42. On March 10, 2000, the Commission requested that the Peruvian State take precautionary measures on behalf of Genaro Delgado Parker, who, according to the information received, was stripped of control of the “Red Global” TV station and the radiobroadcasting equipment at the “Radio 1160” station he owns. The initial term of the precautionary measures expired without their implementation by the State, therefore the Commission extended the measures for six months until November 2, 2000. On December 18, 2000, the Peruvian State reported that it had complied with the Commission’s request.
