 1841; Section 11.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, paras 1365, 1394, 1416, 1424.

<sup>14133</sup> Section 10.1.7.5.3: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Dislocation of Families; Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, paras 1543, 1611, 1614, 1621; Section 11.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, para. 1263 (fn. 4312).

<sup>14134</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, paras 1183-1184.

<sup>14135</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 1186; Section 14: Regulation of Marriage, paras 3688-3691.

<sup>14136</sup> Section 14.3.8: Regulation of Marriage: Consummation of Marriage.

<sup>14137</sup> Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 1159; Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, paras 3435-3436, 3507.

<sup>14138</sup> Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, paras 3518-3519.

<sup>14139</sup> Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham, paras 3276, 3304.

were arrested and disappeared.<sup>14140</sup> The Cham way of life was also under direct attack as the CPK prohibited their language, dress and the practice of Islam.<sup>14141</sup> Mosques were closed and destroyed, Korans were burnt and Cham people forced to eat pork.<sup>14142</sup>

20.2.5.2. Victim impact

4372. The victims of the crimes in Case 002/02, and their families, suffered extreme physical, emotional and psychological damage as a result of these crimes. Tens of thousands of direct victims lost their lives.<sup>14143</sup> When victims' families learned of the deaths of their loved ones, it caused them deep suffering.<sup>14144</sup> In other instances, victims were arrested and disappeared, compounding a sense of loss for their families with the uncertainty of their loved one's fate.<sup>14145</sup>

4373. Victims at cooperatives suffered immediate and long-term mental and physical suffering.<sup>14146</sup> In particular, the separation of families had a strong emotional impact on many victims with particularly harsh consequences for children.<sup>14147</sup> Victims at worksites were physically injured or fell ill because of overwork and unhygienic conditions.<sup>14148</sup> They suffered from hunger due to insufficient food and lived under constant fear that they would be arrested or killed.<sup>14149</sup> Victims were enslaved by the CPK, dehumanised and made to feel like animals.<sup>14150</sup>

4374. The methods of torture implemented at security centres caused intense physical and psychological pain to victims.<sup>14151</sup> The family members of those killed at security centres suffered long-term emotional suffering, loneliness and material harm.<sup>14152</sup>

<sup>14140</sup> Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham, paras 3219, 3299-3300.

<sup>14141</sup> Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham, paras 3230-3231, 3246, 3249, 3255, 3328.

<sup>14142</sup> Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham, para. 3328.

<sup>14143</sup> See above, para. 4363.

<sup>14144</sup> Section 21: Civil Party Reparations, paras 4440, 4444, 4448-4449.

<sup>14145</sup> Section 21: Civil Party Reparations, para. 4442.

<sup>14146</sup> Section 21: Civil Party Reparations, para. 4440.

<sup>14147</sup> Section 21: Civil Party Reparations, para. 4440.

<sup>14148</sup> Section 21: Civil Party Reparations, paras 4443-4445.

<sup>14149</sup> Section 21: Civil Party Reparations, para. 4443.

<sup>14150</sup> Section 21: Civil Party Reparations, paras 4443-4444.

<sup>14151</sup> Section 21: Civil Party Reparations, paras 4446-4447; Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2591-2592, 2594.

<sup>14152</sup> Section 21: Civil Party Reparations, para. 4448.

4375. Vietnamese and Cham victims were forcibly removed from their homes and sent to uncertain futures.<sup>14153</sup> Large numbers of victims were killed, while their next of kin were forced to attempt to survive in foreign environments without their loved ones.

4376. Under threats and compulsion, victims were forced to marry strangers even if he or she had a fiancé or was grieving the loss of a partner, causing significant stress and psychological harm.<sup>14154</sup> Victims were forced to consummate their forced marriages, overriding the will of victims and depriving them of any emotional or psychological refuge.<sup>14155</sup>

20.2.5.3. Role of NUON Chea

4377. The Trial Chamber has found that NUON Chea was a key actor responsible for the formulation of Party policies. As Deputy Secretary of the Party, he exercised ultimate decision-making power with POL Pot. NUON Chea knew that the crimes would be committed and was involved in the common purpose from the time of its inception throughout the period relevant to Case 002/02: from his participation in the initial development of the above policies to his active involvement in their continuing implementation. The Chamber has found that the significance of his role is heightened in view of the limited number of people who constituted the “upper echelon”.<sup>14156</sup>

4378. NUON Chea had a central and ongoing role in the development of Party policy, including the creation of cooperatives and worksites, where he acknowledged people were not free.<sup>14157</sup>

4379. NUON Chea was, among other things, directly involved in the supervision and operation of S-21 Security Centre as well as the purges in the Central (old) North Zone, Northwest Zone and East Zone, including the purging of prominent Party members such as RUOS Nhim and SAO Phim.<sup>14158</sup>

<sup>14153</sup> See above, paras 4370-4371.

<sup>14154</sup> Section 21: Civil Party Reparations, para. 4451.

<sup>14155</sup> Section 21: Civil Party Reparations, para. 4452.

<sup>14156</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, para. 561.

<sup>14157</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3885.

<sup>14158</sup> Section 17: The Criminal Responsibility of NUON Chea, paras 4082, 4118, 4137-4138, 4144, 4149; Section 12.1: Internal Factions, paras 2031, 2053, 2069.

4380. NUON Chea was instrumental in promoting, confirming, supporting and endorsing CPK policies.<sup>14159</sup> He had a central role in writing and disseminating CPK policies as one of the principal authors of the Revolutionary Flag magazine.<sup>14160</sup> NUON Chea used his position of influence to advocate hatred for the Vietnamese as well as their destruction.<sup>14161</sup>

4381. The Chamber accordingly finds NUON Chea's involvement in the crimes to be pivotal, extensive and significant.

20.2.5.4. Role of KHIEU Samphan

4382. The Trial Chamber has found that KHIEU Samphan was a key actor responsible for the formulation of the Party policies that are the subject of Case 002/02. Throughout the period relevant to Case 002/02, he also disseminated, endorsed and defended the common purpose and policies, providing encouragement, support and his trusted and respected character which allowed the crimes to be more readily committed. KHIEU Samphan knew that the crimes would be committed and was involved in the common purpose from the time of its inception throughout the period relevant to Case 002/02. Meanwhile, he implemented key economic aspects of the common purpose which were intended to ensure the evolution of Cambodia into a modern agricultural and thereafter industrial state, while disregarding the human cost of their implementation.<sup>14162</sup> As a Central Committee member and an attendee at Standing Committee meetings, KHIEU Samphan was privy to important matters and crucial decisions, and thus enjoyed elevated standing within the party.<sup>14163</sup>

4383. KHIEU Samphan promoted, confirmed, supported and endorsed the Party line in speeches, interviews, statements and meetings.<sup>14164</sup> KHIEU Samphan used his position of influence to support and therefore legitimise the implementation of CPK policies.<sup>14165</sup> He publicly called for the elimination of high-ranking members of the

<sup>14159</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3916 (fn. 13066); Section 17: The Criminal Responsibility of NUON Chea, para. 4173.

<sup>14160</sup> Section 17: The Criminal Responsibility of NUON Chea, paras 4089, 4129, 4181, 4183.

<sup>14161</sup> Section 17: The Criminal Responsibility of NUON Chea, paras 4158-4162.

<sup>14162</sup> Section 18: The Criminal Responsibility of KHIEU Samphan, paras 4206, 4258, 4276.

<sup>14163</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, para. 604; Section 18: The Criminal Responsibility of KHIEU Samphan, para. 4208.

<sup>14164</sup> Section 16: Common Purpose, para. 3916 (fn. 13067); Section 18: The Criminal Responsibility of KHIEU Samphan, paras 4208, 4257, 4261-4262, 4264.

<sup>14165</sup> Section 18: The Criminal Responsibility of KHIEU Samphan, para. 4265.

Khmer Republic administration.<sup>14166</sup> KHIEU Samphan actively supported the use of cooperatives and worksites despite his awareness that starvation and illness were ongoing problems.<sup>14167</sup> In particular, he instructed cadres that New People should bear the brunt of hard labour with less food in order to weed out enemies.<sup>14168</sup>

4384. KHIEU Samphan propagated the CPK's rhetoric calling for the discriminatory treatment of the Vietnamese in Cambodia throughout the DK period.<sup>14169</sup> He called on the population to divest themselves of personal sentiment toward their parents in favour of Angkar and openly promoted the Party's policy to rapidly increase DK's population, vitiating the importance of Buddhist traditions and normalising the policy of forced marriage.<sup>14170</sup>

4385. The Chamber accordingly finds KHIEU Samphan's involvement in the crimes to be extensive and substantial.

20.2.6. Aggravating Facts

4386. The Chamber has already considered the number and vulnerability of victims, the scale and brutality of the crimes in its assessment of the gravity of these crimes.<sup>14171</sup>

20.2.6.1. Considerations applicable to NUON Chea

4387. The Chamber finds that NUON Chea's contribution to the crimes, including through his participation in the JCE, was undertaken in his official capacities, including as Deputy Secretary of the CPK throughout the DK period and a full rights member of both the CPK Central and Standing Committees. The Chamber has further found NUON Chea culpable for superior responsibility of multiple crimes, including genocide of the Cham.<sup>14172</sup> This constitutes an abuse of his position of authority and influence<sup>14173</sup> and thus aggravates his culpability.

<sup>14166</sup> Section 18: The Criminal Responsibility of KHIEU Samphan, para. 4272.

<sup>14167</sup> Section 18: The Criminal Responsibility of KHIEU Samphan, paras 4213-4215, 4258-4259.

<sup>14168</sup> Section 18: The Criminal Responsibility of KHIEU Samphan, para. 4273.

<sup>14169</sup> Section 18: The Criminal Responsibility of KHIEU Samphan, paras 4269, 4271.

<sup>14170</sup> Section 18: The Criminal Responsibility of KHIEU Samphan, paras 4268, 4304.

<sup>14171</sup> See above, paras 4362-4371.

<sup>14172</sup> Section 17: The Criminal Responsibility of NUON Chea, para. 4197.

<sup>14173</sup> Šainović et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 1802; Stanišić and Župljanin Trial Judgement, paras 929, 948.

4388. The Chamber further finds that NUON Chea is also a well-educated individual who well understood the import and consequences of his actions.<sup>14174</sup> The Chamber finds that this constitutes an aggravating factor.

20.2.6.2. Considerations applicable to KHIEU Samphan

4389. KHIEU Samphan's contribution to the crimes, including through his participation in the JCE, was undertaken in his official capacities, including as a member of the Central Committee, a member of Office 870, President of the State Presidium, and highest official in GRUNK. This constitutes an abuse of his position of authority and influence<sup>14175</sup> and thus aggravates his culpability.

4390. The Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan is a well-educated individual.<sup>14176</sup> He studied both law and economics successfully at the tertiary level and was therefore well equipped to know the import and consequences of his actions. The Chamber finds that these facts constitute an aggravating factor.

20.2.7. Mitigating Factors

4391. The Chamber agrees with the Co-Prosecutors' submission that there is no evidence of diminished mental capacity or duress.

20.2.7.1. Considerations applicable to NUON Chea

4392. During Case 002/02, NUON Chea stated that he recognised that "many people suffered greatly by the provocation of those enemies within". He went on to say he was "remorseful for that suffering" and that he accepted moral responsibility based on his leadership as one of the most senior figures of the CPK. However, NUON Chea contested his culpability for the crimes charged, arguing that enemies from within, such as SAO Phim and RUOS Nhim, were responsible for committing these acts outside of his control and knowledge.<sup>14177</sup>

<sup>14174</sup> Section 7: Roles and Functions – NUON Chea, paras 520-522.

<sup>14175</sup> Šainović et al. Appeal Judgement, para. 1802; Stanišić and Župljanin Trial Judgement, paras 929, 948.

<sup>14176</sup> Section 8: Roles and Functions – KHIEU Samphan, paras 564-569.

<sup>14177</sup> T. 17 October 2014 (Accused NUON Chea), E1/242.1, pp. 69-70.

4393. In order to be a factor in mitigation, expressions of remorse must be real and sincere.<sup>14178</sup> An accused can express sincere regrets without admitting his participation in the crimes, but remorse requires acceptance of some moral responsibility for personal wrongdoing.<sup>14179</sup> While NUON Chea expressed general sympathy for suffering of victims during the Khmer Rouge regime and stated that he “accept[s] morally responsibility”, he does not accept responsibility for personal wrongdoings.<sup>14180</sup> The Chamber finds that the mitigating impact of NUON Chea’s apology is undermined by his failure to accept responsibility for his own wrongdoing.

4394. Cooperation with the court may also be considered a mitigating factor. NUON Chea’s cooperation with the court – which did not exceed the legally required minimum participation in court hearings – does not amount to a mitigating factor.<sup>14181</sup>

4395. The Chamber acknowledges that advanced age can be considered as a mitigating factor<sup>14182</sup> and accords it some minimal weight here. Noting that ill-health will only be considered mitigating in exceptional circumstances,<sup>14183</sup> and in view of the Chamber’s assessment of the health of the Accused,<sup>14184</sup> the Chamber declines to consider ill-health as a mitigating factor in the circumstances of this case. Thus, the Chamber does not find any mitigating factors to be applicable.

20.2.7.2. Considerations applicable to KHIEU Samphan

4396. During Closing Statements, KHIEU Samphan stated that the Court has “done everything in order to let you, the civil parties, to refer to me as someone who has the responsibility for all the sufferings”. In reference to the regulation of marriage, the fate of minorities and the practice of religion under the DK, he stated that he “did not know about these issues” at the time.<sup>14185</sup> During Case 002/02 proceedings, KHIEU Samphan

<sup>14178</sup> Blaškić Appeal Judgement, para. 705.

<sup>14179</sup> Strugar Appeal Judgement, paras 366-367.

<sup>14180</sup> T. 17 October 2014 (Accused NUON Chea), E1/242.1, pp. 69-70.

<sup>14181</sup> The Chamber notes however, that it does not find NUON Chea’s absence of cooperation to be an aggravating circumstance or a prejudicial factor to the merits of NUON Chea’s case. See Prosecutor v. Thomas Lubanga Dyilo, ICC Trial Chamber (ICC-01/04-01/06), Decision on Sentence pursuant to Article 76 of the Statute, 10 July 2012, para. 33; Prosecutor v. Germain Katanga, ICC Trial Chamber (ICC-01/04-01/07), Decision on Sentence pursuant to article 76 of the Statute, 23 May 2014, para. 34.

<sup>14182</sup> Dorđević Appeal Judgement, paras 974, 980.

<sup>14183</sup> Simić Sentencing Judgement, paras 97-98; Kordić and Čerkez Trial Judgement, para. 848.

<sup>14184</sup> Sixth Decision on Fitness of the Accused NUON Chea to Stand Trial, E460/4, 27 February 2018, paras 10-11.

<sup>14185</sup> T. 23 June 2017 (Closing Statements), E1/528.1, pp. 34, 36-37.

did not express remorse or sympathy toward victims, nor did he accept any personal responsibility for the events that occurred. Therefore, the Chamber finds that KHIEU Samphan did not express remorse that would justify a mitigation of his sentence.

4397. Although KHIEU Samphan attended nearly every Case 002/02 hearing, his cooperation with the court – which did not exceed the legally required minimum participation in court hearings – does not amount to a mitigating factor.<sup>14186</sup>

4398. The Chamber acknowledges that advanced age can be considered as a mitigating factor<sup>14187</sup> and accords it some minimal weight here. Noting that ill-health will only be considered mitigating in exceptional circumstances,<sup>14188</sup> and in view of the Chamber's assessment of the health of the Accused,<sup>14189</sup> the Chamber declines to consider ill-health as a mitigating factor in the circumstances of this case. Thus, the Chamber does not find any mitigating factors to be applicable.

20.2.8. Character Witnesses

4399. No character witnesses were heard by the Trial Chamber in respect of NUON Chea or KHIEU Samphan.<sup>14190</sup>

20.2.9. Sentence

20.2.9.1. Imprisonment

4400. The Trial Chamber, in deciding on appropriate sentences for NUON Chea and KHIEU Samphan, has taken into account the totality of the circumstances in Case

<sup>14186</sup> The Chamber notes however, that it does not find KHIEU Samphan's absence of cooperation to be an aggravating circumstance or a prejudicial factor to the merits of KHIEU Samphan's case. See Prosecutor v. Thomas Lubanga Dyilo, ICC Trial Chamber (ICC-01/04-01/06), Decision on Sentence pursuant to Article 76 of the Statute, 10 July 2012, para. 33; Prosecutor v. Germain Katanga, ICC Trial Chamber (ICC-01/04-01/07), Decision on Sentence pursuant to article 76 of the Statute, 23 May 2014, para. 34.

<sup>14187</sup> Dorđević Appeal Judgement, paras 974, 980.

<sup>14188</sup> Simić Sentencing Judgement, paras 97-98; Kordić and Čerkez Trial Judgement, para. 848.

<sup>14189</sup> Fourth Decision on Fitness of the Accused KHIEU Samphan to Stand Trial, E460/5, 27 February 2018, paras 10-11.

<sup>14190</sup> The Chamber previously considered the testimony of five character witnesses who testified on behalf of KHIEU Samphan during Case 002/01. The Chamber determined that it: "accept[ed] that KHIEU Samphan may have treated his wife well and been kind to people in specific instances. However, these factors cannot play any significant part in mitigating crimes of the severity of those for which KHIEU Samphan has been found guilty, and will not be given undue weight. The Trial Chamber therefore gives limited weight to KHIEU Samphan's purported good character as a mitigating factor in sentencing." See Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1103 affirmed in Case 002/01 Appeal Judgement, para. 1115.

002/02, including the relevant sentencing principles and guidelines set out above. While the Chamber has found that NUON Chea's responsibility exceeds that of KHIEU Samphan, a sentence of life imprisonment most appropriately sanctions the criminal conduct of each Accused.

4401. On the basis of the foregoing, the Trial Chamber decides to impose a sentence of life imprisonment on NUON Chea. Taking into consideration the life sentence imposed on NUON Chea in Case 002/01, the Chamber merges the two sentences into a single term of life imprisonment.<sup>14191</sup>

4402. On the basis of the foregoing, the Trial Chamber decides to impose a sentence of life imprisonment on KHIEU Samphan. Taking into consideration the life sentence imposed on KHIEU Samphan in Case 002/01, the Chamber merges the two sentences into a single term of life imprisonment.<sup>14192</sup>

20.2.9.2. Confiscation of personal property, money, and real property

4403. The Chamber has identified no personal property, money or real property acquired unlawfully or by criminal conduct by either NUON Chea or KHIEU Samphan.<sup>14193</sup> Accordingly, there are no identified assets which could form the subject of confiscation pursuant to Article 39 (new) of the ECCC Law.

---

<sup>14191</sup> See above, paras 4359-4360.

<sup>14192</sup> See above, paras 4359-4360.

<sup>14193</sup> KHIEU Samphan: Determination of indigence, A151, 30 January 2008; NUON Chea: Determination of means, A49, 17 October 2007.

21. CIVIL PARTY REPARATIONS

21.1. Introduction

4404. Internal Rule 23(1) provides that: “The purpose of Civil Party action before the ECCC is to:

- a) Participate in criminal proceedings against those responsible for crimes within the jurisdiction of the ECCC by supporting the prosecution; and
- b) Seek collective and moral reparations.

Taking into account the difficulties experienced in Case 001 and the need to improve efficiency in trial management, the Internal Rules were amended prior to the trial phase of Case 002.<sup>14194</sup> The amendments were designed to meet the requirements of trials of mass crimes and to ensure that ECCC proceedings responded more fully to the needs of victims. They streamlined and consolidated Civil Party participation at trial. Civil Parties now participate as individuals only at the pre-trial stage, while at the trial stage and beyond they comprise a single, consolidated group, whose interests are represented by one Cambodian and one international Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyer supported by the Civil Party Lawyers.<sup>14195</sup> Previously, in Case 001, the Trial Chamber had to decide on both the applications of Civil Parties to participate in the proceedings and their requests for reparations.<sup>14196</sup> Following the change to the Internal Rules, a final determination of Civil Party Applications to participate in the proceedings is made at the pre-trial stage.<sup>14197</sup> The Chamber now decides only on the Civil Parties’ consolidated claim for reparations.<sup>14198</sup>

4405. The Internal Rules were also amended to expand the range of reparations before the ECCC. The amendments created a new reparation avenue in addition to the

<sup>14194</sup> Internal Rules 23, 23bis, 23ter, 23quater and 23quinquies.

<sup>14195</sup> Internal Rules 12ter, 23(3), 23bis, 23ter and 23quinquies.

<sup>14196</sup> Internal Rules (6 March 2009), Internal Rule 100(1); Case 001 Trial Judgement, paras 635, 639-675.

<sup>14197</sup> Internal Rule 23bis(1) requires Civil Party applicants to “a) be clearly identified; and b) demonstrate as a direct consequence of at least one of the crimes alleged against the Charged Person, that he or she has in fact suffered physical, material or psychological injury upon which a claim of collective and moral reparation might be based”.

<sup>14198</sup> Internal Rule 100 provides that “[t]he Chamber shall make a decision on the Civil Party claim in the judgment”. Internal Rule 23quinquies, entitled “Civil Party Claim”, specifies the bases on which the Chamber may award reparations.

traditional Civil Party claim.<sup>14199</sup> This alternative permits the Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers to request the Chamber to recognise that specific reparations measures, designed or identified in coordination with the Victims Support Section (VSS), are appropriate for implementation using external funding. Over the course of the trials in both Case 002/01 and Case 002/02, this enabled VSS and the Lead Co-Lawyers to seek funding for reparations from donor contributions and to develop these projects in collaboration with governmental and non-governmental organisations external to the ECCC.

