1. The Appeals Chamber of the International Tribunal for the Prosecution of Persons Responsible for Serious Violations of International Humanitarian Law Committed in the Territory of the former Yugoslavia since 1991 (“Appeals Chamber” and “Tribunal”, respectively) is seized of the “Renewed Defence Request Seeking Provisional Release on the Grounds of Compassion with Confidential Annexes” (“Renewed Request”), filed confidentially by Pavle Strugar (“Strugar”) on 9 April 2008. The Office of the Prosecutor (“Prosecution”) responded on 11 April 2008.<sup>1</sup> Strugar has not yet filed a reply, but in light of the urgent nature of this decision, as well as the fact that, considering the outcome thereof, Strugar will not suffer any prejudice by being deprived of the opportunity to reply to the Response, the Appeals Chamber will decide on the matter immediately.

I. BACKGROUND

2. On 31 January 2005, Trial Chamber II convicted Strugar pursuant to Article 7(3) of the Tribunal’s Statute (“Statute”) for the crimes of attacks on civilians and of destruction or wilful damage done to institutions dedicated to religion, charity and education, the arts and sciences, historic monuments and works of art and science under Article 3 of the Statute.<sup>2</sup> It sentenced Strugar to eight years’ imprisonment.<sup>3</sup> Strugar has now served more than half of the sentence imposed by the Trial Chamber.

3. The Appeals Chamber is currently seized of the appeals against the Trial Judgement filed by both parties.<sup>4</sup> The Appeals are scheduled to be heard on 23 April 2008 (“Appeals Hearing”).<sup>5</sup>

4. On 2 April 2008, the Appeals Chamber denied a prior request from Strugar for provisional release on compassionate grounds related to the state of health of his siblings.<sup>6</sup> The Appeals Chamber found that he had not shown the existence of special circumstances within the meaning of Rule 65(I)(iii) of the Rules of Procedure and Evidence of the Tribunal (“Rules”), namely because the medical evidence submitted by Strugar “neither demonstrate[d] how the illness and age qualify

II. APPLICABLE LAW

5. Pursuant to Rule 65(I) of the Rules, a convicted person may bring an application seeking provisional release for a fixed period. By virtue of Rule 107 of the Rules, the whole of Rule 65 of the Rules applies mutatis mutandis to applications brought before the Appeals Chamber under this provision.<sup>8</sup> Rule 65(I) of the Rules thus provides that the Appeals Chamber may grant provisional release if it is satisfied that (i) the convicted person, if released, will either appear at the hearing of the appeal or will surrender into detention at the conclusion of the fixed period, as the case may be; (ii) the convicted person, if released, will not pose a danger to any victim, witness or other person, and; (iii) special circumstances exist warranting such release. These requirements must be considered cumulatively.<sup>9</sup> The Appeals Chamber recalls that "whether an applicant satisfies these requirements is to be determined on a balance of probabilities, and the fact that an individual has already been sentenced is a matter to be taken into account by the Appeals Chamber when balancing the probabilities."<sup>10</sup>

III. DISCUSSION

A. Arguments of the Parties

6. In his Renewed Request, Strugar submits that since the Decision of 2 April 2008, the state of health of his sister "has worsened".<sup>11</sup> [REDACTED] Strugar further submits that the statement in the Medical Report of 8 April 2008 concerning the unpredictability of his sister's life expectancy can only be interpreted to mean that she is dying.<sup>12</sup> Therefore, he argues that the circumstances at hand fully qualify as “an acute crisis”, thus fulfilling the “special circumstances” requirements under Rule 65(I)(iii) of the Rules.<sup>13</sup>

<sup>11</sup> Renewed Request, para. 5. In paragraph 6 of the Renewed Request, Strugar submits that he has acquired knowledge of the fact that his sister's health "has seriously deteriorated since the filing of the First Request".

