Pre-Trial Chamber I (“Chamber”) of the International Criminal Court issues the following decision on the “Urgent Request for Extension of Time” (“Request”),¹ submitted by the Office of Public Counsel for defence (“OPCD”).

1. On 27 April 2012, the Chamber issued the “Decision on OPCD Requests”, wherein it, inter alia, ordered the Registrar to make the necessary arrangements for a visit to Saif Al-Islam Gaddafi (“Mr Gaddafi”) by representatives of the Registry and by the appointed counsel from the OPCD.²

2. On 1 May 2012, the Chamber received the “Application on behalf of the Government of Libya pursuant to Article 19 of the ICC Statute”, challenging the admissibility of the case against Mr Gaddafi (“Admissibility Challenge”).³

3. On 4 May 2012, the Chamber issued the “Decision on the Conduct of the Proceedings Following the ‘Application on behalf of the Government of Libya pursuant to Article 19 of the Statute’”,⁴ wherein it, inter alia, invited the Prosecutor, the OPCD, the Security Council and the Office of Public Counsel for victims to submit their observations on the Admissibility Challenge, no later than 4 June 2012.⁵

4. On 31 May 2012, the OPCD filed the Request, seeking an extension of the time limit for its observations on the Admissibility Challenge “until at least two working days after the Defence returns to The Hague upon the conclusion of a successful (privileged) visit with Mr. Gaddafi”. The OPCD states that “[a]t this point in time [...] it cannot be definitively confirmed that the visit will occur” and that “it is imperative that the delay in implementing the visit does not prejudice Mr. Gaddafi’s right to effectively participate in the admissibility proceedings". The OPCD further argues that "it is essential that the Defence can consult with Mr. Gaddafi in relation to the main arguments, which will be raised in the Defence response," and that "[t]he right of the Defence to be heard in connection with the admissibility challenge will only be effective if the Defence can submit its observations after obtaining instructions from Mr. Gaddafi". Finally, the OPCD states that it will need at least two working days after the return from the visit to prepare its observations on the Admissibility Challenge.⁶

5. The Chamber notes regulation 35(2) of the Regulations of the Court ("Regulations"), which provides that the Chamber may extend a time limit if good cause is shown.

6. The Chamber considers that the circumstances referred to by the OPCD, in particular that the visit to Mr Gaddafi following the "Decision on OPCD Requests" has not yet taken place and that it would be beneficial for the OPCD to obtain direct instructions from Mr Gaddafi prior to filing its observations on the Admissibility Challenge, constitute "good cause" within the meaning of Regulation 35(2) of the Regulations.

7. The Chamber further notes that, on 30 May 2012, Libya stated that it was its expectation that a visit for the OPCD and the Registrar to Mr Gaddafi would be arranged "in the coming days", and anticipates that "if [...] there were to be further unforeseen delays in facilitating these imminent visit, the Libyan Government would have no objection to the deadline to the OPCD's response to the admissibility challenge being extended by the Pre-Trial Chamber".⁷ Moreover, the Chamber is satisfied that the requested extension would not prejudice the other participants in the proceedings following the Admissibility Challenge.

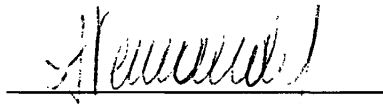

⁶ Request, paras. 7, 9-10, 12-13, 17.

FOR THESE REASONS, THE CHAMBER

GRANTS the OPCD until two working days after its return from the privileged visit to Mr Gaddafi to file its observations on the Admissibility Challenge.