4406. The costs of an award of Civil Party reparations may still be borne by the convicted persons.<sup>14200</sup> Where the convicted persons are indigent, however, reparations awarded under the classic Civil Party model are unlikely to yield significant, tangible results for Civil Parties.<sup>14201</sup>

4407. The Co-Investigating Judges determined that 2,117 Civil Party applications were admissible in Case 002.<sup>14202</sup> Following resolution of the final expedited appeals by the Pre-Trial Chamber on 24 June and 1 July 2011, a total of 3,869 Civil Parties were admitted in Case 002.<sup>14203</sup> Subsequent to the withdrawal of two Civil Party Applications, 3,867 Civil Parties comprised the consolidated group at the start of the

<sup>14199</sup> Internal Rule 23*quiquies*(3)(b).

<sup>14200</sup> Internal Rule 23*quiquies*(3)(a). Initial specification of the substance of reparations awards sought by the Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers pursuant to Internal Rule 23*quiquies* (TC), E125, 23 September 2011.

<sup>14201</sup> Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 666 (indicating that “constraints also stem from [...] the unlikelihood of recovery from KAING Guek Eav, who appears to be indigent.”).

<sup>14202</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers’ Closing Brief, para. 3; Statistical Overview of the Consolidated Group of Civil Parties in Case 002/01, E295/6/2.1.4, 26 September 2013, p. 1, ERN (En) 00948995. In order to participate in proceedings as a Civil Party, individuals who claim to be victims of crimes of which the Accused are charged are required to file an application before the Co-Investigating Judges who decide on their admissibility. These decisions are subject to a right of expedited appeal to the Pre-Trial Chamber. See Internal Rules 23*bis*, 77*bis*.

<sup>14203</sup> Decision on appeals against orders of the Co-Investigating Judges on the admissibility of Civil Party Applications (PTC), D404/2/4, 24 June 2011; Decision on appeals against orders of the co-investigating judges on the admissibility of civil party applications (PTC), D411/3/6, 24 June 2011; Decision on the reconsideration of the admissibility of civil party Applications (PTC), D250/3/2/1/8, 1 July 2011; Decision on the reconsideration of the admissibility of civil party applications (PTC), D364/1/6, 1 July 2011. See also, Separate and partially dissenting opinion of Judge Catherine MARCHI-UHEL, Decision on appeals against orders of the co-investigating judges on the admissibility of civil party applications (PTC), D404/2/4, 24 June 2011; Separate and partially dissenting opinion of Judge Catherine MARCHI-UHEL, Decision on appeals against orders of the co-investigating judges on the admissibility of civil party applications (PTC), D411/3/6, 24 June 2011; Dissenting Opinion of Judge MARCHI-UHEL, Decision on the reconsideration of the admissibility of civil party applications (PTC), D250/3/2/1/8, 1 July 2011; Dissenting Opinion of Judge MARCHI-UHEL, Decision on the reconsideration of the admissibility of civil party applications (PTC), D364/1/6, 1 July 2011.

trial.<sup>14204</sup> The subsequent severance of the charges had no impact on the nature of Civil Party participation at trial or on membership of the consolidated group.<sup>14205</sup> The same consolidated group participated in both Cases 002/01 and 002/02, with some changes to the composition of the group due to deaths among the Civil Parties and subsequent successions for some of those who passed away during the course of the two trials. The consolidated group eventually consisted of 3,865 Civil Parties in Case 002/02.<sup>14206</sup>

21.2. Legal Framework

4408. Internal Rule 23*quinqüies*(1) provides that in the event an accused is convicted, the Chamber may award only collective and moral reparations to Civil Parties. Collective and moral reparations for the purpose of the Internal Rules are measures that:

- a) acknowledge the harm suffered by Civil Parties as a result of the commission of the crimes for which an Accused is convicted and
- b) provide benefits to the Civil Parties which address this harm.

Internal Rule 23*quinqüies*(1) expressly states that the benefits referred to in Internal Rule 23*quinqüies*(1)(b) shall not take the form of monetary payments to Civil Parties.<sup>14207</sup>

4409. The Supreme Court Chamber has interpreted the term “collective” as confirming the unavailability of individual financial awards and “moral” to mean repairing moral damages rather than material ones.<sup>14208</sup>

<sup>14204</sup> Request to withdraw from applicant 00-VU-00013 SENG Chantheary, E2/28, 3 March 2014; Mr. CHEY Theara’s Letter of Withdrawal from ECCC, E2/39, 18 November 2011; Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers’ Closing Brief, para. 5; Statistical Overview of the Consolidated Group of Civil Parties in Case 002/01, E295/6/2.1.4, 26 September 2013, p. 1, ERN (En) 00948995.

<sup>14205</sup> Case 002 Second Severance Decision, paras 10, 157; Case 002 First Severance Decision, para. 8.

<sup>14206</sup> Annex II: List of Civil Parties.

<sup>14207</sup> Internal Rule 23*quinqüies*(1). Civil Parties are victims who have volunteered to participate in the proceedings. Because they form a consolidated group at the trial stage, the moral and collective reparations sought on their behalf may not only address the harm suffered by this limited group, but also collaterally benefit a large number of unrepresented victims who have suffered harm as a result of the commission of the crimes for which the Accused are convicted.

<sup>14208</sup> Case 001 Appeal Judgement, para. 658. The Chamber notes that the Civil Parties expressed their dissatisfaction with the lack of monetary payments by means of a petition annexed to the Lead Co-Lawyers Interim Report of 17 June 2015. See Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers’ Interim Report on Reparations in Case 002/02 and Related Request, E352, 17 June 2015; Annex 3: Trial Chamber Memorandum and Civil Party Letter, E352.4, 31 October 2014; Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers’ Closing Brief, para. 37. The Chamber placed the petition on the Case File in recognition of its receipt but reiterated that “the ECCC has no jurisdiction to order the implementation or the payment of reparations measures; it may only impose collective and moral reparations”. See Trial Chamber Memorandum on 4410. The redress available before the ECCC differs from that available under a number of international treaties and other instruments, or before certain regional human rights courts, which are instead empowered to adjudicate questions of State responsibility and to order States to make reparation to their citizens, where States are found responsible for gross violations of international human rights law.<sup>14209</sup> The Chamber has no jurisdiction to order the implementation or the payment of reparation measures against Cambodian or other national authorities or international bodies.<sup>14210</sup> Nor can it properly impose obligations on persons or entities that were not parties to the proceedings before it.<sup>14211</sup> However, the adoption of Internal Rule 23*quinqüies*(3)(b) has enabled the Chamber to recognise that specific projects give appropriate effect to an award sought on behalf of the consolidated group of Civil Parties to contribute to their rehabilitation, reintegration and restoration of dignity where national or international authorities, non-governmental organisations or other potential donors, provide financial support and other forms of assistance to show solidarity with the victims of DK era crimes.

4411. Internal Rule 23*quinqüies*(2) sets out the pleading requirements of the single claim, and requires that:

Reparations shall be requested in a single submission, which may seek a limited number of awards. This submission shall provide:

- a) a description of the awards sought;
- b) reasoned argument as to how they address the harm suffered and specify, where applicable, the Civil Party group within the consolidated group to which they pertain; and
- c) in relation to each award, the single, specific mode of implementation described in Rule 23*quinqüies*(3)(a)-(b) sought.

4412. The obligation on the Lead Co-Lawyers to indicate, in relation to each award, which specific mode of implementation is sought reflects the alternatives embodied in Internal Rule 23*quinqüies*(3)(a) and (b).<sup>14212</sup> It also reflects that the two avenues of

---

Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers' Request to Acknowledge Receipt of Petition, E352/1, 30 July 2015, para. 2.

<sup>14209</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1116; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 663.

<sup>14210</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1116; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 663.

<sup>14211</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1116; Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 663.

<sup>14212</sup> Under the ECCC legal framework, all reparations must "acknowledge the harm suffered by Civil Parties as a result of the commission of the crimes for which an Accused is convicted and provide benefits to the Civil Parties which address this harm" and may only be awarded following conviction of one or more Accused. See Internal Rules 23*quinqüies*(1) and 100.

reparations before the ECCC are not only distinct but also mutually exclusive and that the Lead Co-Lawyers shall necessarily select one or the other.<sup>14213</sup> 4413. In creating alternative avenues of reparation before the ECCC, the Internal Rules provide that “[i]n deciding the modes of implementation of the awards, the Chamber may, in respect of each award, either:

- a) order that the costs of the award shall be borne by the convicted person; or
- b) recognise that a specific project appropriately gives effect to the award sought by the Lead Co-Lawyers and may be implemented. Such project shall have been designed or identified in cooperation with the Victims Support Section and have secured sufficient external funding.”<sup>14214</sup>

4414. The Chamber has previously noted that the formulation of reparations claims made on behalf of the consolidated group of Civil Parties by the Lead Co-Lawyers should take account of Internal Rule 23*quinqüies*(1)(a).<sup>14215</sup> Therefore, the proposed reparation measures should be limited to crimes relevant to Case 002/02. When issuing the Case 002 Second Severance Decision, however, the Chamber expressly stated that the severance of charges will place no limitation on the ability of individual members of the consolidated group to benefit from any reparations ultimately endorsed or awarded by the Chamber under Internal Rule 23*quinqüies*(3)(b).<sup>14216</sup> The Chamber has also provided guidance to the Lead Co-Lawyers to assist their efforts in formulating requests that may result in meaningful measures of reparation and encompass the entire consolidated group of Civil Parties.<sup>14217</sup> In particular, it has indicated that the severance of proceedings has no impact in relation to the new and separate reparations avenue created by Internal Rule 23*quinqüies*(3)(b), pursuant to which the initiatives proposed as possible measures do not result in enforceable claims against an accused, and may be developed in parallel with the trial.<sup>14218</sup>

<sup>14213</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1118.

<sup>14214</sup> Internal Rule 23*quinqüies*(3) (emphasis added).

<sup>14215</sup> Case 002 Second Severance Decision, paras 10, 158; Case 002 First Severance Decision, para. 8.

<sup>14216</sup> Case 002 Second Severance Decision, para. 158.

<sup>14217</sup> Case 002 Second Severance Decision, para. 158.

<sup>14218</sup> Case 002 Second Severance Decision, para. 158.

21.3. Civil Party Requests

4415. As in Case 002/01, over the course of the trial, the Chamber exercised its powers under Internal Rule 80*bis*(4) to request the Lead Co-Lawyers to provide early indications of the types of reparations measures contemplated pursuant to Internal Rule 23*quinqüies*(3)(b), and updates on the status of the financing of these projects. This was considered necessary to ensure that all measures sought on such grounds were capable of realisation, with the support of donor assistance and external collaborators, and within a meaningful time-frame.<sup>14219</sup> In view of limited donor funds and finite human resources in both the Lead Co-Lawyers' and Victims Support Sections, the Chamber also urged the Lead Co-Lawyers to prioritise reparations projects which appeared to have the likelihood of being realised in order to ensure that proceedings resulted in meaningful reparation for victims.<sup>14220</sup> Accordingly, following the practice established in Case 002/01, the Lead Co-Lawyers elaborated a number of specific projects proposed as reparation in Case 002/02 and progressively updated the Chamber on their development over the course of the trial.<sup>14221</sup>

4416. The Chamber notes that the Accused in Case 002 have been found to be indigent,<sup>14222</sup> and that all reparation requests advanced by the Lead Co-Lawyers are sought through Rule 23*quinqüies*(3)(b).<sup>14223</sup> In their Closing Brief and Final Claim for Reparation, the Lead Co-Lawyers recognise that the two possible modes of <sup>14219</sup> Internal Rule 80*bis*(4) provides that “[t]he Trial Chamber may direct the Lead Co-Lawyers, within a deadline determined by the Chamber, to provide initial specification of the substance of the awards they intend to seek within the final claim for collective and moral reparation pursuant to Rule 23*quinqüies* (3)(b). At a later stage, the Chamber will determine the date by which the Lead Co-Lawyers shall file the final claim for collective and moral reparation.” See also, Scheduling Order for Further Initial Hearing, E311, 11 June 2014; Agenda for further Initial Hearing in Case 002/02 (30 July 2014) (TC), E311/1, 7 July 2014, para. 5.

<sup>14220</sup> Indication of Reparation Projects for Implementation in Case 002/02 (TC), E352/2, 10 June 2016, para. 2, referring to this practice in Case 002/01.

<sup>14221</sup> T. 30 July 2014 (Initial Hearing), E1/240.1, pp. 7-20; Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers' Interim Report on Reparations in Case 002/02 and Related Request, E352, 17 June 2015; Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers' Submission Relating to Reparation Projects for Implementation in Case 002/02, E352/2/1, 15 July 2016. See also, Annex I: Procedural History.

<sup>14222</sup> Defence Support Section, Khieu Samphan: Determination of Indigence, A151, 30 January 2008; Defence Support Section, Determination of Means, A49, 17 October 2007. The Co-Investigating Judges and the Pre-Trial Chamber have both denied Civil Parties' requests to undertake investigative action concerning properties owned by the Charged Persons including measures to preserve such properties for the purpose of reparations. See Order on Civil Parties' Request for Investigative Actions Concerning All Properties Owned by the Charged Persons (OCIJ), D193/4, 1 March 2010; Decision on Appeal of Co-Lawyers for Civil Parties Against Order on Civil Parties' Request for Investigative Actions Concerning All Properties Owned by the Charged Persons (PTC), D193/5/5, 4 August 2010.

<sup>14223</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers' Closing Brief, para. 44; Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers' Final Claim for Reparation in Case 002/02 with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/1, 30 May 2017, para. 4.

implementation of the awards foreseen by Internal Rule 23<sup>quinqüies</sup>(3)(a) and (b) are not only distinct but also mutually exclusive, and therefore that an award cannot be sought under both procedural avenues simultaneously.<sup>14224</sup>

4417. In their Final Claim for Reparation, the Lead Co-Lawyers initially requested the Chamber to judicially recognise eighteen projects as appropriate reparations.<sup>14225</sup> Twelve of the eighteen projects proposed by the Lead Co-Lawyers had secured sufficient external funding at the moment of filing the Final Claim.<sup>14226</sup> Subsequently, on 30 November 2017, the Lead Co-Lawyers filed a Supplemental Submission providing proof of secured funding also for projects 13 and 15, and withdrawing the remaining projects for which funding could not be secured.<sup>14227</sup> The Lead Co-Lawyers also requested the Chamber to provide guidance regarding additional funding and activities for projects 1-3, 5, 6 and 9.<sup>14228</sup> On 15 December 2017, the Chamber acknowledged receipt of proof of funding with respect to projects 13 and 15 and the withdrawal of the remaining projects, and found that minor changes to projects' duration or reach did not impact on the originally proposed projects.<sup>14229</sup>

4418. The total number of reparation projects proposed by the Lead Co-Lawyers with regard to Case 002/02 is therefore fourteen. The Chamber is aware that the majority of <sup>14224</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers' Closing Brief, paras 38, 41; Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers' Final Claim for Reparation in Case 002/02 with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/1, 30 May 2017, para. 4. The Lead Co-Lawyers submit that the absence of the phrase "shall be awarded against" from the current formulation of the Internal Rules "undermines an important principle of international law that a convicted person is responsible for the harm s/he caused". See Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers' Closing Brief, para. 41. The Chamber notes that the Lead Co-Lawyers do not request the reparation measures in Case 002/02 to be ordered against the Convicted Persons nor do they seek an amendment of the Internal Rules. Therefore, there is no need for the Chamber to address this submission.

<sup>14225</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers' Final Claim for Reparation in Case 002/02 with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/1, 30 May 2017, paras 15-79 (project 12 is supported exclusively by the International Lead Co-Lawyer).

<sup>14226</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers' Final Claim for Reparation in Case 002/02 with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/1, 30 May 2017, paras 15-58 (fully-funded projects), 59-79 (not fully-funded projects).

<sup>14227</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers' Supplemental Submission on Funding Issues Related to Reparation Projects in Case 002/02 and Request for Guidance with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/4, 30 November 2017, para. 3 (the Lead Co-Lawyers withdrew projects 14, 16, 17 and 18, which as a consequence are not assessed by the Chamber).

<sup>14228</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers' Supplemental Submission on Funding Issues Related to Reparation Projects in Case 002/02 and Request for Guidance with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/4, 30 November 2017, paras 4, 11-22.

<sup>14229</sup> Memorandum Responding to the Lead Co-Lawyers' Request for Guidance Regarding Additional Funding and Activities for Certain Reparation Projects (TC), E457/6/2/5, 15 December 2017, paras 3-5. The Chamber indicated that the development of new substantive content and the addition of novel elements would be considered as a deviation from the original projects, falling beyond the reach of its endorsement.

these projects have already been partially or fully implemented. In this context, the Chamber recalls the Lead Co-Lawyers' concerns regarding the practical difficulties in securing external funding for the realisation of reparation projects under the mode of implementation established in Internal Rule 23 quinquies(3)(b).<sup>14230</sup> The Chamber addressed these concerns during the course of proceedings in Case 002/01 by permitting the implementation of projects to begin prior to the verdict in order to ensure the realisation of meaningful reparations within a reasonable time.<sup>14231</sup> The Chamber reiterates that while a conviction is a precondition for awarding collective and moral reparations pursuant to Internal Rule 23*quinquies*(1), recognising projects whose implementation has already begun or even concluded is in keeping with the purposes of Internal Rule 23*quinquies*(3)(b).

4419. Each of the requested projects is discussed below.

21.3.1. Project 1: App-Learning on Khmer Rouge History

4420. The Lead Co-Lawyers seek the recognition of a learning web-based application for mobile devices, designed and implemented by the Bophana Audiovisual Resource Center in cooperation with the Lead Co-Lawyers and VSS. The application is described as a compilation of accurate and standardised information on Khmer Rouge history, incorporating contemporaneous audio-visual materials and Civil Party accounts. The Lead Co-Lawyers submit that the application, which is disseminated free of charge, will contribute to intergenerational dialogue with the goal of preventing future recurrence of the experiences of the Civil Parties in Cambodia. The Lead Co-Lawyers further submit that through its educational and dialogue components, the application also benefits unrepresented victims. Implementation of the project had already begun when the Lead Co-Lawyers filed their Final Claim for Reparation, and the application was launched on 25 July 2017. The project was fully funded by the European Union

<sup>14230</sup> T. 27 August 2012 (Trial Management Meeting), E1/114.2, p. 8 (“We simply want to make it known that it is not always easy to secure funding, as donors are only, often, willing to advance funds when the deadlines, modalities, and other project details are clearly defined. This is complicated process, and I would impress this point upon the Chamber.”).

<sup>14231</sup> Indication of priority projects for implementation as reparation (Internal Rule 80 bis (4)) (TC), E218/7, 3 December 2012 (“Noting the challenges in bringing reparations to fruition described by the International Lead Co-Lawyer in the recent Trial Management Meeting, the Chamber wishes to clarify that implementation of these measures may begin prior to the verdict in Case 002/01. This is in keeping with the purposes for which Internal Rule 23*quinquies*(3)(b) was adopted, which were to enable, with donor assistance and that of external collaborators, the realization of meaningful reparations within reasonable time.”).

through the United Nations Office for Project Services (“UNOPS”) and by the REI Foundation, and it has been formally endorsed by the Ministry of Education, Youth and Sports.<sup>14232</sup>

21.3.2. *Project 2: Khmer Rouge History Education through Teacher and University Lecturer Training and Workshops

4421. The second project was designed and implemented by the Documentation Center of Cambodia (“DC-Cam”) in cooperation with the Lead Co-Lawyers and VSS. This project entailed holding two Commune Teacher Trainings and one University Lecturer Training, and conducting 15 classroom forums for students on Khmer Rouge history. Implementation of the project had already begun when the Lead Co-Lawyers filed their Final Claim for Reparation, and concluded in August 2017. The project’s trainings and curriculum have been approved by the Ministry of Education, Youth and Sports for use in schools and universities. The Lead Co-Lawyers submit that the project benefits Civil Parties by educating young people in Cambodia about both Khmer Rouge history and the experiences of Civil Parties, which will help prevent the future recurrence of crimes. Funding for this project was fully secured from the European Union through UNOPS.<sup>14233</sup>

21.3.3. *Project 3: The Turtle Project: Innovative Cross Media Project, Promoting Historical Awareness and Civil Courage in Cambodia

4422. With funding from the Institut für Auslandsbeziehungen of the German Federal Foreign Office and the European Union through UNOPS, this project created theatre performances, film screenings and photography exhibitions, and used multimedia cultural and educational activities during workshops with high school and university students. It was intended to educate students about Civil Party experiences and promote intergenerational dialogue, providing Civil Parties with the opportunity to engage with the younger generation. This project was designed and implemented by the Cambodian-

<sup>14232</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers’ Final Claim for Reparation in Case 002/02 with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/1, 30 May 2017, paras 17-19; Annex 1: App-Learning on Khmer Rouge History, E457/6/2/1.1.1, 30 May 2017, ERN (En) 01485919-01485995.

<sup>14233</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers’ Final Claim for Reparation in Case 002/02 with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/1, 30 May 2017, paras 20-22; Annex 2: Khmer Rouge History Education through Teacher and University Lecturer Training and Workshops, E457/6/2/1.1.2, 30 May 2017, ERN (En) 01485996-01486052.

German Cultural Association and Khmer Art Action with the support from the Lead Co-Lawyers and VSS. It began in 2015 and continued until the end of 2017, with the support of the Ministry of Education, Youth and Sport.<sup>14234</sup>

21.3.4. *Project 4: Community Media Project: The Cham People and the Khmer Rouge

4423. This project was designed and implemented for the benefit of Cham Civil Parties, their families and the younger generations, by educating the public about the experiences of the Cham people during the DK regime. Two films and a multimedia exhibition were produced, and a website and blog accompanied and complemented the project, which was intended to increase access to the younger generations. The Lead Co-Lawyers submit that the project benefits Civil Parties – and addresses the harm suffered by the Cham Civil Parties in particular – by educating communities about the treatment of the Cham and documenting their experiences. Project activities started in 2016 and ended in July 2017. This project was designed and implemented by the Cambodian-German Cultural Association in cooperation with the Lead Co-Lawyers and VSS, and was fully funded by the Embassy of Switzerland in Bangkok and the Heinrich Böll Foundation.<sup>14235</sup>

21.3.5. *Project 5: Phka Sla Kraom Angkar

4424. The project “Phka Sla Kraom Angkar” was designed and implemented by the Khmer Arts Academy in collaboration with Kdei Karuna, the Bophana Center and the Transcultural Psychosocial Organisation (“TPO”). This project developed a classical dance production and related exhibition addressing the regulation of marriage during the DK period, in order to promote public awareness, understanding and discussion of the regulation of marriage. The project ran from May 2016 to March 2018. It was fully funded by the Swiss Development Cooperation, the German Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development through the Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale

<sup>14234</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers’ Final Claim for Reparation in Case 002/02 with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/1, 30 May 2017, paras 23-25; Annex 3: The Turtle Project: Innovative Cross Media Project, promoting historical awareness and civil courage in Cambodia, E457/6/2/1.1.3, 30 May 2017, ERN (En) 01486053-01486128.

