1. I append this partly dissenting opinion to the Appeals Chamber's "Decision on the Participation of Victims in the Appeal against the 'Decision on Applications for Provisional Release' of Trial Chamber III", which was issued on 14 July 2011.¹

2. As expressed in my Separate Opinion to the "Order on applications for victim participation" of 5 July 2011,² I disagree with the approach taken by the majority regarding victim participation in appeals brought under article 82 (1) (b) of the Statute. In my view, victims who have been permitted to participate in proceedings giving rise to an appeal under that provision are participants within the meaning of regulations 64 (4) and 65 (5) of the Regulations of the Court.³ As participants, they therefore have the right to file a response to the document in support of appeal. There is need neither for them to apply for participation nor for the Appeals Chamber to rule on such applications. Accordingly, the majority erred in denying participation to the victims covered by the application of Ms Marie-Edith Douzima-Lawson.⁴ Previously recognized participants are entitled to continue their involvement in the proceedings; the adequacy of the application is irrelevant and has no impact upon the victims' right to participate. For these same reasons I agree that the victims covered by the application of Mr Zarambaud Assingambi⁵ are entitled to participate before the Appeals Chamber.

Done in both English and French, the English version being authoritative.