7. With respect to the requirements under Rules 65(I)(i) and 65(I)(ii) of the Rules, Strugar reiterates that, during his previous provisional releases, he fully complied with all the conditions imposed by the Tribunal.<sup>14</sup> As Annex 2 to his Renewed Request, he attaches the guarantees from the Republic of Serbia (“State Guarantees”),<sup>15</sup> and specifies the address where he intends to stay during his provisional release, if granted.<sup>16</sup> He further argues that his own age and state of health “render any prospect of his flight highly unlikely” and provide “little reason to fear that he can possibly pose [...] a danger to any victim, witness or other person if released”.<sup>17</sup>

8. In light of the foregoing, Strugar requests to be provisionally released for “a period not exceeding ten (10) days starting from the day after a decision hereupon is rendered by the Appeals Chamber, on the same terms and conditions under which he has previously been granted provisional release, and/or under such conditions as the Appeals Chamber deems fit and proper to impose”.<sup>18</sup>

9. The Prosecution does not oppose the Renewed Request, but submits that “a period of not more than three days in Serbia, and two days’ travel time (one day for each way), would be appropriate”.<sup>19</sup> The Prosecution further suggests a list of conditions under which the provisional release could be granted.<sup>20</sup>

B. Analysis

10. As recalled above and in the Decision of 2 April 2008, “[t]he specificity of the appeal stage is reflected by Rule 65(I)(iii) of the Rules, which provides for an additional criterion, i.e. that ‘special circumstances exist warranting such release’”.<sup>21</sup> In situations where an application for provisional release is made pending the appellate proceedings, the Appeals Chamber has concluded that special circumstances related to humane and compassionate considerations exist where there is an acute justification, such as the applicant’s medical need or a memorial service for a close family member.<sup>22</sup> The Appeals Chamber has also granted provisional release for a visit to a close family member in “extremely poor health and whose death is believed to be imminent”.<sup>23</sup>

<sup>13</sup> Ibid., para. 9 referring to Prosecutor v. Milorad Krnojelac, Case No. IT-97-25-A, Decision on Application for Provisional Release, 12 December 2002 (“Krnojelac Decision”).

11. While there is no need to speculate as to whether the condition of Strugar's sister is fatal, the Medical Report of 8 April 2008 clearly shows that her health is drastically deteriorating. Therefore, the Appeals Chamber accepts that the specific diagnoses and symptoms described in the Medical Report of 8 April 2008, combined with the advanced age of Strugar's sister, qualify as acute justification for the purposes of determining whether the special circumstances envisaged by Rule 65(I)(iii) of the Rules exist. Accordingly, the Appeals Chamber is satisfied that this particular requirement of Rule 65(I) is met.

12. The Appeals Chamber is further convinced that, if released, Strugar will surrender into detention at the conclusion of the fixed period for which he is provisionally released and appear at the Appeals Hearing scheduled for 23 April 2008. In this regard, the Appeals Chamber notes that Strugar has indeed complied with the conditions imposed on him by previous decisions of the Tribunal, including during the appellate stage of the proceedings.<sup>24</sup> Likewise, the Appeals Chamber is satisfied that Strugar will not pose a danger to any victim, witness, or other person. Finally, the Appeals Chamber has received satisfactory State Guarantees and the communication from the host country not opposing the provisional release.<sup>25</sup>

13. With respect to the duration of the provisional release, the Appeals Chamber finds that the requested period of ten days is unjustified and incompatible with the scheduling of the present appeal proceedings, notably the date of the Appeals Hearing. The Appeals Chamber determines that Strugar should be released for a period of up to six days, including two days of travel time, starting on the day after this decision or as soon thereafter as is practicable, but in any event, no later than 17 April 2008.

5. Detaining Strugar immediately should he attempt to escape from the territory of the Republic of Serbia, or should he in any other way breach the terms and conditions of his provisional release as set out in the present decision and reporting immediately any such breach to the Registry of the Tribunal and the Appeals Chamber; and
6. Respecting the primacy of the Tribunal in relation to any existing or future proceedings in the Republic of Serbia concerning Strugar.

16. Finally, the Appeals Chamber INSTRUCTS the Registrar of the Tribunal to:

1. Consult with the Dutch authorities and the authorities of the Republic of Serbia, as to the practical arrangements for Strugar's provisional release;
2. Request the authorities of the State(s) through whose territory Strugar may travel to:
  - a. Hold him in custody for any time he will spend in transit at the airport of the State(s) in question; and
  - b. Arrest and detain Strugar pending his return to the UNDU should he attempt to escape during travel.