<sup>14235</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers’ Final Claim for Reparation in Case 002/02 with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/1, 30 May 2017, paras 27-29; Annex 4: Community Media Project: The Cham People and the Khmer Rouge, E457/6/2/1.1.4, 30 May 2017, ERN (En) 01486129-01486148.

Zusammenarbeit (“GIZ”) and the United States Agency for International Development (“USAID”).<sup>14236</sup>

21.3.6. *Project 6: Voices from Ethnic Minorities: Promoting Public Awareness about the Treatment of Ethnic Vietnamese and Cham living in Cambodia during the Khmer Rouge Regime

4425. This project was designed by Kdei Karuna, in collaboration with the Lead Co-Lawyers and VSS, to benefit the Cham and Vietnamese Civil Parties by documenting their experiences and providing opportunities for intergenerational dialogue about their treatment during the DK regime. The project was intended to enhance public awareness of the causes and consequences of ethnic violence and discrimination, address stereotypes, promote anti-discrimination, provide opportunities for dialogue and express the experiences of these groups through exhibitions, forum theatre and a graphic novel. The project began in January 2016 and continued until December 2017. The project was fully funded by the German Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development through the Civil Peace Service of GIZ and the Embassy of Switzerland in Bangkok.<sup>14237</sup>

21.3.7. *Project 7: The Unheard Stories of Civil Parties Participating in Case 002/02 at the ECCC

4426. Designed and implemented by the Cambodian Human Rights Action Coalition in cooperation with the Lead Co-Lawyers and VSS, this project commenced in June 2015 with the collection of Civil Party stories and was completed in August 2016 with the production of an illustrated book. The book contains the accounts of 30 Civil Parties who were admitted to participate in the proceedings but did not have an opportunity to give statements before the Court, in relation to Case 002/02 crimes and topics, including the regulation of marriage, the treatment of Buddhists, the treatment of minorities, security centres, worksites and cooperatives. The Lead Co-Lawyers submit that the project affords Civil Parties the opportunity to provide an account of their experiences for public dissemination, which allows for recognition and acknowledgement of their suffering. Five hundred copies of the book have been printed. The project was fully funded by the Heinrich Böll Foundation.<sup>14238</sup>

<sup>14236</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers’ Final Claim for Reparation in Case 002/02 with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/1, 30 May 2017, paras 30-32; Annex 5: Phka Sla Kraom Angkar, E457/6/2/1.1.5, 30 May 2017, ERN (En) 01486149-01486179.

<sup>14237</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers’ Final Claim for Reparation in Case 002/02 with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/1, 30 May 2017, paras 33-35; Annex 6: Voices from Ethnic Minorities: Promoting public awareness about the treatment of ethnic Vietnamese and Cham living in Cambodia during the Khmer Rouge regime, E457/6/2/1.1.6, 30 May 2017, ERN (En) 01486180-01486194.

21.3.8. *Project 8: A Time to Remember: Songwriting Contest 2016, Involving Youth in the Creating of Cambodia's Remembrance Song

4427. This project, designed to acknowledge the experiences of survivors by fostering intergenerational dialogue between Civil Parties and the younger generation through song writing and performance, was realised between March and December 2016, with the final concert taking place in December 2016. The project was fully implemented by the Youth Resource Development Program in cooperation with the Lead Co-Lawyers and VSS. It was fully funded by the German Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development through the Civil Peace Service of GIZ, and enjoyed the support of the Ministry of Culture and Fine Arts.<sup>14239</sup>

21.3.9. *Project 9: Memory Sketches of Kraing Ta Chan

4428. The project “Memory Sketches of Kraing Ta Chan” was designed and fully implemented by Youth for Peace and the Peace Institute of Cambodia in cooperation with the Lead Co-Lawyers and the VSS from January to December 2016. This project created a public exhibition of memory sketches of the Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, produced by university students on the basis of survivors’ accounts, and accompanied by a booklet commemorating the process of making the memory sketches. The Lead Co-Lawyers submit that the project commemorates and recognises the suffering of Civil Parties as a result of their experiences at the Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, while offering students the possibility to engage with Civil Parties and other victims through a consultation workshop on the sketches hosted by Youth for Peace and

<sup>14238</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers’ Final Claim for Reparation in Case 002/02 with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/1, 30 May 2017, paras 38-40; Annex 7: The Unheard Stories of Civil Parties Participating in Case 002/02 at the ECCC, E457/6/2/1.1.7, 30 May 2017, ERN (En) 01486195-01486209.

<sup>14239</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers’ Final Claim for Reparation in Case 002/02 with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/1, 30 May 2017, paras 41-43; Annex 8: A Time to Remember: Songwriting Contest 2016, Involving youth in the creating of Cambodia’s Remembrance Song, E457/6/2/1.1.8, 30 May 2017, ERN (En) 01486210-01486237.

organised by a group of young students. The project was fully funded by International Coalition of Sites of Conscience.<sup>14240</sup>

21.3.10. *Project 10: Access to the Judicial Records of the Khmer Rouge Trials and Civil Party Materials at the Legal Documentation Center related to the ECCC (LDC)

4429. This project was proposed by the Council of Ministers of the Kingdom of Cambodia after the Lead Co-Lawyers and VSS initiated discussions, through the ECCC Office of Administration, with the Royal Government of Cambodia. The Legal Documentation Center (“LDC”) has created a repository of publicly available documents related to Case 002, the ECCC and the role of Civil Parties, free of charge. Public events will be held to raise awareness of the history of DK through Civil Party experiences. A full list of the Civil Parties in Case 002 will be displayed, and their statements and related documents will be publicly available. The Lead Co-Lawyers submit that this project benefits Civil Parties by providing access to records relating to the ECCC and facilitating access and dissemination of publicly available records, consistent with victims’ rights to satisfaction and access to justice, thus also benefitting a larger group of unrepresented victims. The project is funded by the Royal Government of Cambodia through the national budget; the LDC facility was built with funding from the Embassy of Japan.<sup>14241</sup>

21.3.11. *Project 11: Healing and Reconciliation for Survivors of the Khmer Rouge Regime

4430. This healing and reconciliation project was designed by the TPO in collaboration with Kdei Karuna, and with the support from the Lead Co-Lawyers and VSS. The project is intended to provide trauma healing to Civil Parties as well as other survivors of the Khmer Rouge regime in 15 provinces. It aims to do so by providing access to mental health services, interventions using truth-telling and reconciliation, and capacity development for project staff in each target community. These services are delivered by on-site and telephone counselling, self-help groups and testimonial therapy. The project started in August 2016 and will end in August 2019. The Lead Co-Lawyers submit that truth-telling and reconciliation activities, such as community dialogues, memory initiatives/forum theatre and youth outreach activities, aim to both educate and enhance empathy for survivors. Furthermore, the project intends to provide benefits to a wide range of Civil Parties who have suffered from torture, including Cham Muslims, survivors of gender-based violence and survivors of forced labour. Funding for the project has been fully secured by USAID.<sup>14242</sup>

<sup>14240</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers’ Final Claim for Reparation in Case 002/02 with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/1, 30 May 2017, paras 44-46; Annex 9: Memory Sketches of Kraing Ta Chan, E457/6/2/1.1.9, 30 May 2017, ERN (En) 01486238-01486268.

<sup>14241</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers’ Final Claim for Reparation in Case 002/02 with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/1, 30 May 2017, paras 47-49; Annex 10: Access to the Judicial Records of the Khmer Rouge Trials and Civil Party Materials at the Legal Documentation Center related to the ECCC (LDC), E457/6/2/1.1.10, 30 May 2017, ERN (En) 01486269-01486293.

21.3.12. *Project 12: Legal and Civic Education for Minority Civil Parties

4431. The project “Legal and Civic Education for Minority Civil Parties” was designed and fully implemented by the Minority Rights Organization between July and December 2016. The project focussed on harm suffered by ethnic Vietnamese Civil Parties. It consisted of one legal and civic education pilot project, one community consultation event, outreach and education workshops, and the production of outreach materials. The purpose of the project was to allow Civil Parties to better understand their legal status according to Cambodian law. The project is said to have benefitted not only ethnic Vietnamese Civil Parties but also the wider community of ethnic Vietnamese survivors of the Khmer Rouge regime. The project was fully funded by the German Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development through the Civil Peace Service of GIZ.<sup>14243</sup>

21.3.13. *Project 13: Improving Health and Mental Wellbeing and Reducing the Risk of Poverty and Social Exclusion of Some Civil Parties and other Vulnerable Older People in Cambodia

4432. This project is developed by HelpAge Cambodia in collaboration with the TPO, the Health Department of Battambang Province and the Older Persons Associations (“OPAs”) in different provinces, with the support from the Lead Co-Lawyers and VSS.

<sup>14242</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers’ Final Claim for Reparation in Case 002/02 with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/1, 30 May 2017, paras 52-54; Annex 11: Healing and Reconciliation for Survivors of the Khmer Rouge Regime, E457/6/2/1.1.11, 30 May 2017, ERN (En) 01486294-01486305.

<sup>14243</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers’ Final Claim for Reparation in Case 002/02 with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/1, 30 May 2017, paras 56-58; Annex 12: Legal and Civic Education for Minority Civil Parties, E457/6/2/1.1.12, 30 May 2017, ERN (En) 01486306-01486322.

The project seeks to assist ageing Civil Parties by facilitating access to healthcare services and increasing their income security. The healthcare component of the project entails establishing mobile health camps to offer basic primary healthcare and check-ups, as well as providing mental health education at the community level. The project also intends to train medical staff and volunteers, and expand the capacity of OPAs networks. The project aims to benefit Civil Parties whose physical and mental health was affected by the crimes within the scope of Case 002/02. The livelihood support component of the project entails strengthening the OPAs network and increasing income security through equipping OPAs sub-committees in target communities with a community revolving fund. The fund is an OPA-managed safety net that provides small loans to OPA members to help them participate in income generating activities. The establishment of this system seeks to support in particular the children and spouses of those who died during the DK regime, and were thus left without a socio-economic support system. The project is currently ongoing with an expected duration of two years, until December 2019.<sup>14244</sup> On 30 November 2017, the Lead Co-Lawyers filed proof of funding for this project, which is to be provided by the European Union through UNOPS and the Swiss Agency for Development and Cooperation. The Lead Co-Lawyers also provided proof of cooperation and support by the implementing partners as well as additional details on the project's activities and implementation plan.<sup>14245</sup>

---

<sup>14244</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers' Final Claim for Reparation in Case 002/02 with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/1, 30 May 2017, paras 60-62; Annex 13: Improving Health and Mental Wellbeing and Reducing Risk of Poverty and Social Exclusion of Some Civil Parties and other Vulnerable Older People in Cambodia, E457/6/2/1.1.13, 30 May 2017, ERN (En) 01486323-01486336; Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers' Supplemental Submission on Funding Issues Related to Reparation Projects in Case 002/02 and Request for Guidance with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/4, 30 November 2017, paras 5-7; Annex A: Improving Health and Mental Wellbeing and Reducing the Risk of Poverty and Social Exclusion of Some Civil Parties and other Vulnerable Older People in Cambodia, E457/6/2/4.2, 30 November 2017, ERN (En) 01547818-01547865.

<sup>14245</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers' Supplemental Submission on Funding Issues Related to Reparation Projects in Case 002/02 and Request for Guidance with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/4, 30 November 2017, paras 5-7; Annex A: Improving Health and Mental Wellbeing and Reducing the Risk of Poverty and Social Exclusion of Some Civil Parties and other Vulnerable Older People in Cambodia, E457/6/2/4.2, 30 November 2017, ERN (En) 01547818-01547865. Funding for this project was not secured at the time the Lead Co-Lawyers filed their Final Claim for Reparation. On 7 July 2017, the Chamber granted the Lead Co-Lawyers' request to extend the deadline for filing supplemental submissions regarding proof of funding. The Chamber then also noted that the project description appeared to lack sufficient detail. See Decision on the Lead Co-Lawyers' Request for an Extension of Time to File Supplemental Submissions Containing Proof of Secured Funding by 30 November 2017 for Six Reparations Projects, E457/6/2/2, 7 July 2017, paras 4, 6.

21.3.14. *Project 15: Cambodia's Indigenous People and Pol Pot

4433. This project, designed by the Cambodian-German Cultural Association with the support of the Lead Co-Lawyers and VSS, seeks to produce two documentaries and a series of video testimonials about the experiences of Cambodia's indigenous people in Ratanakiri and Mondulakiri provinces during the DK period. The documentaries and video testimonials will be made by indigenous filmmakers and students, in cooperation with Civil Parties. The screenings will be accompanied by a photo exhibition. The Lead Co-Lawyers submit that the project will facilitate intergenerational dialogue and exchange of knowledge in minority communities. The project started in January 2018 and is expected to end in December 2018.<sup>14246</sup> On 30 November 2017, the Lead Co-Lawyers filed proof of funding for this project from the European Union through UNOPS and the Heinrich Böll Foundation.<sup>14247</sup>

21.4. Harm Suffered by the Civil Parties

4434. The Accused NUON Chea has been convicted of (i) the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, deportation, enslavement, imprisonment, torture, persecution on political, religious and racial grounds, and the other inhumane acts through attacks against human dignity and conduct characterised as enforced disappearances, forced transfer, forced marriage and rape in the context of forced marriage; (ii) grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions, namely wilful killing, torture, inhuman treatment, wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health, wilfully depriving a prisoner of war or civilian the rights of fair and regular trial and unlawful confinement of a civilian; and (iii) genocide by killing members of the Vietnamese and Cham groups.

<sup>14246</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers' Final Claim for Reparation in Case 002/02 with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/1, 30 May 2017, paras 66-68; Annex 15: Cambodia's Indigenous People and Pol Pot, E457/6/2/1.1.15, 30 May 2017, ERN (En) 01486358-01486367; Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers' Supplemental Submission on Funding Issues Related to Reparation Projects in Case 002/02 and Request for Guidance with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/4, 30 November 2017, paras 8-10; Annex B: Cambodia's Indigenous People and Pol Pot, E457/6/2/4.3, 30 November 2017, ERN (En) 01547866-01547909.

<sup>14247</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers' Supplemental Submission on Funding Issues Related to Reparation Projects in Case 002/02 and Request for Guidance with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/4, 30 November 2017, paras 8-10; Annex B: Cambodia's Indigenous People and Pol Pot, E457/6/2/4.3, 30 November 2017, ERN (En) 01547882-01547904. Funding for this project was not secured at the time the Lead Co-Lawyers filed their Final Claim for Reparation. On 7 July 2017, the Chamber granted the Lead Co-Lawyers' request to extend the deadline for filing supplemental submissions regarding proof of funding. See Decision on the Lead Co-Lawyers' Request for an Extension of Time to File Supplemental Submissions Containing Proof of Secured Funding by 30 November 2017 for Six Reparations Projects, E457/6/2/2, 7 July 2017, para. 6.

4435. The Accused KHIEU Samphan has been convicted of (i) the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, deportation, enslavement, imprisonment, torture, persecution on political, religious and racial grounds, and the other inhumane acts through attacks against human dignity and conduct characterised as enforced disappearances, forced transfer, forced marriage and rape in context of forced marriage; (ii) grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions, namely wilful killing, torture, inhuman treatment, wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health, wilfully depriving a prisoner of war or civilian the rights of fair and regular trial and unlawful confinement of a civilian; and (iii) genocide by killing members of the Vietnamese group.

4436. Internal Rule 23*quinqies*(1) requires that reparations awarded by the Chamber acknowledge and address the harm suffered by Civil Parties as a result of the commission of these crimes.

4437. Sixty-three Civil Parties appeared before the Chamber in the course of Case 002/02.<sup>14248</sup> All were given the opportunity to make a statement on the harm they suffered after they provided evidence. In addition, with the exception of when it heard testimony on the nature of the armed conflict and the role of the Accused, the Chamber set aside a number of trial days to hear oral evidence from a representative selection of Civil Parties specifically about the ways in which they suffered during the DK period in connection with each trial topic examined.<sup>14249</sup> Twenty-six Civil Parties gave statements during such hearings on a total of ten days. The Chamber also recalls the testimony heard in Case 002/01 from Expert CHHIM Sotheara, a psychologist and mental health professional with experience working with victims of the DK regime (including Civil Parties), who discussed the psychological impact of events during the

---

<sup>14248</sup> Civil Party SAR Sarin appeared before the Court on 8 November 2016 but subsequently did not complete his statement. The Chamber thus withdrew his name from the list of Civil Parties. See Decision Withdrawing 2-TCCP-237 from the list of Civil Parties heard in court, E29/501/1, 14 December 2016. See also, Section 2.4.7.1: Preliminary Issues: Civil Party SAR Sarin, paras 97-101.

<sup>14249</sup> Information on (1) Key Document Presentation Hearings in Case 002/02 and (2) Hearings on Harm Suffered by the Civil Parties in Case 002/02 (TC), E315/1, 17 December 2014, paras 7-9; Final Stages of Case 002/02 – Notice of Deadlines (TC), E421, 28 June 2016, para. 2 (the Chamber considered that the topics of the nature of the armed conflict and the role of the Accused did not “lend themselves to hearings on the harm suffered by Civil Parties.”).

DK period on those victims. Finally, many Civil Parties provided written accounts of injuries they suffered and crimes they witnessed during the DK era in their Civil Party Applications, to which the Chamber also had regard.

4438. In assessing the harm suffered, the Chamber draws from its findings on the various crime sites and the treatment of targeted groups, and relies on the in-court statements made by the Civil Parties. The Chamber's findings on the harm suffered are provided below.

4439. Many Civil Parties shared their accounts of suffering when forced to work at the Tram Kak Cooperatives, the Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, the 1st January Dam Worksite and Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site.

4440. The way in which life and work were organised at Tram Kak Cooperatives caused immediate and long-term mental and physical suffering to Civil Parties.<sup>14250</sup> The separation of families in Tram Kak district had a strong emotional impact on many Civil Parties and affected the children in particular.<sup>14251</sup> Civil Party BUN Saroeun, who at the time was an 11-year-old working in a children's unit at Trapeang Chaeng cooperative, explained that the limited nature of the schooling activities and the prioritisation of work commitments deprived children of a proper education.<sup>14252</sup> He stated that the lack of proper education during the regime made him "ignorant, even today" as he does not know how to write.<sup>14253</sup> Civil Parties suffered harm as a consequence of the malnutrition and overwork. Civil Party YEM Khonny explained that she became "skinny" and "bony" as a result of the harsh conditions.<sup>14254</sup>

4441. The prohibition to use pagodas for religious purposes in Tram Kak caused extreme emotional suffering to those who followed Buddhist practice. Civil Party BUN

<sup>14250</sup> See e.g., T. 3 April 2015 (YEM Khonny), E1/288.1, p. 10; T. 3 April 2015 (BUN Saroeun), E1/288.1, p. 35; T. 2 April 2015 (THANN Thim), E1/287.1, pp. 30-31. See also, Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, paras 1010-1016, 1020, 1023, 1034-1039.

<sup>14251</sup> See e.g., T. 2 April 2015 (YEM Khonny), E1/287.1, p. 91 ("At that time, because I recently separated from my parents, at night time, I wept. And they joked at me that I could just continue weeping and maybe I wish that I would see my family members."); T. 3 April 2015 (BUN Saroeun), E1/288.1, p. 30; T. 21 April 2015 (THANN Thim), E1/289.1, p. 8. See also, Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, paras 1034-1036, 1039.

<sup>14252</sup> T. 3 April 2015 (BUN Saroeun), E1/288.1, p. 34. See also, Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 1038.

<sup>14253</sup> T. 3 April 2015 (BUN Saroeun), E1/288.1, pp. 35, 43.

<sup>14254</sup> See e.g., T. 3 April 2015 (BUN Saroeun), E1/288.1, p. 35; T. 3 April 2015 (YEM Khonny), E1/288.1, p. 10. See also, Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, paras 1011, 1013, 1016-1020.

Saroeun explained that his local pagoda was empty, all the 15 monks previously living there were gone, including his uncle and his elder brother, who has since disappeared. He felt that he “was completely deprived of any psychological base” as pagodas were no longer sacred places.<sup>14255</sup>

4442. Civil Parties described how the loss of their relatives made them suffer tremendously.<sup>14256</sup> Civil Parties also suffered as a result of the arrest and disappearance of family members, as they did not know the fate of their loved ones or thought they had died.<sup>14257</sup> Civil Party YEM Khonny explained that she has been on her own since her mother and the rest of the family members were placed on a truck together with many other people and disappeared.<sup>14258</sup>

4443. Working and living conditions were very difficult at the Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite and affected the Civil Parties both physically and mentally.<sup>14259</sup> Civil Parties suffered physical injuries and fell ill because of overwork.<sup>14260</sup> They became skinny and emaciated because of the lack of food.<sup>14261</sup> The arrest and disappearance of workers made those who were left behind terrified.<sup>14262</sup> Civil Party SAM Sak explained that his life at the Worksite “could be regarded as the life of an animal”.<sup>14263</sup> Civil Party SEN

<sup>14255</sup> T. 3 April 2015 (BUN Saroeun), E1/288.1, pp. 31-32. See also, Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, paras 1107-1108.

