

United Nations
Working Group on Arbitrary Detention

Decision No. 7/1993

John Fru Ndi

v.

Cameroon

This decision pertains to the case of persons who are reportedly no longer in detention and regarding whom the Working Group, after having examined the available information, is of the opinion that no special circumstances warrant the Group to consider the nature of their detention. The Working Group, without prejudging the nature of the detention, therefore decides to file their cases, in the terms of paragraph 14 (a) of its methods of work.

Adopted during session number 6