[1] Case 1765. June 27, 1973, denouncing violation of trade union rights and arbitrary treatment of the workers of the State television enterprise (INRAVISION).

[2] In accordance with the decision adopted at the thirty-first session (October 1973), the Commission requested the Government of Colombia, in a note dated December 19, 1973, to provide the pertinent information, in accordance with Articles 42 and 44 of the Rules of Procedure.

[3] In a note dated February 1, 1974, the Government of Colombia replied and made comments, according to which the State television enterprise (INRAVISION) "is a public establishment and its personnel are public employees who are strictly forbidden to strike or to participate in or promote work stoppages as stipulated by Decree-Law No. 2400 of 1968. Although they are considered to be government workers, because they are attached to a public service, the work stoppage by them would be illegal".

[4] The Commission began its examination of the case at the thirty-second session (April 1974), together with the comments made by the Government of Colombia and decided to inform the complainants of the pertinent facts of those comments.

[5] This decision was implemented on April 26, 1974.

[6] At the thirty-fourth session (October 1974), the Commission, taking into account the fact that the complainant had not made comments on the information provided by the Government of Colombia, decided to file case 1765, to take no further action, and to inform the parties of this decision. To that end, a communication was sent to the complainants on November 14, 1974, and to the Government of Colombia on December 18, 1974.