<sup>14256</sup> See e.g., T. 3 April 2015 (BUN Saroeun), E1/288.1, pp. 36-39; T. 2 April 2015 (YEM Khonny), E1/287.1, pp. 95-96. See also, Section 10.1.7.3.2: Tram Kak Cooperatives: Implementation in Tram Kak; Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 1020.

<sup>14257</sup> See e.g., T. 2 April 2015 (THANN Thim), E1/287.1, pp. 35-36; T. 2 April 2015 (YEM Khonny), E1/287.1, pp. 94-95; T. 3 April 2015 (BUN Saroeun), E1/288.1, pp. 31-32, 40-41. See also, Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, paras 1071-1079, 1204.

<sup>14258</sup> T. 2 April 2015 (YEM Khonny), E1/287.1, pp. 94-96.

<sup>14259</sup> See e.g., T. 25 August 2015 (NHIP Horl), E1/336.1, pp. 17-18, 20; T. 28 July 2015 (SEN Sophon), E1/324.1, pp. 15-16; T. 2 September 2015 (SAM Sak), E1/340.1, p. 20; T. 2 September 2015 (MEAN Loeuy), E1/340.1, p. 82. See also, Section 11.1.7: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: Working conditions; Section 11.1.8: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: Living conditions.

<sup>14260</sup> See e.g., T. 25 August 2015 (NHIP Horl), E1/336.1, p. 20; T. 2 September 2015 (MEAN Loeuy), E1/340.1, pp. 64, 82; T. 2 September 2015 (SAM Sak), E1/340.1, pp. 10, 16 (explaining that he became sick due to overwork and had a fever); T. 27 July 2015 (SEN Sophon), E1/323.1, p. 71. See also, Section 11.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, paras 1271, 1320.

<sup>14261</sup> See e.g., T. 2 September 2015 (SAM Sak), E1/340.1, pp. 11, 21-22, 27; T. 2 September 2015 (MEAN Loeuy), E1/340.1, p. 66. See also, Section 11.1.8.2.2: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite: Food rations at Trapeang Thma Dam.

<sup>14262</sup> See e.g., T. 2 September 2015 (SAM Sak), E1/340.1, p. 16; T. 2 September 2015 (MEAN Loeuy), E1/340.1, pp. 65-66. See also, Section 11.1: Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, paras 1354-1355.

<sup>14263</sup> T. 2 September 2015 (SAM Sak), E1/340.1, p. 20.

Sophon stated that they were treated “like cattle”.<sup>14264</sup> Civil Party MEAN Loeuy described his experience as follows:

I could not ever imagine that I could survive. Every morning when I opened my eyes I knew that I lived for another day and I could not possibly know what would happen the next day. At night, we were afraid of being killed for fear that we committed any mistake during the day time. We kept saying to one another that if we lived through the day we might not survive during the night and we only looked forward to one day at a time.<sup>14265</sup>

4444. Conditions were similar at the 1st January Dam Worksite.<sup>14266</sup> The insufficient amount of food and the lack of proper drinking water caused Civil Parties to suffer from a number of physical ailments.<sup>14267</sup> Civil Parties also described the harm suffered as a result of working day and night without rest.<sup>14268</sup> Civil Party CHAO Lang explained that the work “was beyond my physical strength”.<sup>14269</sup> She became emaciated and weak as a result of the intense activity, but carried on working “in order to avoid being killed”.<sup>14270</sup> The lack of hygiene and sanitary facilities affected women in particular, because during their menstruation they could not properly wash themselves.<sup>14271</sup> Civil Party NUON Narom said in this respect that they “were treated as animals.”<sup>14272</sup> The Civil Parties experienced immediate and long-term emotional suffering because of the mistreatment and death of loved ones at the Dam.<sup>14273</sup> Civil Party CHAO Lang explained that upon hearing that her relatives were chained to an ox cart and dragged until they died, she almost fainted, her knees trembled and she became weak. She

<sup>14264</sup> T. 28 July 2015 (SEN Sophon), E1/324.1, p. 15.

<sup>14265</sup> T. 2 September 2015 (MEAN Loeuy), E1/340.1, p. 77.

<sup>14266</sup> Section 11.2.11.3: 1st January Dam Worksite: Experience of workers at the 1st January Dam; Section 11.2.12: 1st January Dam Worksite: Work Conditions and Quotas; Section 11.2.17: 1st January Dam Worksite: Living Conditions.

<sup>14267</sup> See e.g., T. 1 September 2015 (CHAO Lang), E1/339.1, p. 67. See also, Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, paras 1586, 1595; Section 11.2.17.2: 1st January Dam Worksite: Water and hygiene.

<sup>14268</sup> See e.g., T. 1 September 2015 (NUON Narom), E1/339.1, pp. 13, 16 (stating that she was hospitalised for two weeks due to acute cramps in her abdomen), 26-27 (explaining that the skin on her shoulder peeled from carrying the heavy load of earth on the basket); T. 1 September 2015 (CHAO Lang), E1/339.1, p. 64 (stating that one day she got a high fever and became unconscious and had to be taken to the hospital). See also, Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, paras 1606, 1629.

<sup>14269</sup> T. 1 September 2015 (CHAO Lang), E1/339.1, p. 61.

<sup>14270</sup> T. 1 September 2015 (CHAO Lang), E1/339.1, p. 62.

<sup>14271</sup> Section 11.2: 1st January Dam Worksite, paras 1602-1603.

<sup>14272</sup> T. 1 September 2015 (NUON Narom), E1/339.1, p. 15.

<sup>14273</sup> See e.g., T. 1 September 2015 (NUON Narom), E1/339.1, pp. 15, 30, 32; T. 1 September 2015 (CHAO Lang), E1/339.1, p. 63. See also, Section 11.2.15: 1st January Dam Worksite: Arrests and Disappearances; Section 11.2.16: 1st January Dam Worksite: Killings at Baray Choan Dek Pagoda; Section 11.2.19: 1st January Dam Worksite: Deaths Resulting from Working and Living Conditions.

further stated that all her “hopes and expectations disappeared”.<sup>14274</sup> Civil Party NUON Narom stated that she has felt very lonely since she lost many of her relatives during the regime. She explained that she has “no goal in [...] life after the regime”.<sup>14275</sup>

4445. Civil Parties similarly suffered while working at the Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site as they became thin and fell ill as a result of the working and living conditions.<sup>14276</sup> Civil Parties explained that many women did not menstruate regularly due to the heavy nature of the tasks they had to perform at the Worksite.<sup>14277</sup> Civil Party KONG Siek explained that the effects of the hard work she had to perform continue to persist today: “I am still suffering from that overwork. My chest and waist have been in pain. I am on regular medication, such as high blood pressure and blood vessel, that’s why I can live until today.”<sup>14278</sup>

4446. Civil Parties suffered psychological trauma and physical injury also at different security centres created during the DK period. Civil Party SORY Sen was cruelly exploited at the Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, where he had to perform vile tasks such as carrying faeces from detention buildings and digging pits into which human corpses were placed.<sup>14279</sup> He suffers to this day from these experiences, and has nightmares that he continues to be detained at Kraing Ta Chan.<sup>14280</sup> Furthermore, the metal shackles used at the security centre to cuff the Civil Party caused him injury to the ankles, which often got infected and whose scars are still visible today.<sup>14281</sup> Civil Party KUL Nem described his constant fear and the psychological pain and anger he felt during his time at K-11, one of the offices constituting the Phnom Kraol Security Centre.<sup>14282</sup> He described the hard working conditions he had to endure, including rice threshing and transplantation duties, as the cause of his hardship during and after his

<sup>14274</sup> T. 1 September 2015 (CHAO Lang), E1/339.1, p. 63.

<sup>14275</sup> T. 1 September 2015 (NUON Narom), E1/339.1, p. 21.

<sup>14276</sup> See e.g., T. 17 June 2015 (KONG Siek), E1/318.1, p. 44 (“We were rather bony, and the only big thing that you could see was the head and the two knees -- kneecaps.”); T. 24 June 2015 (CHUM Samoeurn), E1/321.1, pp. 62-63. See also, Section 11.3: Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, paras 1739, 1745-1758.

<sup>14277</sup> See e.g., T. 17 June 2015 (KONG Siek), E1/318.1, pp. 40-42; T. 24 June 2015 (CHUM Samoeurn), E1/321.1, p. 87 (explaining that she suffered from abdominal pain and when her menstruation was interrupted she was accused of being pregnant, which affected her physically and emotionally).

<sup>14278</sup> T. 17 June 2015 (KONG Siek), E1/318.1, p. 92.

<sup>14279</sup> T. 4 February 2015 (SORY Sen), E1/256.1, pp. 45, 49; T. 6 February 2015 (SORY Sen), E1/258.1, p. 17. See also, Section 12.3: Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre, paras 2677-2679.

<sup>14280</sup> T. 4 February 2015 (SORY Sen), E1/256.1, pp. 66-67.

<sup>14281</sup> T. 4 February 2015 (SORY Sen), E1/256.1, p. 88.

<sup>14282</sup> T. 24 October 2016 (KUL Nem), E1/488.1, pp. 91-93, 101. See also, Section 12.5: Phnom Kraol Security Centre, para. 3095.

detention.<sup>14283</sup> The Civil Party told the Chamber that the exhaustion, which was “the result of overwork”, remained until after the fall of the DK regime and that he suspected this was also the cause of his wife’s miscarriages as she suffered the same appalling working and living conditions.<sup>14284</sup> The fact that he could not have children was a painful experience for KUL Nem, who explained that at the time he was angry about this, but he had to keep it to himself.<sup>14285</sup>

4447. The few survivors of S-21 described the physical and moral suffering, trauma and loss of dignity they experienced at the Security Centre. Civil Party CHUM Mey was interrogated about his links with the CIA and KGB and beaten up for 12 days and nights, as a result of which his back was swollen.<sup>14286</sup> He was electrocuted twice until he lost consciousness.<sup>14287</sup> As a result of this treatment he suffered permanent harm in the form of partial loss of sight and hearing.<sup>14288</sup> While being tortured, two of his toenails were removed which caused him pain so intense that he “almost passed out”.<sup>14289</sup> CHUM Mey also described the humiliation he experienced when the interrogator Seng sat on his head and when he had to lick his excrements as they spilled out of the container into which prisoners had to relieve themselves.<sup>14290</sup> He described his detention as follows: “The situation was so miserable. I thought that I was being treated worse than a human being, I was treated like an animal, like a dog. A dog would be given steamed rice to eat, but for me, I was given only watery gruel.”<sup>14291</sup> CHUM Mey also described the anguish and suffering he experienced at not knowing about his fate while at S-21.<sup>14292</sup> The Civil Party was separated from his pregnant wife when he was taken to S-21 and was concerned as he could not take care of her.<sup>14293</sup>

<sup>14283</sup> T. 24 October 2016 (KUL Nem), E1/488.1, pp. 89, 90-91, 95. See also, Section 12.5: Phnom Kraol Security Centre, para. 3104.

<sup>14284</sup> T. 24 October 2016 (KUL Nem), E1/488.1, pp. 93-94, 106, 113-114.

<sup>14285</sup> T. 24 October 2016 (KUL Nem), E1/488.1, pp. 92-94.

<sup>14286</sup> T. 18 April 2016 (CHUM Mey), E1/417.1, p. 27; T. 19 April 2016 (CHUM Mey), E1/418.1, pp. 47-48.

<sup>14287</sup> T. 18 April 2016 (CHUM Mey), E1/417.1, p. 30. See also, Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, paras 2387-2388, 2395-2396.

<sup>14288</sup> T. 18 April 2016 (CHUM Mey), E1/417.1, p. 30.

<sup>14289</sup> T. 18 April 2016 (CHUM Mey), E1/417.1, p. 49; T. 19 April 2016 (CHUM Mey), E1/418.1, p. 47.

<sup>14290</sup> T. 18 April 2016 (CHUM Mey), E1/417.1, pp. 48-49; T. 19 April 2016 (CHUM Mey), E1/418.1, p. 48.

<sup>14291</sup> T. 19 April 2016 (CHUM Mey), E1/418.1, p. 48.

<sup>14292</sup> T. 18 April 2016 (CHUM Mey), E1/417.1, pp. 43, 46.

<sup>14293</sup> T. 18 April 2016 (CHUM Mey), E1/417.1, pp. 42-43.

4448. Many Civil Parties described the suffering connected with the execution of their relatives at S-21.<sup>14294</sup> The loss of family members created long-term emotional suffering, loneliness and material deprivation to those who survived the DK period.<sup>14295</sup> Civil Party KAU Sunthara explained her shock at the sight of the pictures of her brother and sister-in-law at S-21 after the regime fell.<sup>14296</sup> Civil Party CHE Heap explained the suffering caused by the arrest of his brother CHE Heng from Division 310 and his subsequent execution at S-21.<sup>14297</sup> Civil Party CHAU Kim described the desperate search to find out the truth about the death of her brother CHAU Seng, an intellectual who had returned from France to join the revolution and was subsequently killed at S-21.<sup>14298</sup> She also described the immense loss inflicted on Cambodian society by the killings of many intellectuals during the DK regime.<sup>14299</sup>

4449. Civil Parties affected by the treatment of the Vietnamese described the harm they suffered as a consequence of the targeting and separation of their families.<sup>14300</sup> Some Civil Parties described being isolated as others living in the villages did not want to be associated with people of Vietnamese origin.<sup>14301</sup> Many were affected by the arrest and killing of family members and other individuals living in their communities, and feared they would sooner or later also be taken away.<sup>14302</sup> Civil Party SIENG Chanthy stated that she wept when her elder brother was accused of being lazy because he could <sup>14294</sup> See e.g., T. 15 August 2016 (CHAU Kim), E1/457.1, p. 71; T. 11 August 2016 (CHHAE Heap), E1/455.1, pp. 19-20 (“And when I saw the photo of my brother, I wept for the whole day because I felt pity for him. They mistreated him before they killed him because in the photo he looked very thin. Back then, when I saw him during my visit, he was in good health. He looked healthy. I burst into tears when I saw that photo, and I heard that he was detained there.”).

<sup>14295</sup> See e.g., T. 15 August 2016 (KAU Sunthara), E1/457.1, pp. 53 (“I have felt suffered until nowadays.”), 58 (“Whenever I feel sick, no one take care of me and I always remembered that damned regime that makes me lonely nowadays.”), 66; T. 15 August 2016 (CHAU Kim), E1/457.1, p. 71 (“For me and the family, the great loss of my older brother, Chau Seng, as well as my father, means the loss of core people in my family [...] We became poor. We lost our hope. We lost our future and we did not have someone be in charge of our family.”).

<sup>14296</sup> T. 15 August 2016 (KAU Sunthara), E1/457.1, p. 53.

<sup>14297</sup> T. 11 August 2016 (CHHAE Heap), E1/455.1, pp. 29-31.

<sup>14298</sup> T. 15 August 2016 (CHAU Kim), E1/457.1, pp. 71-74 (“I try to seek the truth everywhere.”). See also, Section 12.2: S-21 Security Centre, para. 2318.

<sup>14299</sup> T. 15 August 2016 (CHAU Kim), E1/457.1, pp. 72 (“As for the nation, the loss of Chau Seng is the loss of an intellectual who loved the nation and who was an elite, a progressive person, who participated actively in the building of society during the Sangkum Reastr Niyum from 1956 to 1968.”), 77.

<sup>14300</sup> See e.g., T. 1 March 2016 (UCH Sunlay), E1/394.1, pp. 92-94, 101-104 (describing the separation from his Vietnamese wife and three children, who were subsequently killed); T. 1 March 2016 (KHOUY Muoy), E1/394.1, pp. 46-49, 54-55. See also, Section 10.1: Tram Kak Cooperatives, para. 1125; Section 13.3.7.1: Treatment of the Vietnamese, paras 3433-3436.

<sup>14301</sup> See e.g., T. 29 February 2016 (SIENG Chanthy), E1/393.1, pp. 99-100; T. 1 March 2016 (SIENG Chanthy), E1/394.1, p. 6 (explaining that she had to work and eat alone).

<sup>14302</sup> See e.g., T. 29 February 2016 (SIENG Chanthy), E1/393.1, p. 100; T. 1 March 2016 (SIENG Chanthy), E1/394.1, p. 9; T. 1 March 2016 (UCH Sunlay), E1/394.1, pp. 103-104.

not work due to illness and was taken away to be killed.<sup>14303</sup> The memory of this event still haunts her today.<sup>14304</sup> She also explained that even after the liberation she observed that her mother “was in a lost state of mind, that she was by herself without knowing what she was doing”.<sup>14305</sup> Civil Party UCH Sunlay described how he felt after learning that his Vietnamese wife and children had been killed. He and others who lost relatives were told by the cooperative chief that they “had fulfilled a great task for the Angkar” as they got “rid of this piece of rotten flesh”.<sup>14306</sup> The Civil Party stated that “all this suffering and harms cannot be forgotten. Despite some 30-40 years has passed, and my tears have kept flowing for months and years, I still think of them and miss them.”<sup>14307</sup> UCH Sunlay also explained that his suffering was so intense that it “was like people was cutting and removing my internal organs”.<sup>14308</sup> The loss of family members left many Civil Parties in a situation of poverty.<sup>14309</sup> Civil Party CHOEUNG Yaing explained that after the killing of his parents, who were of Vietnamese ethnicity, he fled Cambodia to go to Vietnam and only returned to Cambodia in 1982. At that time he did not have any documentation showing his ties to the country because “[w]hen I left Cambodia, I had nothing at all, because everything was burnt -- that is, my house was burnt. I only had a pair of clothes that I was wearing at the time.”<sup>14310</sup>

4450. Being forced to abandon their religion and religious traditions inflicted profound emotional trauma on Cham Civil Parties.<sup>14311</sup> Civil Party MEU Peou explained that Cham had to abandon their religion, eat pork, cut their hair short and not speak the Cham language. This caused them to lose their identities, as they “had nothing to hang onto during the regime”.<sup>14312</sup> Civil Party HIM Man stated that he and other Cham were forced to eat pork at gun point and that some of them “were weeping while

<sup>14303</sup> T. 1 March 2016 (SIENG Chanthy), E1/394.1, pp. 10-11, 27.

<sup>14304</sup> T. 29 February 2016 (SIENG Chanthy), E1/393.1, p. 100; T. 1 March 2016 (SIENG Chanthy), E1/394.1, pp. 7-8.

<sup>14305</sup> T. 1 March 2016 (SIENG Chanthy), E1/394.1, p. 12.

<sup>14306</sup> T. 1 March 2016 (UCH Sunlay), E1/394.1, p. 94.

<sup>14307</sup> T. 1 March 2016 (UCH Sunlay), E1/394.1, p. 95.

<sup>14308</sup> T. 2 March 2016 (UCH Sunlay), E1/395.1, p. 6.

<sup>14309</sup> See e.g., T. 7 December 2015 (CHOEUNG Yaing Chaet), E1/363.1, p. 72 (“at that time I had nothing. I had no rice, I had no money. So I got on a boat with other people, and I helped them row the boat to make our ways back home.”); T. 8 December 2015 (CHOEUNG Yaing Chaet), E1/364.1, pp. 13, 47; T. 1 March 2016 (KHOUY Muoy), E1/394.1, p. 63.

<sup>14310</sup> T. 7 December 2015 (CHOEUNG Yaing Chaet), E1/363.1, pp. 72, 79.

<sup>14311</sup> See e.g., T. 29 February 2016 (MEU Peou), E1/393.1, pp. 7-9; T. 17 September 2015 (HIM Man), E1/349.1, p. 41. See also, Section 13.2: Treatment of the Cham, paras 3238, 3245, 3250.

<sup>14312</sup> T. 29 February 2016 (MEU Peou), E1/393.1, pp. 7-9.

they were eating pork”.<sup>14313</sup> Cham Civil Parties also experienced long-term suffering due to the separation of families and the loss of family members.<sup>14314</sup> Civil Party MEU Peou described the suffering he endured as a young boy during the DK period, when he had to separate from his family, had to work without receiving enough food and without proper accommodation.<sup>14315</sup> Civil Party HIM Man explained that he was left without hope for the future as a result of the suffering he endured during the DK period and the loss of many relatives: “I do not have any hope in my life. At the moment, I do not have any hope for my future.”<sup>14316</sup>

4451. Amongst the Civil Parties admitted in Case 002, there were also a significant number of persons who described their experiences when forced to marry and consummate the marriage. Many Civil Parties reported being afraid and stressed when they were required to get married.<sup>14317</sup> Civil Party SAY Naroen explained that she suffered deeply because she was to be married without her parents knowing about the wedding and having an opportunity to attend.<sup>14318</sup> The Civil Party also stated that she and others “were paired up like the way they pair up cattle”.<sup>14319</sup> Civil Party KUL Nem explained that he was worried and sad when he was told that his marriage would be arranged, as he had a fiancée in his village.<sup>14320</sup> Despite this, he agreed to the arrangement of marriage “in order to survive so that I could see the open sky again and see what happened to the country”.<sup>14321</sup> Other Civil Parties described their difficult emotions at having to remarry without their consent while still grieving the loss of their partners. Civil Party NGET Chat was forced to remarry after her husband was taken

<sup>14313</sup> T. 17 September 2015 (HIM Man), E1/349.1, p. 41; T. 28 September 2015 (HIM Man), E1/350.1, p. 15.

<sup>14314</sup> See e.g., T. 28 September 2015 (HIM Man), E1/350.1, p. 43 (“At present, I am still suffering from what happened during the regime. I lost all my hope since I lost many blood relatives and distant relatives”). See also, Section 13.2.9.1.2: Treatment of the Cham: Detention and killing of Cham at Trea Village Security Centre; Section 13.2.9.2.2: Treatment of the Cham: Killing of Cham at Wat Au Trakuon.

<sup>14315</sup> T. 29 February 2016 (MEU Peou), E1/393.1, pp. 6-7.

<sup>14316</sup> T. 28 September 2015 (HIM Man), E1/350.1, p. 43.

<sup>14317</sup> See e.g., T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroen), E1/489.1, p. 37 (explaining that when she realised she was about to get married, her body was trembling and cold because she was afraid); T. 25 October 2016 (NGET Chat), E1/489.1, p. 6 (stating that when she was sent to get married her body was shaking and her heart was racing). See also, Section 14: Regulation of Marriage, paras 3633-3635, 3638-3640.

<sup>14318</sup> T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroen), E1/489.1, pp. 37-38, 42.

<sup>14319</sup> T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroen), E1/489.1, p. 38.

<sup>14320</sup> T. 24 October 2016 (KUL Nem), E1/488.1, p. 89.

<sup>14321</sup> T. 24 October 2016 (KUL Nem), E1/488.1, p. 89.

away. She explained that she was still weeping for the loss of her husband at the time she was sent to remarry.<sup>14322</sup>

4452. Forced sexual intercourse in the context of forced marriage had serious traumatising effects on the Civil Parties, some of whom consummated the marriage out of fear, when they realised they were monitored.<sup>14323</sup> Civil Parties were told that Angkar wanted them to produce as many children as possible.<sup>14324</sup> For Civil Party SAY Naroen that was incredibly painful because “as a Khmer woman, nothing is more important than our body”.<sup>14325</sup> The Civil Party got pregnant as a result of the sexual intercourse but was still required to work and was not given enough food, as a result of which she became very skinny.<sup>14326</sup> SAY Naroen subsequently lost the baby because she got malaria and did not have any medications. She explained: “Though I did not plan to have a baby, as a mother, I loved the child. But at the end, I did not see his/her face even one bit. And this is the things that made me really suffered and I cannot forget about it.”<sup>14327</sup> These experiences inflicted long-lasting harm in the Civil Parties. Civil Party KUL Nem explained that he felt he had dishonoured his fiancée by marrying another woman, and this unsettling feeling remained with him until the present day.<sup>14328</sup> Civil Party NGET Chat stated “I endured the pain the most. I told my children that it was a great misery, and it stays inside me.”<sup>14329</sup>

4453. The Chamber recalls expert evidence heard in Case 002/01 that the suffering inflicted on the Civil Parties as a result of the crimes committed by the Accused has contributed to the symptoms of long-term psychological damage reported by a great number of them.<sup>14330</sup> Expert CHHIM Sotheara explained that in many cases, the experiences of victims of the Khmer Rouge caused lasting trauma, with symptoms such

<sup>14322</sup> T. 24 October 2016 (NGET Chat), E1/488.1, pp. 123, 125; T. 25 October 2016 (NGET Chat), E1/489.1, p. 8.

<sup>14323</sup> See e.g., T. 24 October 2016 (KUL Nem), E1/488.1, p. 100; T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroen), E1/489.1, pp. 39-40. See also, Section 14: Regulation of Marriage, paras 3641, 3644, 3646-3647.

<sup>14324</sup> See e.g., T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroen), E1/489.1, pp. 40-41; T. 25 October 2016 (NGET Chat), E1/489.1, pp. 11-12.

<sup>14325</sup> T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroen), E1/489.1, p. 40.

<sup>14326</sup> T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroen), E1/489.1, p. 50.

<sup>14327</sup> T. 25 October 2016 (SAY Naroen), E1/489.1, p. 43.

<sup>14328</sup> T. 24 October 2016 (KUL Nem), E1/488.1, p. 90.

<sup>14329</sup> T. 25 October 2016 (NGET Chat), E1/489.1, p. 8.

<sup>14330</sup> See e.g., T. 5 June 2013 (CHHIM Sotheara), E1/201.1, p. 83 (discussing the psychological impact of losing loved ones); T. 5 June 2013 (CHHIM Sotheara), E1/201.1, pp. 93-94 (discussing the psychological effects of relocation); T. 5 June 2013 (CHHIM Sotheara), E1/201.1, pp. 95-96 (discussing the psychological impact of witnessing traumatic events); T. 5 June 2013 (CHHIM Sotheara), E1/201.1, p. 98 (discussing the psychological effects of hunger).

as nightmares, post-traumatic stress disorder, depression, anxiety and paranoia.<sup>14331</sup> Post-traumatic stress disorder can manifest itself through vivid recollections of past events; a reluctance to discuss or revisit the past; physical trembling; and insomnia.<sup>14332</sup> The Chamber finds that, as a consequence of the crimes of which the Accused have been convicted in Case 002/02, the Civil Parties and a very large number of additional victims have suffered immeasurable harm, which includes physical suffering, economic loss, loss of dignity, psychological trauma and grief arising from the loss of family members or close relations.

21.5. Assessment of all Awards sought by the Lead Co-Lawyers

21.5.1. Projects Aimed at Guaranteeing Non-Repetition: Projects 1, 2 and 3

4454. The Chamber finds that projects 1, 2 and 3, which concern forms of education aimed at guaranteeing non-repetition, comply with the requirements of Internal Rule 23*quinquies* and are of a collective and moral nature. As this Chamber held previously, public education regarding the suffering of victims and the nature of the DK regime is likely to advance the goals of acknowledgment, remembrance, awareness of the crimes committed and the suffering resulting therefrom.<sup>14333</sup> The Chamber finds that by providing education on CPK history and Civil Parties' experiences, these projects acknowledge the harm suffered by the Civil Parties. Furthermore, the Chamber agrees with the Lead Co-Lawyers that intergenerational dialogue, both directly by creating appropriate spaces for interaction and indirectly through digital media as well as artistic projects, is an important way of educating the younger generation about the past in order to prevent the repetition of Civil Parties' and other DK survivors' experiences.<sup>14334</sup> The Chamber finds that by educating the younger generation with a view to preventing the recurrence of crimes in Cambodia these initiatives provide benefits to the Civil Parties which address their harm.

4455. With respect to projects 1 and 2, which provide historical accounts of the DK regime, the Chamber recalls that the determination of the facts and the criminal

<sup>14331</sup> T. 5 June 2013 (CHHIM Sothea), E1/201.1, pp. 68-69.

<sup>14332</sup> T. 5 June 2013 (CHHIM Sothea), E1/201.1, p. 70.

<sup>14333</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1156.

<sup>14334</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers' Final Claim for Reparation in Case 002/02 with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/1, 30 May 2017, para. 15.

responsibility of the Accused are the sole prerogative of the ECCC and depend upon an assessment of witnesses' and Civil Parties' credibility.<sup>14335</sup> It is therefore appropriate to add a disclaimer to the web-based learning application on DK history and to the curriculum developed for the teacher and university lecturer training and workshops, respectively, and the Chamber so directs.<sup>14336</sup>

4456. The Chamber notes that funding for the realisation of these projects was previously secured and that their implementation has been completed.<sup>14337</sup> The Chamber consequently endorses projects 1, 2 and 3.

21.5.2. *Projects Aimed at Guaranteeing Non-Repetition Benefitting Specific Groups of Civil Parties and Victims: Projects 4, 5, 6 and 12

4457. Projects 4, 5 and 6 also concern forms of education aimed at guaranteeing non-repetition, promoting intergenerational dialogue through the arts and providing documentation of Civil Parties' experiences. The only difference between these and the projects discussed in the previous section is that these projects are tailored to benefit specific groups of Civil Parties and other victims, including persons affected by the treatment of the Cham, the treatment of the Vietnamese, and the regulation of marriage. The projects acknowledge the harm suffered by these groups of Civil Parties through the documentation of their experiences. By raising awareness about their treatment and promoting non-discrimination in order to prevent the recurrence of crimes targeting these groups, the projects provide benefits to Civil Parties which address their harm. The Chamber finds that these projects comprise collective and moral reparations within the scope of the ECCC legal framework and satisfy the other requirements of Internal Rule 23*quinquies*.

<sup>14335</sup> Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1157.

<sup>14336</sup> The Chamber considers the inclusion of a disclaimer such as the following one to be appropriate: "The content of this reparation project was developed on the basis of information gathered by research experts, teachers, scholars and archivists. The determination of the guilt or innocence of the Accused NUON Chea and KHIEU Samphan as reflected in the Trial Chamber Judgement and, if appropriate, confirmed or amended by the Supreme Court Chamber, is the sole legally binding account of the events relayed in this project." See also, Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1157 (fn. 3296).

<sup>14337</sup> Annex 1, App-Learning on Khmer Rouge History, E457/6/2/1.1.1, 30 May 2017; Annex 2, Khmer Rouge History Education through Teacher and University Lecturer Training Workshops, E457/6/2/1.1.2, 30 May 2017; Annex 3, The Turtle Project: Innovative Cross Media Project, Promoting Historical Awareness and Civil Courage in Cambodia, E457/6/2/1.1.3, 30 May 2017.

4458. The Chamber notes that project 12 seeks to address the harm caused to Civil Parties affected by the treatment of the Vietnamese by the loss of their legal status and the lack of access to basic social, economic and political rights resulting from their targeting during the DK period.<sup>14338</sup> In the project description, it is indicated that “[o]verall, clients’ statements and additional interview records establish that the crimes they were subjected to, caused, in part, their present-day harm in that, during the various occasions in which they were forcibly relocated by the Khmer Rouge in 1975, victims were forced to leave behind, destroy or otherwise lost, important documentation demonstrating their ties to Cambodia”.<sup>14339</sup>

4459. The Chamber has determined that Civil Parties affected by the treatment of the Vietnamese suffered harm including psychological trauma, discrimination, material deprivation and, importantly in this context, the loss of legal status due to the loss of documentation showing their ties to Cambodia, as a result of the crimes related to the treatment of which they were victims during the DK period.<sup>14340</sup> The Chamber finds that by providing legal and civic education to allow Civil Parties to better understand their legal status according to Cambodian law, the specific reparation measures proposed under project 12 acknowledge the harm suffered by these Civil Parties and provide benefits to them which address this harm. It also finds that these measures constitute collective and moral reparations within the scope of the ECCC legal framework.

4460. The Chamber notes that funding for the realisation of these projects was previously secured and that their implementation has been completed.<sup>14341</sup> The Chamber consequently endorses projects 4, 5, 6 and 12.

<sup>14338</sup> Annex 12: Legal and Civic Education for Minority Civil Parties, E457/6/2/1.1.12, 30 May 2017, ERN (En) 01486311.

<sup>14339</sup> Annex 12: Legal and Civic Education for Minority Civil Parties, E457/6/2/1.1.12, 30 May 2017, p. 5 (original emphasis), ERN (En) 01486310.

<sup>14340</sup> See above, para. 4449. See also, Section 13.3: Treatment of the Vietnamese, paras 3503-3507, 3509-3513, 3515-3519.

<sup>14341</sup> Annex 4: Community Media Project: The Cham People and the Khmer Rouge, E457/6/2/1.1.4, 30 May 2017; Annex 5: Phka Sla Kraom Angkar, E457/6/2/1.1.5, 30 May 2017; Annex 6: Voices from Ethnic Minorities: Promoting public awareness about the treatment of ethnic Vietnamese and Cham living in Cambodia during the Khmer Rouge regime, E457/6/2/1.1.6, 30 May 2017; Annex 12: Legal and Civic Education for Minority Civil Parties, E457/6/2/1.1.12, 30 May 2017.

21.5.3. *Projects Aimed at Providing Satisfaction: Projects 7, 8, 9 and 10

4461. Projects 7, 8, 9 and 10 provide measures of satisfaction, which the Chamber has previously acknowledged as a means of reparation.<sup>14342</sup> The Chamber recalls that satisfaction may include remedies such as an official declaration or a judicial decision restoring the dignity, the reputation and the rights of the victim, a public apology, including acknowledgement of the facts and acceptance of responsibility, and commemorations and tributes to the victims.<sup>14343</sup> The Chamber agrees with the Lead Co-Lawyers that satisfaction as reparation includes “the verification of facts and full and public disclosure of the truth, commemorations and tributes to victims, and the inclusion of an accurate account of violations that occurred in educational materials at all levels”.<sup>14344</sup> The Chamber has previously observed that other international bodies have characterised as reparation comparable official acknowledgements of suffering of considerable symbolic significance for victims and finds that the proposed projects constitute appropriate measures of satisfaction.<sup>14345</sup> By making Civil Parties’ accounts accessible to the public, all four initiatives acknowledge the Civil Parties’ harm. Further, these projects provide benefits to the Civil Parties in that they commemorate their experiences and ensure that their suffering is not forgotten. The Chamber is satisfied that these measures constitute collective and moral reparations and comply with the requirements of Internal Rule 23quinquies.

4462. In light of the above and considering that funding for the implementation of these projects has been secured, the Chamber endorses projects 7, 8, 9 and 10.

21.5.4. *Projects Serving Rehabilitation: Projects 11 and 13

4463. The Chamber finds that project 11, which focuses on providing Civil Parties with access to mental health services, complies with the requirements of Internal Rule 23quinquies and is of a collective and moral nature. Through a range of measures including truth-telling community dialogues, memory initiatives/forum theatre, and

<sup>14342</sup> Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 668, fn. 1153; Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1158.

<sup>14343</sup> UN Basic Principles and Guidelines on the Right to a Remedy and Reparation, Article 22; Committee against Torture, General Comment No. 3, para. 16.

<sup>14344</sup> Civil Party Lead Co-Lawyers’ Final Claim for Reparation in Case 002/02 with Confidential Annexes, E457/6/2/1, 30 May 2017, para. 36; UN Basic Principles and Guidelines on the Right to a Remedy and Reparation, Article 22.

<sup>14345</sup> Case 001 Trial Judgement, para. 667.

youth outreach activities the project acknowledges the harm suffered as a result of the crimes in Case 002/02, and provides benefits to the Civil Parties as it is likely to aid healing by facilitating access to counselling and mental health services. The Supreme Court Chamber has previously acknowledged that providing psychological care constitutes an appropriate form of reparation.<sup>14346</sup> The Chamber also notes that funding for the implementation of this project has been secured and that the partners to this project have all expressed their willingness to assist in its realisation. Consequently, the Chamber endorses project 11.

4464. In relation to project 13, the Chamber finds that, through the creation of revolving funds aimed at increasing income security of OPA's members, the project effectively seeks to provide benefits to the Civil Parties in the form of individual, monetary payments. The project aims at redressing the loss of standard of living and of financial security caused to spouses and dependants by the death of their relatives during the Khmer Rouge regime. While recognising the importance of such efforts, the Chamber recalls that these fall outside the scope of Internal Rule 23*quinqüies*(1) which provides that the Chamber may only award collective and moral reparations. As noted above, the Supreme Court Chamber has interpreted the term "moral" to mean repairing moral damages rather than material ones.<sup>14347</sup>

4465. With regard to the other aspects of project 13, seeking to provide mental and physical care to Civil Parties,<sup>14348</sup> the Chamber finds that these activities comply with the requirements of Internal Rule 23*quinqüies*(1) in that they acknowledge the harm suffered by Civil Parties, provide benefits which address this harm, and are of a collective and moral nature. Further, funding for the implementation of these project activities has been secured and the partners have all expressed their willingness to assist in their realisation. In light of this, while the Chamber does not endorse the specific component of project 13 related to livelihood support, it endorses the healthcare component of this project.

---

<sup>14346</sup> Case 001 Appeal Judgement, paras 700-701. See also, UN Basic Principles and Guidelines on the Right to a Remedy and Reparation, Article 21.

<sup>14347</sup> Case 001 Appeal Judgement, para. 658.

<sup>14348</sup> Such project activities include the creation of mobile health camps to provide basic primary healthcare and check-ups to ageing Civil Parties, as well as providing mental health education and training at the community level. See above, para. 4432.

21.5.5. Project Not Endorsed by the Chamber: Project 15

4466. Through the direct involvement of 35 indigenous Civil Parties in intergenerational dialogue and exchange of knowledge activities, project 15 seeks to acknowledge the suffering experienced by indigenous minorities in Ratanakiri and Mondulakiri provinces as a consequence of their denigration, discrimination and persecution.<sup>14349</sup> The Chamber acknowledges that indigenous Civil Parties, as the wider population of Cambodia, have suffered greatly during the DK regime and that some members of indigenous communities were among the victims of the crimes of which the Accused have been convicted, in particular political persecution when they were considered real or perceived enemies. However, Internal Rule 23*quinqüies*(1) requires reparation measures to acknowledge the harm suffered as a result of the commission of the crimes of which the Accused are convicted. In this regard, the Chamber recalls that Case 002/02 does not include charges specifically related to the targeting, discrimination or persecution of indigenous minorities living in Ratanakiri and Mondulakiri provinces.<sup>14350</sup> While recognising the value of the project as such, the Chamber finds that it does not meet the requirements of Internal Rule 23*quinqüies*(1) and therefore declines to endorse it.

4467. As stated in Case 002/01, the Chamber generally welcomes any initiative that offers support to the victims, keeps their memory alive, acknowledges their suffering and awakens public awareness to avoid repetition of acts such as those that occurred. The Chamber also wishes to remind donors that they have the option to support measures that have not been specifically endorsed in this Judgement.<sup>14351</sup>

---

<sup>14349</sup> Annex B: Cambodia's Indigenous People and Pol Pot, E457/6/2/4.3, 30 November 2017, ERN (En) 01547869 (the Short Project Summary explains that "[t]hrough history, Cambodia's indigenous minorities have endured denigration, discrimination, and persecution. In the 1960's, the Khmer Rouge (KR) had exploited growing resentment of the government in order to build a revolutionary base in Ratanakiri, Mondulakiri, Stung Treng, and Kratie.").

<sup>14350</sup> The only charges related to the targeting of specific groups are brought in respect of the treatment of Vietnamese and Cham people. See Section 1: Introduction, para. 16; Section 2: Preliminary Issues, paras 184-185 (clarifying that evidence of the alleged persecution of Khmer Krom as a targeted group falls outside the scope of Case 002/02, and therefore the Chamber does not consider itself properly seized of the targeting of Khmer Krom either as a specific group or as sub-group of the Vietnamese).

<sup>14351</sup> Internal Rule 12*bis*(4); Case 002/01 Trial Judgement, para. 1164.

22. DISPOSITION

FOR THE FOREGOING REASONS, having considered all the evidence and the submissions of the Parties the Trial Chamber decides as follows:

The Trial Chamber REJECTS the requests made by the KHIEU Samphan Defence to limit the scope of the trial in Case 002/02.

The Trial Chamber RECHARACTERISES the crime against humanity of extermination to the crime against humanity of murder, including with dolus eventualis, regarding deaths that occurred due to the conditions and circumstances imposed to the victims at the following crime sites: Tram Kak Cooperatives, 1st January Dam Worksite, Trapeang Thma Dam Worksite, Kampong Chhnang Airfield Construction Site, S-21 Security Centre, Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre and Phnom Kraol Security Centre.

The Trial Chamber finds the Accused NUON Chea to be GUILTY of having committed within the territory of Cambodia between 17 April 1975 and 6 January 1979, through his acts and omissions, the following crimes:

- PURSUANT TO Articles 5 and 29 (new) of the ECCC Law, the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, deportation, enslavement, imprisonment, torture, persecution on political, religious and racial grounds, and the other inhumane acts through attacks against human dignity and conduct characterised as enforced disappearances, forced transfer, forced marriage and rape in the context of forced marriage.
- PURSUANT TO Articles 6 and 29 (new) of the ECCC Law, grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions, namely wilful killing, torture, inhuman treatment, wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health, wilfully depriving a prisoner of war or civilian the rights of fair and regular trial and unlawful confinement of a civilian.
- PURSUANT TO Articles 4 and 29 (new) of the ECCC Law, genocide by killing members of the Vietnamese and Cham groups.

The Trial Chamber finds the Accused KHIEU Samphan to be GUILTY of having committed within the territory of Cambodia between 17 April 1975 and 6 January 1979, through his acts and omissions, the following crimes:

- PURSUANT TO Articles 5 and 29 (new) of the ECCC Law, the crimes against humanity of murder, extermination, deportation, enslavement, imprisonment, torture, persecution on political, religious and racial grounds, and the other inhumane acts through attacks against human dignity and conduct characterised as enforced disappearances, forced transfer, forced marriage and rape in context of forced marriage.
- PURSUANT TO Articles 6 and 29 (new) of the ECCC Law, grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions, namely wilful killing, torture, inhuman treatment, wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health, wilfully depriving a prisoner of war or civilian the rights of fair and regular trial and unlawful confinement of a civilian.
- PURSUANT TO Articles 4 and 29 (new) of the ECCC Law, genocide by killing members of the Vietnamese group.

The Trial Chamber finds the Accused NUON Chea and KHIEU Samphan to be NOT GUILTY of the remaining crimes within the scope of Case 002/02. Therefore, the Chamber ACQUITS both Accused of these crimes.

The Chamber has considered the gravity of the crimes, including their scale and brutality as well as the number and vulnerability of victims, for which the Accused have been convicted, as well as relevant aggravating and mitigating circumstances.

PURSUANT TO Article 39 (new) of the ECCC Law, the Chamber sentences the Accused, NUON Chea to LIFE IMPRISONMENT. Taking into consideration the life sentence imposed on NUON Chea in Case 002/01, the Chamber merges the two sentences into a single term of life imprisonment.

PURSUANT TO Article 39 (new) of the ECCC Law, the Chamber sentences the Accused, KHIEU Samphan, to LIFE IMPRISONMENT. Taking into consideration the life sentence imposed on KHIEU Samphan in Case 002/01, the Chamber merges the two sentences into a single term of life imprisonment.

DECLARING the consolidated group of Civil Parties, individually listed in Annex 2, to have suffered harm as a result of the commission of the crimes for which NUON Chea and KHIEU Samphan have been convicted, and pursuant to Internal Rule 23*quinq*ues (3) (b), the Chamber grants in part the Civil Party Lead Co Lawyers' requests for moral and collective reparations. As set out in detail in Section 21 of this Judgement, the Chamber endorses, as projects giving appropriate effect to the award sought and which may be implemented, 13 projects concerning remembrance of the victims and memorialisation of the suffering endured, therapy and psychological assistance to the victims, and documentation and education. The Chamber denies requests concerning two projects, one whole and one in part, which fail to satisfy the requirements of Internal Rule 23*quinq*ues (3) (b).

This Judgement is publicly pronounced in the main courtroom of the ECCC in Phnom Penh on 16 November 2018.

This Judgement is appealable by the Parties in accordance with the Internal Rules. In this regard, the Chamber CLARIFIES that, in accordance with Internal Rule 107 (4) and Article 8.5 of the Practice Direction on the Filing of Documents before the ECCC, the time limit for filing a notice of appeal, if any, will commence on the first calendar day following the day of service of the notification of the fully reasoned, written Judgement in Khmer and one of the other official languages of the ECCC as selected by each Party pursuant to Article 2.2 of the Practice Direction.

Judge YOU Ottara appends a separate opinion on genocide to the Judgement.

Done in Khmer, English and French.
Dated this 16th day of November 2018
At Phnom Penh
Cambodia

Greffiers

LIM Suy-Hong

Milan JOVANČEVIĆ

---

Judge NIL Nonn
Presiding

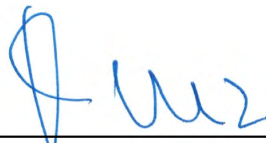

---

Judge Jean-Marc LAVERGNE

---

Judge YA Sokhan

---

Judge Claudia FENZ

---

Judge YOU Ottara

23. JUDGE YOU OTTARA'S SEPARATE OPINION ON GENOCIDE (PROLAI POUCH-SAS)

23.1. Introduction

4468. In relation to the crime of genocide (prolai pouch-sas in Khmer), this case focused exclusively on charges of genocide by killing Vietnamese and Cham.<sup>14352</sup> Yet the reasons for such a narrow focus have not been explained – adequately or at all. During the judicial investigation, for example, the Lead Co-Lawyers for the Civil Parties requested that broader genocide charges should be examined by an external expert, specifically in relation to the Khmer national group.<sup>14353</sup> The Co-Investigating Judges rejected this request. They stated that it was for them to “decide whether to characterise the facts as genocide when drafting the Closing Order”.<sup>14354</sup> Submissions were also made to the Co-Investigating Judges in relation to the Khmer Krom.<sup>14355</sup> The Closing Order merely notes such submissions.<sup>14356</sup> It does not explain the restrictive approach to genocide which the Co-Investigating Judges adopted.

4469. In my view, the resulting approach which the Trial Chamber has necessarily followed is much too narrow. It risks implying an overly formalistic, and entirely unrealistic, approach to the definition and identification of genocides. The ECCC could have considered, for example, whether persons who were targeted for destruction were essential to the survival of the Cambodian national group as it existed in 1975.<sup>14357</sup> It

---

<sup>14352</sup> Closing Order, paras 745-770, 776-790, 1336-1342 (in relation to Cham), paras 791-831, 1343-1349 (in relation to Vietnamese).

<sup>14353</sup> Sixth Investigative Request of Co-Lawyers for Civil Parties Concerning the Charge of Genocide Against the Khmer Nationals, D349, 4 February 2010, paras 3, 41-44.

<sup>14354</sup> Order on Civil Parties Request Concerning the Charge of Genocide Against the Khmer Nationals (OCIJ), D349/1, 24 February 2010, para. 4.

<sup>14355</sup> Civil Parties' Request for Supplementary Investigations Regarding Genocide of the Khmer Krom & the Vietnamese, D250/3, 3 December 2009.

<sup>14356</sup> Closing Order, fn. 5141.

<sup>14357</sup> UN Doc. A/53/850-S/1999/231, Annex (“Report of the Group of Experts for Cambodia Established Pursuant to General Assembly Resolution 52/135”, 18 February 1999), paras 64-65 (concluding as follows: “As for atrocities committed against the general Cambodian population, some commentators have asserted that the Khmer Rouge committed genocide against the Khmer national group, intending to destroy a part of it. The Khmer people of Cambodia do constitute a national group within the meaning of the Convention. However, whether the Khmer Rouge committed genocide with respect to part of the Khmer national group turns on complex interpretive issues, especially concerning the Khmer Rouge’s intent with respect to its non-minority-group victims. The Group does not take a position on this issue, but believes that any tribunal will have to address this question should Khmer Rouge officials be charged with genocide against the Khmer national group.”). The experts were: Ninian Stephen (Chair, Australia); Rajsoomer Lallah (Mauritius); and Steven R. Ratner (USA). I note that it appears that Mr. Ratner later might have been feasible and appropriate to distinguish between different parts of the Cambodian national group, which may have been targeted for myriad reasons – e.g. political, economic, social, cultural reasons, in the name of societal purification more broadly. This Separate Opinion explains why I think this would have been feasible.

4470. It is very well known that political groups and cultural genocide were deliberately omitted from the Genocide Convention. But there is nothing in either the plain language of the Convention, the travaux préparatoires, or in its overall purpose, which excludes from its scope the intentional destruction of a substantial part of a national group as such, provided that the requisite elements are met. Just because additional motivations probably existed, be they political, cultural or ideological, this should not have diverted the ECCC from a fuller assessment of the legal elements of the crime of genocide in the context of the Cambodian national group. This Separate Opinion sets out my views on the definition of genocide as a matter of legal interpretation. I have not reached any conclusions on the facts because these were not litigated before the Trial Chamber. Notwithstanding that major but necessary limitation, I consider the legal issue to be of such importance that I wish to set out my views.

23.2. The Application of the Genocide Convention by the ECCC

4471. Although the provisions in Article 2 of the Genocide Convention are well-known, it is helpful to set out the definition of genocide in full:

In the present Convention, genocide means any of the following acts committed with the intent to destroy, in whole or in part, a national, ethnical, racial or religious group, as such:

- (a) Killing members of the group;
- (b) Causing serious bodily or mental harm to members of the group;
- (c) Deliberately inflicting on the group conditions of life calculated to bring about its physical destruction in whole or in part; subscribed to a possibly different view, stating that although the Khmer people “clearly constitute a national group”, the facts suggested that the Khmer Rouge targeted their Khmer victims on economic, social, or political grounds, and not as members of the Khmer nation as such. See Steven R. Ratner and Jason S. Abrams, Accountability for Human Rights Atrocities in International Law: Beyond the Nuremberg Legacy (New York: Oxford University Press, 2nd Edition, 2001), pp. 286-287 (“the argument that the Khmer Rouge committed genocide with respect to the Khmer national group appears relatively weak in light of the facts.”).

---

- (d) Imposing measures intended to prevent births within the group;
- (e) Forcibly transferring children of the group to another group.

4472. This raises various points for interpretation, four of which I address in detail in this Opinion, namely: (a) the protected groups; (b) the meaning of “intent to destroy”; (c) the meaning of “in whole or in part”; and (d) the meaning of “as such”. I also consider related matters such as the term “auto-genocide” and whether groups may be defined in the absence of particular characteristics. It is the definition of genocide as set out in Article 2 of the Genocide Convention which is to be applied at the ECCC. Although another theory is sometimes developed to suggest that customary international law extends further than the specific provisions in the Genocide Convention, I do not consider that to merit analysis here because the focus of the ECCC is on the Convention.<sup>14358</sup>

4473. The application of Article 2 of the Genocide Convention before the ECCC has, however, caused some linguistic confusion. The English version of Article 4 of the Law on the Establishment of the ECCC uses a mistaken formulation when attempting to repeat Article 2 of the Genocide Convention. It specifies that acts of genocide “mean any acts committed with the intent to destroy, in whole or in part, a national ethnical, racial or religious group, such as [...]” This formulation differs from the language found in Article 2 of the Genocide Convention in two fundamental respects: (a) “as such” is changed to “such as”; and (b) “any of the following acts” is changed to “any acts”.

4474. On one view, these differences might alter both the particular mental element required by the Genocide Convention (i.e. “as such”) and open up the previously closed set of acts listed in Article 2. Such a view cannot be sustained. The better explanation is that the discrepancies between the Genocide Convention and Law on the Establishment of the ECCC, glaring though they are, result from basic mistranslations or a scrivener’s error to which no significance should be attached. Indeed Article 4 of the ECCC Law expressly states that the ECCC’s jurisdiction relates to the “crimes” of genocide “as defined in the [Genocide Convention]”.<sup>14359</sup> Article 33(4) of the Vienna Convention on the Law of Treaties directs me to adopt “the meaning which best reconciles the texts, having regard to the object and purpose of the treaty [...]”. The express purpose of the ECCC Law was to provide the ECCC with jurisdiction over the crimes contrary to Article 2 of the Genocide Convention – not some alternative formulation. I therefore conclude that it is Article 2 of the Genocide Convention which falls to be interpreted; rather than the errors in the text of Article 4 of the ECCC Law.

---

<sup>14358</sup> See e.g., Beth van Schaack, “The Crime of Political Genocide: Repairing the Genocide Convention’s Blind Spot”, 106 Yale Law Journal, Vol. 106 (1996), pp. 2259-2291.

23.3. The Term “Auto-Genocide”

4475. Before turning to the interpretation of Article 2 of the Convention, I note that the term “auto-genocide” is sometimes used in relation to Cambodia, to connote the idea of a self-genocide, or the destruction of one’s own people.<sup>14360</sup> The earliest example of its use in relation to Cambodia that I have been able to locate is a publication by Jean Lacouture dated 31 March 1977. In his review of François Ponchaud’s just-published book “Cambodia: Year Zero”, Mr. Lacouture offered the following contention:

Ordinary genocide (if one can ever call it ordinary) usually has been carried out against a foreign population or an internal minority. The new masters of Phnom Penh have invented something original, auto-genocide.<sup>14361</sup>

<sup>14359</sup> In addition, Article 9 of the Agreement between the United Nations and the Royal Government of Cambodia Concerning the Prosecution under Cambodian Law of Crimes Committee during the period of Democratic Kampuchea provides that the ECCC’s subject-matter jurisdiction “shall be the crime of genocide as defined in the 1948 Convention”. In my view, the Khmer version of the Law on the ECCC mistakenly translates “as such” into “such as” (doch chea in Khmer). Similar difficulties with translation occurred during the course of the trial. For example, the International Co-Prosecutor addressed the Chamber on the interpretation of genocide and his references to “as such” were interpreted “such as (doch chea) at first. This was subsequently corrected to “as such” (nis aeng).

<sup>14360</sup> The Oxford English Dictionary identifies earlier references to “auto-genocide” as far back as 1958, in particular in the work of British Professor Arnold J. Toynbee on the Western World, who suggested that the Western community was “on its way towards being merged in a worldwide society that will eventually include the whole human race, if mankind does not commit auto-genocide en route.” See OED, 3rd Edition, June 2011 (entry for “autogenocide” defined as “(a) the self-destruction of the entire human race (rare); (b) the mass killing by a government or regime of a section of its own people.”).

<sup>14361</sup> Jean Lacouture, “The Bloodiest Revolution”, The New York Review of Books, Vol. 24 (31 March 1977), pp. 9-10. See Book by David Chandler, Voices From S-21: Terror and History in Pol Pot’s Secret Prison, E3/1684, ERN (En) 00192672 (stating that French author Jean Lacouture “coined the term auto-genocide”); Where Terror is King (Anthony Lewis, New York Times), E3/8293, 21 March 1977, ERN (En) 00445300 (describing Jean Lacouture’s article in the New York Review of Books).

4476. Mr. Ponchaud had not used the term “auto-genocide” himself. And aspects of Mr. Lacouture’s review of Mr. Ponchaud’s book generated controversy at the time, which led to some corrections being issued.<sup>14362</sup> Those debates are interesting and important but, for present purposes, the notable point is that the phrase “auto-genocide” – whether hyphenated or not – clearly stuck. It began to be used in discussions at the United Nations and in more general discourse. Ambassador Samantha Power has attributed the term to Mr. Haim Herzog of Israel, who used it before the UN Economic and Social Council on 4 May 1977 in reference to the situation in Democratic Kampuchea at that point in time.<sup>14363</sup> It seems likely that Mr. Herzog had read Mr. Lacouture’s recent article. In a December 1978 newspaper article, Witness Richard Dudman questioned whether “auto-genocide” had taken place.<sup>14364</sup> At a meeting of the United Nations Commission on Human Rights on 7 March 1979, the Chairman of the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities, Mr. Adelwahab Bouhdiba, presented an analysis of events in Democratic Kampuchea and concluded that the situation “constituted nothing less than autogenocide”.<sup>14365</sup> Fifteen years later, Mr. Michael Kirby, Special Representative of the UN Secretary-General, submitted a report in 1994 which again referred to the “manifestation of auto-genocide unique in world history”.<sup>14366</sup>

<sup>14362</sup> Jean Lacouture, “Cambodia: Corrections”, The New York Review of Books, Vol. 24 (26 May 1977); Distortions at Fourth Hand (Noam Chomsky & Edward S. Herman, The Nation), E3/7293, 6 June 1977, ERN (En) 00994159-00994169.

<sup>14363</sup> UN Doc. E/AC.7/SR.811, UNGA Seventh Committee, GAOR 62nd Sess. (“Minutes of the Eight Hundred and Eleventh Meeting”, 4 May 1977), p. 7, cited in Samantha Power, A Problem from Hell: America and the Age of Genocide (Flamingo: 2003), p. 125.

<sup>14364</sup> Conformity a Must for Survival in Cambodia (Richard Dudman, Chicago Tribune), E3/9641, 26 December 1978, ERN (En) 00444937 (describing “no clear answer to the question of ‘auto-genocide,’ the term used by some observers for an alleged methodical execution of much of the entire class of former professionals, tradesmen, civil servants and soldiers”).

<sup>14365</sup> UN Doc. E/CN.4/SR.1510, Commission on Human Rights, 35th Sess. (“Summary Record of the First Part (Public) of the 1510th Meeting”, 9 March 1979), para. 22. The written report did not refer to genocide or autogenocide. It did, however, refer to the following allegation: “launching of a systematic programme aimed at the physical elimination of various categories of persons formerly associated with the previous régime or belonging to higher social or educational categories”. See UN Doc. E/CN.4/1335, Commission on Human Rights, 35th Sess. (“Question of the Violation of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms in Any Part of the World, with Particular Reference to Colonial and Other Dependent Countries and Territories – Analysis Prepared on Behalf of the Sub-Commission by its Chairman of Materials Submitted to It and the Commission on Human Rights Under Decision 9 (XXXIV) of the Commission on Human Rights”, 30 January 1979), para. 23(4).

<sup>14366</sup> Report of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General, Mr. Michael Kirby (Australia), on the Situation of Human Rights in Cambodia, Submitted in Accordance with Commission on Human Rights Resolution 1993/6, E3/7301, 24 February 1994, p. 8, ERN (En) 00178779 (quoting Grant Curtis, “Transition to What? Cambodia, UNTAC and the Peace Process”, UNRISD, November 1993).

4477. I also noted that during his statement to the Chamber at the conclusion of Case 002/02, KHIEU Samphan denied the existence of any “self-genocide” and suggested this allegation was the result of Vietnamese propaganda and manipulation.<sup>14367</sup> Roeland Burgler, upon whom the NUON Chea Defence has relied,<sup>14368</sup> has stated that “auto-genocide” is an “absurdity” which was “often repeated after the fall of Democratic Kampuchea by Cambodians inside Cambodia asked to explain the Pol Pot killings”.<sup>14369</sup> In discussing “auto-genocide”, Professor Schabas warns that to confuse mass killing of the members of the perpetrators’ own group with genocide is inconsistent with the purpose of the Convention, which he describes as being “to protect national minorities from crimes based on ethnic hatred”.<sup>14370</sup> The phrase “auto-genocide” or “self-genocide” has therefore lurked throughout these proceedings. It has not been adequately addressed.

4478. In my view, however, adding a prefix such as “auto” to genocide distracts more than it assists with the interpretation of Article 2 of the Convention. The term “auto” is not found in the Convention. That being said, I do not discern from Article 2 any requirement that perpetrators and victims of genocide must be from entirely distinct groups. In my view, that would be an entirely artificial restriction on the meaning of Article 2. To interpret Article 2 as only applying to the genocide of one hermetically sealed group committed by another would, in my view, be to ignore humanity’s complexities. It would also ignore the possibility that perpetrators may hold erroneous or prejudicial beliefs as to purity of their own group affiliation(s) versus that of their victim(s). Benjamin Whitaker, in his 1985 study as Special Rapporteur to the United Nations Sub-Commission on Prevent of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities, considered it noteworthy that the definition of genocide “does not exclude cases where <sup>14367</sup> T. 23 June 2017 (Accused KHIEU Samphan), E1/528.1, p. 37; Book by KHIEU Samphan, Considerations on the History of Cambodia from the Early Stage to the Period of Democratic Kampuchea, E3/16, ERN (En) 00498221 (similarly stating in Chapter 5 that “[i]f mistakes were made later on, they certainly not have been crimes of auto-genocide.”).

<sup>14368</sup> See e.g., NUON Chea Closing Brief, para. 127 (pointing out that the NUON Chea Defence considered that Roeland Burgler could have provided insight into the threat posed by Vietnam).

<sup>14369</sup> Book by R. A. Burgler, The Eyes of the Pineapple: Revolutionary Intellectuals and Terror in Democratic Kampuchea, E3/7333, p. 138, ERN (En) 01002259.

<sup>14370</sup> William A. Schabas, Genocide in International Law: The Crime of Crimes (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2000), pp. 119, 108 (recognising that the victim group can constitute either a minority or a majority). See also, William A. Schabas, “Problems of International Codification: Were the Atrocities in Cambodia and Kosovo Genocide?”, New England Law Review, Vol. 35 (2000), p. 291 (contending that “the fundamental difficulty with using the term genocide to describe the Cambodian atrocities lies with the group that is victim of genocide. Destruction of Khmers by Khmers simply stretches the definition too much.”).

the victims are part of the violator's own group".<sup>14371</sup> On this aspect, I entirely agree with Mr. Whitaker.<sup>14372</sup> I do not think it necessary, or helpful for that matter, to add the prefix "auto" in order to reach that conclusion. I now turn the four key areas of interpretation that I identified above, starting with the groups protected by the Genocide Convention.

23.4. The Protected Groups

4479. Article 2 of the Genocide Convention protects four named groups ("national, ethnical, racial or religious"). It does not define them, or provide criteria by which they should be identified.<sup>14373</sup> It is well-known that, during the drafting process of the Convention, there were failed attempts to include other groups (e.g. political groups),<sup>14374</sup> and that a separate provision on cultural genocide<sup>14375</sup> was eventually dropped. It is readily apparent from the case law of the ad hoc tribunals, however, that the identification of a group protected by the Convention depends upon a mixture of factors – both objective (i.e. existing in fact) and subjective (i.e. matters of perception which may or may not have a solid basis).

---

<sup>14371</sup> UN Doc. E/CN.4/Sub.2/1985/6, Commission on Human Rights, Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities, 38th Sess. ("Revised and Updated Report on the Question of the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide Prepared by Mr. B. Whitaker", 2 July 1985), para. 31.

<sup>14372</sup> The Sub-Commission discussed Mr. Whitaker's report on 21 August 1985, when certain concerns were raised including in relation to a paragraph of Mr. Whitaker's reports identifying various genocides. It was suggested by a representative of the International Commission of Jurists that the concept of "auto-genocide" was "not a very clear one" and "seemed to imply that any civil war could be regarded as an act of genocide". See UN Doc. E/CN.4/Sub.2/1985/SR.18, Commission on Human Rights, Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities, 38th Sess. ("Summary Record of the 18th Meeting", 21 August 1985), para. 41. The Sub-Commission eventually adopted a Resolution thanking Mr. Whitaker, without resolving the issues of controversy. See UN Doc. E/CN.4/Sub.2/1985/SR.36/Add.1, Commission on Human Rights, Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities, 38th Sess. ("Summary Record of the 36th Meeting", 29 August 1985), para. 21.

<sup>14373</sup> Section 9.3: Applicable Law: Genocide, para. 792.

<sup>14374</sup> Political groups were deleted from Article 2 following a re-examination of their enumeration by the Sixth Committee on the evening of 29 November 1948. The proposal to delete political groups was adopted by 22 votes to 6, with 12 abstentions. See UN Doc. A/C.6/SR.128, UNGA Sixth Committee, GAOR 3rd Sess. ("Minutes of the Hundred and Twenty-Eighth Meeting", 29 November 1948), pp. 663-664.

<sup>14375</sup> In a roll-call vote on 25 October 1948, the Sixth Committee voted by 25 votes to 16, with four abstentions, 13 delegations being absent, to delete provisions relating to cultural genocide. See UN Doc. A/C.6/SR.83, UNGA Sixth Committee, GAOR 3rd Sess. ("Minutes of the Eighty-Third Meeting", 25 October 1948), p. 206. See also, UN Doc. A/C.6/SR.84, UNGA Sixth Committee, GAOR 3rd Sess. ("Minutes of the Eighty-Fourth Meeting", 26 October 1948), p. 207 (where the draft convention was considered further).

4480. In Akayesu, an ICTR Trial Chamber attempted to define each of the four protected groups and suggested that the intention of the drafters of the Convention had been to protect “any stable and permanent group”.<sup>14376</sup> As the Chamber notes in this Judgement, however, it is highly doubtful whether this describes the drafters’ intentions with complete accuracy. It is an obvious overstatement to suggest that the drafters intended to protect “any” such group; the Convention is specifically limited to just four groups. As the Chamber has noted in the present case, however, the drafters had in mind to protect “relatively stable and permanent groups” and juxtaposed these from “political and economic groups” – which were “excluded from protection because they were considered to be ‘mobile’ which were joined through ‘individual voluntary commitment’”.<sup>14377</sup> I agree that the drafters of the Genocide Convention did not intend to protect entirely transient groups.

4481. But that is not where the analysis ends. The Akayesu Trial Chamber noted that Tutsis and Hutus shared many common characteristics including language, religion, culture, and they lived in mixed communities. To distinguish between the two, the ICTR Chamber relied on the fact that identity cards had specified a person’s “ethnicity”, even though such categorisations may have been imposed by former colonial rulers, sometimes based on socio-economic factors.<sup>14378</sup> In Rutaganda, another ICTR Trial Chamber further emphasised the relevance of subjective features when identifying a group: “membership of a group is, in essence, a subjective rather than an objective concept. The victim is perceived by the perpetrator of genocide as belonging to a group slated for destruction.”<sup>14379</sup> The ad hoc tribunals have also repeatedly referred to identifying protected groups in light of the particular political, social and cultural context.<sup>14380</sup> In Krstić, an ICTY Trial Chamber concluded that “[t]o attempt to

<sup>14376</sup> Akayesu Trial Judgement, paras 512-516.

<sup>14377</sup> Section 9.3: Applicable Law, Genocide, para. 795 (fn. 2366) (referring to Akayesu TJ, para. 511 and Rutaganda Trial Judgement, para. 57).

<sup>14378</sup> Akayesu Trial Judgement, paras 83 (Belgian authorities introduced a permanent distinction between groups and it became mandatory for every Rwandan to carry an identity card mentioning his or her “ethnicity”); 170 (identity cards referred to “ubwoko” in Kinyarwanda, or “ethnie” in French).

<sup>14379</sup> Rutaganda Trial Judgement, para. 56.

<sup>14380</sup> See e.g., Semanza Trial Judgement, para. 317 (whether a group is protected should be “assessed on a case-by-case basis by reference to the objective particulars of a given social or historical context, and by the subjective perceptions of the perpetrators”); Musema Trial Judgement, paras 161-163; Jelisić Trial Judgement, paras 69-72; Brđanin Trial Judgement, para. 684; Kajelijeli Trial Judgement (TC II), para. 811; Bagilishema Trial Judgement, para. 65 (referring to the “political, social, historical and cultural context” which all must be weighed in the determination of the protected group).

differentiate each of the named groups on the basis of scientifically objective criteria would thus be inconsistent with the object and purpose of the Convention”.<sup>14381</sup>

4482. This Chamber has found in its Judgement that such an approach, one that is looking both to objective and subjective features when identifying protected groups, accords with the object and purpose of the Convention.<sup>14382</sup> I agree. Indeed, the various references in the case law to the relevance of subjective perceptions, and other features such as the particular political, social and cultural context, are highly instructive in my view. The overall effect is to caution against too rigid or narrow an approach when deciding whether a group falls within the protection of Article 2 of the Convention.

23.5. The Meaning of “Intent to Destroy”

4483. The phrase “intent to destroy” has been interpreted to mean “physical or biological” destruction, even though the prohibited acts listed in Article 2 do not necessarily involve such extreme destruction, e.g., causing serious bodily or mental harm to members of the group.<sup>14383</sup> In the Krstić case, a majority of the ICTY Appeals Chamber focused on the physical or biological destruction of the Bosnian Muslims of Srebrenica; but in my view the reasoning offered in support was substantially broader.

4484. The Krstić Appeals Chamber set out what it considered to be the governing legal principle: an enterprise “attacking only the cultural or sociological characteristics of a human group in order to annihilate these elements which give to that group its own identity distinct from the rest of the community would not fall under the definition of genocide”.<sup>14384</sup> The Appeals Chamber distinguished such matters from physical or biological destruction. It proceeded to accept, however, that the forcible transfer of women, children and elderly out of Srebrenica had eliminated the residual possibility that the Muslim community in the area could reconstitute itself.<sup>14385</sup> It held that, although forcible transfer “does not constitute in and of itself a genocidal act”, it was

<sup>14381</sup> Krstić Trial Judgement, paras 556-557 (also finding that a “group’s cultural, religious, ethnical or national characteristics must be identified within the socio-historic context which it inhabits.”).

<sup>14382</sup> Section 9.3: Applicable Law: Genocide, para. 795.

<sup>14383</sup> See e.g., Krstić Appeal Judgement, para. 25. In Akayesu, the ICTR Trial Chamber held that acts of sexual violence and rape can therefore constitute acts of genocide. See Akayesu Trial Judgement, para. 731.

<sup>14384</sup> Krstić Appeal Judgement, para. 25, quoting with approval Krstić Trial Judgement, para. 580.

<sup>14385</sup> Krstić Appeal Judgement, para. 31.

relevant to the examination of genocidal intent.<sup>14386</sup> Another reason why evidence of non-genocidal acts was expressly stated to be relevant to the finding of genocidal intent was that the forcible transfers distracted international attention: perpetrators adopted methods which allowed them to “implement the genocidal design while minimizing the risk of retribution”.<sup>14387</sup>

4485. The Krstić Appeals Chamber did not clarify whether it could have reached a different conclusion on the relevance of forcible transfers in the event that the community could have reconstituted itself, for example if the transfers had been less extreme. In any event, it is clear to me that, even under the Appeals Chamber’s restrictive interpretation of physical or biological destruction of the group, it was appropriate to consider a range of contextual matters in order to properly assess whether the perpetrators intended to destroy the protected group, in whole or in part. Such contextual matters did not have to amount to physical or biological destruction of persons.

4486. Judge Shahabuddeen dissented from the majority’s approach on the basis that he would have gone further still. It is helpful to set out his reasoning in full:

49. [...] It is not apparent why an intent to destroy a group in a non-physical or non-biological way should be outside the ordinary reach of the Convention [...] provided that the intent attached to a listed act, this being of a physical or biological nature.

50. [...] It is the group which is protected. A group is constituted by characteristics – often intangible – binding together a collection of people as a social unit. If those characteristics have been destroyed in pursuance of the intent with which a listed act of a physical or biological nature was done, it is not convincing to say that the destruction, though effectively obliterating the group, is not genocide because the obliteration was not physical or biological.

51. [...] The intent certainly has to be to destroy, but, except for the listed act, there is no reason why the destruction must always be physical or biological.

53. Out of abundant caution, I would make two things clear. First, the question is whether there was the required intent, not whether the intent was in fact realised. Second, the foregoing is not an argument for the recognition of cultural genocide. It is established that the mere destruction of the culture of a group is not genocide: none of the methods listed in article 4(2) of the Statute need be employed. But there is also need for care. The destruction of culture may serve evidentially to confirm an intent, to be gathered from other circumstances, to destroy the group as such. In this case, the razing of the principal mosque confirms an intent to destroy the Srebrenica part of the Bosnian Muslim group.

<sup>14386</sup> Krstić Appeal Judgement, para. 33.

<sup>14387</sup> Krstić Appeal Judgement, para. 32.

54. In sum, I consider that the Statute is to be read to mean that, provided there is a listed act (this being physical or biological), the intent to destroy the group as a group is capable of being proved by evidence of intent to cause the non-physical destruction of the group in whole or in part, except in particular cases in which physical destruction is required by the Statute. This is not an excepted case. Consequently, the fact that, in this case, women, children and the elderly were allowed to survive did not signify an intent which was at variance with that which is required.

4487. I find that the wording of Article 2 supports Judge Shahabuddeen's approach to the existence of the intent to destroy a protected group. In my view, his approach offers a much more coherent basis on which to understand why, even according to the majority, non-genocidal acts may nevertheless evince genocidal intent. I would differ from Judge Shahabuddeen, however, in that he did not explain what he meant by physical versus non-physical destruction. I understand Article 2 to prohibit physical (there being no express reference to biological<sup>14388</sup>) measures which seek to put an end to the previous existence of the protected group, in whole or in part. To destroy a group is to obliterate it; to end the essence of what it had been. In other words, conduct which falls short of the actual physical destruction of persons might still reveal an intention to destroy the physical existence of (a part of) the protected group. In my view, that is the only plausible explanation for why the majority of the Appeals Chamber in Krstić considered the forcible transfers to be relevant to its finding of genocidal intent.

4488. Judge Shahabuddeen further considered that the destruction of a group's culture may serve evidentially to confirm the intent to destroy the group as such. He referred to the razing of the principal mosque in Srebrenica as further demonstrating an intention to destroy the Srebrenica part of the Bosnian Muslim group. He also referred to the "disastrous consequences for the family structures" in Srebrenica. In my view, Judge

---

<sup>14388</sup> The travaux préparatoires of the Genocide Convention reveal that the drafters originally envisaged two types of genocide: physical or biological genocide, on the one hand, or cultural genocide, on the other. UN Doc. E/794, Proceedings of the Economic and Social Council, GAOR 7th Sess., Supp. No. 6 ("Report of the Ad Hoc Committee on Genocide", 24 May 1948); UN Doc. A/C.6/SR.83, UNGA Sixth Committee, GAOR 3rd Sess. ("Minutes of the Eighty-Third Meeting", 25 October 1948), pp. 193-207. This point was also noted by the ICJ in Croatia v. Serbia, ICJ, Judgement, 3 February 2015 (ICJ Reports 2015), para. 136.

Shahabuddeen was entirely correct in this aspect of his approach.<sup>14389</sup> I find that such measures can demonstrate the intent to physically destroy what the group had previously been. Indeed, aspects of Judge Shahabuddeen’s approach can, in my view, be readily accommodated within the reasoning set out by the majority in the Krstić case.

4489. In Bosnia v. Serbia, the ICJ held that “the destruction of historical, religious and cultural heritage cannot be considered to be a genocidal act within the meaning of Article II”, but proceeded to endorse an observation by the Krstić ICTY Appeals Chamber that evidence of attacks on cultural and religious property and symbols of the targeted group “may legitimately be considered as evidence of an intent to physically destroy the group”.<sup>14390</sup> I understand that this reasoning also allows for aspects of Judge Shahabuddeen’s approach to be retained. Further still, in this Judgement, the Chamber has concurred with the approach of the ICJ in Croatia v. Serbia that underlying acts of genocide do not need to “directly concern the physical or biological destruction of the group” provided those acts must be carried out “with the intent of achieving the physical or biological destruction of the group, in whole or in part”.<sup>14391</sup> In my view, this also demands that, when evaluating genocidal intent, consideration ought also to be given to the broader circumstances. It seems to me that this broader approach to identifying an “intent to destroy” is relatively well-settled.

4490. By way of further examples, in Blagojević and Jokić, an ICTY Trial Chamber interpreted the intent to destroy as being evidenced by various conduct which destroyed the continued existence of the group, without necessarily killing its members.<sup>14392</sup> On appeal, the Appeals Chamber rejected any suggestion that forcible displacement could, by itself, demonstrate the requisite destruction or the intent to destroy a group.<sup>14393</sup> In Tolimir, the ICTY Appeals Chamber, while reversing a Trial Chamber finding that <sup>14389</sup> See e.g., Prosecutor v. Al Bashir (PTC I), Decision on the Prosecution’s Application for a Warrant of Arrest against Omar Hassan Ahmad Al Bashir, 4 March 2009, Separate and Party Dissenting Opinion of Judge Anita Ušacka, para. 62, where Judge Ušacka similarly preferred the “more expansive approach” outlined by Judge Shahabuddeen when considering the relevance of evidence of forced displacement in connection with determining whether or not there were reasonable grounds to believe (i.e. the legal test at the arrest warrant stage) that genocidal intent existed.

<sup>14390</sup> Bosnia and Herzegovina v. Serbia and Montenegro, ICJ, Judgement, 26 February 2007 (ICJ Reports 2007), para. 344.

<sup>14391</sup> Section 9.3: Applicable Law: Genocide, para. 799 (fn. 2379) (referring to Croatia v. Serbia, ICJ, Judgement, 3 February 2015 (ICJ Reports 2015), para. 136).

<sup>14392</sup> Blagojević and Jokić Trial Judgement, para. 666.

<sup>14393</sup> Blagojević and Jokić Appeal Judgement, para. 123.

destruction of a mosque was genocidal act per se, accepted that it could be considered to be evidence of intent to physically destroy the group.<sup>14394</sup>

4491. I am therefore satisfied that Article 2 of the Genocide Convention requires proof of an intention to physically destroy the protected group, in whole or in part, but this intention may be evidenced by a range of factors – including conduct which does not necessarily entail the physical or biological destruction of individual persons. It would be unnecessary and unwise to seek to set out a predetermined list of the conduct relevant in this regard. Notwithstanding this, I find that this broader interpretation is entirely consistent with Article 2 of the Convention because the underlying test remains the intent to destroy, in whole or in part. What is more, the underlying acts which may themselves lead to criminal liability remain those which are specifically enumerated elsewhere in Article 2. This approach keeps Article 2 within specific bounds, while directing our attention to the whole range of relevant circumstances in order to properly evaluate genocidal intent. The key point that I take from this analysis is that the ECCC could have considered a range of conduct as having been relevant to an intention to destroy a part of the Cambodian national group.

23.6. The Meaning of “In Whole or In Part”

4492. The meaning of “in whole or in part” has been scrutinised by the ad hoc tribunals, in particular in cases before the ICTY relating to events in Srebrenica and other municipalities of Bosnia and Herzegovina. These cases have identified a substantiality element to this aspect of the mens rea.

4493. The Jelisić case concerned events from May 1992 in the municipality of Brčko, a sizeable town in north-east Bosnia-Herzegovina. The accused pleaded guilty to various crimes but not guilty to genocide. The Trial Chamber acquitted him of genocide but, in so doing, held that it is “recognised that the destruction need not be directed at the whole group”.<sup>14395</sup> The Jelisić Trial Chamber continued by referring to the “especially useful” ILC report commenting upon the Articles of the Draft Code of Crimes Against the Peace and Security of Mankind” which had observed that “[i]t is not necessary to intend to achieve the complete annihilation of a group from every corner of the globe”.<sup>14396</sup> The Jelisić Chamber then described it as “widely acknowledged that the intention to destroy must target at least a substantial part of the group”.<sup>14397</sup>

<sup>14394</sup> Tolimir Appeal Judgement, para. 230 (finding that the Trial Chamber erred in concluding that the destruction of mosques was an additional act of genocide under Article 4(2)(c) of the Statute). See also, Karadžić Trial Judgement, para. 553.

<sup>14395</sup> Jelisić Trial Judgement, para. 80.

4494. The Krstić case concerned the genocide committed against Bosnian Muslims in Srebrenica in mid-1995, when thousands of men and boys were executed while women, children and elderly were expelled from the enclave – which had been an UN-declared safe-haven. The Krstić Trial Chamber referred to a “margin of discretion” when assessing the meaning of “in part”, provided that the discretion was exercised “in a spirit consonant with the object and purpose of the Convention which is to criminalise specified conduct directed against the existence of protected groups, as such”.<sup>14398</sup> The Krstić Trial Chamber also referred to the perpetrators intending to eliminate the part of the group as a “distinct entity”.<sup>14399</sup> Some other Chambers have subsequently referred to an intention “to destroy a distinct part of the group as opposed to an accumulation of isolated individuals within it”.<sup>14400</sup>

4495. Returning to the Krstić case, the Appeals Chamber reviewed the drafting history, authorities and scholarly opinions before concluding that it is not necessary to demonstrate an intention to destroy the entirety of a protected group. Rather, the intent requirement is satisfied by an intention to destroy at least a substantial part of the protected group; and the determination of whether the targeted part is substantial may involve an evaluation of both quantitative and qualitative factors. The Krstić Appeals Chamber explained that, in addition to numeric considerations, various factors such as the prominence or emblematic nature of those persons targeted in relation to the overall group could, depending on the precise factual circumstances, reveal genocidal intent.<sup>14401</sup> The Krstić Appeals Chamber cautioned that such considerations are only guidelines: their applicability or weight will vary depending on the circumstances of a

<sup>14396</sup> Jelisić Trial Judgement, para. 80 (referring to ILC Draft Articles, p. 89). See UN Doc. A/51/10, International Law Commission, GAOR 51st Sess., Supp. No. 10 (“Report of the International Law Commission on the Work of Its Forty-Eighth Session”, 26 July 1996), p. 45.

<sup>14397</sup> Jelisić Trial Judgement, para. 82 (emphasis in original).

<sup>14398</sup> Krstić Trial Judgement, para. 590.

<sup>14399</sup> Krstić Trial Judgement, para. 590.

<sup>14400</sup> Stakić Trial Judgement, para. 524; Brđanin Trial Judgement (TC II), para. 700.

<sup>14401</sup> Krstić Appeal Judgement, paras 12-13.

particular case.<sup>14402</sup> On the facts of the case, the Krstić Appeals Chamber confirmed that the importance of Srebrenica to the Muslim community was not captured solely by its (relatively small) size: “the elimination of that enclave would have accomplished the goal of purifying the entire region of its Muslim population”; and “[t]he fate of the Bosnian Muslims of Srebrenica would be emblematic of that of all Bosnian Muslims”.<sup>14403</sup>

4496. The International Court of Justice has confirmed that genocide does not necessarily entail an intention to destroy the entire group, provided that a substantial part of the group is targeted. In its 2007 judgment in Bosnia v. Serbia, and its 2015 judgment in Croatia v. Serbia, the ICJ held that, when assessing whether the targeted part of the protected group is substantial, relevant criteria include: numbers, geographic location, the prominence of the targeted part and its emblematic nature in relation to the overall group.<sup>14404</sup>

23.6.1. Vasiliauskas v. Lithuania

4497. I now turn to an important judgement of the Grand Chamber of the European Court of Human Rights in the case of Vasiliauskas v. Lithuania.<sup>14405</sup> In 2003, Lithuania had introduced a new Criminal Code which expressly included political and social groups as protected groups for the purposes of its domestic law definition of genocide. In 1953, Mr. Vasiliauskas had been an officer in the Ministry of the Interior of Soviet-ruled Lithuania. He had participated in the killings of Lithuanian partisans who resisted Soviet rule. Some fifty years later, in 2004, a Lithuanian court convicted Mr. Vasiliauskas of genocide. The issue before the Grand Chamber, therefore, was whether his genocide conviction under the 2003 Criminal Code breached Article 7 of the European Convention of Human Rights (no crime/punishment without law). In other words, was the law in 1953 sufficiently accessible and foreseeable for Mr. Vasiliauskas to have reasonably expected that his conduct amounted to genocide, in circumstances

<sup>14402</sup> Krstić Appeal Judgement, para. 14.

<sup>14403</sup> Krstić Appeal Judgement, paras 15-16.

<sup>14404</sup> Bosnia and Herzegovina v. Serbia and Montenegro, ICJ, Judgement, 26 February 2007 (ICJ Reports 2007), para. 198 (indicating that the “intent must be to destroy at least a substantial part of the particular group” and referring to the “requirement of substantiality” as supported by rulings of the ICTY, ICTR, and Commentary of the ILC to its Articles in the draft Code of Crimes against the Peace and Security of Mankind); Croatia v. Serbia, ICJ, Judgement, 3 February 2015 (ICJ Reports 2015), para. 142 (referring to the “targeted part of a protected group”).

<sup>14405</sup> Vasiliauskas v. Lithuania, Judgement (GC), ECtHR, Application no. 35343/05, 20 October 2015.

where political and social groups were not included within the Genocide Convention? There was some discussion of whether “political groups” might be protected by customary international law if that is broader than the Convention,<sup>14406</sup> but the crucial issue became whether the Lithuanian partisans were a “part” of the Lithuanian national group and therefore protected by Article II of the Genocide Convention.

4498. The Grand Chamber split 9:8, with the bare majority holding that Mr. Vasiliauskas’s genocide conviction breached Article 7 ECHR. I find it instructive to consider the reasoning of both the majority and the minority. The majority concluded that the international caselaw has interpreted the phrase “in part” in a manner which could not have been foreseen in 1953. In particular, in the majority’s view, reference to qualitative factors such as “prominence” marked a change in the law:

In particular, as transpires from the case-law [...], the intentional destruction of a “distinct” part of the protected group could be considered as genocide of the entire protected group, provided that the “distinct” part was substantial because of the very large number of its members. Furthermore, in addition to the numerical size of the targeted part, judicial interpretation confirmed that its “prominence” within the protected group could also be a useful consideration. Be that as it may, this interpretation of the phrase ‘in part’ could not have been foreseen by the applicant at the relevant time.<sup>14407</sup>

4499. In a joint dissenting opinion, Judges Villiger, Power-Forde, Pinto de Albuquerque and Kuris thought it “excessively formalistic” to view the partisans exclusively through the prism of a political group and to end the analysis at that stage. They further reasoned that the key issue was whether “the objective of the extermination of the Lithuanian partisans – as a significant part of the nation – was the impact that their destruction would have on the survival of the national or ethnic group as a whole”.<sup>14408</sup> They concluded that the partisans were targeted because they were simultaneously “a significant and emblematic part of the national group whose very <sup>14406</sup> Vasiliauskas v. Lithuania, Judgement (GC), ECtHR, Application no. 35343/05, 20 October 2015, para. 175 (“notwithstanding those views favouring the inclusion of political groups in the definition of genocide, the scope of the codified definition of genocide remained narrower in the 1948 Convention and was retained in all subsequent international law instruments [...]. In sum, the Court finds that there is no sufficiently strong basis for finding that customary international law as it stood in 1953 included “political groups” among those falling within the definition of genocide.”).

---

<sup>14407</sup> Vasiliauskas v. Lithuania, Judgement (GC), ECtHR, Application no. 35343/05, 20 October 2015, para. 177.

<sup>14408</sup> Vasiliauskas v. Lithuania, Judgement (GC), ECtHR, Application no. 35343/05, 20 October 2015, Joint Dissenting Opinion of Judges Villiger, Power-Forde, Pinto de Albuquerque and Kuris, para. 11; Dissenting Opinion of Judge Ziemele, para. 15.

purpose was the protection of the Lithuanian nation from destruction by the Soviet regime”.<sup>14409</sup> They considered that it was “overly formalistic” and inconsistent with the spirit of the Genocide Convention to place outside of its protection a resistance movement that sought to defend itself against the destruction of a nation’s very fabric.<sup>14410</sup> They concluded that the partisans could have been considered to be a significant part of the Lithuanian national group; and they were targeted for elimination as a distinct part of a group rather than as mere individuals.<sup>14411</sup> They concluded that such an interpretation was indeed foreseeable in 1954, particularly given the particular factual context which involved, in their view, an intention to destroy “the fabric of the nation of Lithuania”.<sup>14412</sup>

4500. Also dissenting, Judge Ziemele reasoned as follows:

The Court should have been able to distinguish between, on the one hand, a prominent part of a national group being targeted for political, social or, in any event, discriminatory reasons, and, on the other, a political group plain and simple. There is nothing in the history of outlawing genocide which would exclude from its scope an intention to destroy in part or as a whole a (national) group for political and otherwise discriminatory purposes. Regrettably, the Court has not exemplified this issue, which is crucial to this case.<sup>14413</sup>

4501. Judge Ziemele criticised the majority’s conclusion that reference to qualitative factors such as prominence amounted to a new interpretation or an extension of the 1948 Genocide Convention.<sup>14414</sup> She further suggested that it was wrong to isolate political groups completely from the concept of national groups in the context of post-war events in Lithuania.<sup>14415</sup> I understand the point here to have been that a range of

<sup>14409</sup> Vasiliauskas v. Lithuania, Judgement (GC), ECtHR, Application no. 35343/05, 20 October 2015, Joint Dissenting Opinion of Judges Villiger, Power-Forde, Pinto de Albuquerque and Kuris, para. 16.

<sup>14410</sup> Vasiliauskas v. Lithuania, Judgement (GC), ECtHR, Application no. 35343/05, 20 October 2015, Joint Dissenting Opinion of Judges Villiger, Power-Forde, Pinto de Albuquerque and Kuris, para. 11.

<sup>14411</sup> Vasiliauskas v. Lithuania, Judgement (GC), ECtHR, Application no. 35343/05, 20 October 2015, Joint Dissenting Opinion of Judges Villiger, Power-Forde, Pinto de Albuquerque and Kuris, paras 24-25.

<sup>14412</sup> Vasiliauskas v. Lithuania, Judgement (GC), ECtHR, Application no. 35343/05, 20 October 2015, Joint Dissenting Opinion of Judges Villiger, Power-Forde, Pinto de Albuquerque and Kuris, para. 36.

<sup>14413</sup> Vasiliauskas v. Lithuania, Judgement (GC), ECtHR, Application no. 35343/05, 20 October 2015, Dissenting Opinion of Judge Ziemele, para. 15.

<sup>14414</sup> Vasiliauskas v. Lithuania, Judgement (GC), ECtHR, Application no. 35343/05, 20 October 2015, Dissenting Opinion of Judge Ziemele, para. 17.

<sup>14415</sup> Vasiliauskas v. Lithuania, Judgement (GC), ECtHR, Application no. 35343/05, 20 October 2015, Dissenting Opinion of Judge Ziemele, para. 24.

contextual factors may conceivably be relevant to the definition of a (protected) national group.

4502. Judge Power-Forde issued a further dissenting opinion of her own in which she criticised the majority’s “excessively formalistic and rather blinkered approach of viewing the partisans solely through the lens of a ‘political group’ and of ending its analysis there”.<sup>14416</sup> Judge Kuris (who is Lithuanian) issued a further dissenting opinion criticising a suggestion in the majority opinion that the Lithuanian courts had not shown that the partisans were “representatives” of the Lithuanian nation.<sup>14417</sup>

4503. Put simply, I consider there to be significant force to the minority’s views in Vasiliauskas v. Lithuania and I find it to be regrettable that such issues were not properly explored before the ECCC. The nature of the discussion in the various opinions from the Grand Chamber of the European Court of Human Rights demonstrate the significance of the interpretative issues involved. For my part, I disagree with the approach of the majority in Vasiliauskas v Lithuania for two main reasons.

4504. First, I see no basis on which to conclude that the reference to “in part” in the Genocide Convention is restricted to quantitative factors to the exclusion of qualitative factors. Whilst the numbers involved are obviously a highly relevant fact when assessing genocidal intent, in my view the majority read an unjustified restriction into the meaning of “in part”, and they did so without proper explanation as to why the substantiality requirement should be limited to numbers alone. In my view the majority’s approach confuses the mens rea with the actus reus of genocide.<sup>14418</sup> For

<sup>14416</sup> Vasiliauskas v. Lithuania, Judgement (GC), ECtHR, Application no. 35343/05, 20 October 2015, Dissenting Opinion of Judge Power-Forde, para. 1.

<sup>14417</sup> Vasiliauskas v. Lithuania, Judgement (GC), ECtHR, Application no. 35343/05, 20 October 2015, Dissenting Opinion of Judge Kuris, paras 4-5. Judge Kuris concluded by quoting from a poem by Archibald MacLeish, entitled: The young dead soldiers do not speak:

Nevertheless, they are heard in the still houses: who has not heard them?

They have a silence that speaks for them at night and when the clock counts.

They say: We were young. We have died. Remember us.

They say: We have done what we could but until it is finished it is not done.

They say: We have given our lives but until it is finished no one can know what our lives gave.

They say: Our deaths are not ours: they are yours, they will mean what you make them.

They say: Whether our lives and our deaths were for peace and a new hope or for nothing we cannot say, it is you who must say this. We leave you our deaths. Give them their meaning.

We were young, they say. We have died; remember us.

<sup>14418</sup> In discussing the drafting history of Article 2, Professor Schabas has noted that there was similar confusion but he concludes that “what is really germane to the debate is whether the author of the crime intended to destroy the group ‘in whole or in part’ [...] intent is normally proven as a deduction from the material act. Where genocide involves the destruction of a large number of members of a group, the present purposes, the matter under consideration is the intention, and the factors to be considered when discerning whether genocidal intent is established.

4505. Secondly, I do not agree that the discussion of qualitative factors which one finds in more recent caselaw represented a change to the law that previously existed in the 1950s. As I read authorities such as the Krstić Appeals Chamber judgement,<sup>14419</sup> or the decisions of the International Court of Justice to which I have already referred,<sup>14420</sup> those courts had regard to the plain meaning of “in part”, to the object and purpose of the Genocide Convention, and to its drafting history, to reach a clear conclusion as to the meaning of that phrase when the Convention entered into force. Indeed, whether or not an absolute number is “substantial” might well depend on contextual factors such as the overall numbers of any particular group. I note in this regard that in Mr. Whitaker’s 1985 study – to which I referred above – when discussing the “extent of destruction of a group” he concluded that the phrase in part “would seem to imply a reasonably significant number, relative to the total of the group as a whole, or else a significant section of the group such as its leadership”.<sup>14421</sup> Similarly, Cherif Bassiouni in 1994 expressed his clear view that the Genocide Convention is “sufficiently pliable to encompass not only the targeting of an entire group, as stated in the convention, but logical deduction will be more obvious. If there are only a few victims, this deduction will be far less evident, even if the criminal is in fact animated with the intent to destroy the entire group. Hence, unable to rely on the quantity of the victims as evidence of genocidal intent, the prosecution will be required to introduce other elements of proof.” See William A. Schabas, Genocide in International Law: The Crime of Crimes (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2000), pp. 233-234. I also note that there is no minimum numerical threshold in relation to the actus reus of genocide. See Section 9.3: Applicable Law: Genocide, para. 796.

---

<sup>14419</sup> Krstić Appeal Judgement, para. 12.

<sup>14420</sup> Bosnia and Herzegovina v. Serbia and Montenegro, ICJ, Judgement, 26 February 2007 (ICJ Reports 2007), paras 199-200 (discussing contextual factors such as the opportunity available to a perpetrator and emphasising that qualitative factors, while noting that the qualitative approach cannot stand alone); 296 (again referring to “emblematic or qualitative factors”); Croatia v. Serbia, ICJ, Judgement, 3 February 2015 (ICJ Reports 2015), para. 142 (recalling that “in part” within the meaning of Article II of the Convention “must be assessed by reference to a number of criteria [...]. Account must also be taken of the prominence of the allegedly targeted part within the group as a whole [...]. It follows that, in evaluating whether the allegedly targeted part of a protected group is substantial in relation to the overall group, the Court will take into account the quantitative element as well as evidence regarding the geographic location and prominence of the allegedly targeted part of the group.”).

<sup>14421</sup> UN Doc. E/CN.4/Sub.2/1985/6, Commission on Human Rights, Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities, 38th Sess. (“Revised and Updated Report on the Question of the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide Prepared by Mr. B. Whitaker”, 2 July 1985), para. 29 (emphasis added).

also the targeting of certain segments of a given group, such as the Muslim elite or Muslim women”<sup>14422</sup>.

4506. I do not think that the evaluation of qualitative factors stretches the meaning of “in part” in an objectionable way. Quantitative factors remain important, as do the other elements of genocidal intent. Indeed, whether a substantial part of a national group has been targeted for destruction will depend upon a full assessment of that national group, or what some of the dissenting judges in Vasiliauskas v. Lithuania described as the fabric of the nation. I see no reason why the law should fail to give such realities their proper meaning. Moreover, the phrase “in part” was included in drafts at a time when the drafters were also discussing including “political groups” and even cultural genocide.<sup>14423</sup> I therefore find it inconceivable to suggest, as the Vasiliauskas majority seems to have done, that the purpose of the reference to “in part” was to imply a numerical requirement alone.

23.7. The Meaning of “As Such”

4507. The phrase “as such” is significant because it requires an intention to destroy a group, in whole or in part, because of their particular group identity.<sup>14424</sup> It is in my view important, however, that this does not necessarily mean that persons were targeted solely because of such membership. In both the Jelisić and Kayishema and Ruzindana cases, the Appeals Chamber held that the existence of particular personal motives does not preclude the conclusion that the perpetrator also had the specific intent to destroy the targeted group.<sup>14425</sup> This received even more detailed scrutiny by the ICTR Appeals Chamber in Niyitegeka, which unanimously held that:

The term “as such” clarifies the specific intent requirement. It does not prohibit a conviction for genocide in a case in which the perpetrator was also driven by other motivations that are legally irrelevant in this

<sup>14422</sup> M. Cherif Bassiouni, “The Commission of Experts Established Pursuant to Security Council Resolution 780: Investigating Violations of International Humanitarian Law in the Former Yugoslavia”, Criminal Law Forum, Vol. 5 (1994), pp. 323-324, discussed in William A. Schabas, Genocide in International Law: The Crimes of Crimes (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2000), pp. 236-237.

<sup>14423</sup> For example, the phrase “in part” was included within the Secretariat’s draft of 26 June 1947, which included linguistic and political groups as protected groups, and separately would have prohibited “cultural genocide”. This followed UNGA Res. 96(I), 11 December 1946, which had affirmed that “[m]any instances of genocide have occurred when racial, religious, political and other groups have been destroyed, entirely or in part.”

<sup>14424</sup> Karadžić Trial Judgement, para. 551; Stakić Appeal Judgement, para. 20; Niyitegeka Appeal Judgement, para. 53.

<sup>14425</sup> Jelisić Appeal Judgement, para. 49; Kayishema and Ruzindana Appeal Judgement, para. 161.

context. Thus the Trial Chamber was correct in interpreting “as such” to mean that the proscribed acts were committed against the victims because of their membership in the protected group, but not solely because of such membership.<sup>14426</sup> 4508. In other words, “as such” has been interpreted to require that victims were targeted because of their membership in the protected group, but not solely because of that membership. In addition, “as such” has been interpreted as requiring more than the targeting on the basis of membership of a protected group – although such discriminatory targeting may well amount to another crime, such as persecution on specified grounds. In further understanding the import of this phrase, I have reviewed the relevant travaux préparatoires.

4509. The phrase “as such” was inserted into draft Article 2 during the discussions in the Sixth Committee, following a proposal from Venezuela which entailed deleting the following language: “on grounds of the national or racial origin, religious belief, or political opinion of [the group’s] members”.<sup>14427</sup> A review of the discussions in the Sixth Committee suggests that there was confusion as to the import of the phrase “as such”. The discussion centred on whether motives should be deleted entirely from Article 2 (the United Kingdom’s proposal); specifically enumerated in relation to each distinct group (the Soviet Union’s preference); or whether a compromise could be reached. This discussion took place at a time when political groups were included as a protected group, “ethnic” groups had just been added, and the phrase “in whole or in part” had also been included.

4510. At one stage, the Venezuelan representative justified his country’s amendment by arguing that “motives were implicitly included in the words ‘as such’”.<sup>14428</sup> Shortly before this amendment was put to a vote, he explained that a group must be destroyed “qua group” and reasoned that his country’s amendment re-introduced motives but

---

<sup>14426</sup> Niyitegeka Appeal Judgement, para. 53.

<sup>14427</sup> UN Doc. A/C.6/231, UNGA Sixth Committee, GAOR 3rd Sess. (“Genocide: Draft Convention and Report of the Economic and Social Council, Venezuela: Amendment to Article II of the draft Convention (E.794) 13 October 1948.

<sup>14428</sup> UN Doc. A/C.6/SR.76, UNGA Sixth Committee, GAOR 3rd Sess. (“Minutes of the Seventy-Sixth Meeting”, 10 October 1948), pp. 124-125 (per Mr. Pérez Perozo).

without “doing so in a limitative form which admitted of no motives other than those which were listed”.<sup>14429</sup> He continued:

The aim of the amendment was to give wider powers of discretion to the judges who would be called upon to deal with cases of genocide [...]. The adoption of the Venezuelan amendment would enable the judges to take into account other motives than those listed in the Ad Hoc Committee’s draft.<sup>14430</sup>

4511. The Venezuelan amendment was adopted by 27 votes to 22, with 2 abstentions.<sup>14431</sup> The Rapporteur noted during the discussion, however, that the interpretation of “as such” must be left to those who would apply the Convention.<sup>14432</sup> Similarly, the Assistant Secretary General observed that it was the text of an amendment, regardless of any advance interpretation, which was put to the vote.<sup>14433</sup> In his report to the General Assembly forwarding the final draft, the Rapporteur noted that:

The question arose whether, as motives of acts of genocide, the Committee should retain the words ‘on grounds of the national or racial origin, religious belief, or political opinion of its members’, proposed by the ad hoc Committee. This was settled when the Committee, at its 77th meeting, by 27 votes to 22, with 2 abstentions, adopted an amendment submitted by the representative of Venezuela (A/C.6/231) whereby the phrase in question was deleted and the words ‘as such’ added after the word ‘group’.<sup>14434</sup>

4512. I therefore conclude that the drafters did not adopt a position one way or the other as to the meaning of “as such”. In light of the foregoing discussion, I agree with the Chamber’s finding that this phrase emphasises that the victim of the crime of genocide is not merely the individual, but the group itself.<sup>14435</sup> Although a part of the group is to be destroyed “as such”, and various other motives might exist alongside

<sup>14429</sup> UN Doc. A/C.6/SR.77, UNGA Sixth Committee, GAOR 3rd Sess. (“Minutes of the Seventy-Seventh Meeting”, 18 October 1948), p. 131 (per Mr. Pérez Perozo).

<sup>14430</sup> UN Doc. A/C.6/SR.77, UNGA Sixth Committee, GAOR 3rd Sess. (“Minutes of the Seventy-Seventh Meeting”, 18 October 1948), p. 131 (per Mr. Pérez Perozo).

<sup>14431</sup> UN Doc. A/C.6/SR.77, UNGA Sixth Committee, GAOR 3rd Sess. (“Minutes of the Seventy-Seventh Meeting”, 18 October 1948), p. 133.

<sup>14432</sup> UN Doc. A/C.6/SR.77, UNGA Sixth Committee, GAOR 3rd Sess. (“Minutes of the Seventy-Seventh Meeting”, 18 October 1948), p. 132 (per Mr. Spiropoulos, Greece).

<sup>14433</sup> UN Doc. A/C.6/SR.77, UNGA Sixth Committee, GAOR 3rd Sess. (“Minutes of the Seventy-Seventh Meeting”, 18 October 1948), p. 134.

<sup>14434</sup> UN Doc. E/760, UNGA Sixth Committee, GAOR 3rd Sess. (“Genocide: Draft Convention and Report of the Economic and Social Council. Rapporteur: Mr. J. Spiropoulos (Greece)”, 3 December 1948), p. 3.

<sup>14435</sup> Section 9.3: Applicable Law: Genocide, para. 798.

such genocidal intent, it remains the case that it is the group which is thereby victimised. In the present context, the victimised group would remain (a substantial part of) the Cambodian national group, targeted for myriad reasons in order to purify what remained of that group. In my view, neither the plain language of “as such”, the overall object and purpose of the Convention, nor the travaux préparatoires, exclude such an interpretation.

23.8. Groups Defined by Negative Characteristics

4513. The Chamber’s description of the applicable law recites that a protected group cannot be defined by negative criteria.<sup>14436</sup> This statement emerges from a line of cases at the ad hoc tribunals which holds that the Genocide Convention protects groups on the basis of their positive identity, rather than their absence of a particular characteristic or identity. The most detailed analysis of this point is found in the ICTY Appeals Chamber’s judgement in the Stakić case. It held that the Convention protects “unique, positively defined groups with particular identities”,<sup>14437</sup> and observed that the drafting history of the Genocide Convention is “incompatible with the negative definition of target groups”.<sup>14438</sup> The ICTY Appeals Chamber therefore rejected a prosecution submission that genocide had been committed against a targeted group defined as the “non-Serbs” in a particular location.<sup>14439</sup> The ICTY Appeals Chamber considered that genocide required proof of distinct intent towards different specific groups, namely Bosnian Croats and Bosnian Muslims.

4514. Judge Shahabuddeen dissented from this conclusion.<sup>14440</sup> Although he accepted, as do I, that the drafting history of the Convention reflects a focus on genocide against specific groups in Europe during the Second World War, he considered that this “need not prevent a more general approach being taken to the matter.”<sup>14441</sup> I find Judge Shahabuddeen’s reasoning to be compelling. He explained in particular: “I cannot think of anything which necessarily prevents several different victim groups from being

<sup>14436</sup> Section 9.3: Applicable Law: Genocide, para. 793.

<sup>14437</sup> Stakić Appeal Judgement, para. 24 (affirming the Trial Chamber’s rejection of the Trial Chamber in the Jelisić case, see Stakić Trial Judgement, para. 71).

<sup>14438</sup> Stakić Appeal Judgement, para. 22. Judge Shahabuddeen dissented on this point, see Stakić Appeal Judgement, Partly Dissenting Opinion of Judge Shahabuddeen, paras 8-18.

<sup>14439</sup> Stakić Appeal Judgement, paras 21-24.

<sup>14440</sup> Stakić Appeal Judgement, Partly Dissenting Opinion of Judge Shahabuddeen, paras 8-18.

<sup>14441</sup> Stakić Appeal Judgement, Partly Dissenting Opinion of Judge Shahabuddeen, para. 12.

defined as collectively belonging to a “group” other than that of the perpetrator”.<sup>14442</sup> He noted that victims may belong to different component groups and it would be “natural and unobjectionable” to take a broader view.<sup>14443</sup> In my view this would be consistent with the language and purpose of the Convention, and also its drafting history. It is far from clear that the drafters of the Genocide Convention intended to draw a rigid distinction between negative and positive characteristics of groups. To exclude entirely negative definitions of groups would seem to me to be an overly narrow interpretation of the Convention and its drafting history. Provided it was proved that a perpetrator thereby intended to destroy the component(s) of the negatively defined group as such, for my part I see no reason to read into Article 2 an absolute rule that groups (including multiple groups at the same time) can never be targeted on the basis of their characteristics negatively defined.

4515. That being said, the ICJ has considered this point and clearly preferred the approach of the majority in Stakić so as to require the positive identification of people who have a particular group identity. In the Bosnia v. Serbia case, the ICJ held that “[i]t is a matter of who those people are, not who they are not”.<sup>14444</sup> It further held that “the targeted group must in law be defined positively”.<sup>14445</sup> Recent cases at the ICTY have further confirmed that the elements of genocide must be considered separately in relation to the targeting of each group.<sup>14446</sup> In light of this, although I think that Judge Shahabuddeen’s approach is more coherent and realistic, I accept the opinions of high authority that the targeted group must be defined on some positive basis. Therefore I do not dissent from the Chamber’s recitation of the law on this point.

23.9. Conclusion

4516. To summarise, I would interpret Article 2 of the Genocide Convention in the following way:

---

<sup>14442</sup> Stakić Appeal Judgement, Partly Dissenting Opinion of Judge Shahabuddeen, para. 12 (emphasis in original).

<sup>14443</sup> Stakić Appeal Judgement, Partly Dissenting Opinion of Judge Shahabuddeen, para. 17.

<sup>14444</sup> Bosnia and Herzegovina v. Serbia and Montenegro, ICJ, Judgement, 26 February 2007 (ICJ Reports 2007), para. 193.

<sup>14445</sup> Bosnia and Herzegovina v. Serbia and Montenegro, ICJ, Judgement, 26 February 2007 (ICJ Reports 2007), para. 196.

<sup>14446</sup> See e.g., Mladić Trial Judgement, para. 3436; Karadžić Trial Judgement, para. 541.

- (1) there is no requirement that perpetrators and victims of genocide must be from entirely distinct groups – to hold otherwise is to read into Article 2 a restriction that is not there;
- (2) there are only four protected groups, but their identification depends on various (objective and subjective) factors, and consideration should be given to the political, social and cultural context;
- (3) acts which, on their own, would not be prohibited by the Genocide Convention may nevertheless be relevant to the assessment of the intention to destroy a protected group, in whole or in part;
- (4) it is unnecessary to prove an intention to destroy the entire protected group;
- (5) the intention can be directed towards a part of a group, provided that part is substantial, and the assessment of this involves both quantitative and qualitative factors; and
- (6) the overall target must be shown to be the group, in whole or in part, as opposed to individual persons.

4517. On the basis of this understanding of Article 2 as a matter of law, in my view there would have been a clear basis to examine the broader context of events in Cambodia between 17 April 1975 and 6 January 1979, in particular whether there existed an intention to destroy a substantial part of the very fabric of the Cambodian national group as it then existed. This has little to do with any discussion of “political groups” and/or cultural genocide. If it had been proved that the Khmer Rouge intended to purify Cambodia by intentionally destroying a substantial part of the Cambodian national group, both in terms of numbers and the qualitative features of the society – its religion, leaders and the political, social and cultural features which (and this is the crucial point) defined the national group between 17 April 1975 and 6 January 1979 – the ECCC might have been able to give to such deaths and destruction their proper meaning.

Done in Khmer, English and French.
Dated this 16th day of November 2018
At Phnom Penh
Cambodia

A handwritten signature in blue ink, consisting of a series of loops and a long horizontal stroke extending to the right.

Judge YOU Ottara